un·gal′lant (ŭn·găl′ănt; see GALLANT, adj.), adj. Not gallant. — un·gal′lant·ly, adv. — un·gal′lant·ness, n.

un′ga·ro (ōōng′gä·rō), n. [It ungaro, lit., Hungarian.] Also on′ga·ro (ŏng′-). A gold coin of ducat size issued (15th century) by Matthias Corvinus of Hungary, having the Madonna for type; — popularly so called in Italy, where it was imitated widely.

un·gear′ (ŭn·gēr′), v. t. [1st un- + gear.] 1. To unharness. 2. To strip of gear; to throw out of gear. 3. To disconnect the gears or gearing of.

un·gen′dered (ŭn·jĕn′dĕrd), adj. Not engendered. Obs.

un·gen′er·ous (ŭn·jĕn′ĕr·ŭs), adj. Not generous; illiberal; exacting, harsh, mean, or the like. — un·gen′er·ous·ly, adv. — un·gen′er·ous·ness, n.

un·gen′ial (ŭn·jēn′yăl; -jē′nĭ·ăl), adj. Not genial (esp. in sense 2); disagreeable; uncongenial. — un′ge·ni·al′i·ty (ŭn′jē·nĭ·ăl′ĭ·tĭ; ŭn′jēn·yăl′-), n. — un·gen′ial·ly, adv. — un·gen′ial·ness, n.

un·gen′i·tured (ŭn·jĕn′ĭ·tûrd), adj. [un- not + geniture.] Without genitals; impotent. Rare. Shak.

un′gen·teel′ (ŭn′jĕn·tēl′), adj. Not genteel; inelegant. — un′gen·teel′ly (-lĭ), adv. — un′gen·teel′ness, n.

un·gen′tle (ŭn·jĕn′t'l), adj. 1. Archaic. a Not of or befitting one of gentle birth. b Unmannerly; discourteous. 2. Not gentle; rude; rough; harsh.
— un·gen′tle·ness, n. — un·gen′tly (-tlĭ), adv.

un·gen′tle·man (-măn), n. One not a gentleman. Obs.
— v. t. To disqualify as a gentleman.

un·gen′tle·man·ize (-īz), v. t. To render not a gentleman. Rare.

un·gen′tle·man·ly (-lĭ), adj. Not gentlemanly; unbecoming in a gentleman; ill-bred. — un·gen′tle·man·li·ness, n.

un·get′ (ŭn·gĕt′), v. t. [1st un- + get.] To undo the getting or begetting of.

un·gift′ed (ŭn·gĭf′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Being without gifts, esp. native gifts or endowments. — un·gift′ed·ness, n.

un·gild′ (ŭn·gĭld′), v. t. To remove gilding from.

un·gill′ (ŭn·gĭl′), v. t. To remove from a gill net, as fish.

un·gird′ (ŭn·gûrd′), v. t. [AS. ungyrdan. See 1st UN-; GIRD.] To loose the girdle or band of; to unbind.

un·girt′ (ŭn·gûrt′; 66), adj. Having the girdle off or loose; hence, slack, loose; not braced.

un·girt′ (ŭn·gûrt′), v. t. = UNGIRD. Obs.

un·girth′ (-gûrth′), v. t. To release by or as by undoing a girth.

un·give′ (ŭn·gĭv′), v. t. & i. [1st un- (intensive) + give.] To yield; relax. Obs. exc. Dial.

ung′ka, ung′ka pu′ti (ŏŏng′kä pōō′tĭ), n. [Malay uṅka gibbon + puteh white.] A gibbon; esp., the siamang.

un·glaze′ (ŭn·glāz′), v. t. [1st un- + glaze.] To remove the glass from, as a window.

un·glazed′ (ŭn·glāzd′; 66), adj. Not glazed; also, not furnished with glass, esp. glass windows.

un′gle (ŭng′g'l), n. [F. or L.; F. ongle, fr. L. ungula.] Claw; nail; also, an ungula. Obs.

un·glee′ (ŏŏng·glē′), n. sing. & pl. [Hind. uṅglī, fr. Skr. aṅguli finger.] See MEASURE, Table.

un·glo′ri·ous (ŭn·glō′rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. Inglorious. — un·glo′ri·ous·ly, adv. — un·glo′ri·ous·ness, n.

un·glo′ry (-rĭ), v. t. To strip of glory.

un·glove′ (ŭn·glŭv′), v. t. [1st un- + glove.] To take off the glove or gloves of, as the hand.

un·glue′ (ŭn·glōō′; 242), v. t. & i. [1st un- + glue.] To part or open (anything fastened with or as with glue); hence, to open; detach; dissolve.
She stretches, gapes, unglues her eyes. Swift.

un·gnaw′ (ŭn·nô′), v. t. To free by gnawing.

un·god′ (ŭn·gŏd′), v. t. [1st un- + god.] 1. To undeify. 2. To make godless or atheistic. Obs.

un·god′ly (-lĭ), adj. 1. Not godly; not having regard for God; disobedient to God; wicked; impious; sinful. 2. Marked by wickedness. "This ungodly day." Shak. 3. Atrocious; outrageous; unearthly. Colloq.
— un·god′li·ly, adv. — un·god′li·ness, n.

un·gone′ (ŭn·gŏn′; 185), adj. Not yet gone.

un·good′ (ŭn·gŏŏd′), adj. [AS. uṅgōd.] Not good; bad.

un′good′ (ŭn′gŏŏd′), n. Evil; wickedness.

un·got′ten (ŭn·gŏt′n), adj. Also un·got′ (-gŏt′). 1. Not begotten. 2. Not got or obtained.

un·gov′ern·a·ble (ŭn·gŭv′ĕr·nȧ·b'l), adj. Not governable; not capable of being governed, ruled, or restrained; licentious; wild; unbridled; as, ungovernable passions. — un·gov′ern·a·ble·ness, n. — un·gov′ern·a·bly, adv.
Syn. — Irrepressible, unruly, wild.
Ant. — Tractable, docile.

un·gown′ (ŭn·goun′), v. t. [1st un- + gown.] To strip of a gown; to unfrock, as a priest.

un·grace′ (ŭn·grās′), n. Want of grace.

un·grace′ful (ŭn·grās′fŏŏl), adj. Not graceful; inelegant; awkward; clumsy; as, ungraceful manners or speech. — un·grace′ful·ly, adv. — un·grace′ful·ness, n.

un·gra′cious (ŭn·grā′shŭs), adj. Not gracious; as: a Obs. (1) Graceless; wicked. (2) Not favorable; unfortunate. (3) Unmannerly. b Not acceptable; disliked; unpleasant; unattractive; offensive. c Not courteous; rude.
— un·gra′cious·ly, adv. — un·gra′cious·ness, n.

un·grad′ed (ŭn·grād′ĕd; -ĭd; 66; 119), adj. Not graded; as: a Not laid out with gradients. b Not classified in grades. c Not assigned to a grade.

ungraded school. A school in which pupils are not classified by grades.

un′gram·mat′i·cal (ŭn′grȧ·măt′ĭ·kăl), adj. Also un′gram·mat′ic (-ĭk). Not grammatical; not according to, or not following, the rules of grammar; incorrect. — un′gram·mat′i·cal·ly, adv. — un′gram·mat′i·cal·ness, n.

un′gram·mat′i·cism (-ĭ·sĭz′m), n. Gram. An instance of faulty grammar.

un·grate′ful (ŭn·grāt′fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. 1. Not grateful; not thankful for favors; making no returns, or making ill return, for kindness, attention, etc.; ingrateful. 2. Unpleasing; unacceptable; disagreeable; as, harsh sounds are ungrateful to the ear.
— un·grate′ful·ly, adv. — un·grate′ful·ness, n.

un·grave′ (ŭn·grāv′), v. t. [1st un- + 5th grave, 4.] To disinter.

un·grave′, adj. [un- not + grave, adj.] Not serious; light. Obs.

un·grave′ly, adv. Not gravely; indecently.

un·gree′a·ble (ŭn·grē′ȧ·b'l), adj. Disagreeable. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·green′ (ŭn·grēn′; 66), adj. [Cf. AS. unǣrēne not green.] Sere; withered.

un·green′ (ŭn·grēn′), v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gripe′ (ŭn·grīp′), v. t. To loosen.

un·ground′ed (ŭn·groun′dĕd; -dĭd; 66; 119), adj. Not grounded; as: a Baseless; unfounded. b Uninformed; uninstructed. c Elec. Not connected with the ground.
— un·ground′ed·ly, adv. — un·ground′ed·ness, n.

un′gual (ŭng′gwăl), adj. [L. unguis a nail, claw, hoof. See NAIL.] Pertaining to, resembling, or bearing, a nail, claw, or hoof.

un′gual, n. A nail, hoof, or claw.

un·guard′ (ŭn·gärd′), v. t. [1st un- + guard.] To remove the guard from.

un·guard′ed (ŭn·gär′dĕd; -dĭd; 66; 119), adj. Not guarded; as: a Unprotected. b Incautious; careless. c Not screened off. — un·guard′ed·ly, adv. — un·guard′ed·ness, n.

un′gue·al (ŭng′gwē·ăl), adj. [Cf. F. onguéal. See UNGUAL.] Ungual. Rare.

un′guent (ŭng′gwĕnt), n. [L. unguentum. See OINTMENT; cf. UNCTION, UNCTUOUS.] A lubricant or salve for sores, burns, or the like; an ointment or cerate. — un′guent, adj.

un′guent, v. t. To anoint with or as with an unguent.

un′guen·tar′i·um (ŭng′gwĕn·tär′ĭ·ŭm; 79), n.; pl. -IA (-ȧ). [L. unguentarius pertaining to ointment. See UNGUENT.] Class. Antiq. A vessel used to hold unguents. Cf. ALABASTRUM a; AMPULLA, 1; ARYBALLUS; LECYTHUS.

un′guen·tar′y (ŭng′gwĕn·tĕr′ĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), n. Also un′guen·tar′i·an (-tär′ĭ·ăn). [L. unguentarius.] A maker of or dealer in unguents. Obs.

un′guen·tar′y, adj. [L. unguentarius.] Like an unguent; for or connected with unguents.

unguenti-. A combining form for unguent, as in un′guen·tif′er·ous. See -FEROUS.

un·guen′to (ŭng·gwĕn′tō), n. [It.] An unguent. Obs.

un·guen′tous (ŭng·gwĕn′tŭs), adj. Unguentary.

un·guen′tum (ŭng·gwĕn′tŭm), n. [L.] Pharm. An ointment, esp. simple ointment. See OINTMENT, 1.

ungui-. A combining form from Latin unguis, a nail or claw, as in un·guif′er·ous, un′gui·form.

un′gui·corn (ŭng′gwĭ·kôrn), n. [ungui- + -corn.] Zool. The dertrotheca.

Un·guic′u·la′ta (ŭng·gwĭk′ū·lā′tȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. unguiculus finger nail.] Zool. The Mammalia having claws or nails, as disting. from hoofed animals (Ungulata) and cetaceans. It is no longer considered a natural group, though in use as a convenient collective designation.

un·guic′u·late (ŭng·gwĭk′ū·lăt), adj. 1. Furnished with nails, claws, or hooks; clawed; specif., Zool., pertaining to the Unguiculata. 2. Bot. Tapering below into a claw or a stalklike base; — said of certain petals, as those of the pink, wallflower, etc.

un·guic′u·late, n. One of the Unguiculata.

un′gui·cule (ŭng′gwĭ·kūl), n. [F. (Rabelais), fr. L. unguiculus.] Fingernail. Obs.

un·guiled′ (ŭn·gīld′), adj. Unbeguiled. Scot.

---

un·fret′, adj., un·fret′ful, adj., un·fret′ting, adj., un·fri′a·ble, adj., un·fri′ar·like′, adj., un·fric′a·tive, adj., un·fric′tioned, adj., un·fried′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·friend′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·friend′like′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·friend′ship, n. See -SHIP.

un·fright′en·a·ble, adj., un·fright′ened, adj., un·fright′ened·ness, n., un·fright′ful, adj., un·frig′id, adj. See UN-, not.

un·frill′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·frilled′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·fringe′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·fringed′, adj., un·frisk′y, adj., un·friv′o·lous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·frizz′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·friz′zled, adj., un·friz′zy, adj., un·frocked′, adj., un·frog′like′, adj., un·frol′ic·some, adj., un·front′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·frost′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·frost′ed, adj., un·frost′y, adj., un·frounced′, adj., un·fro′ward, adj., un·fro′ward·ly, adv., un·frown′ing, adj., un·froze′, adj., un·fruc′ted, adj., un·fruc′ti·fied, adj., un·fru′gal, adj., un·fru′gal·ly, adv., un·fru′gal·ness, n., un·fruit′y, adj., un·frus′tra·ble, adj., un·frus′tra·bly, adv., un·frus′trat·a·ble, adj., un·frus′trat·ed, adj., un·fud′dled, adj., un·fu′eled, un·fu′elled, adj., un·full′a·ble, adj., un′ful·filled′, adj., un′ful·fill′ing, adj., un·full′, adj., un·fulled′, adj., un·ful′ly, adv., un·ful′mi·nat′ed, adj., un·ful′some, adj., un·fum′bled, un·fum′bling, adj., un·fu′mi·gat′ed, adj., un·func′tion·al, adj., un′fun·da·men′tal, adj., un·fun′ni·ly, adv., un·fun′ni·ness, n., un·fun′ny, adj., un·fur′be·lowed, adj., un·fur′bished, adj., un·fur′cate, adj., un·fu′ri·ous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·furl′a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

un·fur′nished, adj., un·fur′nished·ness, n., un·fur′ni·tured, adj., un·furred′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·fur′row, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·fur′row·a·ble, adj., un·fur′rowed, adj., un·fused′, adj., un·fussed′, un·fuss′ing, adj., un·fuss′y, adj., un·fu′tile, adj., un′fu·tur·is′tic, adj., un·ga′bled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gag′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gaged′, adj., un·gagged′, adj., un·gain′a·ble, adj., un·gained′, un·gain′ful, adj., un·gain′ful·ly, adv., un·gain′ful·ness, n., un·gain′ing, adj., un′gain·said′ (ŭn′gān·sĕd′; ŭn·gān′sĕd′), adj., un·gain·say′a·ble, adj., un′gain·say′a·bly, adv., un′gain·say′ing, adj., un·gain′·some, adj., un·gain′some·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·gall′ing, adj., un·gal′va·nized, adj., un·gam′bol·ing, un·gam′bol·ling, adj., un·game′like′, adj., un·ganged′, adj., un·gan′grened, adj. See UN-, not.

un·garbed′, adj., un·gar′bled, adj., un·gar′dened, adj., un·gar′·gled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·garland, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gar′land·ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gar′ment, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gar′ment·ed, adj., un·gar′nered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gar′nish, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gar′nished, adj., un·gar′ri·soned, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gar′ter, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gar′tered, adj., un·gashed′, adj., un·gassed′, adj., un·gas′tric, adj., un·gath′ered, adj., un·gaud′y, adj., un·gauged′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gaunt′let, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gaunt′let·ed, adj., un·gas′ket′ed, adj., un·gas′ting, adj., un·geared′, adj., un′ge·lat′i·niz′a·ble, un′ge·lat′i·nized, adj., un·geld′ed, adj., un·gelt′, adj., un·gem′i·nat′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gen′der·ing, adj. See UN-, not. Archaic. [not.]

un·gen′er·a·ble, adj. See UN-, un·gen′er·al, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gen′er·aled, un·gen′er·alled, adj., un·gen′er·al·ized, adj., un·gen′er·ate, adj., un·gen′er·at′ed, adj., un·gen′er·a·tive, adj., un·gen′ner′ic, adj., un′ge·ner′i·cal, adj., un′gen·er·os′i·ty, n. See UN-, not.

un·gen′ial, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gen′tile, adj. See UN-, not.

ungentile. ✝ UNGENTEEL.

un′gen·til′i·ty, n. See UN-, not.

un·gen′til·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gen′tled, adj., un·gen′tle·man·like′, adj., un·gen′tle·man·like′ness, n., un·gen′tle·wom′an·like′, adj., un·gen′u·ine, adj., un·gen′u·ine·ly, adv., un·gen′u·ine·ness, n., un′ge·o·det′i·cal, adj., un′ge·o·graph′ic, adj., un′ge·o·graph′i·cal, adj., un′ge·o·graph′i·cal·ly, adv., un′ge·o·log′i·cal, adj., un′ge·o·met′ric, un′ge·o·met′ri·cal, adj., un′ge·o·met′ri·cal·ly, adv., un′ge·o·met′ri·cal·ness, n., un·Geor′gi·an, adj., un·Ger′man, adj., un′·Ger·man′ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·Ger′man·ize, v. t. See 1st un·ger′mi·nat′ed, adj., un·ger′mi·nat′ing, adj., un·germ′like′, adj., un′ge·ron′tic, adj., un·gest′ing, adj., un·ges′tur·ing, adj., un′·get·at′·a·ble, adj., un′·get·at′·a·ble·ness, n., un·get′·ta·ble, adj., un·ghost′like′, adj., un·ghost′ly, adj. See UN-, not. [See 1st UN-.]

un·gi′ant, v. t., un·gib′bet, v. t., un·gid′dy, adj., un·gild′ed, adj., un·gilt′, adj., un·gin′gled, adj., un·ginned′, adj., un·gird′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gir′dle, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gir′dled, adj., un·girl′ish, adj., un·girthed′, adj., un·give′a·ble, adj., un·giv′en, adj., un·giv′ing, adj., un·gla′ci·at′ed, adj., un·glad′, adj. [AS. unglæd.] See UN-, not.

un·glad′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·glad′den, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·glad′dened, adj., un·glad′ly, adv., un·glad′ness, n., un·glad′·some, adj., un·glam′or·ous, adj., un·glan′du·lar, adj., un·glassed′, adj., un·gleaned′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·glee′ful, adj., un·glimpsed′, adj., un·glis′ten·ing, adj., un·glit′ter·ing, adj., un·gloat′ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·globe′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·glob′u·lar, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gloom′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gloomed′, adj., un·gloom′y, adj., un·glo′ri·fied, adj. See UN-, not.

un·glo′ri·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·glo′ri·fy′ing, adj. See UN-, not. [UNGLOZED.]

un·glosed′ (-glōzd′), adj. Var. of un·gloss′a·ried, a d j ., u n·glossed′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gloss′y, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gloss′i·ly, adv. — un·gloss′i·ness, n.

un·gloved′, adj., un·glow′ing, adj., un·glozed′, adj., un·glued′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·glu′ti·nate, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·glut′ted, adj., un·glut′ton·ous, adj., un·gnarred′, adj., un·gnawn′, adj., un·gnos′tic, adj., un·goad′ed, adj., un·goat′like′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·god′dess, n. See 1st UN-.

un·god′like′, adj., un·god′·moth′ered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gold′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gold′en, adj. See UN-, not.

un·good′ly, adj. & adv. See UN-, not. — un·good′li·ness, n.

un·gored′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gorge′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gorged′, adj., un·gor′geous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·gos′pel, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gos′pel·ized, adj., un·gos′pelled, adj., un·gos′pel·like′, adj., un·gos′sip·ing, adj., un·goth′ic, adj., un·gouged′, adj., un·gout′y, adj., un·gov′erned, adj., un·gov′erned·ness, n., un·gov′ern·ing, adj., un·gowned′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grace′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·graced′, adj., un·gra′dat·ed, adj., un·grad′u·at′ed, adj., un·grad′u·at′ing, adj., un·grad′u·al, adj., un·grad′u·al·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·graft′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·graft′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grain′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·grain′a·ble, un·grain′ed, adj., un·gram′mar, n., un·gram′mared, adj., un·grand′, adj., un′·Gran·di·so′ni·an, adj., un·grant′a·ble, adj., un·grant′ed, adj., un·gran′u·lat′ed, adj., un·graph′ic, adj., un·graph′i·tized, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grap′ple, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·grap′pler, n.

un·grap′pled, adj., un·grasp′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grasp′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·grasped′, adj., un·grasp′ing, adj., un·grassed′, adj., un·grass′y, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grate′, adj. & n. = INGRATE. Obs.

un·grate′ly, adv. Obs.

un·grat′ed, adj., un·grat′i·fi′a·ble, adj., un·grat′i·fied, adj., un·grat′i·fy·ing, adj., un·grat′ing, adj. See UN-, not. [TUDE. Obs.] un·grat′i·tude, n. = INGRATIun·graved′, adj., un·grav′eled, adj., un·grav′el·ly, adj., un·grav′en, adj., un·grayed′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grazed′, adj., un·greased′, adj., un·great′, adj., un·great′·ly, adv., un·great′ness, n., un·Gre′cian, adj., un·greed′y, adj., un·Greek′, adj., un·green′a·ble, adj. [Table.] ungreenable black. See DYE, un·greened′, adj., un·greet′ed, adj., un·greg′ar·ious, adj., un′·Gre·go′ri·an, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grieve′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·grieved′, adj., un·griev′ing, adj., un·grilled′, adj., un·grimed′, adj., un·grind′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grip′, n. & t. See 1st UN-.

un·grip′zled, adj., un·groan′ing, adj., un·groined′, adj., un·groomed′, adj., un·grooved′, adj., un·grope′a·ble, adj., un·gross′, adj., un′gro·tesque′, adj., un·ground′, adj., un·ground′·a·ble, adj., un·ground′a·bly, adv., un·group′a·ble, adj., un·grouped′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·grow′, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un·grow′ing, adj., un·grown′, adj., un·grubbed′, adj., un·grudged′, adj., un·grudg′ing, adj., un·grudg′ing·ly, adv., un·grudg′ing·ness, n., un·grue′·some, adj., un·gruff′, adj., un·grum′bling, adj., un′guar·anteed′, adj., un·guard′a·ble, adj., un·guer′doned, adj. See UN-, not.

un′gues, n., pl. of UNGUIS.

un·guess′a·ble, adj., un·guess′·a·ble·ness, n., un·guessed′, adj. See UN-, not.

‖un′gui·bus et ros′tro. [L.] With claws and beak.

un′gui·cal (ŭng′gwĭ·kăl), adj. [L. unguis a nail or claw. See UNGUAL.] = UNGUAL, adj.

un·guic′u·lar (ŭng·gwĭk′ū·lẽr), adj. [L. unguiculus, dim. of unguis a nail.] = UNGUAL, adj.

un·guic′u·lat′ed, adj. = UNGUICULATE, 1.

un·guid′a·ble, adj., un·guid′a·ble·ness, n., un·guid′a·bly, adv., un·guid′ed, adj., un·guid′ed·ly, un·guile'ful (ŭn·gīl'fŏŏl), adj. Not guileful; guileless. — un·guile'ful·ly, adv. — un·guile'ful·ness, n.

---

un·guilt'less (ŭn·gĭlt'lĕs), adj. Innocent. Obs.

un·guilt'y (ŭn·gĭl'tĭ), adj. Not guilty; innocent. [AS. ungyltig.] — un·guilt'i·ly, adv. — un·guilt'i·ness, n.

un'gui·nous (ŭng'gwĭ·nŭs), adj. [L. unguinosus, fr. unguen, -inis, fat, ointment. See OINTMENT.] Consisting of, or resembling, fat or oil; oily; unctuous; oleaginous.

un'gui·ros'tral (-rŏs'trăl), adj. [L. unguis nail, claw + E. rostral.] Having a horny nail at the end of the bill, as ducks.

un'guis (ŭng'gwĭs), n.; pl. UNGUES (-gwēz). [L., nail, claw, or hoof. See NAIL.] A nail, claw, or hoof; hence: a That on a digit of a vertebrate. b One of the tarsal claws or terminal chitinous hooks on the foot of an insect. c Anat. (1) Short for os unguis (the lachrymal bone). (2) The hippocampus minor. d Bot. A clawlike base of a petal.

un'gu·la (ŭng'gū·lä), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., a claw, hoof, fr. unguis nail, claw, hoof. See UNGUIS.] 1. A hoof; also, a claw, or nail.

Ungula, 3.

2. Bot. = UNGUIS d.

3. Geom. A section or part of a cylinder, cone, or other solid of revolution, cut off by a plane oblique to the base; — so called from its resemblance to the hoof of a horse.

Un'gu·la'ta (ŭng'gū·lā'tä), n. pl. [NL. See UNGULATE.] Zool. An extensive group consisting of the hoofed mammals, formerly ranked as an order and including only the suborders Artiodactyla (ruminants, swine, etc.) and Perissodactyla (horses, tapirs, rhinoceroses). Other extinct groups, — Condylarthra, Amblypoda, Ancylopoda, Typotheria, and Toxodontia, — have been discovered, and these connect the Artiodactyla and Perissodactyla so completely with the Proboscidea (elephants) and with the Hyracoidea (conies) that all these groups, living and extinct, are now included in the order Ungulata as suborders, or are treated as orders, Ungulata being made a superorder or abandoned as a group of classification, though kept as a convenient collective name. The Ungulata are mostly large or rather large; nearly all are exclusively herbivorous, and many have horns, being the only mammals so provided.

un'gu·late (ŭng'gū·lāt), adj. [LL. ungulatus. See UNGULA.] 1. Shaped like a hoof; having hoofs.

2. Of or pertaining to the Ungulata.

un'gu·late, n. Any hoofed quadruped; one of the Ungulata.

un'guled (ŭng'gūld), adj. [L. ungula a claw.] Her. Having hoofs of a specified tincture.

un'gu·li·grade' (ŭng'gū·lĭ·grād'), adj. [L. ungula hoof + gradi to walk.] Having, or walking on, hoofs.

un'gu·lous (-lŭs), adj. [See UNGULA.] Ungulate; like, or pertaining to, a hoof. Rare.

un·gyve' (ŭn·jīv'), v. t. [1st un- + gyve.] To free from gyves or fetters; to liberate.

un·hab'it (ŭn·hăb'ĭt), v. t. To rid of a habit.

un·had' (ŭn·hăd'), part. adj. Unobtained. Rare.

un·hair' (ŭn·hâr'), v. t. & i. [1st un- + hair.] To deprive of or lose the hair; specif., to deprive (hides, etc.) of hair, as by scraping with a blunt two-handled knife, or by passing between drums rotating at different speeds, one of which is armed with spiral scrapers. — un·hair'er, n. — un·hair'ing, n. & adj.

un·hal'low (-hăl'ō), v. t. [1st un- + hallow.] To profane; desecrate. "Vanity unhallows the virtue." L'Estrange.

un·hal'lowed (-ōd), adj. [un- not + hallowed; cf. AS. unhālgod.] Not consecrated; hence, profane; unholy. — un·hal'lowed·ness, n.

un·halsed' (ŭn·hôlst'; -hôst'; -hăst'), part. adj. Not saluted. Scot.

un·hal'ter (ŭn·hôl'tĕr), v. t. To loosen the halter of.

un·hand' (ŭn·hănd'), v. t. [1st un- + hand.] To loose from the hand or grasp; to let go.

un·hand'some (ŭn·hăn'sŭm), adj. Not handsome; as: a Not beautiful; not comely; plain; homely. b Unbecoming or unseemly; discourteous. c Wanting noble or liberal qualities; mean; indecorous; as, unhandsome treatment or imputations. d Obs. (1) Unhandy; clumsy; awkward; inconvenient. (2) Inexpert. (3) Unfortunate. (4) Unpleasant. — un·hand'some·ly, adv. — un·hand'some·ness, n.

un·hand'some, adv. Unhandsomely.

un·hand'some, v. t. To make unhandsome.

un·hand'y (ŭn·hăn'dĭ), adj. Not handy; clumsy; awkward; inconvenient; as, an unhandy man or implement. — un·hand'i·ly, adv. — un·hand'i·ness, n.

un·hang' (ŭn·hăng'), v. t. [1st un- + hang.] 1. To divest or strip of hangings, as a room.

2. To remove (something hanging or swinging) from that which supports it; as, to unhang a gate, a carcass.

un·hap' (ŭn·hăp'), n. Ill luck; mishap. Archaic.

un·hap'py (ŭn·hăp'ĭ), adj.; UN·HAP'PI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); UN·HAP'PI·EST. 1. Causing misfortune.

2. Not happy or fortunate; unfortunate; unlucky; as, an unhappy event.

3. Subject to misfortunes; unsuccessful; ill-fated.

4. Not cheerful or glad; sad; sorrowful; wretched.

5. Marked by infelicity; specif.: a Inauspicious; calamitous. "This unhappy morn." Milton. b Not felicitous or apt; inappropriate.

6. Obs. a Mischievous; evil. b Unfavorable.

Syn. — Miserable, wretched, sad, dejected.

Ant. — See LUCKY, PERTINENT.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

unhappy-eyed unhappy-happy unhappy-seeming unhappy-faced unhappy-looking unhappy-witted — un·hap'pi·ly, adv. — un·hap'pi·ness, n.

un·hap'py v. t. To make unhappy. Obs.

un·har'bor, -har'bour (ŭn·här'bĕr), v. t. [1st un- + harbor.] To drive from harbor or shelter.

un·har'bored, -har'boured (-bĕrd), adj. [un- not + harbored.] 1. Having no harbor or shelter; unprotected.

2. Affording no harbor or shelter. Obs.

un·hard' (ŭn·härd'), adj. Not hard; easy.

un·har'dy (ŭn·här'dĭ), adj. Not hardy; weak; frail. — un·har'di·ly, adv. — un·har'di·ness, n.

un'har·mo'ni·ous (ŭn'här·mō'nĭ·ŭs), adj. Inharmonious. — un'har·mo'ni·ous·ly, adv. — un'har·mo'ni·ous·ness, n.

un·har'ness (ŭn·här'nĕs; -nĭs), v. t. [1st un- + harness.] 1. To strip of harness; to loose from harness or gear.

2. To disarm; to divest of armor.

un·hasp' (ŭn·hăsp'), v. t. [1st un- + hasp.] To unloose the hasp of; unfasten; unclose; disclose.

un·haste' (ŭn·hāst'), n. Want of haste.

un·hat' (-hăt'), v. t. & i. [1st un- + hat.] To take off the hat of; to remove one's hat, esp. as a mark of respect.

un·head' (ŭn·hĕd'), v. t. [1st un- + head.] 1. To take out the head of; as, to unhead a cask.

2. To deprive of a head; Obs., to decapitate.

un·head'er (-ĕr), n. One who unheads casks.

un·heal' (ŭn·hēl'), n. [AS. unhælu.] Sickness; infirmity; misfortune. Obs.

un·heal', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·heal', Var. of UNHELE, v. t.

un·health' (ŭn·hĕlth'), n. [AS. unhælth.] Ill-health; unsoundness; disease; sickness.

un·health'ful (-fŏŏl), adj. Not healthful; causing ill-health. — un·health'ful·ly, adv. — un·health'ful·ness, n.

un·health'some (-sŭm), adj. Unwholesome; also, unhealthy. — un·health'some·ness, n.

un·health'y (-hĕl'thĭ), adj.; -HEALTH'I·ER (-thĭ·ĕr); -HEALTH'I·EST. Not healthy; as: a Not in a state of health; unwell; diseased. b Not evincing health; as, an unhealthy complexion. c Not conducive to health; unwholesome; as, unhealthy locations, foods, habits. d Morally or spiritually unsound; as, unhealthy ideas, fiction. e Colloq. Adverse to one's well-being. — un·health'i·ly (-thĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·health'i·ness, n.

un·heard' (ŭn·hûrd'), adj. 1. Not heard; not perceived by the ear; as, words unheard by those present.

2. Not granted a hearing; not allowed to speak; not having made a defense, or stated one's side of a question; disregarded; unheeded; as, to condemn a man unheard.

3. Not known to fame; unknown; strange.

un·heard'-of', adj. Not heard of; unprecedented.

un·hearse' (ŭn·hûrs'), v. t. To take from the hearse (sense 1). Obs.

un·heart' (ŭn·härt'), v. t. Also un·heart'en (-här't'n). [See 1st UN-.] To dishearten.

un·heart'some (ŭn·härt'sŭm), adj. Cheerless; sad. Chiefly Scot.

un·heart'y (ŭn·här'tĭ), adj. Not hearty; as: a Obs. Faint-hearted. b Lacking in cordiality. c Scot. Dispirited; listless.

un·heav'en (ŭn·hĕv'ĕn), v. t. & i. To remove from heaven.

un·heed' (ŭn·hēd'), v. t. To disregard.

un·heired' (ŭn·ârd'), adj. Having no heir.

un·hele', un·heal' (ŭn·hēl'), v. t. [AS. unhelian. See 1st UN-; HELE to cover.] To uncover. — un·hel'er (-hēl'ĕr), n. Both Now Dial.

un·helm' (ŭn·hĕlm'), v. t. [1st un- + helm.] To deprive or relieve of the helm or helmet. — un·helm', v. i.

un·hel'met (ŭn·hĕl'mĕt; -mĭt; 119), v. t. [1st un- + helmet.] To deprive of the helmet.

un·help' (ŭn·hĕlp'), n. Hindrance. Obs. — v. t. To hinder.

un·hende' (ŭn·hĕnd'), adj. [un- not + hend, adj.] Discourteous; rude. — un·hend'ly, adv. Both Obs.

un·hent' (ŭn·hĕnt'), adj. [See UN- not; HENT, v.] Uncaught. Obs.

un·hep'pen (ŭn·hĕp'ĕn), adj. [un- not + heppen.] Ungainly; awkward; unskillful; also, untidy. N. of Eng.

un·herd' (ŭn·hûrd'), v. t. & i. To disperse or separate from a herd.

un·her'o·ism (ŭn·hĕr'ō·ĭz'm), n. Want of heroism; an unheroic act.

un·hes'i·tat'ing (ŭn·hĕz'ĭ·tāt'ĭng), adj. Acting or done without hesitation. — un·hes'i·tat'ing·ly, adv. — un·hes'i·tat'ing·ness, n.

un·hid'a·ble, un·hide'a·ble (ŭn·hīd'ä·b'l), adj. That cannot be hidden. — un·hid'a·ble·ness, un·hide'a·ble·ness, n. — un·hid'a·bly, un·hide'a·bly, adv.

un·hide' (ŭn·hīd'), v. t. [1st un- + hide.] To disclose; discover.

un·hide', v. t. To deprive of hide.

un·hinge' (ŭn·hĭnj'), v. t. [1st un- + hinge.] 1. To take from the hinges; as, to unhinge a door; to unlock; open.

2. To render unstable or wavering; to unsettle; as, to unhinge one's mind or opinions; to unhinge the nerves.

3. To displace; detach; to unfix by violence.

un·hitch' (ŭn·hĭch'), v. t. [1st un- + hitch.] To free from or as if from being hitched; to unfasten; loose.

un·hive' (ŭn·hīv'), v. t. [1st un- + hive.] To drive or remove from or as from a hive.

un·hoard' (ŭn·hôrd'; 181), v. t [1st un- + hoard.] To take or steal from a hoard; to pilfer.

un·hold' (ŭn·hōld'), v. t. [1st un- + hold.] To cease to hold; release. Rare.

un·holp'en (ŭn·hōl'pĕn), adj. [un- not + old past. of help.] Unhelped. Archaic.

un·ho'ly (ŭn·hō'lĭ), adj.; UN·HO'LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); UN·HO'LI·EST. [AS. unhālig.] Not holy; unhallowed; not consecrated; hence, profane; wicked; impious; also, Humorous, scandalous; shocking. — un·ho'li·ly, adv. — un·ho'li·ness, n.

un·ho'ly, v. t. To make unholy.

un·ho'ly, n. One that is unholy.

un·home' (ŭn·hōm'), v. t. To deprive of a home.

un·hon'est (ŭn·ŏn'ĭst), adj. Archaic & Dial. a Uncomely or unseemly; repulsive. b Morally unfit; dishonorable or discreditable; disreputable. c Dishonest. — un·hon'est·ly, adv.

un·hon'es·ty (-ĭs·tĭ), n. Dishonesty; improper behavior. Obs. exc. Scot.

un·hon'or·a·ble, un·hon'our·a·ble (ŭn·ŏn'ĕr·ä·b'l), adj. Not honorable; dishonorable. — un·hon'or·a·bly, un·hon'our·a·bly, adv.

un·hood' (ŭn·hŏŏd'), v. t. [1st un- + hood.] To remove a hood or disguise from.

un·hook' (ŭn·hŏŏk'), v. t. & i. [1st un- + hook.] 1. To loose, or to become loosed, from a hook; to loosen the hooks of.

2. To disengage from being hooked.

un·hoop' (ŭn·hōōp'; 200), v. t. [1st un- + hoop.] To strip or deprive of hoops. — un·hoop'er (-ĕr), n.

un·hoop'a·ble (-ä·b'l), adj. Not to be confined; unlimited. Obs.

un·hoped' (ŭn·hōpt'; 66), adj. Not hoped or expected. — un·hop'ed·ly (-hōp'ĕd·lĭ), adv. — un·hop'ed·ness, n.

un·hoped'-for', adj. Unhoped.

un·hope'ful (ŭn·hōp'fŏŏl), adj. Not hopeful. — un·hope'ful·ly, adv. — un·hope'ful·ness, n.

un·hopped' (-hŏpt'), adj. Made without hops, as wort.

un·horse' (ŭn·hôrs'), v. t. [1st un- + horse.] To throw from a horse; also, to take a horse or horses from; as, to unhorse a rider; to unhorse a carriage; to overthrow; dislodge; unharness. — v. i. To dismount.

un·hos'pi·ta·ble (ŭn·hŏs'pĭ·tä·b'l), adj. Inhospitable. — un·hos'pi·ta·ble·ness, n. — un·hos'pi·ta·bly, adv.

un·hos'pi·tal (ŭn·hŏs'pĭ·tăl; -t'l), adj. Inhospitable. Obs.

un·house' (ŭn·houz'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To drive from a house or habitation; dislodge; to deprive of shelter.

un·hu'man (ŭn·hū'măn), adj. Not human; as: a Inhuman; cruel. b Superhuman. c Nonhuman; other than human. — un·hu'man·ly, adv. — un·hu'man·ness, n.

un·hu'man, v. t. To make unhuman.

un'-hunh', interj. [See UH-HUH.] An exclamation signifying an affirmative answer. Also um'-hum', m'-hum'. Colloq.

unh'-unh', interj. [Cf. UH-HUH.] An exclamation signifying a negative answer. It is pronounced with a strong glottal explosion before each vowel (see Pron., §44 (5)). Colloq.

un·hur'ried (ŭn·hŭr'ĭd), adj. Not hurried; leisurely. — un·hur'ried·ly, adv. — un·hur'ried·ness, n.

un·husk' (-hŭsk'), v. t. To strip the husk from; expose.

U'ni (ū'nĭ), n. An Etruscan goddess identified with Juno.

u'ni- (ū'nĭ-). A combining form, Latin uni-, from unus (see ONE), meaning one, single, as in uniform; — often with adverbial force, as in uniaxial, unicellular. Uni- forms many adjective compounds denoting characterized by, adv., un'guil·lo·tined', adj. See UN-, not.

---

un'gui·nal (ŭng'gwĭ·năl), adj. = UNGUAL, adj. [UNGUAL, adj.] un'gu·lar (ŭng'gū·lĕr), adj. = un'gu·lat'ed, adj. Ungulate.

un·gull', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gulp', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·gum', v. t. [1st un- + gum.] = STRIP, 23 a.

un·gummed', adj., un·gush'ing, adj., un·gut'ted, adj., un·gut'tur·al, adj., un·guyed', adj., un·guz'zled, adj., un·gym·nas'tic, adj., un·gyp'sy·like', adj., un·gyved', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hab'ile, adj. [un- not + habile.] † INHABILE, UNABLE.

un·hab'it·a·ble, adj., un·hab'it·a·ble·ness, n., un·hab'it·ed, adj., un·ha·bit'u·al, adj., un·ha·bit'u·al·ly, adv., un·ha·bit'u·ate, adj., un·ha·bit'u·at·ed, adj., un·hacked', adj., un·hack'led, adj., un·hack'neyed·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·haft', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·haft'ed, adj., un·hag'gled, adj., un·hag'gling, adj., un·hail'a·ble, adj., un·hailed', adj., un·haired', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hair'y, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hair'i·ly, adv. — un·hair'i·ness, n.

un·hale', adj. [AS. unhāl.] Unhealthy; unsound. Obs.

un·hale', Var. of UNHELE, v. t.

un·ha'loed, adj., un·hal·loced', adj., un·halt'ed, adj., un·hal'tered, adj., un·halt'ing, adj., un·halved', adj., un'-Ham·lĕt'lic, adj., un·ham'mered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·ham'per, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·ham'pered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hand'cuff', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hand'cuffed', adj., un·hand'i·capped, adj., un·hand'dled, adj., un·hand'seled, adj., un·hanged', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hap'pen, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un·ha·rangued', adj., un·har'assed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hard'en, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hard'en·a·ble, adj., un·hard'ened, adj., un·hard'i·hood, n., un·hard'ness, n., un·harked', adj., un·harm'a·ble, adj., un·harmed', adj., un·harm'ful, adj., un·harm'ful·ly, adv., un·harm'less, adj., un·harmon'ic, un·har·mon'i·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

un·har'mo·nize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·har'mo·nized, adj., un·har'mo·ny, n., un·har'nessed, adj., un·harped', adj., un·har'ried, adj., un·harr'owed, adj., un·harsh', adj., un·har'vest·ed, adj., un·hashed', adj., un·hasped', adj., un·hast'ed, adj., un·has'tened, adj., un·hast'i·ly, adv., un·hast'i·ness, n., un·hast'ing, adj., un·hast'y, adj., un·hatch·a·bil'i·ty, n., un·hatch'a·ble, adj., un·hatched', adj., un·hatch'eled, or -elled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hate', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hat'ed, adj., un·hate'ful, adj., un·hat'ing, adj., un·hat'ing·ly, adv., un·hat'ted, adj., un·hauled', adj. See UN-, not.

un·haunt', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·haunt'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·have', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hawked', adj., un·hayed', adj., un·haz'ard·ed, adj., un·hazard·ing, adj., un·haz'ard·ous, adj., un·haz'ard·ous·ness, n., un·hazed', adj., un·head'ed, adj., un·head'y, adj., un·heal'a·ble, adj., un·heal'a·ble·ness, n., un·heal'a·bly, adv., un·healed', un·heal'ing, adj., un·heaped', adj., un·hear'a·ble, un·hear'ing, adj., un·hearsed', adj., un·heat'a·ble, un·heat'ed, adj., un·hea'then, adj., un·heaved', adj., un·heav'en·ly, adj. See UN-, not.

un·heavy, adj. See UN-, not. — un·heav'i·ly, adv. — un·heav'i·ness, n.

un·He·bra'ic, adj., un·He'brew, adj., un·hec'tored, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hedge', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hedged', adj., un·heed'ed, adj., un·heed'ed·ly, adv., un·heed'ful, adj., un·heed'ful·ly, adv., un·heed'ful·ness, n., un·heed'ing, adj., un·heed'ing·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·heed'y, adj. Heedless. — un·heed'i·ly, adv. — un·heed'i·ness, n. All Obs.

un·heeled', adj., un·heel'piece·d, adj., un·heft'ed, adj., un·height'ened, adj., un·heid', adj., un'-Hel·len'ic, adj., un·helmed', adj., un·hel'met·ed, adj., un·help'a·ble, adj., un·help'a·ble·ness, n., un·helped', adj., un·help'ful, adj., un·help'ful·ly, adv., un·help'ful·ness, n., un·help'ing, adj., un·helved', adj., un·hemmed', adj., un·her'ald·ed, adj., un'he·ral'dic, adj., un·herd'ed, adj., un'he·red'i·tar'y, adj., un'he·ret'i·cal, adj., un·her'it·a·ble, adj., un·her·met'ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·he'ro, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·he·ro'ic, un'he·ro'i·cal, adj., un·he·ro'i·cal·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·he'ro·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·he'ro·like', adj., un·hes'i·tant, adj., un'heu·ris'tic, adj., un·hew'a·ble, adj., un·hewed', adj., un·hewn', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hex', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un'-Hi·ber'ni·cal·ly, adv., un·hid', adj., un·hid'at·ed (ŭn·hīd'āt·ĕd), adj., un·hid'den, adj., un·hide'bound', adj., un·hide'e·ous, adj., un'hi·er·at'ic, adj., un·high', adj. [cf. AS. unhēah], un'hi·lar'i·ous, adj., un·hin'der·a·ble, adj., un·hin'der·a·bly, adv., un·hin'dered, un·hin'der·ing, adj., un·Hin'du, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hinge'ment, n. See -MENT.

un·hinted, adj., un·hipped', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hired', adj., un·hissed', adj., un'his·tor'i·ic, un·his·tor'i·cal, adj., un·his·tor'i·cal·ly, adv., un·his'to·ry, n., un·his·tri·on'ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hit', adj., un·hitched', adj., un·hit'ta·ble, adj., un·hoard'ed, adj., un·hoard'ing, adj., un·hoar'y, adj., un·hoaxed', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hob'ble, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hocked', adj., un·hoed', adj., un·hogged', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hoist', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hoist'ed, adj., un·hol'i·day, adj., un·hol'low, adj., un·hol'lowed, adj., un·home'like', adj., un·home'like·ness, n., un·home'li·ness, n., un·home'ly, adj., un'-Ho·mer'ic, adj., un·hom'ish, adj., un'ho·mo·ge·ne'i·ty, n., un'ho·mo·ge'ne·ous, adj., un'ho·mo·ge'ne·ous·ly, adv., un'ho·mol'o·gous, adj., un·honed', adj., un·hon'eyed, un·hon'ied, adj., un·hon'ored, un·hon'ored, adj., un·hood'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hood'wink', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hood'winked, adj., un·hoofed', adj., un·hooked', adj., un·hooped', adj., un·hoot'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hope', n. Despair. Obs.

un·hop'ing, adj., un·hop'ing·ly, adv., un·hop'ped, adj., un'-Hora'tian, adj., un'ho·ri'zoned, adj., un'hor·i·zon'tal, adj., un·horned', adj., un·horn'y, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hor'o·scop'ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hos'tile, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hos'tile·ly, adv. — un·hos'tile·ness, n. — un'hos·til'i·ty, n.

un·hot', adj., un·hound'like', adj., un·housed', adj., un·hous'ed, adj., un·house'like', adj., un·house'wife'ly, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hud'dle, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hugged', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hull', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hulled', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hu'man·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·hu'man·ized, adj.

un·hum'ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hum'ble·ness, n. — un·hum'bly, adv.

un·hum'bled, adj., un·hum'bled·ness, n., un·hum'bugged', adj., un·hu'mid, adj., un·hu·mil'i·at'ed, adj., un·hu'mored, un·hu'moured, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hu'mor·ous, adj. See UN-, not. — un·hu'mor·ous·ly, adv. — un·hu'mor·ous·ness, n.

un·hung', adj., un·hunt'a·ble, adj., un·hunt'ed, adj., un·hur'died, adj., un·hurled', adj., un·hur'ry·ing, adj., un·hur'ry·ing·ly, adv., un·hurt', adj. See UN-, not.

un·hurt'ed, part. adj. = UNHURT. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·hurt'ful, adj., un·hurt'ful·ly, adv., un·hurt'ful·ness, n., un·hurt'ing, adj., un·hus'banded, adj., un·hus'band·ly, adj. & adv. See UN-, not.

un·hush'a·ble, adj., un·hushed', adj., un·hush'ing, adj., un·husked', adj., un·hus'tled, adj., un·hus'tling, adj., un·hutched', adj., un'hu·zaed', adj., un'hy·drau'lic, adj., un·hy'dro·lyzed, adj., un'hy·gi·en'ic, adj., un'hy·gi·en'i·cal·ly, adv., un'hy·gro·met'ric, adj., un'hy·me·ne'al, adj., un·hy·mmed', adj., un·hy'phen·at'ed, adj., un·hy'phened, adj., un'hyp·not'ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·hyp'no·tiz'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

un·hyp'no·tize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un'hyp·o·crit'i·cal, adj., un'hyp·o·crit'i·cal·ly, adv., un'hy·poth'e·cat'ed, adj., un'hy·pothet'i·cal, adj., un'hys·ter'i·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

---

consisting of, or having, but one, as in unicorn, unison, universal. Cf. MONO-, ONE, adj., Note.

uniangulate	uniembryonate	uninuclear
uniarticular	unifacial	uninucleate uniarticulate	uniflagellate	uninucleated uniauriculate	uniflorat	uniocular
uniauriculated	uniflorate	uniovular unibasal	uniflorous	uniovulate unibracteate	uniflowered	uniparental unibracteolate	unifocal	unipeltate
unibranchiate	unifoliar	unipetalous unicalcarate	uniglandular	uniphonous unicamerate	uniglobular	uniplicate unicapsular	uniguttulate	uniradial unicarinate	unijugous	uniradiate unicarinated	unilabiate	uniradiated
unicentral	unilabiated	uniradical unicellate	unilamellar	uniramose uniciliat	unilamellate	uniramous unicolor	unilaminar	unirhyme unicolorate	unilaminate	unisepalous unicolored	unilinear	uniseptate unicolorous	unilobal	uniserial unicorneal	unilobar	uniserially unicornous	unilobate	uniseriate unicornuted	unilobed	uniseriately unicostate	unilobular	uniserrate unicotyledonous	unilocular	uniserrulate unicuspid	unilocularity	unisilicate unicuspidate	uniloculate	unisoil unidactyl	unimacular	unispiculate
unidactyle	unimodular	unispinose unidactylous	unimolecular	unisulcate unidentate	unimolecularity	unitentacular
unidentated	unimucronate	unituberculate unidenticulate	unimultiplex	uniunguiculate
unidigitate	unimuscular	uniungulate unidimensional	uninervate	univalvate unidirected	uninerved	univalvular unidirection	uninodal	univerbal unidirectional

‖u′ni′ (ū′nē′), adj, [F., prop., united.] Designating a plain weave; — applied to fabrics.

U′ni·at (ū′nĭ·ăt), n. Also U′ni·ate (-āt). [Russ. uniyat, fr. uniya union (i. e., with the Roman church).] A Christian of an Eastern rite in union with the Pope and acknowledging his primacy, but not belonging (except when an Italo-Greek) to the Latin Patriarchate; such a Christian whose church agrees with the Latin church in matters of faith, but differs from it in liturgy, in discipline, esp. in having married priests, and in being governed by a Patriarch of its own; a member of any of the distinct bodies formed by converts to Catholicism from the Orthodox, Nestorian, Coptic, Jacobite, Armenian, Monothelete, and Abyssinian, churches; a Catholic of an Eastern Church. There are eight Uniat churches: (1) Byzantine Uniats, of which there are seven groups, all following the Byzantine rite (see LITURGY, 1), the Melchites, Uniat Greeks (in Turkey and Greece), Georgians in Constantinople (Istanbul), Ruthenians, Bulgarian Uniats, Rumanian Uniats, and Italo-Greeks; (2) Chaldeans; (3) Uniat Copts; (4) Catholic Abyssinians; (5) Catholic Syrians; (6) Uniats of Malabar; (7) Catholic Armenians; (8) Maronites. Most of these bodies have representatives in the United States.

u′ni·at, adj. Also u′ni·ate. Designating or pertaining to a Uniat, or a body of Uniats.

u′ni·ax′i·al (ū′nĭ·ăk′sĭ·ăl, adj. [uni- + axial.] Having but one axis; as: a Cryst. Having but one optic axis, or line of no double refraction. In uniaxial crystals, the optic axis has the direction of the vertical crystallographic axis. All tetragonal and hexagonal crystals are uniaxial. b Biol. Developing along a single line. — u′ni·ax′i·al·ly, adv.

u′ni·bi·va′lent (-bī·vā′lĕnt; -bĭv′ȧ·lĕnt), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or designating an electrolyte that dissociates into two univalent ions and one bivalent ion, as sodium carbonate, Na_2CO_3.

u′ni·ble (ū′nĭ·b'l), adj. [L. unire unite.] That may be united.

u′ni·cam′er·al (ū′nĭ·kăm′ĕr·ăl), adj. [uni- + LL. camera chamber. See CHAMBER.] Having, or consisting of, a single chamber; — said of a legislative assembly. Cf. BICAMERAL. — u′ni·cam′er·al·ism, n. — u′ni·cam′er·al·ist, n. & adj.

u′ni·cell′ (ū′nĭ·sĕl′), n. Bot. A unicellular plant.

u′ni·cel′late (-sĕl′ăt), adj. [uni- + L. cella cell.] Zool. Having a single prong, as a simple sponge spicule.

u′ni·cel′lu·lar (-ū·lĕr), adj. Also u′ni·celled′ (ū′nĭ·sĕld′). Biol. Having, or consisting of, a single cell. — u′ni·cel′lu·lar′i·ty (ū′nĭ·sĕl′ū·lăr′ĭ·tĭ), n.

unicellular animals. The Protozoa.

unicellular gemma. See GEMMA.

unicellular gland. Anat. a A gland consisting of a single cell. b A gland whose cells serve both as secretory units and as walls of the duct discharging the secretion.

u′ni·chord (ū′nĭ·kôrd), n. Music. A monochord.

u′ni·cism (ū′nĭ·sĭz′m), n. Belief in unicity. — u′ni·cist, n. & adj.

u·nic′i·ty (ū·nĭs′ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. unicus single. See UNIQUE.] State of being solitary in its kind; oneness; uniqueness.

Not unity, but what the schoolmen call unicity. De Quincey.

u′ni·con′stant (ū′nĭ·kŏn′stănt), adj. Having, or characterized by, one constant; as, the uniconstant theory of isotropy.

u′ni·corn (ū′nĭ·kôrn), n. [ME. unicorne, fr. OF. unicorne (F. u-nicorne, licorne), fr. L. unicornis, lit., one-horned (fr. unus one + cornu a horn), trans. of Gr. monokerōs monoceros. See ONE; HORN.] 1. A fabulous animal with one horn; the monoceros.

Unicorn, in British Royal Coat of Arms.

2. A Scottish gold coin of the 15th and 16th centuries, which weighed 59 grains; — so called from the figure of a unicorn on the obverse.

3. A team of three horses harnessed with one as leader to a pair; also, the whole equipage; a spike team.

4. Short for UNICORN BIRD, FISH, SHELL, etc.

5. Obs. a The one-horned rhinoceros. b Unicorn's horn.

6. [cap.] Astron. = MONOCEROS, 2.

7. Bib. A two-horned animal called rēʼēm in Hebrew; — the rendering of the Authorized Version in Deut. xxxiii. 17 and elsewhere. See REEM.

8. Chinese Myth. See CHI-LIN.

9. Her. a A representation of the unicorn (sense 1) as a supporter or charge. b See PURSUIVANT, n., 1.

10. Mil. A howitzer. Obs.

u′ni·corn (ū′nĭ·kôrn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or like, a unicorn; specif., Obs., cuckolded.

u′ni·corn, adv. With a unicorn (sense 3).

unicorn antelope. A takin.

unicorn beetle. Any of various large beetles having a hornlike prominence on the head or prothorax, as some Scarabaeidae.

unicorn bird. The horned screamer. See SCREAMER, 7 a.

unicorn fish. a The narwhal. b Any of several fishes (genus Acanthurus) of the Pacific Ocean, related to the tangs, having a long, bony, hornlike projection extending forward from the skull above the eye. c Any of various filefishes having a long dorsal spine, esp. Osbeckia, syn. Alutera, scripta of tropical seas.

unicorn hawk moth. The morning-glory sphinx.

u′ni·cor′nic (ū′nĭ·kôr′nĭk), adj. Like a unicorn.

unicorn moth. A moth (Schizura unicornis), family Notodontidae, whose caterpillar has a horn on its back.

Unicorn Moth. a Larva; b Imago.

unicorn plant. A North American annual herb (Martynia louisiana) having large whitish or yellowish flowers mottled with purple or yellow within, and a capsule with a long curving beak.

u′ni·corn–plant′ fam′i·ly. The Martyniaceae.

unicorn ram or sheep. A variety of barwal sheep with the horns closely pressed together as the result of searing with a hot iron at the beginning of growth.

unicorn root. a = COLICROOT, 1 a. b The blazing star Chamaelirium luteum. c The swamp pink Helonias bullata.

unicorn shell. Any of several marine snails (Rachiglossa) having a prominent spine on the lip of the shell. Most of them belong to the genera Monoceros and Latirus.

Unicorn Shell (Latirus cingulatus).

u′ni·corn′s horn. a Formerly, horn supposedly from the unicorn (sense 1), regarded as a preventive or antidote against poison. b Unicorn root.

unicorn whale. The narwhal.

u′ni·cum (ū′nĭ·kŭm), n. [L. See UNIQUE.] A thing unique in its kind.

u′ni·cur′sal (ū′nĭ·kûr′săl), adj. [uni- + L. cursus a running, a course.] Math. a Homaloidal. b Of an irreducible curve, having its co-ordinates expressible rationally through a single parameter. — n. A rational curve. — u′ni·cur·sal′i·ty (-kûr·săl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — u′ni·cur′sal·ly, adv.

u′ni·cy′cle (ū′nĭ·sī′k'l), n. A vehicle with only one wheel. — u′ni·cy′clist (-klĭst), n.

un′i·de′aed (ŭn′ĭ·dē′ăd), adj. Having no ideas; senseless.

un′i·de′al (-ăl), adj. 1. Not ideal; as: a Unimaginative; material. b Having no ideal. c Lacking ideal character, features, or traits.

2. Undeaed. Obs.

u′ni·dex′tral (ū′nĭ·dĕks′trăl), adj. [See UNI-; DEXTROUS. Cf. AMBIDEXTROUS.] Preferring the use of one hand; either right-handed or left-handed. — u′ni·dex·tral′i·ty (-dĕks·trăl′ĭ·tĭ), n.

u′ni·di·rect′ (-dĭ·rĕkt′; -dī-), v. t. Elec. To cause to go in a single direction; to commutate.

un·i′dle (ŭn·ī′d'l), adj. Not idle; busy. — un·i′dle·ness, n. — un·i′dly, adv.

u′nie (ū′nĭ), n. A unicorn fish.

u′ni·e·quiv′a·lent (ū′nĭ·ē·kwĭv′ȧ·lĕnt), adj. Chem. Univalent.

u′ni·face (ū′nĭ·fās), adj. Also u′ni·faced (-fāst). Having a design on one side only; — applied to medals or coins.

u′ni·fac·to′ri·al (-făk·tō′rĭ·ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to a unit factor.

u′ni·far′i·ous (ū′nĭ·fâr′ĭ·ŭs; 79), adj. [uni- + -farious as in bifarious.] Being in a single rank or series; uniserial.

u′ni·fi′a·ble (ū′nĭ·fī′ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being unified.

u·nif′ic (ū·nĭf′ĭk), adj. [uni- + -fic.] Making one or unity.

u′ni·fi·ca′tion (ū′nĭ·fĭ·kā′shŭn), n. [See UNIFY.] 1. Act, process, or result, of unifying; state of being unified.

2. Organ Building. The use of the same set of pipes for securing on the same manual two or more stops at different pitches. In order to make unification possible, the ordinary compass of the set of pipes is extended by one or more octaves.

u′ni·fied (ū′nĭ·fīd), adj. Made one; specif.: a Finance. Consolidated; issued to take up and replace by a common debt previous issues; — said of stock or bonds. b Organ Building. Secured by unification; — of stops. — u′ni·fi′ed·ly (-fī′ĕd·lĭ; -fīd′lĭ), adv. — u′ni·fi′ed·ness, n.

unified field theory. A mathematical theory of fields developed by Einstein, which involves Maxwell's electromagnetic theory and Einstein's mathematical theory of gravitation as special cases.

u′ni·fi′er (ū′nĭ·fī′ĕr), n. One who or that which unifies.

u′ni·fi′lar (ū′nĭ·fī′lĕr), adj, [uni- + L. filum a thread.] Having, or involving use of, only one thread, wire, or fiber.

unifilar magnetometer. A magnetometer consisting of a bar suspended at its center of gravity by a single thread.

u′ni·flow′ (ū′nĭ·flō′), adj. [uni- + flow.] Flowing in one direction without reversal.

uniflow engine. Mach. An engine in which the steam or gas, entering through admission valves at the ends of the cylinder, escapes through exhaust ports uncovered by the piston as it nears the end of its stroke.

u′ni·fo′li·ate (ū′nĭ·fō′lĭ·ăt), adj. Bot. Having only one leaf; — often used erron. for unifoliolate.

u′ni·fo′li·o·late (ū′nĭ·fō′lĭ·ō·lāt; -fō·lĭ′ō·lāt), adj. Bot. Compound with but a single leaflet, as the leaf of the orange. Such leaves are distinguishable from simple leaves by the basal joint.

Unifoliolate Leaf of Orange u′ni·form (ū′nĭ·fôrm), adj. [F. uniforme, fr. L. uniformis, fr. unus one + forma form.] 1. Having always the same form, manner, or degree; not varying or variable; unchanging; homogeneous; as, the dress of Asiatics has been very uniform; the temperature is uniform; a stratum of uniform clay.

2. Of the same form with others; agreeing with each other; conforming to one rule or mode; consonant; alike.

The only doubt is . . . how far churches are bound to be uniform in their ceremonies. Hooker.

3. Presenting an undiversified appearance of surface, pattern, color, etc.

4. Consistent in character, conduct, opinion, etc.

5. Math. a Having but one value, said of functions; as, the function $w = z^2$ is uniform, while the function $w = \sqrt{z}$ is not. b Rare. Constant.

Syn. — Unvarying, invariable, consistent. See EQUABLE.

Ant. — Variable, varied; uneven.

— u′ni·form′ly, adv. — u′ni·form′ness, n.

u′ni·form, v. t. 1. To make conformable. Obs. Sidney.

2. To bring into uniformity.

3. To clothe with a uniform; as, to uniform soldiers.

u′ni·form, n. [F. uniforme. See UNIFORM, adj.] Dress of a particular style or fashion worn by persons in the same service, order, or the like, by means of which they have a distinctive appearance; as, the uniform of the artillery, of the police, of Knights Templars; also, a suit or garment of such a style; as, a showy uniform.

u′ni·form, adj. Pertaining to or serving for uniforms; also, uniformed.

u′ni·for′mal·ize (ū′nĭ·fôr′măl·īz), v. t. To make uniform. — u′ni·for′mal·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′-), n.

uniform bill of lading. The form of a bill of lading in general use on United States railroads and approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. U. S.

u′ni·formed (ū′nĭ·fôrmd), adj. Dressed in uniform.

uniform function. Math. A function that has only one value for any one value of its argument, no matter how the argument attains that value.

u′ni·form′ist, n. One who advocates uniformity.

u′ni·form′i·tar′i·an (ū′nĭ·fôr′mĭ·târ′ĭ·ăn), n. A believer in uniformitarianism; an advocate of uniformity. — u′ni·for′mi·tar′i·an, adj.

u′ni·form′i·tar′i·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n. 1. Geol. The view or doctrine, less strictly held than formerly, that existing processes, acting in the same manner and with essentially the same intensity as at present, are sufficient to account for all geological changes. Cf. CATASTROPHISM.

2. Philos. The doctrine that the world is subject to law; — opposed to tychism.

u′ni·form′i·ty (ū′nĭ·fôr′mĭ·tĭ), n. [F. uniformité, fr. LL. uniformitas.] 1. State or instance of being uniform, or unvarying, conformed to one pattern, etc.

2. Conformity; compliance, esp. in religion.

3. Sameness; monotony.

Syn. — Evenness, consistency, homogeneity.

Ant. — Variety, diversity.

Uniformity Act. Eng. Hist. See ACT OF UNIFORMITY.

uniformity of, or in the course of, nature. The doctrine or principle of the invariability or regularity of nature, according to which identical antecedent states or causes are uniformly followed by indentical effects. J. S. Mill.

The uniformity of nature stands to induction as the axioms of syllogism do to syllogism; they are not premises, but conditions of inference, which . . . men use spontaneously. Encyc. Brit.

u′ni·form·ize (ū′nĭ·fôr·mīz), v. t. To make uniform. — u′ni·form′i·za′tion (-fôr′mĭ·zā′shŭn; -mĭ·zā′-), n.

uniform magnetic field. A field in which the magnetic force has everywhere the same value and direction and in which the lines of force are therefore straight and parallel.

uniform motion or velocity. The motion or velocity of a body when it passes over equal spaces in equal times.

Uniform Partnership Act. See PARTNERSHIP, 3.

u′ni·form–proof′, adj. See -PROOF.

uniform system. Photog. A system of diaphragm or stop marking, the numbers of which are proportional to the intensities of the light permitted to pass and hence to the times required for exposure. In it No. 1 corresponds to f/4, No. 2 to f/5.6, No. 4 to f/8, No. 64 to f/32, etc. Abbr. U. S.

uniform trust. Finance. A form of investment trust based upon a fund contributed by a large group of persons, the investment of the funds being handled by trustees.

uniform twist. Firearms. A twist of which the spiral course has an equal pitch throughout.

uniform velocity. See UNIFORM MOTION.

u′ni·fy (ū′nĭ·fī), v.; U′NI·FIED (-fīd); U′NI·FY′ING (-fī′ĭng). [F. or ML.; F. unifier, fr. ML. unificare. See UNI-; -FY.] Transitive: 1. To cause to be one; to make into a unit; to unite.

Perception is thus a unifying act. Sir W. Hamilton.

2. Organ Building. To secure (a stop or stops) by unification.

—, Intransitive: To become one; to consolidate.

Syn. — Consolidate, merge.

Ant. — Multiply, diversify, scatter.

u′ni·gen′e·sis (ū′nĭ·jĕn′ē·sĭs), n. [uni- + genesis.] Asexual reproduction. — u′ni·ge·net′ic (-jē·nĕt′ĭk), adj.

u′ni·gen′i·tal (ū′nĭ·jĕn′ĭ·tăl), adj. [LL. unigenitus.] Only-begotten.

u′ni·gen′i·ture (-jĕn′ĭ·tûr), n. [LL. unigenitus only-begotten. See UNI-; GENITURE.] State of being the only-begotten.

U′ni·gen′i·tus (ū′nĭ·jĕn′ĭ·tŭs), n. [LL., only-begotten.] Eccl. Hist. A bull issued by Clement XI, in 1713, condemning 101 propositions from the Moral Reflections on the New Testament of Pasquier Quesnel, Oratorian and Jansenist; — so named from its first word.

u·nig′e·nous (ū·nĭj′ē·nŭs), adj. [L. unigena, fr. unus one + genere, gignere, to beget.] Biol. Being of one and the same kind.

u′ni·grav′i·da (ū′nĭ·grăv′ĭ·dȧ), n. [NL. See UNI-; GRAVID.] Med. A woman in her first pregnancy.

u·nij′u·gate (ū·nĭj′ŏŏ·gāt; ū′nĭ·jŏŏ′gāt; 242), adj. [uni- + L. jugum yoke, pair; cf. L. unijugus having one yoke.] Bot. Having but one pair of leaflets; — said of a pinnate leaf.

Unijugate Leaf.

un′i·am′bic, adj., un′i·am′bi·cal·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

u′ni·ax′al (ū′nĭ·ăk′săl), adj. = UNIAXIAL. — u′ni·ax′al·ly, adv.

un′-I·be′ri·an, adj. See UN-, not.

u·nic′. + UNIQUE.

u′ni·cal (ū′nĭ·kăl), adj. [See UNIQUE.] Unique. Obs.

un·ice′ (ŭn·īs′), n. t. See 1st UN-.

un·iced′, adj., un′-Ice·lan′dic, adj. See UN-, not.

u′ni·corn·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

un′i·de′al·ism, n., un′i·de′al·ist, adj., un′i·de′al·is′tic, adj., un′i·de′al·ized, adj., un′i·den′ti·fi′a·ble, adj., un′i·den′ti·fi′a·bly, adv., un′i·den′ti·fied, adj., un′i·den′ti·fi′ed·ly, adv., un′i·den′ti·fy′ing, adj., un′id·e·o·graph′ic, adj., un′id·i·o·mat′ic, adj., un′id·i·o·mat′i·cal·ly, adv., un′i·dol′a·trous, adj., un·i′dol·ized, adj., un′i·dyl′ic, adj. See UN-, not.

unidirectional current. = CONTINUOUS CURRENT. See DIRECT CURRENT.

unidirectional illumination See ILLUMINATION, 2.

u′ni·fi·ca′tion·ist, n. & adj. See -IST.

u′ni·fi·ca′tor (ū′nĭ·fĭ·kā′tĕr), n. [A unifier.]

U′ni·fo′li·um (ū′nĭ·fō′lĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. uni- + L. folium leaf; — because the first-named species, U. bifolium, has apparently but one leaf.] Bot. Syn. of MAIANTHEMUM.

u′ni·for′ma·ble, adj. [See UNIFORM, v.] Uniform. Obs.

u′ni·for′mal, adj. = UNIFORM. — u′ni·for′mal·ly, adv.

u′ni·for·ma′tion (ū′nĭ·fôr·mā′shŭn), n. = UNIFORMIZATION.

u′ni·formd. Uniformed. Ref. Sp.

u′ni·form′less, adj. See -LESS.

u·nig′e·nist (ū·nĭj′ē·nĭst), n. = MONOGENIST. — u′ni·ge·nis′tic (ū′nĭ·jē·nĭs′tĭk), adj.

un′ig·nit′a·ble, adj., un′ig·nit′ed, adj., un′ig·nit′i·ble, adj., un′ig·no·min′i·ous, adj., un·ig′no·rant, adj., un′ig·nored′, adj. See UN-, not.

u·ni·lat′er·al (ū′nĭ·lăt′ĕr·ăl), adj. 1. One-sided; done, made, undertaken, or shared, by one of two or more persons or parties; treating or relating to one side of a subject. 2. Bot. & Zool. Produced or arranged on, or directed toward, one side. 3. Law. Designating, or pertaining to, a contract or engagement by which an express obligation to do or forbear is imposed on but one party, as in a deed poll. In a unilateral simple contract, a promise is exchanged for an act. 4. Mach. Having for a nominal diameter the smallest or largest size that the specified tolerances permit. 5. Math. Having only one side; — said of a surface (unilateral surface) on which a continuous path may be drawn from any point to any other point, even to the exactly opposite point through the surface, without piercing the surface or crossing its border, as in Möbius's sheet (which see). 6. Med. Affecting but one side of the body. 7. Phonet. Pronounced with the oral passage open on one side of the tongue only, as l in the pronunciation of some persons. Cf. LATERAL, adj., 6. 8. Psychol. Preferring to use one side of the body. 9. Sociol. Tracing descent through or from one side or line only; as, the unilateral clan or family. — u·ni·lat′er·al·ism, n. — u·ni·lat′er·al·ist, n. & adj. — u·ni·lat′er·al·i·ty (-ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — u·ni·lat′er·al·ly, adv.

unilateral scroll. See SCROLL, n., 6.

unilateral surface. See UNILATERAL, adj., 5.

unilateral system. Mach. A system of tolerances and allowances as applied to cylindrical mating surfaces having for its basis unilateral holes. The high and low limits of tolerance are measured in one direction from the basic size.

u·ni·lin′gual (ū′nĭ·lĭng′gwăl), adj. [See UNI-; LINGUAL. Cf. BILINGUAL.] Composed in or using one language only. — u·ni·lin′gual·ism, n.

u·ni·lit′er·al (-lĭt′ĕr·ăl), adj. Consisting of one letter only.

u·ni·lobe (ū′nĭ·lōb), n. Mach. A unilobed gear wheel.

un′im·ag′i·na·ble (ŭn′ĭ·măj′ĭ·nȧ·b'l), adj. Not imaginable. — un′im·ag′i·na·ble·ness, n. — -nably, adv.

un′im·ag′i·na′tive (-nā′tĭv; -nȧ·tĭv), adj. Not imaginative. — un′im·ag′i·na′tive·ly, adv. — un′im·ag′i·na′tive·ness, n.

u·ni·man′u·al (ū′nĭ·măn′ū·ăl), adj. [See UNI-; 1st MANUAL.] Of or pertaining to one hand; executed with one hand.

un′im·bat′tled (ŭn′ĭm·băt′'ld), adj. Without battlements. Obs.

u·ni·me′di·al (ū′nĭ·mē′dĭ·ăl), adj. [See UNI-; 1st MEDIAL.] Transmitted through a single medium.

un·im′i·ta·ble (ŭn·ĭm′ĭ·tȧ·b'l), adj. Inimitable. — un·im′i·ta·ble·ness, n. — un·im′i·ta·bly, adv.

un′im·mer′gi·ble (ŭn′ĭ·mûr′jĭ·b'l), adj. Not submergible.

u·ni·mod′al (ū′nĭ·mōd′ăl; -'l), adj. Statistics. Having a single mode; as, a unimodal distribution. — u·ni·mo·dal′i·ty (-mō·dăl′ĭ·tĭ), n.

u·ni·mod′u·lar trans′for·ma′tion (-mŏd′ū·lĕr). Math. A linear transformation whose determinant is equal to 1.

un′im·pas′sioned (ŭn′ĭm·păsh′ŭnd), adj. Not impassioned. — un′im·pas′sioned·ly, adv. — un′im·pas′sioned·ness, n.

Syn. — See DISPASSIONATE.

Ant. — Ardent. See PASSIONATE.

un′im·peach′a·ble (-pēch′ȧ·b'l), adj. Not impeachable; not to be called in question; exempt from liability to accusation; irreproachable; blameless; as, an unimpeachable reputation. — un′im·peach′a·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′im·peach′a·ble·ness, n. — un′im·peach′a·bly, adv.

Syn. — Unquestionable, unexceptionable.

Ant. — Dubious, doubtful.

un′im·ped′ed (-pĕd′ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Not impeded; specif.: Phonet. Of vowels and some consonants (l, m), uttered without audible friction in the oral passage. R. J. Lloyd. — un′im·ped′ed·ly, adv. — -ed·ness, n.

un·im′pli·cate (ŭn·ĭm′plĭ·kĭt), adj. Not implicated.

un′im·por′tant (ŭn′ĭm·pôr′tănt), adj. Not important. — un′im·por′tance (-tăns), n. — un′im·por′tant·ly, adv.

un′im·pressed′ (-prĕst′), adj. Not impressed; as: a Obs. Unrestrained. b That bears no impress. c Not moved to serious regard.

un′im·pres′sive (-prĕs′ĭv), adj. Not impressive. — un′im·pres′sive·ly, adv. — un′im·pres′sive·ness, n.

un′im·prov′a·ble (ŭn′ĭm·prōōv′ȧ·b'l), adj. Not improvable. — un′im·prov′a·ble·ness, n. — prov′a·bly, adv.

un′im·proved′ (-prōōvd′), adj. Not improved; as: a Not used; not employed; esp., not used or employed for a valuable purpose; as, unimproved opportunities. b Not tilled, cultivated, or built upon, as land. c Not improved in health. — un′im·prov′ed·ly (-prōōv′ĕd·lĭ; -Ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un′im·prov′ed·ness, n.

un′in·cor′po·rate (ŭn′ĭn·kôr′pō·rāt), adj. Unembodied; also, unincorporated.

un′in·cor′po·rat′ed (-rāt′ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Not incorporated. — un′in·cor′po·rat′ed·ly, adv. — -ed·ness, n.

un′in·cul′cat·ed (ŭn′ĭn·kŭl′kāt·ĕd; see INCULCATE, v.), adj. Not inculcated.

un′in·debt′ed (ŭn′ĭn·dĕt′ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Not indebted; free from debt. — un′in·debt′ed·ly, adv. — -ed·ness, n.

un′in·dent′ed (-dĕn′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not indented; as: a Having no indentation. b Not indentured. c Print. Composed without indention.

un′in·dif′fer·ent (-dĭf′ĕr·ĕnt), adj. Not indifferent; as: a Obs. Favorable to one side. b Not impartial; prejudiced. c Interested. — un′in·dif′fer·ence (-ĕns), n. — un′in·dif′fer·en·cy (-ĕn·sĭ), n. — un′in·dif′fer·ent·ly, adv.

un′in·dwell′a·ble (-dwĕl′ȧ·b'l), adj. Uninhabitable. Obs.

un′in·gen′ious (ŭn′ĭn·jēn′yŭs), adj. Not ingenious. — un′in·gen′ious·ly, adv. — un′in·gen′ious·ness, n.

un′in·gen′u·ous (-jĕn′ū·ŭs), adj. Disingenuous. — un′in·gen′u·ous·ly, adv. — un′in·gen′u·ous·ness, n.

u·ni·nom′i·nal (ū′nĭ·nŏm′ĭ·năl), adj. [uni- + nominal.] 1. Consisting of, or pert. to, a single name or term; specif., noting a nomenclature in which objects have single names. 2. Containing but one name, as a ballot.

un′in·quis′i·tive (ŭn′ĭn·kwĭz′ĭ·tĭv), adj. Not curious or inquisitive. — un′in·quis′i·tive·ly, adv. — -tiveness, n.

un′in·struc′tive (-strŭk′tĭv), adj. Not instructive.

un′in·tel·lec′tu·al (ŭn′ĭn·tĕ·lĕk′tū·ăl), adj. Not intellectual. — un′in·tel·lec′tu·al·ism (-ĭz′m), n. — un′in·tel·lec′tu·al′i·ty (-ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′in·tel·lec′tu·al·ly, adv.

un′in·tel′li·gent (ŭn′ĭn·tĕl′ĭ·jĕnt), adj. Lacking intelligence; unwise; ignorant. — un′in·tel′li·gence (-jĕns), n. — un′in·tel′li·gent·ly, adv.

un′in·tel′li·gi·ble (-jĭ·b'l), adj. Not intellizible. — un′in·tel′li·gi·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′in·tel′li·gi·ble·ness, n. — un′in·tel′li·gi·bly, adv.

un′in·ten′tion·al (-tĕn′shŭn·ăl), adj. Not intentional. — un′in·ten′tion·al′i·ty (-ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′in·ten′tion·al·ly, adv. — un′in·ten′tion·al·ness, n.

un·in′ter·est·ed (ŭn·ĭn′tĕr·ĕs·tĕd; see INTERESTED), adj. Not interested; as: a Obs. Impartial; disinterested. b Not having an interest, esp. a property interest (in something); not personally concerned. c Not having the mind or feelings engaged; inattentive; apathetic; indifferent; — now the usual sense. — un·in′ter·est·ed·ly, adv. — -ed·ness, n.

un′in·ter·mis′sion (ŭn′ĭn·tĕr·mĭsh′ŭn), n. Want or failure of intermission.

un′in·tro′i·tive (ŭn′ĭn·trō′ĭ·tĭv), adj. [See UN- not; INTROITORY.] Tending not to enter.

un′in·ven′tive (-vĕn′tĭv), adj. Not inventive. — un′in·ven′tive·ly, adv. — un′in·ven′tive·ness, n.

un′in·vite′ (-vīt′), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To annul an invitation of. Rare.

U·ni·o (ū′nĭ·ō), n. [NL., fr. L. unio unity, union, a single large pearl. See UNION.] Zool. a A genus of fresh-water mussels (family Unionidae) having an oblong shell pearly within and covered with a greenish or blackish epidermis. The genus is now limited to forms occurring in Europe, Asia, and northern Africa. b [not cap.] Any mussel of Unio or a related genus. — u′ni·oid (-oid), adj.

U·ni′o·la (ū·nĭ′ō·lȧ), n. [LL., a kind of plant.] Bot. A small genus of handsome North American perennial grasses having ample panicles of 2-edged spikelets, the lowermost glumes of which are empty. Several species are sand binders, esp. U. paniculata, the sea oat.

un′ion (ūn′yŭn), n. A large, fine pearl. Archaic.

un′ion (ūn′yŭn), n. [F., fr. L. unio oneness, union, a single large pearl, a kind of onion, fr. unus one. See ONE; cf. ONION.] 1. Act or instance of uniting or joining two or more things into one; state of being so united; junction; coalition; combination. 2. a A spiritual uniting to bring about concord or agreement; also, the unity so produced.

The union, peace, and plenty of the kingdom. Clarendon.

b In mystical language, the conscious identification of one's will with that of God; the third and highest stage in mystical striving in which the soul has experimental knowledge of God; — called also the unitive way.

3. A uniting into a nation, political body, or association; specif., any of various political changes affecting the political union of the different parts of the kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; as: that of 1535, uniting Wales to England; that of 1706, uniting the kingdoms of England and Scotland on and after May 1, 1707; or that of 1800, establishing a legislative union of Great Britain and Ireland on and after January 1, 1801; also, that of 1909 uniting by the South Africa Act the colonies of South Africa.

4. A uniting in marriage.

5. a That which is united, or made one; something formed by a combination or coalition of parts or members; a confederation; a consolidated body; a league; as, the United States of America are often called "the Union." Cf. POSTAL UNION, ZOLLVEREIN. b Short for UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS.

6. A device emblematic of union, used on a national flag or ensign, sometimes, as in the military standard of Great Britain, covering the whole field, sometimes, as in the flag of the United States, and the British naval reserve flag (blue ensign) and merchant flag (red ensign), occupying the upper inner corner; also, by extension, the upper inner corner or canton of a flag, occupied by the union. The union of the United States ensign is a cluster of white stars, denoting the union of the States, and equal in number to that of the States, on a blue field. The union of the United States Coast Guard flag is the eagle of the national coat of arms and thirteen stars in blue on a white field. The union of the United States yacht ensign is a foul anchor surrounded by thirteen stars in white on a blue field. See Plate I. The union of the British ensign combines the crosses of St. George, St. Andrew, and St. Patrick, denoting the union of England, Scotland, and Ireland, on a blue field. See Plate V; ENSIGN, 1; cf. GREAT UNION.

7. Eng. a A union of local administration for rating, poor relief, etc., formed by uniting two or more parishes under the government of a body called the board of guardians. Their formation and government are now chiefly regulated by the Local Government Act of 1894. Called also poor-law union. b A workhouse maintained by such a union.

8. a A league or association for a common purpose, as for religious or debating purposes. b A trade-union (which see).

9. [cap.] An organized social center of a college or university; also, the building in which it usually is housed; — from the name of a debating club at Oxford.

10. Obs. a Oneness. b A unicum.

11. Brewing. A trunnioned cask used in burtonization.

12. Chem. = BOND, n., 11.

13. Eccl. A consolidation of benefices or churches.

14. Mach. Any of various devices for connecting machine parts, or the like, as the elastic pipe connecting a tender with the locomotive feed pipe; esp., a coupling for pipes, or pipes and fittings, facilitating connection or disconnection. Cf. FLANGE UNION.

Pipe Union, partly cut away to show construction.

15. Surg. The growing together of severed parts.

16. Textiles. A fabric woven of two or more materials, as cotton, silk, or wool.

Syn. — UNION, UNITY. UNION suggests either the act of bringing two or more things together, or the resulting state; UNITY denotes state of being one, or property of oneness; it may be predicated either of what is simple, or of a close and intimate union in a complex whole; as, a union of interests resulting in a unity of aim; "Such harmony alone could hold all heaven and earth in happier union" (Milton); "How good . . . it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" (Ps. cxxxiii. 1); "Many a bard . . . has linked our names together . . . and our knights . . . have pledged us in this union" (Tennyson); "It was but unity of place that made me dream I ranked with him" (id.). Cf. COMBINATION, JOIN.

Ant. — Separation, break, division, severance.

---

u·ni·lat′er·al·ize, v. t. See -IZE. — u·ni·lat′er·al·i·za′tion, n.

un′il·lu′de′d·ly, adv., un′il·lumed′, adj., un′il·lu′mi·nat′ed, adj., un′il·lu′mi·nat′ing, adj., un′il·lu′mi·na′tion, n., un′il·lu′mined, adj., un′il·lu′sioned, adj., un′il·lu′so·ry, adj., un·il′lus·trat′ed, adj., un·il·lus′tra·tive, adj., un′il·lus′tri·ous, adj., un·im′aged, adj. See UN-, not. un·im·age′ine, v. t. See 1st UN-. un′im·ag′i·nar′y, adj., un′im·ag′ined, adj., un′im·banked′, adj., un′im·bel′lished, adj., un′im·bez′zled, adj., un′im·bibed′, adj., un′im·bib′ing, adj., un′im·bit′tered, adj., un′im·bod′ied, adj., un′im·bold′ened, adj., un′im·bor′dered, adj., un′im·bos′omed, adj., un′im·bowed′ (-bōd′), adj., un′im·bow′ered, adj., un′im·broiled′, adj., un′im·browned′, adj., un′im·brued′, adj., un′im·bued′, adj., un·im′i·tat′ed, adj., un·im′i·tat′ing, adj., un·im′i·ta′tive, adj., un′im·mac′u·late, adj., un·im′ma·nent, adj., un′im·me′di·ate, adj., un′im·merged′, adj., un′im·mersed′, adj., un·im′mi·grat′ing, adj., un·im′mo·lat′ed, adj., un′im·mor′tal, adj. See UN-, not. [UN-.] un′im·mor′tal·ize, v. t. See 1st| un′im·mor′tal·ized, adj., un′im·mov′a·ble, adj., un′im·mured′, adj. See UN-, not.

un′im·pair′, v. t. See 1st UN-. un′im·pair′a·ble, adj., un′im·paired′, adj., un′im·part′a·ble, adj., un′im·part′ed, adj., un′im·par′tial, adj., un′im·pas′sionate, adj., un′im·pa′tient, adj., un′im·pawned′, adj., un′im·peached′, adj., un′im·pearled′, adj., un·imped′, adj., un′im·ped′i·ble, adj., un′im·pelled′, adj., un′im·pen′e·tra·ble, adj., un′im·per′a·tive, adj., un′im·per′i·al, adj., un′im·pe′ri·al·is′tic, adj., un′im·per′i·ous, adj., un′im·per′ti·nent, adj., un′im·ping′ing, adj., un′im·plant′ed, adj., un·im′pli·ca·ble, adj., un·im′pli·cat′ed, adj., un′im·plic′it, adj., un′im·plic′it·ly, adv., un′im·plied′, adj., un′im·plor′a·ble, adj., un′im·plored′, adj., un′im·poi′soned, adj., un′im·port′ed, adj., un′im·port′ing, adj., un′im·por′tu·nate, adj., un′im·por′tu·nate·ly, adv., un′im·por·tuned′, adj., un′im·posed′, adj., un′im·pos′ed·ly, adv., un′im·pos′ing, adj., un′im·pos′trous, adj., un′im·pound′ed, adj., un′im·pow′ered, adj., un′im·pre′cat′ed, adj., un′im·preg′na·ble, adj., un′im·preg′nate, adj., un′im·preg′nat·ed, adj., un′impressed′, adj. See UN-, not. un′im·press′i·ble, adj. See UN-, not. — un′im·press′i·bil′i·ty, n. — un′im·press′i·ble·ness, n. — un′im·press′i·bly, adv.

un′im·pres′sion·a·bil′i·ty, n., un′im·pres′sion·a·ble, adj., un′im·print′ed, adj. See UN-, not. un′im·pris′on, v. t. See 1st UN-. un′im·pris′on·a·ble, adj., un′im·pris′oned, adj., un′im·pro′pri·at′ed, adj., un′im·prove′ment, n., un′im·prov′ing, adj., un′im·pro·vised′, adj., un′im·pugn′a·ble (-pūn′ȧ·b'l), adj., un′im·pugned′ (-pūnd′), adj., un′im·pul′sive, adj., un′im·pur′pled, adj., un′im·pu′ta·ble, adj., un′im·put′ed, adj., un′in·au′gu·rat′ed, adj., un′in·can′toned, adj., un′in·car′cer·at′ed, adj., un′in·car′nate, adj., un′in·car′nat·ed, adj., un′in·censed′, adj., un′in·cho′a·tive, adj., un′in·ci·den′tal, adj., un′in·cised′, adj., un′in·ci′sive, adj., un′in·cit′ed, adj., un′in·clin′a·ble, adj., un′in·clined′, adj., un′in·clining′, adj., un′in·closed′, adj., un′in·clos′ed·ness, n., un′in·clud′a·ble, adj., un′in·clud′ed, adj., un′in·clu′sive, adj., un′in·clusive·ness, adj., un′in·con·ven′tenced, adj., un′in·crease′a·ble, adj., un′in·creased′, adj., un′in·creas′ing, adj., un·in′cu·bat′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un′in·cum′bered, adj. = UNENCUMBERED. un′in·dem′ni·fied, adj., un′in·dent′a·ble, adj., un′in·den′tured, adj., un·in′dexed, adj., un·In′di·an, adj., un·In′di·an·like′, adj., un·in′di·ca·ble, adj., un·in′di·cat′ed, adj., un′in·dic′a·tive, adj., un′in·dict′a·ble (-dīt′ȧ·b'l), adj., un′in·dict′ed (-dīt′ĕd), adj., un′in·di·gent, adj., un′in·di′gnant, adj., un′in·di·vid′u·al, adj. See UN-, not. [UN-.] un′in·di·vid′u·al·ize, v. t. See 1st| un′in·di·vid′u·al·ized, adj., un′in·di·vid′u·at′ed, adj., un′in·dorsed′, adj., un′in·duced′, adj., un′in·duc′tive, adj., un′in·dulged′, adj., un′in·dul′gent, adj., un′in·dul′gent·ly, adv., un′in·du·rat′ed, adj., un′in·dus′trial, adj., un′in·dus′tri·al·ized, adj., un′in·dus′tri·ous, adj., un′in·dus′tri·ous·ly, adv., un′in·dwell′a·ble, adj., un′in·e′bri·at′ed, adj., un′in·e′bri·at′ing, adj., un′in·fal′li·bil′i·ty, n., un′in·fal′li·ble, adj., un′in·fat′u·at′ed, adj., un′in·fect′a·ble, adj., un′in·fect′ed, adj., un′in·fec′tious, adj., un′in·fec′tious·ness, n., un′in·fe′ft, adj., un′in·ferred′, adj., un′in·fest′ed, adj., un′in·fi′nat·ed, adj., un′in·fi′nite, adj., un′in·fi′nite·ness, n., un′in·fixed′, adj., un′in·flamed′, adj., un′in·flam′ma·bil′i·ty, n., un′in·flam′ma·ble, adj., un′in·flat′ed, adj., un′in·flect′ed, adj., un′in·flect′ed·ness, n., un′in·flict′ed, adj., un′in·flu·ence·a·ble, adj., un′in·flu·enced, adj., un·in′flu·enc·ing, adj., un′in·flu·en′tial, adj., un′in·flu·en′ti·al·i·ty, n., un′in·fold′ed, adj., un′in·formed′, adj., un′in·form′ing, adj., un′in·fract′ed, adj., un′in·fringe′a·ble, adj., un′in·fringed′, adj., un′in·fringi′ble, adj., un′in·fu′ri·at′ed, adj., un′in·fused′, adj., un′in·ge·nu′i·ty, n., un′in·gest′ed, adj., un′in·graft′ed, adj., un′in·grained′, adj., un′in·hab′it·a·bil′i·ty, n., un′in·hab′it·a·ble, adj., un′in·hab′it·a·ble·ness, n., un′in·hab′it·a·bly, adv., un′in·hab′it·ed, adj., un′in·hab′it·ed·ness, n., un′in·haled′, adj., un′in·her′it·a·bil′i·ty, n., un′in·her′it·a·ble, adj., un′in·her′it·ed, adj., un′in·hib′it·ed, adj., un′in·hib′i·tive, adj., un′in·hum′ed, adj., un′in·im′i·cal, adj., un′in·iq′ui·tous, adj., un′in·i′tialed, adj., un′in·i′tiated, adj., un′in·i′ti·ate, adj. & n., un′in·i′ti·at′ed, adj., un′in·i′ti·at′ed·ness, n., un′in·i′ti·a′tion, n., un′in·ject′a·ble, adj., un′in·ject′ed, adj., un·in′jur·a·ble, adj., un·in′jured, adj., un·in′jured·ness, n., un·in′jur·ing, adj., un′in·ju′ri·ous, adj., un′in·ju′ri·ous·ly, adv., un′in·ju′ri·ous·ness, n., un·inked′, adj., un′in·kin′dled, adj. See UN-, not. Obs.

un′in·laid′, adj. See UN-, not. un·inn′, v. i. & t. See 1st UN-. un·in′nate, adj., un′in·no·cence, n., un·in′no·cent, adj., un·in′no·cent·ly, adv., un′in·noc′u·ous, adj., un′in·no·vat′ing, adj., un′in·oc′u·la·ble, adj., un′in·oc′u·lated, adj., un′in·quired′, adj., un′in·quir′ing, adj., un′in·quis′i·tor·i·al, adj., un′in·sane′, adj., un′in·sa′ti·a·ble, adj., un′in·scribed′, adj., un′in·sert′ed, adj., un′in·shrined′, adj., un′in·sin′u·at′ed, adj., un′in·sist′ent, adj., un′in·sol′vent, adj., un′in·spect′ed, adj., un′in·spir′a·ble, adj., un′in·spired′, adj., un′in·spir′ing, adj., un′in·spir′ing·ly, adv., un′in·spir′it·ed, adj., un′in·spis′sat·ed, adj., un′in·stalled′, adj., un·in′stanced, adj., un′in·stat′ed, adj., un′in·sti·gat′ed, adj., un′in·stilled′, adj., un′in·sti·tut′ed, adj., un′in·struct′ed, adj., un′in·struct′ed·ly, adv., un′in·struct′ed·ness, n., un′in·struc′i·ble, adj., un′in·struct′ing, adj., un′in·struc′tive·ly, adv., un′in·struc′tive·ness, n., un′in·stru·men′tal, adj., un·in′su·lar, adj. See UN-, not.

un·in′su·late, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·in′su·lat′ed, adj., un′in·sult′a·ble, adj., un′in·sult′ed, adj., un′in·sult′ing, adj., un·sur′a·bil′i·ty, n., un·sur′a·ble, adj., un′in·sured′, adj., un·in′te·grat′ed, adj., un′in·tel′lec′tive, adj., un′in·tel′li·gent′si·a, n., un′in·tend′ed, adj., un′in·tend′ed·ly, adv., un′in·ten′sive, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·tent′, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·tent′ly, adv. — un′in·tent′ness, n. un′in·ter′ca·lat′ed, adj., un′in·ter·cept′ed, adj., un′in·ter·change′a·ble, adj., un′in·ter·dict′ed, adj. See UN-, not. un·in′ter·essed, adj. Uninterested. Obs. un′in·ter·est·ing, adj., un·in′ter·est·ing·ly, adv., un·in′ter·est·ing·ness, n., un′in·ter·fered′with′, adj., un′in·ter·ject′ed, adj., un′in·ter·laced′, adj., un′in·ter·lard′ed, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·ter·leaved′, v. t. See 1st UN-. un′in·ter·lessed′, adj., un′in·ter·linked′, adj., un′in·ter·locked′, adj., un′in·ter·mar′ry·ing, adj., un′in·ter·me′di·ate, adj., un′in·ter·min′gled, adj., un′in·ter·mis′sive, adj., un′in·ter·mit′ted, adj., un′in·ter·mit′ted·ly, adv., un′in·ter·mit′ted·ness, n., un′in·ter·mit′tent, adj., un′in·ter·mit′ting, adj., un′in·ter·mit′ting·ly, adv., un′in·ter·mit′ting·ness, n., un′in·ter·mixed′, adj., un′in·ter·na′tion·al, adj., un′in·ter·plead′ed, adj., un′in·ter′pol·lat′ed, adj., un′in·ter·posed′, adj., un′in·ter·pos′ing, adj., un′in·ter′pret·a·ble, adj., un′in·ter′pret·ed, adj., un′in·terred′, adj., un′in·ter′ro·ga·ble, adj., un′in·ter′ro·gat′ed, adj., un′in·ter·rupted′, adj., un′in·ter·rupt′ed·ness, n., un′in·ter·rupt′i·ble, adj., un′in·ter·rupt′i·ble·ness, n., un′in·ter·rupt′ing, adj., un′in·ter·rup′tion, n., un′in·ter·sect′ed, adj., un′in·ter·sper′sed, adj., un′in·ter·ven′ing, adj., un′in·ter·viewed, adj., un′in·ter·volved′, adj., un′in·ter·wo′ven, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·thralled′, adj. Not enthralled. Obs. un′in·throned′, adj., un·in′ti·mate, adj., un·in′ti·mat′ed, adj., un′in·tim′i·dat′ed, adj., un′in·tit′led, adj., un′in·tombed′, adj., un′in·toned′, adj., See UN-, not. un′in·tox′i·cat′ed, adj., un′in·tox′i·cat′ed·ness, n., un′in·tox′i·cat′ing, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·trench′a·ble, adj., un′in·trenched′, adj., un·in′tri·cate, adj., un′in·trigued′, adj., un′in·tri′guing, un′in·tro·duced′, adj., un′in·tro·duc′i·ble, adj., un′in·tro·mit′ted, adj., un′in·tro·spec′tive, adj., un′in·trud′ed, adj., un′in·trud′ing, adj., un′in·tru′sive, adj., un′in·tru′sive·ly, adv., un′in·trust′ed, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·tu′i·tive, adj., un′in·twined′, adj., un′in·tu′bated, adj., un′in·ured′, adj., un′in·urned′, adj., un′in·vad′a·ble, adj., un′in·vad′ed, adj., un′in·vag′i·nat′ed, adj., un′in·val′i·dat′ed, adj., un′in·veigh′ing, adj., un′in·vei′gled, adj., un′in·vent′ed, adj., un′in·vent′ful, adj., un′in·ven′ti·ble·ness, n. See UN-, not. un′in·ven′tive, adj., un′in·ven′tive·ly, adv., un′in·vert′ed, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·vest′ed, adj., un′in·ves′ti·ga·ble, adj., un′in·ves′ti·gat′ed, adj., un′in·ves′ti·gat′ing, adj., un′in·ves′ti·ga′tive, adj., un′in·vid′i·ous, adv., un′in·vid′i·ous·ly, adv., un′in·vig′o·rat′ed, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·vin′ci·ble, adj., un′in·vit′ed, adj., un′in·vi′ted·ly, adv. un′in·vi′ting, adj. See UN-, not. un′in·voiced′, adj., un′in·voked′, adj., un′involved′, adj., un′in·weaved′, adj., un′in·wo′ven, adj., un′in·wrapped′, adj., un′in·wreathed′, adj. See UN-, not.

un'ion (ūn'yŭn), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or supporting, a union, esp. in sense 5, or [cap.] the Union.
2. Textiles. Made of union (sense 16).
Union American Methodist Episcopal Church. See METHODIST, n., 2. union bow. See 3d BOW, 2. union by the first, or second, intention. = HEALING BY THE FIRST, OR SECOND, INTENTION. See INTENTION, n., 8. union card. a A card certifying personal membership in a labor union. b A certificate that the shop to which it is issued employs only union labor. union catalogue. Libraries. A catalogue combining in one series a number of catalogues, or the contents of more than one library.
Union Central Executive Committee. In the Russian Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the legislative and executive parliament prior to the constitution of Dec. 5, 1936, which reconstituted it as the Supreme Soviet or Council (see SOVIET). It now consists of two elective bodies, the Council of the Union and the Council of Nationalities (see LEGISLATURE, Table). It appoints the Union Council of Ministers (prior to 1946, of People's Commissars) and elects from its members a presidium (which see). Abbr., U. C. E. C. union cord. A strong white cord made of cotton and linen, and used for stay laces.
Union Day. See HOLIDAY, 3 (South Africa).
union district. A school district made by uniting two or more elementary school districts for the maintenance of a union school. This may be a graded school, a high school, or a combination of the two.
union down. Naut. With the flag reversed, thus turning its union downward, a signal of distress at sea.
union dye or color. Any of various direct azo dyes used for coloring union fabrics; — called specif. union black, union blue, etc., often with added letters; as, union orange G.
un'ioned (ūn'yŭnd), adj. [union + -ed.] United. Rare. union elbow. An elbow pipe union. union flag. A flag symbolizing the union of two or more states; specif., the national flag or ensign of Great Britain since 1606; the union jack. See UNION, 6. union grass. Any grass of the genus Uniola. union house. = UNION, n., 7 b. un'i·on'ic (ūn'ĭ·ŏn'ĭk), adj. See UN-, not.
un'–I·on'ic, adj. See UN-, not.
U'ni·on'i·dae (ū'nĭ·ŏn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See UNION.] Zool. A very large family of fresh-water mussels (suborder Submytilacea) having a pearly often roughly sculptured shell with a thick epidermis. Their larvae pass through a glochidium stage. The family is represented in nearly all parts of the world, but chiefly in North America. — u'ni·o·nid (ū'nĭ·ŏ·nĭd), n. — u'ni·on'i·form (-ŏn'ĭ·fôrm), adj. — u'ni·o·noid (ū'nĭ·ŏ·noid), adj.
un'ion·ism (ūn'yŭn·ĭz'm), n. 1. The principle of union, or the sentiment of attachment to a union; specif. [cap.], attachment to the federal union of the United States.
2. The principles, or the system, of combination among workmen engaged in the same occupation or trade.
3. Adherence to, or advocacy of, the principles or policy of the Unionist party of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.
un'ion·ist, n. 1. One who advocates or promotes union.
2. An adherent of unionism; specif.: a A member or supporter of a trade-union. b [usually cap.] An adherent or supporter of the federal union of the United States, esp. at the time of the Civil War. c [cap.] In British politics, formerly, a member of the Liberal party who refused to support Gladstone's Home Rule bill; a Liberal Unionist (which see); later, a member of the combined Conservative and Liberal-Unionist parties; now, since the establishment of the Irish Free State, generally, a Conservative.
un'ion·ist, adj. 1. Of or pertaining to union, unionism, or unionists; promoting or preserving union.
2. [cap.] Of or pertaining to the Unionists; as, the Unionist party.
un'ion·is'tic (ūn'yŭn·ĭs'tĭk), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, characteristic of, or favoring, union or unionists.
2. [cap.] Of, relating to, or somewhat resembling, Unionism or Unionists.
un'ion·ize (ūn'yŭn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). 1. To form into or incorporate in a union.
2. To cause to become a member of, or subject to the rules of, a trade-union; to organize in a trade-union or trade-unions; as, to unionize employees or a shop.
— un'ion·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.
union jack. [often caps.] Nav. A jack (sense 27) consisting of the union of the national ensign; loosely, the union flag.
union jet burner. A gas burner in which two jets unite to produce a single flat flame.
union joint. Mach. a A joint formed by means of a union. b A piece of pipe made in the form of the letter T. union label. A trade-mark attached to goods made by union labor.
Union Labor party. U. S. Politics. A party formed in 1887, which in 1888 nominated national candidates. It succeeded the Greenback-Labor party and in 1894 a majority of its members went over to the Populist party.
Union League. U. S. Hist. A secret political society formed in the North in 1862 to support the government and oppose the activities of Southern organizations. un'ion–made' (66), adj. Made by union labor.
Union Methodist Free Churches, Union Methodist Church. See METHODIST, n., 2. union nut. An Australian tree (Bosistoa sapindiformis), family Rutaceae, yielding a useful, yellowish, close-grained cabinet wood.
Un'ion of Kal'mar or Cal'mar (käl'mär). Hist. A union of Denmark, Sweden, and Norway into a single monarchy (1397–1523), effected at Kalmar under Queen Margaret.
Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The federal state that was organized 1922–23 in the territories belonging to the Russian Empire before 1918. As reorganized by the 1936 constitution and added to by acquisitions of World War II it includes the Russian S.F.S.R. and the Armenian, Azerbaidzhan, Estonian, Georgian, Karelo-Finnish, Kazakh, Kirgiz, Latvian, Lithuanian, Moldavian, Tadzhik, Turkmen, Ukrainian, Uzbek, and White Russian Soviet Socialist Republics. Abbr. U.S.S.R.
Union of the Crowns. The union (1603) of England and Scotland under one sovereign, James I.
Union party. U. S. Hist. The Republican party, esp. in the presidential campaign of 1864 when it was supported by War Democrats.

‖U'nion' Sa'crée' (ü'nyôn' sä'krā'), [F., sacred union.] Fr. Hist. A coalition of all political parties, formed in 1914 at the outbreak of the World War. It was succeeded in 1919 by the National Bloc. Hence [not caps.], any union involving cessation of opposition or competition.
union school. See UNION DISTRICT. union shop. An establishment in which the employer by agreement is free to hire nonmembers as well as members of the union but retains nonmembers on the payroll only on condition of their becoming members of the union within a specified time.
Union Soviet Congress. The Union Congress of Soviets. union station. A station used jointly by two or more railroad companies. U. S. & Canada.
union suit. An undergarment with shirt and drawers in one piece. union tannage. Tannage by means of a mixture of hemlock and oak or hemlock and chestnut products. union tee. A T pipe union. u'ni·o'val (ū'nĭ·ō'văl; -v'l), adj. Having but one egg.
u·nip'a·ra (ū·nĭp'ə·rə), n. [NL. See UNIPAROUS.] A woman who has borne one child.
u'ni·par'i·ent (ū'nĭ·pâr'ĭ·ĕnt), adj. Uniparous.
u·nip'a·rous (ū·nĭp'ə·rŭs), adj. [uni- + -parous.] 1. Zool. Producing but one egg or offspring at a time.
2. Bot. Producing but one axis at each branching. u'ni·par'tite (ū'nĭ·pär'tīt), adj. 1. Not divided into parts.
2. Math. a Enumerating a single set of objects all of the same kind. b Having all its real points comprised in one continuous branch; as, the unipartite cubic curve $y^2 = x(x^2 + a)^2$.
u'ni·ped (ū'nĭ·pĕd), n. [uni- + -ped.] A person or creature having only one foot or leg. — u'ni·ped, adj.
u'ni·pe'ri·od'ic (-pē'rĭ·ŏd'ĭk), adj. [uni- + periodic.] Having a single period; specif., Elec., pertaining to or designating an alternating current having a frequency of one, or completing a cycle in one second.
u'ni·per'son·al (-pûr'sŭn·ăl), adj. Existing as one, and only one, person. — u'ni·per'son·al'i·ty (-ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.
u'ni·per'son·al·ist, n. Theol. One who believes that the Deity is unipersonal. u'ni·pla'nar (-plā'nĕr), adj. [uni- + planar.] Mech. Lying or occurring in one plane; as, uniplanar motion.
uniplanar motion. Physics. Motion of a rigid body or fluid such that each point or particle moves in a plane parallel to a given plane; — called also two-dimensional motion.
uniplanar point (of a surface). Math. A double point at which the proper cone of tangent lines degenerates into two coincident planes or one doubly laid plane; — called also unode.
u'ni·po'lar (ū'nĭ·pō'lĕr), adj. [uni- + polar.] Having but one pole. Specif.: a Physics. Having, produced by, or acting by, one pole only. b Anat. Designating nerve cells having but one process, as in spinal ganglia. — u'ni·po·lar'i·ty (-pō·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n.
unipolar armature. Elec. An armature which does not reverse its polarity during a complete revolution.
unipolar dynamo. See HOMOPOLAR DYNAMO. unipolar induction. Elec. Induction, as in a conducting circuit, by only one pole of a magnet.
unipolar machine. Elec. A direct-current machine in which the voltage generated in the active conductors keeps the same direction with reference to the conductors.
unipolar stimulation. Physiol. The stimulation of a nerve produced when one electrode of an induction apparatus is applied to the skin over the nerve and the other electrode is placed at a remote point, usually the back of the neck.
unipolar winding. Elec. An armature winding in which the induced electromotive force is always in the same direction.
u·nip'o·rous (ū·nĭp'ō·rŭs), adj. [uni- + porous.] Having one pore; specif., Bot., having wood cells with a single row of bordered pores or disk-shaped markings.
u·nip'o·tent (ū·nĭp'ō·tĕnt), adj. Having power in one way only. — u·nip'o·tence (-tĕns), n.
u'ni·pulse' (ū'nĭ·pŭls'), n. [uni- + pulse.] Elec. A single wave.
u'ni·quan'tic (-kwŏn'tĭk), adj. [uni- + quantum + -ic.] Physical Chem. Pertaining to, or giving rise to, a single quantum of energy. u·nique' (ū·nēk'), adj. [F., fr. L. unicus; akin to Goth. ainaha, and to L. unus one. See ONE; cf. OUNCE a weight.]
1. Single; sole.
2. Being without a like or equal; single in kind or excellence; unequaled; hence, loosely, unusual; notable.
3. Peculiar; odd; queer. Chiefly Dial.
4. Math. Single-valued; admitting only one value for any one set of argument values, as a function; capable of being performed in only one way; as, the factorization of a number into its prime factors is unique.
Syn. — Matchless. See SINGLE. Ant. — Ordinary, common.
— u·nique'ly, adv. — u·nique'ness, n.
u·nique', n. A unique specimen, thing, circumstance, or person.
u·nique'ness the'o·rem. Math. The theorem stating that a given problem has at most one solution.
u·niq'ui·ty (ū·nĭk'wĭ·tĭ; ū·nē'kwĭ-), n. Uniqueness. Rare.
u'ni·reme (ū'nĭ·rēm), n. [uni- + L. remus oar.] A galley having but one bank, or tier, of oars.
u'ni·sexed' (-sĕkst'), adj. Having members of one sex only.
u'ni·sex'u·al (-sĕk'shoō·ăl; -sĕks'ū·ăl), adj. [uni- + sexual.] Of one sex; as: a Restricted to one sex; not coeducational. b Bot. Diclinous. c Zool. Either male or female; not hermaphrodite. — u'ni·sex'u·al'i·ty (-ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — u'ni·sex'u·al·ly, adv.
u'ni·son (ū'nĭ·sŭn; -s'n; -zŭn; -z'n; 277), n. [F. unisson, fr. ML. unisonus having the same sound, fr. L. unus one + sonus a sound; cf. It. unisono. See ONE; SOUND noise.]
1. A tone identical in pitch with another or others; also, a tone from which intervals are reckoned. Now Rare.
2. Music. a Identity in pitch; the interval of a perfect prime, represented by the vibration ratio 1 : 1. b State of being so tuned or sounded. Parts played or sung in octaves are also loosely said to be in unison, esp. when in octaves between male and female voices, or between high-toned and low-toned instruments of the same class. A piece or passage is said to be sung or played in unison when all the voices or instruments perform the same part, as distinguished from performing in harmony. c A unison string.
3. A single unvaried tone. Rare. Pope.
4. a Harmony; agreement; concord; union. "Attuned to happy unison of soul." Thomson. b Now Rare. An instance or means of such agreement; a sympathetic response; an assent; as, unisons of overmastering thoughts.
u'ni·son (ū'nĭ·sŭn; see the noun), adj. 1. Obs. a Sounding together. b Concordant; consonant. c Equivalent.
2. Music. a Identical in pitch; unisonant; unisonous; as, unison singing; a unison passage. b Tuned to the same pitch; — said of a string, esp. any one of two or three piano strings (unison strings) which are struck by one hammer. c Having a pitch that corresponds with the notation; — said of organ stops, instruments, etc. See TRANSPOSING INSTRUMENT.
unison interval. See INTERVAL, n., 8.
‖u'ni·so'no (ōō'nē·sō'nō), adj. [It.] Music. In unison; — a direction, esp. in ensemble instrumental music.
u·nis'o·nous (ū·nĭs'ō·nŭs), adj. [ML. unisonus See UNISON.] 1. Being in unison; having the same degree of gravity or acuteness; sounded alike in pitch.
2. Alike in nature; concordant; agreeing.
u'ni·spark'er (ū'nĭ·spär'kĕr), n. [See UNI-; SPARK.] Mach. Part of an ignition system for internal-combustion engines, consisting of a contact breaker, governor, and distributor arranged as a unit.
u'ni·spi'ral (ū'nĭ·spī'răl), adj. [uni- + spiral.] Bot. Having a single coil, as the elaters in some liverworts.
u'ni·styl'ist (-stīl'ĭst), n. A person having but one style. u'nit. Var. of UNITE, n.
u'nit (ū'nĭt), n. [From UNITY.] 1. A distinct part or member analyzable in an aggregate or whole.
Each unit he dissevers by his art. H. More.
2. Any determinate amount or quantity (as of length, time, heat, value) adopted as a standard of measurement for other amounts or quantities of the same kind. See List of Units, below.
3. A substance used as a standard for measuring specific gravity.
4. A single thing or person, or a group regarded as an individual member of a number of groups; as, the units of a military force; a system of government which makes the township the unit.
5. That which contains or produces a unit; as, an electric power station of three units; one unit was idle.
6. One of the sections combined in assembling an article of manufacture, as a bookcase, kitchen cabinet, or compressor.
7. Biol., Immunol., etc. The amount of a drug, serum, antigen, or the like, required to produce a certain result under specified conditions; as, a clinical unit; specif., the quantity of such a drug, etc., required to produce a particular effect upon a particular animal or upon animal tissues (cf. BIOLOGICAL ASSAY); as, a rat unit of pituitary extract.
8. Educ. a A basic amount of work used in calculating credits, amounting in secondary schools to approximately 120 hours of classroom work in a completed course, and in higher education variously to a term, semester, or year hour. See HOUR, n., 11. b The credit secured by completing such an amount. See POINT, n., 19.
9. Math. a Arith. The least whole number; one. b A single thing, as a magnitude or number, regarded as an undivided whole. c Any integral element of an associative algebra possessing a modulus whose product by any other integral element is the modulus.
10. Mil. A military force, whether of personnel, animals, or material, having a prescribed organization. In the United States Army units vary in size from the squad to the army.
11. Type Founding. One eighteenth the width of the widest character in a font.
☞ In physics, units are: fundamental units, or those of mass, length, and time; and derived units, such as those of area, velocity, acceleration, etc., which are determined by reference to the fundamental ones. In electricity and magnetism, there are certain absolute units, and practical units derived from such of the former as are unsuitable for practical use.

LIST OF UNITS

PHYSICAL UNITS

A physical unit is a value or magnitude conventionally adopted as a unit or standard in physical measurement.
An absolute unit is one which has an unchanging value at all times and places.
An absolute system of units is one based on certain absolute units (specifically, the centimeter, gram, and second) arbitrarily taken as fundamental, and from which other units are derived.
A system is consistent when the units in it have such values that the formulae expressing physical laws are correct without proportionality factors; thus, force equals mass times acceleration. In physics the units generally taken as fundamental are the units of length, mass, and time; that is, L, M, and T. The centimeter-gram-second system, known as the C.G.S. system, is a consistent system based on the centimeter as the unit of length, the gram as the unit of mass, and the second as the unit of time. (See CENTIMETER; 2d GRAM; 1st SECOND, 1.)
The dimensions of a quantity in any system are found by expressing the quantity algebraically in terms of the fundamental units of that system; thus velocity is a length divided by a time, and in a length-mass-time system has the dimensions LT^{-1}.
The dimensions of a quantity indicate how its unit will be changed by any change in the fundamental units; thus, if the unit of length is changed from the centimeter to the meter, the unit of velocity is increased one hundred fold; if the unit of time is changed from the second to the minute, the unit of velocity is decreased as 1:60. Since quantities of like kind have the same dimensions, an equation containing physical quantities will be correct only when each term has the same dimensions.

MECHANICAL UNITS

The derived mechanical units of the C.G.S. system are as follows. The dimensions of the physical quantity are given in parentheses. — unit acceleration, $a = v \div T$. An acceleration of one centimeter per second per second (LT^{-2}). — unit angle, a = arc ÷ radius. An angle which subtends an arc equal to its radius. This unit is called a radian. Since an angle is a number expressing a ratio, independent of fundamental units, it has no dimensions. See RADIAN. — unit angular velocity, $\omega = a \div T$. An angular velocity of one radian per second (T^{-1}). — unit force, $F = M \times a$. A force which, acting for one second upon a mass of one gram, increases its velocity at the rate of one centimeter per second (LMT^{-2}); the C.G.S. unit of force is called a dyne. (In engineering mechanics force is

---

u'ni·phase, adj. [uni- + phase.] Elec. Single-phase. — u'ni·phas'er (-fāz'ĕr), n. [TENT.]
u'ni·po·ten'tial, adj. = UNIPOun'i·ra'ni·an, adj., un'i·ra'ni·ble, adj., un'i·ren'ic, adj., un'i·ri·des'cent, adj., un·ĭ'rish, adj., un·ĭ'rish·ly, adv., un·ĭ'roned, adj., un'i·ron'i·cal, adj., un'ir·ra'di·at'ed, adj., un·ir'ri·gat'ed, adj., un·ir'ri·ta·ble, adj., un·ir'ri·tant, adj., un·ĭr'ri·tat'ed, adj., un·ir'ri·tat'ed·ly, adv., un·ir'ri·tat'ing, adj., un·ĭ'so·la·ble, adj. See UN-, not.
un·ĭ'so·late, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·ĭ'so·lat'ed, adj., u·n'i·so·mer'ic, adj., un'i·so·met'ri·cal, adj., un'i·so·mor'phic, adj. See UN-, not.
u·nis'o·nal (ū·nĭs'ō·năl), adj. = UNISONOUS, 1. — u·nis'o·nal·ly, adv.
u·nis'o·nant (-nănt), adj. [uni- + sonant. See UNISON.] = UNISONOUS, 1. — u·nis'o·nance (-năns), n.
un'i·so·trop'ic, adj., un·is'u·a·ble, adj., un·is'ued, adj. See UN-, not.

N O P Q R S T U

commonly considered as a fundamental quantity and mass as a quantity which is derived according to the relation $M = F \div a$. unit mass is then defined as a mass which when acted on by unit force for one second has its velocity changed at the rate of one centimeter per second.) — unit kinetic energy, $W = \frac{1}{2} Mv^2$. The energy of a mass of one gram moving with a velocity of one centimeter per second (L^2MT^{-2}); the C.G.S. unit is called an erg. See ERG. — unit moment of inertia $M \times L$. The moment of inertia of one gram at a distance of one centimeter from the axis with reference to which the moment is computed (L^2M). — unit momentum, $M \times v$. The momentum of one gram moving with a velocity of one centimeter per second (LMT^{-1}). — unit power, $P = W \div T$. The power when work is done at the rate of one erg per second (L^2MT^{-3}). — unit pressure, $F \div S$. A pressure of one dyne per square centimeter ($L^{-1}MT^{-2}$). — unit surface $S = L \times L$. The area of a square centimeter (L^2). — unit torque or moment, $F \times L$. A torque or moment produced by a force of one dyne acting on a lever arm or radius of one centimeter (L^2MT^{-2}). See unit work, below. — unit velocity, $v = L \div T$. A velocity of one centimeter per second (LT^{-1}). — unit volume, $V = L \times L \times L$. The volume of a cubic centimeter (L^3). — unit work, $W = F \times L$. The work done by a force of one dyne acting through a distance of one centimeter (L^2MT^{-2}); the C.G.S. unit of work is called an erg. In expressing dimensions as above, no distinction is made between lengths in different directions, a distinction which should be made since a length has a vector character; thus work and moment are given the same dimensions L^2MT^{-2}, but in work the two lengths are in the same direction, while in moment they are at right angles to each other. The difference may be indicated by using L_x and L_y as symbols for dimensions of lengths at right angles; then the dimensions of work are L^2MT^{-2} and those of moment are $L_xL_yMT^{-2}$.

Magnetic and Electric Units

There are primarily two systems founded on the C.G.S. units of length, mass, and time. They are: (1) electromagnetic system, based on the force exerted between two magnetic poles and that exerted on a magnetic pole by an electric current; (2) electrostatic system, based upon the force exerted between two quantities of electricity. In addition there is the practical system, the units of which are multiples or submultiples of the units in the electromagnetic and electrostatic systems. The principal units of these systems are given below; dimensions and defining equations are given in Table I and Table II. — unit flux density. A unit flux of magnetic induction per unit area; one line of force or one maxwell per square centimeter. In air or a medium of permeability one (1), the magnetic induction is equal numerically to the intensity of the field and in such a medium the unit of flux density is the gauss. See GAUSS. — unit intensity of magnetic field (magnetic force or magnetizing force). An intensity which acts on unit pole with the force of one dyne; a magnetizing force produced by unit magnetomotive force (one gilbert) per centimeter; the C.G.S. unit is called a gauss. — unit intensity of magnetization. The intensity of magnetization of a magnet with unit magnetic moment per unit volume (see unit susceptibility, below). — unit magnetic flux. The flux produced by unit magnetomotive force through unit reluctance; one line of force; the C.G.S. unit is called a maxwell. See MAXWELL. — unit magnetic moment. The magnetic moment of two unlike unit poles at a distance apart of one centimeter. — unit magnetic pole. A pole which in a vacuum will repel with a force of one dyne another equal and like pole at a distance of one centimeter. — unit magnetomotive force (or magnetic potential). A magnetomotive force which will produce unit flux (one maxwell) through unit reluctance (one oersted); the magnetomotive force of $1 \div 4\pi$ C.G.S. units of current in one turn (0.7958 ampere turn); the C.G.S. unit is commonly called a gilbert, a name not yet authorized by any international electrical congress. See GILBERT. — unit permeability. The permeability of a nonmagnetic material (as air) in which a unit flux density is produced by unit magnetizing force. — unit reluctance. The reluctance of a cubic centimeter of a material with unit permeability; a reluctance in which unit magnetomotive force produces unit magnetic flux; the C.G.S. unit is commonly called an oersted, a name not yet authorized by any international electrical congress. See OERSTED. — unit reluctivity. The reluctivity of a material with unit permeability. — unit susceptibility. The susceptibility of a substance which has unit intensity of magnetization. The usage, common in early writing, of stating magnetic properties in terms of susceptibility and intensity of magnetization, has been largely abandoned. With the development of electrical engineering, it has become more usual to express such properties in terms of permeability and flux density.

Electromagnetic Units

unit capacity. A capacity which is charged to unit potential by unit quantity. — unit current. A steady current which in passing through a conducting wire bent in the form of a circle of one centimeter radius will produce a magnetic field whose intensity at the center of the circle is 2π gausses. — unit electromotive force. The electromotive force generated in a closed conducting loop by a variation of one maxwell per second in the magnetic flux through the loop. This is also the unit of difference of potential. — unit energy. The energy expended in a circuit in which an unvarying unit electromotive force causes an unvarying unit current to flow for one second; the C.G.S. unit is called an erg. — unit inductance. An inductance such that unit electromotive force is induced by a current varying at the rate of one unit per second. — unit magnetic pole. A magnetic pole which will repel an equal and like pole at a distance of one centimeter in a vacuum with a force of one dyne. A unit magnetic pole sends out 4π lines of magnetic flux. — unit magnetic tube of force. A magnetic force whose cross-sectional area, at right angles to the lines of force and at a point where the magnetic field is unity, is one square centimeter. From Coulomb's law, it follows that: (1) the magnetic force at any point is equal to the number of unit tubes per square centimeter of an area at right angles to the lines of force; and (2) the product of the magnetic force and the area of a tube at right angles to the lines of force is constant throughout the length of the tube. — unit power. The power corresponding to an expenditure of unit energy per second. — unit quantity. The quantity conveyed by unit current in one second. — unit resistance. A resistance through which unit electromotive force will cause unit current to flow.

Electrostatic Units

unit capacity. A capacity charged to unit potential by unit quantity, in a medium whose dielectric constant is one (1). A sphere one centimeter in radius has unit capacity. — unit charge. = unit quantity, below. — unit current. A current conveying unit quantity in unit time (1 second). — unit dielectric constant. That of a standard medium to which the number one is arbitrarily assigned. On the C.G.S. system, this is a vacuum. — unit difference of potential. A difference requiring expenditure of an erg of work to move a unit quantity from one point to another. This is also the unit of electromotive force. — unit electrostatic flux. A unit tube of electrostatic flux. — unit electrostatic tube of force, or unit tube of electric force. An electrostatic tube of force whose cross-sectional area, at right angles to the lines of force and at a point where the electrostatic field is unity, is one square centimeter. From Coulomb's law, it follows that: (1) the electric field strength at any point equals the number of unit tubes per square centimeter of an area at right angles to the lines of force; and (2) the product of the electric force and the area of a tube at right angles to the lines of force is constant throughout the length of the tube. — unit intensity of field. The intensity of a field in which unit quantity is acted on by unit force. — unit quantity. A quantity which in a medium of unit dielectric constant repels with a force of one dyne another equal and like quantity at a distance of one centimeter. It is equal to $\frac{10^{10}}{4.77}$ electrons and sends out 4π lines of electrostatic flux. — unit resistance. A resistance between the ends of which there will be unit difference of potential. ☞ Also, see 2d AB-.

Practical Units

The units of the practical system are multiples of the C.G.S. units, established for convenience in practical use by the International Electrical Congress of 1881 (and later), and so related as to form a consistent system (see above, under Physical Units); the ohm and the ampere were the practical units first established, the volt and other practical units being defined in terms of these two; and for definiteness the system might be designated the ohm-ampere system. Electrical formulae are correct when units of any one system are used consistently throughout: thus, Ohm's law (current = electromotive force ÷ resistance), which is true in C.G.S. electromagnetic or electrostatic units, is also true in practical units, — the values of current, electromotive force, and resistance, being expressed in amperes, volts, and ohms, — but it would not be true if, for example, the value of resistance were given in megohms. (Practical unit is often, less properly, used for any unit practically used, whether a unit of the practical system or not. By this usage, a megohm would be called a practical unit.)

The fundamental units on which the practical system is based are 10^9 centimeters as unit of length, 10^{-11} grams as unit of mass, and the second as unit of time.

The only units of the practical system which have names and are used are given below; for other quantities the units of the C.G.S. system are more convenient.

1 ampere = 10^{-1} C.G.S. electromagnetic units of current.
= $10^{-1} \times (3 \times 10^{10}) = 3 \times 10^9$ C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 coulomb = 10^{-1} C.G.S. electromagnetic units of quantity.
= $10^{-1} \times (3 \times 10^{10}) = 3 \times 10^9$ C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 farad = 10^{-9} C.G.S. electromagnetic units of capacity.
= $10^{-9} \times (9 \times 10^{20}) = 9 \times 10^{11}$ C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 henry = 10^9 C.G.S. electromagnetic units of inductance.
= $10^9 \div (9 \times 10^{20}) = \frac{1}{9} \times 10^{-11}$ C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 joule = 10^7 C.G.S. electromagnetic units of energy.
= 10^7 C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 ohm = 10^9 C.G.S. electromagnetic units of resistance.
= $10^9 \div (9 \times 10^{20}) = \frac{1}{9} \times 10^{-11}$ C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 volt = 10^8 C.G.S. electromagnetic units of potential.
= $10^8 \div (3 \times 10^{10}) = \frac{1}{300}$ C.G.S. electrostatic units.
1 watt = 10^7 C.G.S. electromagnetic units of power.
= 10^7 C.G.S. electrostatic units.

Magnetic units of the practical system are not used. The International Electrical Congress of 1900 gave the name maxwell to the C.G.S. (electromagnetic) unit of magnetic flux and the name gauss to the C.G.S. unit of intensity of magnetic field. The C.G.S. unit of reluctance is commonly called oersted; the C.G.S. unit of magnetomotive force, gilbert. See GAUSS, GILBERT, OERSTED, MAXWELL.

Miscellaneous Units

units of light and illumination. See CANDLE POWER, BOUGIE DECIMALE, HEFNER CANDLE, LUMEN, LUX, FOOT-CANDLE. — units of heat, thermal units. See CALORIE, BRITISH THERMAL UNIT. — Board of Trade unit (B.O.T. unit, B.T.U., or simply a unit), or unit of electricity. A name used in England for one kilowatt-hour. — rational units. A system of magnetic and electrical units, first suggested by O. Heaviside, in which the number 4π, instead of one, is assigned the dielectric constant and the permeability of a vacuum.

TABLE I: MAGNETIC UNITS*

Name of Quantity	Symbol and Equation	Dimensions: Electromagnetic	Dimensions: Electrostatic
Pole strength[a]	$m = \sqrt{FL^2\mu}$	$L^{3/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}k^{-1/2}$
Magnetic moment[b]	$\mathfrak{M} = mL$	$L^{5/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{3/2}M^{1/2}k^{-1/2}$
Intensity of magnetization[a]	$\mathfrak{I} = \frac{\mathfrak{M}}{V}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{-3/2}M^{1/2}k^{-1/2}$
Field intensity or magnetizing force[b]	$\mathfrak{H} = \frac{F}{m}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-2}k^{1/2}$
Susceptibility[c]	$\kappa = \frac{\mathfrak{I}}{\mathfrak{H}}$	μ	$L^{-2}T^2k^{-1}$
Permeability[c]	$\mu \begin{cases} = \frac{m^2}{FL^2} = \frac{\mathfrak{B}}{\mathfrak{H}} \\ = 1 + 4\pi\kappa \end{cases}$	μ	$L^{-2}T^2k^{-1}$
Reluctivity[d]	$\nu = \frac{1}{\mu}$	μ^{-1}	$L^2T^{-2}k$
Reluctance[d]	$\mathfrak{R} = \frac{L}{S\mu}$	$L^{-1}\mu^{-1}$	$LT^{-2}k$
Magnetic flux[e]	$\phi = \mu\mathfrak{H}S$	$L^{3/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}k^{-1/2}$
Flux density[e]	$\mathfrak{B} = \frac{\phi}{S} = \mu\mathfrak{H}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{-3/2}M^{1/2}k^{-1/2}$
Magnetomotive force[b]	$\mathfrak{F} \begin{cases} = \phi\mathfrak{R} \\ = 4\pi N \dagger I \\ = \mathfrak{H}L \end{cases}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{5/2}M^{1/2}T^{-2}k^{1/2}$

* For magnetic quantities, the C.G.S. electromagnetic units are universal; the use of electrostatic units is rare (see note  following Table II). There are no magnetic units in the practical system.
† N = number of turns.

TABLE II: ELECTRIC UNITS

Name of Quantity	Symbol and Equation	Dimensions: Electromagnetic	Dimensions: Electrostatic
Electromotive force[a]	$E = \frac{\phi}{T}$	$L^{3/2}M^{1/2}T^{-2}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}k^{-1/2}$
Current[b]	$I = \frac{Q}{T} = \frac{E}{R}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{3/2}M^{1/2}T^{-2}k^{1/2}$
Resistance	$R = \frac{E}{I}$	$LT^{-1}\mu$	$L^{-1}Tk^{-1}$
Quantity[b]	$Q \begin{cases} = \sqrt{FL^2k} \\ = IT \end{cases}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{3/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}k^{1/2}$
Capacity[d]	$C = \frac{Q}{E}$	$L^{-1}T^2\mu^{-1}$	Lk
Inductance[c]	$L = E\frac{T}{I} = \frac{\phi}{I}$	$L\mu$	$L^{-1}T^2k^{-1}$
Capacitive reactance[c]	$X_C = \frac{1}{2\pi fC}$	$LT^{-1}\mu$	$L^{-1}T^2k^{-1}$
Inductive reactance[c]	$X_L = 2\pi fL$	$LT^{-1}\mu$	$L^{-1}Tk^{-1}$
Electric work or energy[f]	$W = EIT$	L^2MT^{-2}	L^2MT^{-2}
Electric power[g]	$P = EI$	L^2MT^{-3}	L^2MT^{-3}
Intensity of electric field (electric force)[e]	$e = \frac{F}{Q} = \frac{E}{L}$	$L^{1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-2}\mu^{1/2}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}k^{1/2}$
Surface density[b]	$\sigma = \frac{Q}{S}$	$L^{-3/2}M^{1/2}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}k^{1/2}$
Current density[b]	$\frac{I}{S}$	$L^{-3/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-2}k^{1/2}$
Conductance	$G = \frac{1}{R}$	$L^{-1}T\mu^{-1}$	$LT^{-1}k$
Resistivity (specific resistance)[e]	$\rho = \frac{S}{L}R$	$L^2T^{-1}\mu$	Tk^{-1}
Conductivity (specific conductance)[d]	$\gamma = \frac{1}{\rho}$	$L^{-2}T^{-1}\mu$	$T^{-1}k$
Dielectric constant[d]	$k = \frac{Q^2}{FL^2}$	$L^{-2}T^3\mu^{-1}$	k
Displacement[b]	$D = \frac{k}{4\pi}e$	$L^{-3/2}M^{1/2}\mu^{-1/2}$	$L^{-1/2}M^{1/2}T^{-1}k^{1/2}$

 The dimensions of μ and of k are not known, but the product μk is known to have the dimensions of the reciprocal of the square of a velocity, $L^{-2}T^2$. Commonly μ and k are suppressed from the dimensional formulae, it being assumed in the electromagnetic system that μ is a number without dimensions and that k has accordingly the dimensions $L^{-2}T^2$, and in the electrostatic system that k is a number without dimensions and that μ has the dimensions $L^{-2}T^2$. The velocity appearing in the ratio between the electrostatic and electromagnetic units has been found to be approximately 3×10^{10}, the velocity of light.

[a] The C.G.S. electrostatic unit is equal to the C.G.S. electromagnetic unit multiplied by 3×10^{10}. The electrostatic dimensions are equal to the electromagnetic dimensions multiplied by $L^{-1}T\mu^{-1/2}k^{-1/2}$.

[b] The C.G.S. electrostatic unit is equal to the C.G.S. electromagnetic unit divided by 3×10^{10}. The electrostatic dimensions are equal to the electromagnetic dimensions multiplied by $LT^{-1}\mu^{1/2}k^{1/2}$.

[c] The C.G.S. electrostatic unit is equal to the C.G.S. electromagnetic unit multiplied by 9×10^{20}. The electrostatic dimensions are equal to the electromagnetic dimensions multiplied by $L^{-2}T^2\mu^{-1}k^{-1}$.

[d] The C.G.S. electrostatic unit is equal to the C.G.S. electromagnetic unit divided by 9×10^{20}. The electrostatic dimensions are equal to the electromagnetic dimensions multiplied by $L^2T^{-2}\mu k$.

[e] The C.G.S. electrostatic unit equals the C.G.S. electromagnetic unit. Electrostatic and electromagnetic dimensions are alike.

† f = frequency.

u'nit (ū'nĭt), adj. Of, pertaining to, forming, or caused by a unit; unitary; individual.

u·nit'a·ble (ū·nīt'ȧ·b'l), adj. Also u·nite'a·ble. Capable of union, by growth or otherwise; that can be joined together. — u·nit'a·bil'i·ty, u·nite'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — u·nit'a·bly, u·nite'a·bly, adv.

u'nit·al (ū'nĭ·tăl), adj. = UNITARY.

un'-I·tal'ian, adj., un'-I·tal'ian·ate, adj., un'i·tal'i·cized, adj. See UN-, not.

U'ni·tar'i·an (ū'nĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn; 79), n. [Cf. F. unitarien, NL. unitarius. See UNITARY, UNITY.] 1. Theol. & Eccl. One who denies the doctrine of the Trinity, believing that God exists only in one person; a unipersonalist; also, one of a denomination of Christians holding this belief. The churches of the Unitarian denomination are congregational in polity, except in Hungary where they are organized under a bishop. They have never issued any authoritative confession of faith, one of their most distinctive principles being the right of private judgment in theological matters. They formerly differed widely among themselves, the conservatives holding a belief in supernaturalism and in various doctrines modified from those of the orthodox Trinitarian bodies; the radical school rejected supernaturalism. Later there came to be virtual unity on the broad basis of the doctrines of "the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, the leadership of Jesus, salvation by character, and the progress of mankind onward and upward forever" but the denomination now includes in its ministry as well as its membership a number of nontheistic humanists. See HUMANISM, 4. Unitarian views are held by the Hicksite Friends, by many Universalists, and some others. See PRESBYTERIAN, adj.
2. A monotheist, esp. a Mohammedan.
3. [not cap.] a One who rejects the principle of dualism: a monist. b An advocate of unity or a unitary system: specif., one who advocates centralization in government. c Drama. An observer of the dramatic unities.

u'ni·tar'i·an (ū'nĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. 1. Unitary.
2. [cap.] Of or pertaining to Unitarians or their doctrines.
3. Philos. Monistic.
4. Polit. Sci. Designating, pertaining to, or advocating, a form of government in which the general governmental powers are vested in one sovereign body; — opposed to federal; as, a unitarian constitution.
In a unitarian or consolidated constitution, like that of Great Britain, organic changes may be effected with greater facility and safety than in a federal constitution such as that of the United States. Quick & Garran.

U'ni·tar'i·an·ism (-Yz'm), n. [Cf. F. unitarianisme.]
1. The doctrines of Unitarians.
2. [sometimes not cap.] Any unitarian or unitary system, as of government.

U'ni·tar'i·an·ize (-Iz), v. t. & i. To make or become Unitarian.

u'ni·ta·rism (ū'nĭ·tə·rĭz'm), n. A unitary theory or system. — u'ni·ta·rist, n. & adj.

u'ni·tar'y (ū'nĭ·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [Cf. F. unitaire, NL. unitarius. See UNIT, UNITY.] 1. Of or pertaining to a unit or units; relating to, based upon, or characterized by, unity; as, the unitary method in arithmetic; a unitary or monistic tendency.
2. Having the character of a unit; not divided; integrated; as, a unitary government; a unitary action.
3. Composed of, or in part composing, a unit.
4. Serving as a unit (sense 2).
— u'ni·tar'i·ly, adv. — u'ni·tar'i·ness, n.

unitary colors. The psychological primaries.

unitary field theory. The unified field theory.

unitary linear transformation. Math. A homogeneous linear transformation of n variables whose matrix is unitary.

unitary theory. Chem. The modern theory which regards molecules as units whose parts are bound together in definite structure, with mutual and reciprocal influence on each other. Cf. DUALISTIC SYSTEM.

‖U'ni·tas Fra'trum (ū'nĭ·tăs frā'trŭm). [L.] Eccl. Hist. Literally, Unity of Brethren; — the official Latin title of the Moravian Church. See BOHEMIAN BRETHREN.

u'ni·ta'tion (ū'nĭ·tā'shŭn), n. [unit + -ation.] Uniting; a joining or junction. Obs.

unit banking. Banking. Banking carried on by individual banks without branches or corporate relationships with other banks. Cf. CHAIN BANKING, BRANCH BANKING.

unit character. Biol. A trait inherited singly in accord with Mendel's law; a Mendelian character.

unit cost. a The cost of a single item. b The total cost over a period of time, divided by the number of items produced.

u·nite' (ū·nīt'), v.; U·NIT'ED (-nīt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); U·NIT'ING (-nīt'ĭng). [L. unitus, past part. of unire to unite, fr. unus one. See ONE.] Transitive: 1. To put together so as to make one; to join, as two or more constituents, to form a single whole; to combine; connect; to cause to adhere; as, to unite bricks by mortar; to unite bars by welding; to unite two armies.
2. To join by a legal or moral bond, as families by intermarriage, nations by treaty, men by opinions; to join in interest, affection, fellowship, or the like.
3. To incorporate; amalgamate; consolidate.
4. To have in union or combination, as qualities or traits.
— Intransitive: 1. To become one or as one; to become cemented or consolidated or incorporated together; to combine, as by adhesion or mixture; to coalesce; to grow together.
2. To join in an act; to act in concert; as, all parties united in signing the petition.
3. To enter into an association, as of alliance or marriage, or a group formed for some purpose in common.
Syn. — Consolidate, amalgamate, fuse. See JOIN.
Ant. — Separate, divide, disunite, scatter.

u'nite (ū'nīt; ū·nīt'), n. An English gold coin first issued by James I, which was current at 20 shillings; — so called in reference to the union of England and Scotland. A variety on which the monarch's head is crowned with laurel was called a laurel.

u·nite' (ū·nīt'), adj. [L. unitus, past part. See UNITE, v.] United; joint. — u·nite'ly, adv. — u·nite'ness, n. All Obs.

u·nite'a·ble (-ə·b'l). Var. of UNITABLE.

u·nit'ed (ū·nīt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Combined; joined; made one.
2. Conjoint; pertaining to or produced by joint action; as, their united consent.
3. Formed by, or resulting from, union.
4. In agreement; harmonious; as, a united family.
— u·nit'ed·ly, adv. — u·nit'ed·ness, n.

United American Freewill Baptists. See BAPTIST, n., 2, Table.

United Armenians. Uniat Armenians. See UNIAT.

United Baptists. Eccl. See BAPTIST, n., 2, Table.

United Brethren in Christ. Eccl. An evangelical denomination resembling the Methodists in doctrine and polity, founded by Philip William Otterbein and Martin Boehm in Frederick County, Maryland, in 1800. It is now divided into the United Brethren in Christ and the United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution), differing as to the constitutionality of the act of the General Conference of 1885 creating a commission to revise the confession of faith and the constitution.
The United Brethren in Christ are sometimes confounded with the Unitas Fratrum or Moravian Brethren. H. K. Carroll.

United Christian Church. An offshoot (about 1864) from the United Brethren in Christ.

United Church of Canada. A church formed by the union of the Methodists, Congregationalists, and a majority of the Presbyterians, of Canada in 1925.

United Colonies. U. S. Hist. a The four colonies that formed the New England Confederation (which see). b Sometimes, the thirteen original colonies that after the Revolution became the United States of America.

United Communist Party. The official Communist organization in the United States, formed in 1920 by a merger of small groups. It is outlawed by the government and its alien members are subject to deportation.

United Danish Lutheran Church. A church of the American Lutheran Conference. See LUTHERAN, n.

United Evangelical Church. A religious sect which separated in 1891 from the Evangelical Association (which see), but was reunited with the parent body in 1922 under the name of the Evangelical Church. See also EVANGELICAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

United Farmer party, or United Farmers. Politics. A political party in Canada, esp. in the central West, advocating free trade, public ownership of public utilities, proportional representation, etc.

United Free Church of Scotland. See PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

United Greek. Eccl. A Uniat.

united inches. The sum in inches of the two larger dimensions, as the width and height of a light of glass.

United Irishmen, Society of. A society formed in Ireland in 1791 by Theobald Wolfe Tone, aiming to unite Protestants and Roman Catholics for the purpose of securing a repeal of the penal laws, an extension of the suffrage, etc. It failed of its object and was proclaimed illegal. About 1795 it was reorganized as a secret society with the avowed aim of separating Ireland from the British empire and was influential in bringing about the rebellion of 1798.

United Kingdom, the. Great Britain and Ireland; — so called from January 1, 1801, when the Legislative Union went into operation, to 1922, when, after the establishment of the Irish Free State, the remaining portion was officially called the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. By act of Parliament, 1927, the words "United Kingdom" were omitted from the title of the king.

United Labor party. U. S. Hist. A political party organized in 1886 representing independent labor, advocating esp. the single tax. In 1888 it nominated a national ticket.

United Lutheran Church in America. See LUTHERAN, n.

United Methodist Church, United Methodist Free Church. See METHODIST, n., 2.

United Original Seceders, Synod of. See PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

United Presbyterian Church. See PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

United Press. An association of newspapers for the collection and distribution of news. U. S.

United Provinces. The seven provinces, Holland, Zeeland, Utrecht, Friesland, Groningen, Overijssel, and Gelderland, which formed a union under the treaty of Utrecht in 1579, that led to the Dutch republic, or the Netherlands.

United Secession (Church). See PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

United Society of Believers. The Shakers (see SHAKER, 3); — a name used by themselves.

United Society of Christian Endeavor. See CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR, YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF.

United Spanish War Veterans. A patriotic and fraternal order, founded in 1904 and consisting of veterans of the foreign wars of the United States between Apr. 21, 1898 and July 4, 1902 (Spanish-American War, insurrection in the Philippines, and Boxer uprising).

united states. a A federation of states, esp. [caps.] one forming a nation in some (specified) territory; specif.: (1) The United Provinces. (2) The United States of America. Construed as sing. when considered as a nation and as pl. when regarded collectively. b [cap.] English as spoken and written distinctively in the United States of America.
— U·nit'ed–States'i·an (ū·nīt'ĕd·stāts'ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

United States Army. The united land force of the United States of America. See ARMY ORGANIZATION.

United States Christian Commission. An organization in the North, during the American Civil War, which supplied material comforts, reading matter, etc., to the Union soldiers, and performed services of a religious character in the field and in hospitals.

United States Code. See 1st CODE, 2.

U·nit'ed–States'–man, n. A native or citizen of the United States.

United States Military Academy. Mil. A unit in the system of military education to which young men are appointed with the rank of cadet, and at which they are given a comprehensive and general education of collegiate grade, and sufficient basic military training to enable them to enter upon the duties of second lieutenants in the Army. It is located at West Point, N. Y. See CORPS OF CADETS.

United States Navy. The complete organization of the United States for naval warfare.

United States note. One of the legal-tender obligations of the United States commonly called greenback. Official Name.

United States rifle, Model of 1903. Mil. The official designation of the .30 caliber rifle adopted for use by the United States Army. It is a breechloading, magazine rifle of the bolt type, weighing 8.69 pounds, and having a barrel 24.006 inches long. Called also Springfield rifle.

United States standard thread. Mach. American National coarse thread. See SCREW THREAD.

United States value. Com. The value of imported merchandise obtained by deducting from its value in United States wholesale markets certain enumerated expenses of importation. U. S. Customs.

United States Weather Bureau. = WEATHER BUREAU.

United Synagogue. An organization of British Jews, with spiritual jurisdiction over congregations in the British Empire.

United Synod in the South. See LUTHERAN.

United Zion's Children. See RIVER BRETHREN.

un·i'tem·ized (ŭn·ī'tĕm·īzd), adj. Not itemized.

u·nit'er (ū·nīt'ĕr), n. One who or that which unites.

unit factor. Biol. A gene, or factor, responsible for the inheritance of a unit character.

unit fraction. Math. A fraction whose numerator is unity, the denominator being an integer.

u·nit'ing (-ĭng), adj. That unites. — u·nit'ing·ly, adv.

u·ni'tion (ū·nĭsh'ŭn), n. [ML. unitio, fr. L. unire. See UNITE, v.] Act of uniting; state of being united; junction.

u'nit·ism (ū'nĭt·īz'm), n. Monism.

u'nit·is'tic (-īs'tĭk), adj. Favoring a unitary theory.

u'ni·tive (ū'nĭ·tĭv), adj. [ML. unitivus; cf. F. unitif.] Characterized by, or tending to produce, union. — u'ni·tive·ly, adv. — u'ni·tive·ness, n.

unitive way. = 2d UNION, 2 b; — called also unitive life.

u'nit·ize (ū'nĭt·īz), v. t. To unify.

unit line. a Geom. The line whose equation in homogeneous co-ordinates of points in a plane is $x_1 + x_2 + x_3 = 0$. b Physics. See LINE OF FORCE.

unit lock. A lock set whose parts are permanently combined and which can be applied to a door as a single unit.

unit matrix. Math. See MATRIX, 11.

unit of account. A monetary unit or measure of value, usually a coin, in terms of which accounts are kept and values stated; — called also pecuniary unit.

unit of value. a The amount of some one thing taken as a standard by comparison with which to reckon the value of other things. b More properly unit of assessment. The unit of length, surface, capacity, or weight, which an assessor uses in calculations of taxes or values.

unit of work. Physics. The amount of work done by a unit force acting through a unit distance, or the amount required to lift a unit weight through a unit distance against gravitation. See ERG, FOOT-POUND, KILOGRAM-METER.

u'ni·tooth' (ū'nĭ·tōōth'), adj. Elec. Having one slot per pole per phase.

unit organ. An organ with comparatively few sets of pipes which, by the use of duplexing (or borrowing) and unification, are made available by means of different stop names on all manuals and at various pitches.

unit plane. Geom. The plane whose equation in homogeneous space co-ordinates is $x_1 + x_2 + x_3 + x_4 = 0$.

unit point. Geom. The point all of whose homogeneous co-ordinates, in a plane or in space, are equal.

unit price. Com. a A price for an individual size and kind of merchandise. b A separate price on each unit of merchandise in a shipment.

unit prism. See PRISM, 4.

unit pyramid. See PYRAMID, 4 u'ni·tri·va'lent (ū'nĭ·trī·vā'lĕnt; -trĭv'ə·lĕnt), adj. [See UNI-.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating an electrolyte that dissociates into three univalent ions and one trivalent ion, as Na_3PO_4.

u'ni·trope (ū'nĭ·trōp), n. [uni- + -trope.] Math. A singular plane of a surface, regarded as an envelope of planes, in which the conic locus of points of contact degenerates into two coincident points; the dual singularity to a uniplanar point.

unit rule. U. S. Politics. The rule, adopted by some delegations, that the entire vote of the delegation shall be cast as a unit as determined by a majority vote. In national conventions it applies only to the Democratic party.

u'nit–set', adj. Print. Having a width that is a multiple of one eighteenth of an em; — said of type cast in a monotype machine. Cf. POINT-SET.

unit solid angle. A steradian.

unit stress. The amount of force per unit of area of surface over which the stress is distributed.

unit switch. Elec. See SWITCH, n., 5.

unit tare. Com. a A tare allowance expressed as a certain amount per package or other packing unit. b A tare expressed as a certain weight per package or case.

u'ni·tude (ū'nĭ·tūd), n. Unity; oneness. Rare.

unit vector. Math. A vector whose representative line segment is of unit length.

unit watermark. Philately. See WATERMARK, 2.

u'ni·ty (ū'nĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ME. unitee, unite, fr. OF. unité, fr. L. unitas, fr. unus one. See ONE; cf. UNIT.] 1. State of being one; oneness; singleness.
Whatever we can consider as one thing suggests to the understanding the idea of unity. Locke.
2. Concord; harmony; conjunction; agreement; accord; uniformity; as, a unity of sentiment, proofs, doctrine.
Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! Ps. cxxxiii. 1.
3. A uniting or being united into one body; unification; hence [cap.], a body formed by union.
4. a Quality or fact of constituting a whole. b A totality of related parts; a complex or systematic whole. Cf. ORGANIC UNITY.
Sentient both in unity and part. Shelley.
5. A thing that is or seems complete in itself.
6. Continuity without deviation or change, as in purpose or action; absence of diversity.
7. In literary and art criticism, a combination or ordering of parts such as to constitute a whole, or promote an undivided total effect; the reference of the elements of a composition to a single main idea or point of view; also, conformity to this principle, or the singleness of effect or symmetry and consistency of style and character secured.
8. Drama. Any of the three principles (unities of place, time, and action) governing the structure of drama derived by writers of the French classical school from Aristotle's Poetics. As rigidly formulated they required that the action of a play be represented as occurring in one place, within one day, and with nothing irrelevant to the plot.
9. Law. Any of the peculiar characteristics of any estate held by several in joint tenancy. They are fourfold: unity of interest, unity of title, unity of time, and unity of possession; in other words, joint tenants have one and the same interest, accruing by one and the same conveyance, commencing at the same time, and held by one and the same undivided possession. Unity of possession is also a joint possession of two rights in the same thing by several titles, as when a man, having a lease of land, afterward buys the fee simple, or, having an easement in the land of another, buys the servient estate.
10. Math. a Any definite quantity, or aggregate of quantities or magnitudes, taken as one, or for which 1 is made to stand in calculation; thus, in a table of natural sines, the radius of the circle is regarded as unity. b That multiplier in any system multiplication by which leaves the multiplicand unchanged. It is not the same as unit, which enters into addition. In any system there may be many units, as 1 and i in complex numbers, yet only one if any unity. But the unit 1, when it is not applied to any particular thing, is generally called unity. c Obs. A unit.
Syn. — See UNION. Ant. — Diversity, disparity, discord.
— at unity. At one; in harmony.

unity in variety. The principle that aesthetic value, or beauty in art, depends on the fusion of a variety of elements into an organic whole which produces a single impression.

Unity of Brethren. See UNITAS FRATRUM.

unity of God. The doctrine that the distinctions, as of person or attribute, in the divine nature do not preclude substantial unity.

unity stress. Phonet. Accent that unites the meanings of words, as of up and on in upon.

u'ni–u'ni·va'lent (ū'nĭ·ū'nĭ·vā'lĕnt; -ū·nĭv'ə·lĕnt), adj. [See UNI-.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating an electrolyte that dissociates into two univalent ions, as sodium chloride, NaCl.

u'ni·va'lent (ū'nĭ·vā'lĕnt; ū·nĭv'ə·lĕnt), adj. [uni- + L. valens, -entis, pres. part. See VALENCE.] 1. Biol. Single; — said esp. of a chromosome which fails to unite with, or lacks, a synaptic mate.
2. Chem. Also u'ni·val'id (ū'nĭ·văl'ĭd). Having a valence of one.
— u'ni·va'lence (-lĕns), u'ni·va'len·cy (-lĕn·sĭ), n.

u'ni·va'lent, n. Biol. A univalent chromosome.

u'ni·valve' (ū'nĭ·vălv'), adj. Also u'ni·valved' (-vălvd'). Zool. & Bot. Having one valve only; as, a univalve shell.

u'ni·valve', n. [uni- + valve.] Zool. A mollusk shell consisting of one piece; also, any mollusk with a univalve shell; specif., any gastropod. Cf. BIVALVE, n.

u'ni·var'i·ant (ū'nĭ·vâr'ĭ·ănt; 79), adj. [uni- + variant.] Physical. Chem. Having one degree of freedom; — said of systems. See PHASE RULE.

u'ni·ver'sal (ū'nĭ·vûr'săl; -s'l), adj. [OF. universal, universel (F. universel), fr. L. universalis. See UNIVERSE.] 1. Including or covering the whole or all, either collectively or distributively; unlimited; general; all-pervading; as, universal ruin, suffrage, benevolence, anger.
2. Of or pertaining to the universe; present everywhere or in all. "Universal as the air." S. Rogers.
3. Constituting, or considered as, a whole; total; entire; whole; as, the universal world.
4. Versed or interested in, or embracing, a wide range of subjects, pursuits, etc.; as, a universal genius.
5. Issuing from all persons or all of a (specified) group; as, the universal voice of mankind.
6 Used or for use among all, esp. all peoples; as, a universal language.
7. Obs. a Constituting the total; — with pl. nouns. b Constant; continual.
8. Logic. General; generic; relatively unrestricted in application; specif.: a Having the character of a proposition which affirms or denies something of every member of a class; — opposed to particular. "All men are animals" is a universal affirmative, and "No man is omniscient" is a universal negative. b Having the character of a general term or one denoting any member of a class; thus, "Man" is universal but "John Smith" is singular. c Common, as a property, quality, or character, to all members of a genus or logical classification; also, having the character of what is so named; abstract; as, color is a universal attribute of visible objects. See UNIVERSAL, n., 4 c.

9. Mach. & Elec. Adapted or adaptable to all or to various uses, shapes, sizes, etc.; as, a universal bevel, bevel protractor, bridge (for electrical measurements), drafting machine (replacing the T square and various instruments on the drawing board), driving shaft, gear cutter, grinder, milling machine, ratchet, (tilting) table (for machine tools), turner, switch, vise, plane, etc.

10. Roman & Civil Law. Of or pertaining to the totality of a person's rights and liabilities; as, a universal partnership. Cf. UNIVERSAL SUCCESSION.

Syn. — All, whole, total; local. See GENERAL.

Ant. — Particular, limited, restricted.

u'ni·ver'sal (ū'nĭ·vûr'săl; -s'l), n. 1. The entirety of something (specified); — with the.

2. One who or that which is universal, esp. in power, currency, interest, or scope.

3. Obs. a The universe. b An item of general news. c A remedy affecting the entire system.

4. Logic. a A universal proposition (see UNIVERSAL, adj., 8 a). b One of the five predicables, namely genus, species, difference, property, accident, named collectively the universals. c A general concept or that in reality to which it corresponds; an abstract and general term or what such a term denotes; an abstraction; the essence of some logical genus. One of the perennial problems of logic and philosophy concerns the reality of universals and the relation of universal to particular. Logical realists, such as Plato, maintain that universals are real in their own right, independently of the particulars subsumed under them; nominalists hold all reality to consist of concrete particulars, and the universal to be a mere word denoting ambiguously some one or another particular; conceptualists hold the intermediate position that universals do not have independent reality but that universal concepts comprehend a genuinely common quality of the denoted particulars.

5. Metaph. Any metaphysical being which preserves or evinces an identity of nature through a series of changes or as embodying different relations, as the ego or self. Cf. CONCRETE UNIVERSAL.

Self-consciousness, wherein the universal, or self, is the organic total of the facts of consciousness. Josiah Royce.

u'ni·ver'sal, adv. Universally.

universal affirmative. Logic. See UNIVERSAL, adj., 8 a; MODE, 5 a, first figure.

universal agent. One to whom has been delegated powers to act for the principal in all matters that can be delegated; a general agent (see AGENT, n., 5).

universal algebra. See ALGEBRA, 2.

Universal Bishop. A title assumed by Pope Boniface III (Feb. 15–Nov. 12, 606).

universal calling. The divine summons to all men to repent and accept the gospel. See EFFECTUAL CALLING.

universal cause. The ultimate or all-comprehensive cause (Urgrund); first cause; in theological conceptions, God.

universal chuck. See 6th CHUCK, 5.

universal church. The church universal.

universal compass. See COMPASS, n., 7.

universal conversion. Logic. Conversion of a proposition into a universal proposition.

universal council. See COUNCIL, n., 2 a. universal coupling. A universal joint.

universal dial. A sundial with an adjustable gnomon, by which the hour may be found in any part of the world, or under any elevation of the pole.

Universal Doctor. [L. Doctor Universalis.] a Albertus Magnus (1193?–1280). b Thomas Aquinas (1225?–74?). c Alain de Lille (1114–1203?).

universal donor. Med. & Physiol. In blood transfusion, a donor whose red blood corpuscles are not agglutinated by the blood serum of any other person.

universal form. Theory of Numbers. A form capable of representing every integer.

universal geometry. Math. Geometry in its most general aspects, as the doctrine of n-dimensional spaces or continua.

universal glut. Econ. A glut of all commodities taken together simultaneously.

universal grammar. See GRAMMAR, 6.

u'ni·ver·sa'li·a (ū'nĭ·vĕr·sā'lĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [L.] Logic. Universals.

U'ni·ver·sa'li·an (-ăn), adj. Universalist. Rare.

universal instrument. Astron. A species of altazimuth. The object end of the telescope is sometimes placed at right angles to the eye end, with a mirror, or totally reflecting prism, at the angle between the two, and the eye end constitutes a portion of the horizontal axis.

universal involucre. See UNIVERSAL UMBEL.

U'ni·ver'sal·ism (ū'nĭ·vûr'săl·ĭz'm), n. [Cf. F. universalisme.] 1. Theol. The doctrine that all men will eventually be saved, or restored to holiness and happiness.

2. [not cap.] A thing universal in scope; also, addiction to universal knowledge or pursuits.

3. The state of being universal; universality.

U'ni·ver'sal·ist (-ĭst), n. [Cf. F. universaliste.] 1. Theol. One who believes in Universalism; specif., one of a denomination of Christians holding this doctrine as their distinctive article of belief. The denomination is chiefly confined to America, its polity is a modified Presbyterianism, at the head of which is a general convention, and its conditions of fellowship are the acceptance of certain general principles, viz.: the universal fatherhood of God, the spiritual authority and leadership of Jesus Christ, the trustworthiness of the Bible as containing a revelation from God, the certainty of just retribution for sin, and the final harmony of all souls with God; also, the acknowledgment of the authority of the general convention and assent to its laws. Early leaders were James Relly (1720–78), in England; John Murray, Relly's disciple, who came to America in 1770; and Hosea Ballou (1771–1852). Cf. RELLYAN.

2. [not cap.] a One who affects or is credited with universal knowledge, interests, or aptitudes. b One who regards, or acts with regard to, the whole.

U'ni·ver'sal·ist, adj. Of or pertaining to Universalism or its adherents; also [not cap.], universalistic.

u'ni·ver'sal·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to the whole; universal in scope or nature.

2. Of or pertaining to universalism or the universal; like, or tending toward, universalism.

3. [cap.] Of or pert. to the Universalist church or doctrine.

universalistic hedonism. Ethics. The doctrine that the supreme good, and the determining consideration of moral conduct, is the greatest happiness of the greatest number; utilitarianism. Cf. EGOISTIC HEDONISM.

u'ni·ver·sal'i·ty (ū'nĭ·vûr·săl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [Cf. F. universalité.] 1. Quality or state of being universal, as in extent, occurrence, or application.

2. Universal comprehensiveness in range, as in subjects, pursuits, or acquaintances; unrestricted versatility or power of adaptation or comprehension; as, the universality of Shakespeare's insight.

3. The entire body of a (specified) group; the mass of the people. Archaic.

4. Obs. a The universe. b A generality. c Knowledge or a subject considered as a whole. d A universal being. e A panacea.

u'ni·ver'sal·ize (-vûr'săl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [Cf. F. universaliser.] To make universal, as in character, application, or distribution. — u'ni·ver'sal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. — u'ni·ver'sal·iz'er (-vûr'săl·īz'ĕr), n.

universal joint. Mach. Any of various joints or couplings permitting swiveling or turning at any angle within defined limits, as in the ball-and-socket joint. For power transmission the single Hooke's joint and the Cardan joint are widely used, the former transforming a uniform into a variable motion, and the latter transmitting the motion unchanged. The single variety consists, in its simplest form, of a cross pivoted at its ends to the forked ends of the two shafts, the axes of which must, in every case, intersect.

1 Single, and 2 Double, Universal Joint.

universal keyboard. Office Practice. A standard arrangement of keys on a typewriter.

universal language. An international auxiliary language.

universal lay. A lang lay.

universal legacy. Civil Law. A legacy by which the testator gives to one or more persons (universal legatees) all his estate.

universal maid. A maid of all work.

universal mill. A rolling mill in which the metal is acted upon by two sets of rollers, commonly horizontal and vertical, at each pass. It is used in rolling girder and channel-bar sections, etc.

universal milling machine. Mach. See MILLING MACHINE.

universal negative. Logic. See UNIVERSAL, adj., 3 a; MODE, 5 a, first figure.

universal notation. Music. The use of modified G clefs in writing music for fretted instruments so as to eliminate F and C clefs. One stroke through the clef (𝄞) forms the tenor clef and indicates that all tones are to sound an octave lower. This clef is often found in tenor banjo music. Two strokes through the clef (𝄞) indicate the bass clef, and the sounding of all tones two octaves lower.

universal partnership. Roman & Civil Law. A partnership which includes all the property, present and future, of the partners and all burdens or losses which without fraud are incurred by either partner, whether by negligence or otherwise. Such a partnership includes profits, inheritances, legacies, gifts, etc., and it is liable for alimony, keeping up public offices, dowries of children, etc. It is exemplified by the community of property between husband and wife in Roman Dutch law and the Civil law.

Universal Postal Union. See POSTAL UNION.

universal postulate. The criterion of truth proposed by Herbert Spencer, namely, that that must be true the negative of which is inconceivable.

universal proposition. Logic. See UNIVERSAL, adj., 8 a. universal rule. Yachting. A rule of measurement for the racing of yachts, first proposed by N. G. Herreshoff in 1903, and including as factors the water-line length, sail area, and displacement, with modifying limitations.

universal scale. An architect's or engineer's scale.

universal solvent. Alchemy. = ALKAHEST.

universal succession. Roman & Civil Law. Succession to the totality of a man's estate, including both his rights and liabilities, according to the principle that heres est eadem persona cum defuncto, "the heir is the same person as the deceased." The most important of the six modes of universal succession mentioned by Justinian are: hereditas (see HERES) and bonorum possessio (which see). Hence, universal successor.

universal suffrage. Polit. Science. Suffrage of all, that is, of all adults not legally disqualified by the laws of a country, as criminals, idiots, and aliens; formerly, manhood suffrage, but now in most countries including also those entitled to vote under woman suffrage. — universal suffragist.

universal syllogism. Logic. A syllogism the conclusion of which is a universal proposition.

universal theorem. Mach. A theorem that extends to any quantity without restriction.

universal time. Astron. Greenwich time.

universal umbel. Bot. A primary or general umbel; the first or largest set of rays in a compound umbel. It is often subtended by a universal involucre.

universal vise. Mach. A vise that can be swung either horizontally or vertically, as certain milling-machine vises. Cf. SWIVEL VISE.

universal woodworker. A woodworking machine universal as to adjustments of spindle, table, and other parts, to adapt it for the production of irregular as well as regular patterns or other woodwork by mortising, tenoning, radius cutting, forming bends, etc.; — called also mechanical worker.

u'ni·ver·san'i·mous (ū'nĭ·vĕr·săn'ĭ·mŭs), adj. [L. universus universal + animus mind.] Being of one mind; unanimous. Rare.

u'ni·verse (ū'nĭ·vûrs), n. [F. univers, fr. L. universum, fr. universus, universal, fr. unus one + vertere, versum, to turn, that is, turned into one, combined into one whole. See ONE; VERSION.] 1. All created things viewed as constituting one system or whole; the whole body of things, or of phenomena; the to pan of the Greeks, the mundus of the Latins; the creation; the cosmos.

2. This world; the world of human experience; also, mankind.

3. Any distinct field or province of thought or reality conceived as forming a closed system or self-inclusive and independent organization; often, specif. in logic, a universe of discourse (which see).

4. Astron. a Properly, the entire celestial cosmos; the totality of the observed or postulated physical whole; — formerly restricted to our immediate structure of stars called the Galaxy, or Milky Way. Modern physical theory suggests that the universe is finite in extent but that it is continually expanding (expanding universe). b An aggregate of stars comparable to the Galaxy. See ISLAND UNIVERSE.

— in universe. Universally. Obs.

u'ni·verse·ful', n. See -FUL.

universe of discourse. Logic. That collection of facts or ideas which is tacitly implied and understood in a given statement or discussion; thus, a proposition concerning "Americans" may be intended to apply only to American aborigines, or to citizens of the United States, it may include all North Americans, or be extended to South Americans as well, the universe of discourse in each case being determined by the sense in which the WORD is taken.

universe vine. = BEARBERRY a.

u'ni·ver'si·tar'i·an (ū'nĭ·vûr'sĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn), adj. [See -ARIAN.] Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a university. — u'ni·ver'si·tar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

‖u'ni·ver'si·tas (ū'nĭ·vûr'sĭ·tăs), n. [L. See UNIVERSITY.] Law. a Roman & Civil Law. Anything (whether composed of one or of more units) treated as an indivisible totality or whole by the law; as in: u'ni·ver'si·tas ju'ris (jōō'rĭs; 242), the totality of the rights and liabilities of a person; u'ni·ver'si·tas per'so·na'rum (pûr'sō·nā'rŭm; 79), a number of persons treated as an individual entity at law, as a college or corporation, the state, etc.; u'ni·ver'si·tas re'rum (rē'rŭm) a totality of objects treated (in one or more respects) as a whole in law. b Short for universitas personarum, above.

u'ni·ver'si·tize (ū'nĭ·vûr'sĭ·tīz), v. t. To change into a university.

u'ni·ver'si·ty (ū'nĭ·vûr'sĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ME. universite, fr. OF. université, fr. L. universitas all together, the whole, the universe, (LL.) a number of persons associated into one body, a society, corporation, (ML.) university, fr. universus all together, universal. See UNIVERSE.] 1. An institution organized for teaching and study in the higher branches of learning, and empowered to confer degrees in special departments, as theology, law, medicine, and the arts. The universities of Europe in the Middle Ages were in greater part the outgrowth of church schools. The most famous were those of Bologna and Paris, established in the 12th century, the former being devoted chiefly to law, the latter to theology. These and other great schools that had won general prestige were called studia generalia, as being resorts of scholars from all parts, the word universitas being originally used only of the scholastic guild or guilds within a studium. The teaching in the medieval universities was organized under four faculties, from which are descended the modern faculties of theology, law, medicine, and philosophy. Matters of student organization and discipline were in the hands either of bodies known as "nations," or of endowed colleges for student residence. The former system was predominant in continental Europe, the latter in England. The two English universities Oxford and Cambridge are each made up of a number of colleges, which are complete in their individual organizations, and provide lodging and instruction for their students, but are federated into a corporation which holds examinations and confers degrees. In the United States a university typically comprises a college and one or more graduate or professional schools; but the term is sometimes loosely used.

2. A body or group, esp. of persons, treated as a unit in the law, as a corporation, guild, association, or the like, as in ancient Rome; a universitas. Obs. exc. Hist.

3. Obs. a The whole; all things. b The universe. c A body of persons; a corporation. d The body of the people.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

university-bred university-going university-taught university-conferred university-sponsored university-trained u'ni·ver'si·ty, adj. Of, pert. to, or characteristic of, a university; as, a university course, library, professor.

u'ni·ver'si·ty, v. t. To provide with a university. Rare.

university extension. Originally, extramural instruction, primarily for the working classes, conducted by a university or college; now, broadly, any similar instruction, as by a State board of education for the general public.

university settlement. A social settlement conducted by university men and women. See SETTLEMENT, 17.

University Tests Act. An act of Parliament of 1871 abolishing subscriptions to the Thirty-nine Articles, all declarations and oaths respecting religious belief, and all compulsory attendance at public worship in the universities of Oxford, Cambridge, and Durham.

university wits, the. Among the Elizabethan dramatists, a coterie of those who had university training, including Lyly, Peele, Greene, Lodge, and Nash.

u'ni·ver·sol'o·gy (ū'nĭ·vûr·sŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [universe + -logy.] Science of the universe. — u'ni·ver'so·log'i·cal (ū'nĭ·vûr'sō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — u'ni·ver·sol'o·gist (-vûr·sŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

u·niv'o·ca·bil'i·ty (ū·nĭv'ō·kȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [See UNIVOCAL.] The principle that each sign should have but one function, and each function be indicated by only one sign.

u·niv'o·ca·cy (ū·nĭv'ō·kȧ·sĭ), n. [See UNIVOCAL; cf. ADVOCACY.] Quality or state of being univocal. Rare.

u·niv'o·cal (ū·nĭv'ō·kăl), adj. [LL. univocus, fr. unus one + vocare to call. See ONE; VOICE.] 1. Having one meaning only; — contrasted with equivocal. Hence, indubitable; unmistakable.

2. Characteristic of or restricted to things of the same nature; as, univocal action; univocal generation.

3. Obs. a Symptomatic of but one thing. b Unanimous. c Uniform. d Unisonous.

— u·niv'o·cal·ly, adv.

u·niv'o·cal, n. A word having but one meaning.

u·niv'o·ca'tion (ū·nĭv'ō·kā'shŭn), n. [Cf. F. univocation.] Agreement of name and meaning. Obs.

u'ni·voc'i·ty (ū'nĭ·vŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [univocal + -ity.] The character of being univocal.

u'ni·vol'tine (ū'nĭ·vŏl'tĭn), n. [uni- + It. volta turn, time.] A silkworm that produces one brood a year. — u'ni·vol'tine, adj.

u·niv'o·rous (ū·nĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. [uni- + -vorous.] Bot. Living upon a single host, as certain fungi; — disting. from plurivorous.

---

u'ni·ver'sal·ly, adv. of UNIVERSAL. u'ni·ver'sal·ness, n. See -NESS. u'ni·ver'si·tar'y (ū'nĭ·vûr'sĭ·tĕr'ĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [See -ARY.] = UNIVERSITARIAN. u'ni·ver'si·ty·less, adj. See -LESS.
u'ni·ver'si·ty·like', adj. See -LIKE. u'ni·ver'si·ty·ship', n. See -SHIP.
un·i'vied (ŭn·ĭ'vĭd), adj. See UN-, not.
u·niv'o·cal·ized, adj. See UNI-. un·jack'et·ed, adj., un'·Jac·o·be'an, adj., un·jad'ed, adj., un·jag'ged, adj., un·jailed', adj. See UN-, not.
un·jam', v. t. See 1st UN-. un'·Jap·a·nese', adj., un'·jap·panned', adj., un·jarred', adj., un·jar'ring, adj., un·jaun'·diced, adj., un·jaun'ty, adj., un·jeal'ous, adj., un·jeal'oused, adj., un'·Jef·fer·so'ni·an, adj., un·jel'lied, adj., un·jest'ing, adj., un'·jes·u·it'i·cal, adj., un'·jes·u·it'i·cal·ly, adv., un·jes'u·it·ed, adj. See UN-, not.
un·jew'el, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·jew'eled, un·jew'elled, adj., un·Jew'ish, adj., un·jilt'ed, adj., un'·jo·cose', adj., un·joc'und, adj., un·jogged', adj., un·jog'·ging, adj., un'·John·so'ni·an, adj. See UN-, not.
un·join', v. t. & i. See 1st UN-. un·join'a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

ā̇le, chāotic, cāre, ȧdd, ȧccount, ȧrm, ȧsk, sofȧ; ēve, hēre (116), ēvent, ĕnd, silĕnt, makēr; īce, ĭll, charĭty; ōld, ōbey, ôrb, ŏdd, sôft, cŏnnect; fōōd, fo̍o̍t; un′ju·di′cious (ŭn′jōō·dĭsh′ŭs), adj. Injudicious. — un′ju·di′cious·ly, adv. — un′ju·di′cious·ness, n.

‖ Foreign Word. † Obsolete Variant of. + combined with. = equals. Abbreviations, Signs, etc., are explained on pages immediately preceding the Vocabulary.

un·just′ (ŭn·jŭst′; 66), adj. 1. Characterized by injustice; contrary to justice and right; wrongful; as, an unjust judge; an unjust sentence; an unjust demand or accusation. 2. Dishonest; faithless. Now Rare. 3. Obs. a Improper. b Inaccurate. — un·just′ly, adv. — un·just′ness, n.

unjust enrichment. Law. Acquisition of property under such circumstances that one is legally or equitably bound to make return of or for it, as in mistake of fact, injury by tortious act where the tort is waived, and default on a contract.

un·just′i·fi′a·ble (ŭn·jŭs′tĭ·fī′ä·b'l), adj. Not justifiable. — un·just′i·fi′a·ble·ness, n., — un·just′i·fi′a·bly, adv.

un·just′i·fied (-fīd), adj. Not justified. — un·just′i·fī′ed·ly (-fī′ĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·just′i·fī′ed·ness, n.

Un′kar group (ŭng′kär). [From the Unkar Valley, tributary of the Grand Canyon, Ariz.] Geol. The lower division of the Algonkian rocks in the Grand Canyon region, Arizona, consisting mainly of sandstone, with some limestone and conglomerate. It is nearly 7,000 feet in thickness.

un·kembd′ (ŭn·kĕmd′), adj. [See UNKEMPT.] Uncombed; unkempt. Archaic & Dial.

un·kempt′ (ŭn·kĕmpt′; 66), adj. [un- not + kempt, past part. of KEMB to comb.] 1. Not combed; disheveled; as, unkempt hair. 2. Not smoothed; unpolished; rough; unrefined. Syn. — Tousled, ruffled, disarrayed. Ant. — Neat, tidy. — un·kempt′ly, adv. — un·kempt′ness, n.

un·ken′ (ŭn·kĕn′), v. t. & i. Not to know. Scot.

un·kenned′ (-kĕnd′; Scot. -kĕnt′), adj. Unknown; strange. Archaic & Dial.

un·ken′nel (ŭn·kĕn′ĕl; -'l), v. t. & i. [1st un- + kennel.] 1. To drive, take, or come, from a kennel or hole. 2. To discover; disclose.

un·ken′ning (ŭn·kĕn′ĭng), part. adj. [See 1st KEN.] Not knowing; ignorant. Scot.

un·ken′some (-sŭm), adj. Unknown. Scot.

un·kept′ (ŭn·kĕpt′; 66), adj. Not kept; as: a Neglected. b Disregarded. c Undefended. d Not stored.

un′kid (ŭng′kĭd; ŏŏng′kĭd), un′ked (-kĕd), adj. [ME, unkid, fr. un- not + AS. geçȳdd, geçȳthed, past part. of çȳthan to make known, fr. cūth known. See UNCOUTH.] Archaic & Dial. a Unknown; strange; odd. b Uncouth; awkward; — of persons. c Uncomfortable; inconvenient. d Desolate; lonely. e Uncanny; weird; ghastly.

un·kind′ (ŭn·kīnd′; 66), adj. [AS. uncȳnde unnatural. See KIND, adj.] 1. Not kind; esp., wanting in kindness, sympathy, or the like; hence, cruel; harsh.

The most unkindest cut of all. Shak.

2. Now Dial. a Unsuitable; unfavorable. b Not thriving. c Ungenial; rough. 3. Obs. a Strange; foreign; unnatural. b Ungrateful; undutiful. c Bad; degenerate; vile. d Ungenerous; severe; cruel. — un·kind′ly, adv. — un·kind′ness, n.

un·kind′ly, adj. 1. Not kindly; ungracious; harsh. 2. Now Dial. a Not naturally well; not thriving. b Inclement; unfavorable. 3. Obs. a Unnatural; strange; contrary to nature. b Lacking natural feeling; wicked; cruel; vile. — un·kind′li·ly, adv. — un·kind′li·ness, n.

un·kin′dred (ŭn·kĭn′drĕd; -drĭd; 119), adj. Not of the same kin. — un·kin′dred·ly, adj.

un·king′ (ŭn·kĭng′), v. t. [1st un- + king.] a To cause to cease to be a king. b To deprive of having a king. — un·king′er (-ĕr), n.

un·king′ship (-shĭp), n. Kinglessness; abolition of monarchy. Obs.

un·kiss′ (ŭn·kĭs′), v. t. [1st un- + kiss.] To cancel by a kiss (what was sealed by a kiss); also, to undo the kissing of.

un·knit′ (ŭn·nĭt′), v. t. & i. [AS. uncnyttan to unknot, untie. See 1st UN-; KNIT.] a To undo or unravel (what is knitted). "Unknit that threatening unkind brow." Shak. b Hence, to disunite; disperse; dissolve; relax.

un·knit′ (66), adj. Not knit.

un·know′ (ŭn·nō′), v. t. & i. [See UN- not.] To be ignorant (of).

un·know′, v. t. & i. [See 1st UN-.] To cease to know; forget.

un·know′a·ble (ŭn·nō′ä·b'l), adj. Not knowable; that cannot be comprehended; specif., Philos., beyond the limits of human experience, or of human powers of apprehension or understanding. See the Unknowable, below. — un′know·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′nō·ä·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), un·know′a·ble·ness, n. — un·know′a·bly, adv.

un·know′a·ble, n. An unknowable thing.

— the Unknowable. Absolute reality, conceived as lying beyond human experience or human understanding; specif., with Kant, the reality of things as they are in themselves, which is outside space and time and underlies phenomena as they appear to human minds; with Herbert Spencer, that ultimate reality which we experience but which we can understand only in terms of images and symbols inadequate to its true nature.

un·know′ing (ŭn·nō′ĭng), n. 1. Ignorance. Rare. 2. An unknowing person.

un·know′ing ŭn·nō′ĭng), adj. Not knowing; as: a Ignorant. b Obs. Unmindful. c Now Dial. Unknown; — with to. — un·know′ing·ly, adv. — un·know′ing·ness, n.

un·know′ing, adv Unknowingly.

un·knowl′edged (ŭn·nŏl′ĕjd; -ĭjd; 119), adj. Not acknowledged or recognized. Obs.

un·known′ (ŭn·nōn′; 66), adj. 1. Not known; as: a Strange; unfamiliar. b Not apprehended; not ascertained. c Incalculable; inexpressible. 2. Obs. a Not knowing; ignorant. b Not having had sexual intercourse. c Not disclosed. — un·known′ly, adv. — un·known′ness, n.

un·known′, n. That which or one that is unknown.

unknown god. The nameless god whose altar St. Paul found at Athens and whom he associated with his evangelical message. Acts xvii. 23.

unknown quantity. a Alg. A quantity whose value is sought, usually denoted by one of the last letters of the alphabet, as x, y, z. b Anything regarded as a factor whose bearing and importance is undetermined.

Unknown Soldier. [also not caps.] An unidentified soldier whose body is selected as a representative of all of the same nation who died in a war, esp. in one of the World Wars, to receive national honors.

un·knownst′ (ŭn·nōnst′), adj. Unknown. Chiefly Dial.

Unknown Warrior. = UNKNOWN SOLDIER. Eng.

un·la′bored, -la′boured (ŭn·lā′bĕrd), adj. 1. Not produced by labor or toil. "Unlabored harvests." Dryden. 2. Not cultivated; untilled; as, an unlabored field. 3. Not laboriously produced, or not seeming so; natural; spontaneous; as, an unlabored style or work.

un·lace′ (ŭn·lās′), v. t. [1st un- + lace.] 1. To loose by undoing a lacing; as, to unlace a shoe; hence, Obs., to untangle; unravel. 2. To loose the dress of; to undress; hence, Obs., to expose to disgrace; as, to unlace one's reputation. 3. Naut. To loose and take off (a bonnet from a sail), or to cast off or untie (any lacing in the rigging). 4. To carve. Obs.

un·lade′ (ŭn·lād′), v. t. [1st un- + lade.] 1. To take the load from; to take out the cargo of; as, to unlade a ship. 2. To unload; to remove, or to have removed, as a load or a burden; to discharge.

There the ship was to unlade her burden. Acts xxi. 3.

un·la′dy·fied, un·la′di·fied (ŭn·lā′dĭ·fīd), adj. Having lost the status of a lady. Rare.

un·laid′ (-lād′), adj. 1. Not laid or placed; not fixed. 2. Not allayed; not pacified; not laid finally to rest. Rare. "Stubborn, unlaid ghost." Milton. 3. Not laid out, as a corpse. Rare. B. Jonson. 4. With open, out, etc., not opened, spread forth, etc. 5. Naut. Not twisted; — said of a rope, or its strands.

un·land′ (ŭn·lănd′), v. t. [1st un- + land.] To deprive of lands.

un·lap′ (ŭn·läp′), v. t. & i. [1st un- + lap.] To uncover; unfold.

un·lash′ (ŭn·lăsh′), v. t. [1st un- + lash.] To loose, as that which is lashed or tied down; to untie the lashing of; also, to loose or undo (a lashing). — un·lash′er (-ĕr), n.

un·latch′ (ŭn·lăch′), v. t. [1st un- + latch.] a To open or loose by lifting the latch. b Rare. To unlace; to untie. — v. i. To become loosed or opened.

un·lat′ined (ŭn·lăt′ĭnd), adj. Uninstructed in Latin. Obs.

un·law′ (ŭn·lô′), n. [AS. unlaqu violation of law. See UN- not; LAW.] Violation of law; disregard of the restraints of law; lawlessness; illegality; also, a fine or amercement for a violation of law.

Times of "unlaw" alternate with times of law. Pollock & Mait.

un·law′ (ŭn·lô′), v. t. [1st un- + law.] 1. To deprive of the character of a law; to annul. Obs. exc. Hist. 2. Scots Law. To impose a fine upon; to fine.

un·lawed′ (ŭn·lôd′), adj. Not lawed or expeditated; — said of dogs. See EXPEDITATE.

un·law′ful (ŭn·lô′fŏŏl), adj. 1. Not lawful; illegal. 2. Irregular; contrary to normal or acceptable procedure; esp., not morally right or conventional. 3. Acting contrary to, or in defiance of, the law; disobeying or disregarding the law; — of persons. 4. Born of an unlawful union; illegitimate. — un·law′ful·ly, adv. — un·law′ful·ness, n.

unlawful assembly. Law. A meeting of three or more persons in pursuance of a common plan and in such a way as to cause a reasonable apprehension that they will disturb the peace tumultuously.

un·lay′ (ŭn·lā′), v. t. & i.; UN·LAYED′ (-lād′); UN·LAY′ING. [1st un- + lay.] Naut. To untwist, as a rope.

un·lead′ (ŭn·lĕd′), v. t. To remove lead or leads from, as from between lines of type.

un·lead′ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Stripped of lead. 2. Print. Not having leads between the lines.

un·leared′ (ŭn·lĕrd′), part. adj. Unlearned. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·learn′ (ŭn·lûrn′), v. t. [1st un- + learn.] 1. To put out of memory (what has been learned).

It took him a long time to unlearn the puritanism of his childhood. Aldous Huxley.

2. To teach the contrary of; to cause to forget or to disbelieve (something one has learned). 3. To fail to learn. Obs. Dr. H. More.

un′learn·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′lûr·nä·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. Inability to learn.

un·learn′ed (ŭn·lûr′nĕd; 119), adj. [un- not + learned.] 1. Not learned; untaught; uneducated; ignorant; illiterate. 2. (pron. -lûrnd′). a Not gained by study; not known. b Not dependent upon experience, training, or the process of learning; natural; as, breathing is an unlearned act. 3. Not exhibiting learning; as, unlearned verses. — un·learn′ed·ly, adv. — un·learn′ed·ness, n.

un·learn′ed, n. Ignorant persons collectively; the uneducated class or classes of people.

Unlearned Parliament. Eng. Hist. The Parliament of 1404, under Henry IV, to which no lawyers were admitted.

un·leash′ (ŭn·lēsh′), v. t. [1st un- + leash.] To free from a leash, or as from a leash; to release, as dogs.

un·leave′ (ŭn·lēv′), v. t. To strip of leaves. — v. i. To grow bare of leaves. Rare.

un·leav′ened (-lĕv′ĕnd), adj. Not leavened; containing no leaven; as, unleavened bread, which is usually mixed with water and salt only. See FEAST OF UNLEAVENED BREAD.

un·lede′, un·lead′ (ŭn·lĕd′), n. [AS. lēod people, country, lēod a man. See UN- not; LEDE.] An outlaw; a wicked person. Obs. — adj. Wicked; also, wretched. Obs.

un·lee′ful (ŭn·lē′fŏŏl; -fĭ), adj. [un- not + leeful.] Unlawful; wrong; bad. Obs.

un·lee′some (-sŭm), adj. [un- not + leesome.] Unlawful. Scot.

un′le·git′i·mate (ŭn′lē·jĭt′ĭ·mĭt), adj. Illegitimate. — v. t. To render illegitimate. Both Obs.

un·lei′sured (ŭn·lē′zhĕrd; -lĕzh′ĕrd; see LEISURE), adj. Having no leisure. — un·lei′sured·ness, n. Both Rare.

un·less′ (ŭn·lĕs′; ŭn-), conj. [Formerly, onles, onlesse, onlesse that, that is, in less, in a less case than. See ON; LESS.] 1. With than, introducing a clause: Obs. a Upon any less condition (than) that; — after a negative statement. b In any other case (than) that. 2. Lest. Obs. 3. If not; supposing that not; were it not that; except that; — formerly often followed by that; as, we shall fail unless we are industrious.

un·less′, prep. Except; excepting; — now rarely preceding nouns, but still sometimes preceding adverbial clauses, esp. as reduced by ellipsis to phrases; as, "Which, unless on occasions, nobody else did ride." Trollope.

Here nothing breeds unless the nightly owl. Shak.

un·less′, n. A conditional provision; a reservation.

un·let′ted (ŭn·lĕt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [See LET to hinder.] Unhindered. Obs.

un·let′tered (ŭn·lĕt′ĕrd), adj. a Not lettered; also, illiterate. b Not marked with letters, as for a direction or address. — un·let′tered·ly, adv. — un·let′tered·ness, n.

Syn. and Ant. — See IGNORANT.

un·lev′el (ŭn·lĕv′ĕl; -'l), v. t. To destroy the level character of; to render uneven.

un·lew′ty (ŭn·lū′tĭ), n. [un- not + lewty.] Disloyalty. Obs.

un·licked′ (ŭn·lĭkt′), adj. Not licked; hence, not properly formed; ungainly. Cf. lick into shape, under LICK, v.

un·lid′ (ŭn·lĭd′), v. t. [AS. onhlīdan to open, unclose.] To uncover.

un·lief′ (ŭn·lēf′), adj. [AS. unlēof.] Not dear; unpleasant; loathsome. Obs.

un·light′ (ŭn·līt′), v. i. To alight, as from a vehicle or horse. Dial. Eng.

un·light′ed (ŭn·līt′ĕd; -ĭd; 66; 119), adj. Not lighted; as: a Unkindled. b Not illuminated. — un·light′ed·ly, adv. — un·light′ed·ness, n.

un·light′some (-sŭm), adj. Wanting light; gloomy. Obs.

un·like′ (ŭn·lĭk′; 66), adj. 1. Not like; dissimilar; diverse; having no resemblance; as, the cases are unlike. Unlike may be used adverbially with the sense of in a dissimilar manner, as in "to behave unlike a soldier," where, by omission of to, it is sometimes construed as a preposition. 2. Irregular; uneven. Obs. 3. Not likely; improbable; unlikely. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·like′, adv. 1. Differently; in a manner out of the ordinary. Now Rare. 2. Unlikely. Obs.

un·like′, n. A person or object having marked differences from another under observation or consideration.

un·like′, v. t. & i. To make or be displeased. Obs.

un·like′, v. t. & i. To stop liking; to dislike.

unlike charges. Elec. Charges of unlike nature, one being positive and the other negative.

un·like′li·hood (ŭn·lĭk′lĭ·hŏŏd), n. a Obs. Unlikeness. b Improbability; also, something improbable.

un·like′ly, adj.; UN·LIKE′LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); UN·LIKE′LI·EST. 1. Not likely; improbable; as, an unlikely event. 2. Not holding out a prospect of success; likely to fail; unpromising; as, unlikely means; an unlikely venture. 3. Not such as to inspire liking; unattractive; objectionable; disagreeable; also, unsuitable; unfit. Now Dial.

The unlikely eld of me. Chaucer.

4. Not resembling; not like. Obs. — un·like′li·ness, n.

un·like′ly, adv. In an unlikely manner.

un·lik′en (ŭn·lĭk′ĕn), v. t. [1st un- + liken.] To make unlike; to dissimilate. Obs.

un·lik′en, adj. Unlike; dissimilar. Dial., U. S.

---

un·joint′, v. t. & i. See 1st UN-.

un·joint′ed, adj., un·joint′ed·ness, n., un·join′tured, adj., un·jok′ing, adj., un·jok′ing·ly, adv., un·jol′ly, adj., un·jolt′ed, adj., un·jos′tled, adj., un·jour′nal·ized, adj., un·jo′vi·al, adj., un·jo′vi·al·ly, adv., un·joyed′, adj., un·joy′ful, adj., un·joy′ful·ly, adv., un·joy′ful·ness, n., un·joy′ous, adj., un·joy′ous·ly, adv., un·joy′ous·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·Ju′da·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·judg′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·judge′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·judged′, adj., un·judge′like′, adj., un·judg′ing, adj., un·ju′di·ca·ble, adj., un·ju·di′cial, adj., un′ju·di′cial·ly, adv., un·jug′gled, adj., un·juiced′, adj., un·juicy′, adj., un·jum′bled, adj., un·jump′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·jus′tice, n. = INJUSTICE.

un·jus·ti′ci·a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·jus′ti·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·Jus′tled, adj., un·ju′ve·nile, adj., un·kai′ser·like′, adj., See UN-, not.

un·kamed′ (ŭn·kāmd′). [var. of UNKEMBD.] Scot.

un·Kant′i·an, adj. See UN-, not.

un′ked (ŭng′kĕd; ŏŏng′-). Dial.

un·keeled′ (ŭn·kēld′), adj. See UN-, not.

un·kenned′ness, n. See -NESS.

un·ken′neled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·kent′ (ŭn·kĕnt′), adj. = UNKENNED. Obs. Scot.

un·ker′chiefed, adj. See UN-, not.

un′ket (ŭng′kĕt; ŏŏng′-). Var. of [UNKID.] un·key′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·keyed′, adj., un·kicked′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·kill′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·kill′a·bil′i·ty, n., un·kill′a·ble, adj., un·killed′, adj., un·kill′ing, adj., un·kilned′, adj., un·kin′, a. i. See 1st UN-.

un·kind′-heart′ed, adj., un·kin′dled, adj., un·kin′dled·ness, n., un·kin′dling, adj. See UN-, not. [Obs.] un·kind′ship, n. Unkindness.

un·king′dom, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·kinged′, adj., un·king′like′, adj., un·king′ly, adj. & adv. See UN-, not.

un·kink′, v. t. & i. See 1st UN-.

un·kin′like′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·kirk′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·kisse′d′, un·kist′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·knave′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·knead′ed, adj., un·kneel′ing, adj., un·knelled′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·knew′, past tense of UN-[KNOWN.]

un·knight′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·knight′ed, adj., un·knight′like′, adj., un·knit′ta·ble, adj., un·knit′ted, adj., un·knit′ting, adj., un·knocked′, adj., un·knock′ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·knot′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·knot′ted, adj., un·knot′ty, adj. See UN-, not. [UNKNOWN.]

un·know′en. Archaic var. of un·knowl′edge·a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un′ko. Var. of UNCO.

un·ko′daked, adj., un′-Ko·re′an, adj., un·ko′shered, adj. See UN-, not. [UN-, not.

un·la′beled, -la′belled, adj. See un·la′bi·al·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·la′bi·ate, adj., un·la′bor·a·ble, adj., un·la′bor·ing, -la′bour·ing, un·la·bo′ri·ous, adj., un′la·bo′ri·ous·ly, adv., un′la·bo′ri·ous·ness, n., un·laced′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·laced′, past part. of UNLACE.

un′-Lac·e·dae·mo′ni·an, adj., un·lac′er·at′ed, adj., un·lack′-eyed, adj., un·lac′quered, adj.

un·lad′en, adj., See UN-, not.

un·lad′en, past part. of UNLADE.

un·la′dled, adj., un·la′dy·like′, adj., un·lag′ging, adj., un·lame′, adj., un·lamed′, adj., un′la·ment′ed, adj., un′lam·pooned′, adj., un·lanced′, adj., un·land′ed, adj., un·land′marked′, adj., un·lan′guaged, adj., un·lan′guid, adj., un·lan′guish·ing, adj., un·lan′terned, adj., un·lapped′, adj., un·lapsed′, adj., un·laps′ing, adj., un·lard′ed, adj., un·large′, adj., un·lashed′, adj., un·las′soed, adj., un·last′ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lath′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·lathed′, adj., un·lath′ered, adj., un·Lat′in, adj., un·lat′inized, adj., un·lat′ticed, adj., un·laud′a·ble, adj., un·laud′a·ble·ness, n., un·laud′a·bly, adv., un·laud′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·laugh′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·laugh′ing, adj., un·launched′, adj., un·laun′dered, adj., un·lau′reled, -lau′relled, adj., un·laved′, adj., un·lav′ing, adj., un·law′ish, adj., un·lav′ished, adj., un·law′-learn′ed, adj., un·law′like′, adj., un·law′ly, adv., un·law′yered, adj., un·law′yer·like′, adj., un·lay′a·ble, adj., un·leached′, adj., un·lead′er·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·leaf′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·leafed′, adj., un·leagued′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lea′guer, v. t. See 1st UN-. Rare.

un·leak′a·ble, adj., un·leak′y, adj., un·leal′, adj., un·lean′, adj., un·learn′a·ble, adj., un·learn′a·ble·ness, n., un·learn′-ing, n., un·learnt′, adj., un·leas′a·ble, adj., un·leased′, adj., un·leashed′, un·leasht′, adj., un·leath′ered, adj., un·leaved′, adj., un·leav′en·a·ble, adj., un·lec′tured, adj., un·led′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·leek′. Obs. past tense of UNLOCK.

un·left′, adj., un·leg′a·cied, adj., un·le′gal, adj., un·le′gal·ized, adj., un·le′gal·ly, adv., un·le′gal·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·leg′ate, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·leg′is·la′tive, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lei′sum. Var. of UNLEIun·lei′sure·ly, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lek′. Obs. past tense of UNLOCK. [ity. Obs.] un·length′, n. Shortness; brev-un·le′ni·ent, adj., un·lensed′, adj., un·lent′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lered′ (ŭn·lĕrd′), adj. [un- not + lered.] Unlearned; untaught. Obs.

un·less′ened, adj., un·les′soned, adj., un·let′, adj., un·let′ta·ble, adj., un·let′ter·ing, adj., un·let′ter·like′, adj., un·lev′el, adj., un·lev′eled, un·lev′elled, adj., un·lev′el·ly, adv., un·lev′el·ness, n., un·lev′ied, adj., un·lev′ied·ness, n., un·lex′i·co·graph′ic·al, adj., un′li·a·bil′i·ty, n., un·li′a·ble, adj., un·li′beled, adj., un·lib′er·al, adj., un·lib′er·al·ized, adj., un·lib′er·at′ed, adj., un′lib·ĭd′i·nous, adj., un·li′censed, adj., un′li·cen′ti·at′ed, adj., un′li·cen′tious, adj., un·li′chened, adj., un·lick′a·ble, adj., un·lid′ded, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lie′, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un·life′like′, adj., un·lift′a·ble, adj., un·lift′ed, adj., un·lift′ing, adj., un·lig′a·ble, adj., un·lig′a·tured, adj., un·light′, adj., un·light′ened, adj., un·lig′ni·fied, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lik′a·ble, un·like′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not. — un·lik′a·ble·ness, un·like′a·ble·ness, n. — un·lik′a·bly, un·like′a·bly, adv.

un·liked′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·like'ness (ŭn·lĭk'nĕs; nĭs; 119), n. a Quality, or an instance, of being unlike or dissimilar; dissimilarity. b A poor resemblance, copy, or the like.

un·lik'ing (ŭn·lĭk'ĭng), adj. [See UN- not; LIKE, v.] Unfit; improper; scurvy. Obs.

un·lik'ing, n. Dislike.

un·limb' (ŭn·lĭm'), v. t. To dismember.

un·lim'ber (ŭn·lĭm'bĕr), v. t. & i. [1st un- + limber.] To detach the limber (from) and so make ready; as, to unlimber a gun for action; hence, figuratively, to get ready for action.

My fingers are so numb I don't know's I can unlimber 'em enough to cast off. Jos. Lincoln.

un·lim'ber, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lime' (ŭn·lĭm'), v. t. 1. To disunite; unfasten. Obs. 2. To remove lime from, as from hides.

un·lim'it·a·ble (ŭn·lĭm'ĭt·ȧ·b'l), adj. Illimitable. — un·lim'it·a·ble·ness, n. — un·lim'it·a·bly, adv.

un·lim'it·ed (-ĭ·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not limited; having no bounds; boundless; as, an unlimited expanse of ocean. 2. Undefined; indefinite; not bounded by proper exceptions; as, unlimited terms; unlimited generalities. 3. Unconfined; unrestricted; as, unlimited power.

Ascribe not unto God such an unlimited exercise of mercy as may destroy his justice. Rogers.

Syn. — Unbounded, limitless, indeterminate.

Ant. — Circumscribed, definite, restricted, fixed.

— un·lim'it·ed·ly, adv. — un·lim'it·ed·ness, n.

unlimited company. Finance. A company in which liability of members is not limited. Eng.

unlimited function. Math. A function that does not possess an upper and lower bound in a given interval or over a given set of points.

unlimited policy. See POLICY.

unlimited problem. Math. A problem that admits of an infinite number of solutions.

unlimited pump. A kind of deep-well pump placed at water level and operated from above.

un·line' (ŭn·līn'), v. t. [1st un- + line.] To take the lining out of; hence, to empty; as, to unline one's purse.

un·link' (ŭn·lĭngk'), v. t.; UN·LINKED' (-lĭngkt'); UN·LINK'·ING. [1st un- + link.] To separate or undo, as links; to uncoil; unfasten. — v. i. To become unlinked or unfastened.

un·liq'ui·dat'ed (-lĭk'wĭ·dāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not liquidated.

un·liq'uored (ŭn·lĭk'ĕrd), adj. a Not moistened or lubricated with liquor; dry. b Not in liquor; sober.

un·list' (ŭn·lĭst'), v. t. To remove from a list.

un·list'ed (ŭn·lĭs'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Stock Exchange. Not listed; not admitted to trading on an exchange.

un·lis'tened (ŭn·lĭs''nd), adj. Not listened to; hence, not heard.

un·list'y (ŭn·lĭs'tĭ), adj. [See LIST desire, LIST to please.] Listless. Now Dial.

un·lit' (ŭn·lĭt'; 66), adj. Not lighted; as: a Not kindled. b Not illuminated.

un·lit'er·al (ŭn·lĭt'ĕr·ȧl), adj. Not literal. — un·lit'er·al·ly, adv. — un·lit'er·al·ness, n.

un·lit'tle (ŭn·lĭt''l), adj. [AS. unlytel.] Not little; considerable. Obs.

un'li·tur'gi·cal (ŭn'lĭ·tûr'jĭ·kȧl), adj. Not liturgical.

un·lit'ur·gize (ŭn·lĭt'ĕr·jīz), v. t. To deprive of a liturgy. R. un·live' (ŭn·lĭv'), v. t. 1. To live in a contrary manner, as a life; to live in a manner contrary to. b To live down; to annul, as a memory or reputation gained from some experience. 2. To deprive of life; to kill. Obs.

un·liv'er·y (ŭn·lĭv'ĕr·ĭ), n. Unloading; discharge of cargo.

un·load' (ŭn·lōd'), v. [1st un- + load.] Transitive: 1. To take the load from; to discharge of a load or cargo; to disburden; as, to unload a ship; to unload a beast. 2. Hence, to relieve from anything onerous; as, to unload one's heart in passionate utterance. 3. To discharge or remove, as a load or a burden; as, to unload the cargo of a vessel; to unload one's resentment. 4. To sell in large quantities, as stock; to get rid of. Brokers' Cant, U. S. 5. Cards. To discard (worthless or nontaking cards) from one's hand in the course of play; to trash. 6. Mil. To draw the charge from; as, to unload a gun; — also, in the imperative, used as a word of command to effect the act of unloading.

——, Intransitive: To perform the act of unloading anything; as, the ship arrived in port and began to unload; specif.: a Brokers' Cant, U. S. To sell large quantities of stock, either to strengthen one's position or to get rid of securities known to be really worth less than the quoted value. b Cards. To clear one's hand of worthless or nontaking cards by discarding them in the course of play; to trash.

un·load'en (-'n), v. t. To unload.

un·load'er (-ĕr), n. One whose work is unloading a (specified) thing, or in a (specified) place; as, an ore unloader.

un·lo'cat·ed (ŭn·lō'kāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not located or placed. 2. Not surveyed, or designated by marks, limits, or boundaries, as appropriated; as, unlocated lands.

un·lock' (ŭn·lŏk'), v. [Cf. AS. unlŭcan. See 1st UN-; LOCK a fastening.] Transitive: 1. To unfasten or undo, as what is locked; as, to unlock a door or a chest. 2. To open, in general; to lay open; to undo.

[Lord] unlock the spell of sin. J. H. Newman.

3. Hence, to disclose; reveal; to furnish a key to. 4. Broadly, to free from restraints, restrictions, inhibitions, or the like; as, the reaction to the shock unlocked a flood of emotions.

The Latin in her unlocked a torrent of wrath. W. J. Locke.

5. To spread out. Obs. Piers Plowman.

——, Intransitive: To become unlocked, unfastened, or freed from restraints, etc.

— un·lock'er (-ĕr), n.

un·lodge' (ŭn·lŏj'), v. t. [1st un- + lodge.] To dislodge; to deprive of lodgment.

un·log'ic (ŭn·lŏj'ĭk), n. Want of logic.

un·log'i·cal (-ĭ·kȧl), adj. Illogical. — un·log'i·cal·ly, adv. — un·log'i·cal·ness, n.

un·look' (-lŏŏk'), v. t. [1st un- + look.] To recall or retract, as a look.

un·looked' (ŭn·lŏŏkt'), adj. [un- not + looked.] Not observed or foreseen; unexpected; — generally with for, and when used attributively written un·looked'-for'; as, an unlooked-for guest. "Unlooked success." Denham.

She comes unlooked for, if she comes at all. Pope.

un·loose' (ŭn·lōōs'), v. t. & i. [1st un- (intensive) + loose.] To make or become loose; loosen; to set, or become, free.

un·loos'en (-lōōs''n), v. t. [1st un- (intensive) + loosen.] To loosen; to unloose.

un·lord' (ŭn·lôrd'), v. t. [1st un- + lord.] To deprive of the rank or position of a lord.

un·lord'ed (-lôr'dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. [un- not + lorded.] a Deprived of the rank of a lord. b Not raised to the rank of a lord.

un·lord'ly (-lôrd'lĭ), adj. Not lordly; specif., not arbitrary.

un·lous'y (ŭn·louz'ĭ), adj. [un- not + lousy.] Free from lice.

un·love' (ŭn·lŭv'), v. t. [1st un- + love.] To cease to love; to put out love for. Rare.

un'love' (ŭn'lŭv'), n. Absence of love; hate.

un·loved' (ŭn·lŭvd'), adj. Not loved.

un·love'ly (ŭn·lŭv'lĭ), adj.; UN·LOVE'LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); UN·LOVE'LI·EST. Not lovely; not amiable; possessing qualities that excite dislike; disagreeable; displeasing; unpleasant. — un·love'li·ly, adv. — un·love'li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs), n.

un·lov'er·like' (-lŭv'ĕr·lĭk'), adj. Also un·lov'er·ly (-lĭ). Unlike a lover.

un·love'some (-lŭv'sŭm), adj. Unlovely; ugly; hateful. Obs.

un·lov'ing (ŭn·lŭv'ĭng), adj. Not loving; not giving or reciprocating affection. — un·lov'ing·ly, adv. — un·lov'ing·ness, n.

un·luck' (ŭn·lŭk'; 66), n. Misfortune; bad luck. Dial., U. S.

Luck and unluck is all the way there is. Maristan Chapman.

un·luck'ful (ŭn·lŭk'fŏŏl), adj. [un- not + luck + -ful.] Untoward; mischievous. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·luck'ly (-lĭ), adj. Unlucky. Obs.—adv. Unluckily. Obs.

un·luck'y (ŭn·lŭk'ĭ), adj.; UN·LUCK'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); UN·LUCK'I·EST. 1. Not lucky; not successful; unfortunate; ill-fated; — implying that the failure or unhappiness results from chance, rather than lack or feebleness of effort; as, an unlucky man; an unlucky adventure. 2. Bringing bad luck; ill-omened; inauspicious; as, he was born under an unlucky star. 3. Mischievous; as, an unlucky wag. Archaic & Dial.

— un·luck'i·ly (-lŭk'ĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·luck'i·ness, n.

un·lust' (ŭn·lŭst'), n. [AS. See LUST.] Obs. a Listlessness; disinclination; displeasure; sorrow. b pl. Idle persons. c Distaste.

un·lust'y (-lŭs'tĭ), adj.; UN·LUST'I·ER (-tĭ·ĕr); UN·LUST'I·EST. [un- not + lusty.] Obs. 1. Idle; slothful. 2. Dull; listless; also, unhappy. 3. Weak; delicate; unmanly. 4. Disagreeable; unpleasant; objectionable.

— un·lust'i·ly, adv. — un·lust'i·ness, n.

un·lute' (ŭn·lūt'), v. t. [1st un- + lute.] To separate, as things cemented or luted; to take the lute or the clay from.

un'ly·can'thro·pize (ŭn'lĭ·kăn'thrō·pīz), v. t. [1st un- + lycanthrope + -ize.] To change back from a wolf into a man. Rare.

un·mack'ly (ŭn·măk'lĭ), adj. [Dial. makly seemly, well-proportioned. See MACK, adj.] Unshapely; deformed. Scot. & N. of Eng.

un'made-up', adj. 1. Not made, worked up, or manufactured, into final form; as, an unmade-up satin. 2. Not made up, as with cosmetics, wigs, and the like.

un·mag'is·trate (ŭn·măj'ĭs·trāt), v. t. [1st un- + magistrate.] To divest of magistracy. Obs.

un·maid'en (-măd'n), v. t. [1st un- + maiden.] To ravish; deflower. Obs.

un·mail' (ŭn·māl'), v. t. To unloose the links of mail armor; to take the mail armor from. Hist.

un·mail'a·ble (ŭn·māl'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not of a character permitting mailing, or posting. — un·mail'a·ble·ness, n.

un·make' (ŭn·māk'), v. t. [1st un- + make.] 1. To undo the creation of; to destroy the form and qualities of; to deprive of being; to uncreate. "God does not make or unmake things to try experiments." T. Burnet. 2. To depose from a rank, position, or the like; to reduce to a lower grade. 3. To destroy; ruin. 4. To unfasten or unlock, as a door. Dial. Eng.

un·mak'er (-māk'ĕr), n. One who unmakes.

un·man' (ŭn·măn'), v. t. [1st un- + man.] 1. To deprive of the distinctive qualities of man, as reason, or the like. R. 2. To emasculate; to deprive of virility. 3. To deprive of the courage and fortitude of a man; to break or subdue the manly spirit in; to dishearten; to make womanish. "Let's not unman each other." Byron. 4. To deprive of men; as, to unman a ship.

Syn. — Unnerve, crush. Ant. — Fortify, brace.

un·man' (ŭn·măn'), n. A creature of manlike appearance but not human; a monster.

un·man'a·cle (ŭn·măn'ȧ·k'l), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To free from manacles.

un·man'hood (-hŏŏd), n. Unmanliness. Obs.

un·man'i·a·ble (ŭn·măn'ĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj. Unmanageable. R. un·man'ly (-lĭ), adj.; UN·MAN'LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); UN·MAN'LI·EST. Not manly; specif.: a Not having a man's character or qualities. b Unbecoming a man. — un·man'li·ly (-lĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·man'li·ness, n.

un·man'ly, adv. a In an inhuman manner; hence, savagely. b With lack of manly strength or fortitude.

un·manned' (ŭn·măndʹ; 66), past tense & past part. of UNMAN. Hence: adj. Deprived of masculinity, virility, or manhood.

un·manned', adj. Not manned; as: a Of a ship, without its complement of men. b Unassisted or unaided by men c Unpeopled; uninhabited.

un·manned' (ŭn·măndʹ) adj. [un- not + man + -ed.] Falconry. Not tamed; not made familiar with man. Obs.

Hood my unmanned blood bating in my cheeks. Shak.

un·man'nered (-măn'ĕrd), adj. Not having good manners; rude; discourteous. — un·man'nered·ly, adv.

un·man'ner·ly (ŭn·măn'ĕr·lĭ), adj. Not mannerly; rude. — adv. Uncivilly. — un·man'ner·li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

un·man'tle (-t'l), v. t. [1st un- + mantle.] To divest of a mantle; to uncover. — v. i. To remove one's mantle.

un'man·u·mis'si·ble (ŭn'măn·ū·mĭs'ĭ·b'l), adj. Unredeemable. Rare.

un·mar'riage·a·ble (ŭn·măr'ĭj·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not marriageable; not fit for, or capable of, being married. — un'marriage·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'măr·ĭj·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

un·mar'ried (-ĭd), adj. Not married; specif., Law, designating: a One who has not been married. b One who has been divorced; also, sometimes. a widow or widower.

un·mar'ry (-ĭ), v. t. & i. [1st un- + marry.] To divorce.

un·mask' (ŭn·măsk'; 83), v. t. [1st un- + mask.] To strip of a mask or disguise; to lay open; to expose. — v. i. To put off a mask or disguise, specif. at a certain stage in a masquerade party; hence, to reveal one's true appearance, character, or the like. — un·mask'er (-măs'kĕr), n.

un'ma·ture' (ŭn'mȧ·tūr'), adj. Immature. — un'mature'ly, adv. — un'mature'ness, n. — un'ma·tu'ri·ty (-tū'rĭ·tĭ), n.

un·maze' (ŭn·māz'), v. t. To disentangle or relieve, as from a maze.

un·mean'ing (ŭn·mēn'ĭng), adj. 1. Having no meaning or signification; as, unmeaning words. 2. Not indicating intelligence or sense; senseless; expressionless; as, an unmeaning face; hence, silly; simple; foolish; lacking depth, or seriousness.

— un·mean'ing·ly, adv. — un·mean'ing·ness, n.

un·meant' (-mĕnt'), adj. Not meant; unintentional.

un·meas'ur·a·ble (ŭn·mĕzh'ĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Immeasurable.

— un·meas'ur·a·ble·ness, n. — un·meas'ur·a·bly, adv.

un·meas'ur·a·ble, adv. Unmeasurably. Obs.

un·meas'ured (ŭn·mĕzh'ĕrd; 66), adj. Not measured; hence, boundless; vast; huge; also, of emotion unrestrained.

— un·meas'ured·ly, adv. — un·meas'ured·ness, n.

un·meas'ure·ly (-mĕzh'ĕr·lĭ), adv. Immoderately. Obs.

un'me·chan'i·cal (ŭn'mĕ·kăn'ĭ·kȧl), adj. Also un'me·chan'ic (-ĭk). Not mechanical. — un'me·chan'i·cal·ly, adv.

un·mech'a·nize (ŭn·mĕk'ȧ·nīz), v. t. To undo or put out of gear the mechanism of. Rare.

un·med'dle (-mĕd''l), v. i. To repair or undo the effect of meddling.

un'me·dic'i·na·ble (ŭn'mĕ·dĭs'ĭ·nȧ·b'l; -mĕd'sĭn·ȧ·b'l; cf. MEDICINABLE), adj. 1. Not able to cure. Obs. 2. That cannot be cured.

un·med'ul·lat'ed (ŭn·mĕd'ŭ·lāt'ĕd; -mĕ·dŭl'āt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [See UN- not.] Anat. Having no medullary sheath, as certain nerve fibers.

un·meed'ful (-mēd'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Not deserving reward. Obs.

---

un·limed', adj.; un·lim'it·less, adj.; un·linned', adj.; un·limp', adj.; un·lin'e·al, adj.; un·lined', adj.; un·lin'ger·ing, adj.; un·linked', adj.; un·lip'on·like', adj.; un·liq'ue·fi'a·ble, adj.; un·liq'ue·fied, adj.; un·liq'uid, adj.; un·liq'ui·dat'a·ble, adj.; un·liq'ui·dat'ed, adj.; un·liq'ui·dat'ing, adj.; un'liq·ui·da'tion, n.; un·lisp'ing, adj.; un·lis'ten·ing, adj.; un·lit'er·ar'y, adj.; un·lit'er·ate, adj.; un·lit'i·gat'ed, adj.; un·lit'ten, adj.; un·lit'tered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·liv'a·ble, un·live'a·ble, adj. See UN-, not. — un·liv'a·ble·ness, un·live'a·ble·ness, n. —un·liv'a·bly, un·live'a·bly, adv.

un·live'ly, adj. & adv. See UN-, not. — un·live'li·ness, n.

un·liv'er·ied, adj.; un·liv'ing, adj.; un·liz'ard·like', adj. See UN-, not.

un·load'ed, adj. See 1st UN-.

un·load'ed, adj.; un·loaf'ing, adj.; un·loan'a·bly, adj.; un·loaned', adj.; un·loan'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·loath', adj.; un·loathed', adj.; un·loath'ful, adj.; un·loath'ly, adj.; un·loath'some, adj.; un·lobed', adj.; un·lo'cal·ized, adj.; un·lo'cal·ly, adv.; un·lock'a·ble, un·locked' (-lŏkt'), adj.; un·lock'ing, adj. & n.; un'lo·co·mo'tive, adj.; un·lodged', adj.; un·loft'y, adj.; un·logged' (ŭn·lŏgd'), adj.; un·lone'ly, adj.; un·longed'-for', adj. See UN-, not.

un·loop', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·looped', adj.; un·loos'a·ble, adj.; un·loos'a·bly, adv.; un·loos'en·ing, adj.; un·loos'ing, adj.; un·loot'ed, adj.; un·lopped' (-lŏpt'), un·lopt', adj.; un'loqua'cious, adj.; un·los'a·ble (-lōōz'ȧ·b'l), adj.; un·los'a·bleness, n.; un·lost', adj. See UN-, not.

un·lot'ha·ble, un·loth'ly. Vars. of un·loth'ness, n. [un- not + loath, adj. + -ness.] Innocence. Obs.

un·lot'ted, adj. See UN-, not.

unlouk, unlouken. † UNLOCK.

un·lov'a·ble, un·love'a·ble, adj.; un·lov'a·bly, un·love'a·bly, adv. See UN-, not. — un·lov'a·ble·ness, un·love'a·ble·ness, n. — un·lov'a·bly, un·love'a·bly, adv.

un·low'ered, adj.; un·low'ly, adj. See UN-, not.

un·loy'al, adj. See UN-, not. — un·loy'al·ly, adv. — un·loy'al·ty, n.; un·lu'bri·cate'ed, adj.; un·lu'cent, adj.; un·lu'cid, adj. See UN-, not.

unlucky letter. See THETA, n., 1.

un·lu'cra·tive, adj.; un·lu'dicrous, adj.; un·luffed', adj.; un·lugged', adj.; un'lu·gu'bri·ous, adj.; un·lu'mi·nous, adj.; un·lumped', adj.; un·lu'nar, adj.; un·lured', adj. See UN-, not.

un·lust'ie. Var. of UNLUSTY.

un·lus'trous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·lut'ed, adj.; un·Lu'ther·an, adj.; un·lux'at·ed, adj.; un'lux·u'ri·ant, adj.; un'lux·u'ri·ous, adj.; un·ly'ing, adj.; un·lyr'ical, adj.; un·lyr'i·cal·ly, adv.; un'ma·cad'am·ized, adj.; un·mac'er·at'ed, adj.; un'·Mach·i·a·vel'li·an, adj.; un'ma·chin'a·ble (ŭn'mȧ·shēn'ȧ·b'l), adj.; un·mad', adj.; un·mad'ded, un·mad'dened, adj.; un·made', adj. See UN-, not.

un·mag'ic, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·mag'i·cal, adj.; un'mag·is·te'ri·al, adj.; un·mag'is·tra·tel·like', adj.; un'mag·nan'i·mous, adj.; un'mag·net'ic, adj.; un'·mag·net'i·cal, adj.; un·mag'net·ized, adj.; un·mag'ni·fied, adj. See UN-, not.

un·mag'ni·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·Mag'yar, adj. See UN-, not.

un·maid', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·maid'en·like', a d j ., u n·maid'en·li·ness, n., un·maid'en·ly, adj., un·mailed', adj., un·ma·im'a·ble, adj., un·maimed' (ŭn·māmd'), adj., un'·main·tain'a·ble, adj., un'main·tained', adj., un'ma·jes'tic, adj., un·mak'a·ble (-māk'ȧ·b'l) adj., un'·Ma·lay', adj., un'ma·lev'o·lent, adj., un'ma·li'cious, adj., un'ma·lig'nant, adj., un'ma·ligned', adj., un'mal·le·a·bil'i·ty, n., un·mal'le·a·ble, adj., un·mal'le·a·ble·ness, n., un·malled', adj., un·malt'a·ble, adj., un·malt'ed, adj., un'·Mal·tese', adj., un'mam·ma'lian, adj., un·mam'mon·ized, adj., un·man'a·ciled, adj., un·man'age·a·ble, adj., un·man'age·a·ble·ness, n., un·man'age·a·bly, adv., un·man'aged, adj., un·man'ci·pat'ed, adj., un·man'dat·ed, adj., un·man'dated, adj., un·man'dated', adj., un'ma·néged', adj., un·man'ful, adj., un·man'ful·ly, adv., un·man'gled, adj., un·ma'nia·c, adj., un'ma·ni'a·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

un'·Man·i·chae'an·ize, u n' - Man·i·che'an·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·man'i·cured, adj., un·man'i·fest, adj., un·man'i·fest·ed, adj., un'ma·nip'u·lat'a·ble, adj., un'ma·nip'u·lat'ed, adj., un·man'like', adj. & adv. See UN-, not.

un·man'ner, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·man'nish, adj., un·man'ored, adj., un·man'tled, adj., un'man·u·fac'tur·a·ble, a d j ., un'man·u·fac'tured, adj., un'·man·u·mit'ted, adj., un'man·nur'a·ble, adj., un'ma·nured', adj., un·map'pa·ble, adj., un·mapped', adj., un·mar'bled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·march', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·march'ing, adj., un·mar'gin·al, adj., un·mar'gin·at'ed, adj., un'ma·rine', adj., un·mar'i·time, adj., un·mark'a·ble, adj., un·marked' (-märkt'), adj., un·mar'ket·a·ble, adj., un·mar'ket·ed, adj., un·marled', adj., un·marred' (-märd'), adj. See UN-, not. [RIAGEABLE.]

un·mar'ri·a·ble, adj. = UNMAR-un·mar'ring, adj. See UN-, not.

un·mar'ry·ing, adj., un·mar'shaled, un·mat'shalled, adj., un·mar'tial, adj. See UN-, not.

un·mar'tyr, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·mar'tyred, adj., un·mar'vel·ous, un·mar'vel·lous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·mas'cu·late, v. t. [1st un- + masculate.] To emasculate. Obs.

un·mas'cu·line, a d j ., u n·mashed', adj., un·masked', adj., un·mask'ing, adj., un·mas'sacred, adj., un·massed', adj. See UN-, not. [UN-.]

un·mas·quer·ade', v. t. See 1st un·mas'r, n. t., un·mas'ter, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·mas'ter·a·ble, adj., un·mas'tered, adj., un·mas'ter·ful, adj., un·mas'ti·ca·ble, adj., un·mas'ti·cat'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·mate', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·match'a·ble, a d j ., u n·match'a·ble·ness, n., un·match'a·bly, a d v ., un·matched', adj., un·matched'·ness (-măcht'nĕs; -măch'ĕd·nĕs; 119), n., un·mat'ed (-māt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj., un·ma·te'ri·al, adj., un'ma·te'ri·al·is'tic, adj., un'ma·ter'i·ate, adj., un'ma·ter'nal, adj., un'math·e·mat'i·cal, adj., un'math·e·mat'i·cal·ly, adv., un·mat'ing, adj., un'ma·tric'u·lat'ed, adj., un'mat·ri·mo'ni·al, adj., un·ma·tron·like', adj., un·mat'ted, adj., un'ma·tured' (ŭn'mȧ·tūrd'), adj., un'ma·tur'ing, a d j ., u n·mauled', adj. See UN-, not.

un·meas'ure, n. [un- not + measure.] Excess. Obs.

un·meat'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un'mech·a·nis'tic, adj., un·mech'a·nized, adj., un·med'alled, adj., un·med'dled, adj., un·med'dlesome, adj., un·med'dling, adj., un·med'dling·ly, adv., un·med'dling·ness, n., un·me'di·at'ed, adj., un·me'di·a·tized, adj., un·med'i·ca·ble, adj., un·med'i·cal, adj., un·med'i·cal'ed, adj., un·med'i·ca'tive, adj., un'me·dic'i·nal, adj., un'me·di·e'val, un'·me·di·æ'val, adj., un·med'i·tat'ed, adj., un·med'i·ta'tive, adj., un'·Med·i·ter·ra'ne·an, a d j ., un'me·di·um·i·s'tic, a d j ., un· un·meed'y (ŭn·mēd'ĭ), adj. Without reward. Obs.

---

un·meek' (-mēk'), adj. Not meek; also, Obs., fierce; cruel; unkind. — un·meek'ly, adv. — un·meek'ness, n. un·meet' (ŭn·mēt'), adj. [AS. unmǣte. See UN- not; MEET adj.] 1. Unmeasured; immense. Obs. 2. Unevenly matched; not equal or even in strength, skill, etc. Obs. 3. Not meet or fit; unbecoming; unsuitable; also, incompetent: — usually followed by for.

For war's rough game unmeet. Conington.
Unmeet to be the owner's peer. Scott.

— un·meet'ly, adv. — un·meet'ness, n. un·meet'ly (-lĭ), adj. Unfitting; unseemly. Obs. un·melt' (ŭn·mĕlt'), adj. Unmelted. Obs.
un·mem'ber (-mĕm'bĕr), v. t. [1st un- + member.] To deprive of membership, as in a church.
un·men'tion·a·ble (-mĕn'shŭn·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not to be mentioned, or spoken of; not of a fit nature to be talked about. — un·men·tion·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'mĕn·shŭn·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), un·men'tion·a·ble·ness, n. — un·men'tion·a·bly, adv.
un·men'tion·a·bles (ŭn·mĕn'shŭn·ȧ·b'lz), n. pl. Unmentionable things; sometimes specif., Jocose, breeches; trousers.
un·mer'chant·a·ble (ŭn·mûr'chăn·tȧ·b'l), adj. Com. Not merchantable; not fit for market; unsalable. un·mer'ci·a·ble (-mûr'sĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj. [un- not + merciable.] Unmerciful. Obs. — un·mer'ci·a·bly (-blĭ), adv. Obs.
un·mer'cied (ŭn·mûr'sĭd), adj. Unmerciful. Obs.
un·mer'ci·ful (-sĭ·fo͝ol; -f'l), adj. 1. Not merciful; indisposed to mercy or grace; cruel; inhuman; merciless; unkind. 2. Loosely, excessive; extreme; as, a sermon of unmerciful length.
— un·mer'ci·ful·ly, adv. — un·mer'ci·ful·ness, n. un·mer'ci·less (-sĭ·lĕs; 119), adj. [un- not (intensive) + merciless.] Merciless. Obs.
un·mer'it·a·ble (-mĕr'ĭ·tȧ·b'l), adj. Unmeritorious; also, Obs., unmerited.
un·mesh' (ŭn·mĕsh'), v. t. 1. To free from meshes, as of a net; hence, to disentangle. 2. Of gears, gear teeth, and the like, to release from meshing, or engaging, with each other.
un·meth', adj. [See UN-, not; METHE.] Immense; immoderate. Obs.
un·mew' (ŭn·mū'), v. t. [1st un- + mew to confine.] To release from confinement or restraint.
un'might (ŭn'mĭt), n. [AS. unmiht, unmeaht.] Impotence; infirmity. Obs.
un·might'y (ŭn·mĭt'ĭ), adj. [AS. unmihtig, unmehtig.] Impotent; weak. Archaic. un·mild' (-mīld'), adj. [AS. unmilde.] Not mild; cruel; fierce; rough; severe. — un·mild'ness, n. Both Obs.
un·mil'i·tar'y (-mĭl'ĭ·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Not military in character; as: a Not in accordance with military standards. b Not of or attached to the military profession. — un·mil'i·tar'i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·mil'i·tar'i·ness, n. un·mind' (ŭn·mīnd'), v. i. To forget. — v. t. To cause to forget. Both Obs.
un·mind', n. The quality of being without mind.
un·mind'ed (ŭn·mīn'dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. Forgotten; also, disregarded; unnoticed.
un·mind'ing (-dĭng), n. A not calling to mind. Obs.
un·min'gle (ŭn·mĭng'g'l), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To separate, as things mixed. — un·min'gle'a·ble (-g'l·ȧ·b'l), adj. — un·min'gled, adj.
un·mist' (ŭn·mĭst'), v. t. To clear from mist.
un'mis·tak'a·ble (ŭn'mĭs·tāk'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not capable of being mistaken or misunderstood; clear; plain; obvious; evident. — un'mis·tak'a·ble·ness, n. — un'mis·tak'a·bly, adv.

Syn. — Patent, open, apparent.
Ant. — Ambiguous, equivocal, debatable.

un·mi'ter, un·mi'tre (ŭn·mī'tĕr), v. t. [1st un- + miter.] To deprive of a miter; to depose or degrade from the rank of a bishop.
un·mit'i·gat'ed (-mĭt'ĭ·gāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not mitigated; not softened or lessened. — un·mit'i·gat'ed·ly, adv. — un·mit'i·gat'ed·ness, n.
un·mo'ble (ŭn·mō'b'l), adj. & n. Unmovable; immovable. Obs.
un·mod'er·ate (-mŏd'ĕr·ĭt), adj. Immoderate. — un·mod'er·ate·ly, adv. — un·mod'er·ate·ness, n.
un·mod'ern·ize (-mŏd'ĕr·nīz), v. t. To render not modern; to give an appearance of antiquity to.
un·mold', un·mould' (ŭn·mōld'), v. [1st un- + mold.] Transitive: 1. To change or destroy the form of; to reduce from any form. 2. To remove from a mold, as jelly or the like.
—, Intransitive: To lose shape. un'mo·lest' (ŭn'mō·lĕst'), adj. Unmolested. Obs.
un·mon'eyed (ŭn·mŭn'ĭd), adj. Also un·mon'ied. Moneyless; penniless. un'mo·nop'o·lize (ŭn'mō·nŏp'ō·līz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To recover or release from the state of being monopolized. Rare.
un·moor' (ŭn·mo͝or'; 199), v. t. & i. [1st un- + moor.] Naut. a To cause (a vessel) to ride with one anchor after having been moored by two or more anchors. b To loose (a vessel) from moorings or anchorage. See MOOR, v. t., 2.
un·mor'al (ŭn·môr'ăl), adj. Having no moral perception, quality, or relation; not involving morality; — disting. from moral and immoral. — un·mor'al·ist (-ĭst), n. — un'mo·ral'i·ty (ŭn'mō·răl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·mor'al·ly, adv. — un·mor'al·ness, n.
un·mor'al·ized (ŭn·môr'ăl·īzd), adj. 1. Not restrained or tutored by morality. 2. Not having undergone moralizing. un·mor'al·iz'ing (-īz'ĭng), adj. 1. Not moralizing. See UN-, not. 2. Demoralizing. Rare. un·mor'ised (ŭn·môr'ĭst), adj. Not arrayed in the dress of a morris dancer. Obs. un·mor'tal·ize (-môr'tăl·īz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To slay. Obs.
un·mor'tise (ŭn·môr'tĭs), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To loosen, unfix, or separate, as a mortise, or things mortised together.
un·moth'ered (-mŭth'ĕrd), adj. [1st un- + mother.] 1. Deprived of a mother; motherless. 2. Deprived of a mother's character, sentiment, or feelings.
un·mo'tived (ŭn·mō'tĭvd), adj. Having no motive; not connected with, or contributing to, the motive or main action or purpose; as, an unmotived part of a work of art.
un·mot'tled curl'y dwarf (-mŏt'l'd). Plant Pathol. A virus disease of the potato producing dwarfing but no mottling, as in mosaic.
un·mount' (ŭn·mount'), v. t. a To unfasten and take off, down, or apart. b To dismount from. — v. i. To dismount.
un·mount'ed (ŭn·moun'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not mounted; as: a Not on horseback; as, unmounted police. b Not affixed to a mount, carriage, backing, or setting; as, an unmounted photograph; unmounted artillery.
un·mov'a·ble (ŭn·mo͞ov'ȧ·b'l), adj. & n. Immovable. — un·mov·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn·mo͞ov·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·mov'a·ble·ness, n. — un·mov'a·bly (ŭn·mo͞ov'ȧ·blĭ), adv.
un·mov'a·ble·ty (-b'l·tĭ), n. Unmovableness. Obs.
un·moved' (ŭn·mo͞ovd'; 66), adj. Not moved; as: a Firm; remaining in the same place or position; unshaken. b Calm; apathetic; undisturbed emotionally. c Rare. Not purged. — un·mov'ed·ly (-mo͞ov'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv.
un·mud'dle (-mŭd'l), v. t. To straighten out from a muddle.
un·muf'fle (ŭn·mŭf'l), v. [1st un- + muffle.] Transitive: 1. To take a covering from, as the face; to uncover. 2. To remove the muffling of, as a drum.
—, Intransitive: To remove the muffling, or covering. un·mu'ta·ble (-mū'tȧ·b'l), adj. Immutable. Obs.
un·muz'zle (ŭn·mŭz'l), v. t. [1st un- + muzzle.] To loose from a muzzle; to remove a muzzle from.
un·mys'ter·y (-mĭs'tĕr·ĭ), v. t. To divest of mystery. Rare.
un·nail' (ŭn·nāl'), v. t. [1st un- + nail.] To remove the nails from; to unfasten by removing nails.
un·nap'kined (ŭn·năp'kĭnd), adj. Without a napkin.
un·napped', un·napt' (ŭn·năpt'), adj. Not having a nap.
un·nat'u·ral (ŭn·năt'ū·răl), adj. Not natural; as: a Contrary, or not conforming, to the order of nature; as, an unnatural picture; hence, artificial. b Without, or acting contrary to, natural traits or instincts; as, an unnatural parent or child. c Hence, abnormally cruel or wicked; also, strange; abnormal.

Syn. — Strange. See FACTITIOUS; cf. ARTIFICIAL.
Ant. — Ordinary, usual.

— un·nat'u·ral·ly, adv. — un·nat'u·ral·ness, n.
un·nat'u·ral·ism (ŭn·năt'ū·răl·ĭz'm), n. Want of natural feeling or of naturalness. — un·nat'u·ral·ist (-ĭst), n.
un'nat·u·ral'i·ty (ŭn'năt·ū·răl'ĭ·tĭ), n. a Rare. Unnaturalness; artificiality. b Obs. Imbecility. Scot.
un·nat'u·ral·ize (ŭn·năt'ū·răl·īz), v. t. 1. To make unnatural. Rare. 2. To take away the rights of citizenship from.
un·na'ture (-nā'tûr), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To divest of (one's) nature.
un·na'ture, n. [un- not + nature.] The contrary of nature; that which is unnatural. Rare.
un·nealed' (ŭn·nēld'), adj. Unannealed. Obs.
un·near' (-nēr'), prep. Not near. Obs. un·neath' (-nēth'), prep. Underneath. Obs.
un·nec'es·sar'y (ŭn·nĕs'ĕ·sĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -sĕr·ĭ), adj. a Not necessary; not required under the circumstances; useless; needless; as, unnecessary labor, care, or rigor. b Obs. Not needing much, as for sustenance. Shak. — un·nec'es·sar'i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·nec'es·sar'i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; 119), n.
un·nec'es·sar'y, n. Something not needed or required; an unessential.
Un·nef'er (o͞on·nĕf'ĕr), n. [Egypt. Unn-nefer(ʜ), lit., being-good, good being.] Egypt. Myth. A surname of Osiris. un·neigh'bored, -neigh'boured (ŭn·nā'bĕrd), adj. Being without neighbors. un·neigh'bor·ly, -neigh'bour·ly (-bĕr·lĭ), adj. Not neighborly; not friendly and courteous to a neighbor. — un·neigh'bor·li·ness, -neigh'bour·li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; 119), n.
un·neigh'bor·ly, adv. In an unneighborly manner.
un·nerve' (ŭn·nûrv'), v. t. [1st un- + nerve.] To deprive of nerve, force, or strength; hence, to deprive of courage, steadiness, strength, or the like; to weaken; to cause to lose control of oneself; as, to unnerve the arm; he was unnerved by the disaster.

The unnerved father falls. Shak.

Syn. — UNNERVE, ENERVATE. To UNNERVE is to deprive of strength or to unman, esp. as by some calamity or sudden shock; ENERVATE implies relaxation of (esp. moral) fiber, under the influence of luxury, indolence, effeminacy, and the like; as, "Government was unnerved, confounded, and in a manner suspended" (Burke); "That beloved name unnerved my arm" (M. Arnold); he was completely unnerved by the accident; "those unhappy people whose tender minds a long course of felicity has enervated" (Bolingbroke); "The people sink into sloth, and luxury, and prostitution. [The kingdom] is enervated at home — becomes contemptible abroad" (Fielding).
Ant. — Fortify, strengthen, brace, hearten.
un·nest' (-nĕst'), v. t. & i. To go or put forth from, or as from, a nest.
un·net' (-nĕt'), adj. [un- not + past part. of ME. neden to compel, fr. AS. nīedan.] Unconstrained; not confined in or as in a net. Obs.
un·newsed' (-nūzd'), adj. Unprovided with news. Obs.
un·nimbed' (-nĭmbd'; -nĭmd'), adj. Not having a nimbus. Rare.
un·no'ble (-nō'b'l), v. t. To deprive of nobility; to render ignoble. Rare.
un·no'ble, adj. Ignoble; common; undistinguished. — un'no·bil'i·ty (ŭn'nō·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·no'ble·ness, n. — un·no'bly, adv.
un·nooked' (-nŏŏkt'), adj. Without nooks; hence, guileless. Obs.
un·nose' (-nōz'), v. t. To deprive of one's nose.
un·no'tice·a·ble (ŭn·nō'tĭs·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not noticeable; so slight, small, vague, or the like, as to escape notice. — un·no'tice·a·ble·ness, n. — un·no'tice·a·bly, adv.
un·no'ticed (-tĭst), adj. Not noticed, or noted.
un·no'ti·fy (ŭn·nō'tĭ·fī), v. t. To withdraw a notice of.

---

meet'a·ble, adj., un·mel'an·choly, adj., un·mel'lo·rat'ed (ŭn·mĕl'yō·rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj., un·mel'low, adj., un·mel'lowed, adj., un'me·lod'ic, adj., un·me·lo'di·ous, adj., un'me·lo'di·ously, adv., un'me·lo'di·ous·ness, n., un·mel'o·dized (ŭn·mĕl'ō·dīzd), adj., un'mel·o·dra·mat'ic, adj., un·melt'a·ble, adj., un·melt'a·ble·ness, n., un·melt'a·bly, adv., un·melt'ed, adj., un·melt'ed·ness, n., un·melt'ing, adj., un·mem'oired, adj., un·mem'o·rable, adj., un'me·mo'ri·al·ized, adj., un·mem'o·ried, adj., un·me·mo·rized, adj., un·men'aced, adj., un·men'ac·ing, adj., un·mend'a·ble, adj., un·mend'a·ble·ness, n., un·mend'a·bly, adv., un'men·da·cious, adj., un·mend'ed, adj., un·me'ni·al, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mense'ful, adj. See UN-, not. Scot. & Dial.
un·men'stru·at'ing, adj., un·men'sur·a·ble (ŭn·mĕn'shŏr·ȧ·b'l), adj., un·men'tal, adj., un·men'tioned, adj., un·mer'can·tile, adj., un·mer'ce·nar'i·ness, n., un·mer'ce·nar'y, adj., un·mer'cer·ized, adj., un·mer'chant·like', adj., un·mer'chant·ly, adj. & adv., See UN-, not.
Unmerciful Parliament. = WONDERFUL PARLIAMENT. un'mer·cu'ri·al, adj., un'mer·e·tri'cious, adj. See UN-, not.
un·merge', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·merged', adj., un'me·rid'i·o·nal, adj., un·mer'it·ed, adj., un·mer'it·ed·ly, adv., un·mer'it·ed·ness, n., un·mer'it·ing, adj., un'mer·i·to'ri·ous, adj., un'mer·i·to'ri·ous·ly, adv., un'mer·i·to'ri·ous·ness, n., un·mer'ry, adj., un'mes·mer'ic, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mes'mer·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mes'mer·ized, adj., un·met', adj., un·met'aled, un·met'alled, adj., un·met'al·ized, adj., un'me·tal'lic, adj., un'met·al·lur'gical, adj., un'met·a·mor'phosed, adj., un'met·a·phor'i·cal, adj., un'met·a·phys'ic, adj., un'met·a·phys'i·cal, adj. See UN-, not.
unmete. † UNMEET.
un·met'ed (ŭn·mēt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj., un'me·te·or·o·log'i·cal, adj., un·me'tered, -me'tred (-mē'tĕrd), adj., un'me·thod'i·cal, adj., un'me·thod'i·cal·ly, adv., un'me·thod'i·cal·ness, n. See UN-, not.
un·Meth'od·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·meth'od·ized, adj., un·meth'od·iz'ing, adj., un·me·thod·ist, adj., un'me·tic'u·lous, adj., un·met'ric, adj., un·met'ri·cal, adj., un·met'ri·cal·ly, adv., un·met'ri·cal·ness, n., un'met·ro·pol'i·tan, adj. See UN-, not.
un·met'tle·d, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mewed', adj., un·Mex'i·can, adj., un'mi·ca'ceous, adj., un'mi·cro'bic, adj., un'mi·cro·scop'ic, adj., un·mid'wifed', adj., un·mi'grat·ing, adj., un·mil'dewed, adj., un·mil'i·tant, adj., un'mil·i·ta·ri'tic, adj., un·mil'i·ta·rized, adj., un·milked' (ŭn·mĭlkt'), adj., un·milled' (-mĭld'), adj., un·mil'li·nered, adj., un·milt'ed, adj., un'-Mil·ton'ic, adj., un·mim'icked, adj., un·min'a·ble, adj., un·minced', adj., un·min'cing, adj., un·mind'ful, adj., un·mind'ful·ly, adv., un·mind'ful·ness, adj., un·mind'ing, adj., un·mined', adj., un·min'er·al·ized, adj., un·min'gling, adj., un·min'i·mized, adj., un·min'ished, adj. See UN-, not.
un·min'is·ter, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·min'is·tered, adj., un'min·is·te'ri·al, adj., un'min·is·te'ri·al·ly, adv., un·mint'ed, adj., un'·mi·nut'ed, adj., un·mir'a·cled, adj., un'mi·rac'u·lous, adj., un'·mi·ra·cu'lous·ly, adv., un·mired', adj., un·mir'rored, adj., un·mirth'ful, adj., un·mirth'ful·ly, adv., un·mirth'ful·ness, n., un·mir'y (ŭn·mīr'ĭ), adj., un'mis·an·throp'ic, adj., un'·mis·car'ry·ing, adj., un·mis'chie·vous, adj., un·mis'ci·ble, adj., un'mis·con·ceiv'a·ble, adj., un·mis'er·ly, adj., un'mis·giv'ing, adj., un'mis·giv'ing·ly, adv., un'mis·guid'ed, adj., un'mis·in·ter'pret·a·ble, adj., un'mis·led', adj., un·miss'a·ble, adj., un·missed' (ŭn·mĭst'), adj., un·mis'sion·ar'y, adj., un·mis'sionized, adj., un'mis·tak'ed·ly, adv., un'mis·tak'en, adj., un'mis·tak'ing·ly, adv., un·mis'tressed, adj., un'mis·trust'ed, adj., un'mis·trust'ful, adj., un'mis·trust'ing, adj., un'mis·un·der·stand'a·ble, adj., un'mis·un·der·stand'ing, adj., un'mis·un·der·stood', adj., un·mit'i·ga·ble, adj., un·mit'i·ga·bly, adv., un·mit'i·ga'tive, adj., un·mit'tened, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mix'a·ble, adj., un·mix'a·ble·ness, n., un·mixed', un·mixt', adj., un·mix'ed·ly (ŭn·mĭk'sĕd·lĭ; -mĭkst'lĭ), adv., un·mix'ed·ness, n., un·moaned', adj., un·moat'ed, adj., un·mobbed', adj., un·mob'i·lized, adj., un·mocked', adj., un·mock'ing, adj., un·mocking·ly, adv. See UN-, not.
un·mod'el, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mod'eled, un·mod'elled, adj., un·mod'er·at'ing, adj., un·mod'ern, adj., un·mo·der'ni·ty, n., un·mod'ern·ized, adj., un·mod'est, adj., un·mod'i·fi'a·ble, adj., un·mod'i·fi'a·bly, adv., un·mod'i·fi'a·bly, adv., un·mod'i·fied, adj., un·mod'i·fied·ness, n., un·mod'ish (ŭn·mōd'ĭsh), adj., un·mod'u·lat'ed, adj., un'·Mo·ham'med·an, adj., un·moiled', adj., un·moist', adj. See UN-, not.
un·mois'ten, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mold'a·ble, adj., un·mold'ed, adj., un·mold'ered, adj., un·mold'er·ing, adj., un·mold'y, adj., un'mo·lest'ed, adj., un'mo·lest'ed·ly, adv., un'mo·lest'ing, adj., un·mol'li·fi'a·ble, adj., un·mol'li·fied, adj., un·mol'li·fied, adj., un·mol'li·fy'ing, adj., un·mol'ten (-mōl'tĕn; -t'n), adj., un·mo'men·tar'y, adj., un'·mo·men'tous, adj., un'mo·men'tous·ly, adv. See UN-, not.
un·mon'arch, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mon'ar·chi·cal, adj., un'mo·nas'tic, adj., un·mon'e·tar'y, adj., un'·Mon·go'li·an, adj., un'mo·nis'tic, adj., un·mon'i·tored, adj., un·monk'ish, adj., un·monk'ly, adj., un'mo·nop'o·lized, adj., un'mo·nop'o·liz'ing, adj., un'mo·not'o·nous, adj., un·mon'u·ment'ed, adj., un·moored', adj., un·Moor'ish, adj., un·moot'ed, adj., un·mopped', adj. See UN-, not.
un·mor'al·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mor'al·iz'ing, adj., un·mor'bid, adj., un·mor'dant·ed, adj., un·mor'i·bund, adj., un·Mor'mon, adj., un'mo·rose', adj., un'mor·pho·log'i·cal, adj., un·mor'tal, adj., un·mor'tared, adj., un·mort'gage·a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mort'gage, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mort'gaged, adj., un·mor'tified, adj., un·mor'ti·fied·ly, adv., un·mor'ti·fied·ness, n., un·mor'tised, adj., un'·Mo·sa'ic, adj., un·Mos'lem, adj., un·Mos'lem·like', adj., un·mossed', adj., un·moth'-eat'en, adj., un·moth'er·ly, adj., un·mo'tion·a·ble, adj., un·mo'ti·vat'ed, adj., un·mo'ti·vat'ed·ly, adv., un·mo'ti·vat'ed·ness, n., un·mo'tor·ized, adj., un·mot'tled, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mould', un·mould'ed, un·mould'er·ing, un·mould'y. Vars. of UNMOLD, UNMOLDED, UNMOLDERED, UNMOLDERING, UNMOLDY.
un·mound'ed, adj., un·mount'a·ble, adj., un·mount'ain·ous, adj., un·mount'ing, adj., un·mourned', adj., un·mourn'ful, adj., un·mourn'ing, adj., un·mouth'a·ble, adj., un·mouthed', adj., un·mouth'pieced', adj., un·mov'ing (-mo͞ov'ĭng), adj., un·mov'ing·ly, adv., un·mov'ing·ness, n., un·mowed', adj., un·mown', adj., un·mu'ci·laged, adj., un·mud'ded, adj., un·mud'dled, adj., un·mud'dy, adj., un·muf'fled, adj., un·mulct'ed, adj., un·mul'ish, adj., un·mulled', adj., un·mul'tioned, adj., un·mul'ti·pli'a·ble, adj., un·mul'ti·plied, adj., un·mul'ti·plied·ly, adv. See UN-, not.
un·mul'ti·ply, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mum'mied, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mum'mi·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·munched', adj., un·mun'dane, adj., un·mun'di·fied, adj., un'mu·nic'i·pal·ized, adj., un'·mu·nif'i·cent, adj., un'mu·ni'tioned (ŭn'mū·nĭsh'ŭnd), adj., un·mu'ral, adj., un·mur'mur·ing, adj., un·mur'mur·ous, adj., un·mus'cled, adj., un·mus'cular, adj., un·mu'si·cal, adj., un'·mu·si·cal'i·ty, n., un·mu'si·cally, adv., un·mu'si·cal·ness, n., un'mu·si'cian·ly, adj., un·musked', adj., un·mus'sised', adj., un·must'ed, adj., un·mus'ter·a·ble, adj., un·mus'tered, adj., un·mu'tat·ed, adj., un·mut'ed, adj., un·mu'ti·lat'ed, adj., un·mu'ti·nous, adj., un·mut'tered, adj., un·mu'tu·al, adj., un·mu'tu·al·ized, adj., un·muz'zled, adj., un·muz'zling, adj., un·my'e·linat'ed, adj., un'mys·te'ri·ous, adj., un'mys·te'ri·ous·ly, adv., un·mys'ti·cal, adj. See UN-, not.
un·mys'ti·cize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·mys'ti·fied, adj., un·myth'ical, adj., un·nabbed', adj., un·nagged', adj., un·nag'ging, adj., un·nailed', adj., un·nak'ed, adj. See UN-, not.
un·nam'a·ble, un·name'a·ble, adj. See UN-, not. — un'nam·a·bil'i·ty, un'name·a·bil'i·ty, n. — un·nam'a·ble·ness, un·name'a·ble·ness, n. — un·nam'a·bly, un·name'a·bly, adv.
un·name', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·named' (-nāmd'), adj., un'·nar·cot'ic, adj., un'nar·rat'ed, adj., un·nar'row, adj. See UN-, not.
un·na'tion, n. t. See 1st UN-. un·na'tion·al (ŭn·năsh'ŭn·ăl), adj., un·na'tion·al·ized, adj., un·na'tive, adj., un·nat'ur·al·is'tic, adj., un·nat'u·ral·iz'a·ble, adj., un·nat'u·ral·ized, adj., un·nau'ti·cal, adj., un'nav·i·ga·bil'i·ty, n., un·nav'i·ga·ble, adj., un·nav'i·ga·ble·ness, n., un·nav'i·ga·bly, adv., un·nav'i·gat'ed, adj., un·neaped', adj., un'·Ne·a·pol'i·tan, adj., un·near'a·ble, adj., un·neared', adj., un·near'ly, adv., un·near'ness, adj., un·neat', adj., un·neat'ly, adv., un·neat'ness, n., un·neb'u·lous, adj., un'ne·ces'si·tat'ed, adj., un'ne·ces'si·tat'ing, adj., un'ne·ces'si·ty, n., un·need'ed, adj., un·need'ful, adj., un·need'ful·ly, adv., un·need'ful·ness, n., un·need'y, adj., un'ne·far'i·ous, adj., un'ne·gat'ed, adj., un'neglect'ed, adj., un·neg'li·gent, adj., un'ne·go'ti·a·ble, adj., un'ne·go'ti·a·ble·ness, n., un'ne·go'ti·a·bly, adv., un'ne·go'ti·at'ed, adj., un·ne'gro, adj., un·neigh'bor·like', adj., un'neph·rit'ic, adj., un·nerved', adj., un·nerv'ous, adj. See UN-, not.
un·nes'tle, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·nes'tled, adj. See UN-, not.
unneth, unnethe. † UNEATH. unnethes, unnethis. † UNEATHS. un·net'ted, adj., un·net'tled, adj., un'neu·rot'ic, adj., un·neu'tral, adj., un·neu'tral·ized, adj., un·neu'tral·ly, adv., un·new', adj., un·new'ly, adv., un·new'ness, n. See UN-, not.
Un'ni (ŭn'ĭ). Bib.
un·nibbed', adj., un·nib'bled, adj., un·nice', adj., un·nice'ly, adv., un·nice'ness, n., un·niched', adj., un·nicked' (ŭn·nĭkt'), adj., un·nick'eled, un·nick'elled, adj., un·nick'named', adj., un·nig'gard, adj., un·nig'gard·ly, adj., un·nigh', adj., un·nim'ble, adj., un·nim'ble·ness, n., un·nim'bly, adv., un·nipped', adj., un·ni'tro·genized, adj., un'no·bil'i·tat'ed, adj., un·noised', adj., un'nomad'ic, adj., un·nom'i·nat'ed, adj., un'non·sen'si·cal, adj., un·noosed', adj., un·nor'mal, adj., un·Nor'man, adj., un·north'ern, adj., un'-Nor·we'gian, adj., un·nosed', adj., un·not'a·ble, adj., un·notched' (-nŏcht'), adj., un·not'ed (-nōt'ĕd; 119), adj., un·note'wor'thy, adj., un·not'ice·ing, adj., un·not'i·fied, adj., un·not'ing, adj., un·nour'ishable, adj., un·nour'ished, adj., un·nour'ish·ing, adj., un·nou'sel, adj., un'no·ver'cal, adj., un·nu'cleat'ed, adj., un·nul'li·fied, adj., un·numbed', adj. See UN-, not.

un·num′ber·a·ble (ŭn·nŭm′bĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Innumerable. — un·num′ber·a·ble·ness, n. — un·num′ber·a·bly, adv.

un·num′bered (ŭn·nŭm′bĕrd), adj. Not numbered; as: a Not counted or estimated; innumerable. b Not marked with a number. — un·num′bered·ness, n.

un·nu′mer·a·ble (-nū′mĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Innumerable. Obs.

un·nun′ (ŭn·nŭn′), v. t. [1st un- + nun.] To remove from the condition of being a nun. Obs.

‖u′no a′ni·mo (ū′nō än′ī·mō). [L.] With one mind; unanimously.

‖u′no a u′no (ōō′nō ä ōō′nō). [It.] Music. One by one.

un′o·be′di·ent (ŭn′ō·bē′dĭ·ĕnt; 159), adj. Disobedient. — un′o·be′di·ence (-ĕns), n. — un′o·be′di·ent·ly, adv.

un′ob·jec′tion·a·ble (-ŏb·jĕk′shŭn·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not objectionable. — un′ob·jec′tion·a·ble·ness, n. — un′ob·jec′tion·a·bly, adv.

un′o·blig′ing (-ō·blīj′ĭng), adj. Not obliging; disobliging. — un′o·blig′ing·ly, adv. — un′o·blig′ing·ness, n.

un′ob·lit′er·a·ble (ŭn′ŏb·lĭt′ĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. That cannot be obliterated.

un′ob·serv′ance (ŭn′ŏb·zûr′vȧns), n. Want or neglect of observance; inobservance; inattention.

un′ob·serv′ant (-vȧnt), adj. Not observant; not noticing. — un′ob·serv′ant·ly, adv. — un′ob·serv′ant·ness, n.

un′ob·served′ (ŭn′ŏb·zûrvd′), adj. Not observed, or perceived. — un′ob·serv′ed·ly (-zûr′vĕd·lĭ; -vĭd·lĭ; 119), adv.

un′ob·serv′ing (-zûr′vĭng), adj. Not observing or noticing. — un′ob·serv′ing·ly, adv.

un′ob·struct′ed (-strŭk′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not obstructed; as, an unobstructed view, effect, policy. — un′ob·struct′ed·ly, adv. — un′ob·struct′ed·ness, n.

un′ob·tain′a·ble (-tān′ȧ·b'l), adj. Not obtainable, or procurable. — un′ob·tain′a·bleness, n. — un′ob·tain′a·bly, adv.

un′ob·tru′sive (-trōō′sĭv), adj. Not obtrusive; modest. — un′ob·tru′sive·ly, adv. — un′ob·tru′sive·ness, n.

un·oc′cu·pied (ŭn·ŏk′ū·pīd), adj. Not occupied; as: a Not occupied, as by tenants; empty. b Not busy; unemployed. c Insurance. Designating premises in which no one is living, although the furniture and fixtures have not been removed. Cf. VACANT, adj., 6. — un·oc′cu·pied·ly, adv. — un·oc′cu·pied·ness, n.

u′node (ū′nōd), n. [L. unus one + E. node.] Math. = UNIPLANAR POINT.

un′of·fend′ed (ŭn′ō·fĕn′dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. Not offended; not taking offense. — un′of·fend′ed·ly, adv.

un′of·fend′ing, adj. Not offending, or offensive; esp., not harming; harmless; innocuous. — un′of·fend′ing·ly, adv.

un′of·fen′sive (ŭn′ō·fĕn′sĭv), adj. Inoffensive. — un′of·fen′sive·ly, adv. — un′of·fen′sive·ness, n.

un′of·fi′cial (ŭn′ō·fĭsh′ȧl), adj. a Not official; not being authoritative, or from official sources. b Pharm. Not recognized by the legal standards or government of a country. The legal standards of countries differ; hence a drug may be official in one country but not in another. — un′of·fi′cial·ly, adv. — un′of·fi′cial·ness, n.

un′of·fic′i·nal (ŭn′ō·fĭs′ĭ·nȧl; -n'l), adj. Pharm. Not commonly kept in stock.

un·of′ten (ŭn·ŏf′ĕn; -'n; 185), adv. Also un·oft′ (-ŏft′). Not often; seldom.

un·oil′ (ŭn·oil′), v. t. [1st un- + oil.] To remove or extract the oil from.

un·old′ (-ōld′), adj. Not old; young.

un·old′, v. t. To rejuvenate. Rare.

U·no′na (ū·nō′nȧ), n. [NL., fr. Uvaria, its old name + Anona, or Annona, name of a related genus.] Bot. A genus of tropical Asiatic and African trees, shrubs, or woody vines (family Annonaceae), having flowers with flat spreading petals succeeded by an aggregate of stalked berries. The aromatic bark and fruit of several species are used medicinally and in perfumery.

un·oped′ (ŭn·ōpt′), adj. Unopened. Poetical.

un·o′pen (-ō′pĕn), v. t. Not to open; to leave closed.

un·o′pen, adj. Not open; closed. — un·o′pen·ly, adv. — un·o′pen·ness, n.

un·o′pened (-pĕnd), adj. Not opened; specif., Bibliography, of books, periodicals, etc., not having the leaves separated by slitting, trimming, or otherwise, the outer folds being intact. Cf. UNCUT, 4.

un·op′er·a′tive (ŭn·ŏp′ĕr·ā′tĭv; -ȧ·tĭv), adj. Inoperative.

un′o·per′cu·late (ŭn′ō·pûr′kū·lĭt), adj. Also un′o·per′cu·lat·ed (-lāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119). Inoperculate.

un′op·por·tune′ (-ŏp′ŏr·tūn′; 66), adj. Not opportune or timely; inopportune. — un′op·por·tune′ly, adv. — un′op·por·tune′ness, n.

un′or·dained′ (ŭn′ôr·dānd′), adj. a Not ordained in the ministry or priesthood. b Obs. Inordinate. c Not decreed, as by ordinance.

un·or′der (ŭn·ôr′dĕr), v. t. [1st un- + order.] To countermand an order for. Rare.

un·or′dered (-dĕrd), adj. Not ordered; as: a Disordered; not arranged in order; also, disorderly; unruly. b Not decreed; uncommanded. c Rare. Not belonging to an order.

un·or′der·ly (-dĕr·lĭ), adj. Disorderly; disordered.

un·or′di·nar′y (ŭn·ôr′dĭ·nĕr′ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ, -d'n·rĭ), adj. Not ordinary; esp., out of the ordinary; unusual; extraordinary. — un·or′di·nar′i·ly, adv. — -i·ness, n.

un·or′di·nate (ŭn·ôr′dĭ·nāt), adj. Inordinate. — un·or′di·nate·ly, adv. — un·or′di·nate·ness, n.

un·or′ganed (ŭn·ôr′gȧnd), adj. Deprived of vital organs. Obs.

un′or·gan′ic (ŭn′ôr·găn′ĭk), adj. Also un′or·gan′i·cal (-ĭ·kȧl). Inorganic. — un′or·gan′i·cal·ly, adv. — un′or·gan′i·cal·ness, n.

un·or′gan·ized (ŭn·ôr′gȧn·īzd), adj. Not organized; without organic structure; as: a Not brought into a coherent or well-ordered whole. b Not having the characteristics of a living organism. — un·or′gan·ized·ly, adv. — un·or′gan·ized·ness, n.

unorganized ferment. See FERMENT, n., 1.

un·o′ri·ent′ed (-ō′rĭ·ĕn′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not oriented; as: a Not having the position, direction, and bearings, definitely ascertained. b Petrog. Pertaining to a texture in igneous rocks in which the individual crystals lie crisscross in orientation.

un′o·rig′i·nal (ŭn′ō·rĭj′ĭ·nȧl; -n'l), adj. 1. Not original; secondhand.

2. Having no origin. Rare. Milton.

— un′o·rig′i·nal′i·ty (-năl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′o·rig′i·nal·ly, adv. — un′o·rig′i·nal·ness, n.

un′o·rig′i·nal, n. An unoriginal person or thing; an imitator.

un′o·rig′i·nate (ŭn′ō·rĭj′ĭ·nāt), adj. Unoriginated. — n. An unoriginate being. — un′o·rig′i·nate·ly, adv. — un′o·rig′i·nate·ness, n.

un′o·rig′i·nat′ed (-nāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not originated; existing from all eternity; uncreated.

2. Not yet caused to be, or to be made.

— un′o·rig′i·nat′ed·ness, n.

un′o·rig′i·na′tion (-nā′shŭn), n. Unoriginatedness.

un′o·rig′i·na′tive (-rĭj′ĭ·nā′tĭv), adj. Not originative, or original; having no talent for originating. — un′o·rig′i·na′tive·ly, adv. — un′o·rig′i·na′tive·ness, n.

un·orn′ (ŭn·ôrn′), adj. [AS. unorne.] Obs. a Plain; poor; rude; coarse. b Feeble; decrepit. — un·orn′ly, adv.

un·or′tho·dox (-ôr′thō·dŏks), adj. Not orthodox; not in accord with approved, standardized, or conventional doctrine, method, thought, or the like. — un′or·tho·dox′i·cal·ly (ŭn′ôr·thō·dŏk′sĭ·kȧl·ĭ), adv. — un·or′tho·dox′y (ŭn·ôr′thō·dŏk′sĭ), n.

un′os·ten·ta′tious (ŭn′ŏs·tĕn·tā′shŭs; -ŏs·tĕn-), adj. Not ostentatious; not showy or flamboyant; quiet and restrained in taste. — un′os·ten·ta′tious·ly, adv. — un′os·ten·ta′tious·ness, n.

un′out·speak′a·ble (-out·spēk′ȧ·b'l), adj. Inexpressible.

un′o·ver·com′a·ble (ŭn′ō·vĕr·kŭm′ȧ·b'l), -come′a·ble, adj. Invincible. Obs.

un′o·ver·pass′a·ble (-pȧs′ȧ·b'l), adj. Insuperable. Obs.

un′o·ver·trow′a·ble (-trou′ȧ·b'l), adj. [Cf. ME. ortrowien to suspect, AS. ortrŭwian to despair, ortrēowe despairing, faithless.] Not to be suspected. Obs.

un·owed′ (ŭn·ōd′; 66), adj. 1. Ownerless. Obs.

2. Not owed; as, to pay money unowed.

un·own′ (ŭn·ōn′), v. t. To disown; to refuse to acknowledge or avow.

un·owned′ (ŭn·ōnd′; 66), adj. [un- not + (sense a) owned possessed, and (sense b) owned acknowledged.] Not owned; as: a Having no owner; as, an unowned dog. b Not acknowledged; not avowed; as, an unowned act.

un·pac′i·fied (-pȧs′ĭ·fīd), adj. Not pacified; esp., not reduced to a state of peace and order, as a district or province after rebellious disturbances. — un·pac′i·fied·ly, adv. — un·pac′i·fied·ness, n.

un·pack′ (ŭn·păk′), v. [1st un- + pack.] Transitive: 1. To separate and remove, as things packed; to open and remove the contents of; as, to unpack a trunk.

2. To relieve of a pack or burden. Rare.

—, Intransitive: To unpack a trunk, crate, case, or the like.

un·pack′er (-ĕr), n. One who unpacks.

un·paid′ (ŭn·pād′; 66), adj. 1. Not paid; serving without pay.

2. Not presented as payment; of a debt, not cleared by payment.

3. Unavenged. Obs.

un′paid-let′ter stamps. Postage-due stamps.

un·paint′ (ŭn·pānt′), v. t. [1st un- + paint.] To remove the paint from; to efface, as a painting.

un·paint′a·ble (-pān′tȧ·b'l), adj. Not paintable; esp., not suitable for artistic presentation on canvas. — un′paint·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′pān·tȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·paint′a·ble·ness, n. — un·paint′a·bly, adv.

un·paint′ed (-tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not painted, as a house, or a scene. — un·paint′ed·ly, adv. — un·paint′ed·ness, n.

un·paired′ (ŭn·pârd′; 66), adj. 1. Not paired; esp., not matched or mated. "Minds unpaired." Crabbe.

2. Zool. Situated in the median plane of the body; having no mate on the opposite side.

unpaired fins. Zool. The median (dorsal, anal, and caudal) fins of a fish.

un·pal′sied (ŭn·pȧl′zĭd), adj. [un- + palsie, peise, to weigh.] Not weighed duly. Obs.

un·pal′at·a·ble (-pȧl′ĭt·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not palatable; unpleasant to the taste. — un′pal·at·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′pȧl·ĭt·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·pal′at·a·ble·ness, n. — -a·bly, adv.

un·pale′ (ŭn·pāl′), v. t. To deprive of palings; as a fence.

un·palped′ (-pȧlpt′), adj. Destitute of a palp (see PALPUS).

un·pan′el (-păn′ĕl; -'l), v. t. [1st un- + panel.] To remove a panel from; specif. (Obs. un·pan′nel), to unsaddle.

un·pa′per (-pā′pĕr), v. t. To strip paper from, as from a wall, a book cover, etc.

un·par′a·dise (-pȧr′ȧ·dīs), v. t. [1st un- + paradise.] To deprive of paradise, or of happiness as of paradise; to render unhappy. Rare.

un·par′a·goned (-pȧr′ȧ·gŏnd; -gŭnd), adj. Also un·par′a·gon·ized (-gŏn·īzd). Having no paragon or equal; matchless; peerless.

un·par′al·leled (ŭn·pȧr′ȧ·lĕld), adj. Having no parallel or equal; unequaled; unmatched.

The unparalleled perseverance of the armies of the United States, under every suffering and discouragement. Washington.

Syn. — Peerless, inimitable, unique.

Ant. — Matched, equaled.

— un·par′al·leled·ly, adv. — un·par′al·leled·ness, n.

un·parch′ (-pärch′), v. t. To render not parched. Rare.

un·par′don·a·ble (ŭn·pär′d'n·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not admitting of pardon or forgiveness; inexcusable. — un·par′don·a·ble·ness, n. — un·par′don·a·bly, adv.

unpardonable sin, the. Bib. The sin against the Holy Ghost (Mark iii. 28, 29); continued conscious sin, without repentance. According to the Christian religion, no sin wholeheartedly repented of is unpardonable, but all conscious sin is unpardonable until there is sincere repentance.

un·par′e·gal (ŭn·pär′ē·gȧl), adj. [un- not + paregal.] Unequal. Obs.

un·par′ent·ed (ŭn·pär′ĕn·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Having no parent, or no acknowledged parent.

un′par·lia·men′ta·ry (ŭn′pär·lĭ·mĕn′tȧ·rĭ), adj. a Not parliamentary; contrary to the practice of parliamentary bodies. b Loosely, designating behavior or language contrary to good taste, accepted standards, convention, etc.

un·par′rel (ŭn·pär′ĕl), v. t. Naut. To remove a parrel or parrels from.

un·par′rot·ed (-ŭt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not uttered by rote, as if by a parrot. Rare.

un·part′ed (-pär′tĕd; -tĭd; 66; 119), adj. Not parted or separated; as, unparted bullion is gold containing silver, or silver containing gold, which has not been subjected to the operation of separating the two metals.

un·par′tial (-pär′shȧl), adj. a Obs. Impartial. b Without fondness. — un′par·ti·al′i·ty (ŭn′pär·shĭ·ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·par′tial·ly, adv. — un·par′tial·ness, n.

un·pass′a·ble (ŭn·pȧs′ȧ·b'l), adj. Impassable; also, not passable or current. — un·pass′a·ble·ness, n. — un·pass′a·bly, adv.

un·pas′sion·ate (ŭn·pȧsh′ŭn·ĭt), adj. a Not passionate; dispassionate. b Obs. Unbiased; not prejudiced. — un·pas′sion·ate·ly, adv. — un·pas′sion·ate·ness, n.

un·pas′teur·ized (-pȧs′tĕr·īzd; popularly also -pȧs′tûr·īzd), adj. Not pasteurized. See PASTEURIZATION.

un·pas′tor (-pȧs′tĕr), v. t. To deprive of pastorship. Rare.

un·pathed′ (-pȧtht′), adj. Not having a path; pathless.

un·path′wayed′ (ŭn·pȧth′wād′), adj. Pathless. Rare.

un·pa′tience (-pā′shĕns), n. Impatience. Obs.

un·pa′tient (-shĕnt), adj. Impatient. — un·pa′tient·ly, adv. — un·pa′tient·ness, n. All Now Chiefly Dial.

un′pa·tri·ot′ic (ŭn′pā·trĭ·ŏt′ĭk; Brit. -păt·rĭ-), adj. Not patriotic; not indicative of proper regard for one's own country and its interests. — un′pa·tri·ot′i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kȧl·ĭ), adv. — un·pa′tri·ot·ism (ŭn·pā′trĭ·ŭt·īz′m; -păt′rĭ-), n.

un′pa·trolled′ (ŭn′pȧ·trōld′), adj. Not patrolled; esp., not traversed by sentinels, police, or the like; as, an unpatrolled section of the highway.

un·pa′tron·ized (ŭn·pā′trŭn·īzd; -păt′rŭn-), adj. Not patronized; having little or no patronage, as a store, theater, etc.

un·pave′ (-pāv′), v. t. To remove the paving from.

un·paved′ (ŭn·pāvd′; 66), adj. 1. Not paved; not furnished with a pavement.

2. Castrated. Obs. "Unpaved eunuch." Shak.

un·pawn′ (-pôn′), v. t. To redeem from pawn. Rare.

un·pay′ (-pā′), v. t. [1st un- + 2d pay.] To make undone; undo. Obs.

un·pay′, v. t. To fail to pay. Obs.

un·peace′ (-pēs′), n. Lack of peace.

un·peace′, v. t. [1st un- + peace.] To disquiet. Obs.

un·ped′i·greed (ŭn·pĕd′ĭ·grēd), adj. Not distinguished by a pedigree.

un·peel′ (-pēl′), v. t. To remove the peel, or rind, from.

un·peeled′ (-pēld′), adj. [1st un- (intensive) + peel.] Having the peel removed; hence, figuratively, thoroughly stripped; pillaged. Rare. Shak.

unpeeled ginger. See GINGER, n., 2 a.

un·peer′a·ble (ŭn·pēr′ȧ·b'l), adj. Incapable of having a peer, or equal.

---

un/nu·mer′i·cal, adj., un·nu′mer·ous, adj., un·nur′tured, adj., un′nu·tri′tious, adj., un·nu′tri·tive, adj., un·nuz′zled, adj., un·nymph′like′, adj., un·oared′, adj., un·ob′du·rate, adj., un′o·bey′, adj., un′o·bey′ed, adj., un′o·bey′ing, adj., un′ob·ject′ed, adj., un′ob·jec′tion·al, adj., un′ob·jec′tive, adj., un′ob·li·gat′ed, adj., un′ob′li·ga·to′ry, adj., un′o·bliged′, adj. See UN-, not.

un′ob·lit′er·at′ed, adj., un′ob·liv′i·ous, adj. See UN-, not.

un′o·ob·nox′ious, adj., un′ob·scene′, adj., un′ob·scure′, adj., un′ob·scured′, adj., un′ob·se′qui·ous, adj., un′ob·se′qui·ous·ly, adv., un′ob·se′qui·ous·ness, n., un′ob·serv′a·ble, adj., un′ob·sessed′, adj., un·ob′so·lete, adj., un·ob′sti·nate, adj. See UN-, not.

un′ob·struct′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un′ob·struc′tive, adj., un·ob′stru·ent, adj., un′ob·tained′, adj., un′ob·trud′ed, adj., un′ob·trud′ing, adj., un′ob·tund′ed, adj., un′ob·tund′brat·ed, un′ob·vert′ed, adj., un·ob′vi·at′ed, adj., un·ob′vi·ous, adj., un′oc·ca′sion·al, adj., un′oc·ca′sioned, adj., un′oc·ci·den′tal, adj., un′·oc·clud′ed, adj., un·oc′cu·pancy, n., un′oc·cu·pa′tion, n., un′·oc·cur′ring, adj., un′o·ce·an′ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·oc′u·lar, adj. = UNIOCULAR.

un·o′di·ous, adj., un′o·dor·if′er·ous, adj., un′oec·u·men′ic, un′oec·u·men′i·cal, adj., un·of·fend′a·ble, adj., un′of·fend′er, n., un·of′fered, adj., un·of′ficed, adj., un·of′fi·cered, adj., un·of′fi·cer·like′, adj., un′of·fi′cial·dom, n., un′of·fi′ci·at′ing, adj., un′of·fi′cious, adj., un′of·fi′cious·ly, adv., un′of·fi′cious·ness, n., un·off′set′, adj., un·o′gled, adj., un·oiled′, adj., un·oil′ing, adj., un·oil′y, adj., un′-O·lym′pi·an, adj., un·o′mened, adj., un·om′i·nous, adj., un′o·mit′ted, adj., un′om·nip′o·tent, adj., un′om·nis′cient, adj., un·on′er·ous, adj., un′on·to·log′i·cal, adj., un′o·paque′, adj., un·o′pen·able, adj., un·o′pen·ing, adj., un·op′er·a·bly, adj., un·op′er·at′ed, adj., un·op′er·at′ic, adj., un·op′er·at′ing, adj., un′o·pined′, adj., un′o·pin′ion·at′ed, adj., un′op·pig′no·rat′ed, adj., un′op·pos′a·ble, adj., un′op·posed′, adj., un′·op·pos′ed·ly, adv., un′op·pos′ed·ness, n., un·op′po·site, adj., un′·op·pressed′, adj., un′op·pres′sive, adj., un′op·pres′sive·ly, adv., un′op·pres′sive·ness, n., un′op·prest′, adj., un′op·pro′bri·ous, adj., un′op·pugned′, adj., un·op′u·lence, n., un·op′u·lent, adj., un′or·a·to′ri·al, un′·or·a·tor′i·cal, adj., un′orbed′, adj., un·or′bi·tal, adj., un·or′ches·trat′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un′or·dain′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un′or·dain′a·ble, adj., un·or′der·a·ble, adj., un·ord′nanced, adj., un·or′gan·iz′a·ble, adj., un′·o·ri·en′tal, adj., un′o·ri·en′tal·ness, n., un·o′ri·ent·ed, adj. See UN-, not. [-NESS.]

un′o·rig′i·nat′ed·ness, n. See un′or·na·ment′ed, adj., un′or·na·men′tal·ness, n., un·or′na·ment′ed, adj., un′or·nate′, adj., un′or·ni·tho·log′i·cal, adj., un·or′phaned, adj., un·or′tho·dox·ly, adv., un′or·tho·dox′ness, n., un′or·tho·graph′i·cal·ly, adv., un·os′cil·lat′ing, adj., un·os′cu·lat′ed, adj., un·os′si·fied, adj., un′os·ten′si·ble, adj., un′os·ten·ta′tion, n., un′out·grown′, adj., un′out·lawed′, adj., un′·out·ra′ged, adj., un′out·spo′ken, adj., un′out·worn′, adj., un′·o·ver·cloud′ed, adj., un′o·ver·come′, adj., un′o·ver·done′, adj., un′o·ver·drawn′, adj., un′o·ver·flow′ing, adj., un′o·ver·hauled′, adj., un′o·ver·leaped′, adj., un′·o·ver·looked′, adj., un′o·ver·paid′, adj., un′o·ver·pow′ered, adj., un′o·ver·ruled′, adj., un′o·vert′, adj., un′o·ver·tak′en, adj., un′o·ver·thrown′, adj., un′·o·ver·val′ued, adj., un′o·ver·whelmed′, adj., un′-O·vid′i·an, adj., un·ow′ing, adj., un·ox′i·dable, adj., un·ox′i·dat′ed, adj., un·ox′i·diz′a·ble, adj., un·ox′i·dized, adj., un·ox′y·gen·at′ed, adj., un·ox′y·gen·ized, un·pa′ca·ble, adj., un·paced′, adj., un·pac′i·fi′a·ble, adj., un′pa·cif′ic, adj., un·pac′i·fist, adj., un·packed′, adj., un·pad′ded, adj., un·pad′locked′, adj., un·pa′gan, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pa′gan·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·paged′, adj., un·pag′i·nal, adj., un·pained′, adj., un·pain′ful, adj., un·pain′ing, adj., un·pains′tak′ing, adj., un·pal′a·tal, adj., un·pa·la′tal, adj., un·pale′, adj., un·paled′, adj., un·pal′isad′ed, adj., un′pal·i·sa′doed, adj., un·palled′, adj., un·pal′li·a·ble, adj., un·pal′li·at′ed, adj., un·pal′pa·ble, adj., un·pal′pi·tat′ing, adj., un·pal′sied, adj., un·pam′pered, adj., un·pan′e·gy·rized, adj., un·pan′eled, un·pan′elled, adj., un·panged′, adj., un·pan′ic·strick′en, adj., un·pan′nered, adj., un·pan′o·plied, adj., un·pan·the·is′tic, adj., un·pant′ing, adj., un·pa′pal, adj., un·pa·pa′er·ous, adj., un·pa′pered, adj., un·pa·rad′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·par′a·dox, n. See 1st UN-.

un·par′a·graphed, adj., un·par′al·lel, adj., un·par′al·lel′a·ble, adj., un·par′al·lel·ness, n., un·par′a·lyzed, adj., un·par′a·phrased, adj., un·par′a·sit′i·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

un·par′cel, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·par′celed, un·par′celled, adj., un·par′cel·ing, un·par′celling, adj., un·parched′, adj., un·parch′ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·par′don, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·par′doned, adj., un·par′donned·ness, n., un·par′don·ing, adj., un·pared′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·par′fit. Var. of UNPERFECT. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·par′get·ed, adj., un′-Pa·ri′sian, adj., un′-Pa·ri′sian·ized, adj. See UN-, not.

un·park′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·parked′, un·par′ked·ness, n., un·par′lia·ment′ed, adj., un·par′o·died, adj., un·par′ri·a·ble, adj., un·par′ried, adj., un·par′ry·ing, adj., un·parsed′, adj., un′par·si·mo′ni·ous, adj., un′·par·son′ic, adj., un·par·son′i·cal, adj., un·part′a·ble, adj., un·part′a·ble·ness, n., un·part′a·bly, adv., un·par·tak′en, adj., un′par·tak′ing, adj., un′par·tic′i·pant, adj., un′par·tic′i·pat′ed, adj., un′par·tic′i·pat′ing, adj., un′par·tic′i·pa′tive, adj., un′·par·tic′u·lar, adj., un′par·tic′u·lar·ized, adj., un′par·tic′u·lar·iz′ing, n., un·par′ti·san, un·par′ti·zan, adj., un′par·ti′tioned, adj., un·part′nered, adj., un′par·took′, adj., un·par′ty, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pass′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·passed′, adj., un·pass′ing, adj., un·pas′sioned, adj., un·pas′sive, adj. See UN-, not.

un·paste′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·past′ed, adj., un·past′ing, adj., un·pas′to·ral, adj., un·pas′tured, adj., un·patched′, adj., un·pat′ent, adj., un·pat′ent·a·ble, adj., un·pat′ent·ed, adj., un′pa·ter′nal, adj., un′pa·thet′ic, adj., un′pa·tri·ar′chal, adj., un′pa·tri′cian, adj., un′pa·tris′tic, adj., un·pa′tron·iz′a·ble, adj., un·pa′tron·iz′ing, adj., un·pat′ted, adj., un·pat′terned, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pa′unch′, v. t. = PAUNCH, 1.

un·paunched′, adj., un·pau′per·ized, adj., un·paus′ing, adj., un·paus′ing·ly, adv., un′pa·vil′ioned, adj., un·pav′ing, adj., un·pawed′, adj., un·pawned′, adj., un·pay′a·ble, adj., un·pay′a·ble·ness, n., un·pay′a·bly, adv., un·pay′ing, adj., un·pay′ment, n., un·peace′a·ble, adj., un·peace′a·ble·ness, n., un·peace′a·bly, adv., un·peace′ful, adj., un·peace′ful·ly, adv., un·peace′ful·ness, n., un·pealed′, adj., un·pearled′, adj., un·peb′bled, adj., un·pec′ca·ble, adj., un·pecked′, n., un′pe·cu′ni·ar′i·ly, adv., un′·ped·a·gog′i·cal, adj., un′pe·dan′tic, adj., un·ped′dled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·ped′es·tal, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·peel′a·ble, adj., un·peel′a·ble·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·peered' (ŭn-pĕrd'), adj. Having no peer; unparalleled.

un·peg' (ŭn-pĕg'), v. t. [1st un- + peg.] 1. To remove a peg or pegs from; to unfasten; open.
2. Exchanges & Finance. To cease pegging transactions in (a security or a currency). See PEG, v. t., 8.

un·pen' (ŭn-pĕn'), v. t. [1st un- + pen; cf. AS. onpennian.] To release from a pen or from confinement.
If a man unpens another's water. Blackstone.

un·pen', v. t. [Cf. PEN.] Prob., to deprive of plumage. Obs.

un·pen'i·tent (-pĕn'ĭ-tĕnt), adj. Impenitent. — un·pen'i·tent·ly, adv. — un·pen'i·tent·ness, n.

un·peo'ple (ŭn-pē'p'l), v. t. [1st un- + people.] To deprive of inhabitants; to depopulate.

un·peo'pled (-p'ld), adj. Unpopulated; uninhabited.

un·per·ceived' (ŭn'pĕr-sēvd'), adj. Not perceived, noticed, or remarked. — un·per·ceiv'ed·ly (-sēv'ĕd-lĭ; -ĭd-lĭ; 119), adv.

un·per·cep'ti·ble (-sĕp'tĭ-b'l), adj. Imperceptible. Rare. — un·per·cep'ti·bly (-blĭ), adv. Rare.

un·perch' (ŭn-pûrch'), v. t. [1st un- + perch.] To remove from a perch.

un·per'fect (-pûr'fĕkt; -fĭkt), adj. a Not perfect or completed; imperfect. b Not skilled; poorly trained. — un·per'fect·ly, adv. — un·per'fect·ness, n.

un·per·fect' (ŭn'pĕr-fĕkt'), v. t. [1st un- + perfect.] To mar or destroy the perfection of. Obs.

un·per·fect'ed (ŭn'pĕr-fĕk'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not brought to completion; unfinished; also, poorly trained; inexpert. — un·per·fect'ed·ly, adv. — un·per·fect'ed·ness, n.

un·per·fec'tion (ŭn'pĕr-fĕk'shŭn), n. Imperfection. Obs.

un·per'fo·rat'ed (ŭn-pûr'fô-rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not perforated; specif.: Philately. = IMPERFORATE, 3.

un·per·form'ing (ŭn'pĕr-fôrm'ĭng), n. Also un·per·form'ance (-fôr'mŭns). Nonperformance.

un·per'ish·a·ble (ŭn-pĕr'ĭsh-ȧ-b'l), adj. Imperishable. — un·per'ish·a·ble·ness, n. — un·per'ish·a·bly, adv.

un·per'ma·nent (-pûr'mȧ-nĕnt), adj. Impermanent. — un·per'ma·nen·cy (-nĕn-sĭ), n. — un·per'ma·nent·ly, adv.

un·per·plex' (ŭn'pĕr-plĕks'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To free from perplexity. Rare.

un·per·se·ver'ing (-pûr-sē-vēr'ĭng), adj. Not persevering; not continuing one's effort. — un·per·se·ver'ing·ly, adv. — un·per·se·ver'ing·ness, n.

un·per·sua'sion (ŭn'pĕr-swā'zhŭn), n. The state of not being persuaded; doubt. Rare.

un·per·turbed' (-tûrbd'), adj. Not perturbed; unworried. — un·per·turb'ed·ly (-tûr'bĕd-lĭ; -bĭd-lĭ; 119), adv. — un·per·turb'ed·ness, n.

un·per·vert' (-vûrt'), v. t. [1st un- + pervert.] To free from perversion.

‖un peu' (ŭN pû'). [F.] A bit; a little; somewhat.

un·phi·los'o·phize (ŭn'fĭ-lŏs'ô-fīz), v. t. [1st un- + philosophize.] To degrade from the character of a philosopher. Rare.

un·phras'a·ble (ŭn-frāz'ȧ-b'l), adj. Not phrasable; not readily expressible in language. — un·phras'a·ble·ness, n.

un·phrased' (-frāzd'), adj. Not phrased; not expressed in language.

un·pick' (ŭn-pĭk'), v. t. [1st un- (intensive) + pick.] To pick out; to undo by picking; also, to open with a pick. — v. i. To pick out stitches.

un·pic·tur·esque' (ŭn'pĭk-tŭr-ĕsk'), adj. Not picturesque. — un·pic·tur·esque'ly, adv. — un·pic·tur·esque'ness, n.

un·piece' (ŭn-pēs'), v. t. To take to pieces; dissect; analyze.

un·pile' (-pīl'), v. t. a To raze (a pile); to pull down, tear down, knock down, or otherwise destroy (a pile). b To take from a pile or heap. — v. i. To become separated or disentangled from a pile; as, at the referee's whistle the players unpiled.

un·pilled' (ŭn-pĭld'), adj. [See PILL.] Obs. a = UNPEELED. b Not robbed.

un·pin' (ŭn-pĭn'), v. t. [1st un- + pin.] To loose from pins; to remove the pin or pins from; to unfasten; as, to unpin a frock; to unpin a frame; specif., to unbolt; in chess, to free (a piece) from being pinned — v. i. To become unpinned.

un·pin'ion (ŭn-pĭn'yŭn), v. t. [1st un- + pinion.] To loose from pinions or manacles; to free from restraint.

un·pinked' (-pĭngkt'), adj. Not pinked; specif., not pierced with eyelet holes. Rare. Shak.

un·pinned' (-pĭnd'), adj. Loosed from pins or bolts.

un·pit'e·ous (ŭn-pĭt'ē-ŭs), adj. a Obs. Impious; wicked. b Destitute of pity. — un·pit'e·ous·ly, adv. — un·pit'e·ous·ness, n.

un·pit'ied (ŭn-pĭt'ĭd), adj. 1. Not pitied.
2. Pitiless; merciless. Obs. Shak.
— un·pit'ied·ly, adv. — un·pit'ied·ness, n.

un·pit'y (-ĭ), n. Want of piety. Obs.

un·pit'y·ing, adj. Not pitying; unmerciful. — un·pit'y·ing·ly, adv. — un·pit'y·ing·ness, n.

un·pla'ca·ble (ŭn-plā'kȧ-b'l; -plăk'ȧ-), adj. Implacable. — un·pla'ca·bly, adv.

un·place' (ŭn-plās'), v. t. To displace.

un·placed' (ŭn-plāst'; 66), adj. a Not placed; not having a place, position, station, office, or the like. b Not remembered; not recalled in memory. c Horse Racing. Not winning one of the first three places.

un·plaid' (-plăd'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To deprive of a plaid.

un·plain' (-plān'), adj. Not plain; esp., not clear to the understanding. — un·plain'ly, adv. — un·plain'ness, n.

un·plained' (ŭn-plānd'), adj. Unlamented. Obs.

un·plained', adj. Not made plain; not explained. Rare.

un·plait' (ŭn-plāt'; cf. PLAIT, n.), v. t. 1. To unfold. Obs.
2. To undo the plaits of.

un·plank' (-plăngk'), v. t. To remove the planks from.

un·planned' (-plănd'), adj. Not planned; hence, unaccounted for, or unexpected. — un·planned'ly, adv. — un·planned'ness, n.

un·plant' (ŭn-plănt'; cf. PLANT, n.), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To remove or uproot (a plant); to strip or deprive of plants.

un·plant'ed (-plăn'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. [See UN- not.] Not planted; as: a Uncultivated; characterized by native or spontaneous growth. b Of districts, regions, etc., not colonized; not settled. c Not placed in position; not set out.

un·plat' (ŭn-plăt'), v. t. [1st un- + plat.] To take out the folds or twists of, as something previously platted; to unfold; to unwreathe.

un·plau'sive (ŭn-plô'sĭv), adj. Not approving. Obs.

un·play'a·ble (-plā'ȧ-b'l), adj. Not playable; as: a Not capable of being played on a musical instrument. b Being in a position where a stroke or shot is impossible; as, an unplayable lie in golf; an unplayable shot in tennis.

un·pleas'ant (ŭn-plĕz'ănt; -'nt), adj. Not pleasant; not amiable or agreeable; displeasing; disagreeable; offensive. — un·pleas'ant·ly, adv.

un·pleas'ant, v. t. To make unpleasant. Rare.

un·pleas'ant·ish, adj. Somewhat unpleasant.

un·pleas'ant·ness, n. 1. Quality of being unpleasant; disagreeableness; also, an unpleasant situation, experience, or the like; — sometimes euphemistically used of a serious experience; as, the late unpleasantness (alluding to a recent war).
2. Psychol. That one of the two general recognized elementary feelings which is ordinarily awakened by painful or disagreeable stimuli.

un·pleas'ant·ry (-rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). 1. Want of pleasantry. Rare.
2. A state of disagreement; a falling out.
3. Want of pleasantness; discomfort. Rare.

un·pleased' (ŭn-plĕzd'), adj. 1. Not pleased or satisfied; also, not pleasant or agreeable; unpleasant.
2. Implacable. Obs.

un·pleas'ing (-plēz'ĭng), adj. Not pleasing; disagreeable. — un·pleas'ing·ly, adv. — un·pleas'ing·ness, n.

un·plea'sive (ŭn-plē'zĭv), adj. Unpleasant. Obs.

un·pleas'ur·a·ble (ŭn-plĕzh'ĕr-ȧ-b'l), adj. Not pleasurable; not giving pleasure, satisfaction, or the like. — un·pleas'ur·a·bly (-blĭ), adv.

un·pleas'ure (-ĕr), n. Lack of pleasure; Psychol., unpleasantness; disagreeable quality, as of an experience.

un·pleat' (-plēt'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To remove the plaits of.

un·pledged' (-plĕjd'), adj. Not pledged; as: a Not bound by a pledge, vow, or the like. b Not affianced. c Not pawned.

un·plight' (ŭn-plīt'), v. t. [1st un- + plight fold.] To unfold; explain; evolve. Obs.

un·plug' (-plŭg'), v. t. To take out a plug from.

un·plumb' (-plŭm'), v. t. [1st un- + plumb.] To remove lead from, or to remove from lead casing. Rare.

un·plumbed' (-plŭmd'), adj. Not plumbed; as: a Not sealed with lead. b Not supplied with plumbing. c Not tested with a plumb line. d Not measured with a plumb, or plummet; figuratively, never explored as to depth, intensity, etc.; as, the unplumbed depths of human emotion.

un·plume' (ŭn-plōōm'; 242), v. t. [1st un- + plume.] To strip of plumes or feathers; hence, to humiliate.

un'po·et'ic (ŭn'pō-ĕt'ĭk), adj. Also un'po·et'i·cal (-t'ĭ-kăl). Not poetic; not having the quality, rhythm, or other characteristics, of poetry. — un'po·et'i·cal·ly, adv. — un'po·et'i·cal·ness, n.

un·poised' (ŭn-poizd'; 66), adj. 1. Not poised or balanced.
2. Not poised or weighed; hence, regardless of consequences; unhesitating. Obs.

un·poi'son (-poi'z'n), v. t. To rid of poison. Rare.

un'po·liced' (ŭn'pō-lĭst'), adj. Not policed; as: a Not cleaned up and put in order. b Not guarded by police.

un·pol'i·ced (ŭn-pŏl'ĭ-sĭd), adj. 1. Not having civil polity or a regular form of government.
2. Impolitic; imprudent. Obs.

un·pol'ish (ŭn-pŏl'ĭsh), v. t. [1st un- + polish.] To deprive of polish; specif., to make impolite.

un–Pol'ish (-pŏl'ĭsh), adj. See UN-, not.

un·pol'ished rice (-pŏl'ĭsht). Rice from which the hulls, germs, and outer bran layers, but not the inner bran layers, have been removed.

un'po·lite' (ŭn'pō-līt'), adj. Not polite; impolite; rude. — un'po·lite'ly, adv. — un'po·lite'ness, n.

un·pol'i·tic (ŭn-pŏl'ĭ-tĭk), adj. Impolitic. — un·pol'i·tic·ly, adv.

un·polled' (ŭn-pōld'; 66), adj. Not polled; as: a Not cut; unshorn. b Not counted, measured, or the like. c Not enumerated or registered; as, an unpolled vote or voter.

un'pol·lut'ed (ŭn'pō-lūt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not polluted; hence, clean; as, an unpolluted water supply. — un'pol·lut'ed·ly, adv.

un·pope' (ŭn-pōp'), v. t. [1st un- + pope.] 1. To divest of the character, office, or authority, of a pope.
2. To deprive of a pope. Obs.

un·pop'u·lar (-pŏp'ū-lĕr), adj. Not popular; viewed or received unfavorably by the public. — un'pop·u·lar'i·ty (ŭn'pŏp-ū-lăr'ĭ-tĭ), n. — un·pop'u·lar·ly, adv. — un·pop'u·lar·ness, n.

un·pop'u·lar·ize (-īz), v. t. To render unpopular.

un·pop'u·late (ŭn-pŏp'ū-lāt), v. t. To drive the inhabitants from; to lessen radically, or to wipe out, the inhabitants of.

un·pop'u·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not populated; not occupied, settled, or inhabited.

un·port'a·ble (-pôr'tȧ-b'l), adj. Not portable; unbearable.

un·por'tu·nate (ŭn-pôr'tū-nĭt), adj. Importunate. Obs. — un·por'tu·nate·ly, adv. Obs.

un·por'tu·ous (-ŭs), adj. Having no ports. Rare. Burke.

un'pos·sess' (ŭn'pŏ-zĕs'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To dispossess. Obs.

un·pos'si·ble (ŭn-pŏs'ĭ-b'l), adj. Impossible. — un'pos·si·bil'i·ty (ŭn'pŏs-ĭ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n. — un·pos'si·ble·ness, n. — un·pos'si·bly, adv. All Now Dial.

un·pow'er (-pou'ĕr), n. Want of power. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

un·pow'er, v. t. To dispossess of power. Obs.

un·pow'er·ful, adj. Not powerful. — un·pow'er·ful·ness, n.

un·prac'ti·ca·ble (ŭn-prăk'tĭ-kȧ-b'l), adj. Impracticable. — un'prac·ti·ca·bil'i·ty (ŭn'prăk-tĭ-kȧ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n. — un·prac'ti·ca·ble·ness, n. — un·prac'ti·ca·bly, adv.

un·prac'ti·cal (-kăl), adj. Not practical; impractical. — un'prac·ti·cal'i·ty (ŭn'prăk-tĭ-kăl'ĭ-tĭ), n. — un·prac'ti·cal·ly, adv. — un·prac'ti·cal·ness, n.

un·prac'ticed, un·prac'tised (ŭn-prăk'tĭst), adj. Not practiced; hence, not skilled; inexpert.

un·prais'a·ble (ŭn-prāz'ȧ-b'l), adj. a Not of a kind or nature to draw praise. b Inestimable.

un·praise' (-prāz'), v. t. [1st un- + praise.] a Rare. To withhold praise from; to deprive of praise. b Obs. To dispraise.

un·pray' (-prā'), v. t. [1st un- + pray.] To recall or revoke by prayer. Rare.

un·pray'a·ble (-prā'ȧ-b'l), adj. Not to be influenced by prayers. Rare.

un·prayed' (-prād'; 66), adj. Not prayed for; unsolicited; uninvited; — often with for; as, the unprayed-for rain; rain that comes unprayed for.

un·preach' (ŭn-prēch'), v. t. [1st un- + preach.] To undo by preaching; also, to retract in preaching. Rare.

un·preach'ing, adj. Not preaching; failing to preach; specif., Obs., not accustomed to preach.

un·prec'e·dent'ed (ŭn-prĕs'ē-dĕn'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Having no precedent or example; novel; new; unexampled. — un·prec'e·dent'ed·ly, adv. — un·prec'e·dent'ed·ness, n.

un'pre·dict' (ŭn'prē-dĭkt'), v. i. To retract a prediction. Obs.

un'pre·dict'a·ble (-dĭk'tȧ-b'l), adj. Not predictable; not to be foretold. — -a·ble·ness, n. — -a·bly, adv.

un·preg'na·ble (ŭn-prĕg'nȧ-b'l), adj. Impregnable. Obs.

un'pre·ju'di·cate (ŭn'prē-jōō'dĭ-kāt; 242) adj. Unprejudiced. — -cate·ly, adv. — -cate·ness, n. All Obs.

un'pre·ju'di·cat'ing (-kāt'ĭng), adj. Not prejudging. Obs.

un·prej'u·dice (ŭn-prĕj'ŭ-dĭs), n. Freedom from prejudice.

un·prej'u·dice, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·prej'u·diced (-prĕj'ŭ-dĭst; 242), adj. 1. Not prejudiced; free from undue bias, warp, or prepossession; impartial; as, an unprejudiced judge; an unprejudiced judgment.
2. Not prejudiced or impaired.
— un·prej'u·diced·ly, adv. — un·prej'u·diced·ness, n.

un'pre·med'i·tate (ŭn'prē-mĕd'ĭ-tāt) adj. Unpremeditated. Archaic. — un'pre·med'i·tate·ly adv.

un'pre·med'i·tat'ed (ŭn'prē-mĕd'ĭ-tāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not premeditated, — un'pre·med'i·tat'ed·ly, adv. — un'pre·med'i·tat'ed·ness, n.
Syn. — See EXTEMPORE. Ant. — Planned, prepared.

un'pre·med'i·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n. Want of premeditation

---

un·pe'jo·ra'tive, adj., un'pe·lag'ic, adj., un'-Pel·o·pon·ne'sian, adj., un·pelt'ed, adj., un·pe'nal, adj., un·pe'nal·ized, adj., un·pen'anced, adj., un·pen'ciled, un·pen'cilled, adj., un·pen'e·tra·ble, adj., un·pen'e·trat'ed, adj., un·pen'e·trat'ing, adj., un·penned', adj., un·pen'nied, adj., un·pen'noned, adj., un·pen'sion·a·ble, adj., un·pen'sion·a·ble·ness, n., un·pen'sioned, adj., un·pen'sion·ing, adj., un·pent', adj., un'pe·nu'ri·ous, adj., un·peo'pling, adj. & n., un'per·cep'tive, adj., un·perched', adj., un'per·cip'i·ent, adj., un·per'co·lat'ed, adj., un'per·cussed', adj., un'per·fid'i·ous, adj., un'per·fat'ed, adj., un·per'fo·rate, adj., un'per·form'a·ble, adj., un'per·formed', adj., un'per·form'ing, adj., un'per·fumed', adj., un·per'i·lous, adj., un'pe·ri·od'ic, adj., un'pe·ri·od'i·cal, adj., un·per'i·phrased, adj., un·per'ish·ing, adj., un·per'jured, adj., un·per'me·a·ble, adj., un·per'me·at'ed, adj., un'per·mis'si·ble, adj., un'per·mis'sive, adj., un'per·mit'ted, adj., un'per·mit'ting, adj., un'per·mixed', adj., un'per·ni'cious, adj., un'per·pen·dic'u·lar, adj., un·per'pe·trat'ed, adj., un'per·pet'u·at'ed, adj., un'per·plexed', un'per·plext', adj., un'per·plex'ing, adj., un·per'se·cut'ed, adj., un·per'se·cu'tive, adj., un'per·se·ver'ance, n., un-Per'sian, adj., un·per'son·a·ble, adj., un·per'son·a·ble·ness, n., un·per'son·al, adj., un'per·son·al'i·ty, n., un'per·son'i·fied, adj. See UN-, not.

un'per·son'i·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·per·spic'u·ous, adj., un'per·spir'a·ble, adj., un'per·spir'ing, adj., un'per·suad'a·ble, adj., un'per·suad'a·ble·ness, n., un'per·suad'a·bly, adv., un'per·suad'ed, n., un'per·suad'ed·ness, n., un'per·sua'si·ble·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un'per·sua'sive, adj., un'per·sua'sive·ly, adv., un'per·sua'sive·ness, n., un'per·tain'ing, adj., un·per'ti·nent, adj., un·per'ti·nent·ly, adv., un·peruked', adj., un'pe·rused', adj., un'per·vad'ed, adj., un'per·verse', adj., un'per·vert'ed, adj., un·per'vi·ous, adj., un'pes·si·mis'tic, adj., un·pes'tered, adj., un'pes·ti·len'tial, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pet'al, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un'pe·ti'tioned, adj., un'-Pe·trar'chan, adj., un·pet'ri·fied, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pet'ri·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·pet'ti·coat'ed, adj., un·pet'u·lant, adj., un'phar·a·sa'ic, un'phar·a·sa'i·cal, adj., un·phased', adj., un'phe·nom'e·nal, adj., un'-Phil·a·del'phi·an, adj., un'phil·an·throp'ic, adj., un'phil·an·throp'i·cal·ly, adv., un'phil·o·log'i·cal, adj., un'phil·o·soph'ic, adj., un'phil·o·soph'i·cal·ly, adv., un'phil·o·soph'i·cal·ness, n., un'phi·los'o·phized, adj., un'phi·los'o·phy, n., un'phleg·mat'ic, adj., un'pho·net'ic, adj., un'pho·net'ic·ness, n., un·pho'no·graphed, adj., un·phos'pha·tized, adj., un·pho'to·graphed, adj., un'phren·o·log'i·cal, adj., un·phys'i·cal, adj., un'phys·i·cal·ly, adv., un'physi·cian·like', adj., un·phys'icked, adj., un·phys'i·o·log'i·cal, adj., un'pic·a·resque', adj., un·pick', v. t., un·picked', adj., un·pick'et·ed, adj., un·pick'led, adj., un'pic·to'ri·al, adj., un'pic·to'ri·al·ly, adv., un'pic·tur·a·bil'i·ty, n., un·pic'tur·a·ble, adj., un·pic'tured, adj., un·pierced', adj., un·pierce'a·ble, adj., un·pile', v. t., un·pier'ce·ne, adj., un·pi'e·ty, n., un·pig'ment·ed, adj., un·piled', adj., un·pil'fered, adj., un·pil'grim·like', adj., un·pil'laged, adj., un·pil'laged, adj., un·pil'lared, adj., un·pil'lo·ried, adj., un·pil'lowed, adj., un·pil'lot·ed, adj., un·pin', v. t., un·pin'pled, adj., un·pinned', adj., un'-Pin·dar'ic, adj., un'-Pin·dar'i·cal, adj., un'-Pin·dar'i·cal·ly, adv., un·pin'ing, adj., un·pin'ioned, adj., un·pi'ous, adj., un·piped', adj., un·piqued', adj., un·pi'rat·ed, adj., un·pi'rat·ic, adj., un·pit'i·a·ble, adj., un·pit'i·a·bly, adv., un·pit'i·ful, adj., un·pit'i·fully, adv., un·pit'i·ful·ness, n. See UN-, not.

unpitous. ✝ UNPITEOUS.

un·pit'ied, adj., un·pla'cat·ed, adj., un·pla'ce·ble, adj., un·pla'gi·a·rized, adj., un·plagued', adj., un·plaited, adj. See UN-, not.

un·plan', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·planed', adj., un·plan'ished, adj., un·planked', adj., un·plant'a·ble, adj., un·plant'like', adj., un·plashed', adj. See UN-, not.

un·plas'ter, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·plas'tered, adj., un·plas'tic, adj., un·plat'ed, adj., un'-Pla·ton'ic, adj., un'-Pla·ton'i·cal·ly, adv., un·plat'ted, adj., un·plau'si·ble, adj., un·plau'si·bly, adv., un·plau'si·ble·ness, n., un·plau'si·bly, adv., un·played', adj., un·play'ful, adj., un·play'ing, adj., un·pleached', adj., un·plead'a·ble, adj., un·plead'ed, adj., un·plead'ing, adj., un·pleas'a·ble, adj., un·pleat'ed, adj., un'ple·be'ian, adj., un·pledged', adj., un·plen'ished, adj., un·plen'te·ous adj., un·plen'ti·ful, adj., un·plen'ti·ful·ness, n., un·pli'a·ble, adj., un·pli'a·ble·ness, n., un·pli'a·bly, adv., un·pli'an·cy, n., un·pli'ant, adj., un·pli'ant·ly, adv., un·plied', adj., un·plight', v. t., un·plod'ding, adj., un·plot'ted, adj., un·plot'ting, adj. See UN-, not.

un·plow', un·plough', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·plowed', un·ploughed', adj., un·plucked', un·pluck'd', adj., un·plugged', adj., un·plug'ging, adj., un·plumb', adj., un·plumed', adj., un·plum'met·ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·plump', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·plun'dered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·plunge', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·plunged', adj., un'plu·to·crat'ic, adj., un'plu·to·crat'i·cal·ly, adv., un·poached', adj. See UN-, not.

un·pock'et, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·pock'et·ed, adj., un·pod'ded, adj., un'po·et'i·cized, adj. See UN-, not.

un·po'et·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·po'et·ized, adj. See UN-, not.

un·poign'ard, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·point'ed, adj., un·point'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·poise', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·pol'son·a·ble, adj., un·pol'soned, adj., un·pol'son·ous, adj., un·pol'lar·iz'a·ble, adj., un·pol'lar·ized, adj., un·poled', adj., un'po·lem'i·cal, adj., un'po·lem'i·cal·ly, adv., un·pol'ish·a·ble, adj., un·polished, adj., un·pol'ished·ness, n., un'po·lit'i·cal, adj., un'po·lit'i·cal·ly, adv., un·pol'lard·ed, adj., un'pol·lut'a·ble, adj., un'pol·lut'ing, adj., un·pol'y·mer·ized, adj., un·pom'pous, adj., un·pon'dered, adj., un'pon·tif'i·cal, adj., un·pooled', adj., un·pop'u·lous, adj., un·pop'u·lous·ness, n., un·po'rous, adj., un'por·tend'ed, adj., un'por·ten'tous, adj., un·por'tioned, adj., un·port'ly, adj., un'port·man·teaued, adj., un·por'trait·ed, adj., un'por·tray'a·ble, adj., un'por·trayed', adj., un·Por'tu·guese, adj., un·posed', adj., un·pos'ing, adj., un·pos'i·tive, adj., un'pos·sess'a·ble, adj., un'pos·sessed', adj., un'pos·sess'ed·ness, n., un'pos·sess'ing, adj., un·post'ed, adj., un·pos'tered, adj., un·post'hu·mous, adj., un·post'marked', adj., un'post·pon'a·ble, adj., un'post·poned', adj., un·pos'tu·lat'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pot', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·pot'ted, adj., un·pouched', adj., un·pouch'ed, adj., un·pounced', adj., un·pound'ed, adj., un·poured', adj., un·pow'dered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·prac'tice, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un'prag·mat'i·cal, adj., un·praised', adj., un·praise'ful, adj., un·praise'wor'thy, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pranked', adj., un·prayer'ful, adj., un·pray'ing, adj., un·preached', adj., un'pre·can'i·ous, adj., un'pre·cau'tioned, adj., un'pre·ced'ed, adj., un'pre·ce·dent'ed, adj., un'pre·dent·ly, adv., un·pre'cious, adj., un'pre·cip'i·tate, adj., un'pre·cip'i·tat'ed, adj., un'pre·cise', adj., un'pre·cise'ly, adv., un'pre·cise'ness, n., un'pre·clud'ed, adj., un'pre·clud'i·ble, adj., un'pre·co'cious, adj., un'pre·da'cious, adj., un'pre·des'tinat'ed, adj., un'pre·des'tined, adj., un·pred'i·ca·ble, adj., un·pred'i·cat'ed, adj., un'pre·dict'ed, adj., un'pre·dict'ed·ness, n., un'pre·dict'ing, adj., un'pre·dis·posed', adj., un'pre·dis·posing, adj., un'-pre·empt'ed, adj., un·preened', adj., un·pref'aced, adj., un·pref'er·a·ble, adj., un'-pre·ferred', adj., un'pre·fig'ured, adj., un·pre·fined', adj., un'-pre·fixed', adj., un·preg'nant, adj., un'pre·judged', adj., un'-pre·ju'di·cat'ed, adj., un'pre·ju·di'cia·ble, adj., un'pre·ju·di'cial, adj., un'pre·ju·di'cial·ly, adv., un'pre·ju·di'cial·ness, n., un'pre·lat'ic, -lat'i·cal, adj., un'-pre·lud'ed, adj., un'pre·ma·ture', adj. See UN-, not.

un′prep·a·ra′tion (ŭn′prĕp·ȧ·rā′shŭn), n. Want of preparation.

un′pre·pare′ (-pârd′), v. t. To cause to be unprepared; to render unfit.

un′pre·pared′ (-pârd′), adj. Not prepared, as for war, death, or recitation; presented without preparation; as, an unprepared entrance. — un′pre·par′ed·ly (-pâr′ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd-lĭ; 119), un′pre·par′ed·ness (-pâr′ĕd·nĕs; -pârd′- 119), n.

un′pre·pos·sess′ing (ŭn′prē·pō·zĕs′ĭng), adj. Not prepossessing; not creating at first a favorable impression. — un′pre·pos·sess′ing·ly, adv. — un′pre·pos·sess′ing·ness, n.

un′pre·sent′a·ble (-prē·zĕn′tȧ·b'l), adj. Not presentable. — un′pre·sent′a·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′pre·sent′a·ble·ness, n. — un′pre·sent′a·bly, adv.

un·prest′ (ŭn·prĕst′), adj. [See PREST, adj.] Not ready or willing. Obs.

un′pre·tend′ing, adj. Not pretending; esp., unpretentious. — un′pre·tend′ing·ly, adv. — un′pre·tend′ing·ness, n.

un′pre·ten′tious (ŭn′prē·tĕn′shŭs), adj. Not pretentious; not ostentatious, pompous, or the like; simple and in good taste. — un′pre·ten′tious·ly, adv. — un′pre·ten′tious·ness, n.

un′pre·vent′a·ble (-vĕn′tȧ·b'l), adj. Not preventable; as, an unpreventable contagion, hysteria, attack. — un′pre·vent′a·ble·ness, n — un′pre·vent′a·bly, adv.

un′pre·vent′ed (ŭn′prē·vĕn′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not prevented or hindered; as, unprevented sorrows.
2. Not preceded by anything. Obs.

un·priced′ (ŭn·prīst′; 66), adj. Not priced; being without a fixed or certain value; also, rarely, priceless un·priest′ (-prēst′), v. t. [1st un- + priest.] To deprive of priesthood; to unfrock.

un·prime′ (ŭn·prīm′), adj. Of furs, not prime, as those taken out of season when the animal is molting and growing a new coat.

un·prince′ (-prĭns′), v. t. [1st un- + prince.] To deprive of the status of a prince.

un·prin′ci·ple (-prĭn′sĭ·p'l), v. t. [un- not + principle.] To disestablish the moral principles of.

un·prin′ci·pled (ŭn·prĭn′sĭ·p'ld), adj. [un- not + principled.] Being without principles; esp., being without right moral principles; also, characterized by absence of principle. — un·prin′ci·pled·ly, adv. — un·prin′ci·pled·ness, n.
Syn. — Unscrupulous, perfidious.
Ant. — Conscientious, idealistic.

un·print′a·ble (-prĭn′tȧ·b'l), adj. That cannot be printed; esp., of a character unfit to be printed; as, an unprintable epithet. — un·print′a·ble·ness, n. — un·print′a·bly, adv.

un·pris′on (ŭn·prĭz′n), v. t. [1st un- + prison.] To take or deliver from prison.

un·priv′i·leged (-prĭv′ĭ·lĭjd), adj. Not privileged; not enjoying special rights, benefits, etc.; as, the unprivileged classes in modern society.

un·priz′a·ble (ŭn·prīz′ȧ·b'l), adj. Beneath or beyond valuation.

un·prob′a·ble (-prŏb′ȧ·b'l), adj. Improbable. Obs.

un·prob′a·ble, adj. [See 2d UNPROBABLY.] Not provable. Obs.

un·prob′a·bly (-blĭ), adv. [un- not + probably.] Improbably. Obs.

un·prob′a·bly, adv. [un- not + L. probabilis approvable, fr. probare to approve. See PROBABLE.] In a manner not to be approved. Obs.

un′pro·claimed′ (ŭn′prō·klāmd′), adj. Not proclaimed; unannounced.

un·pro′cre·ate (ŭn·prō′krē·ăt), adj. Not procreated. Obs.

un′pro·duce′a·ble (ŭn′prō·dūs′ȧ·b'l), adj. 1. = UNPRODUCIBLE.
2. Unproductive.
— un′pro·duce′a·ble·ness, n. — un′pro·duce′a·bly, adv.

un′pro·duc′i·ble (-dūs′ĭ·b'l), adj. That cannot be produced (in various senses). — un′pro·duc′i·ble·ness, n. — un′pro·duc′i·bly, adv.

un′pro·duc′tive (ŭn′prō·dŭk′tĭv), adj. Not productive. — un′pro·duc′tive·ly, adv. — un′pro·duc′tive·ness, un′pro·duc·tiv′i·ty (ŭn′prō·dŭk·tĭv′ĭ·tĭ), n.

unproductive consumption. Consumption of food, fuel, or materials, without creation of corresponding values in some other form.

un′pro·fes′sion·al (ŭn′prō·fĕsh′ŭn·ăl; -'l), adj. Not professional; esp., designating language, action, or method, not befitting one's profession; as, unprofessional language, advertising. — un′pro·fes′sion·al·ly, adv. — un′pro·fes′sion·al·ism, n.

un′pro·fi′cient (-fĭsh′ĕnt), adj. Not proficient. — un′pro·fi′cien·cy (-ĕn·sĭ), n. — un′pro·fi′cient·ly, adv.

un·prof′it (ŭn·prŏf′ĭt), n. Want of profit; unprofitableness.

un·prof′it·a·ble (ŭn·prŏf′ĭt·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not profitable; useless. — un·prof′it·a·ble·ness, n. — un·prof′it·a·bly, adv.

un·prof′it·ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Profitless. Rare.

un′pro·gres′sive (ŭn′prō·grĕs′ĭv), adj. Not progressive; esp., not devoted to or showing continual improvement; backward. — un′pro·gres′sive·ly, adv. — un′pro·gres′sive·ness, n.

un·prom′ise (ŭn·prŏm′ĭs), v. t. [1st un- + promise.] To revoke or annul, as a promise.

un·prom′is·ing (ŭn·prŏm′ĭs·ĭng), adj. Not promising; not giving favorable promise. — un·prom′is·ing·ly, adv. — un·prom′is·ing·ness, n.

un′pro·nounce′a·ble (ŭn′prō·noun′sȧ·b'l), adj. Not pronounceable; presenting difficulty in correct pronunciation.

un·prop′ (ŭn·prŏp′), v. t. [1st un- + prop.] To remove a prop or props from; to deprive of support.

un·prop′er (-ĕr), adj. Not proper: a Not peculiar. b Improper. — un·prop′er·ly, adv. — un·prop′er·ness, n.

un·prop′er·tied (ŭn·prŏp′ĕr·tĭd), adj. Having no property or properties; propertyless.

un′pro·pice′ (ŭn′prō·pĭs′), adj. [See UN- not; PROPICE.] Unpropitious. Obs.

un′pro·pi′tious (ŭn′prō·pĭsh′ŭs), adj. Not propitious. — un′pro·pi′tious·ly, adv. — un′pro·pi′tious·ness, n.

unpropitious signs. Astrol. See NOCTURNAL SIGNS.

un′pro·por′tion (-pōr′shŭn), n. Want of proportion.

un′pro·por′tion·al (-ăl; -'l), adj. Not proportional. — un′pro·por′tion·al′i·ty (-ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′pro·por′tion·al·ly, adv.

un′pro·por′tion·ate (-ĭt), adj. Not proportionate. — un′pro·por′tion·ate·ly, adv. — un′pro·por′tion·ate·ness, n.

un′pro·por′tioned (-shŭnd), adj. Disproportioned. — un′pro·por′tioned·ly, adv. — un′pro·por′tioned·ness, n.

un′pro·pri′e·ty (ŭn′prō·prī′ĕ·tĭ), n. Impropriety. Rare.

un·pros′e·lyte (ŭn·prŏs′ĕ·lĭt), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To convert or recover from being proselyte.

un′pros·per′i·ty (ŭn′prŏs·pĕr′ĭ·tĭ), n. Want of prosperity.

un′pro·tect′ed (ŭn′prō·tĕk′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Without protection or defense. — un′pro·tect′ed·ly, adv. — un′pro·tect′ed·ness, n.

unprotected cruiser. A cruiser having no armor or special protection against damage by gunfire. Cf. protected cruiser, under CRUISER, 2 b.

un·prot′es·tant·ize (ŭn·prŏt′ĕs·tănt·īz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To render other than Protestant; to cause to change from Protestantism to some other form of religion; to deprive of some Protestant characteristic.
The attempt to unprotestantize the Church of England. Froude.

un·prov′a·ble (ŭn·prōōv′ȧ·b'l), adj. Not provable. — un′prov·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′prōōv·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·prov′a·ble·ness, n. — un·prov′a·bly, adv.

un′pro·vide′ (ŭn′prō·vīd′), v. t. [1st un- + provide.] To deprive of necessary provision; to unfurnish. Rare.

un′pro·vid′ed (-vīd′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not provided; unprepared.
2. Not foreseen. Obs.
— un′pro·vid′ed·ly, adv. — un′pro·vid′ed·ness, n.

un·prov′i·dent (ŭn·prŏv′ĭ·dĕnt), adj. Improvident. — un·prov′i·dent·ly, adv.

un′pro·vised′ (ŭn′prō·vīzd′), adj. [Cf. IMPROVISE.] Sudden; unlooked for. Obs. Scot.

un′pro·vis′ed·ly (-vīz′ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. Unadvisedly. Obs.

un′pro·vi′sion (-vĭzh′ŭn) n. Want of provision.

un·pru′dent (ŭn·prōō′dĕnt; 242), adj. Imprudent. — un·pru′dence (-dĕns), n. — un·pru′dent·ly, adv.

un·pub′lished (-pŭb′lĭsht), adj. Not published; not made available for general reading, as in a book; as, unpublished memoirs.

un·puck′er (ŭn·pŭk′ĕr), v. t. [1st un- + pucker.] To smooth away the puckers or wrinkles of.

un·puff′ (-pŭf′), v. t. To humble. Obs.

un·pulled′ (ŭn·pōōld′), adj. Not pulled; specif., Obs., not plucked; not shredded.

un·pun′ished (-pŭn′ĭsht), adj. Not punished. — un·pun′ished·ly, adv. — un·pun′ished·ness, n.

un·pun′ish·ing, n. Impunity.

un·pure′ (ŭn·pūr′; 242), adj. Not pure; impure. — un·pure′ly, adv. — un·pure′ness, n.

un·pured′ (-pūrd′), adj. = UNPURIFIED. Obs.

un·purse′ (-pūrs′), v. t. 1. To bag money.
2. To take (a purse); to rob.
3. To relax, as one's lips; as, to unpurse one's mouth.

un·pursed′ (ŭn·pûrst′; 66), adj. [1st un- + purse + -ed.]
1. Robbed of a purse, or of money. Rare.
2. Taken from the purse; expended. Obs.

un′pur·veyed′ (ŭn′pûr·vād′), adj. Unprovided.

un·puz′zle (ŭn·pŭz′'l), v. t. To puzzle out; to decipher.

un·quailed′ (ŭn·kwāld′), adj. Undaunted.

un′qual·i·fi·ca′tion (ŭn′kwŏl·ĭ·fĭ·kā′shŭn), n. Want of qualification.

un·qual′i·fied (ŭn·kwŏl′ĭ·fīd), adj. Not qualified; as: a Not fit; not having requisite qualifications. b Not modified or restricted by reservations; as, an unqualified denial. — un·qual′i·fied·ly, adv. — un·qual′i·fied·ness, n.

un·qual′i·fy (-fī), v. t. [1st un- + qualify.] To disqualify.

un·qual′i·tied (-kwŏl′ĭ·tĭd), adj. [1st un- + quality.] Not qualified; specif., deprived of the usual faculties. Obs.

un·qual′i·ty (-tĭ), adj. Not of the quality (sense 5).

un·quan′ti·fied (ŭn·kwŏn′tĭ·fīd), adj. Not quantified; specif., Logic, not qualified by an adjective of quantity, as all, some, or the like; as, an unquantified term.

unquantified proposition. Logic. A proposition, such as "Chinese are industrious," which cannot be determined as universal or particular because the subject is unquantified.

un·quar′rel·a·ble (ŭn·kwŏr′ĕl·ȧ·b'l), adj. Unimpugnable. Obs.

un·queen′ (ŭn·kwēn′), v. t. [1st un- + queen.] To divest of the rank or authority of queen.

un·queme′ (-kwēm′), v. t. [1st un- + queme, v.] To unsettle; to stir up. Obs.

un·queme′, adj. [un- not + queme, adj.] Unpleasant. Obs.

un·queme′ly, or un·queme′ful·ly, adv. Unpleasantly. Both Obs.

un·quert′ (-kwûrt′), adj. [un- not + ME. quert healthy.] Hurtful; hostile. Obs.

un·quert′, n. Distress; harm Obs.

un′ques·tion·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′kwĕs·chŭn·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. a Character of being unquestionable. b Rare. A thing not to be questioned.

un·ques′tion·a·ble (ŭn·kwĕs′chŭn·ȧ·b'l), adj. 1. Not questionable; indisputable; as, an unquestionable title.
2. Acknowledged as beyond question or doubt; as, an unquestionable status as a statesman.
3. Averse to questions or conversation. Rare.
— un·ques′tion·a·ble·ness, n. — -tion·a·bly, adv.

un·ques′tion·ate (-kwĕs′chŭn·ăt), adj. Unquestioned.

un·ques′tioned (ŭn·kwĕs′chŭnd), adj. 1. Not called in question; not doubted.
2. Not interrogated; not examined or examined into.
3. Not to be opposed or disputed.
Their unquestioned pleasures must be served. B. Jonson.
— un·ques′tioned·ly, adv. — un·ques′tioned·ness, n.

un·ques′tion·ing, adj. Not questionable; hence, accepting without examination or hesitation; as, unquestioning obedience to authority. — un·ques′tion·ing·ly, adv. — un·ques′tion·ing·ness, n.

un·quick′ (ŭn·kwĭk′), v. i. To become lifeless, inert, or inactive.

un′qui·es′cent (ŭn′kwī·ĕs′ĕnt; -'nt), adj. Not quiescent. — un′qui·es′cence (-ĕns; -'ns), n. — -es′cent·ly, adv.

un·qui′et (ŭn·kwī′ĕt), v. t. [1st un- + quiet.] To disquiet.

un·qui′et, adj. [un- not + quiet.] a Not quiet; agitated; disturbed; also, disturbing. b Physically restless; uneasy. — un·qui′et·ly, adv. — un·qui′et·ness, n.

un·qui′et, n. A state of uneasiness or disturbance; disquiet; unquietude.

un·qui′et·ous (-ŭs), adj. = UNQUIET. Obs.

un·qui′e·tude (ŭn·kwī′ĕ·tūd), n. Uneasiness; inquietude.

un·quit′ (ŭn·kwĭt′), adj. Obs. a Not discharged. b Unrequited; unpaid.

un·quod′ (-kwŏd′), adj. [See UN- not; QUOTH.] Untold. Obs.

un′quote′ (ŭn′kwōt′), v. t. To end a quotation; — used esp. in telegrams, reading aloud, etc.

un·raced′ (-rāst′), adj. [See UN- not; RACE to scratch.] Unbroken. Obs.

un·raced′, adj. = UNRAZED. Rare.

un·rake′ (ŭn·rāk′), v. t. To rake off the top or cover of; to expose with raking.

un·ram′ (-răm′), v. t. To undo the ramming of. Rare.

un·rank′ (-răngk′), v. t. a To deprive of rank; to demote. b To destroy the ranks, or orderly formation, of; to throw into confusion.

un·rat′ed (ŭn·rāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not rated.

unrated bimetallism. A proposed system of so-called bimetallism in which there is free coinage and circulation of gold and silver without a fixed ratio. Rare.

un·rat′i·fied (ŭn·răt′ĭ·fīd), adj. Not ratified; not sanctioned, approved, or confirmed.

un·rat′tled (-răt′'ld), adj. See UN-, not.

un·rav′aged (-răv′ĭjd), adj. Not ravaged, pillaged, or despoiled; not plundered or devastated. See UN-, not.

un·rav′el (ŭn·răv′ĕl; -'l), v.; UN·RAV′ELED or UN·RAV′ELLED (-ĕld; -'ld); UN·RAV′EL·ING or UN·RAV′EL·LING. [1st un- un′pre·mon′ished, adj., un′pre·mon′strat·ed, adj., un′pre·nom′i·nat·ed, adj., un·pren′ticed, adj., un′pre·oc′cupied, adj., un′pre·or·dained′, adj., un′pre·par′ing, adj., un′pre·pon′der·at′ed, adj., un′pre·pon′der·at′ing, adj., un′pre·possess′ed·ly, adv., un′pre·pos′terous, adj., un′pre·saged′, adj., un′pre·sage′ful, adj., un′pre·sag′ing, adj., un′pres·byt′er·at′ed, adj., un′-Pres·by·te′ri·an, adj., un′pre·scient, adj., un′pre·scind′ed, adj., un′pre·scribed′, adj., un′pre·sent′ed, adj., un′-pre·serv′a·ble, adj., un′pre·served′, adj., un′pres·i·den′tial, adj., un′pre·sid′ing, adj., un·pressed′, adj., un′pre·sum′a·ble, adj., un′pre·sumed′, adj., un′-pre·sum′ing, adj., un′pre·sum′ing·ness, n., un′pre·sump′tuous, adj., un′pre·sump′tu·ously, adv., un′pre·sup·posed′, adj., un′pre·tend′ed, adj., un′pre·ter·mit′ted, adj., un′pre·ter·nat′ural, adj., un·pret′ti·ness, n., un·pret′ty, adj., un′pre·vail′ing, adj., un′pre·vaj′uent, adj., un′-pre·var′i·cat′ing, adj., un′pre·vent′i·ble, adj., un′pre·ven′tive, adj., un·price′a·bly, adj., un·pricked′, adj., un·prick′led, adj., un·prick′ly, adj., un·priest′like′, adj., un·priest′ly, adj. & adv., un·prig′gish, adj., un·prim′, adj., un·primed′, adj., un·prim′i·tive, adj., un·primmed′, adj., un·prince′like′, adj. & adv., un·prince′li·ness, n., un·prince′ly, adj. & adv. See UN-, not.

un·prin′cess, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·prin′ci·pal, adj. See UN-, not.

un·print′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·print′ed, adj., un′pri·or′i·ty, n., un′pris·mat′ic, adj., un·pris′on·a·ble, adj., un·pris′oned, adj., un·pri′vate, adj., un·prized′, adj., un·pro′bat·ed, adj., un′pro·ba′tion·ar′y, adj., un·probed′, adj., un·prob′i·ty, n., un′prob·lem·at′ic, un′prob·lem·at′i·cal, adj., un·proc′essed, adj., un′pro·cras′ti·nat′ed, adj., un·pro′cre·ant, adj., un·pro′cre·at′ed, adj., un·proc′tored, adj., un′pro·cur′a·ble (ŭn′prō·kūr′ȧ·b'l), adj., un′pro·cur′a·ble·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un′pro·cure′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·pro·cured′, adj., un·prod′ded, adj., un′pro·duced′ (-dūst′), adj., un′pro·duc′ed·ness, n., un′pro·fan′a·ble, adj., un′pro·fane′, adj., un′profaned′ (-fānd′), adj., un′pro·fessed′ (-fĕst′), adj., un′pro·fess′ing, adj., un′prof·es·so′ri·al, adj., un·prof′fered, adj., un′prof·it·eer′ing, adj., un·prof′it·ing, adj., un′pro·found′, adj., un′pro·fuse′, adj., un′pro·fuse′ly, adv., un′pro·fuse′ness, n., un′progno′sti·cat′ed, adj., un′pro·gressed′, adj., un′pro·hib′it·ed, adj., un′pro·hib′it·ed·ness, n., un′pro·hib′i·tive, adj., un′pro·ject′ed, adj., un′pro·ject′ing, adj., un′pro·lif′er·ous, adj., un′-pro·lif′ic, adj., un′pro·lix′, adj., un′pro·logued, adj., un′pro·longed′, adj., un′pro·mis′cuous, adj., un·prom′ised, adj., un′pro·mot′a·ble, adj., un′-pro·mot′ed, adj., un·prompt′ed, adj., un·prompt′ly, adv., un′pro·mul′gat·ed, adj., See UN-, not.

un′pro·nounce′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un′pro·nounced′, adj., un′pro·nounc′ing, adj., un·proof′read′, adj., un·prop′a·gat′ed, adj., un′-pro·pelled′, adj., un′pro·pense′, adj., un·proph′e·sa′ble, adj., un′proph·e·sied, adj., un′pro·phet′ic, un′pro·phet′i·cal, adj., un′pro·phet′i·cal·ly, adv., un·proph′et·like′, adj., un′pro·pi′tia·ble (ŭn′prō·pĭsh′ĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj., un′pro·pi′ti·at′ed (-āt′ĕd; 119), adj., un·proph′e·sa′ble, adj., un′pro·pi′ti·a·tor′y, adj., un′-pro·por′tion·a·ble, adj., un′pro·por′tion·a·ble·ness, n., un′pro·por′tion·a·bly, adv., un′pro·posed′ (-pōzd′), adj., un′pro·pos′ing, adj., un′pro·pound′ed, adj., un·propped′, un·propt′, adj., un′pro·pugned′, adj. See UN-, not. Obs.

un′pro·rogued′, adj., un′pro·sa′ic, adj., un′pro·scrib′a·ble, adj., un′pro·scribed′, adj., un′pros′e·cut′a·ble, adj., un′pros′e·cut′ed, adj., un′pros′e·cut′ing, adj., un′pros′e·lyt′ed, adj., un′-pro·sod′ic, adj., un·pros′pected, adj., un′pro·spec′tive, adj., un′pros′per·a·bly, adj., un·pros′pered, adj., un·pros′perous, adj., un·pros′per·ous·ly, adv., un·pros′per·ous·ness, n., un·pros′ti·tute, adj., un′pros′ti·tut′ed, adj., un′pro·tan′ge·ra, adj., un′pro·tect′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un′pro·tec′tive, adj., un′prot′es·tant, adj., un-Prot′es·tant, adj., un-Prot′es·tant·like′, adj., un′pro·test′ed, adj., un′pro·test′ing, adj., un′pro·trud′ed (ŭn′prō·trōōd′ĕd; 119), adj., un′-pro·trud′ing, adj., un′pro·tru′sive, adj., un·proud′, adj., un·proved′ (-prōōvd′), adj., un·prov′ed·ness (-prōōv′ĕd·nĕs; -prōōvd′-), n., un·prov′en (-prōōv′ĕn), adj., un′pro·ver′bial, adj., un′pro·vid′a·ble, adj., un·prov′i·denced, adj., un′pro·vi·den′tial, adj., un′pro·vin′cial, adj., un·prov′ing, adj., un′pro·vi′sioned, adj., un′pro·voc′ative, adj., un′pro·vok′a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un′pro·voke′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un′pro·voked′ (-vōkt′), adj., un′-pro·vok′ed·ly (-vōk′ĕd·lĭ), adv., un′pro·vok′ed·ness, n., un′pro·vok′ing (-ĭng), adj., un′prox·im′i·ty, n., un·pruned′ (ŭn·prōōnd′), adj., un·Prus′sian, adj., un·Prus′sian·ized, adj., un·pry′ing, adj., un·psy′chic, adj., un′psy·cho·log′i·cal, adj., un′pub′lic, adj., un′pub·lic′i·ty, n., un·pub′lish·a·ble, adj., un·pub′lish·a·ble·ness, n., un·pub′lish·a·bly, adv., un·puck′ered, adj., un·pud′dled, adj., un·pud′ded, adj., un·puf′fing, adj., un′pu·gi·lis′tic, adj., un′pug·na′cious, adj., un·pul′leyed, adj., un·pulped′, adj., un·pul′ver·a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.

un·pul′ver·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·pul′ver·ized, adj., un·pul′vi·nate, un·pul′vi·nat′ed, adj., un·pu′mi·cat′ed, adj., un·pum′meled, un·pum′melled, adj., un·pump′a·ble, adj., un·pumped′, adj., un·punched′, adj., un·punc′tat·ed, adj., un′-punc·til′i·ous, adj., un·punc′tu·al, adj., un·punc·tu·al·i·ty, n., un·punc′tu·al·ly, adv., un-punc′tu·at′ed, adj., un·punc′tu·at′ing, adj., un·pun′ish·a·ble, adj., un·pun′ish·a·bly, adv., un·pun′ish·ed, adj., un·quest′ed, adj., un·pun′ish·ing, adj., un·pun′ishing·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·pur′chas·a·ble, adj., un·pur′chased, adj., un·purge′a·ble, adj., un·purged′ (ŭn·pūrjd′), un·pu′ri·fi′a·ble, adj., un·pu′ri·fied, adj., un·pu·ri·fy′ing, adj., un·pu′ri·tan, adj., un·purled′, adj., un′pur·loined′, adj., un·pur′pled, adj., un′pur·port′ed, adj., un·pur′posed, adj., un·pur′pose·like′, adj., un·pur′pose·ly, adj., un·pur′pos·ing, adj., un′-pur·su′a·ble, adj., un′pur·sued′, adj., un·pur·su′ing, adj., un·pushed′, adj., un·put′, adj., un·put′re·fi′a·ble, adj., un·pu′re·fied, adj., un·pu′trid, adj., un·put′tied, adj., un′-Py·thag′o·re′an, adj., un·quad′ded, adj., un·quaffed′ (ŭn·kwăft′), adj., un·quail′ing, adj., un·quail′ing·ly, adv., un·quak′er·like′, (-kwăk′ĕr·lĭk′), adj., un·quak′er·ly, adj., un·quaking, adj., un·qual′i·fi′a·ble, adj., un·qual′i·fy′ing, adj., un·qual′i·fy′ing·ly, adv., un·quan′ti·ta′tive, adj., un·quar′an·tined, adj., un·quar′reled, un·quar′relled, adj., un·quar′rel·ing, un·quar′rel·ling, adj., un·quar′rel·some, adj., un·quar′rid, adj., un·quar′tered (-kwŏr′tĕrd), adj., un·quashed′, adj., un·quayed′, adj., un·queened′, adj., un·queen′ing, adj., un·queen′like′, adj., un·queen′ly, adj., un·quell′a·ble, adj., un·quelled′, adj., un·quench′a·ble, adj., un·quenched′ (ŭn·kwĕnchd′), adj., un·que′ried, adj., un·quest′ed, adj., un·quib′bled, adj., un·quib′bling, adj., un·quick′, adj., un·quick′ened, adj., un·quick′ly, adv., un·quick′sil′vered, adj., un·qui′et·a·ble, adj., un·qui′et·ed, adj., un·qui′et·ing, adj., un·quil′let·ed, adj., un·qui·lit′ed, adj., un·quit′a·ble, adj., un·quit′ted, adj., un·quiv′ered, adj., un·quiv′er·ing, adj., un·quizz′a·ble, adj., un·quizzed′, adj., un·quot′a·ble (-kwōt′ȧ·b'l), adj., un·quot′ed (-ĕd), adj., un·rab′bet·ed, adj., un′rab·bin′i·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

un·rack′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·racked′, adj., un·rack′ing, adj., un·ra′di·at′ed, adj., un·rad′i·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

un·rad′i·cal·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·raf′fled, adj., un·raft′ered, adj., un·raid′ed, adj., un·railed′, adj., un·rail′road′ed, adj., un·rail′waged′, adj., un·rain′y, adj., un·raised′ (-rāzd′), adj., un·raked′ (-rākt′), adj., un·rak′ing, adj., un·ral′loied, adj., un·ram′bling, adj., un·ram′i·fied, adj., un·rammed′ (ŭn·rămd′), adj., un·ramped′, adj., un·ranched′, adj., un·ran′cid, adj., un·ran′cored, un·ran′coured, adj., un·ran′dom, adj., un·ranked′, adj., un′ran·sacked′, adj., un·ran′som·a·ble, adj., un·ran′somed, adj., un′ra·pa′cious, adj., un·raped′, adj., un·rap′tured, adj., un·rare′, adj., un·rar′e·fied, adj., un·rash′, adj., un·rasped′, adj., un·rat′a·ble, adj., un·ra′tion·al (ŭn·răsh′ŭn·ăl), adj., See UN-, not.

+ ravel.] Transitive: 1. To disentangle; to disengage or separate the threads of; as, to unravel a stocking. 2. Hence, to clear from complication or difficulty; to unfold; solve; as, to unravel a plot. 3. To separate the connected or united parts of; to undo; disorder; confuse. Obs. "Nature all unraveled." Dryden. —, Intransitive: To become unraveled, in any sense. — un·rav′el·a·ble, un·rav′el·la·ble (-ȧ-b'l), adj. — un·rav′el·er, un·rav′el·ler (-ėr), n. — un·rav′el·ment (-mėnt), n.

un·ray′ (ŭn·rā′), v. t. & i. To undress. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·read′ (ŭn·rĕd′; 66), adj. 1. Not read, as a book. 2. Not versed in literature; illiterate.

un·read′a·ble (ŭn·rēd′ȧ-b'l), adj. Not readable. — un′·read·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′rēd·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·read′a·ble·ness, n. — un·read′a·bly, adv.

un·read′y (ŭn·rĕd′ĭ), adj.; UN·READ′I·ER (-ĭ·ėr); UN·READ′I·EST. 1. Awkward; clumsy; slow. Obs. 2. Not ready or prepared; unfit for action. 3. Not dressed; undressed. Obs. 4. Lacking rede or counsel; — sometimes so explained as the epithet of Ethelred II of England. Freeman. — un·read′i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·read′i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; 119), n. un·read′y, v. t. [1st un- + ready.] To undress. Obs.

un·re′al (ŭn·rē′ăl; -rē′ăl), adj. Not real; unsubstantial; fanciful; ideal; visionary. — un·re′al·ly, adv. — un·re′al·ness, n.

un·re′al·ism (-ĭz′m), n. The contrary of realism. — un·re′al·ist, n.

If I have called the world to which he [Spenser] transports us a world of unreality, I have wronged him. It is only a world of unrealism. Lowell.

un·re·al′i·ty (ŭn′rē·ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). 1. The quality or state of being unreal; want of reality; also, something unreal; something visionary.

He felt like a man walking in unrealities. D. H. Lawrence.

2. Lack of ability to perceive the real, as distinguished from the imaginary, objects, purposes, or the like; tendency toward being visionary.

un·re′al·ize (ŭn·rē′ăl·īz; -rē′ăl-), v. t. [1st un- + realize.] To make unreal; to idealize.

His fancy . . . unrealizes everything at a touch. Lowell.

un·re′al·ized (-īzd), adj. Not realized; as: a Not reduced to real or actual form. b Not known or fully appreciated; as, each of us has unrealized powers of endurance under suffering.

un·rea′son (ŭn·rē′z'n), v. t. [1st un- + reason.] a To destroy the reason, or sanity, of. b Obs. To reason away or prove to be unreasonable.

un·rea′son, n. [un- not + reason.] a Want of reason; unreasonableness; irrationality; absurdity. b Action or an act contrary to what is reasonable.

un·rea′son·a·ble (-ȧ-b'l), adj. Not reasonable; as: a Not endowed with reasoning ability. b Not conformable to reason; irrational; also, not governed or influenced by reason. c Beyond the bounds of reason or moderation; immoderate; exorbitant.

Syn. — Absurd, irrational, senseless; excessive, exorbitant, extravagant, immoderate. See IRRATIONAL; cf. EXCESSIVE. Ant. — Sensible; moderate. See REASONABLE. — un′rea·son·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′rē·z'n·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·rea′son·a·ble·ness, n. — un·rea′son·a·bly, adv.

un·rea′son·a·ble, adv. Unreasonably; immoderately. Obs.

un·rea′soned (ŭn·rē′z'nd), adj. a Not having the power to reason; irrational. b Not founded on reason or reasoning; unreasonable. "Unreasoned habits." Burke.

un·rea′son·ing, adj. Not reasoning; esp., giving away to emotions without the guidance of reason and judgment; as, unreasoning fear, panic, joy. — un·rea′son·ing·ly, adv.

un·reave′ (ŭn·rēv′), v. t. [Cf. 1st UN-; REAVE to tear, break.] To unwind; disentangle; loose. Now Chiefly Dial.

The web is plaiting which nothing unreaves. Amy Lowell.

un′re·buk′a·ble, un′re·buke′a·ble (ŭn′rē·būk′ȧ-b'l), adj. Not deserving rebuke or censure; blameless. — un′re·buk′·a·bly, un′re·buke′a·bly, adv.

un′re·call′ing (-kôl′ĭng), adj. a Not recalling. b Obs. Not recallable.

un·reck′less (ŭn·rĕk′lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Heedless. Obs.

un′rec·og·ni′tion (ŭn′rĕk·ȯg·nĭsh′ŭn), n. Want of recognition.

un·rec′og·niz′a·ble (ŭn·rĕk′ȯg·nīz′ȧ-b'l), adj. Not recognizable. — un·rec′og·niz′a·ble·ness, n. — un·rec′og·niz′a·bly, adv.

un·rec′on·cil′a·ble (ŭn·rĕk′ŏn·sīl′ȧ-b'l), adj. Irreconcilable. — un·rec′on·cil′a·ble·ness, n. — un·rec′on·cil′a·bly, adv.

un′rec·on·cil′i·a·ble (ŭn′rĕk·ŏn·sĭl′ĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj. Unreconcilable. Obs.

un′re·con·struct′ed (ŭn′rē·kŏn·strŭk′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not reconstructed; specif.: U. S. Hist. Not yet having undergone reconstruction (which see); also, Colloq., of a secessionist, not reconciled to the political results of the Civil War.

un′re·cord′ed (ŭn′rē·kôr′dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. Not recorded; esp., not made a matter of official record; as, an unrecorded deed to the property.

un′re·cov′ered (-kŭv′ėrd), adj. 1. Not recovered; esp., not regained. 2. Irrecoverable. Obs.

un′re·cur′ing (ŭn′rē·kūr′ĭng), adj. Incurable. Obs.

un·red′ (ŭn·rĕd′), adj. [un- not + red for read, past part. of read, v., taken in the sense of to count, tell.] Untold of. Rare. Spenser.

un′re·deemed′ (ŭn′rē·dēmd′; 66), adj. Not redeemed. — un′re·deem′ed·ly (-dēm′ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un′re·deem′ed·ness, n.

un·red′uct′ (-dŭkt′), adj. Unreduced. Rare.

un·reel′ (ŭn·rēl′), v. t. & i. [1st un- + reel.] To unwind from a reel; — often used figuratively; as, to unreel a long story.

un·reeve′ (ŭn·rēv′), v. t. [1st un- + reeve, v.] Naut. To withdraw, or take out, (a rope) from a block, thimble, or the like. — v. i. To become unrove; — said of a rope.

un′re·fine′ (ŭn′rē·fīn′), v. t. To take away or destroy the refinement of.

un′re·fined′ (-fīnd′), adj. Not refined; as: a Not freed from dross; as, unrefined ore. b Not having or showing the social graces or usual courtesies; uncultivated. — un′re·fin′ed·ly (-fīn′ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un′re·fin′ed·ness, n.

un′re·fine′ment (-fīn′mĕnt), n. Want of refinement; esp., lack of the usual social courtesies; lack of cultivation.

un′ref·or·ma′tion (ŭn′rĕf·ôr·mā′shŭn), n. State of being unreformed. Obs.

un′re·gard′ (-rē·gärd′), n. Want of regard; lack of respect.

un′re·gard′, v. t. To disregard. Obs.

un′re·gen′er·a·cy (ŭn′rē·jĕn′ėr·ȧ·sĭ), n. Quality or state of being unregenerate.

un′re·gen′er·ate (-ĭt), adj. Also un′re·gen′er·at′ed (-āt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119). Not regenerated; not renewed in heart; remaining or being at enmity with God. — un′re·gen′er·ate·ly, adv. — un′re·gen′er·ate·ness, n.

un′re·gen′er·ate, n. One who is unregenerate.

un′re·gen′er·ate (-āt), v. t. To cause the unregeneracy of; to reduce to an unregenerate state.

un′re·gen′er·a′tion (-ā′shŭn), n. Unregeneracy. Rare.

un·reg′is·tered (ŭn·rĕj′ĭs·tĕrd), adj. Not registered; not having complied with the requirements of registration (in various senses); of a citizen, not having registered his name on the voting list.

un·reg′u·lar (-rĕg′ū·lėr), adj. Irregular.

un·reg′u·lat′ed (-lāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not regulated; as: a Not well ordered or arranged. b Not well controlled or disciplined.

un·rein′ (ŭn·rān′), v. t. [1st un- + rein.] To loosen the reins of; to remove restraint from.

un′re·lent′a·ble (ŭn′rē·lĕn′tȧ-b'l), adj. Unrelenting. Obs.

un′re·lent′ance (-tȧns), n. Lack of relentance; failure to relent.

un′re·lent′ing (-tĭng), adj. Not relenting; as: a Unyielding; inexorable; rigorous; hard; stern; severe. b Not letting up; maintaining the same speed, vigor, pace, or the like. — un′re·lent′ing·ly, adv. — un′re·lent′ing·ness, n.

un′re·lent′less, adj. Relentless. Obs.

un′re·len′tor (ŭn′rē·lĕn′tėr), n. One who does not relent; a relentless or implacable person.

un·rel′e·vant (ŭn·rĕl′ē·vȧnt), adj. Irrelevant. Rare.

un′re·li′a·ble (ŭn′rē·lī′ȧ-b'l), adj. Not reliable; undependable; untrustworthy. — un′re·li′a·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′re·li′a·ble·ness, n. — un′re·li′a·bly, adv.

Alcibiades . . . was too unsteady, and (according to Mr. Coleridge's coinage) "unreliable"; or perhaps, in more correct English, too "unrelyuponable." De Quincey.

un′re·li′ance (-ăns), n. Want of reliance.

un′re·li′gion (ŭn′rē·lĭj′ŭn), n. Irreligion. Rare.

un′re·li′gious (-lĭj′ŭs), adj. 1. Irreligious. 2. Having no connection with, or relation to, religion; involving no religious import or idea; nonreligious; as, unreligious education. — un′re·li′gious·ly, adv. — un′re·li′gious·ness, n.

un′re·me′di·able (-mē′dĭ·ȧ-b'l), adj. Irremediable. Rare.

un′re·mem′ber (-rē·mĕm′bėr), v. t. Not to remember or recall; forget.

un′re·mem′brance (ŭn′rē·mĕm′brȧns), n. Want of remembrance; forgetfulness.

un′re·mit′ting (ŭn′rē·mĭt′ĭng), adj. Not remitting; incessant; persevering; as, unremitting exertions. — un′re·mit′ting·ly, adv. — un′re·mit′ting·ness, n.

un′re·morse′less (-môrs′lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Remorseless. Obs.

un′re·moved′ (-mōōvd′), adj. a Not removed. b Obs. Irremovable; fixed; steadfast.

un′re·mu′ner·at′ed (ŭn′rē·mū′nėr·āt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not remunerated; unpaid.

un′re·mu′ner·a′tive (-ā′tĭv; -ȧ·tĭv), adj. Not remunerative; not yielding adequate return, as in money, for the service given or effort spent. — un′re·mu′ner·a′tive·ly, adv. — un′re·mu′ner·a′tive·ness, n.

un′re·nav′i·ga·ble (-năv′ĭ·gȧ-b'l), adj. That one cannot navigate in returning. Obs.

un′re·nowned′ (ŭn′rē·nound′), adj. Not renowned, famous, or well known — un′re·nown′ed·ly (-noun′ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un′re·nown′ed·ness, n.

un′re·pair′ (-rē·pâr′), n. Want of repair.

un′re·pair′a·ble (-ȧ-b'l), adj. Irreparable. Rare.

un′re·pent′a·ble (-pĕn′tȧ-b'l), adj. That cannot repent or be repented of. Rare.

un′re·pent′ance (-pĕn′tȧns), n. Impenitence. Rare.

un′re·pli′a·ble (ŭn′rē·plī′ȧ-b'l), adj. That cannot be replied to; unanswerable. Obs. — un′re·pli′a·bly (-blĭ), adv. Obs.

un′re·port′ed (ŭn′rē·pōr′tĕd; -tĭd; 119; 181), adj. Not reported. — un′re·port′ed·ly, adv. — un′re·port′ed·ness, n.

Unreported Parliament. Eng. Hist. The Parliament that sat from 1768 to 1774; — so called with reference to a struggle with the press concerning the printing of reports of debates, surreptitiously obtained. The privilege, although forbidden, was tacitly conceded after 1771.

un′rep·re·sen·ta′tion (ŭn′rĕp·rē·zĕn·tā′shŭn), n. Want of representation.

un′rep·re·sent′a·tive (-zĕn′tȧ·tĭv), adj. Not representative; as: a Failing to portray the original. b Not typical or illustrative of a class. c Not adequately representing the character or will of the electorate; — said of a legislative or elected body.

un′re·proach′a·ble (ŭn′rē·prōch′ȧ-b'l), adj. Irreproachable. — un′re·proach′a·ble·ness, n. — un′re·proach′a·bly, adv.

un′re·proved′ (-prōōvd′), adj. 1. Not reproved. 2. a Blameless. b Obs. Not disproved. — un′re·prov′ed·ly (-prōōv′ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un′·re·prov′ed·ness, n.

un′re·pug′na·ble (ŭn′rē·pŭg′nȧ-b'l; -pūn′ȧ-b'l), adj. Incontrovertible; irresistible. Obs.

un·rep′u·ta·ble (ŭn·rĕp′ū·tȧ-b'l), adj. Disreputable. Rare.

un′re·quest′ (ŭn′rē·kwĕst′), v. t. To withdraw (a request). Obs.

un′re·quit′er (ŭn′rē·kwĭt′ėr), n. One who does not requite.

un′re·search′a·ble (-sûr′chȧ-b'l), adj. Unsearchable. Obs.

un′re·serve′ (ŭn′rē·zûrv′), n. Absence of reserve; frankness; communicativeness.

un′re·served′ (-zûrvd′), adj. Not reserved; as: a Not kept back, or withheld in part; unrestricted, as in devotion. b Not reserved in manner or speech; frank; open. — un′·re·serv′ed·ly (-zûr′vĕd·lĭ; -vĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un′re·serv′ed·ness, n.

un′re·sist′a·ble (-zĭs′tȧ-b'l), adj. Irresistible. — un′re·sist′a·bly, adv.

un′re·sist′ant (-tȧnt), adj. Not resistant. — un′re·sist′·ance (-tȧns), n. — un′re·sist′ant·ly, adv.

un′re·sist′ed (-zĭs′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not resisted; unopposed. 2. Resistless; as, unresisted fate. Obs. — un′re·sist′ed·ly, adv. — un′re·sist′ed·ness, n.

un′re·sist′i·ble (-tĭ·b'l), adj. Irresistible. — un′re·sist′·i·ble·ness, n. — un′re·sist′i·bly, adv.

un′re·sist′ing, adj. Not resisting; yielding. See UN-, not. — un′re·sist′ing·ly, adv. — un′re·sist′ing·ness, n.

un·res′o·lute (ŭn·rĕz′ō·lūt; 242), adj. Irresolute.

un′re·solve′ (ŭn′rē·zŏlv′), n. Want of resolve, or decision.

un′re·solve′, v. i. [See 1st UN-.] To revoke, as a resolution.

un′re·spect′ (-rē·spĕkt′), n. Want of respect. Obs.

un′re·spect′, adj. Lacking respect.

un′re·spec′tive (-spĕk′tĭv), adj. a Obs. Inconsiderate; also, unheeded; common. b Indiscriminative; not distinguishing. — un′re·spec′tive·ly, adv. — un′re·spec′tive·ness, n.

---

un·rav′eled, un·rav′elled, adj., un·rav′el·ing, un·rav′el·ling, n. & adj., un·rav′ing, adj., un·rav′·ished, adj., un·rav′ish·ing, adj., un·rayed′, adj., un·razed′ (ŭn·rāzd′), adj., un·ra′zored (-rā′·zĕrd), adj., un·reach′a·ble, adj., un·reach′a·bly, adv., un·reached′ (-rēcht′), adj., un′re·act′ive, adj., un·read′, adj., un′re·al·is′tic, adj., un·re′al·iz′a·ble, adj., un·re′al·ized, adj., un·re′al·iz′·ing, adj., un·realmed′, adj., un·reaped′ (ŭn·rēpt′), adj., un·reared′ (-rērd′), adj., un′re·as·sur′ing, adj., un′re·as·sur′ing·ly, un·reas′ing, adj., un·re′bated, adj. See UN-, not.

un′re·bel′, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un′re·bel′lious, adj., un′re·buff′a·ble, adj., un′re·buff′a·bly, adv., un′re·built′, adj., un′re·buked′, adj., un′re·but′ta·ble, adj., un′re·but′ta·ble·ness, n., un′re·but′ted, adj., un′re·call′a·ble, adj., un′re·call′a·bly, adv., un′re·called′ (-kôld′), adj., un′re·cant′a·ble, adj., un′re·cant′ed, adj., un′re·cap′tured, adj., un′re·ced′ing (ŭn′rē·sēd′ĭng), adj., un′re·ceipt′ed (-sēt′ĕd; 119), adj., un′re·ceiv′a·ble (-sē′vȧ-b'l), adj., un′re·ceived′ (-sēvd′), adj., un′re·ceiv′ing, adj., un·re′cent, adj., un′re·cep′tant, adj., un′re·cep′tive, adj., un′re·cep·tiv′i·ty, n., un′re·cip′ro·cal, adj., un′re·cip′ro·cal′ed, adj., un′re·cit′ed (ŭn′rē·sīt′ĕd; 119), adj., un·recked′ (ŭn·rĕkt′), adj., un·reck′ing, adj., un·reck′ing·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·reck′on, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·reck′on·a·ble, adj., un·reck′·oned, adj., un′re·claim′a·ble, adj., un′re·claim′a·bly, adv., un′re·claimed′, adj., un′re·claim′·ed·ness, n., un′re·claim′ing, adj., un′re·clined′, adj., un′re·clin′ing, adj., un′rec·og·nized, adj., un′rec·og·niz′ing, adj., un′rec·og·niz′ing·ly, adv., un′re·coined′, adj., un′rec·ol·lect′ed, adj., un′rec·om·mend′a·ble, adj., un′rec·om·pen′sa·ble, adj., un′rec·om·pensed, adj., un·rec′·on·ciled (-sĭld), adj., un′rec·on·dite, adj., un′rec·on·noi′tered, un′rec·on·noi′tred, adj., un′re·con·sid′ered, adj. See UN-, not.

un′re·cord′a·ble, adj., un′re·cord′ed·ness, n., un′re·cord′ing, adj., un′re·count′a·ble, adj., un′·re·count′ed, adj., un′re·cov′er·a·ble, adj., un′re·cov′er·a·ble·ness, n., un′re·cov′er·a·bly, adv., un′rec′re·ant, adj., un′rec′re·at′ed, adj., un′rec′re·at′ing, adj., un′re·crim′i·na′tive, adj., un′re·cruit′a·ble, adj., un′re·cruit′ed, adj., un′rec·tan′gu·lar, adj., un′rec′ti·fi′a·ble, adj., un′rec′ti·fi′·a·bly, adv., un′rec·ti′fied, adj., un′re·cum′bent, adj., un′re·cu′per·at′ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un′re·cur′a·ble, adj. = UNRECOVERABLE. Obs.

un′re·cur′rent, adj., un′re·cur′·ring, adj., un·rec′u·sant, adj., un′re·dact′ed, adj., un′re·deem′a·ble, adj., un′re·deem′a·ble·ness, n., un′re·deem′a·bly, adv., un′re·deem′ing, adj., un′re·deis′tic, adj., un′re·dressed′ (ŭn′rē·drĕst′), adj., un′re·duce′a·ble, adj., un′re·duced′, adj., un′re·duci′bile (ŭn′rē·dūs′ĭ·b'l), adj., un′re·duc′i·ble·ness, n., un′re·duc′i·bly, adv., un·reefed′, adj., un·reel′a·ble, adj., un·reeled′, adj., un·reel′ing, adj., un′·re·em·bod′ied, adj., un·reev′ing, adj., un·ref′er·enced, adj., un′re·ferred′, adj., un′re·filled′, adj., un′re·fin′ing, adj., un′re·flect′ed, adj., un′re·flect′ing, adj., un′re·flect′ing·ly, adv., un′re·flect′ing·ness, n., un′·re·flec′tive, adj., un′re·flec′tively, adv., un′re·form′a·ble, adj., un′re·formed′, n., un′re·form′ed·ness, n., un′re·form′ing, adj., un′re·fract′ed, adj., un′re·fract′ing, adj., un′re·frain′a·ble, adj., un′re·frained′, adj., un′re·frain′ing, adj., un′re·freshed′, adj., un′re·fresh′ful, adj., un′re·fresh′ing, adj., un′re·fresh′ing·ly, adv., un′re·frig′er·at′ed, adj., un′re·ful′gent, adj., un′re·fund′ed, adj., un′re·fund′ing, adj., un′re·fus′a·ble (ŭn′rē·fūz′ȧ-b'l), adj., un′re·fus′a·bly, adv., un′re·fused′ (-fūzd′), adj., un′·re·fus′ing (-fūz′ĭng), adj., un′re·fus′ing·ly, adv., un·ref′u·ta·ble, adj., un′re·fut′ed (-fūt′ĕd; 119), adj., un′re·fut′ing, adj., un′re·gain′a·ble, adj., un′re·gained′, adj., un′re·gal, adj., un′re·galed′, adj., un′re·gal′i·ty, n., un′re·gal′·ly, adv., un′re·gard′a·ble, adj., un′·re·gard′ant, adj., un′re·gard′ed, adj., un′re·gard′ed·ly, adv., un′re·gard′ful, adj., un′re·gen′er·a·ting, adj., un′re·gen′er·a·tive, adj., un′re·gres′sive, adj., un′re·gret′ful, adj., un′re·gret′ful·ly, adv., un′re·gret′ful·ness, n., un′·re·gret′ta·ble, adj., un′re·gret′ted, adj., un′re·gret′ting, adj., un′re·gu′la·tive, adj., un′re·gur′gi·tat′ed, adj., un′re·ha·bil′i·tat′ed, adj., un′re·hears′a·ble, adj., un′re·hearsed′, adj., un′re·hears′ing, adj., un′re·ign′ing, adj., un′re·im·bod′ied, adj., un′re·ined′, adj., un′re·in·stat′ed, adj., un′re·it′er·a·ble, adj., un′·re·it′er·at′ed, adj., un′re·ject′a·ble, adj., un′re·joiced′ (ŭn′rē·joist′), adj., un′re·joi′ing (-joiz′ĭng), adj., un′re·ju′ve·nat′ed, adj., un′re·laps′ing, adj., un′re·lat′ed (ŭn′rē·lāt′ĕd; 119), adj., un′re·lat′ed·ness, n., un′re·lat′·ing, adj., un′re·la′tion·al, adj., un·rel′a·tive, adj., un·rel′a·tively, adj., un′re·lax′a·ble, adj., un′re·laxed′, adj., un′re·lax′ing, adj., un′re·lax′ing·ly, adv., un′·re·leas′a·ble, adj., un′re·leased′ (ŭn′rē·lēst′), adj., un′re·leas′ing, adj., un·rel′e·gat′ed, adj., un′re·lent′ed, adj., un′re·liev′a·ble, adj., un′re·liev′a·ble·ness, n., un′re·lieved′, adj., un′re·lier′ed·ly, adv., un′re·li′gioned, adj., un′re·lin′quish·a·ble, adj., un′·re·lin′quish·a·bly, adv., un′re·lin′quished, adj., un′re·lin′·quish·ing, adj., un·rel′ish·a·ble, adj., un·rel′ished, adj., un·rel′·ish·ing, adj., un′re·luc′tant, adj., un′re·luc′tant·ly, adv., un′·re·lu′ma·ble, adj., un′re·mand′ed, adj., un′re·mark′a·ble, adj., un′re·marked′, adj., un′re·mar′ried, adj., un′re·mem′ber·ed (ŭn·rēm′ē·dĭd), adj., un′re·mem′ber·a·ble, adj., un′re·mem′bered, adj., un′re·mem′ber·ing, adj., un′re·min′ded, adj., un′re·miss′i·ble, adj., un′re·mit′ta·ble, adj., un′re·mit′ted, adj., un′re·mit′ted·ly, adv., un′re·mit′tent, adj., un′re·mit′tently, adv., un′re·mon′strant, adj., un′re·mon′strat·ed, adj., un′re·mon′strat·ing, adj., un′re·morse′ful, adj., un′re·morse′·ful·ly, adv., un′re·mot′e, adj., un′re·mote′ly, adv., un′re·mount′ed, adj., un′re·mov′a·ble (ŭn′rē·mōōv′ȧ-b'l), adj., un′·re·mov′a·ble·ness, n., un′re·mov′a·bly, adv., un′re·mu′ner·at′ing, adj., un′ren′der·a·ble, adj., un′ren′dered, adj., un′re·new′a·ble, adj., un′re·newed′ (ŭn′rē·nūd′), adj., un′re·nounce′·a·ble, adj., un′re·nounced′ (-nounst′), adj., un′re·nounc′ing, adj., un′ren′o·vat′ed (ŭn·rĕn′ō·vāt′ĕd; 119), adj., un·rent′, adj., un·rent′a·ble, adj., un·rent′ed, adj., un′re·pa·ired′, adj., un′re·paired′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·rep′a·ra·ble, adj. Irreparable. Obs.

un′re·part′a·ble, adj., un′re·part′ed, adj., un′re·peal′a·ble, adj., un′re·peal′a·ble·ness, n., un′re·peal′a·bil′i·ty, n., un′re·peal′a·bly, adv., un′re·pealed′ (ŭn′rē·pēld′), adj., un′re·peat′·a·ble, adj., un′re·peat′ed, adj., un′re·pel′la·ble, adj., un′re·pelled′ (-pĕld′), adj., un′re·pel′·lent, adj. See UN-, not.

un′re·pent′, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un′re·pent′ant, adj., un′re·pent′ant·ly, adv., un′re·pent′·ant·ness, n., un′re·pent′ed, adj., un′re·pent′ing, adj., un′re·pent′ing·ly, adv., un′re·pent′·ing·ness, n., un′re·pet′i·tive, adj., un′re·pin′ed′ (ŭn′rē·pīnd′), adj., un′re·pin′ing (-pin′ĭng), adj., un′re·pin′ing·ly, adv., un′·re·piqued′, adj., un′re·place′a·ble, adj., un′re·placed′ (-plāst′), adj., un′re·plen′ished, adj., un′·re·plev′i·a·ble, adj., un′re·plev′·ished, adj., un′re·plied′, adj., un′·re·ply′ing, adj., un′re·port′a·ble, adj., un′re·pose′, n. un′re·posed′ (ŭn′rē·pōzd′), adj., un′re·pos′e·ful, adj., un′re·pose′ful·ness, n., un′re·pos′ing (-pōz′ĭng), adj., un′re·pos·sessed′, adj., un′re·pre·hend′ed, adj., un′rep·re·sent′a·ble, adj., un′rep·re·sent′·ed, adj., un′rep·re·sent′ed·ness, n., un′re·pressed′ (ŭn′rē·prĕst′), adj., un′re·press′i·ble, adj., un′·re·priev′a·ble, adj., un′re·priev′·able, adv., un′re·prieved′ (-prēvd′), adj., un·rep′ri·mand′·ed, adj., un′re·print′ed, adj., un′re·proached′, adj., un′re·proach′ful, adj., un′re·proach′·ful·ly, adv., un′re·proach′ing, adj., un′re·proach′ing·ly, adv., un′rep′ro·bat′ed, adj., un′re·pro·duci′ble, adj., un′re·prov′·a·ble, adj., un′re·prov′a·ble·ness, n., un′re·prov′a·bly, adv.; un′re·prov′ing, adj., un′re·pub′·li·can, adj., un′re·pu′di·a·ble, adj., un′re·pu′di·at′ed, adj., un′·re·pug′nant, adj., un′re·puls′a·ble, adj., un′re·pulsed′, adj., un′·re·puls′ing, adj., un′re·pul′sive, adj., un′re·put′ed, adj., un′re·qual′i·fied, adj., un′re·quest′ed, adj., un′re·quick′ened, adj., un′·re·quired′, adj., un·req′ui·site. adj., un′re·quit′a·ble, adj., un′·re·quit′al, n., un′re·quit′ed, adj., un′re·quit′ed·ly, adv., un′re·quit′ed·ness, n., un′re·quite′·ment, n., un′re·quit′ing, adj., un′re·sciad′ed, adj., un·res′·cued, adj., un′re·sea′soned, adj., un′re·sem′bling, adj., un′·re·sent′ed, adj., un′re·sent′ful, adj. un′re·sent′ing, adj., un′re·sift′ed, adj., un′re·signed′ adj., un′re·solv′a·ble, adj., un′re·solved′ (-zŏlvd′), adj., un′re·solv′ed·ly, adv., un′re·solved′·ness, n., un′re·solv′ing, adj., un′·res′o·nant, adj., un′re·sound′·ed, adj., un′re·sound′ing, adj., un′re·source′ful, adj., un′re·source′ful·ness, n., un′re·spect′·a·bil′i·ty, n., un′re·spect′a·ble, adj., un′re·spect′ed, adj., un′re·spect′ful, adj., un′re·spect′ful·ly, adv., un′re·spect′ful·ness, n., See UN-, not.

N O P Q R S T U

un're·spect'less (ŭn'rē·spĕkt'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Careless; thoughtless. Obs.

un're·spon'sal (-spŏn'săl; -s'l), adj. Irresponsible. Obs.

un're·spon'si·ble (-sĭ·b'l), adj. Irresponsible. — un're·spon'si·ble·ness, n.

un're·spon'sive (-sĭv), adj. Not responsive; not reacting readily or sympathetically. — un're·spon'sive·ly, adv. — un're·spon'sive·ness, n.

un·rest' (ŭn·rĕst'), n. Want of rest; as: a Lack of repose or quiet. b A disturbed state; uneasiness; esp., disquiet, sometimes amounting to insurgency.
Syn. — Restlessness, disquiet; motion.
Ant. — Serenity, placidity, tranquillity.

un·rest', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·rest'ed (-rĕs'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not rested; as a Not refreshed by repose and quiet. b Rare. Not buried.
2. Out of the (spear) rest. Obs.

un·rest'ing, adj. Not resting; as: a Taking no repose; continually active. b Unceasing; as, his unresting efforts.

un're·strained' (ŭn'rē·strānd'), adj. Not restrained; free from restraint; not limited in course or scope. — un're·strain'ed·ly (-strān'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un're·strain'ed·ness, n.

un're·straint' (-strānt'), n. Freedom from restraint; license.

un·rest'y (ŭn·rĕs'tĭ), adj. Restless; restive. Obs. exc. Scot.

un·rev'e·nued (ŭn·rĕv'ē·nūd), adj. Not having a revenue.

un·rev'er·ence (-rĕv'ĕr·ĕns), n. Irreverence.

un·rev'er·end (ŭn·rĕv'ĕr·ĕnd), adj. 1. Not reverend; not deserving reverence or special respect.
2. Disrespectful; irreverent. Obs. Shak.
— un·rev'er·end·ly, adv.

un·rev'er·ent (-ĕnt), adj. Irreverent. — un·rev'er·ent·ly, adv. — un·rev'er·ent·ness, n.

un·rev'o·ca·ble (ŭn·rĕv'ō·kȧ·b'l), adj. Irrevocable. — un·rev'o·ca·ble·ness, n. — un·rev'o·ca·bly, adv.

un're·ward'ed (ŭn'rē·wôr'dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. Not rewarded; not receiving proper reward or recognition. — un're·ward'ed·ly, adv.

un·rid' (ŭn·rĭd'), adj. Unridden.

un·rid', adj. Disordered. Scot. & N. of Eng.

un·rid'dle (ŭn·rĭd'l), v. t. [1st un- + riddle.] 1. To read the riddle of; to solve or explain; as, to unriddle a mystery.
2. To explain a riddle to. Rare.

un·rid'dle·a·ble (ŭn·rĭd'l·ȧ·b'l), adj. Inexplicable. Rare.

un·rid'dler (-lẽr), n. One who unriddles.

un·ride' (-rīd'), adj. [AS. ungerȳde rough, violent.] Obs. a Immense; enormous; hence, cumbersome; unwieldy; numerous. b Cruel; harsh; sharp; rough. — un·ride'ly, adv.

un·rig' (ŭn·rĭg'), v. t. [1st un- + rig.] 1. Chiefly Naut. To strip of rigging; as, to unrig a ship.
2. To unclothe; undress. Colloq.

un·right' (-rīt'), adj. [AS. unriht. See UN- not; RIGHT.] Not right; as: a Archaic. Wrong; unjust. b Obs. Incorrect; not precise or exact. — adv. Wrongly. Obs.

un·right', n. [AS. unriht.] Wrong; injustice; a wrong. Archaic.

un·right', v. t. [1st un- + right.] To wrong. Obs.

un·right'eous (ŭn·rī'chŭs), adj. [ME. unrightwis, fr. AS. unrihtwīs. See UN- not; RIGHTEOUS.] 1. Not righteous; evil; wicked; sinful; as, an unrighteous man, act.
2. Specif., contrary to equity; unjust; not merited; as, an unrighteous decree or sentence.
— un·right'eous·ly, adv. — un·right'eous·ness, n.

un·right'ful (ŭn·rīt'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Not rightful; esp., unjust. — un·right'ful·ly, adv. — un·right'ful·ness, n.

un·right'ly (-lĭ), adj. Wrong; false. Obs. — adv. Wrongly; unjustly. Rare.

un·right'wise' (-wīz'), adj. Unrighteous.

un·rind' (ŭn·rīnd'), v. t. To remove the rind from; figuratively, to undress.

un·ring' (-rĭng'), v. t. To deprive of a ring or rings.

un·ringed' (ŭn·rĭngd'; 66), adj. Not having or wearing a ring.

un·rip' (ŭn·rĭp'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To rip; as: a To cut open; to slit apart. b To tear off; to strip off (some covering). c Figuratively, to tear the covering from; to reveal; disclose. "Unrip your plan." Barrie.

un·ripe' (ŭn·rīp'; 66), adj. [AS. unrīpe.] 1. Not ripe; not yet mature; as, unripe fruit.
2. Precocious; premature; also, unseasonable.
3. Not ready for use; not fully processed and prepared for use; as, unripe varnish. Cant.
— un·ripe'ly, adv. — un·ripe'ness, n.

un·ri'pened (-rī'pĕnd), adj. Not ripened; specif., of cheeses, ready for use without curing.

un·ri'valed, un·ri'valled (-rī'vŭld), adj. Having no rival; without a competitor; peerless. — un·ri'valed·ly, un·ri'valled·ly, adv. — un·ri'valed·ness, un·ri'valled·ness, n.

un·riv'et (ŭn·rĭv'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), v. t. [1st un- + rivet.] 1. To take out, or loose, the rivets of, as boiler plates.
2. Figuratively, to detach; unloose; undo un·ro' (ŏŏn·rō'), n. [AS. un- not + rōw rest, quiet; cf. ON. úrō.] Want of rest; disquiet; trouble. Obs.

un·road'ed (ŭn·rōd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having no roads.

un·roast' (-rōst'), adj. Unroasted. Rare.

un·robe' (ŭn·rōb'), v. t. & i. [1st un- + robe.] To disrobe; to undress; to take off one's robes.

un·roll' (ŭn·rōl'), v. [1st un- + roll.] Transitive: 1. To open, as what is rolled, as cloth.
2. Figuratively, to display; spread forth to view; disclose.
3. To remove from a roll or register, as a name. Now Rare.
—, Intransitive: To become unrolled; to unfold.
— un·roll'er, n. — un·roll'ment, n.

un·Ro'man·ized (ŭn·rō'mȧn·īzd), adj. a Not subjected to Roman arms or customs. b Eccl. Not subjected to the principles or usages of the Roman Catholic Church.

un'ro·man'tic (ŭn'rō·mȧn'tĭk), adj. Not romantic; not fanciful, or entertaining fanciful ideas; matter-of-fact. — un'ro·man'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. — un'ro·man'ti·cal·ly, adv. — un'ro·man'ti·cal·ness, n.

un·roof' (ŭn·rōōf'), v. t. [1st un- + roof.] To strip off the roof or covering of, as a house.

un·roost' (-rōōst'), v. t. To drive from the roost; hence, to drive away from a customary resting place. — v. i. To leave a roost.

un·root' (ŭn·rōōt'), v. t. [1st un- + root.] To tear up by the roots; to eradicate; uproot. — v. i. To be or become uprooted.

un·rope' (-rōp'), v. t. To remove a rope or ropes from; also, to free by unloosing a rope; as, to unrope a horse.

un·rough' (ŭn·rŭf'), adj. a Not rough. b Obs. Specif., smoothfaced; unbearded.

un·round' (-round'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] Phonet. a To spread (the lips) laterally, as in the pronounciation of ē. b To pronounce (a sound usually rounded) without lip rounding, or with decreased rounding. Cf. 4th ROUND, 11.

un·rove' (-rōv'), past tense & past part. of UNREEVE. Hence: adj. Naut. That has been taken out from a block, thimble, or the like.

un·row' (ŭn·rō'), v. i. Naut. To cease rowing and lay the oars out of the rowlocks. Rare.

un·roy'al (ŭn·roi'ăl), adj. Not royal. — un·roy'al·ly, adv. — un·roy'al·ness, n.

un·roy'al·ist (-ĭst), n. A person not of royal blood. Rare.

un·rude' (-rōōd'; 242), adj. [See UNRIDE.] Rough; rude. Obs.

un·rue'ful·ly (-rōō'fŏŏl·ĭ; -f'l·ĭ), adv. a Not ruefully. b Obs. Without mercy.

un·rufe', n. [See UNRO.] Trouble; toil. Obs. Scot.

un·ruf'fle (ŭn·rŭf'l), v. i. [1st un- + ruffle.] To cease from being ruffled or agitated. — v. t. To calm; quiet.
Syn. — Smooth, mollify, soothe.
Ant. — Agitate, disturb, upset.

un·rule' (ŭn·rōōl'), n. 1. Misrule. Obs.
2. Lack of rule or government.

un·ruled' (ŭn·rōōld'), adj. 1. Not governed or controlled.
2. Unruly. Obs.
Their unruled acts show their mind's estate. Chapman.
3. Not ruled or marked with lines; as, unruled paper.
— un·rul'ed·ly (-rōōl'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·rul'ed·ness, n.

un·rule'ful, adj. Ungovernable. Scot. & Ir.

un·rul'i·ment (ŭn·rōōl'ĭ·mĕnt), n. Unruliness. Obs.

un·rul'y (ŭn·rōōl'ĭ), adj.; UN·RUL'I·ER (-l·ẽr); UN·RUL'I·EST. [un- not + ruly. Cf. RULY.] 1. Not submissive to rule or restraint; turbulent; ungovernable; refractory; as, an unruly boy, conduct, temper; unruly facts.
2. Marked by unrest; disorderly; as, an unruly city, district, region.
Syn. — See OBSTINATE. Ant. — See MANAGEABLE, GENTLE.
— un·rul'i·ly (-l·ĭlĭ), adv. — un·rul'i·ness, n.

un·rum'ple (ŭn·rŭm'p'l), v. t. [1st un- + rumple.] To free from rumples; to spread or lay even.

un·ruth' (-rōōth'), n. Lack of pity or mercy. Archaic.

-uns. A suffix of little or no force, a form of ones, used after plural pronouns; as, we-uns. Dial.

un·sack' (ŭn·săk'), v. t. To remove the sack from; also, to remove from a sack.

un·sac'ra·ment (-săk'rȧ·mĕnt), v. t. To deprive of status as a sacrament. Obs.

un·sad' (-săd'), v. t. [1st un- + sad.] To free from sadness. Obs.

un·sad', adj. [AS. unsæd unsated. See UN- not; SAD.] Unsteady; unsettled; fickle. Obs.

un·sad'den (-săd'n), v. t. [1st un- + sadden.] To free from sadness. Rare.

un·sad'dle (-săd'l), v. [1st un- + saddle.] Transitive: 1. To strip of a saddle; to take the saddle from, as a horse.
2. To throw from the saddle; to unhorse.
—, Intransitive: To remove the saddle from a horse.

un·sad'ness (ŭn·săd'nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. [From UNSAD.] Infirmity; weakness. Obs.

un·safe' (-sāf'), adj.; UN·SAF'ER (-sāf'ẽr); UN·SAF'EST. Not safe; exposed or exposing to danger; unreliable. — un·safe'ly, adv. — un·safe'ness, n.

un·safe'ty (-tĭ), n. Want of safety; unsecurity.

un·said' (ŭn·sĕd'), adj. Not said; not spoken or expressed in words.

un·saint' (-sānt'), v. t. To deprive of status as a saint.

un·saint'ly, adj. Unbecoming to a saint.

un·sa'ked (ŏŏn·sāk'kĕd), adj. [un- not + saked.] Guiltless. Obs.

un·sal'a·ble, un·sale'a·ble (ŭn·sāl'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not salable; unmerchantable. — n. That which cannot be sold. — un'·sal·a·bil'i·ty, un'sale·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sāl·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), un·sal'·a·ble·ness, un·sale'a·ble·ness, n. — un·sal'a·bly, un·sale'a·bly, adv.

un·same' (-sām'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To alter. Obs.

un·sam'pled (-sam'p'ld), adj. Not sampled; as: a Not tried; not tested by taking a sample from. b Obs. Not matched or equalled; unequalled.

un'sanc·ti·fi·ca'tion (ŭn'săngk·tĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. Absence or lack of sanctification.

un·sanc'ti·fied (ŭn·săngk'tĭ·fīd), adj. Not holy or sanctified; not made sacred or holy, or reserved for religious use. — un·sanc'ti·fi'ed·ly (-fī'ĕd·lĭ; -fīd'lĭ; 119), adv. — un·sanc'ti·fi'ed·ness, n.

un·sanc'ti·fy (-fī), v. t. To remove the sanctification from; to render unsanctified.

un'sanc·ti·mo'ni·ous (ŭn'săngk·tĭ·mō'nĭ·ŭs; 159), adj. Not making a show of, or giving the appearance of, sanctity; hence, irreligious; unholy. — un'sanc·ti·mo'ni·ous·ly, adv. — un'sanc·ti·mo'ni·ous·ness, n.

un·sanc'tion (ŭn·săngk'shŭn), v. t. To remove the sanction from; to divest of authority.

un·sane' (-sān'), adj. Wanting in sanity.

un·san'i·tar'y (-săn'ĭ·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tẽr·ĭ), adj. Not sanitary; insanitary. — un·san'i·tar'i·ness (-l·nĕs; 119), n.

un'san·i·ta'tion (ŭn'săn·ĭ·tā'shŭn), n. Lack of sanitation, or of proper sanitary precautions.

un·sash' (ŭn·săsh'), v. t. To remove the sash from.

un·sa'ti·a·ble (-sā'shĭ·ȧ·b'l; -shȧ·b'l), adj. Insatiable. — un'sa·ti·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sā·shĭ·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ; -sā·shȧ-), n. — un·sa'ti·a·ble·ness, n. — un·sa'ti·a·bly, adv.

un·sa'ti·ate (-sā'shĭ·ăt), adj. Insatiate.

un'sat·is·fac'tion (ŭn'săt·ĭs·făk'shŭn), n. Want of satisfaction.

un'sat·is·fac'to·ry (-tō·rĭ), adj. Not satisfactory; as: a Not yielding content. b Not meeting the issue, problem, or the like; not answering the question. c Failing to make amends, or to give satisfaction. — un'sat·is·fac'to·ri·ly (-rĭ·lĭ), adv. — un'sat·is·fac'to·ri·ness (-rĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

un·sat'is·fy (ŭn·săt'ĭs·fī), v. t. To fail to satisfy. Obs.

un·sat'is·fy'ing, adj. Failing to satisfy, or yield satisfaction; as, an unsatisfying meal, book, letter. — un·sat'is·fy'ing·ly, adv. — un·sat'is·fy'ing·ness, n.

un·sat'u·ra·ble (ŭn·săt'ū·rȧ·b'l), adj. 1. Not saturable.
2. Insatiate. Obs. Scot.

un·sat'u·rat'ed (-rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not saturated; as: a Capable of absorbing or dissolving to a greater degree; as, an unsaturated solution. b Chem. Capable of taking up, or of uniting with, certain other elements or compounds, without the elimination of any side product; thus, aldehyde, ethylene, and ammonia are unsaturated. c Petrog. Relating to minerals which generally do not form in the same rock with quartz, as nephelite, leucite, etc. — un·sat'u·rat'ed·ly, adv. — un·sat'u·rat'ed·ness, n.

unsaturated vapor. Superheated vapor, which can be further compressed or cooled without condensation.

un'sat·u·ra'tion (ŭn'săt·ū·rā'shŭn), n. Quality or state of being unsaturated.

un·saught' (ŏŏn·sŏŏkt'), n. [Cf. ON. ūsǽtt disagreement. See UN- not; SAUGHT, n.] Discord. Obs.

un·saught', adj. [Cf. ON. ūsǽttr. See UN- not; SAUGHT, adj.] At strife or out of accord. Obs. — un·saught'ly, adv. Obs.

un·sa'vor (-sā'vẽr), v. i. To lack savor; be unsavory. Obs.

un·sa'vored, un·sa'voured (-vẽrd), adj. Not savored. — un·sa'vored·ly, un·sa'voured·ly, adv. — un·sa'vored·ness, un·sa'voured·ness, n.

un·sa'vor·ly (ŭn·sā'vẽr·lĭ), adv. = UNSAVORILY. Obs.

un·sa'vor·y, un·sa'vour·y (ŭn·sā'vẽr·ĭ), adj. 1. Not savory; insipid; tasteless.
2. Unpleasant to taste or smell; disagreeable; figuratively, morally offensive; as, an unsavory reputation.
— un·sa'vor·i·ly, un·sa'vour·i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·sa'vor·i·ness, un·sa'vour·i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

un·say' (ŭn·sā'), v. t. [1st un- + say; cf. AS. onsecgan to renounce, abjure.] To make as if not said; to recant, recall, or retract.

un·scale' (ŭn·skāl'), v. t. [1st un- + scale.] To divest of scales; to remove scales from.

---

un're·spir'a·ble (ŭn'rē·spīr'ȧ·b'l; ŭn·rĕ·spī'rȧ·b'l), adj. un're·spired', adj., un·res'pit·ed, adj., un'resplend'ent, adj., un're·spond'ing, adj., un're·spons'ible, adj., un're·sta'ble, adj., un·rest'ful, adj., un·rest'ful·ly, adv., un·rest'ful·ness, n., un·rest'ingly, adv., un·rest'ing·ness, n., un're·sto'ra·ble, adj., un're·stored', adj., un're·strain'a·ble, adj., un re·strain'a·bly, adv., un're·strict'a·ble, adj., un're·strict'ed, adj., un're·strict'ed·ly, adj. & adv., un're·strict'ed·ness, n., un're·stric'tive, adj., un're·sul'tive, adj., un're·sumed', adj., un're·sump'tive, adj., un'retain'a·ble, adj., un're·tained', adj., un're·tali·a'ted, adj., un're·tal'i·at'ing, adj., un're·tard'a·ble, adj., un're·tard'ed, adj., un·re·ten'tive, adj., un·ret'icent, adj., un·ret'i·nued, adj., un're·tired', adj., un're·tir'ing, adj., un're·tort'ed, adj., un're·touched', adj., un're·tract'a·ble, adj., un're·tract'ed, adj., un're·treat'ing, adj., un're·trench'a·ble, adj., un're·trenched', adj., un're·triev'a·ble, adj., un're·trieved', adj., un're·triev'ing·ly, adv., un·ret'ted, adj., un're·turn'a·ble, adj., un're·turn'a·bly, adv., un're·turned', adj., un're·turn'ing, adj., un're·turn'ing·ly, adv., un're·veal'a·ble, adj., un're·vealed', adj., un're·veal'ed·ness, n., un're·veal'ing, adj., un're·veal'ing·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un'rev·e·la'tion·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.
un're·venged' (ŭn'rē·vĕnjd'), adj., un're·venge'ful, adj., un're·venge'ful·ness, n., un're·veng'ing, adj., un're·veng'ingly, adv. See UN-, not.
un·rev'e·nue, v. t. See 1st UN-. un're·ver'ber·at'ed, adj., un're·vered' (ŭn'rē·vẽrd'), adj., un·rev'er·enced, adj., un'rev·er·en'tial, adj., un're·vers'a·ble, adj., un're·versed', adj., un're·vers'ible, adj., un're·vert'ed, adj., un're·vert'i·ble, adj., un're·vert'ing, adj., un're·vest'ed, adj., un're·vet'ted, adj., un're·view'a·ble, adj., un're·viewed', adj., un're·viled', adj., un're·vised', adj., un're·viv'a·ble, adj., un're·vived', adj., un're·voked', adj., un're·volt'ed, adj., un're·volt'ing, adj., un'rev·o·lu'tion·ar'y, adj., un'rev·o·lu'tion·ized, adj., un're·volved', adj., un're·volv'ing, adj., un're·ward'a·ble, adj., un're·ward'ing, adj., un're·word'ed, adj., un'rhe·tor'i·cal, adj., un'rhe·tor'i·cal·ly, adv., un'rhe·tor'i·cal·ness, n. See UN-, not.
un·rhyme', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·rhymed' (ŭn·rīmd'), adj., un·rhyth'mic (ŭn·rĭth'mĭk; -rĭth'mĭk), adj., un·rhyth'mi·cal (-mĭ·kăl), adj., un·rhyth'mi·cal·ly, adv., un·ribbed', adj., un·rib'boned, adj., un·rich', adj., un·riched', adj., un·ricked', adj. See UN-, not.
un·richt' (ŭn·rĭkt'). Scot. var. [of UNRIGHT.]

un·rid'a·ble (-rīd'ȧ·b'l), adj., un·rid'a·ble·ness, n., un·rid'a·bly, adv., un·rid'den, (-rĭd'n), adj., un·rid'dled, adj., un·rid'dling, adj., un·rid'ered, un·ridged', adj., un·rid'i·culed, adj., un'ri·dic'u·lous, adj., un·rife', adj., un·rif'fled, adj., un·ri'fled, adj., un·rift'ed, adj., un·rigged', adj., un·rig'ga, adj., un·right'a·ble, adj., un·right'ed, adj., un·rig'id, adj., un·rig'or·ous, adj. See UN-, not.
un·rimed' (ŭn·rīmd'). Var. of UNRHYMED.
un·rim'pled, adj., un·ring'a·ble, adj., un·ring'ing, adj., un·rinsed', adj., un·ri'ot·ed, adj., un·ri'ot·ing, adj., un·ri'ot·ous, adj., un·ripped', adj., un·rip'en·ing, adj., un·rip'pa·ble, adj., un·ripped', adj., un·rip'ping, adj., un·rip'pled, adj., un·rip'pling, adj., un·rip'pling·ly, adv., un·rip'ped (ŭn·rĭz'n), adj., un·ris'ing, adj., un·risk'a·ble, adj., un·risked', adj., un·risk'y, adj., un·rit'u·al, adj., un·rit·u·al·is'tic, adj., un·ri'val·a·ble, adj., un·rived', adj., un·riv'en (ŭn·rĭv'ĕn), adj., un·riv'et·ed, adj., un·riv'et·ing, adj., un·road'wor·thy, adj., un·roam'ing, adj., un·roast'ed, adj., un·robbed', adj., un·robed', adj., un'ro·bust', adj., un·rocked', adj., un'ro·co'co, adj., un·rod'ded, adj., un·rolled', adj., un·roll'a·ble, adj., un·rolled', adj., un·roll'ing, adj., un·Ro'man, adj. See UN-, not.

un·Ro'man·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un'ro·man'ti·cized, adj., un·roofed', adj., un·roof'ing, adj., un·room'y, adj., un·roost'ed, adj., un·roost'ing, adj., un·root'ed, adj., un·root'ing, adj., un·roped', adj., un·rosed', adj., un·ros'ined, adj., un·ros'trated, adj., un·ro'tat·ed, adj., un·ro'tat·ing, adj., un·rot'ted, adj., un·rot'ten, adj., un'ro·tund', adj., un·rouged', adj., un·rough'ened, adj., un·round'ed, adj., un·round'ing, adj., un·rous'a·ble, adj., un·roused', adj., un·rout'a·ble, adj., un·routed, adj., un·rot'ed, adj., un·row'ing, adj., un·rowed', adj., un·row'eled, adj., un·roy'alized, adj., un·rubbed', adj. See UN-, not.
un·rub'bish, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·ru'bi·fied, adj., un·ru'bricated, adj., un·ru'bri·cat'ed, adj., un·ruck'ered, adj., un·rud'dled, adj., un·rue'ful, adj., un·ruff'a·ble, adj., un·ruffled', adj., un·ruf'fled, adj., un·ruf'fling, adj., un·rug'ged, adj., un·ru'in·a·ble, adj., un·ru'in·at'ed, adj., un·ru'ined, adj., un·rul'a·ble, adj., un·rul'a·ble·ness, n., un·ru'ral, adj., un·rul'ed, adj., un·ru'ral·nat'ing, adj., un·ru'ral·nat'ing·ly, adv., un·rum'maged, adj., un·ru'mored, adj., un·rum'pled, adj., un·run', adj., un·rung', adj., un·rup'tured, adj., un·rus'tical, adj., un·rushed', adj., un·Rus'sian, adj. See UN-, not.
un·rust', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·rust'ed, adj., un·rus'tic, adj., un·rus'ti·cated, adj., un·rus'tling, adj., un'sab·bat'i·cal, adj., un·sa'bered, un·sa'bred, adj., un·sa'bled, adj., un'sac·char'ic, adj., un'sac·er·do'tal, adj., un'sacer·do'tal·ly, adv., un·sacked', adj., un'sac·ra·men'tal, adj., un'sac·ra·men'tal·ly, adv., un'sac·ra·ment·tar'i·an, adj., un·sa'cred, adj., un·sa'cred·ly, adv., un·sac'ri·fice·a·ble, adj., un·sac'ri·fice·a·bly, adv., un·sac'rificed, adj., un'sac·ri·fi'cial, adj., un·sac'ri·fic'ing, adj., un'sac·ri·le'gious, adj., un·sad', adj., un·sad'dened, adj., un·sad'dled, adj., un·sad'dling, adj., un·safe'guard'ed, adj., un'sa·ga'cious, adj., un·sage', adj., un·sag'ging, adj., un·sail'a·ble, adj., unsailed', adj., un·sai'lor·like', adj., un·saint'ed, adj., un·saint'like', adj., un·sal'a·ri·ed, adj., un·sales'man·like', adj., un·sa'line, adj., un·sal'i·vat'ed, adj., un·sal'ly·ing, adj., un·salm'on·like', adj., un·salt', adj., un·salt'a·ble, adj., un·sal'tu·ta'ry, adj., un·salt'ed, adj., un'sa·lu'bri·ous, adj., un·sal'u·tar'y, adj., un·salu'ter·ed, adj., un·sa·lut'ing, adj., un'sal·va·bil'i·ty, n., un·sal'vable, adj., un·sal'va·ble·ness, n., un·sal'vaged, adj., un·salved' (ŭn·sălvd'), adj., un·sanc'ti·fying, adj., un·sanc'tion·a·ble, adj., un·sanc'tioned, adj., un·sanc'tion·ing, adj., un·sanc'titude, n., un·sanc'ti·ty, n., unsanc'tu·ar'ied, adj., un·san'·daled, adj., un·sand'ed, adj., unsan'gui·nar'y, adj., un·san'guine, adj., un·san'guine·ly, adv., un·san'guine·ness, n., un'san·guin'e·ous, adj., un'sanguin'e·ous·ly, adv., un·san'tat'ed, adj., un·san'i·ty, n., un'sa·pon'i·fi'a·ble, adj., un'sapon'i·fied', adj., un·sapped', adj., un·sap'py, adj., un'·Sar·a·cen'ic, adj., un·sar·cas'tic, adj., un'·sar·don'ic, adj., un'sar·to'ri·al, adj., un·sashed', adj., un·sat'a·ble, adj., un'sa·tan'ic, adj., un·sat'ed, adj., un·sat'ed·ly, adv., un·sat'ed·ness, n., un·sat'i·at'ed, adj., un·sa'ti·at'ing, adj. See UN-, not.
un·sat'in, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·sat'ire, v. t., un·sat'i·rize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un'sa·tir'i·cal, adj., un'sa·tir'ical·ly, adv., un·sat'i·rized, adj., un·sat'i·fi'a·ble, adj., un·sat'isfi'a·ble·ness, n., un·sat'is·fi'a·bly, adv., un·sat'is·fied, adj., un·sat'is·fied·ly, adv., un·sat'is·fiedness, n., un·sat'yr·like', adj., unsauced', adj., un·sau'ri·an, adj., un·saw'a·ble, un·sawe'a·ble, adj., un·saw'ed, un·saw'ing, adj., un·sawed', adj., un·sawn', adj., un·Sax'on, adj., un'say·a·bil'ity, n., un·say'a·ble, adj. See UN-, not.
un·scab'bard, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·scab'bard·ed, adj., unscabbed', adj., un·scal'loped, adj., un·scal'a·ble, un·scal'ed, adj., un·scal'a·ble, adv. See UN-, NOT.

---

un·scale' (ŭn·skāl'), v. i. To climb down.
un·scaled' (-skāld'), adj. Not scaled; having no scales. — un·scaled'ness, n. un·scap'a·ble (ŭn·skāp'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not to be escaped. Obs.
un·scathed' (-skāthd', -skăthd'), adj. Wholly unharmed; not injured. — un·scathed'ly, adv. — un·scathed'ness, n.
un·scent' (ŭn·sĕnt'), v. t. To deprive of scent.
un·scent'ed (-sĕn'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Deprived of scent; having no scent; as, an unscented soap or talcum powder.
un·schol'ar (-skŏl'ẽr), n. One not a scholar. Obs.
un·schol'ar, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·schooled' (ŭn·skōōld'), adj. 1. Not schooled; untaught; untrained; hence, not artificial.
2. Having no school.
— un·school'ed·ly (-skōōl'ĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·school'ed·ness, n. un·sci'ence (ŭn·sī'ĕns), n. Absence or reverse of science. Obs.
un·sci'enced (-ĕnst), adj. Unversed in science.
un'sci·en·tif'ic (ŭn'sī·ĕn·tĭf'ĭk), adj. Not scientific; as: a Not used in scientific work. b Not in accord with the principles and methods of science. c Not showing scientific knowledge, or familiarity with scientific methods. — un'sci·en·tif'i·cal (-I·kȧl), adj. — un'sci·en·tif'i·cal·ly, adv.
un·scotch' (ŭn·skŏch'), v. t. To take a scotch from under, as from under a wheel.
un·scot'ti·fy (-skŏt'ĭ·fī), v. t. Also un–Scotch' (-skŏch'). To render not Scotch; to deprive of Scotch character or characteristics. un·scram'ble (ŭn·skrăm'b'l), v. t. To separate a conglomeration into its original elements; — originally in the phrase "You can't unscramble eggs," attributed to J. P. Morgan (1837–1913), American financier, referring to the attempt to dissolve certain trusts.
un·scraped' (-skrāpt'), adj. Not scraped. unscraped ginger. See GINGER, n., 2 a. un·screen' (ŭn·skrēn'), v. t. To remove the screen from; unveil.
un·screw' (ŭn·skrōō'), v. t. [1st un- + screw.] To draw the screws from; to loose from screws; also, to loosen or withdraw (anything, as a screw) by turning it. — v. i. To be or to become unscrewed; to admit of being unscrewed.
un·scru'pu·lous (ŭn·skrōō'pū·lŭs), adj. Not scrupulous; unprincipled. — un'scru·pu·los'i·ty (ŭn'skrōō·pū·lŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·scru'pu·lous·ly, adv. — un·scru'pu·lous·ness, n.
Syn. — Unprincipled, untrustworthy.
Ant. — Honorable. See SCRUPULOUS. un·scru'ta·ble (ŭn·skrōō'tȧ·b'l), adj. Inscrutable. Rare.
un·scutch'eoned (-skŭch'ŭnd), adj. Lacking an escutcheon.
un·seal' (ŭn·sēl'), v. t. [1st un- + seal.] 1. To break or remove the seal of; to open, as what is sealed, as a letter.
2. To disclose, as a secret. Obs.
un·seal'er (-ẽr), n. One who or that which unseals.
un·seam' (ŭn·sēm'), v. t. [1st un- + seam.] To open the seam or seams of; to rip; to cut open.
un·search'a·ble (ŭn·sûr'chȧ·b'l), adj. Not searchable or explorable; inscrutable; hidden; mysterious. — un·search'a·ble·ness, n. — un·search'a·bly, adv.
un·search'a·ble, n. An unsearchable thing.
un·sea'son (ŭn·sē'z'n), v. t. [1st un- + season.] To deprive of seasoning; to impair the seasoned fitness of.

Why do I send this rustic madrigal, That may thy tuneful ear unseason quite? Spenser.

un·sea'son, n. The wrong season. Obs.
un·sea'son·a·ble (-ȧ·b'l), adj. Not seasonable; being, done, or occurring, out of the proper season; ill-timed; untimely; too early or too late; as, unseasonable advice; unseasonable cold; unseasonable food. — un·sea'son·a·ble·ness, n. — un·sea'son·a·bly, adv.
un·sea'son·a·ble, adv. Unseasonably. Obs.
un·sea'soned (-z'nd), adj. 1. Not seasoned.
2. Not in season; esp., not developed to maturity in regular course; figuratively, lacking age and experience; immature; formerly also, specif., untimely.
3. = UNFRIME (of furs).
un·seat' (ŭn·sēt'), v. t. [1st un- + seat.] 1. To throw from one's seat; to deprive of, or remove from, a seat.
2. Specif., to deprive of the right to sit in a legislative or like body, as for fraud in election.
un·seat'ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not seated; as: a Having lost one's seat, as a rider; unhorsed. b Having lost one's right to sit in a legislative or like body. c Obs. Not settled; unoccupied.
2. U. S. Hist. Designating: a Lands not yet possessed or actually occupied, as formerly in the western parts of North America. b In Pennsylvania, lands subject to taxation but not yet actually taxed or occupied. un·sea'wor'thy (ŭn·sē'wûr'thĭ), adj. Not seaworthy; not in proper condition to go to sea. — un·sea'wor'thi·ness (-thĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.
un·sec'ond·ed (ŭn·sĕk'ŭn·dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not seconded; not supported, aided, or assisted; as, the motion was unseconded; the attempt was unseconded.
2. Not exemplified a second time. Obs.
un·se'cre·cy (ŭn·sē'krĕ·sĭ), n. Want of secrecy. un·se'cret (-krĕt; -krĭt; 119), v. t. [1st un- + secret.] To disclose. Obs. — un·se'cret, adj.
un'sec·tar'i·an (ŭn'sĕk·târ'ĭ·ăn), adj. Not sectarian; not bound to one sect, or devoted to the promotion of the interests of a sect. — un'sec·tar'i·an·ism (-Iz'm), n.
un·sec'u·lar·ize (ŭn·sĕk'ū·lẽr·īz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To cause to become not secular; as: a Not firmly fastened or placed. b Not safe.
un'se·cure' (ŭn'sē·kūr'), adj. Insecure. — un'se·cure'ly, adv. — un'se·cure'ness, n. — un'se·cu'ri·ty (-kū'rĭ·tĭ), n.
un·se·cured' (-kūrd'), adj. Not secured; as: a Not fastened or bound. b Not made safe. c Com. & Finance. Not having security provided for payment; as, unsecured debts; an unsecured note. — un'se·cur'ed·ly (-kūr'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un'se·cur'ed·ness, n. un·see' (ŭn·sē'), v. t. To fail to see; sometimes, to forget the sight of.
un·seel' (-sēl'), v. t. [1st un- + seel.] To open, as the seeled eyes of a hawk; hence, to enlighten. Obs. un·seel'i·ness (-sēl'ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Unhappiness. Obs.
un·seem'ing (-sēm'ĭng), adj. Unfitting; unseemly. Archaic. — un·seem'ing·ly, adv. Archaic.
un·seem'ly (ŭn·sēm'lĭ), adj.; UN·SEEM'LI·ER (-lĭ·ẽr); UN·SEEM'LI·EST. Not seemly; unbecoming; indecent. "An unseemly outbreak of temper." Hawthorne.
— un·seem'li·ly, adv. — un·seem'li·ness, n.
Syn. and Ant. — See IMPROPER. un·seem'ly, adv. Not seemly. un·seen' (ŭn·sēn'; 66), adj. 1. Not seen or discovered; sometimes, specif.: a Invisible; as, the unseen audience over the radio; the unseen world which lies about us. b Not hitherto seen; specif., Colloq., = SIGHT, adj. See UNSIGHT, adj.
2. Unskilled; inexperienced. Obs. un·seen', n. a Something not seen. b Something hitherto unseen; specif., Colloq., a passage for sight translation.
un·seize' (-sēz'), v. t. To detach; let go of. Obs. un·sel' (ŏŏn·sĕl'), n. [AS. unsæl.] A bad, unhappy, or useless, person. Obs.
un·sel'dom (ŭn·sĕl'dŭm), adv. a Frequently. b In the phrase not unseldom, infrequently; — a misuse.
un·self' (ŭn·sĕlf'), v. t.; UN·SELF'ED (-sĕlft'); UN·SELF'ING. To do away with selfhood or selfishness in.
un·self', n. That which is not self.
un·self'ish (-sĕl'fĭsh), adj. Not selfish; generous. — un·self'ish·ly, adv. — un·self'ish·ness, n.
un·self'ish, v. t. To render unselfish. un·self'ness, n. Unselfishness. Rare. un·selth' (ŏŏn·sĕlth'), n. [AS. unsælth.] Misfortune; disadvantage. Obs. un·se'ly (ŭn·sē'lĭ), adj. [AS. unsæliq. See UN- not; SILLY.] Not blessed or happy; wretched; miserable; also, wicked; harmful. — un·se'li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Both Obs. un·sem'i·nared (ŭn·sĕm'ĭ·nẽrd), adj. [See 1st UN-; SEMEN.] Deprived of seminal energy. Obs.
un'sen·sa'tion·al (ŭn'sĕn·sā'shŭn·ăl), adj. Not sensational; as: a Not involving or inducing sensation. b Not startling, exciting, or appealing by melodramatic means.
un·sense' (ŭn·sĕns'), n. Want of sense.
un·sense', v. t. To render insensible. Chiefly Dial. Eng.
un·sensed' (ŭn·sĕnst'), adj. Wanting a distinct meaning. R. un'sen·si·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sĕn·sĭ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Want of sensibility. Rare.
un·sen'si·ble (-sĕn'sĭ·b'l), adj. Insensible. — un·sen'si·ble·ness, n. — un·sen'si·bly, adv. All Chiefly Dial.
un·sen'su·al·ize (-sĕn'shōō·ȧl·īz; -sĕns'ū·), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To elevate from the domain of the senses; to purify. un·sen'tenced (ŭn·sĕn'tĕnst), adj. 1. Not sentenced.
2. Not pronounced, as a sentence or judgment.
un·sent'-for', adj. Not sent for.
un'sen·ti·men'tal (ŭn'sĕn·tĭ·mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. Not sentimental; not characterized or dominated by sentiment. — un'sen·ti·men·tal'i·ty (-mĕn·tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un'sen·ti·men'tal·ly, adv.
un'sen·ti·men'tal·ist (-Ĭst), n. One not a sentimentalist. un·sep'a·ra·ble (ŭn·sĕp'ȧ·rȧ·b'l), adj. Inseparable. — un·sep'a·ra·ble·ness, n. — un·sep'a·ra·bly, adv.
un·sep'tate (ŭn·sĕp'tāt), adj. Not septate or partitioned.
un·sep'tat·ed (-tāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Unseptate.
‖Un'ser Fritz' (ŏŏn'zĕr frĭts'). [G.] Lit., Our Fritz; — a nickname of Prussian soldiers for Crown Prince Frederick William (1831–88), afterwards Frederick III, of Germany.
un·served' (ŭn·sûrvd'), adj. 1. Not served; not waited on; not furnished with something.
2. Of churches, parishes, etc., not having a priest, minister, or the like, in attendance.
3. Of legal writs, summonses, etc., not served on a person.
un·serv'ice (-sûr'vĭs), n. Want or neglect of service. Obs.
un·serv'ice·a·ble (-ȧ·b'l), adj. Not serviceable. — un'serv·ice·a·bil'i·ty, n. — un·serv'ice·a·ble·ness, n. — un·serv'ice·a·bly, adv.
un·set' (ŭn·sĕt'), v. t. a To undo the setting of. b To unsettle; dislocate.
un·set' (ŭn·sĕt'), adj. Not set; as: a Not fixed in place; of plants, not planted. b Not fixed in time; not appointed. c Not fixed as a fact; undetermined. d Not fixed in a setting; not mounted; as, unset diamonds. e Of a broken bone, not set so as to mend properly.
un·set'ting (ŭn·sĕt'ĭng), adj. Not setting.

Where seems unsetting light the sky And flowers and fruit abound. J. H. Newman.

un·set'ting (ŭn·sĕt'ĭng), n. Civil Engin. A method of supporting, by buttresses resting on inverted arches, the opposite masonry walls of a cutting through loose strata.
un·set'tle (ŭn·sĕt'l), v. t. [1st un- + settle.] To move or loosen from a settled position or state; to make unstable; to unfix; displace; disorder. — v. i. To become unsettled or unfixed; to be disordered.

His wits begin to unsettle. Shak.

un·set'tled (-'ld), adj. Not settled; as: a Not fixed in position. b Not fixed in character; restless. c Not calm, tranquil, or the like; disturbed; unquiet. d Not settled down and cleared of sediment, as a liquid. e Not decided in mind; undetermined. f Not paid or discharged, as a debt. g Not occupied by settlers. — un·set'tled·ness, n.
un·set'tle·ment (-'l·mĕnt), n. State or fact of being unsettled. un·sev'en (ŭn·sĕv'ĕn), v. t. [1st un- + seven.] To render other than seven. Obs.
un·sew' (ŭn·sō'), v. t. [1st un- + sew.] To undo, as something sewn, or something enclosed by sewing; to rip apart; to take out the stitches of.
un·sew'ered (-sū'ẽrd), adj. Not provided with a sewer, or drain.
un·sex' (ŭn·sĕks'), v. t.; UN·SEXED' (-sĕkst'); UN·SEX'ING. [1st un- + sex.] To deprive of sex, or of qualities becoming one's sex; esp., to make unfeminine in character, manners, occupation, or the like; as, to unsex a woman.
un·shack'le (ŭn·shăk'l), v. t. [1st un- + shackle.] To loose from shackles or bonds; to set free from restraint.
un·shad'ow (-shăd'ō), v. t. To rid of shadow or shadows; hence, to clear up; to reveal.
un·shaked' (ŭn·shāk'ĕn), adj. Unshaken. Obs.
un·shak'en (-shāk'ĕn), adj. Not shaken; steady. — un·shak'en·ly, adv. — un·shak'en·ness, n. un·shale' (-shāl'), v. t. To strip the shale from; hence, to reveal. Obs.
un·shame'ful (-shām'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Without shame; immodest. — un·shame'ful·ly, adv. — un·shame'ful·ness, n.
un·shape' (ŭn·shāp'), v. t. [1st un- + shape.] To deprive of shape, or of proper shape; to disorder; derange.
un·shaped' (ŭn·shāpt'; 66), adj. [See UN- not.] Not shaped; shapeless; misshapen. — un·shaped'ness, n. un·shap'en (-shāp'ĕn), adj. Unshaped. — un·shap'en·ly, adv. — un·shap'en·ness, n.
un·sharp'en (-shär'pĕn), v. t. To remove the sharpness of; to make dull. un·shave' (-shāv'), adj. Unshaven. Obs.
un·shaved' (-shāvd'), adj. Unshaven. — un·shav'ed·ly (-shāv'ĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·shav'ed·ness, n.
un·shav'en (-shāv'ĕn), adj. Not shaved; hence, hairy. — un·shav'en·ly, adv. — un·shav'en·ness, n.
un·shawl' (-shôl'), v. t. To remove (one's) shawl.
un·sheaf' (-shēf'), v. t. To take from a sheaf; as, to unsheaf grain.
un·sheathe' (ŭn·shēth'), v. t. [1st un- + sheath.] To draw or remove from or as from sheath or scabbard, as a sword.

Their power to unsheathe the taste and spur the flagging appetite. John Burroughs.

un·shed' (ŭn·shĕd'; 66), adj. 1. Not parted or divided, as the hair. Obs. Spenser.
2. Not given off, let fall, thrown off, etc.; as, unshed tears.
un·sheet' (-shēt'), v. t. To divest of a sheet.
un·shell' (ŭn·shĕl'), v. t. [1st un- + shell.] To strip the shell from; to take out of the shell; specif., to hatch.
un·shel'ter·a·ble (-shĕl'tẽr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not shelterable; also, not to be sheltered from.
un·shelve' (-shĕlv'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To remove from or as from a shelf.
un·shent' (-shĕnt'), adj. Unharmed; unspoiled. Archaic.
un·sher'iff (-shĕr'ĭf), v. t. [1st un- + sheriff.] To depose from the office of sheriff. Rare.
un·shewed' (-shōd'), adj. Unshown.
un·shift'a·ble (-shĭf'tȧ·b'l), adj. Not shiftable; as: a Not capable of being changed from place to place. b Obs. Shiftless; helpless.
un·shift'i·ness (-tĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Shiftlessness.
un·ship' (ŭn·shĭp'), v. [1st un- + ship.] Transitive: 1. To take out of a ship or vessel; as, to unship goods; hence, broadly, to unload; unburden.
2. Naut. To remove or detach, as an oar, tiller, etc., from its proper position or connection when in use.
—, Intransitive: a To become detached or removed. b To be unloaded. un·ship'ment, n. Act of unshipping, or state of being unshipped; displacement. Rare.
un·shoe' (ŭn·shōō'), v. t. To remove a shoe or shoes from.
un·shook' (-shŏŏk'), adj. Unshaken. Obs.

---

un·scal'loped, adj., un·scal'y, adj., un·scamped', adj. See UN-, not.
un·scan'dal·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·scan'dal·ized, adj., un·scan'dal·ous, adj., un·scan'na·ble, adj., un·scanned', adj., un·scant'ed, adj., un·scant'y, adj. See UN-, not.
un·scarb', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·scarce', adj., un·scared', adj., un·scarfed', adj., un·scar'i·fied, adj., un·scarred', adj., un·scat'tered, adj., un·scav'en·gered, adj., un·sce'nic, adj. See UN-, not.
un·scep'tered, un·scep'tred, adj., un·scep'ter, un·scep'tre, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·sched'uled, adj., un'schem·at'ic, adj., un·sche'ma·tized, adj., un·schol'ar·like', adj., un·schol'ar·ly, adj., un'scho·las'tic, adj. See UN-, not.
un·school', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·scin'til·lat·ing, adj., un·sci'oned, adj., un·scis'sored, adj., un·scoffed', adj., un·scoff'ing, adj., un·scolded', adj., un·sconced', adj., un·scooped', adj., un·scorched', adj., un·scored', adj., un·sco'ri·fied, adj., un·scor'ing, adj., un·scorned', adj., un·scorn'ful, adj., un·scorn'ful·ly, adv., un·scorn'ful·ness, n., un·scotched', adj., un·Scot'tish adj., un·scoured' (-skourd'), adj., un·scourged (-skûrjd'), adj., un·scowl'ing, adj., un·scram'bling, adj., un·scraped', adj., un·scratch'a·ble, adj., un·scratched', adj., un·scratch'ing, adj., un·scratch'ing·ly, adv., un·scrawled', adj., un·screen'a·ble, adj., un·screen'a·bly, adv., un·screened', adj., un·screw'a·ble, adj., un·screwed', adj., un·screw'ing, adj., un·scrib'al, adj., un·scrib'bled, adj., un·scribed', adj., un·scrimped', adj., un·scrip'tur·al·ism, n., un·scrip'tur·al·ist, n., un·scrip'tur·al·ity, n., un·scrip'tur·al·ly, adv., un·scrip'tur·al·ness, n., un·scrubbed', adj., un·scru'pled, adj., un·scru'ti·nized, adj., un·scru'ti·niz'ing, adj., un·scru'ti·niz'ing·ly, adv., un·sculp'tur·al, adj., un·sculp'tured, adj., un·scummed', adj., un·sea'far'ing, adj., un·seal'a·ble, adj., un·sealed', adj., un·seal'ing, adj. See UN-, not.
un·sea'man·like', adj., un·sea'man·ship, n., un·seamed', adj., un·seam'ing, adj., un·searched', adj., un·search'er·like', adj., un·search'ing, adj., un·seared', adj., un'se·ced'ing, adj., un'se·cluded', adj., un'se·clu'sive, adj., un·sec're·tar'y·like', adj., un'se·cret'ed, adj., un'se·cret'ing, adj., un·se'cret·ly, adv., un·se'cret·ness, n. See UN-, not.
un'sec·tar'i·an·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·sec'tion·al, adj., un·sec'u·lar, adj., un·sec'u·lar·ized, adj., un'se·date', adj., un·sed'en·tar'y, adj., un'se·di'tious, adj. See UN-, not.
un'se·duce', v. t. See 1st UN-. un'se·duced', adj., un'se·duc'ible, adj., un'se·duc'tive, adj., un·sed'u·lous, adj., un·see'a·ble, adj., un·seed'ed, adj., un·see'ing, adj., un·seek'ing, adj. See UN-, not.
un·seeled', ✝ UNCELLED. unseely. ✝ UNSELLY.
un·seethed', adj., un·seg'mented, adj., un·seg're·ga·ble, adj., un·seg're·gat'ed, adj., un·seg're·gat'ed·ness, n., un·seg'nor'ial, adj., un·seig'nic, adj., un·seiz'a·ble, adj., un·seized', adj., un'se·lect', adj., un'se·lect'ed, adj., un'se·lect'ing, adj., un'se·lec'tive, adj. See UN-, not.
un·self-as·ser'tive, adj., un'self·cen'tered, adj., un'self·cen'tred, adj., un'self·change'ing, adj., un'self·con'fi·dent, adj., un'·self·con'scious, adj., un'self·con'scious·ly, adv., un'self·con'scious·ness, n., un'self·de·ny'ing, adj., un'self·de·ter'mined, adj., un'self·ev'i·dent, adj., un'self·in·dul'gent, adj., un'self·know'ing, adj., un·self'like', adj., un'self·o·pin'ion·at'ed, adj., un'self·pos·sessed', adj., un'self·re·flect'ing, adj., un'self·right'eous, adj., un'self·sac'ri·fic'ing, adj., un'self·suf·fi'cient, adj., un'·self·sup·port'ed, adj., un'self·val'u·ing, adj., un'self·willed', adj., un'self·willed'ness, n. See UN-, not.
un·sell'ing, adj., un'·Se·mit'ic, adj., un'sen·a·to'ri·al, adj., un'·se·nes'cent, adj., un·sen'si·tive, adj. See UN-, not.
un·sen'si·tize, v. t. See 1st UN-.
un·sen'si·tized, adj., un·sen'sory, adj., un·sen'su·al, adj., un·sen'su·al·ized, adj., un·sen'su·al·ly, adv., un·sen'su·ous, adj., un·sen'su·ous·ness, n., un·sent', adj., un·sen·ten'tious, adj., un·sen'tient, adj. See UN-, not.
un'sen·ti·men'tal·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·sen'ti·neled, un·sen'ti·nelled, adj., un·sep'a·rate, adj., un·sep'a·rat'ed, adj., un·sep'ul·cher, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·sep'ul·chered, un·sep'ul·chred, adj., un·se·pul'chral, adj., un·sep'ul·tured, adj., un·se'quenced, adj., un'se·quen'tial, adj., un'se·ques'tered, adj., un'se·raph'ic, adj., un·Ser·bi·an, adj., un'ser·e·nad'ed, adj., un'se·rene', adj., un·ser'like', adj., un·se'ri·ous, adj., un·se'ri·ous·ness, n., un·ser'rat·ed, adj., un·ser'ried, adj., un·serv'a·ble, adj., un·serv'ice·like', adj., un·ser'vile, adj., un'ses·qui·pe·da'li·an, adj., un·set'ting, adj., un·set'tle·a·ble, adj., un·set'tling, adj., un·sev'er·a·ble, adj., un·sev'er·a·ble·ness, n., un'se·vere', adj., un·sev'ered (ŭn·sĕv'ẽrd), adj., un·sev'ered·ly, adv., un·sev'ered·ness, n., un·sewed', adj., un·sew'ing, adj., un·sewn', adj., un·sexed', adj., un·sex'ing, adj., un·sex'like', adj., un·sex'ual, adj., un·shack'led, adj., un·shack'ling, adj. See UN-, not.
un·shade', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·shad'ed (-shăd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj., un·shad'ow·a·ble (-shăd'ō·ȧ·b'l), adj., un·shad'owed (-ōd), adj., un·shad'y (-shăd'ĭ), adj., un·shaft'ed, adj., un·shak'a·ble, un·shake'a·ble (-shāk'ȧ·b'l), adj., un·shak'a·bly, un·shake'a·bly, adv., un'·Shake·spear'e·an, adj., un·shak'ing, adj., un·shak'ing·ness, n., un·shaled', adj., un·sham'a·ble, un·shame'a·ble, adj., un·sham'a·ble·ness, un·shame'a·ble·ness, n., un·sham'a·bly, un·shame'a·bly, adv., un·shamed', adj., un·shame'faced', adj., un·shame'faced'ness, n., un·shammed', adj., un·shanked', adj., un·shap'a·ble, un·shape'a·ble (ŭn·shāp'ȧ·b'l), adj., un·shap'li·ness, n., un·shape'ly, adj., un·shar'a·ble, adj., un·shared', adj., un·shar'ed·ness, n., un·shar'ing, adj., un·sharp', adj., un·sharped', adj., un·sharp'ened, adj., un·sharp'en·ing, adj., un·sharp'ing, adj., un·shat'tered, adj., un·shav'a·ble, un·shave'a·ble, adj., un·sheared', adj., un·sheathed', adj., un·sheath'ing, adj., un·sheet'ed, adj., un·sheet'ing, adj., un·shelled', adj., un·shell'ing, adj., un·shel'tered, adj., un·shel'ter·ing, adj., un·shep'herd·ed, adj., un·shep'herd·ing, adj., un·shield'a·ble, adj., un·shield'ed, adj., un·shield'ing, adj., un·shift'ed, adj., un·shift'ing, adj., un·shifty, adj., un·shim'mer·ing, adj., un·shin'gled, adj., un·shin'ing, adj., un·ship'like', adj., un·shipped', adj., un·ship'ping, adj. & n., un·ship'shape', adj., un·ship'wrecked', adj., un·shirk'ing, adj., un·shirt'ed, adj., un·shiv'ered (-shĭv'ẽrd), adj., un·shiv'er·ing, adj., un·shock'a·ble, adj., un·shocked' (-shŏkt'), adj., un·shod', adj., un·shod'den, adj., un·shoed', adj., un·shoe'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·shop' (ŭn·shŏp'), v. t. To deprive of a shop; to put out of employment.

un·shot' (-shŏt'), adj. [un- not + shot.] a Not hit by a shot; also, not discharged or fired off. b Of grain, not sprouted.

un·shot', v. t. [1st un- + shot.] To remove the shot from, as from a shotted gun; to unload.

un·shoul'der (-shōl'dĕr), v. t. To remove from one's shoulder.

un·shout' (-shout'), v. t. [1st un- + shout.] To recall (a shout). Obs.

un·shrine' (-shrīn'), v. t. To remove from, or as from, a shrine. — un·shrine'ment, n.

un·shrink' (-shrĭngk'), v. t. To break the contact between (parts which have been assembled by shrinking).

un·shroud' (ŭn·shroud'), v. t. [1st un- + shroud.] To remove the shroud from; hence, to uncover; reveal; expose.

un·shrubbed' (-shrŭbd'), adj. Being without shrubs.

un·shun'ning (-shŭn'ĭng), adj. Inevitable. Obs.

un·shut' (-shŭt'), v. [1st un- + shut.] Transitive: 1. To open; disclose. Obs.

2. To unyoke or unharness (a team). Dial. Eng.

—, Intransitive: To be open; to swing open; to open.

un·shut'ter (ŭn·shŭt'ĕr), v. t. [1st un- + shutter.] To open or remove the shutters of.

un·sib' (-sĭb'), adj. Not akin. Obs.

un·sick'er (-sĭk'ĕr), adj. [un- not + sicker, adj.] Unsure; deceptive. — un·sick'er·ly, adv. — un·sick'er·ness, n. All Obs. exc. Scot.

un·sick'led (ŭn·sĭk'ld), adj. Uncut by the sickle.

un·sid'ed (-sīd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Disordered; untidy. N. of Eng.

un·siege' (-sēj'), v. t. To relieve from siege.

un·sight' (ŭn·sīt'), adj. [Cf. UNSIGHTED.] Not sighted or seen; not seeing or examining; — in the colloquial phrase unsight, unseen; as, to buy a thing unsight, unseen, that is, without seeing it.

un·sight', n. Want of seeing.

And in vain do I urge my unsigh.
To conceive my lost prize. Thomas Hardy.

un·sight', v. t. To deprive of means of seeing; also, to make invisible. "Nor God nor demon can undo the done, unsight the seen." Thomas Hardy.

un·sight'a·ble (ŭn·sīt'ă·b'l), adj. Invisible. Obs. exc. Dial.

un·sight'ed, adj. 1. Not sighted, or seen; unperceived.

2. Not aimed by means of a sight; as, an unsighted shot; also, not furnished with a sight; as, an unsighted cannon.

un·sight'ing, adj. Not using sight.

un·sight'ly (ŭn·sīt'lĭ), adj.; UN·SIGHT'LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); UN·SIGHT'LI·EST. Not sightly; not comely. — un·sight'li·ness, n.

un·sign'a·ble (ŭn·sīn'ă·b'l), adj. a Not signable. b Obs. That cannot be brought to sign.

un'sig·nif'i·cant (ŭn'sĭg·nĭf'ĭ·kănt), adj. Lacking significance; insignificant. — un'sig·nif'i·can·cy (-kăn·sĭ), n. — un'sig·nif'i·cant·ly, adv.

un·si'lenced (ŭn·sī'lĕnst), adj. 1. Not silenced.

2. Not to be silenced. Obs.

un·sim'i·lar (-sĭm'ĭ·lĕr), adj. Dissimilar. — un'sim·i·lar'i·ty (ŭn'sĭm·ĭ·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·sim'i·lar·ly, adv.

un'sim·plic'i·ty (ŭn'sĭm·plĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Lack of simplicity or an instance of it; artfulness.

un·sin' (ŭn·sĭn'), v. t. a To recall or undo (a sin). b To destroy the sinful character of (an act); to render sinless.

un'sin·cere' (ŭn'sĭn·sēr'), adj. Insincere. — un'sin·cere'ly, adv. — un'sin·cere'ness, n. — un'sin·cer'i·ty (ŭn'·sĭn·sĕr'ĭ·tĭ), n.

un·sin'ew (ŭn·sĭn'ū), v. t. [1st un- + sinew.] To deprive of sinews or of strength; hence, to enfeeble.

un·sing' (ŭn·sĭng'), v. t. To recant (what has been sung).

un·sing'a·ble (ŭn·sĭng'ă·b'l), adj. Not fitted for singing, as beyond a singer's power or range. — un'sing·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sĭng·ă·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), un·sing'a·ble·ness, n.

un·sis'ter (-sĭs'tĕr), v. t. To separate, as sisters. Rare.

un·sis'ter·ly, adj. Not sisterly; not characteristic of the relations between sisters; as, an unsisterly remark, attitude, criticism. — un·sis'ter·li·ness, n.

un·sist'ing, adj. Prob., unresisting. Obs.

un·sit'ting, adj. Unsuitable. Obs. — un·sit'ting·ly, adv. Obs.

un·sized' (ŭn·sīzd'), adj. Not fashioned to a size, or to regular sizes.

un·sized', adj. Not sized; not treated with size or sizing; — used esp. of paper.

un·skill' (ŭn·skĭl'), n. 1. Want of reason; ignorance; folly. Obs.

2. Want of skill. Archaic.

un·skilled' (ŭn·skĭld'; 66), adj. a Not skilled; not having or displaying skill. b Not requiring skill. — un·skilled'ly, adv. — un·skilled'ness, n.

unskilled labor. Labor which (as regards any specific state of facts) is not dependent upon training and experience for its efficacy. See SKILLED, adj., 2.

un·skill'ful, un·skil'ful (ŭn·skĭl'fŏol; -f'l), adj 1. Not skillful; inexperienced; awkward; as, an unskillful surgeon.

2. Lacking discernment; injudicious. Archaic.

Though it make the unskillful laugh. Shak.

3. Unreasonable; unseemly. Obs.

— un·skill'ful·ly, un·skil'ful·ly, adv. — un·skill'ful·ness, un·skil'ful·ness, n.

un·skimmed' (ŭn·skĭmd'; 66), adj. a Not skimmed; as, unskimmed milk. b Plastering. Not covered with a skim coat.

un·skin' (-skĭn'), v. t. To take off the skin of; to flay.

un·skir'mished (-skûr'mĭsht), adj. Unengaged in skirmishing. Obs.

un·slaked' (ŭn·slākt'; cf. SLAKE, v. t.), adj. Not slaked; as, unslaked thirst; also, unrelaxed.

un·slate' (-slāt'), v. t. To remove the slate from.

un·slave' (-slāv'), v. t. To restore to freedom; to free; liberate.

un·sleeve' (-slēv'), v. t. To remove a sleeve from, as from a garment.

un·slept' (-slĕpt'), adj. Having been without sleep.

un·sling' (ŭn·slĭng'), v. t. [1st un- + sling.] a To take (a thing) from where it has been slung; as, to unsling a rifle. b Naut. To take off the slings of, as a yard, a cask, or the like; to release from slings.

un·slip' (-slĭp'), v. t. To slip; to free; as, unslip the dogs.

un·slit' (-slĭt'), adj. Not slit.

un·slock'ened (-slŏk'ĕnd), adj. Unslaked. Obs. exc. Scot.

un·slogh', adj. Perh., horrible. Obs.

un·slot' (ŭn·slŏt'), v. t. To unbar. Scot. & N. of Eng.

un·sloth'ful (-slōth'fŏol; -slŏth'-; -f'l), adj. Not slothful. — un·sloth'ful·ly, adv. — un·sloth'ful·ness, n.

un·sluice' (ŭn·slōōs'; 242; cf. SLUICE), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To sluice; to open the sluice or sluices of; to let flow.

un·smart' (-smärt'), adj. 1. Not smart.

2. Slack; limp. Obs. Scot.

— un·smart'ly, adv. — un·smart'ness, n.

un·smooth' (-smōōth'), v. t. To roughen; to make uneven.

un·smote' (-smōt'), adj. Unsmitten. Rare.

un·snap' (-snăp'), v. t. To loosen or free by undoing a snap. — v. i. To loosen with a snap.

un·snare' (-snär'), v. t. To release from a snare or snares.

un·snarl' (-snärl'), v. t. [1st un- + snarl.] To undo the entanglement of.

un·sneck' (-snĕk'), v. t. [1st un- + sneck.] To unlatch. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

un·so'ber (-sō'bĕr), v. t. To make unsteady, or less serious, sober-minded, or the like.

un·so'ber, adj. Not sober; as: a Marked by extremes; excessive. b Not serious, sober-minded, or the like; light. c Intoxicated. — un·so'ber·ly, adv. — un·so'ber·ness, n.

un'so·bri'e·ty (ŭn'sō·brī'ĕ·tĭ), n. Want of sobriety.

un·so'cia·ble (ŭn·sō'shă·b'l), adj. Not sociable; as: a Not inclined to society or conversation; solitary; reserved; as, an unsociable person or temper. b Not accordant one with another; not compatible or sympathetic. c Not affording opportunity for sociability; as, the unsociable oceans. — un'so·cia·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sō·shă·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), un·so'cia·ble·ness, n. — un·so'cia·bly, adv.

un·so'cial (ŭn·sō'shăl), adj. Not social; not enjoying the society of one's fellows. — un·so'cial·ly, adv. — un·so'cial·ness, n.

un·sock'et (-sŏk'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To loose or take from a socket.

un·sod'den (-sŏd''n), adj. Not sodden; as: a Not soaking wet. b Not seethed, or boiled.

un·soft' (-sŏft'; 185), adj. Not soft. Rare.

un·soft', adv. [AS. unsōfte. See UN- not; SOFT.] Not softly. Obs.

un·soil' (-soil'), v. t. To strip the top layer of soil or mold from. — v. i. To remove the soil, as in opening a deposit of clay for brickmaking.

un·sol'der (ŭn·sŏd'ĕr; cf. SOLDER, n.), v. t. [1st un- + solder.] To separate or disunite (what has been soldered); hence, to divide; sunder.

un·sol'dier (-sōl'jĕr), v. t. To take the soldierly character or status from.

un·sol'diered (ŭn·sōl'jĕrd), adj. a Lacking soldiers. b Obs. Unsoldierly.

un·sol'dier·ly (ŭn·sōl'jĕr·lĭ), adj. Not characteristic of, or befitting, a soldier.

un·sol'dier·y (-ĭ), adj. Unsoldierly. Obs.

un·sol'em (ŭn·sŏl'ĕm), adj. 1. Not solemn; not solemnized by formalities.

Solemn admissions, or admissions in judicio . . . ; and unsolemn admissions, extra judicium. Greenleaf.

2. Not celebrated; obscure. Obs.

3. Civil Law. Designating an informal will, specif. one that fails to name an executor.

— un·sol'emn·ly, adv. — un·sol'em·ness, n.

un·sol'em·nize (-sŏl'ĕm·nīz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To divest of solemnity.

un'so·lic'it·ed (ŭn'sō·lĭs'ĭ·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not solicited; unasked; as, an unsolicited recommendation. — un'so·lic'it·ed·ly, adv.

un'so·lic'it·ous (-ĭ·tŭs), adj. Not solicitous; not inquiring; not concerned or anxious. — un'so·lic'it·ous·ly, adv. — un'so·lic'it·ous·ness, n.

un·sol'u·ble (ŭn·sŏl'ū·b'l), adj. Insoluble. — un'sol·u·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sŏl·ū·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

un·solv'a·ble (-sŏl'vă·b'l), adj. Not solvable. — un·solv'a·ble·ness, n. — un·solv'a·bly, adv.

un·solve' (-sŏlv'), v. t. To solve, as a problem. Obs.

un·some' (ŏŏn·sŏm'), adj. [Cf. AS. ungesōm at variance, unsōm disagreement.] Unfriendly; at variance. Obs.

un·son' (ŭn·sŭn'), v. t. To render not a son. Rare.

un·son'sy (ŭn·sŏn'sĭ), adj. Also un·son'sie (-sĭ). [un- not + sonsy.] Scot. & Dial. Eng. a Boding or causing misfortune; fatal. b Ill-favored; unpleasant; also, slovenly.

un'so·phis'ti·cate (ŭn'sō·fĭs'tĭ·kāt), adj. Unsophisticated. — n. An unsophisticated person.

un'so·phis'ti·cat'ed (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. a Not sophisticated; not worldly-wise. b Simple; ingenuous; pure; innocent; genuine. c Not changed or mixed with something else; genuine. — un'so·phis'ti·cat'ed·ly, adv. — un'so·phis'ti·cat'ed·ness, n.

Syn. — See SIMPLE. Ant. — Blasé, worldly, sophisticated.

un'so·phis'ti·ca'tion (-tĭ·kā'shŭn), n. Lack of, or freedom from, sophistication.

un·sor'rowed (ŭn·sŏr'ōd), adj. Not sorrowed for; unlamented.

un·sort'ed (ŭn·sôr'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not sorted; not classified; as, a lot of unsorted goods.

2. Not well selected; ill-chosen. Obs.

un·sought' (ŭn·sôt'), adj. Not sought; as: a Not searched for; not obtained by effort; as, unsought honors, riches. b Not requested or solicited. c Not explored. d Not tried; untried.

un·soul' (-sōl'), v. t. To deprive of soul or spirit.

un·sound' (ŭn·sound'; 66), adj. Not sound; as: a Not healthy or whole; not in good condition. b Not valid or true; incorrect. c Not morally right; wicked. d Not mentally normal; not wholly sane. e Not firmly made, placed, fixed, or the like. f Of sleep, not profound or undisturbed. — un·sound'ly, adv. — un·sound'ness, n.

un·sound', adv. Unsoundly.

un·spar' (-spär'), v. t. [1st un- + spar.] To take the spars, stakes, or bars, from.

un·spar'a·ble (ŭn·spär'ă·b'l), adj. That cannot be spared.

un·spar'ing (ŭn·spär'ĭng), adj. [un- not + sparing, pres. part.] 1. Not sparing; profuse; as, unsparing praise.

2. Not merciful or forgiving; hard. Rare.

— un·spar'ing·ly, adv. — un·spar'ing·ness, n.

un·speak' (ŭn·spēk'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To unsay.

un·speak'a·ble (-ă·b'l), adj. [See UN- not.] a Not speakable; inexpressible; unutterable; ineffable; as, unspeakable grief or rage; sometimes, specif., unspeakably bad; as, the unspeakable Turk.

Ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory. 1 Pet. i. 8.

b Not speaking; dumb.

Syn. — See INEFFABLE. Ant. — Delightful, pleasing.

— un'speak·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'spēk·ă·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·speak'a·ble·ness, n. — un·speak'a·bly, adv.

un·speak'a·ble, adv. Unspeakably.

un·speak'a·ble, n. A being or thing beyond the power of language to describe.

un·spe'cial·ized (ŭn·spēsh'ăl·īzd), adj. Not specialized; esp., Biol., not adapted, or modified, for any particular purpose or function.

un·spec'i·fied (-spĕs'ĭ·fīd), adj. Not specified. — un·spec'i·fied'ly, adv.

un'spec·tac'u·lar (ŭn'spĕk·tăk'ū·lĕr), adj. Not spectacular. — un'spec·tac'u·lar·ly, adv.

un·spec'u·la'tive (ŭn·spĕk'ū·lā'tĭv; -lă·tĭv) adj. Not speculative; as: a Not pondering, or given to thought. b Not risky; of sound value; — used of securities. c Designating a conservative operation; — used esp. of dealings in securities. — un·spec'u·la'tive·ly, adv.

un·sped' (ŭn·spĕd'), adj. 1. Unsuccessful.

2. Not performed.

un·speed' (-spēd'), n. [AS. unspēd want, penury.] Obs.

1. Misfortune; unsuccessfulness.

2. Hindrance; disadvantage.

un·speed'ful, adj. Unsuccessful; inefficacious. Obs.

un·spell' (ŭn·spĕl'), v. t. [1st un- + spell.] To break the power of, or release from, a spell.

un·sphere' (ŭn·sfĕr'), v. t. [1st un- + sphere.] To remove, as a planet from its sphere.

un·spi'a·ble (ŭn·spī'ă·b'l), adj. That cannot be espied.

un·spike' (-spīk'), v. t. [1st un- + spike.] To remove a spike from, as from the vent of a cannon; also, to loose by taking out a spike.

un·spill'a·ble (-spĭl'ă·b'l), adj. See UN-, not.

un·spin' (ŭn·spĭn'), v. t. [1st un- + spin.] To untwist, as something spun.

un·shore', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·shored' (ŭn·shōrd'; 181), adj., un·shorn' (-shôrn'; 181), adj., un·short', adj., un·short'ened, adj., un·shot'ted, adj., un·shout'ed, adj., un·shout'ing, adj., un·shoved', adj., un·shov'eled, adj., un·show'a·ble, adj., un·showed', adj., un·show'man·like', adj., un·shown', adj., un·show'y, adj., un·shred'ded, adj. See UN-, not.

un·shrew', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·shrewd', adj., un·shrew'ish, adj., un·shrill', adj., un·shrined' (-shrĭnd'), adj., un'shrink·a·bil'i·ty, n., un·shrink'a·ble, adj., un·shrink'ing, adj., un·shrink'ing·ly, adv., un·shrived' (ŭn·shrīvd'), adj., un·shriv'eled, un·shriv'elled (-shrĭv''ld), adj., un·shriv'en (-ĕn), adj., un·shroud'ed, adj., un·shrug'ging, adj., un·shrunk', adj., un·shrunk'en, adj., un·shud'der·ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·shuf'fle, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·shuf'fled, adj., un·shun'na·ble, adj., un·shunned' (ŭn·shŭnd'), adj., un·shunt'ed, adj., un·shut', adj., un·shut'tered, adj., un·shy', adj., un·shy'ly, adv., un·shy'ness, n., un'·Si·ber·ri·an, adj., un·sib'ĭ·lant, adj., un·sic'cat·ed, adj., un'·Si·cil'ĭ·an, adj., un·sick', adj., un·sick'ened, adj., un·sick'ly, adj., un·sid'ing, adj., un·sift'ed, adj., un·sighed'·for', adj., un·sigh'ing, adj., un'sig·mat'ic, adj., un·sig'naled, adj., un·sig'nal·ized (-sĭg'nă·līzd), adj., un·sig'na·tured, adj., un·signed' (-sīnd'), adj., un·sig'net·ed, adj., un'sig·nif'i·ca·tive, adj., un·sig'ni·fied, adj., un·sig'ni·fy'ing, adj., un·si'lence·a·ble, adj., un·si'lence·d, adj., un·si'lent, adj., un·si·len'tious, adj., un·si'lent·ly, adv., un'·si·lic'ified, adj., un·sil'ly, adj., un·sil'vered, adj., un·sim'ple, adj., un·sim'pli·fied, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sim'pli·fy, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·sim'u·lat'ed, adj., un'·si·mul·ta'ne·ous, adj., un·sin'·Sla'vic, adj., un·sin'·Slav'ic, adj., un·sin'·Slav'o·nic, adj., un·sin'·slea'ved, adj., un·sin'·slea'ved, adj., un·sin'ew·ing, adj., un·sin'ew·y, adj., un·sin'ful, adj., un·sin'ful·ly, adv., un·sin'ful·ness, n., un·singed' (-sĭnjd'), adj., un·sin'gle, adj., un·sin'gled (-sĭng'g'ld), adj., un·sin'gleness, n., un·sin'gu·lar, adj., un·sin'is·ter, adj., un'·sink·a·bil'i·ty, n., un·sink'a·ble, adj., un·sink'ing, adj., un·sin'na·ble, adj., un·sin'ning, adj., un·sin'ning·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·si'phon, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·sipped', adj., un·sis'tered (ŭn·sĭs'tĕrd), adj., un·siz'a·ble, un·size'a·ble, adj., un·siz'a·ble·ness, un·size'a·ble·ness, n. See UN-, not. [Var. of UNSCATHED.]

un·skaith'd' (ŭn·skāth'd'). Scot.

un·skep'ti·cal, un·scep'ti·cal, adj., un·sketch'a·ble, adj., un·sketched', adj., un·skewed', adj., un·skew'ered, adj. See UN-, not.

un·skil'ful, un·skil'ful·ly, un·skil'ful·ness. Vars. of UNSKILFUL, etc.

un·skinned', adj., un·skirt'ed, adj., un·slack', adj., un·slacked', adj., un·slack'ened, adj., un·slack'en·ing, adj., un·slack'ing, adj., un·slagged', adj., un·slain', adj., un·slak'a·ble, un·slake'a·ble, adj., un·slammed', adj., un·slan'dered, adj., un·slan'derous, adj., un·slapped', adj., un·slashed', adj., un·slat'ed, adj., un·slat'ing, adj., un·slaugh'tered, adj., un·Slav'ic, adj., un·slay'a·ble, adj., un·sleaved', adj., un·sleek', adj., un·sleep'a·bly, adv., un·sleep'ing, adj., un·sleep'ing·ly, adv., un·sleep'y, adj., un·sleeved', adj., un·slen'der, adj., un·sliced', adj., un·slid'ing, adj., un·slight'ed, adj., un·slipped', adj., un·slip'per·y, adj., un·slip'ping, adj., un·sloped', adj., un·slopped', adj., un·slot'ted, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sloughed', adj., un·slough'ing, adj., un·slow', adj., un·slug'gish, adj., un·sluiced', adj., un·slum'ber·ing, adj., un·slum'ber·ous, adj., un·slum'brous, adj., un·slung', adj., un·slurred', adj., un·sly', adj., un·smacked', adj., un·smeared', adj., un·smelled', adj., un·smell'ing, adj., un·smelt'ed, adj., un·smiled', adj., un·smil'ing (ŭn·smīl'ĭng), adj., un·smil'ing·ly, adv., un·smil'ing·ness, n., un·smirched' (ŭn·smûrcht'), adj., un·smirk'ing, adj., un·smit'ten, adj., un·smok'a·ble, un·smoke'a·ble, adj., un·smoked' (ŭn·smōkt'), adj., un·smok'i·fied, adj., un·smok'ing, adj., un·smok'y, adj., un·smooth', adj., un·smoothed', adj., un·smooth'ly, adv., un·smooth'ness, n., un·smoth'er·a·ble (ŭn·smŭth'ĕr·ă·b'l), adj., un·smoth'ered, adj., un·smudged', adj., un·smug'gled, adj., un·smutched', adj., un·smut'ted, adj., un·smut'ty, adj., un·snaf'fled, adj., un·snagged', adj., un·snag'gled, adj., un·snak'y, adj., un·snapped', adj., un·snared', adj. See UN-, not.

un·snatch', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·snatched', adj., un·sneer'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·snib', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·snipped', adj., un·snob'bish, adj., un·snor'ing, adj., un·snout'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·snow', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·snub'ba·ble, adj., un·snubbed', adj., un·snuffed', adj., un·soaked', adj., un·soaped', adj., un·soar'a·ble, adj., un·social·ism, n., un'so·cial·is'tic, adj., un'so·ci·al'i·ty, n., un·so'cial·iz'a·ble, adj., un·so'cialized, adj., un'so·ci·o·log'i·cal, adj., un'·So·crat'ic, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sod', adj. = UNSODDEN. Obs.

un·soft'ened (ŭn·sŏf'ĕnd; 185), adj., un·soft'en·ing, adj., un·sog'gy, adj., un·soiled', adj., un·soil'ed·ness, n., un·sol'aced, adj., un·sol'ac·ing, adj., un·sol'lar, adj., un·sold', adj., un·sol'dered (ŭn·sŏd'ĕrd; cf. SOLDER, n.), adj., un·sol'der·ing, adj., un·sol'dier·like', adj. See UN-, not.

un·sole', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·soled', adj., un·sol'em·nized, adj., un'so·lic'i·tat'ed, adj., un·sol'id, adj., un'sol·i·dar'i·ty, n., un'so·lidi·fi'a·ble, adj., un'solidi·fied, adj., un'so·lidi·ty, adj., un'sol·id·ly, adv., un·sol'id·ness, n., un·sol'i·tar'y, adj., un·solv'a·ble, adj., un·solved', adj., un'so·mat'ic, adj., un·som'ber, un·som'bre, adj., un·so'na·ble, adj., un·so'nant, adj. See UN-, not.

un·son'cy. Var. of UNSONSY.

un·son'like', adj. & adv., un·son'net·ed, adj., un'so·no'rous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·soot', adj. = UNSWEET. Obs.

un·sooth'a·ble, adj., un·soothed', adj., un·sooth'fast', adj., un·sooth'ing, adj., un·soot'y, adj., un'so·phis'ti·cal, adj., un'so·phis'ti·cal·ly, adv., un'soph·o·mor'ic, adj., un·sor'did, adj., un·sore', adj., un·sor'row·ing, adj., un·sor'ry, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sort', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·sort'a·ble, adj., un·sort'ing, adj., un·sot'ted, adj., un·soul'ful, adj., un·soul'ful·ly, adv., un·soul'ish, adj., un·sound'a·ble, adj., un·sound'a·ble·ness, n., un·sound'ed, adj., un·sound'ing, adj., un·sour', adj., un·soured' (ŭn·sourd'), adj., un·soused', adj., un·South'ern, adj., un·sov'er·eign, adj., un·sowed' (ŭn·sōd'), adj., un·sown', adj., un·spaced', adj., un·spa'cious, adj., un·spad'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·span', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·span'gled, adj., un·Span'iard·ized, adj., un·Span'ish, adj., un·spanked', adj., un·spanned', adj., un·spared', adj., un·spar'kling, adj., un·sparred', adj., un·sparse', adj., un·Spar'tan, adj., un·spa'tial, adj., un'·spa·ti·al'i·ty, n., un·spat'tered, adj., un·spawned', adj., un·spayed', adj., un·speak'ing, adj., un·speared', adj., un·spe'cial·iz'ing, adj., un'spe·ci'fic, adj., un·spe'cious, adj., un·specked', adj., un·speck'led, adj., un·spec'ta·cled, adj., un·spec'ter·like', un·spec'tre·like', adj., un·spec'u·lat'ing, adj., un·speed'y, adj., un·speered', adj., un·spell'a·ble, adj., un·spelled', un·spelt', adj., un·spend'a·ble, adj., un·spend'ing, adj., un'·Spen·se'ri·an, adj., un·spent', adj., un·spewed', adj., un·spheared', adj., un·spher'ing, adj., un·spiced', adj., un·spic'y, adj., un·spied', adj. See UN-, not un·spin'ster·like' (ŭn·spĭn'stĕr·lī'k), adj., un·spin'ster·like'ness, n., un·spi'ral, adj., un·spired', adj., un·spir'it·ed, adj., un·spir'it·ed·ly, adv., un·spir'it·ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·spir'it·u·al·ized, adj. un·spin'sat·ed, adj., un·spit'ed, adj., un·spite'ful, adj., un·spit'ted, adj., un·splashed', adj., un·splat'tered, adj., un·splayed', adj., un·spleen'ish. adj., un·spleen'ish·ly, adv., un·splen'did, adj., un·spliced', adj., un·splint'ed, adj., un·splin'tered, un·split', adj. See UN-, not.

un·spoil'a·ble, adj. See UN-, not. — un·spoil'a·ble·ness, n. — un·spoil'a·bly, adv.

un·sponged', adj., un·spon'gy, adj., un·spon'sored, adj., un·spon·ta'ne·ous, adj., un·spon·ta'ne·ous·ly, adv., un·spook'ish, adj., un·sport'ed, adj., un·sport'ful, adj., un·sport'ing, adj., un·sport'ive, adj., un·sports'man·ly, adj. & adv., un·spot'light'ed, adj., un·spot'ta·ble, adj., un·spoused', adj., un·spous'e·like', adj., un·spout'ed, adj., un·sprained', adj., un·sprayed', adj., un·spread', adj., un·spring'ing, adj., un·spring'like', adj. See UN-, not.

un·sprin'kled, adj., un·sprin'kled, adj., un·sprout'ed, adj., un·sprout'ful, adj., un·sprout'ing, adj., un·spruced', adj., un·spun', adj., un·spurned', adj. See UN-, not.

un·spurred', adj., un·spy'ing, adj., un·squan'dered, adj., un·squar'a·ble, adj., un·squared', adj., un·squashed', adj., un·squeam'ish, adj., un·squeez'a·ble, adj., un·squeezed', adj., un·squelched', adj., un·squint'ing, adj., un·squired', adj., un·squire'like', adj., un·squirt'ed, adj., un·stabbed', adj., un·sta'bled, adj., un·stab'lished, adj., un·stacked', adj., un·staffed', adj., un·staged', adj., un·stag'gered, adj., un·stag'ger·ing, adj., un·stag'nat·ing, adj., un·stag'y, adj., un·stain'a·ble, adj., un·stain'a·ble·ness, adj., un·stained', adj., un·staled', adj. See UN-, not.

unstalked hydatid. Anat. = HYDATID OF MORGAGNI b.

un·stalled', adj., un·stam'mering, adj., un·stamped', adj., un·stan'ched, adj., un·stanch', un·staunch', adj., un·stanch'a·ble, un·staunch'a·ble, adj., un·stand'ard, adj., un·stand'ardized, adj., un·stan·za'ic, adj., un·starched', adj., un·star'like', adj., un·starred', adj., un·start'ed, adj., un·start'ing, adj., un·start'led, adj., un·starved', adj., un·stat'a·ble, un·state'a·ble, adj., un·stat'ed, adj., un·state'ly, adj., un·states'man·like', adj., un·stat'ic, adj., un·stat'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sta·tion·ary, adj., un·sta·tis'tic, adj., un·sta·tis'ti·cal, adj., un·stat'ued, adj., un·stat·u·esque', adj., un·stat'u·ta·ble, adj., un·stat'u·ta·bly, adj., un·staunch', adj., un·staunch'a·ble, adj., un·staunched', adj., un·stav'a·ble, adj., un·stave'a·ble, adj., un·staved', adj., un·stay'a·ble, adj., un·stay'ing, adj., un·stead'ied, adj., un·stead'y·ing, adj., un·stealth'y, adj., un·steamed', adj., un·steaming, adj., un·stecked', adj., un·steeled', adj. See UN-, not.

un·steep', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·steeped', adj., un·stee'pled, adj., un·steered', adj., un·stem'ma·ble, adj., un·stemmed', adj., un·sten·to'ri·an, adj., un·ster'co·rat'ed, adj., un·ste're·o·typed', adj., un·ster'ile, adj., un·stern', adj., un·steth'o·scoped, adj., un·stew'ard·like', adj., un·stewed', adj., un·stick'ing, adj., un·stick'ing·ness, n., un·stick'y, adj., un·stiff'ened, adj., un·sti'fled, adj., un·stig'ma·tized, adj., un·stilled', adj., un·stilt'ed, adj., un·stim'u·lat'ed, adj., un·stim'u·lat'ing, adj., un·stinged' (-stĭngd'), adj., un·sting'ing, adj., un·stint'ed, adj., un·stint'ed·ly, adv., un·stint'ing, adj., un·stint'ing·ly, adv., un·stip'pled, adj., un·stip'u·lat'ed, adj., un·stir'ra·ble, adj., un·stirred', adj., un·stir'ring, adj., un·stitched', adj., un·stitch'ring, adj., un·stocked', adj., un·stock'ing, adj., un·stock'inged, adj., un·sto'ic, adj., un·sto'i·cal, adj., un·sto'i·cal·ly, adv., un·stoked', adj., un·sto'len, adj., un·ston'a·ble, adj., un·stoned', adj., un·ston'i·ness, n., un·ston'y, adj., un·stoop'ing, adj., un·stop'pa·ble, adj., un·stop'pered, adj., un·stormed', adj.; un·storm'y, adj., un·stout', adj., un·stoved', adj., un·strad'dled, adj., un·strafed', adj., un·straight', adj., un·straight'ened, adj., un·straight·for'ward, adj., un·straight'ness, n., un·strait'ened, adj., un·strand'ed, adj., un·strange', adj., un·strap'pered, adj., un·stran'gled, adj., un·stran'gu·la·ble, adj., un·strapped', adj., un·stra·te'gic, adj., un·stra·te'gi·cal·ly, adv., un·stray'ing, adj., un·streaked', adj. See UN-, not.

un·strength'ened, adj., un·strengthened, adj., un·strin'gent, adj., un·strin'ged, adj., un·stringed' (-strĭngd'), adj., un·strin'gent, adj., un·stripped', un·strip'ped, adj., un·striv'ing, adj., un·stroked', adj., un·struc'tur·al, adj., un·strug'gling, adj., un·stubbed', adj., un·stub'born, adj., un·stuc'coed, adj., un·stuck', adj., un·stud'ded, adj., un·stud'ti·ous, adj., un·stuffed', adj., un·stuff'ing, un·stuff', adj., un·stul'ti·fied, adj., un·stum'bling, adj., un·stung', adj., un·stunned', adj., un·stunt'ed, adj., un·stu'pe·fied, adj., un·stu'pid, adj., un·stut'tered, adj., un·stut'ter·ing, adj., un·styled', adj., un·sub·di·vid'ed, adj., un·sub·du'a·ble, adj., un·sub·du'a·ble·ness, n., un·sub·du'a·bly, adv., un·sub·duced'ed, adj., un·sub·dued', adj., un·sub·du'ed·ly, adv., un·sub·du'ed·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·sub·ject', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·sub·ject'a·ble, adj., un·sub·ject'ed, adj., un·sub·ject'ed·ness, n., un·sub·jec'tion, n., un·sub·jec'tive, adj., un·sub·jec'tive·ly, adv., un·sub·jec'tive·ness, n., un·sub'ju·gate, adj., un·sub'ju·gated, adj., un·sub·lim'a·ble, adj., un·sub'li·mat'ed, adj., un·sub·limed', adj., un·sub·merged', adj., un·sub·mer'gible, adj., un·sub·merg'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sub·mis'sive, adj. Not submissive. — un·sub·mis'sive·ly, adv. — un·sub·mis'sive·ness, n., un·sub·mit'ted, adj., un·sub·mit'ting, adj., un·sub·or'di·nate, un·sub·or'di·nat'ed, adj., un·sub·orned', adj., un·sub·poe'naed, adj., un·sub·scribed', adj., un·sub·scrib'ing, adj., un·sub·ser'vi·ent, adj., un·sub·sid'ed, adj., un·sub·sid'i·ar'y, adj., un·sub·sid'ing, adj., un·sub'si·dized, adj., un·sub·stanced, adj., un·sub·stan'ti·at'ed, adj., un·sub·sti·tut'ed, adj., un·sub·tract'ed, adj., un·sub·ven'tioned, adj., un·sub·ven'tionized, adj., un·sub·ver'sive, adj., un·sub·vert'a·ble, adj., un·sub·vert'ed, adj., un·sub·vert'ive, un·suc·ceed'ed, adj., un·suc·ceed'ing, adj., un·suc·cinct', adj., un·suc'cor·a·ble, un·suc'cored, adj., un·suc'cu·lent, adj., un·suc·cumb'ing, adj., un·sucked', adj., un·suck'led, adj., un·sued', adj., un·suf'fer·ing, adj., un·suf·ficed', adj., un·suf·fic'ing, adj., un·suf·fic'ing·ness, n., un·suf·fis'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·suf'fo·cate, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·suf'fo·cat'ed, adj., un·suf'fo·ca'tive, adj., un·suf·fused', adj., un·sug'ared, adj., un·sug'ary, adj., un·sug·gest'ed, adj., un·sug·gest'ed·ness, n., un·sug·ges'tive, adj., un·sug·ges'tive·ness, n., un·suit'ed, adj., un·suit'ing, adj., un·sulk'y, adj., un·sul'len, adj., un·sul'li·a·ble, adj., un·sul'pho·nat'ed, adj., un·sul·phu're·ous, adj., un·sul'phur·ized, adj., un·sul'try, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sum'ma·ble, adj., un·sum'ma·ried, adj., un·sum'mer·like', adj., un·sum'mer·ly, adj., un·sum'mon·a·ble, adj., un·sum'moned, adj., un·sump'tu·ar'y, adj., un·sump'tu·ous, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sun', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·sun'burned', adj., un·Sun'day·like', adj., un·sun'dered, adj., un·sunk', adj., un·sunk'en, adj., un·sun'ny, adj., un·su·per·an'ti·ated, adj., un·su·per·ph'i·ous, adj., un·su·per·ph'cial, adj. See UN-, not.

un·su·per'flu·ous, adj., un·su·pe'ri·or, adj., un·su·per'la·tive, adj., un·su·per·nat'u·ral, adj. See UN-, not.

un·su·per·nat'u·ral·ized, adj., un·su·per·scribed', adj., un·su·per·sed'ed, adj., un·sup·plant'a·ble, adj., un·sup·plant'ed, adj., un·sup'ple, adj., un·sup'pled, adj., un·sup'ple·ment'ed, adj., un·sup·pli'a·ble, adj., un·sup'pli·cat'ed, adj. See UN-, not.

---

un·spir'it (ŭn·spĭr'ĭt), v. t. [1st un- + spirit.] To dispirit.

un·spir'it·u·al (ŭn·spĭr'ĭt·ū·ăl), adj. Not spiritual. — un'·spir·it·u·al'i·ty (ŭn'spĭr·ĭt·ū·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·spir'it·u·al·ly, adv. — un·spir'it·u·al·ness, n.

un·spir'it·u·al·ize (-īz), v. t. [1st un- + spiritualize.] To deprive of spirituality.

un·spit' (ŭn·spĭt'), v. t. To take or release from a spit.

un·spleened' (ŭn·splēnd'; 66), adj. [1st un- + spleen.] Deprived or devoid of a spleen.

un·spoil' (ŭn·spoil'), v. t. 1. To despoil; to undress. Obs. 2. To restore from being spoiled.

un·spoiled' (-spoild'; 66), un·spoilt' (-spoilt'), adj. Not spoiled; as: a Not pillaged. b Not rotted; also, not injured by use. c In a pure or unmixed condition; — said of a primitive culture. d Not pampered.

un·spoke' (-spōk'), adj. Unspoken. Archaic.

un·spo'ken (-spō'kĕn), adj. Not spoken; unuttered. — un·spo'ken·ly, adv.

un·sports'man·like' (-spōrts'măn·līk'), adj. Not sportsmanlike; not characteristic of, or exhibiting, good sportsmanship.

un·spot' (-spŏt'), v. t. To remove a spot or spots from.

un·spot'ted (ŭn·spŏt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not spotted; free from spot or stain; esp., free from moral stain; immaculate; as, an unspotted reputation. — un·spot'ted·ly, adv. — un·spot'ted·ness, n.

un·spot'ten (-spŏt'n), adj. Unspotted. Archaic.

un·spread' (-sprĕd'), v. t. To spread out.

un·spright'ly (-sprīt'lĭ), adj. Not sprightly, lively, or active. — un·spright'li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

un·spring' (ŭn·sprĭng'), v. t. To loosen the spring of; also, to loosen or release by pressing a spring. — v. i. To spring open.

un·sprung' (-sprŭng'), adj. Without springs.

unsprung weight. Weight not supported by springs.

un·square' (ŭn·skwâr'), v. t. To lose its squareness. — v. t. To destroy the squareness of.

un·squire' (-skwīr'), v. t. To deprive of status as squire.

un·sta'ble (ŭn·stā'b'l), adj. [Cf. INSTABLE.] Not stable; not firm, fixed, or constant; subject to change or overthrow; hence: a Fluctuating; irregular. b Fickle; vacillating. c Unsteady; not solid. d Chem. Of compounds, readily decomposing or changing into other compounds. e Psychol. Characterized by emotional instability (which see). — un'sta·bil'i·ty (ŭn'stă·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·sta'ble·ness, n. — un·sta'bly, adv.

un·sta'bled (ŭn·stā'b'ld), adj. Not established; not made stable.

unstable equilibrium. See EQUILIBRIUM, 1.

unstable oscillation. Physics. An oscillation, as of an airplane, whose amplitude increases continuously until an attitude is reached from which there is no tendency to return toward the original attitude, the motion becoming a steady divergence.

un·stack' (ŭn·stăk'), v. t. [1st un- + stack.] To remove from a stack; to undo the stacked condition of. — un·stack'er (-ĕr), n.

un·staid' (ŭn·stād'), adj. Not staid; as: a Not demure, reserved, or well-ordered, in behavior. b Unsettled; unstable. c Changeable; vacillating. — un·staid'ly, adv. — un·staid'ness, n.

un·stain' (-stān'), v. t. To free from stain.

un·stained', adj. Not stained. — un·stain'ed·ly, adv. — un·stain'ed·ness, n.

un·stalked' (ŭn·stôkt'; 66), adj. Not having a stalk or stalks.

un·star' (-stär'), v. t. To disestablish (an actor) as a star.

un·starch' (ŭn·stärch'), v. t. [1st un- + starch.] To free from starch; to make limp or pliable.

un·state' (ŭn·stāt'), v. t. [1st un- + state.] 1. To deprive of state or dignity.

> Caesar will unstate his happiness. Shak.

2. To deprive of statehood. Rare.

un·stath'el·fast, adj. [AS. unstatholfæst.] Unsettled; unstable. Obs.

un·stayed' (ŭn·stād'), adj. Not stayed; as: a Not hindered or checked. b Not supported or upheld. c Not held in by stays. — un·stayed'ness, n.

un·stayed'. Obs. var. of UNSTAID.

un·stead'fast (-stĕd'făst; -fäst), adj. Not steadfast. — un·stead'fast·ly, adv. — un·stead'fast·ness, n.

un·stead'y (ŭn·stĕd'ĭ), adj.; UN·STEAD'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); UN·STEAD'I·EST. Not steady; as: a Not firm, solid, or fixed. b Vacillating; fluctuating; flickering. c Irregular; not uniform or even. — un·stead'i·ly, adv. — un·stead'i·ness, n.

un·stead'y, v. t. To make unsteady.

un·steck' (-stĕk'), v. t. Also un·steek' (-stēk'). [1st un- + steck.] To unfasten. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

un·steel' (ŭn·stēl'), v. t. [1st un- + steel.] To render not steellike; to disarm; soften.

un·step' (ŭn·stĕp'), v. t. [1st un- + step.] Naut. To remove, as a mast, from its step.

un·ster'i·lized (-stĕr'ĭ·līzd), adj. Not sterilized; as, unsterilized milk.

un·stick' (-stĭk'), v. t. To release, as something stuck.

un·stiff'en (-stĭf'ĕn), v. t. To take the stiffening out of; to render limp or flexible.

un·still' (-stĭl'), adj. Not still. — un·still'ness, n.

un·sting' (ŭn·stĭng'), v. t. [1st un- + sting.] To disarm of a sting; to remove the sting of. Rare.

un·stitch' (ŭn·stĭch'), v. t. [1st un- + stitch.] To open by picking out stitches; to take out, or undo, the stitches of.

un·stock' (ŭn·stŏk'), v. t. [1st un- + stock.] To deprive of a stock, to remove the stock from, or to remove from a stock or stocks; as: a To remove (a vessel) from the stocks. b To take (cattle, horses, sheep, fish) from a place where they have been kept. c To free (a prisoner) from the stocks.

un·sto'i·cize (ŭn·stō'ĭ·sīz), v. t. Also un·sto'ic (-ĭk). To deprive of stoic character.

un·sto'ken (-stō'kĕn), adj. [un- not + ME. stoken, past part. of steken to fix, fasten, close. Cf. STICK, v. t.] Unstecked; unbarred; opened. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

un·stone' (-stōn'), v. t. To clear of stone or stones, as a meadow.

un·stop' (-stŏp'), v. [1st un- + stop.] Transitive: 1. To take the stopple or stopper from; as, to unstop a bottle or a cask.

2. To free from any obstruction; to open.

3. To draw out the stops of (an organ).

4. Phonet. To change from a stop to a continuant, as d of ME. fader to th of father.

—, Intransitive: To become freed from obstructions; to open; clear.

un·stopped' (ŭn·stŏpt'; 66), adj. Not stopped; as: a Not stoppered, corked, or the like. b Not covered; as, an unstopped rabbit hole. c Phonet. Of consonants, open; continuant. d Prosody. Of lines of verse, not closing with a stop.

un·stop'per (-stŏp'ĕr), v. t. To remove the stopper from; to unstop, as a bottle.

un·stop'ple (-'l), v. t. To remove a stopple from; to open by taking the stopple off or out.

un·store' (ŭn·stōr'; 181), v. t. To take the store or stock from; to unstock; also, to take out of store, or storage.

un·stored' (-stōrd'), adj. a Not having a supply on hand. b Not placed in storage; also, not hoarded.

un·sto'ried (-stō'rĭd), adj. Not built in stories; as, an unstoried wall.

un·sto'ried, adj. Not having a history; not told or celebrated in story.

un·stow' (ŭn·stō'), v. t. Chiefly Naut. To empty of cargo or contents; to unload.

un·stowed' (ŭn·stōd'; 66), adj. Not stowed; specif.: Naut. a Not stowed carefully, but lying loose on deck or in the hold; as, unstowed cargo. b Unloaded; not filled with stowed cargo. c Emptied of cargo or contents.

un·strain' (-strān'), v. t. [1st un- + strain.] To relieve from a strain.

un·strained' (ŭn·strānd'; 66), adj. [un- not + strained.] Not strained; as: a Not cleared or purified by straining; as, unstrained oil or milk. b Not put under strain; not unduly stretched. c Not forced; natural; not showing undue effort; as, an unstrained deduction.

un·strand' (-strănd'), v. t. To remove from the strand or shore.

> And bid him quick unstrand his boat. Amy Lowell.

un·strap' (-străp'), v. t. To remove or loose a strap from, as from a box, trunk, or parcel.

un·strat'i·fied (ŭn·străt'ĭ·fīd), adj. Not stratified; specif., Geol., not bedded; — applied to massive rocks, as granite, porphyry, etc., and also to deposits of loose material, as the glacial till, which occur in masses without layers or strata.

un·streng' (ŭn·strĕng'), v. t. [1st un- + streng, v.] To weaken. Obs.

un·strength' (ŭn·strĕngth'), n. Want of strength; weakness.

un·strength'en (-strĕng'th'n), v. t. To render weak; to weaken.

un·stressed' (ŭn·strĕst'; 66), adj. Not stressed or emphasized; specif., Phonet., not bearing a stress or accent. — un·stress'ed·ly, adv. — un·stress'ed·ness, n.

un·stretch' (-strĕch'), v. t. & i. To release the tension (of); hence, to relax.

un·stride' (-strīd'), v. t. To dismount from (a horse or the like). Obs.

un·strike' (-strīk'), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To unstring (a hawk's hood).

un·string' (ŭn·strĭng'), v. t. [1st un- + string.] 1. To deprive of a string or strings; also, to take from a string; as, to unstring beads; hence, loosely, to separate.

2. To loosen or remove the string or strings of; as, to unstring a harp.

3. To relax the tension of; to loosen.

> His garland they unstring. Dryden

4. Figuratively, to render weak or disordered; — usually in passive; as, he was all unstrung by the news; nerves unstrung by fear.

5. Archery. To relax (a braced bow) by disengaging the string from one nock.

un·strip' (ŭn·strĭp'), v. t. & i. To strip.

un·striped' (ŭn·strīpt'; -strĭp'ĕd; -ĭd; 66; 119), adj. Not striped or striated.

unstriped muscle. Anat. Nonstriated muscle. See 2d MUSCLE, 1.

un·strong' (ŭn·strŏng'; 185), adj. [AS. unstrang.] Infirm; feeble. Now Dial. — v. t. To enfeeble. Obs.

un·strung' (ŭn·strŭng'; 66), adj. Not strung; as: a Having the strings loose or detached, as a musical instrument. b Nervously tired, anxious, fearful, or the like; seriously discomposed.

un·stud'ied (ŭn·stŭd'ĭd), adj. Not studied; as: a Not pursued diligently with mental appreciation, as a subject, text, etc. b Not acquired by study. c Unlabored; unforced; natural.

un·stuff' (ŭn·stŭf'), v. t. To take the stuffing from or out of.

un·sty' (-stī'), v. t. To turn out of a sty.

un·styl'ish (-stīl'ĭsh), adj. Not stylish. — un·styl'ish·ly, adv. — un·styl'ish·ness, n.

un'sub·mis'sion (ŭn'sŭb·mĭsh'ŭn), n. Want of submission. Rare.

un'sub·stan'tial (-stăn'shĕl), adj. Not substantial; as: a Wanting matter or substance; not of solid matter. b Having no physical or real existence; visionary; as, the unsubstantial fabric of a dream. — un'sub·stan·ti·al'i·ty (-shĭ·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un'sub·stan'tial·ly, adv. — un'sub·stan'tial·ness, n.

un'sub·stan'tial·ize (-īz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To make unsubstantial. Rare.

un'sub·stan'ti·ate (-shĭ·āt), v. t. To divest of substantiality; to make unsubstantial. — un'sub·stan'ti·a·tion (-ā'shŭn), n.

un·sub'tle (ŭn·sŭt'l), adj. Not subtle. — un·sub'tleness, n. — un·sub'tle·ty (-tĭ), n. — un·sub'tly (-sŭt'lĭ), adv.

un'suc·ceed'a·ble (ŭn'sŭk·sēd'ă·b'l), adj. Not able or likely to succeed. Rare.

un'suc·cess' (ŭn'sŭk·sĕs'), n. Want of success; failure.

un'suc·cess'ful (-fŏŏl), adj. Not successful; not producing the desired event; meeting with, or resulting in, failure. — un'suc·cess'ful·ly, adv. — un'suc·cess'ful·ness, n.

un'suc·ces'sive (-sĕs'ĭv), adj. Not successive; not following in order or in series. — un'suc·ces'sive·ly, adv. — un'suc·ces'sive·ness, n.

un·suf'fer·a·ble (ŭn·sŭf'ĕr·ă·b'l), adj. Intolerable. — un·suf'fer·a·ble·ness, n. — un·suf'fer·a·bly, adv.

un·suf'fered (-ĕrd), adj. a Not suffered. b Obs. Insufferable.

un'suf·fi'cient (ŭn'sŭ·fĭsh'ĕnt), adj. Insufficient — un'suf·fi'cience (-ĕns), n. — un'suf·fi'cien·cy (-ĕn·sĭ), n. — un'suf·fi'cient·ly, adv un·suit' (ŭn·sūt'), v. t. [1st un- + suit.] a Obs. To be unfit for. b To make unfit.

un·suit'a·ble (-ă·b'l), adj. Not suitable or fitting; unbecoming — un'suit·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'sūt·ă·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·suit'a·ble·ness, n. — un·suit'a·bly, adv.

un·sul'lied (ŭn·sŭl'ĭd), adj. Not sullied; as, a gown unsullied with the mud; an unsullied reputation. — un·sul'lied·ly, adv. — un·sul'lied·ness, n.

un·summed' (-sŭmd'; 66), adj. Uncounted; unnumbered.

un·sum'mered (ŭn·sŭm'ĕrd), adj. Deprived of, or wanting the character of, summer.

un·sung' (ŭn·sŭng'; 66), adj. Not sung; as: a Not rendered in song. b Not celebrated in song or verse; as, unsung heroes.

un·sunned' (-sŭnd'), adj. a Not exposed to sunlight; also, not sunstruck. b Not revealed to public knowledge; not disclosed.

un·su'per·a·ble (-sū'pĕr·ă·b'l), adj. Insuperable.

un'su·per·sti'tious (ŭn'sū·pĕr·stĭsh'ŭs), adj. Not superstitious.

un'su·per·vised' (-vīzd'), adj. Not supervised; not under constant inspection. — un'su·per·vis'ed·ly (-vīz'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adj.

un·supped' (ŭn·sŭpt'), adj. Supperless. Rare.

un'sup·plied' (ŭn'sŭ·plīd'), adj. Not supplied; as: a Not furnished; unprovided. b Of a want or lack, not satisfied; unfilled.

---

un·sure′ (ŭn·shŏŏr′; 66), adj. Not sure; as: a Not certain; doubtful; precarious. b Not safe; hazardous; dangerous. c Not reliable; untrustworthy. d Not strong; infirm; weak; as, he was still unsure on his feet. e Not confident; not assured.

un·sured′ (ŭn·shŏŏrd′), adj. Not made sure. Obs.

un·sure′ty (-shŏŏr′tĭ), n. Want of surety; uncertainty; insecurity. Obs.

un′sur·mised′ (ŭn′sûr·mīzd′), adj. Not surmised; unguessed.

un′sur·mount′a·ble (-moun′tȧ·b'l), adj. Insurmountable. — un′sur·mount′a·ble·ness, n. — -a·bly, adv.

un′sur·pass′a·ble (-sûr·pȧs′ȧ·b'l), adj. Not surpassable; not to be exceeded. — un′sur·pass′a·ble·ness, n. — un′sur·pass′a·bly, adv.

un′sur·passed′ (-pȧst′), adj. Not surpassed; hence, supremely good of its kind.

un′sus·cep′ti·ble (ŭn′sŭ·sĕp′tĭ·b'l), adj. Not susceptible; esp., not easily moved by emotion. — un′sus·cep′ti·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un′sus·cep′ti·ble·ness, n. — un′sus·cep′ti·bly, adv.

un′sus·pect′ (ŭn′sŭs·pĕkt′), adj. Unsuspected. Obs.

un′sus·pect′a·ble (-pĕk′tȧ·b'l), adj. Not to be suspected. — un′sus·pect′a·bly, adv.

un′sus·pect′ed (-pĕk′tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not suspected; as: a Not known to exist. b Not subject to suspicion; not regarded as suspicious. — un′sus·pect′ed·ly, adv. — un′sus·pect′ed·ness, n.

un′sus·pect′ing, adj. Not suspecting. — un′sus·pect′ing·ly, adv. — un′sus·pect′ing·ness, n.

un′sus·pi′cion (ŭn′sŭs·pĭsh′ŭn), n. Want of suspicion.

un′sus·pi′cious (-ŭs), adj. Not suspicious; unsuspecting. — un′sus·pi′cious·ly, adv. — un′sus·pi′cious·ness, n.

un·swad′dle (ŭn·swŏd′'l), v. t. [1st un- + swaddle.] To take a swaddle from; to unswathe.

un·swathe′ (ŭn·swāth′), v. t. [1st un- + swathe.] To take a swathe from; to relieve from a bandage.

un·swear′ (ŭn·swâr′), v. t. & i. [1st un- + swear.] To recant or recall (an oath), esp. by a second oath; to adjure.

un·sweat′ (ŭn·swĕt′), v. t. [1st un- + sweat.] To relieve from perspiration; to ease or cool after exercise or toil. Rare.

un·sweet′ (ŭn·swēt′), adj. [Cf. AS. unswēte.] Not sweet; as: a Not sweet to the taste. b Not soothing, pleasant, or agreeable. — un·sweet′ly, adv. — un·sweet′ness, n.

un·sweet′en (-'n), v. t. To render not sweet.

un·swell′ (ŭn·swĕl′), v. i. [1st un- + swell.] To subside.

un′syl·lab′ic (ŭn′sĭ·lăb′ĭk), adj. Nonsyllabic.

un′sym·met′ri·cal (ŭn′sĭ·mĕt′rĭ·kăl), adj. Also un′sym·met′ric (-rĭk). Wanting in symmetry; asymmetrical; not symmetrical. — un′sym·met′ri·cal·ly, adv. — un′sym·met′ri·cal·ness, n.

unsymmetrical carbon atom. An asymmetric carbon atom.

unsymmetrical relation. Logic & Math. A relation which is not symmetrical (see SYMMETRICAL, 5); a relation R such that if $a\ R\ b$ holds, it does not follow that $b\ R\ a$ will hold, though in a particular instance it may hold. As applied to relations, unsymmetrical is simply the negative of symmetrical; asymmetric is its opposite. Thus, "equal to" is symmetrical, because from $a = b$ it follows that $b = a$. "Is less than" is asymmetric, because from $a < b$ it follows that $b < a$ is false. "Is less than or equal to" is unsymmetrical, because from $a \leq b$, it does not follow that $b \leq a$. According to the best usage, unsymmetrical is restricted in application to relations which are neither symmetrical nor asymmetric, of which "is less than or equal to" is an example.

un·sym′me·try (ŭn·sĭm′ĕ·trĭ), n. Want of symmetry.

un′sym·pa·thet′ic (ŭn′sĭm·pȧ·thĕt′ĭk), adj. Not sympathetic; unresponsive. — -thet′i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

un·sym′pa·thy (ŭn·sĭm′pȧ·thĭ), n. Absence or lack of sympathy.

un′sys·tem·at′ic (ŭn′sĭs·tĕm·ăt′ĭk), adj. Not systematic; not characterized by systematic arrangement, method, etc. — un′sys·tem·at′i·cal, adj. — un′sys·tem·at′i·cal·ly, adv.

un·sys′tem·a·tized (ŭn·sĭs′tĕm·ȧ·tīzd), adj. Not systematized; not planned, ordered, or done according to a system. — un·sys′tem·a·tiz′ed·ly (-tīz′ĕd·lĭ; 119), adv.

un·tack′ (ŭn·tăk′), v. t. [1st un- + tack.] To separate (what is tacked) as by the withdrawal of tacks; hence, to disjoin; release.

un·tack′le (ŭn·tăk′'l), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To take the tackle from, as from a ship; to rid of tackling; to unharness.

un·tact′ful (ŭn·tăkt′fŏŏl; f'l), adj. Not tactful. — un·tact′ful·ly, adv. — un·tact′ful·ness, n.

un·taint′ed (ŭn·tān′tĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not tainted, or spoiled, spotted, sullied, or the like.
2. Not attainted; unattainted. Obs.
— un·taint′ed·ly, adv. — un·taint′ed·ness, n.

un·tal′ent·ed (ŭn·tăl′ĕn·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not talented; not endowed by nature with superior talent or talents.

un·talked′-of′ (ŭn·tôkt′ŏv′), adj. Not talked about; not mentioned.

un·tamed′ (ŭn·tāmd′), adj. Not tamed; unsubdued. — un·tamed′ly, adv. — un·tamed′ness, n.

un·tan′gi·ble (ŭn·tăn′jĭ·b'l), adj. Intangible. — un′tan·gi·bil′i·ty (ŭn′tăn·jĭ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·tan′gi·ble·ness, n. — un·tan′gi·bly, adv.

un·tan′gle (ŭn·tăng′g'l), v. t. [1st un- + tangle.] To loose from tangles or intricacy; to disentangle; fig., to resolve.

un·tap′ (ŭn·tăp′), v. t. To loose the tap of; hence, to draw off through the tap.

un·tap′pice (ŭn·tăp′ĭs), v. i. [1st un- + tappice, var. of tapis.] To come out of concealment. Obs.

un·tar′ (ŭn·tär′), v. t. To extract tar from; to take a covering of tar from.

un·taste′ (ŭn·tāst′), n. Want of taste.

un·taste′, v. t. [1st un- + taste.] To deprive of a taste.

un·taught′ (ŭn·tôt′; 66), adj. Not taught; as: a Uninstructed; ignorant. b Natural; naïve; spontaneous.

un·tax′ (ŭn·tăks′), v. t. To take a tax or taxes from; to remove from taxation.

un·teach′ (ŭn·tēch′), v. t. [1st un- + teach.] To cause to forget, to disbelieve, or to believe the opposite of (what one has been taught); to teach the contrary of (something specified or understood); — taking either the person or thing taught as object.

Experience will unteach us. Sir T. Browne.

un·teach′a·ble (-ȧ·b'l), adj. Not teachable. "Unteachable stupidity." Lord Balfour. — un·teach′a·ble·ness, n. — un·teach′a·bly, adv.

un·team′ (ŭn·tēm′), v. t. [1st un- + team.] To unyoke a team from. Rare.

un·tech′ni·cal (ŭn·tĕk′nĭ·kăl), adj. Not technical. — un·tech′ni·cal·ly, adv.

un·tech′ni·cal·ize (-īz), v. t. To make untechnical.

un·teem′ (ŭn·tēm′), v. t. [See 1st TEEM.] To discharge the contents of.

un·tell′ (ŭn·tĕl′), v. t. To render not, or as if not, told; to nullify the telling of.

un·tell′ing, adj. Innumerable; indescribable. Chiefly Scot.

un·tem′per (ŭn·tĕm′pĕr), v. t. [1st un- + temper.] To deprive of temper, or of the proper temper; to make soft.

un·tem′per·ance (-ȧns), n. Want of temperance. Obs.

un·tem′per·ate (-ĭt), adj. Not temperate. — un·tem′per·ate·ly, adv. — un·tem′per·ate·ness, n.

un·ten′a·ble (ŭn·tĕn′ȧ·b'l; -tē′nȧ-), adj. Not tenable. — un′ten·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′tĕn·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·ten′a·ble·ness, n. — un·ten′a·bly, adv.

un·ten′ant (-ănt), v. t. [1st un- + tenant.] To remove a tenant or tenants from; also, to leave; quit. Rare.

un·ten′ant·ed (-ăn·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not tenanted; not leased to or occupied by a tenant.

un·tend′ed (ŭn·tĕn′dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. Not tended or cared for.

un·ten′der (ŭn·tĕn′dĕr), adj. Not tender; as: a Ungentle; rough. b Tough. — un·ten′der·ly, adv. — -der·ness, n.

un·ten′i·ble (ŭn·tĕn′ĭ·b'l), adj. Untenable. — un·ten′i·ble·ness, n. — un·ten′i·bly, adv.

un·tent′ (ŭn·tĕnt′), v. t. [1st un- + tent.] To bring out of a tent. Rare.

un·tent′ed (ŭn·tĕn′tĕd; -tĭd), adj. [un- not + tented, past part. of tent to probe.] Not tented. See 5th TENT.

The untented woundings of a father's curse. Shak.

un·tent′ed, adj. Unheeded. Scot. & Arch.

un·tent′ed, adj. [un- + tent a covering.] Having no tent or tents, as a soldier or a field.

un·tent′y (ŭn·tĕn′tĭ), adj. [See UN- not; TENTY.] Inattentive; incautious. Scot.

Un′ter den Lin′den (ŏŏn′tĕr dĕn lĭn′dĕn). [G., under the lindens.] A broad avenue in Berlin about one mile long, extending from the Brandenburg Gate on the west to the palace of former Emperor William I, and famous for its stately and public buildings.

un·termed′ (ŭn·tûrmd′), adj. Unlimited. Obs.

un·ter′mi·na·ble (ŭn·tûr′mĭ·nȧ·b'l), adj. Interminable. — un·ter′mi·na·ble·ness, n. — un·ter′mi·na·bly, adv.

un·terred′ (ŭn·tûrd′), adj. Not interred. Obs.

‖Un′ter·see′boot′ (ŏŏn′tĕr·zā′bōt′), n. [G. See U-BOAT.] Submarine.

un·tes′tate (ŭn·tĕs′tāt), adj. Intestate. Obs.

un·teth′er (ŭn·tĕth′ĕr), v. t. To loose from a tether.

un·tewed′ (ŭn·tē′ŏŏd; -tūd′), adj. [See TEW to taw.] Uncombed; untrimmed. Chiefly Dial.

un·thank′ (ŭn·thăngk′), n. [AS. unthanc. See UN- not; THANK.] Ingratitude; displeasure; ill will. Obs.

un·thank′, v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To withdraw thanks given to. Obs.

un·thank′ful (ŭn·thăngk′fŏŏl), adj. [Cf. AS. unthancfull.] Not thankful; as: a Marked by ingratitude, or lack of courteous acknowledgment; unappreciated. b Not giving thanks; unappreciative. c Not of a nature to call for thanks, or gratitude; not agreeable or pleasant. — un·thank′ful·ly, adv. — un·thank′ful·ness, n.

un·thatch′ (ŭn·thăch′), v. t. To remove the thatching of; hence, to disclose; reveal.

un·thaw′ (ŭn·thô′), v. t. & i. To thaw, or thaw out.

un·then′de (ŏŏn·thăn′dĕ), adj. [un- not + old pres. part. (AS. thēonde) of thee to thrive.] Not thriving or prosperous; poor; miserable. Obs.

un·thewed′ (ŭn·thūd′), adj. Wrongly disposed; ill-behaved. Obs.

un·think′ (ŭn·thĭngk′), v. t. [1st un- + think.] To retract in the mind, as a thought; to change the mind about.

un·think′, v. t. To put out of mind; to erase thought of.

un·think′a·ble (ŭn·thĭngk′ȧ·b'l), adj. Not thinkable; not conceivable by the mind. — un′think·a·bil′i·ty (ŭn′thĭngk·ȧ·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·think′a·ble·ness, n. — un·think′a·bly, adv.

un·think′a·ble, n. Something unthinkable or inconceivable.

The realm of the disharmonic unthinkables. A. E. Wiggam.

un·think′er (ŭn·thĭngk′ĕr), n. [un- not + thinker.] A person who does not think. Rare.

un·think′ing, adj. 1. Not thinking; not heedful; thoughtless; inconsiderate; as, unthinking youth.
2. Not indicating thought or reflection; thoughtless.

With earnest eyes, and round unthinking face, Pope.

3. Not having the power of thought; as, instinctive, unthinking brutes.
Syn. — Heedless, casual. Ant. — Thoughtful, considerate — un·think′ing·ly, adv. — un·think′ing·ness, n.

un·thole′a·ble (ŭn·thōl′ȧ·b'l), adj. Intolerable. Scot. — un·thole′a·bly, adv. Scot.

un·thought′ (ŭn·thôt′), n. Want of thought.

un·thought′, adj. Not thought; not thought of; not expected.

un·thought′ed, adj. a Rare. Not thought of. b Dial. Thoughtless; ill-considered. — un·thought′ed·ly, adv. Dial.

un·thought′ful (ŭn·thôt′fŏŏl), adj. Not thoughtful; esp., thoughtless; ill-considered. — un·thought′ful·ly, adv. — un·thought′ful·ness, n.

un·thought′-of′ (ŭn·thôt′ŏv′), adj. Not thought of; not considered; not imagined; also, now less commonly, unthought-on; unremembered.

un·thought′-on′ (-ŏn′), adj. Not thoroughly considered or thought over; also, not called to mind; not remembered.

un·thrall′ (ŭn·thrôl′), v. t. To free from thralldom; to liberate.

un·thread′ (-thrĕd′), v. t. [1st un- + thread.] 1. To draw or take out a thread from, as a needle.
2. To deprive of ligaments; to loose the ligaments of.

He with his bare wand can unthread thy joints. Milton

3. To make one's way through; to traverse, as a trail.

un·thrid′den (ŭn·thrĭd′'n), adj. Also un·thrid′ (-thrĭd′), Unthreaded. Chiefly Dial.

un·thrift′ (ŭn·thrĭft′), n. a Extravagance; wastefulness; also, an extravagant person. b Obs. Worthlessness; folly.

un·thrift′ (66), adj. Unthrifty; lavish; extravagant.

un·thrift′i·head (ŭn·thrĭf′tĭ·hĕd), n. Unthriftiness. Obs.

un·thrift′i·hood (-hŏŏd), n. Unthriftiness. Rare.

un·thrift′y (ŭn·thrĭf′tĭ), adj.; UN·THRIFT′I·ER (-tĭ·ĕr); UN·THRIFT′I·EST. Not thrifty; as: a Profuse; extravagant; prodigal. b Now Rare. Profitless; foolish. c Not thriving or prospering. d Characterized by unthrift; wasting; ruinous; as, unthrifty destruction. e Profligate; wanton.
— un·thrift′i·ly (-tĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·thrift′i·ness (-tĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

un·thrive′ (ŭn·thrīv′), v. i. To be unsuccessful; to fail to thrive. Obs.

un·thriv′en (-thrĭv′ĕn), adj. Not thriving. Scot.

un·thriv′ing (-thrĭv′ĭng), adj. Not thriving. — un·thriv′ing·ly, adv. — un·thriv′ing·ness, n.

un·throne′ (ŭn·thrōn′), v. t. [1st un- + throne.] To remove from or as from a throne; to dethrone.

un·ti′dy (ŭn·tī′dĭ), adj.; UN·TI′DI·ER (-dĭ·ĕr); UN·TI′DI·EST.
1. Unseasonable; untimely; also, unfit; unsuited.

A long and untidy story about a dinner party. Stephen McKenna.

2. Not tidy or neat; careless; slovenly.
— un·ti′di·ly (-dĭ·lĭ), adv. — un·ti′di·ness (-dĭ·nĕs), n.

un·ti′dy, v. t. To disarrange; disorder.

un·tie′ (ŭn·tī′), v. [AS. untīgan. See 1st UN-; TIE, v.] Transitive: 1. To loosen, as something interlaced or knotted; as, to untie a knot; to disengage the parts of.
2. To free from fastening or restraint; to let loose; unbind.

The evils of an untied tongue. Jer. Taylor.

3. To resolve; to unfold; to clear.
—, Intransitive: To become untied or loosed.

un·tied′ (-tīd′; 66), adj. Not tied; hence, figuratively, unrestrained; dissolute.

un·tight′ (ŭn·tīt′), adj. Not tight; loose, leaky, or the like. — un·tight′ness, n.

un·tight′en (-'n), v. t.; -ENED (-'nd); -EN·ING. [1st un- + tighten.] To make less tight; to loosen.

un·til′ (ŭn·tĭl′; ŭn-), prep. [ME. until, until, fr. un- (as in unto) + til till; cf. Dan. indtil, Sw. intill. See UNTO; TILL, prep.] 1. Obs. exc. Scot. & N. of Eng. a = TILL, 1 a, b, c. b Close against.
2. During the whole time before; up to the time of, implying cessation or reversal at that time; as, to remain until evening or the end of the month. Cf. TILL, 2.
☞ In ordinary use, as well as in contracts and other legal documents, the question as to whether until is inclusive or exclusive of the date mentioned generally depends upon un′sup·port′a·ble, adj. Insupportable. — un′sup·port′a·ble·ness, n. — un′sup·port′a·bly, adv.

---

un′sup·port′ed, adj., un′sup·port′ed·ly, adv., un′sup·port′ed·ness, n., un′sup·port′ing, adj., un′sup·pos′a·ble, adj., un′sup·posed′, adj., un′sup·pressed′, adj., un′sup·press′i·ble, adj., un′sup·press′i·bly, adv., un′sup·pu·rat′ed, adj., un′sup·pura′tive, adj., un′su·preme′, adj. See UN-, not.

un′sur·charge′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un′sur·charged′, adj., un·sur′faced, adj., un·sur′feit·ed, adj., un·sur′feit·ing, adj., un·sur′gi·cal, adj., un·surg′ing, adj., un′sur·mis′ing, adj., un′sur·mount′ed, adj., un·sur′named′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·sur′plice, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·sur′pliced, adj., un′sur·prised′, adj., un′sur·pris′ing, adj., un′sur·ren′dered, adj., un′sur·ren′der·ing, adj., un′sur·round′ed, adj., un′sur·vey′a·ble, adj., un′sur·veyed′, adj., un′sur·vived′, adj., un′sur·viv′ing, adj., un′sus·cep′tive, adj., un′sus·pect′ful, adj., un′sus·pect′fulness, n., un′sus·pect′i·ble, adj., un′sus·pec′tive, adj., un′sus·pend′ed, adj., un′sus·tain′a·ble, adj., un′sus·tained′, adj., un′sus·tain′ing, adj., un·su′tured, un·swabbed′, adj., un·swad′dled, adj., un·swad′dling, adj., un·swal′low·a·ble, adj., un·swal′lowed, adj., un·swan′like′, adj., un·sup′ped′, adj., un·swarm′ing, adj., un·swath′a·ble, adj., un·swathed′, adj., un·swath′ing, adj., un·sway′a·ble, adj., un·swayed′, adj., un·swayed′ness, n., un·sway′ing, adj., un·swear′ing, adj., un·sweat′ed, adj., un·sweat′ing, adj., un·Swed′ish, adj., un·sweet′a·ble, adj., un·sweet′ened, adj., un·sweet′ened·ness, n., un·swelled′, adj., un·swell′ing, adj., un·swel′tered, adj., un·swept′, adj., un·swerv′a·ble, adj., un·swerved′, adj., un·swerv′ing, adj., un·swerv′ing·ly, adv., un·swilled′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·swing′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·swin′gled, adj., un·Swiss′, adj., un·switched′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·swiv′el, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·swoll′en, adj., un·swoon′ing, adj., un·sworn′, adj., un·swung′, adj., un·syl′la·bled, adj., un′syl·lo·gis′ti·cal, adj., un′sym·bol′ic, adj., un′sym·bol′i·cal; adj., un′sym·bol′i·cal·ly, adv., un′sym·bol′i·cal·ness, n., un·sym′bolized, adj., un·sym′me·trized, adj., un′sym·pa·thiz′a·bil′i·ty, n., un·sym′pa·thiz′a·ble, adj., un·sym′pa·thized, adj., un·sym′pa·thiz′ing, adj., un·sym′pa·thiz′ing·ly, adv., un′sympho′ni·ous, adj., un′symp·tom·at′ic, adj., un·syn′chro·nized, adj., un·syn′chro·nous, adj., un·syn′co·pat′ed, adj., un·syn′di·cat′ed, adj., un′syn·ried, adj., un′syn·on′y·mous, adj., un′syn·tac′ti·cal, adj., un′syn·thet′ic, adj., un·syr′inged, adj., un·sys′tem·iz′a·ble, adj., un·sys′tem·a·tiz′ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·tab′er·nac′led, adj., un·tab′bled, adj., un·tab′u·lat′ed, adj., un·tacked′, adj., un·tack′ing, adj., un·tack′led, adj., un·tagged′, adj., un·tailed′, adj., un·tai′lor·like′, adj., un·tai′lor·ly, adj. See UN-, not.

un·taint′, v. t., un·taint′a·ble, adj., un·taint′ing, adj., un·tak′a·ble, un·take′a·ble, adj., un·tak′a·ble·ness, un·take′a·ble·ness, n., un·tak′en, adj., un·tak′ing, adj., un·talk′a·tive, adj., un·talked′, adj., un·talk′ing, adj., un·tall′, adj., un·tal′lied, adj., un·tal′lowed, adj., un·tam′a·ble, un·tam′a·ble·ness, n., un·tame′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·tame′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·tame′ly, adv., un·tame′ness, n., un·tam′pered, adj., un·tangen′tial, adj., un·tan′gled, adj., un·tan′gling, adj., un·tanned′, adj., un·tan′ta·lized, adj., un·tan′ta·liz′ing, adj., un·taped′, adj., un·ta′pered, adj., un·ta′per·ing, adj., un·tap′es·tried, adj., un·tap′pa·ble, adj., un·tapped′, adj., un·tar′nish·a·ble, adj., un·tar′nished, adj., un·tarred′, adj., un·tar′ried, adj., un·tar′ry·ing, adj., un·tar′ta·rized, adj., un·tasked′, adj., un·tas′seled, adj., un·tast′a·ble, un·taste′a·ble, adj., un·tast′ed, adj., un·taste′ful, adj., un·taste′ful·ly, adv., un·taste′fulness, n., un·tast′ing, adj., un·tast′y, adj., un·tat′tered, adj., un·tat′tooed′, adj., un·taught′ness, n., un·taunt′ed, adj., un·taut′, adj., un·tau·to·log′i·cal, adj., un·tax′a·ble, adj., un·tawed′, adj., un·tax′a·ble, adj., un·taxed′, adj., un·tax′ing, adj., un·teach′er·like′, adj., un·teach′ing, adj., un·teamed′, adj., un·team′ing, adj., un·tear′a·ble, adj., un·teased′, adj., un·tea′sled, adj., un·ted′ded, adj., un·te′di·ous, adj., un·teem′ing, adj., un·teethed′, adj., un·tel′e·graphed, adj., un·tell′a·ble, adj., un·tell′a·bly, adv., un·tem·per·a·men′tal, adj., un·tem′pered, adj., un·tem′pering, adj., un·tem′pest·ed, adj., un·tem·pes′tu·ous, adj., un·tem′pled, adj., un·tem′po·ral, adj., un·tem′po·rar′y, adj., un·tem′po·riz′ing, adj., un·tempt′a·ble, adj., un·tempt′a·bil′i·ty, n., un·tempt′a·bly, adv., un·tempt′ed, adj., un·tempt′i·ble, adj., un·tempt′i·bly, adv., un·tempt′ing, adj., un·tempt′ing·ly, adv., un·tempt′ing·ness, n., un′te·na′cious, adj., un′te·nac′i·ty, n., un·ten′ant·a·ble, adj., un·ten′ant·a·ble·ness, n., un·ten′dered, adj., un·ten′der·ly, adv., un·ten′ta·tiv′e, adj., un·ten·tac′u·late, adj., un·ten′tered, adj., un·ter′mi·nat′ed, adj., un·ter′mi·nat′ing, adj., un·ter′raced, adj., un′ter·res′tri·al, adj., un·ter′ri·ble, adj., -ri·bly, adv., un·ter′ri·fi′a·ble, adj., un′ter·ri′fic, adj., un·ter′ri·fied, adj., un·ter′ri·fy′ing, adj., un·ter′ror·ized, adj., un·tes′sel·lat′ed, adj., un·test′a·ble, adj., un′tes·ta·ment′a·ry, adj., un·test′ed, adj., un·tes′ti·fy′ing, adj., un·teth′ered, adj., un·teth′ering, adj., un′·Teu·ton′ic, adj., un·tex′t·al, adj., un·thanked′, adj., un·thank′ing, adj., un·thatched′, adj., un·thawed′, adj., un·thaw′ing, adj., un′·the·at′ric, adj., un′·the·at′ri·cal, adj., un′the·at′ri·cal·ly, adv., un′the·is′tic, adj., un′the·mat′ic, adj., un′the·o·log′i·cal, adj., un′the·o·log′i·cal·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un′the·ol′o·gize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un′the·o·ret′ic, adj., un′the·o·ret′i·cal, adj., un′the·o·riz′a·ble, adj., un′ther·a·peu′ti·cal, adj., un·Thes′pi·an, adj., un·thick′, adj. See UN-, not.

un·thick′en, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un·thick′ened, adj., un·thiev′ish, adj., un·thinned′, adj., un·thin′ning, adj., un·thirst′ing, adj., un·thirst′y, adj. See UN-, not un·this′tle, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·thorn′, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·thorn′y, adj., un·thor′ough, adj., un·thought′like′, adj., un·thralled′, adj., un·thrashed′, adj., un·thread′a·ble, adj., un·thread′ed, adj., un·thread′ing, adj., un·threat′ened, adj., un·threat′en·ing, adj., un·threshed′, adj., un·thrift′like′, adj., un·thrilled′, adj., un·thrill′ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·throb′, v. i. See 1st UN-.

un·throned′, un·throng·ed′, adj., un·thron′ging, adj., un·throt′tled, adj., un·throw′a·ble, adj., un·thrown′, adj., un·thrush′like′, adj., un·thrust′, adj., un·thumbed′, adj., un·thumped′, adj., un·thun′dered, adj., un·thwacked′, adj., un·thwart′ed, adj., un·ti·ar′sed, adj., un·tick′et·ed, adj., un·tick′led, adj., un·tid′al, adj. See UN-, not.

the connection or circumstances in which the word is used. The weight of judicial decisions is that until is prima facie exclusive (111 N. Y. 621; 120 Mass. 94; 66 Kan. 512; 10 Neb. 524; 64 Vt. 566; 44 Fed. 369; 119 Ind. 72; 82 Ind. 498).
3. At any time before; — after a negative expression, implying performance or occurrence at the time mentioned; as, not available until tomorrow or until after the harvest. Cf. TILL, 3.

un·til' (ŭn·tĭl'; ŭn-), conj. 1. Up to the time that or when; till such time as; — formerly often followed by that.

Sorely she wept until the night came on. Keats.

2. After negatives, hardly, etc.: before the time that; — formerly often followed by that; also, Now Dial., when; to the time when.

Her loveliness I never knew Until she smiled on me. H. Coleridge.

3. To the point or degree that; so long or so far that; as, he struggled until he loosed the knot; also, Obs., that as a result.

un·tile' (ŭn·tīl'), v. t. [1st un- + tile.] To take the tiles from.

un·tiled' (-tĭld'; 66), adj. Not supplied with tiles.

un·time' (ŭn·tīm'), n. [AS. untīma. See UN- not; TIME.] An unseasonable time. Obs.

un·time'less (-lĕs; -lĭs), adj. Untimely. Obs.

un·time'ly (ŭn·tīm'lĭ), adj.; UN·TIME'LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); UN·TIME'LI·EST. Not timely; as: a Done or happening at an unnatural, unusual, or improper, time; unseasonable; inopportune; as, untimely frosts; untimely remarks; an untimely death. b Esp., premature; occurring unexpectedly early. c Not observing the due or proper time, season, or occasion. — un·time'li·ness, n.

During the performance of music when unkimely people come in or go out. Owen Wister.

un·time'ly, adv. Out of the natural or usual time; inopportunely; prematurely; unseasonably.

un·time'ous (ŭn·tīm'ŭs), adj. Also un·tim'ous. Untimely. — un·time'ous·ly, adv. Both Chiefly Scot.

un·tin' (ŭn·tĭn'), v. t. To deprive of tin; to remove tin from.

un·tinct' (ŭn·tĭngkt'), adj. Untinged. Poetic.

un·tine' (ŭn·tīn'), v. t. [AS. untīynan.] To unfasten; open. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

un·tire' (ŭn·tīr'), v. t. [See 5th TIRE.] To undress. Obs.

un·tire', v. i. [See 1st TIRE.] To rest; refresh.

un–Ti'taned (ŭn·tī'tănd; 91), adj. Sunless. Obs.

un·ti'tled (ŭn·tī'tl'd), adj. 1. Not titled; having no title, or appellation of dignity or distinction.
2 Being without title or right; not entitled.
3. Not designated or nominated; not named.

un'to (ŭn'tōō; -tōō; 71), prep. Archaic & Poetic. [ME. unto, fr. un- (only in unto, until) unto, as far as + to to; this un- is akin to AS. ōth until OFris. und, OS. und until, conj. (cf. OS. untō unto, OHG. unzi), Goth. und unto, until. See TO; cf. UNTIL.] The compound unto, formed on the analogy of until and commonly current from the beginning of the 14th century to the 18th, expresses not only the primary relation of to, the relation of direction and destination of movement, but also the various relations of tendency and concern taken over by to from the old dative case. Thus unto connects verbs with their remoter objects and verbs and adjectives with substantives limiting their application and otherwise coincides, in archaic and poetic style, with to in signification and use except that unto does not introduce infinitives (compare for fuller definitions the corresponding senses of to). Its uses are: 1. Indicating the direction of movement reaching its object or of approach, inclination, or tendency, in respect of an unreached object.

Day by day unto this school hath gone. Wordsworth.
I lift up my hand unto the Lord. Coverdale.

2. Indicating the limit of juxtaposition, contact, union, or attendance; as, to press thee unto my fond bosom; his hands bound fast unto the jailer's.
3. Indicating aim, purpose, or destiny; as, he went unto his prayers; sent unto their assistance; doomed unto perdition.
4. Indicating result or attainment or consequent condition; as, to provoke him unto ire; to have him unto our king.

To destroy and bring us unto nought. Draylon.

5. Indicating the possessor or that which receives addition, appendage, or attribution, or is attended in harmony; as, cousin unto the king; singing unto a harp.

I should have given him tears unto entreaties. Shak.

6. Indicating that which receives what is offered in reverence or honor; as, unto the unknown god.
7. Indicating that which serves as a standard or unit of comparison, accordance, fitness, equality, inclusion, or the contrary. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Matt. 6. 34.

And unto this he frames his song. Wordsworth.

8. Indicating the end of an interval of time or continuance; as, he served our Lady unto his life's end.
9. Indicating a limit in amount, extent, or degree, or a margin of precision; as, even unto the one half of my kingdom.

My throte is cut unto my neckke bone. Chaucer.

10. Indicating that in respect of which there is response or responsive action; as, to yield unto their prayers; forced to comply unto the match.
11. Indicating the mode or object of application of activity; as, spread unto light of the stars.

And I am prest unto it. Shak.

Removal by the stress of ax I . . . lay unto thy root. Browning.

12. Indicating reference, concern, or interest; as, dead unto sin. "That I might live unto God." Gal. 2. 19.
13. Indicating the person affected by benefit, favor, trust, or their opposites, or by conduct, show of feeling, attestation, seeming, and the like; as, she hath borne unto me three sons; he took unto himself a village maid.

Unto the pure all things are pure. Titus i. 15.

14. Indicating range of percipience; as, known unto few.

un'to (ŭn'tōō; -tōō), conj. = UNTIL. Obs.

un·tog'gle (ŭn·tŏg'l), v. t. To unfasten, or loose, by removing a toggle from its loop. — un·tog'gler (-lĕr), n.

un·toiled' (ŭn·toild'), adj. Not toiled; as: a Rare. Unworked; not tilled or cultivated. b Obtained or accomplished without toil; unlabored.

un·told' (ŭn·tōld', 66), adj. 1. Not told; as: a Not related or recounted; not revealed; as, untold secrets. b Uninformed.
2. Not numbered or counted; hence, too great for computation; vast; as, untold wealth.
Syn. — Unrevealed, unrelated; incalculable, boundless, immeasurable.

un·tol'er·a·ble (ŭn·tŏl'ĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Intolerable. — un·tol'er·a·ble·ness, n. — un·tol'er·a·bly, adv.

un·tol'er·at'ed (-ăt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not tolerated or endured.

un·tolled' (ŭn·tōld'), adj. Not having paid the toll, or tax. Obs.

un·tomb' (ŭn·tōōm'), v. t. [1st un- + tomb.] To take from the tomb; to exhume; to disinter.

un'to·nal'i·ty (ŭn'tō·năl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Want of tonality. Rare.

un·tone' (ŭn·tōn'), v. t. To put out of tone.

un·tongue' (ŭn·tŭng'), v. t. [1st un- + tongue.] To deprive of a tongue or of voice. Obs.

un·tooth' (ŭn·tōōth'), v. t. To take out the teeth of.

un·top' (ŭn·tŏp'), v. t. To remove the top from; hence, to reveal.

un·topped' (-tŏpt'), adj. Not topped; as: a Not having the top removed. b Not excelled; not exceeded.

un·touch' (ŭn·tŭch'), v. t. To leave untouched.

un'touch·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'tŭch·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Quality or state of being untouchable.
2. Hinduism. The defiling quality of very low-caste persons or non-Hindus from the point of view of a strict Hindu of high caste, esp. of Brahmans.

un·touch'a·ble (ŭn·tŭch'ȧ·b'l), adj. That cannot be touched; as: a Beyond the reach; out of reach. b Not tangible; intangible; immaterial. c Forbidden to the touch; as, untouchable treasures in a museum. d Of a character not inviting handling; as, untouchable lepers. — un·touch'a·ble·ness, n. — un·touch'a·bly, adv.

un·touch'a·ble, n. One who or that which is untouchable; specif., in India, an outcast, one of the lowest classes, whose touch is a defilement to members of the higher castes, especially to Brahmans.

un·touched' (ŭn·tŭcht'; 66), adj. Not touched (in various senses). — un·touched'ness, n.

un·to'ward (ŭn·tō'ĕrd; -tōrd'; 181: see TOWARD, prep.), adj. [un- not + toward.] 1. Froward; perverse; difficult to guide, manage, or influence.

Save yourselves from this untoward generation. Acts ii. 40.

2. Awkward; ungraceful. "Untoward manner." Swift.
3. Inconvenient; troublesome; vexatious; unlucky; unfortunate; as, an untoward wind or accident.

Anything untoward was now sedulously kept from James. Galsworthy.

4. Indecorous; not in accord with propriety; improper; as, untoward behavior.
— un·to'ward·ly, adv. — un·to'ward·ness, n.

un·to'ward·ly (-lĭ), adj. Not towardly; unbecoming; perverse; awkward; unfavorable. — un·to'ward·li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

un·town' (ŭn·toun'), v. t. To disestablish as a town.

un·trace' (ŭn·trās'), v. t. To loose from a trace or traces.

un·trace'a·ble (-ȧ·b'l), adj. Not traceable. — un·trace'a·ble·ness, n. — un·trace'a·bly, adv.

un·trac'ta·ble (ŭn·trăk'tȧ·b'l), adj. Not tractable. — un'·trac·ta·bil'i·ty (ŭn'trăk·tȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·trac'ta·ble·ness, n. — un·trac'ta·bly, adv.

un·tract'ed (ŭn·trăk'tĕd; -tĭd), adj. Untracked. Obs.

un·trad'ed (ŭn·trād'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Not dealt with in trade; not visited for purposes of trade. Obs.
2. Unpracticed; inexperienced. Obs.
3. Not traded in or bartered; hence, formerly, not hackneyed; unusual; not common.

un·trained' (ŭn·trānd'; 66), adj. 1. Not trained; as, an untrained ivy climbing the wall; an untrained runner in a race; an untrained gown.
2. Specif., Mil., not having undergone a course of military training; as, untrained troops.
3. Not trainable; indocile. Obs.
— un·train'ed·ly (-trān'ĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·train'ed·ness, n.

un·tram'meled, un·tram'melled (ŭn·trăm'ĕld), adj. Not trammeled, bound, or fettered; hence, figuratively, free; unlimited. — un·tram'meled·ness, un·tram'melled·ness, n.

un·trance' (ŭn·trȧns'; 83), v. t. To rouse from a trance.

un·tran'quil·lize (ŭn·trăng'kwĭl·īz), v. t. To make untranquil; to disturb the quiet of.

un'trans·lat'a·ble (ŭn'trȧns·lāt'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not translatable. — un'trans·lat'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un'trans·lat'a·ble·ness, n. — un'trans·lat'a·bly, adv.

un'trans·par'ent (-pär'ĕnt), adj. Opaque.

un·trav'eled, un·trav'elled (ŭn·trăv'ĕld), adj. 1. Not traveled; not trodden by passengers; as, an untraveled forest.
2. Not having traveled, esp. in foreign countries; not having gained breadth of view or culture by travel.

un·tread' (ŭn·trĕd'), v. t. [1st un- + tread.] To tread back; to retrace.

un·treas'ure (ŭn·trĕzh'ĕr), v. t. [1st un- + treasure.]
1. To bring forth or exhibit, as treasures. "He untreasured, as by rote, the stores of his memory." J. Milford.
2. To rob or deprive of a treasure. Rare.

un·treat'a·ble (ŭn·trēt'ȧ·b'l), adj. Incapable of being treated; specif., not practicable. — un·treat'a·ble·ness, n. — un·treat'a·bly, adv.

un·treat'a·ble, adj. Inexorable; intractable. Obs.

un·trenched' (ŭn·trĕncht'; 105), adj. a Not trenched. b Obs. Intact.

un·trend' (ŭn·trĕnd'), v. t. [1st un- + trend to turn.] To unroll. — adj. Not rolled up. Obs.

un·tressed' (ŭn·trĕst'; 66), adj. Not tied up in tresses, as the hair.

un·tried' (ŭn·trīd'; 66), adj. 1. Not tried; as: a Not tested, as by experience; not proved by actual trial. b Not tried in court; as, an untried case.
2. Not noted or examined. Obs.

untried horse. Horse Racing. A horse whose get are maidens.

un·trim' (ŭn·trĭm'), v. t. To strip of trimming; to put in disorder.

un·trimmed' (-trĭmd'; 66), adj. Not trimmed. — un·trimmed'ness, n.

un·tripe' (ŭn·trīp'), v. t. To disembowel.

un·trist' (ŭn·trĭst'), adj. Untrusty. Obs.

un·tri'umph·a·ble (ŭn·trī'ŭm·fȧ·b'l), adj. Admitting no triumph. Obs.

un·tri'umphed (-ŭmft), adj. 1. Not having triumphed.
2. Not triumphed over. Obs.

un·trod' (ŭn·trŏd'), adj. Also un·trod'den (-'n). Not trod; untraversed. — un·trod'den·ness, n.

un·troth' (ŭn·trŏth'; -trōth'; 185), n. Untruth. Obs.

un·trou'ble (ŭn·trŭb'l), v. t. To free from trouble.

un·trou'bled (-'ld), adj. Not troubled. — un·trou'bled·ly, adv. — un·trou'bled·ness, n.

un·trow'a·ble (ŭn·trō'ȧ·b'l), adj. Incredible. Obs.

un·trowed' (ŭn·trōd'), adj. [See UN- not; TROW.] Unbelieved. Archaic.

un·truced' (ŭn·trōōst'), adj. Without truce. Obs.

un·true' (ŭn·trōō'; 66), adj. [AS. untrēowe.] Not true; as: a False; contrary to fact. b Not accordant with a standard of correctness; as, an untrue note in singing. c Not true to one's obligation; not faithful; disloyal. d Not honest; wrong. — un·true'ness, n. — un·tru'ly (-trōō'lĭ), adv.

un·true', adv. Untruly.

untrue wool. Wool fiber in which the diameter varies in thickness, as from poor feeding or sickness.

un·tru'ism (ŭn·trōō'ĭz'm), n. Something obviously not true. Cf. TRUISM.

un·trunked' (ŭn·trŭngkt'), adj. [1st un- + trunk.] Separated from its trunk. Rare.

un·truss' (ŭn·trŭs'), v. t. [1st un- + truss.] 1. To loose from a truss, or as from a truss; to untie or unfasten; to let out; to undress; hence, rarely, to unload.
2. By extension: Obs. a To expose; reveal. b To take to pieces.

un·truss', n. = UNTRUSSER. Obs.

un·truss'er (-ĕr), n. One who untrusses; one who untrusses another in order to flog him.

un·trust' (ŭn·trŭst'), n. a Distrust. b Obs. Untrustworthiness.

un·trust'ful (-fŏŏl), adj. 1. Not trustful or trusting; distrustful.
2. Not to be trusted; not trusty; untrustworthy. Rare.

un·trust'wor·thy (ŭn·trŭst'wŭr·thĭ), adj. Not trustworthy. — un·trust'wor·thi·ly, adv. — un·trust'wor·thi·ness, n.

un·trust'y (ŭn·trŭs'tĭ), adj. Not trusty. — un·trust'i·ness, n.

un·truth' (ŭn·trōōth'), n. [AS. untrēowth.] 1. Quality of being untrue; falsehood; want of veracity; also, treachery; faithlessness; disloyalty.
2. That which is untrue; a false assertion; a falsehood; a lie; also, an act of treachery or disloyalty.
Syn. — See FALSITY. Ant. — Fact, truth.

un·truth'er (-ĕr), n. A teller of untruths.

un·truth'ful (-fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Not truthful; unveracious; not in accord with the truth or the fact. — un·truth'ful·ly, adv. — un·truth'ful·ness, n.

un·tuck' (ŭn·tŭk'), v. t. [1st un- + tuck.] To unfold or undo, as a tuck; to release from a tuck or fold.

un·tuck'ered (ŭn·tŭk'ĕrd), adj. Having no tucker on.

un·tune' (ŭn·tūn'), v. t. [1st un- + tune.] To put out of tune; to make incapable of harmony or harmonious action; hence, to disarrange; discompose.

un·turf' (ŭn·tŭrf'), v. t. To take the turf from.

un·turn' (ŭn·tŭrn'), v. t. [1st un- + turn.] To turn in a reverse way, esp. so as to open something, as a key.

un·tu'tored (ŭn·tū'tĕrd), adj. Not tutored; as: a Unlearned; not educated in schools or by an instructor. b Unsophisticated; naïve; artless. — un·tu'tored·ly, adv. — un·tu'tored·ness, n.
Syn. and Ant. — See IGNORANT.

un·twind' (ŭn·twīnd'), v. t. To untwine. Obs.

un·twine' (ŭn·twīn'), v. t. [1st un- + twine.] To undo (that which is twined); to disentangle; untie; unwind; as, to untwine the ties of custom. — v. i. To become untwined.

un·twirl' (ŭn·twŭrl'), v. t. To untwist; to undo.

---

un·till', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·till'a·ble, adj., un·tilled', adj., un·till'ing, adj. See UN-, not.
un·tilt', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·tilt'ed, adj., un·tilt'ing, adj., un·tim'bered, adj., un·timed', adj., un·tim'ed·ness, n., un·time'some, adj., un·tim'or·ous, adj., un·tinct'ured, adj., untinged' (-tĭnjd'), adj., un·tin'kered, adj., un·tinned', adj., un·tin'seled, adj., un·tint'ed, adj., un·tip'pa·ble, adj., un·tipped', adj., un·tip'pled, adj., un·tipt', adj., un·tir·a·bil'i·ty, n., un·tir'a·ble, adj., un·tired', adj., un·tir'ed·ly, adv., un·tir'ing, adj., un·tir'ing·ly, adv., un·tis'sued, adj., un·tith'a·bil'i·ty, n., un·tith'a·ble, adj., un·tithed', adj., un·tit'ter·ing, adj., un·tit'u·lar, adj., un·toad'y·ing, adj., un·toast'ed, adj., un·to'gaed, adj., un·toi'let·ed, adj., un·toil'ing, adj., un·tombed', adj., un·toned', adj., un·tongued', adj., un·tongue'·tied', adj., un·ton'sured, adj., un·tooled', adj., un·toothed', adj., un·tooth'some, adj., un·tooth'some·ness, n., un·top·o·graph'i·cal, adj., un·top'ping, adj., un·tor·ment'ed, adj., un·torn', adj., un·tor·pe'doed, adj., un·tor'pid, adj., un·tor'rid, adj., un·tor'tu·ous, adj. See UN-, not.
un·tor'ture, v. t. See 1st UN-. un·tor'tured, adj., un·tossed', adj., un·to'taled, un·to'talled, adj., un·to'ter·ing, adj., un·touch'ing, adj., un·tough', adj., un·toured', adj., un·tour'ist·ed, adj., un·tow'ered, adj., un·town'like', adj., un·traced', adj., un·trac'er·ied, adj., un·tracked', adj., untrac'ta·ble, adj., un·trac·tar'i·an, adj., un·trac'ti·ble, adj., un·trac'ti·ble·ness, n., un·trade'a·ble, adj., un·trades'man·like', adj., un·trad'ing, adj., un·tra·di'tion·al, adj., un'·tra·duced', adj., un·traf'fick·a·ble, adj., un·traf'ficked, adj., untrag'ic, un·trag'i·cal, adj., untrailed', adj. See UN-, not.
un·train', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·train'a·ble, adj., un·trai'tored, adj., un·trai'tor·ous, adj., un·trammed', adj. See UN-, not.
un·tramped', adj., un·tram'pled, adj., un·tran'quil, adj., un·tran'quil·ized, un·tran'quil·lized, adj., un·trans·act'ed, adj., un·tran·scend'ed, adj., un'·tran·scen·den'tal, adj., un'·tran·scrib'a·ble, adj., un·transcribed', adj., un·trans·fer'a·ble, adj., un·trans·ferred', adj., un·trans·fig'ured, adj., un'·trans·fixed', adj., un·transform'a·ble, adj., un·transform'ed, adj., un·trans·form'ing, adj., un·trans·fused', adj., un·trans·fus'i·ble, adj., un'·trans·gressed', adj., un·tran'sient, adj., un·tran·sit'a·ble, adj., un·tran·si·tive, adj., un·tran'si·to·ry, adj., un·trans·lat'ed, adj., un·trans·mi'grat·ed, adj., un·trans·mis'si·ble, adj., un'trans·mit'ted, adj., un'·trans·mut'a·ble, adj., un·transmut'ed, adj., un·trans·pas'a·ble, adj., un·tran·spired', adj., un·tran·spir'ing, adj., un·trans·plant'ed, adj., un·trans·port'a·ble, adj., un·trans·port'ed, adj., un·trans·posed', adj., un·trans·sub·stan'ti·at'ed, adj., un·trap'pa·ble, adj., un·trapped', adj., un·trashed', adj., un·trav'el·a·ble, un·trav'el·la·ble, adj., un·trav'el·ing, un·trav'el·ling, adj., un·trav'ers·a·ble, adj., un·trav'ersed, adj., un·trav'es·ted, adj., un·treach'er·ous, adj., un·tread'a·ble, adj., un·tread'ing, adj., un·trea'son·a·ble, adj., untreas'ured, adj., un·trea'ted, adj., un·treed', adj., untrekked', adj., un·trel'lised, adj., un·trem'bling, adj., un·trem'bling·ly, adv., un·tremen'dous, adj., un·trem'u·lous, adj., un'tre·panned', adj., un·tres'passed, adj., un·tres'pass·ing, adj. See UN-, not.
un·tress', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·tri'a·ble, adj., un·trib'al, adj., un·trib'u·tar'y, adj., untriced', adj., un·trick'a·ble, adj., un·tricked', adj., un·tri'fling, adj., un·trig', adj., un'trig·o·nom'e·tri·cal, adj. See UN-, not.
un·trill', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·trim'ma·ble, adj., un·trin·i·tar'i·an, adj., un·trip'pa·ble, adj., un·tripped', adj., un·trip'ping, adj., un·trite', adj., un·trit'u·rat'ed, adj., un'tri·um'phant, adj., un'tro·cha'ic, adj., un·trolled', adj., un·tro'phied, adj., un·trop'i·cal, adj., un·trot'ted, adj., un·trou'bla·ble, adj., un·trou'ble·some, adj., un·trou'ble·some·ness, n., un·trounced', adj., un·tru'ant, adj. See UN-, not.
un·truck', v. t. See 1st UN-. un·truck'led, adj., un·truck'ling, adj., un·trumped', adj., un·trum'pet·ed, adj., un·trump'ing, adj., un·trun'dled, adj., un·trussed', adj., un·truss'ing, adj., un·trust'a·bly, adj., un·trust'ed, un·trust'ing, adj., un·tubbed', adj., untucked', adj., un·tuck'ing, adj., un·Tu'dor, adj., un·tuft'ed, adj., un·tugged', adj., un·tum'bled, adj., un·tu'me·fied, adj., un·tu'mid, adj., un·tu·mul'tuous, adj., un·tun'a·ble, un·tune'a·ble, adj., un·tun'a·bly, un·tune'a·bly, adv., un·tun'able·ness, un·tune'a·ble·ness, n., un·tuned', adj., un·tune'ful, adj., un·tune'ful·ly, adv., un·tune'ful·ness, n., un·tun'ing, adj., un·tun'neled, adj., un·tupped', adj., un·tur'baned, adj., un·tur'bid, adj., un·tur'bu·lent, adj., un·turfed', adj., un·tur'gid, adj., un·Turk'ish, adj. See UN-, not.
un·turn'a·ble, adj., unturned', adj., un·turn'ing, adj., un·tur'pen·tined, adj., un·tur'ret·ed, adj., un·Tus'can, adj. See UN-, not.
un·tusked', adj., un·tu'te·lar, adj., un·twilled', adj., un·twin'a·ble, un·twine'a·ble, adj., untwined', adj., un·twin'ing, adj., un·twin'kling, adj., untwinned', adj., un·twirled', adj. See UN-, not.

un·twist' (ŭn·twĭst'), v. t. & i. [1st un- + twist.] To separate and open, as twisted threads; to turn back, as that which is twisted; to untwine; disentangle; free. — un·twist'er (-twĭs'tĕr), n.

un·twist', n. A twist in the reverse direction.

un·twit'ten (ŭn·twĭt'n; 66), adj. Not carped at. Obs.

untz (ōōnts), n. sing. & pl. [Sw. uns, fr. L. uncia. See OUNCE.] See WEIGHT, Table.

U·nuk' al Hay' (ū·nŭk' ăl hā' or hī'). [Ar. 'unq al ḥayyah the neck of the snake.] See STAR, Table.

un'u·nan'i·mous (ŭn'ū·năn'ĭ·mŭs), adj. Not unanimous. — un'u·na·nim'i·ty (ŭn'ū·nȧ·nĭm'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un'u·nan'i·mous·ly, adv.

un·u'ni·form (ŭn·ū'nĭ·fôrm), adj. Not uniform. — un'u·ni·form'i·ty (ŭn'ū·nĭ·fôr'mĭ·tĭ), n. — un·u'ni·form'ly, adv. — un·u'ni·form'ness, n.

un'u·nit'a·ble (ŭn'ū·nĭt'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not unitable. — un'u·nit'a·ble·ness, n. — un'u·nit'a·bly, adv.

un'u·nit'ed (-ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Disunited.

un'u·ni·ver'si·ty (ŭn'ū·nĭ·vûr'sĭ·tĭ), v. t. To deprive of status as a university.

un·up'right' (ŭn·ŭp'rīt'), adj. Not upright. — un·up'right'ly, adv. — un·up'right'ness, n.

un·ured' (-ūrd'), adj. Unused. Obs. — un·urn' (-ûrn'), v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·us'a·ble (ŭn·ūz'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not usable. — un·us'a·ble·ness, n. — un·us'a·bly, adv.

un·us'age (-ūs'ĭj; -ūz'ĭj), n. Want or lack of usage. Obs.

un·use' (ŭn·ūs'), n. A leaving unused.

un·used' (ŭn·ūzd'; 66), adj. 1. Not used; as, an unused room.

2. (see USED) Not habituated; unaccustomed.

> Unused to bend, impatient of control. Thomson.

3. Not usual; unwonted. Rare.

— un·us'ed·ness (ŭn·ūz'ĕd·nĕs; -Ĭd·nĭs), n.

un·u'su·al (ŭn·ū'zhōō·ăl), adj. Not usual; uncommon; rare; as, an unusual season; unusual learning. — un'u·su·al'i·ty (ŭn'ū·zhōō·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·u'su·al·ly, adv. — un·u'su·al·ness, n.

un·ut'ter·a·ble (ŭn·ŭt'ĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not utterable: a Not capable of being uttered; unpronounceable. b Inexpressible; ineffable; unspeakable; as, unutterable anguish. — un'ut·ter·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'ŭt·ĕr·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·ut'ter·a·ble·ness, n. — un·ut'ter·a·bly, adv.

un·ut'ter·a·ble, n. An unutterable or unmentionable thing.

un·ut'tered (ŭn·ŭt'ĕrd), adj. Not expressed in words.

un·vac'ci·nat'ed (ŭn·văk'sĭ·nāt'ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Not vaccinated. See VACCINATE, v. t.

un·val'id (ŭn·văl'ĭd), adj. Invalid. — un'va·lid'i·ty (ŭn'·vȧ·lĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·val'id·ly, adv. — un·val'id·ness, n.

un·val'u·a·ble (ŭn·văl'ū·ȧ·b'l), adj. 1. Invaluable. Obs.

2. Not valuable; specif., Philos., of negative value; having the quality of unvalue.

> Unvalues are indeed realities, but in their unvaluable form do not fit in with the world of empirical things generated within the whole space time and cannot therefore persist in the measure assigned empirically to their kind. S. Alexander.

— un·val'u·a·ble·ness, n. — un·val'u·a·bly, adv.

un·val'ue (-ū), n. 1. Want of value.

2. Philos. Negative value; the opposite of positive value; esp., ethical or aesthetic badness. See UNVALUABLE, adj., 2, Cit.

un·val'ue, v. t. To deprive of value. Rare.

un·val'ued (ŭn·văl'ūd), adj. 1. Not valued or appraised; also, not valued, or prized; hence, disregarded; as, an unvalued estate. "Unvalued persons." Shak.

2. Having inestimable value; invaluable. Obs.

unvalued policy. See POLICY.

un·var'i·a·ble (ŭn·vâr'ĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj. Invariable. — un·var'i·a·ble·ness, n. — un·var'i·a·bly, adv.

un·var'ied (-Ĭd), adj. Not varied; esp., not enlivened by changes; as, an unvaried existence. — un·var'ied·ly, adv.

un·var'nished (ŭn·vär'nĭsht), adj. Not varnished; hence, not embellished; as, the unvarnished truth. — un·var'nished·ly, adv. — un·var'nished·ness, n.

Syn. — Plain, unglossed, unembellished.

Ant. — Embellished.

un·var'y·ing (ŭn·vâr'ĭ·ĭng), adj. Not varying. — un·var'y·ing·ly, adv. — un·var'y·ing·ness, n.

un·vas'sal (ŭn·văs'ăl; -'l), v. t. To set free from vassalage.

un·veil' (ŭn·vāl'), v. t. [1st un- + veil.] To remove a veil from; to divest of a veil; to uncover; to disclose to view; to reveal; as, she unveiled her face. — v. i. To remove a veil; to reveal oneself. — un·veil'er (-ĕr), n. — un·veil'ment (-mĕnt), n.

un·veiled' (-vāld'; 66), adj. Not veiled. — un·veil'ed·ly (-vāl'ĕd·lĭ), adv. — un·veil'ed·ness, n.

un·venged' (ŭn·vĕnjd'), adj. Unavenged. Archaic.

un·ven'om (ŭn·vĕn'ŭm), v. t. To deprive of venom.

un·ven'ued (ŭn·vĕn'ūd), adj. [See UN- not; VENUE, n., 2.] Unhit in fencing.

un've·rac'i·ty (ŭn'vĕ·răs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Want of veracity.

un·ver'bal·ized (ŭn·vûr'băl·īzd), adj. Not named or expressed in words.

un·ver'i·fi'a·ble (ŭn·vĕr'ĭ·fī'ȧ·b'l), adj. Not verifiable. — un·ver'i·fi'a·ble·ness, n. — un·ver'i·fi'a·bly, adv.

un·ver'i·fied (-fīd), adj. Not verified. — un·ver'i·fi'ed·ness (-fī'ĕd·nĕs), n.

un·ver'i·ty (ŭn·vĕr'ĭ·tĭ), n. Want of verity.

un·versed' (ŭn·vûrst'; 66), adj. Not versed. — un·vers'ed·ly (-vûr'sĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·vers'ed·ness, n.

un·versed', adj. Unversified.

un·vest' (ŭn·vĕst'), v. t. To divest; take off or away.

un·vic'ar (ŭn·vĭk'ĕr), v. t. [1st un- + vicar.] To deprive of the position or office of a vicar. Rare.

un·vin'ci·ble (ŭn·vĭn'sĭ·b'l), adj. Also un·vince'a·ble. Invincible. Obs.

un'vin·dic'tive (ŭn'vĭn·dĭk'tĭv), adj. Not vindictive; not seeking revenge. — un'vin·dic'tive·ly, adv. — un'vin·dic'tive·ness, n.

un·vi'o·late (ŭn·vī'ō·lāt), adj. Inviolate. Obs.

un·vir'gin (ŭn·vûr'jĭn), v. t. To divest of virginity; to deflower.

un'vi·ril'i·ty (ŭn'vĭ·rĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Want of virility.

un·vir'tue (ŭn·vûr'tū), n. Want of virtue.

un·vir'tu·ous (ŭn·vûr'tū·ŭs), adj. Not virtuous. — un·vir'tu·ous·ly, adv. — un·vir'tu·ous·ness, n.

un·vis'i·ble (ŭn·vĭz'ĭ·b'l), adj. Invisible. — un·vis'i·ble·ness, n. — un·vis'i·bly, adv.

un·vis'or (ŭn·vĭz'ĕr; -vī'zĕr), v. t. To remove a visor from.

un·vi'ti·at'ed (ŭn·vĭsh'ĭ·āt'ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Not vitiated. — un·vi'ti·at'ed·ly, adv. — un·vi'ti·at'ed·ness, n.

un·viz'ard (ŭn·vĭz'ĕrd), v. t. [1st un- + vizard.] To unvisor.

un·vo'cal (ŭn·vō'kăl), adj. Not vocal; esp., not given to expressing one's emotions in language.

un·voice' (ŭn·vois'), v. t. [1st un- + voice.] To deprive of voice or of vocal tone; to utter without voice; to pronounce as surd instead of sonant. — v. i. To lose voice or vocal tone; to become voiceless; — said of voiced sounds.

un·voiced' (-voist'; 66), adj. 1. Not voiced or expressed; as, her unvoiced sympathy; without voice; as, a nonspeaking pipe in a pipe organ is said to be unvoiced.

2. Phonet. Devocalized, or changed from voiced to voiceless; as, z unvoiced becomes s; changed from normally voiced to voiceless; as, English r is partly unvoiced in tree; not voiced, voiceless; as, sh is an unvoiced sound. See Pron., § 41.

un·voic'ing (-vois'ĭng), n. Phonet. Devocalization, as of the z sound in these to the s sound in this.

un·vol'un·tar'y (ŭn·vŏl'ŭn·tĕr'ĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Involuntary. — un·vol'un·tar'i·ly, adv. — un·vol'un·tar'i·ness, n.

un·vote' (ŭn·vōt'), v. t. & i. [1st un- + vote.] To reverse or annul by vote, as something previously voted; also, to deprive of a vote, or of the suffrage.

un·vouched' (ŭn·voucht'; 66), adj. Not vouched. — un·vouch'ed·ly (-vouch'ĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·vouch'ed·ness, n.

un·vow'eled, un·vow'elled (ŭn·vou'ĕld), adj. Having no vowel sounds or signs.

un·vul'gar·ize (-vŭl'gĕr·īz), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To divest of vulgarity; to make not vulgar.

un·waged' (ŭn·wājd'; 66), adj. Without wages; unpaid. Obs.

un·waged', adj. Not waged, or fought.

un·walk'a·ble (ŭn·wôk'ȧ·b'l), adj. Unfit for walking. Rare.

un·walk'ing, adj. Not given to walking. Rare.

un·wal'let (ŭn·wŏl'ĕt; -Ĭt), v. t. To remove from a wallet.

un·wal'lowed (ŭn·wăl'ŭd; -wŏl'ŭd), adj. Unfaded. Scot.

un·wan' (ōōn·wän'), n. [Ar. (& Per.) 'unwān heading.] The title of a book or of a chapter, in Oriental books often gilded and highly ornamented; title page; frontispiece.

un·wan'dered (ŭn·wŏn'dĕrd), adj. Untraveled.

un·wap'pered (ŭn·wŏp'ĕrd), adj. Not made tremulous. Obs.

un·ward'ed (ŭn·wôr'dĕd), adj. Not warded; unguarded. Obs.

un·ware' (ŭn·wâr'), adj. [AS. unwer unwary. Cf. UNWARY.] Archaic. 1. Unaware or unwary; unsuspicious.

2. Happening unexpectedly; unforeseen; unknown.

— un·ware'ly, adv. — un·ware'ness, n.

un·ware', adv. Unawares.

un·wares' (ŭn·wârz'), adv. Unexpectedly. Archaic. — adj. Unexpected. Obs.

un·war'like' (ŭn·wôr'lĭk'), adj. Not warlike; peaceful. — un·war'like'ness, n.

un·warm' (ŭn·wôrm'), v. t. & i. [See 1st UN-.] To deprive of or to lose warmth; to cool.

un·warned' (ŭn·wôrnd'; 66), adj. [AS. unwarnod.] Not warned; receiving no warning. — adv. Without announcement. Obs. — un·warn'ed·ly (-wôr'nĕd·lĭ; 119), adv. — un·warn'ed·ness, n.

un·warn'ing (-wôr'nĭng), n. Lack of warning or announcement. Obs. — adj. Giving no warning.

un·war'nished (ŭn·wôr'nĭsht), adj. [un- not + past part. of ME. warnischen to furnish, fr. OF. warnir, var. of garnir, to furnish, warn. See GARNISH.] Unfurnished. Obs.

un·warp' (ŭn·wôrp'), v. t. [1st un- + warp.] To restore from a warped state.

un·war'rant (ŭn·wŏr'ănt), v. t. Not to warrant; to disallow. Rare.

un·war'rant·a·ble (-ăn·tȧ·b'l), adj. Not warrantable; indefensible; not justifiable. — un'war·rant·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'·wŏr·ăn·tȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·war'rant·a·ble·ness, n. — un·war'rant·a·bly, adv.

un·war'rant·ed (-tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Not warranted; being without warrant, authority, or guaranty. — un·war'rant·ed·ly, adv. — un·war'rant·ed·ness, n.

un·war'rayed (-wŏr'ăd), adj. [OF. werreier, var. of guerreier to make war, to attack (F. guerroyer).] Not attacked. Obs.

un·warred' (ŭn·wôrd'), adj. Free from war. Obs.

un·war'ren (ŭn·wŏr'ĕn), v. t. To divest of status as a warren. Obs.

un·war'y (ŭn·wâr'ĭ; 79), adj. [Cf. UNWARE. See UN- not; WARY.] 1. Not vigilant against danger; not wary or cautious; unguarded; precipitate; heedless; careless.

2. Unexpected. Obs. Spenser.

— un·war'i·ly, adv. — un·war'i·ness, n.

un·washed' (ŭn·wŏsht'; 66), adj. Not washed; esp., of persons, not having bathed, or not accustomed to bathing. — the great unwashed. See GREAT UNWASHED.

unwashed wool. Raw, untreated wool, containing the grease, dirt, etc.

un·wash'en (ŭn·wŏsh'ĕn), adj. Not washed. Archaic.

un·wa'ter (ŭn·wô'tĕr; -wŏt'ĕr), v. t. [1st un- + water.] To drain the water from; specif., Mining, to free from water by draining, pumping, or hoisting.

un·wa'tered (-wô'tĕrd; -wŏt'ĕrd), adj. Not watered; as: a Not supplied with water; as, an unwatered desert; not sprinkled with water; as, an unwatered lawn. b Not diluted with water, as alcohol. c Of fabrics, not calendered to give a wavy appearance. d Finance. Of security issues, not put out in amounts far exceeding the value of the property or business.

un·wa'ver·ing (ŭn·wā'vĕr·ĭng), adj. Not wavering; as: a Not trembling; not flickering. b Not yielding; steadfast; firm; as, unwavering allegiance. — un·wa'ver·ing·ly, adv.

un·wax' (ŭn·wăks'), v. i. To become less; to wane.

un·wax', v. t. To take the wax from.

un·wayed' (ŭn·wād'), adj. Obs. a Having no roads; pathless. b Unaccustomed to roads; hence, restive.

un·weal' (ŭn·wēl'), n. [Cf. AS. wel, adv., well, wela weal, prosperity.] Evil; hardship. Rare.

un·weal'some·ness (-sŭm·nĕs; -nĭs), n. [See UN- not; WELL, adv.; -SOME; -NESS.] Ill success; wretchedness. R. un·weaned' (ŭn·wēnd'; 66), adj. Not weaned; hence, very immature.

un·weap'on (ŭn·wĕp'ŭn), v. t. To take away the weapon or weapons of; to unarm.

un·wea'ri·a·ble (ŭn·wē'rĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj. Not weariable. — un'wea·ri·a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'wē·rĭ·ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — un·wea'ri·a·ble·ness, n. — un·wea'ri·a·bly, adv.

un·wea'ried (ŭn·wē'rĭd), adj. Not wearied; hence, indefatigable. — un·wea'ried·ly, adv. — un·wea'ried·ness, n.

un·wea'ry (ŭn·wē'rĭ), v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To relieve of weariness. Obs.

un·wea'ry, adj. [AS. unwērig.] Not weary. — un·wea'ri·ly, adv. — un·wea'ri·ness, n.

un·wea'ry·ing, adj. Not wearying; not tiring; as, unwearying in good works. — un·wea'ry·ing·ly, adv.

un·weath'ered (ŭn·wĕth'ĕrd), adj. Not weathered; not changed by exposure to air or weather, as rock dust.

un·weave' (ŭn·wēv'), v. t. To unfold; undo; ravel, as what has been woven; hence, to explain something perplexing or complicated. — v. i. To be or become unwoven.

un·web' (ŭn·wĕb'), v. t. To unravel the web of. Rare.

un·wed' (ŭn·wĕd'), un·wed'ded (-ĕd; -Ĭd), adj. Not wedded. — un·wed'ded·ly, adv. — un·wed'ded·ness, n.

un·wedge'a·ble (ŭn·wĕj'ȧ·b'l), adj. a Not to be split with wedges. b Not to be moved by wedges.

> Bacon lacked the unwedgeable and gnarled strength of the dramatist. Saintsbury.

un·weel' (ŭn·wēl'), adj. Unwell; ailing. — un·weel'ness, n. Both Scot.

un·weet'ing (ŭn·wēt'ĭng), adj. [See UN- not; WEET, WIT.] Unwitting. — un·weet'ing·ly, adv. Both Archaic.

un·weft' (ŭn·wĕft'), adj. Unwoven.

un·wel'come (ŭn·wĕl'kŭm), n. Want of welcome.

un·wel'come, v. t. To greet uncordially. Rare.

un·wel'come, adj. Not welcome. — un·wel'come·ly, adv. — un·wel'come·ness, n.

un·welde' (ŭn·wĕld'), adj. Unwieldy. Obs.

un·well' (ŭn·wĕl'; 66), adj. 1. Not well; indisposed; not in good health; somewhat ill; ailing.

2. Specif., ill from menstruation; menstruant.

3. Evil; wicked. Obs.

— un·well'ness, n.

un·welth' (ŭn·wĕlth'), n. [See UN- not; WEALTH.] Impotency; misfortune. Obs.

un·wemmed' (ŭn·wĕmd'), adj. [AS.] Not blemished. Archaic.

un·whet'ted (-hwĕt'ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Not whetted.

un·whig' (ŭn·hwĭg'), v. t. To take away the Whiggish character, policies or beliefs, of.

---

un·twirl'ing, adj., un·twist'ed, adj., un·twist'ing, adj., un·twitched', adj., un·ty'ing, adj., See UN-, NOT.

un·typ'i·cal, adj., un·typ'i·cally, adv., un·ty·ran'nic, un·tyran'ni·cal, adj., un·ty'rant·like', adj., un'u·biq'ui·tous, adj., un·ugly, adj., un·ul'cer·at'ed, adj., un·ul'tra, adj., un·um'pired, adj., un'un·der·stand'a·ble, adj., un'un·der·stand'a·bly, adv., un'un·der·stand'ing, adj., un'un·der·stood', adj., un'un·der·tak'en, adj., un·un'du·la·to'ry, adj. See UN-, not.

U·nun'gun (ōō·nōōng'gōōn), n. pl. See ALEUT.

un·u'ni·fi'a·ble, adj., un·u'nified, adj., un·u'ni·formed, adj., un'u·nit'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un'u·ni·var'si·ty·like', adj., un'up·braid'ed, adj., un'up·braid'ing, adj., un'up·braid'ing·ly, adv., un'up·set', adj., un'up·hol'stered, adj., un'up·set'table, adj., un·ur'ban, adj., un'urbane', adj., un·urged', adj., un·ur'gent, adj., un·urg'ing, adj., See UN-, not.

un·urned', adj., un·use'ful, adj., un·use'ful·ly, adv., un·use'fulness, adj., un·ush'ered, adj., un'·u·su'ri·ous, adj., un'u·surped', adj., un'u·surp'ing, adj., un·u'·ti·liz'a·ble, adj., un'ux·o'ri·al, adj., un'ux·o'ri·ous, adj., un·va'cant, adj., un·vac'il·lat'ing, adj. See UN-, not. [Obs.] un·vail'a·ble, adj. Unavailing.

un·vain', adj., un·val'et·ed, adj., un'val·e·tu'di·nar'y, adj., un·val'iant, adj., un·val'i·dat'ed, adj., un·val'i·dat'ing, adj., un·val'or·ous, adj., un·van'ished, adj., un·van'ish·ing, adj., un·van'quish·a·ble, adj., un·van'quished, adj., un·van'taged, adj., un·va'por·ized, adj., un·var'iant, adj., un·var'i·e·gat'ed, adj., un·vas'cu·lar, adj., un·vat'ted, adj., un·va·ult'ed, adj., un·vault'ing, adj., un·vaunt'ed, adj., un·vaunt'ing, adj., un·vaunt'ing·ly, adv., un·Ve'dic, adj., un·veer'ing, adj., un·veil'ing, adj., un·veined', adj., un·vel'vet·y, adj., un·vend'a·ble, adj., un·vend'a·ble·ness, n., un·vend'ed, adj., un·vend'i·ble, adj., un·vend'i·ble·ness, n., un'·ve·neered', adj., un·ven'er·a·ble, adj., un·ven'er·at'ed, adj., un'·ve·ne're·al, adj., un'·Ve·ne'tian, adj., un·ve'ni·a·ble, adj., un·ve'·ni·al, adj., un·ven'omed, adj., un·ven'om·ous, adj., un·vent'able, adj., un·vent'ed, adj., un·ven'ti·lat'ed, adj., un·ven'tured, adj., un·ven'tur·ous, adj., un'·ve·ra'cious, adj., un·ver'dant, adj., un·ver'dured, adj., un'·Ver·gil'i·an, adj., un've·rid'i·cal, adj., un·ver'i·ta·ble, adj., un'·ver·mic'u·lat'ed, adj., un·ver'min·ous, adj., un'ver·nic'u·lar, adj., un·ver'sa·tile, adj., un·ver'si·fied, adj., un·ver'ti·cal, adj. See UN-, not.

un·ves'sel, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·ves'seled, adj., un·vest'ed, adj., un·ve'toed, adj., un·vexed', adj., un·vi'a·ble, adj., un·vi'brat·ed, adj., un·vi'brat·ing, adj., un·vi·car'i·ous, adj., un'·vi·car'i·ous·ly, adv., un·vi'cious, adj., un·vic'tim·ized, adj., un'·Vic·to'ri·an, adj., un'vic·to'ri·ous, adj., un·vic'tualed, un·vic'tualled, adj., un'·Vi·en·nese', adj., un·view'a·ble, adj., un·viewed', adj., un·vig'i·lant, adj., un·vig'or·ous, adj., un·vig'or·ous·ly, adv., un·vil'i·fied, adj., un·vil'laged, adj., un·vin'dicat'ed, adj., un·vi'nous, adj., un·vin'taged, adj., un·vi'o·lable, adj., un·vi'o·lat'ed, adj., un·vi'o·lenced, adj., un·vi'o·lent, adj., un'vi·o·lined' (ŭn'vī·ō·lĭnd'), adj., un'·Vir·gil'i·an, adj., un·vir'gin, adj., un·vir'gin·al, adj., un'·Vir·gin'i·an, adj., un·vir'gin·like', adj., un·vir'ile, adj., un·vir'u·lent, adj. See UN-, not.

un·vi'sion, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·vi'sion·ar'y, adj., un·vi'sioned, adj., un·vis'it·a·ble, adj., un·vis'it·ed, adj., un·vis'ored, adj., un·vis'u·al·ized, adj., un·vi'tal, adj., un·vi'tal·ized, adj., un·vi'tal·ness, n., un'vi·tres'cibil'i·ty, n., un'vi·tres'ci·ble, adj., un·vit'ri·fi'a·ble, adj., un·vit'rified, adj., un·vit'ri·o·lized, adj., un'vi·tu'per·at'ed, adj., un'vi·va'cious, adj., un·viv'id, adj., un·viv'i·fied, adj., un·viz'ard·ed, adj., un·vo'cal·ized, adj., un'vocif'er·ous, adj., un·voice'ful, adj., un·void'a·ble, adj., un·void'ed, adj., un·vol'a·tile, adj. See UN-, not.

un·vol'a·til·ize, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·vol'a·til·ized, adj., un'vol·can'ic, adj., un'vo·li'tioned, adj., un'·Vol·tair'i·an, adj., un'volu'mi·nous, adj., un'vol·un·teer'ing, adj., un'vo·lup'tu·ous, adj., un·vom'it·ed, adj., un'vora'cious, adj., un·vot'ed, adj., un·vot'ing, adj., un'vouch·safed', adj., un·vowed', adj., un·voy'age·a·ble, adj., un·voy'aging, adj., un·vul'can·ized, adj., un·vul'gar, adj., un·vul'garized, adj., un·vul'gar·ly, adv., un·vul'ner·a·ble, adj., un·wad'a·ble, un·wade'a·ble, adj., un·wadd'ed, adj., un·wad'ed·ness, n., un·wad'ing, adj., un·wafd'ed, adj., un·wa'gered, adj., un·wag'ga·ble, adj., un·wag'ga·bly, adv., un·wagged', adj., un'·Wag·ne'ri·an, adj., un·wailed', adj., un·wail'ing, adj., un·wain'scot·ed, adj., un·wait'ed, adj., un·wait'ing, adj., un·waked', adj., un·wake'ful, adj., un·wake'ful·ness, n., un·wak'ened, adj., un·wak'en·ing, adj., un·wak'ing, adj., un·walked', adj. See UN-, not.

un·wall', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·walled', adj., un·wan'dering, adj., un·wan'ing (-wān'ĭng), adj., un·want'ed, adj., un·wan'ton, adj., un·war'bled, adj. See UN-, not.

un·war'i·ly, adv. of UNWARY. See UN-, not; -LY.

un·war'i·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·warm'a·ble, adj., unwarmed', adj., un·warm'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·warn', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·warp'a·ble, adj., unwarped', adj., un·warp'ing, adj., un·wash'a·ble, adj., unwash'ed·ness, n., un'·Wash·ington'ni·an, adj., un·was'sail·ing, adj., un·wast'a·ble, adj., unwast'ed, adj., un·waste'ful, adj., un·waste'ful·ly, adv., un·wast'ing, adj., un·wast'ing·ly, adv., un·watch'a·ble, adj., unwatched', adj., un·watch'ful, adj., un·watch'ful·ly, adv., unwatch'ful·ness, n., un·watch'ing, adj., un·wa'ter·like', adj., un·wa'ter·marked', adj., unwa'ter·y, adj., un·wat'tled, adj., un·waved', adj., un·wa'ver·able, adj., un·wa'vered, adj., unwav'ing, adj., un·waxed', adj., un·way'ward, adj. See UN-, not.

un·weak'en, v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·weak'ened, adj., unwealth'y, adj., un·weap'oned, adj., un·wear'a·ble, adj., unwear'ing, adj., un·wea'ri·some, adj., un·wea'ri·some·ness, n., un·weath'er·ly, adj., un·weath'er·wise', adj., un·weav'ing, adj., un·webbed', adj., un·web'bing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wedge', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·wedged', adj., un·wed'ded, adj., un·weeded', adj., un·weep'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

un·weigh'a·ble, adj., unweighed', adj., un·weigh'ing, adj., un·weight'ed, adj., unweight'y, adj., un·wel'comed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·weld', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·weld'a·ble, adj., un·weld'ed, adj., un·Welsh', adj., un·welt'ed, adj., un·wept', adj., unwest'ern, adj., un·west'ern·ized, adj., un·wet', adj., un·wet'table, adj., un·wet'ted, adj., unwhe'ded, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wheel', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·wheeled', adj., un·whelmed', adj., un·whelped', adj. See UN-, not.

---

un·whole' (ŭn·hōl'; 66), adj. [AS. unhāl. See UN- not; WHOLE.] Not whole; sick; imperfect; unsound. Obs.

un·whole'some (-sŭm), adj. Not wholesome; as: a Not healthy; sick; also, not conducive to good health. b Not conducive to good morals; morally noxious; also, morally corrupt; immoral. — un·whole'some·ly, adv. — un·whole'some·ness, n.

un·wield' (ŭn·wēld'), adj. Obs. a Feeble. b Unwieldy.

un·wield'ly (-lĭ), adj. Unwieldy; clumsy; awkward.

un·wield'some (-sŭm), adj. Unwieldy. Obs.

un·wield'y (ŭn·wēl'dĭ), adj.; UN·WIELD'I·ER (-dĭ·ĕr); UN·WIELD'I·EST. Not wieldy; as: a Obs. Feeble; weak. b Awkward; clumsy. c Not easily wielded or carried; unmanageably bulky or ponderous. d Disposed to resent or resist control, regulation, or management; restive; insubordinate.

Syn. — Awkward, bulky, cumbersome, ungainly.

— un·wield'i·ly, adv. — un·wield'i·ness, n.

un·wifed' (ŭn·wīft'), adj. Not married.

un·wild' (-wīld'), v. t. [1st un- + wild.] To tame; subdue. Obs.

un·will' (-wĭl'), n. Also un·wille'. [AS. unwil(l), unwilla.] Displeasure; also, disinclination. Obs.

un·will' (ŭn·wĭl'), v. t. [1st un- + will.] 1. To reverse the will in regard to; to change the mind of.

2. To annul, reverse, or revoke (one's will or testament).

3. To take away or destroy the will power of.

un·willed' (-wĭld'; 66), adj. a Deprived of the faculty of will or volition. b Not decided or intended by the will, or volition; unintended.

un·willed', adj. Not willed; not devised by will, or testament.

un·will'ful (ŭn·wĭl'fŏŏl), adj. Not willful; as: a Not intentional; involuntary; unintentional. b Not stubborn or perverse; amenable. — un·will'ful·ly, adj. — un·will'ful·ness, n.

un·will'ing (-lĭng), adj. a Not willing; loath; reluctant; also, rarely, involuntary; as, unwilling ears. b Done reluctantly; yielded, expressed, given, manifested, etc., against one's will or inclination; as, unwilling obedience, admiration, praise. — un·will'ing·ly, adv. — un·will'ing·ness, n.

un·wil'y (ŭn·wīl'ĭ), adj.; UN·WIL'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); UN·WIL'I·EST. Not wily. — un·wil'i·ly, adv. — un·wil'i·ness, n.

un·wim'ple (ŭn·wĭm'p'l), v. t. To unveil. Obs.

un·win' (ŭn·wĭn'), n. [ME., also unwinne, unwunne, fr. un- not + winne, wunne, delight, pleasure, fr. AS. wynn. See WINSOME.] Sorrow; sadness. Obs.

un·winc'ing (ŭn·wĭn'sĭng), adj. Not wincing; unflinching. — un·winc'ing·ly, adv.

un·wind' (ŭn·wīnd'), v. t.; UN·WOUND' (-wound'); UN·WIND'ING. [AS. unwindan. See 1st UN-; WIND to coil.] To wind off; to loose or separate, as what is wound or convolved, as a ball of yarn; hence: a To uncoil. b To disentangle; to straighten out (something involved or complicated). c To trace backward to a source or origin, or forward to an issue or end; as, to unwind a tale of ancient times. — v. i. To be, become, or admit of being, unwound.

un·wind' (ŭn·wīnd'), v. t. To take the wind out of.

un·wind'ing (ŭn·wīn'dĭng), adj. Not winding; straight. — un·wind'ing·ly, adv.

un·wink' (ŭn·wĭngk'), v. i. [1st un- + wink, v.] To open (the eyes). Obs.

un·wink'ing, adj. Not winking; not closing the eyes; hence, watchful; alert. — un·wink'ing·ly, adv.

un·win'ly (ŭn·wĭn'lĭ), adv. [See UNWIN sorrow; -LY.] Sorrowfully; sadly; unpleasantly. Obs.

un·win'ter (ŭn·wĭn'tĕr), v. t. To destroy the wintry character of.

un·wire' (ŭn·wīr'), v. t. To remove the wire from.

un·wired' (-wīrd'; 66), adj. Not wired; not equipped with wires; also, not passing over wires, as electric current.

un·wis'dom (ŭn·wĭz'dŭm), n. [AS. unwīsdōm.] Want of wisdom; unwise conduct or action; folly.

We smile at the unwisdom which could expect to regulate private habits and manners by statute. J. A. Froude.

un·wise' (ŭn·wīz'; 66), adj. [AS. unwīs. See UN- not; WISE, adj.] Not wise; defective in wisdom; injudicious; foolish; as, an unwise man, king, measure. — un·wise'ness, n.

un·wise'ly, adv. [AS. unwīslīce.] In an unwise manner, degree, etc.; injudiciously; foolishly.

un·wish' (ŭn·wĭsh'), v. t. [1st un- + wish.] 1. To wish not to be; to destroy by wishing. Obs.

2. To annul or withdraw as a wish; to stop wishing (something).

un·wist' (ŭn·wĭst'), adj. [See UN- not; cf. WISE to inform.] a Archaic. Not known; unknown. b Obs. Not knowing; unwitting. c Not recognized; unrecognizable.

un·wit' (ŭn·wĭt'), v. t. [1st un- + wit.] To deprive of wit. Obs. — v. i. To be ignorant. Obs.

un·witch' (ŭn·wĭch'), v. t. [1st un- + witch.] To free from enchantment.

un·with·hold'en (ŭn'wĭth·hōl'd'n), adj. Unwithheld. Archaic.

un·wit'nessed (ŭn·wĭt'nĕst; -nĭst; 119), adj. Not witnessed; as: a Not seen; having no witnesses. b Not authoritatively subscribed to by a witness or by witnesses, as a legal document.

un·wit'ted (ŭn·wĭt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having no wits; witless; also, Rare, unrecognized.

un·wit'ting, n. Obs. a Ignorance. b Madness.

un·wit'ting, adj. [Cf. AS. unwitende.] 1. Unknown. Obs. exc. Scot.

2. Not knowing; unconscious; unaware; hence, disregarding; paying no attention.

3. Done without the doer's knowledge; unintentional or unconscious; as, an unwitting activity.

Syn. — Unknowing. Ant. — Deliberate, considered.

— un·wit'ting·ness, n.

un·wit'ting·ly, adv. Unconsciously, inadvertently.

un·wit'ty (ŭn·wĭt'ĭ), adj. [AS. unwittig without understanding.] Not witty; as: a Wanting in intellect; witless. b Silly; foolish. c Not clever at conversation, repartee, or the like. — un·wit'ti·ly, adv.

un·wived' (ŭn·wīvd'), adj. Without, or bereaved of, a wife.

un·wom'an (ŭn·wŏŏm'ăn), v. t. [1st un- + woman.] To deprive of womanly qualities. Rare.

un·wom'an·ly, adj. Not proper or suitable to womanly character; not womanly in appearance, characteristics, or the like. — un·wom'an·ly, adv.

un·won'der (ŭn·wŭn'dĕr), v. t. [1st un- + wonder.] To divest of the quality of wonder or mystery; to explain. Rare.

un·wont' (ŭn·wŭnt'), adj. Unwonted. Archaic.

un·wont'ed (ŭn·wŭn'tĕd; -tĭd; 119: see WONT), adj. 1. Not wonted; unaccustomed; unused; not made familiar by practice; as, a child unwonted to strangers; unwonted customs.

2. Uncommon; unusual; infrequent; rare; as, unwonted changes. "Unwonted lights." Byron.

— un·wont'ed·ly, adv. — un·wont'ed·ness, n.

un·wood'ed (ŭn·wŏŏd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Not wooded; treeless.

un·woof' (ŭn·wŏŏf'), v. t. To take the woof from.

un·word'ed (ŭn·wŭr'dĕd; -dĭd), adj. Deprived of speech. Obs.

un·word'y (ŭn·wŭr'dĭ), adj. Not wordy; as: a Not worded, or expressed in words. b Not speaking; silent; also, terse of speech; of few words.

un·work' (ŭn·wŭrk'), v. t. [1st un- + work.] a To undo or destroy, as work previously done. b To work loose or free; to release; detach.

un·work', n. A misdeed. Obs.

un·work'a·ble (ŭn·wŭr'kȧ·b'l), adj. Not workable; unpracticable. — un·work'a·bil'i·ty (ŭn'wŭr·kȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n., un·work'a·ble·ness, n. — un·work'a·bly, adv.

un·work'er (-wŭr'kĕr), n. a One who does not work; an idler. b One who unworks.

un·work'man·like' (ŭn·wŭrk'măn·līk'), adj. Not workmanlike; poorly or imperfectly done, made, etc. — un·work'man·like', adv.

un·work'man·ly, adj. & adv. Unworkmanlike.

un·world' (ŭn·wŭrld'), v. t. To render not of, or of the nature of, the world. Rare.

un·world'ly (-lĭ), adj. Not worldly; as: a Not moved by worldly considerations; not sordid. b Not belonging to this world; unearthly; esp., spiritual. — un·world'li·ness, n.

un·wormed' (-wŭrmd'; 66), adj. Of a dog, not wormed; not having had the worm, or lytta, cut out.

un·worm'wood'ed (-wŭrm'wŏŏd'ĕd), adj Not embittered. Obs.

un·worn' (ŭn·wōrn'; 66; 181), adj. Not worn; as: a Not previously donned as a garment. b Not impaired by use. c Not wearied.

un·wor'ried (-wŭr'ĭd), adj. Not worried, anxious, distressed, or the like. — un·wor'ried·ly, adv. — un·wor'ried·ness, n.

un·wor'ship (ŭn·wŭr'shĭp), n. [AS. unweorthscipe dishonor. See UN- not; WORSHIP.] Lack of worship or honor; discredit. Obs.

un·wor'ship, v. t. [See 1st UN-.] To dishonor; discredit. Obs.

un·worth' (ŭn·wŭrth'), n. Unworthiness; lack of merit.

un·worth', adj. [AS. unweorth.] Worthless; unworthy.

un·worth', adj. [un- not + worth, adj.] Not worth; unworthy of; as, to be unworth notice.

un·wor'thy (ŭn·wŭr'thĭ), adj.; UN·WOR'THI·ER (-thĭ·ĕr); UN·WOR'THI·EST. 1. Not worthy. Specif.: a Wanting merit, value, or the like; — said of persons or things. b Not deserving something; — often with of; as, men unworthy of respect. c Not fit or suitable; unbecoming; unseemly; — usually with of; as, an act unworthy of man. d Despicable; contemptible; dishonorable.

2. Undeserved; unmerited. Obs.

— un·wor'thi·ly, adv. — un·wor'thi·ness, n.

un·wor'thy, adv. In an unworthy manner; esp., in an unseemly or unbecoming way.

un·wor'thy, n. An unworthy person, esp. one not deserving honor or respect.

un·wor'thy, v. t. To render not worthy; to bring discredit upon; to disgrace. Obs.

un·wrap' (ŭn·răp'), v. t. [1st un- + wrap.] To open or undo, as what is wrapped or folded; hence, to free from wrappings; to liberate; also, Rare, to reveal; disclose. — v. i. To become unwrapped. — un·wrap'per (-ĕr), n.

un·wreaked' (ŭn·rēkt'), adj. Not wreaked or revenged.

un·wreak'en (-rēk'ĕn), adj. [un- not + old past part. of wreak; cf. AS. unwrecen.] Unrevenged. Obs.

un·wreathe' (ŭn·rēth'), v. t. [1st un- + wreathe.] a To untwist, uncoil, or untwine, as anything wreathed. b To remove a wreath or wreaths from.

un·wrench' (ŭn·rĕnch'; 105), v. t. To wrench open or off.

un·wrest' (ŭn·rĕst'), v. t. To wrest loose; undo; dislocate. Obs.

un·wrest' (ŭn·rĕst'), adj. [AS. unwræst weak, wretched, fr. un- not + wræst delicate, excellent.] Obs. a Feeble; worthless. b Deceitful; wicked.

un·wrin'kle (ŭn·rĭng'k'l), v. t. [1st un- + wrinkle.] To reduce from a wrinkled state; to smooth. — v. i. To be or become smooth.

un·writ' (ŭn·rĭt'), adj. Unwritten. Archaic.

un·write' (ŭn·rīt'), v. t. [1st un- + write.] To cancel or erase, as writing. Rare.

un·writ'ten (ŭn·rĭt'n; 66), adj. [AS. unwriten.] 1. Not written; not reduced to writing; oral; traditional; as, unwritten agreements, knowledge, doctrines, codes.

2. Containing no writing; blank; as, unwritten paper.

unwritten constitution. A constitution, such as that of Great Britain, not embodied in a single document but one implied in the institutions and customs of the country as expressed in charters, statutes, judicial decisions, the body of common law, precedents and traditions, etc. It may be modified at any time by any legislative act. See CONSTITUTION, 6.

unwritten law. a Law. Law not committed to writing at its origin, but originated in custom or otherwise than as formally made and declared by the sovereign legislative power, as the common law of England or the United States See WRITTEN LAW. b The assumed rule or custom that a measure of immunity shall be given to those guilty of certain criminal acts of revenge (cf. SELF-HELP), esp. in avenging injury to family honor arising from seduction or adultery, often referred to as existing in communities where persons guilty of such acts of revenge escape punishment by reason of a public sentiment justifying their acts.

un·wrok'en (ŭn·rōk'ĕn), adj. [un- not + old past part. of wreak; cf. AS. unwrecen.] Unrevenged. Obs.

un·wrought' (ŭn·rôt'), adj. Not wrought; as: a Not done, made, or performed; incomplete or uncompleted. b Not fashioned by labor; unfashioned or unworked; rough. c Not worked or developed, as land, ore in a mine, etc.

un·wry' (ŭn·rī'), v. t. [AS. unwrēon.] To uncover; disclose. Obs.

u·ny' (ū·nĭ'), v. t. [F. unir (cf. past part. uni), fr. L. unire.] To unite; join. Obs.

un·yeaned' (ŭn·yēnd'), adj. Not born; unborn.

un·yield'ing (ŭn·yēl'dĭng), adj. Not yielding; as: a Unbending; stiff. b Not surrendering; unsubmissive. c Stubborn; obstinate. — un·yield'ing·ly, adv. — un·yield'ing·ness, n.

Syn. — Adamant, hard, rigid, uncompromising.

Ant. — Soft, complaisant.

un·yoke' (ŭn·yōk'), v. [AS. ungeocian. See 1st UN-; YOKE.] Transitive: 1. To loose or free from a yoke, as oxen.

2. To part; disjoin; disconnect.

—, Intransitive: To become loosed from or as from a yoke.

un·yoked' (ŭn·yōkt'; 66), adj. 1. Not yet yoked; not having worn the yoke.

2. Freed or loosed from a yoke.

3. Unrestrained; licentious; as, unyoked passions.

un·yol'den (ŭn·yōl'd'n), adj. Not yielded, as to a foe; also, unreturned. Obs.

un'ze (ŏŏn'tsĕ), n.; pl. -ZEN (-tsĕn). [G., fr. L. uncia. See OUNCE.] See WEIGHT, Table.

un'ze (ŏŏn'sĕ), n.; pl. -ZEN (-sĕn). [Dan. unze, unse.] See WEIGHT, Table.

un·zoned' (ŭn·zōnd'; 66), adj. 1. Not zoned; not girdled.

2. Not confined to a zone; unrestricted. Obs.

uo-. For words formerly spelled uo-, see VO-.

u-o umlaut. A vowel change caused by the influence of u or o in the following syllable, as the Anglo-Saxon change of a, e, i to ea, eo, io (AS. eofor, boar, from efor). See UMLAUT.

-uous. [F. or L.; OF. -uous (F. -ueux), fr. L. -uosus. Cf. -OUS.] A suffix meaning of or of the nature of, as in ambi*guous,* impet*uous,* strenu*ous,* virtu*ous.*

up (ŭp), adv. [AS. up, upp, up, uppe on high, up; akin to OFris. up, op, D. op, OS. up, uppa, OHG. ūf, G. auf, ON. & Sw. upp, Dan. op, ON. uppi, Goth. iup upwards, up, uf under, and to E. over. See SUB-, OVER; cf. EAVES, EVIL, OPEN, SUM, SUPINE.] Primarily up denotes direction of movement contrary to the direction of gravity, that is, radially away from the center of the earth. It may likewise indicate position of rest or position after removal away in a vertical direction from the level of the earth's surface or other point of observation or departure. Thus the primary signification of up is: Toward or at a point above or overhead; from a lower to a higher level in space; in a higher place or position than before or than something else; above or away from the ground or toward the sky; — opposite to down. Specific uses of up are: 1. With respect to movement, position, or direction in space: a Toward, or to the height of, the head or shoulders from below; above the head; as, to hold up one's hand or a banner; lift the child up so that he can see. b From a lowered or relaxed position, from a prone or horizontal position, or from lying in bed, sitting, stooping, etc., to an upright or erect position; in an erect position; as, to draw oneself up; to help one up after a fall; to get up early; standing up in the stirrups. c Away from any given surface or level so as to rise into the air; to or toward a point or level above the former or usual level, whether the ground, sea level, floor, or some elevated position; skyward; overhead; aloft; as, the oil shot up two hundred feet; to run the flag up; soaring high up; hidden up in the attic; to or in a position of being raised and suspended or affixed; as, to string up a thief; to hang up a sword or paintings; placards posted up. d From out of the ground or water or from beneath, to the surface or into view; as, the shoots spring up; to pull up the beets; to dredge up rocks; to belch up gas. e From or upon the ground as a foundation or basis of construction or accumulation; as, a cliff rises up one hundred feet; to heap up ordure; to block up the underpinning. f To a higher point or level by gradual rise; at a point one or more steps or degrees toward the top or source; against the current; upstairs; upstream; to or at a higher elevation or farther inland; as, two steps or two flights up; follow the river ten miles up; up in the hill country. g Toward some higher point in space, esp. of directing vision; as, to lift up one's eyes; a telescope pointed up.

2. Hence, in figurative senses: a From a lower to a higher or better condition or status; to a greater prominence or affluence or higher estimation; as, coming up in his profession; to write up what one approves and write down the rest; to climb up in the world or in one's class. b To a higher spiritual condition or state of resolution; to a condition of intense activity or excitement; to a higher rate, as of speed; as, to brace up; to stir up passions; to blow up the fire; working up for war. c To or toward an advanced or perfected state, as of fortitude, skill, maturity; as, trained up in theology; brought up to privation; to, or in search of, the source or origin; back; as, to follow up a clue; to trace up one's lineage. d Into existence, evidence, prominence, or prevalence; to the attention; into operation or practical form; as, to draw up a will; scare up a partridge; stir up old animosities; work up enthusiasm; a missing trinket turns up; to bring a matter up for consideration; to set up vibrations; getting up steam. e So as to be heard; to in-un·whig'like', adj., un·whim'sical adj., un·whin'ing, adj. See UN-, not.

---

un·whip', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·whipped', un·whipt', adj., un·whirled', adj., un·whisked', adj., un·whis'kered, adj., un·whis'per·a·ble, adj., un·whis'pered, adj., un·whis'per·ing, adj., un·whis'tled, adj., un·white', adj., un·whit'ed, adj., un·whit'ened, adj., un·white'washed', adj., un·wid'ened, adj., un·wid'owed, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wield'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

un·wife'like', adj., un·wife'ly, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wig', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·wigged', adj., un·wild' (ŭn·wild'), adj. See UN-, not.

un·wil'ful, un·wil'ful·ly, etc. Vars. of UNWILLFUL, UNWILLFULLY, etc.

un·wilt'ed, adj., un·wilt'ing, adj., un·wind'a·ble (ŭn·wīn'dȧ·b'l), adj., un·win'dowed, adj., un·wind'y (-wĭn'dĭ), adj., un·wing'a·ble, adj., un·winged', adj., un·win'na·ble, adj., un·win'ning, adj., un·win'nowed, adj., un·win'some, adj., un·win'try, adj., un·wiped', adj., un·wished', adj., un·wish'ful, adj., un·wish'ing, adj., un·wist'ful, adj., un·witched', adj., un'with·draw'a·ble, adj., un'with·draw'ing, adj., un'with·drawn', adj., un·with'er·a·ble, adj., un·with'ered, un·with'er·ing, adj., un'with·held', adj., un·with·hold'ing, adj., un'with·stand'ing, adj., un'with·stood', adj., un·wit'less, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wive', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·woe'ful, un·wo'ful, adj., un·wom'an·ish, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wom'an·ize, v. t. See -IZE.

un·wom'an·ized, adj., un·wom'an·like', adj., un·wom'an·liness, n. See UN-, not.

un·womb', v. t. See 1st UN-.

un·won', adj., un·won'der·ful, adj., un·won'der·ing, adj., unwooed', adj., un·wool'y, adj., un·word'a·ble, adj., un·word'a·bly, adv., un'-Words·worth'i·an, adj. See UN-, not.

un·word'y, un·word'i·ly. Scot. vars. of UNWORTHY, UNWORTHILY.

un·worked', adj., un·worked'ness, n., un·work'ing, adj., unworm'-eat'en, adj., un·worm'y, adj., un·wor'shiped, un·worshipped, adj., un·wor'ship·ful, adj., un·wor'ship·ing, un·wor'ship·ping, adj., un·wot'ting, adj. See UN-, not.

un·wound' (ŭn·wound'), adj., un·wound'a·ble (-wōōn'dȧ·b'l), adj., un·wound'a·ble·ness, n., un·wound'ed (-wōōn'dĕd; -dĭd), adj., un·wo'ven, adj., un·wran'gling, adj., un·wrapped', adj., un·wrap'ping, adj., unwrath'ful, adj., un·wrath'fully, adv. See UN-, not.

un·wreathed', adj., un·wreath'ing, adj., un·wrecked', adj., unwrenched', adj., un·wrest'ed·ly, adv., un·wrest'ing, adj., un·wres'tled, adj., un·wretch'ed, adj., unwrig'gled, adj., un·wrin'kle·a·ble, adj., un·wrin'kled, adj., unwrit'a·ble, un·write'a·ble, adj., un·writ'ing, adj., un·wronged', adj., un·wrong'ful, adj., unwrung', adj. See UN-, not.

un·wunt'ed. Unwonted. R. S. un·yachts'man·like', adj., un·Yan'kee, adj., un·yearned', adj. See UN-, not.

un·yearn'ing, adj., un·yield'ed, adj., un·yok'ing, adj., un·young', adj., un·youth'ful, adj., un·youth'ful·ly, adv. See UN-, not.

un·zeal'ous, adj., un·zeal'ously, adv., un·zeal'ous·ness, n. See UN-, not.

un·zeph'yr·like', adj. See UN-, not.

un·zone', v. t. See 1st UN-.

N O P Q R S T U

creased volume or higher pitch; as, a bell strikes up; to sing up to high C. f In or into a position of facing or meeting; in or into contact; closely; as, to snuggle up; close up to the wall; to run or knock up against, that is, to meet with. g Before, or into the hands of, another, as for decision or judgment; in confession, or by way of surrender; as, to send up a petition; to own up; to yield up a prisoner. h Into a place or condition of closure, bondage, compression, or constriction; into union or combination; as, tied, boxed, or covered, up; to gather up in bundles; to dam up a stream; puckered or shirred up; made up of two elements. i Aside, so as not to be in use; by; as, to lay up riches; put up your weapons. j Now Dial. To a condition of being open; as, to set up the door. k To a condition of being ruptured, or separated into fragments; all to bits; as, a roof ripped up by a shell; books torn up. l In continuance or continuously from a previous to a later point in time or in life; — often followed by to or till; as, up through the ages; up to manhood he persisted in the endeavor. m Beyond a stated quantity, amount, price, etc.; over; as, children of twelve years and up.

3. So as to approach, arrive at, or overtake, the person, point, or time at present under consideration; to a position of equal advance or equality; as, to wait for the baggage to come up; a courier hurries up; to pull up short; to even up scores; to come up with the enemy; bring accounts up to date; he never got caught up in his work; to keep up with one's competitors. See up to, below.

4. To a state of or approaching completion, totality, or finality; — used as an intensive after certain verbs with implications such as the following, often in colloquial speech redundantly with negligible import: a To a state of demolition, dissolution, exhaustion, or the like; wholly; utterly; as, to eat up or burn up food; to live up one's income; to use up fuel; formerly, to kill up (B. Jonson); to spend up (Prov. xxi. 20). b To the limit; so that the action can be carried no further; thoroughly; as, to dry up the fens; to beat up eggs; to clear up debts; to load up a wagon; to pay up. c So as to attain or result in a desired condition; effectually; as, to hunt up a new room; wait for a wound to heal up; to dress up one's style; to clean up politics. d By counting or adding to form a total; to a total; as, to run up a heavy debt; to reckon up the profits; with the reinforcements they make up a hundred thousand.

5. In a direction conventionally or temporarily considered as the opposite of down, regardless of actual ascent; at or toward a point thought of as higher; as, he has gone up north to hunt deer; specif.: a In such direction as to approach a place of greater importance, as a center of activity, a headquarters, a main office, or the like; as, he was sent up to the State capital or the legislature; up to London or the university; going up to college in the fall. b Conversely, to, at, or in, a remote or outlying district, the rear of the stage in a theater, etc.; as, to go up to the farm for a vacation; divan up right (stage direction). c In a northerly direction or as situated toward the top on a map; as, up in Canada; sailing up from Cuba.

6. Baseball. At bat; as, he had three hits in four times up.

7. Journalism. Completed; — said of the writing of copy. U. S.

8. Naut. Toward the point from which the wind blows; into the wind; to windward; aweather; as, to put the helm up.

9. Sports. In tennis, etc., each; apiece; also, ahead (of one's opponent); as, two (games) up. Colloq.

☞ Up is used elliptically for get up, rouse up, lift up, etc., often with the force of a verb. See UP, v.

☞ For various phrases containing up, sometimes as the first word, see in the Vocabulary, esp. under the first main word of the phrase sought.

— up and down. See 1st UP AND DOWN, in Vocab. — up from the ground, or from the ground up. In or through every department or phase; down to the smallest detail; thoroughly. — up helm. An order to the helmsman to put the helm aweather, that is, to windward. — up to. 1. Up (in various senses) toward or as far as; — following verbs of motion or tendency; as: a Above or overhead in the direction of; upward toward; as, to raise one's hands up to heaven. b From below to the same height with; as, water rose up to the floor, then up to the window; climbing up to the roof; so as to be covered or immersed to the level of; as, he sank up to his armpits. c So as to reach in position, level, or extent; as far as; all the way to the time of; as, to draw up to the courthouse; sink a blade up to the hilt; the stocks moved up to 94; so as to reach equality with in attainment, value, vote, etc.; as, striving to get up to the pace of the times. d Before the attention or consideration of; as, he put the question squarely up to his instructor. e To or in complete fulfillment of; so as to satisfy or conform to; as, to come up to expectations; live up to one's promise or profession; write up to a certain literary standard. f So as to exert or employ to the full; as, to practice up to one's knowledge. g As much as; inclusive of all below (a limit); not in excess of; as, a bridge will carry up to ten tons. h At or about, as by instigation, incitement, sly prompting, or the like; as, to put or set one up to a daring or mischievous act. i Fully according to; as, colored up to nature. "Marry her up to my liking." Fielding.

2. Predicatively or postpositively: a Capable of performing, bearing, or dealing with; prepared to meet, undertake, or participate in; quite competent to cope with; equal to; as, one could scarcely believe him up to such villainy, or sentimentality; he is up to the emergency; quite up to the sharpers and their wiles. b Acquainted with; quite cognizant or discerning of; "wise to"; as, until you are up to their tricks you will think them earnest; not yet up to the ropes. c Engaged in or busy about, esp. in secrecy; — often with an implication of mischief; as, try to discover what he is up to; I'll wager she's up to some deviltry. d On equality or a level with; as, prices up to the 1929 level; satisfying or conforming with; as, a specimen not quite up to exhibition standards; abreast of; apace with, as in social or scientific achievement; as, trying to keep up to the times. e Covered or immersed to the level of; as, he was found up to his waist in quicksand. f Before the attention or consideration of, as for decision; as, the problem is now up to the American electorate. g Slang. Incumbent upon; devolving or obligatory upon; falling or resting as an obligation upon; being the turn of or the specially appointed or exclusive responsibility of; as, the meeting of expenses is up to the management; she thought it up to her to prove women as capable as men.

— up with. a Colloq. To raise or heave up. b To put (the helm) up. c Abreast with, esp. an overtaking.

-up (-ŭp). A combining form of the adverb up, as in:

backup	getup	line-up	tie-up blowup	grownup	lockup	tilltup breakup	holdup	make-up	tossup checkup	hookup	pickup	turnup cleanup	kickup	setup	windup cockup	knockup	showup	write-up cutup	letup	smashup

up (ŭp), prep. In its primary and fundamental signification up expresses the relation of approach to the highest point or a higher point or part. Specific uses are: 1. From a lower to a higher place on or along; in ascent of; toward the zenith of; as, climbing up a ladder, a stair, or a tower; mercury moving up a scale; at a higher place upon; toward, near, or at the top of; as, living up three flights; above or aloft in or on; as, up attic; up a tree (colloquially, in a dilemma or predicament).

2. From the mouth toward the source of; toward the inlet or northerly end of; as, to sail up the Hudson; up the lake; in a direction contrary to that of; against; directly into; as, up the wind.

3. Toward or near to the inner part or interior of; esp., toward or within the inland section of; toward or near to the rear of; as, traveling up the country; living up-State; up the drawing room or the stage of a theater.

4. Along the horizontal length or course of, in the direction of the higher end or the end regarded as higher or more remote from the center; as, up a street; up the shore.

5. [From an AS. uppan which in Middle English coalesced with up, adv.] Obs. in senses equivalent to upon or on: a Indicating destination or direction of motion, orig. of ascension, later also of attack or opposition. "And ley thy rewle up that same day." Chaucer. b Indicating place of rest or suspension or means of support. c Indicating the object of superiority; — equiv. to over. d Indicating that to or on which there is nearness, dependence, accordance, etc. e Indicating that which is set up by way of security or penalty. "And ye shul seen, up peril of my lyf." Chaucer. f Indicating a point in time; also, of time, equivalent to after.

— up and down. See 2d up and down, in the Vocabulary. — up a tree. In difficulties. Slang. — up hill and down dale. Up and down the country in all directions, taking it as it comes.

up (ŭp), adj.; Obs. UP'PER (ŭp'ĕr); UP'PEST. 1. Dwelling or situated in remotely inland country or at high altitude.

2. Inclining, moving, or directed up; tending upward; as, an up glance; on the up trend.

3. Bound in a direction regarded as up (see UP, adv., 5); pertaining to upbound traffic, coaches, etc.; as, an up train, coach, boat; the up platform, schedule, or trip.

4. In a position higher than before or than any given level; in a higher status or any condition regarded as resulting from raising up; — used predicatively. Specific literal senses are: a Above the horizon, esp. so as to be visible; as, as soon as the sun is up; high in the sky; as, the constellation Cancer is well up. b Lifted or held erect; as, to keep his head or a standard up; in parliamentary usage, standing for or while delivering a speech; as, the member who was up at the time. c Of a device or part, raised above normal, usual, or closed, position; as, with his coat collar up; keep the flood gates up. d Mounted on the back of a horse; as, with a new jockey up. e Of tide or a stream, high; flooding. f Above the ground, as growing or built; as, until the corn is up; only the frame is up. g Risen from, or not yet retired to, bed; as, to be up with the birds; to be up late. h In a forward position in respect to others; in a place regarded as central or otherwise important; as, his horse was well up; Colloq., Brit., at school or university. i Turned toward one looking from above; as, with the face or the bottom up; butter side up. j Removed; as, he found the track up for a hundred yards.

5. Hence, in figurative senses: a In a state of activity, agitation, or excitement; initiating some action; aroused to a high pitch of activity or emotion or in a highly incensed state; risen in rebellion; as, when passions are up; let us be up and doing; the Opposition was up immediately; the Boers were reported up. Specif., up in arms, organized into an armed force, esp. for resistance; united in vehement protest. b Of a beverage, effervescent; hence, excited; animated. c Exerting force or pressure; as, the wind is up; exerting pressure sufficient for immediate use; as, to keep steam up. d Colloq. On foot; in progress; going on; as, wondering what was up. e Standing high or higher in status, esteem, affluence, etc.; as, at graduation he appeared well up in his class. "Those that are up themselves kept others low." Spenser. f Advanced in some measurable condition; at a high level; as, prices are up; a man up in years; a note up in the treble. g In a position of equal advance or of equality; satisfying a certain standard, as of accomplishment, quality, etc.; — usually followed by to or with; as, he is still up with his competitors; the boy is not yet up in his studies. Cf. up to, 2 d, under UP, adv. h Prepared, informed, or competent; as, to be up in heraldry or masonry. i Expired; at an end; as, his term is up; played out or thwarted; rendered fruitless; as, our scheme is up. j Presented or considered publicly or widely; as, shares up for sale; his name was up for alderman; in prominence; widely known about or spoken of; also, Obs., prevalent; in force. "His name was up through all the adjoining provinces." Milton. k Colloq. Confronting or confronted; face to face; inescapably meeting or pressing; — followed by against; as, to find himself up against an insuperable obstacle; to know what he is up against is a satisfaction. "You don't know till you've had the whole thing up against you." Henry James. l Colloq. Before a magistrate or court, esp. for trial; as, to be up for assault. m Brit. Of an assembly, adjourned.

6. Archery. Blowing from the mark to the shooter; — said of the wind.

7. Elec. Highly charged; — esp. of batteries.

8. Gambling. At stake; as, money up on a game.

9. Games. a Necessary for completion or winning; as, the game is fifteen points up. b Completed, as by the scoring of an agreed number of points; as, the first round is up. c Ahead of one's opponent or opponents; as, in spite of being beaten four tricks they were still up.

10. Golf. a In advance of one's opponent; as, to be one up; — opposed to down. b On the green; as, the ball was well up.

11. Naut. Of a tiller, placed so as to hold the rudder far to leeward.

12. Printing. Printed in one form or impression; — usually in combination; as, two-up.

— all up. Completely frustrated; reduced to utter ruin; as, it's all up now; — esp. in the phrase "it's all up with a person," that is, he is reduced to a hopeless or helpless condition or is completely swallowed up in disaster. Slang. — up against it. Face to face with a seemingly insuperable obstacle; at the limit of one's resources; having one's back to the wall; in desperate straits. Slang. — up in arms. a Having taken arms for battle. b Roused to opposition. — up in the air. In a state of uncertainty or perplexity; also, intensely angered or excited. Colloq.

up (ŭp), n. 1. One who or that which is up or moving or directed up; as: a One enjoying a rise of fortune, a position of vantage, high rank, prosperity, or the like. b A slope toward higher ground; an elevation. c An upward course. d An upbound train, bus, or the like.

2. An action of rising or lifting up; as: a A rise or betterment in fortune or position; a prosperous state; an advancement in status or esteem; — often in contrast with down; as, we seldom value fully the ups of life; they had their ups and downs. b A rise in value or price. c Rare. An uprising from bed. Marston.

3. Produce Exchanges. A privilege or option equivalent to a call, esp. in grain futures. Cf. 8th DOWN, n., 5.

— up and down, up-and-up, n. See in the Vocabulary.

up (ŭp), v.; UP'PED (ŭpt); UP'PING (ŭp'ĭng). [From UP, adv.; cf. AS. uppian to rise, uppan, uppan, to bring up or forth, to disclose.] Intransitive: 1. To raise oneself up, as from a sitting or recumbent position; to stand on one's feet; to arise or rouse oneself, esp. in readiness for action, as setting out, fighting, etc. Cf. UP, adv., 1st Note

> Up, up, my friend! and quit your books. Wordsworth.

2. To move or climb up or upwards; to ascend; — sometimes with expletive it.

> We will, fair queen, up to the mountain's top. Shak.

3. To take strength or a brace; as, up, heart, for the last fight.

4. To make a start abruptly or with a surprising shift in attitude; — followed usually by and with another verb denoting the action initiated. Dial. & Colloq.

> Why don't we up and find out? H. G. Wells.

—, Transitive: 1. To raise or lift up, as a burden or gun to one's shoulder; to move, haul, or heave up, as a net or an anchor.

2. To put (the helm) up.

3. To cause to rise; to increase or advance; to increase the value or price of; as, to up prices, production. Colloq.

4. May success attend upon or upon the cause of; may all forces unite to speed and prosper; — used in the imperative mood as an eager expression of commendation or endorsement; as, Up the workers! Up peace, down war!

5. Formerly, to capture (swans) for putting the owner's mark on the beak. By corruption the practice was often called swan-hopping. Eng.

6. To make up or construct. Obs.

up and at it, them, etc. To rouse oneself and attack; to set upon; to set to work on.

up with. To raise; to bring, as a weapon, into a position of readiness; as, to up with one's gun.

up- (ŭp-). [AS. up-, upp-. See UP, adv.] The adv., adj., and preposition up used in composition, as: a The adverb, forming verbs, esp. in the specific senses: (1) In or to an elevated position; aloft; on high; as in *up*bear, *up*raise. (2) Thoroughly; completely; wholly; — often used merely intensively, as in *up*bind, *up*tear. (3) At, toward, or to a higher point or degree of age, rank, education, amount, pitch, etc., as in *up*breed. (4) Aside, so as not to be in use; as, to *up*lay riches that is, to hoard. b The adjective, forming nouns, with the sense locating, tending, or inclining up; upward; as in *up*blast, an upward blast. c The preposition, forming adverbs and adjectives, esp. in the specific senses: (1) From a lower to a higher place on, upon, or along; upward or aloft in or on; as in *up*hill, *up*street. (2) From the coast toward the interior of, or from the mouth toward the source of, or the like, as in *up*country, *up*stream. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

upaisle	upcry	upleg	upspeed upalley	upcurl	uplick	upspew uparch	upcurrent	uplight	upspire uparise	upcurve	uplimb	upsplash uparm	upcushion	upline	upspout upattic	updart	uplock	upspread upavenue	updeck	uploom	upsprinkle upbar	updelve	uploop	upsprout upbay	updome	upmast	upspurt upbear	updrag	upmix	upstaff upbearer	updraw	upmount	upstamp upbelch	updrink	upmountain	upstartle upbelt	updry	upmove	upstaunch upbend	upeat	up-page	upsteal upbid	upfield	uppent	upsteam upbind	upfill	upperch	upstem upblacken	upflame	uppile	upstep upblast	upflare	upplough	upstick upblaze	upflash	upplow	upstretch upblow	upflee	uppluck	upstrike upboil	upflicker	uppoint	upstrive upbolster	upfling	uppoise	upstruggle upbolt	upfloat	uppop	upstuck upboost	upflood	uppour	upsup upborne	upflow	upprick	upswallow upbotch	upflower	upprop	upsway upboulevard	upflung	uppuff	upswell upbound	upfly	uppull	uptable upbrace	upfold	uppush	uptear upbred	upfollow	upquiver	uptemper upbreed	upframe	upreach	uptend upbreeze	upfurl	uprein	upthunder upbrighten	upgale	uprend	uptide upbrim	upgape	uprender	uptie upbristle	upgather	uprestore	uptilt upbroken	upgaze	uprid	uptorn upbrook	upget	upridge	uptoss upbubble	upgird	uprip	uptower upbuoy	upgirt	uprive	uptrace upbuoyance	upglean	uproad	uptrack upbulging	upglide	uproom	uptrail upburn	upgorge	uprouse	uptree upburst	upgrow	uproute	uptrunk upbuy	upgully	uprun	uptruss upcall	upgush	uprush	uptube upcanal	uphang	upscale	uptuck upcanyon	upharbor	upscrew	uptwined upcarry	upharrow	upseal	uptwist upcatch	uphasp	upseize	upvalley upcaught	upheal	upsend	upvomit upchannel	upheap	upshaft	upwaft upchariot	uphoard	upshear	upwall upchimney	uphoist	upsheath	upwarp upchoke	uphung	upshore	upwax upcity	uphurl	upshoulder	upwell upcock	upisland	upshove	upwheel upcoil	upjerk	upshut	upwhelm upcolumn	upjet	upsit	upwhir upconjure	upkindle	up-sky	upwhirl upcourse	upknell	upslant	upwork upcover	upknit	upslope	upwrap upcrane	upladder	upsmite	upwreathe upcrawl	uplaid	upsnatch	upwrench upcreek	uplake	upsoak	upwring upcreep	uplane	upsoar	upyard upcrop	uplay	upsolve	upyoke upcrowd	uplead	upspeak

up′-a-dai′sy (ŭp′ə-dā′zĭ), interj. A playful exclamation of encouragement, as to a small child when it is being lifted.

u·paith′ric (ū-pĭth′rĭk), adj. Hypaethral.

up′a·long′ (ŭp′ə-lŏng′), adv. Upward; esp., up the street. Chiefly Dial.

u′pa·na′ya·na (ōōp′ə-nŭ′yə-nə), n. Also u·pa′na·ya (ōōpŭn′ə-yə). [Skr.] The ceremonial in which a Hindu of the "twice-born" castes is invested with the sacred thread See CASTE, 2.

up-an′chor (ŭp-ăng′kĕr), v. i. Naut. To heave up the anchor at starting. — up-an′chor, n.

up′-and-com′ing, adj. Alertly active; smart; enterprising. — up′-and-com′ing·ness, n. Both Colloq., U. S.

up'-and-do'ing, adj. Enterprisingly active. Colloq.

up and down. a With rising and falling motion; to and fro; hither and thither from one state or position to another; backward and forward. "Let them wander up and down." Ps. lix. 15. b At this and that point over or throughout something; here and there; as, they sought it up and down in the reference books. c Into a vertical position; as, to heave the cable up and down; predicatively, vertical in position or direction; specif., Naut., perpendicular; — said of the cable when the anchor is under, or nearly under, the bow. d Now Dial. In every point or particular. e Colloq., U.S. In blunt or downright fashion. f Obs. exc. Dial. Upside down. g At various points along the length or course of; to and fro in or through; as, wandering up and down the hall; here and there throughout; as, rumored up and down the countryside; alternately to a higher and lower position in or on; as, up and down the stairs.

up and down. In, on, or through, alternately, either backward and forward, or here and there, or above and below; as, up and down the street, the hill.

Whispered up and down London. Macaulay.

up'-and-down', adj. 1. That is directed, moves, or proceeds, alternately upward and downward; as, up-and-down looks.
2. Perpendicular; erect; hence, Colloq., U.S., direct, downright.
3. Uneven in surface or course; as, an up-and-down roof, life.

up and down; pl. UPS AND DOWNS. 1. pl. a The alternating or irregular upward and downward inclines of the earth's surface; similar undulations of the sea. b Alternating upward and downward movements or impulses, as of a barometer. c The alternatingly or varyingly better and worse fortunes attending one's progress or life; as, the ups and downs of matrimony. d Alternations or fluctuations in amount, condition, quality, etc.; as, the ups and downs of a fever.
2. Alternating rise and fall, esp. of fortunes or successes; as, the up and down of a political career; fluctuation in force or intensity, as of an emotion.
3. An undulating surface or line; as, an up and down of notes in a score.
4. A boat-shaped swing. Dial. Eng.
5. A cursory survey.
— up'-and-down'ish, adj. — up'-and-down'ish·ness, n. — up'-and-down'y, adj.

up'-and-down' in'di·ca'tor. A device for showing the extent a timepiece is run down.

up and up. Progressively in motion toward a higher point or better state. — up'-and-up', n.
— on the up-and-up. Colloq. a In a course of betterment. b Honest; "on the level."

U·pan'i·shad (ōō·pŭn'ĭ·shăd), n. [Skr. upaniṣad.] One of a class of speculative treatises, concerned with the nature of man and the universe, forming a late part of the Vedic literature. The fundamental doctrine of these treatises is that of the identity of the individual soul or self (atman) with the universal Self (Brahma). It is the source of the later Vedanta philosophy (monism) systematized by Shankara. The earliest of the Upanishads, of which there are an indefinite number, dates probably from the 8th century B.C. Cf. VEDA; VEDANTA; PANTHEISM. — u·pan'i·shad'ic (-shăd'ĭk), adj.

u'pa·pu·ra'na (ōōp'ä·pōō·rä'nä), n. [Skr. upapurāṇa.] See PURANA.

up·arch'ing (ŭp·ärch'ĭng), n. Geol. The bending of rocks into an anticline or dome.

u·par'na (ōō·pŭr'nä), n. [Hind. uparnā.] A cotton scarf; a dopatta. India.

u'pas (ū'păs), n. [Malay pohon upas tree of poison.] 1. a A tall Javanese tree (Antiaris toxicaria), the upas tree, which yields an intensely poisonous, milky juice used as an arrow poison (see POISONOUS PLANTS, Plate). It was formerly reputed to destroy any living thing that approached it. Called also bohun upas. This and a related species (A. innoxa) furnish a coarse fiber found below the outer bark. b A shrub or tree (Strychnos tieuté) of the same region, also yielding an arrow poison.
2. The sap or juice of either of these trees. That of Antiaris is upas antiar; that of Strychnos, upas tieuté.
3. Figuratively, a poisonous or harmful influence or institution.

up·band' (ŭp·bănd'), v. t. To band, or bind, up. Obs.

up'bank' (ŭp'băngk'; 66), adj. & adv. Uphill. Dial. Eng.

upbank thaw. A thaw on hills while the frost is unbroken in the valley below.

up·bar' (ŭp·bär'), v. t. 1. To fasten with a bar. Rare.
2. To unbar, as a gate. Obs.

up'beat' (ŭp'bēt'), n. 1. Music. An unaccented beat in any kind of measure; specif., the last beat of the measure. See OFFBEAT.
2. Pros. An arsis; also, an anacrusis. up'-bow' (ŭp'bō'), n. Music. In playing a bowed instrument, a stroke toward the nut end of the bow. Cf. DOWN-BOW.

up-bow sign. Music. In bowed instrument music, the sign indicating an up-bow (∨).

up·braid' (ŭp·brād'), v.; -BRAID'ED; -BRAID'ING. [ME. upbreiden, fr. AS. upbregdan, fr. upp, ūp, up + bregdan to draw, twist, weave; perh. influenced in sense by a kindred Scand. word; cf. ON. bregtha to draw, brandish, braid, deviate from, change, break off, upbraid, also AS. ūpgebrēdan to upbraid. See UP; BRAID to weave.] Transitive: 1. To reproach with something wrong or disgraceful; to charge, accuse, or reprove, reproachfully; — followed by with or for, and formerly of, before the thing imputed; as, he upbraided me for my statement.

And upbraided them with their unbelief. Mark xvi. 14.

2. To be, or to act as, a reproach to; to put to shame.

How much doth thy kindness upbraid my wickedness. Sir P. Sidney.

3. To make (the stomach) queasy. Now Dial.
4. Obs. a To urge as a matter of reproach; to cast up; — with to or against. b To censure. c To utter.
—, Intransitive: 1. To utter upbraidings.
2. To rise in the stomach. Now Dial.
3. To start up, as from a swoon. Obs.
Syn. and Ant. — See REPROVE. up·braid', n. Upbraiding; reproach; contumely. Obs.

up·braid'er, n. One who or that which upbraids.

up·braid'ing, n. Act or utterance of one who upbraids; a reproof or reproach; also, Obs., regurgitation.

up·braid'ing, adj. That upbraids. — up·braid'ing·ly, adv.

up·brast' (ŭp·brăst'), past tense. Burst open. Obs. Spenser.

up·break' (ŭp·brāk'), v. t. To break up or open. — v. i. To force a way up or to the surface. — up'break' (ŭp'brāk'), n.

up·breathe' (ŭp·brēth', ŭp·brēth'), v. t. To breathe up or out; to exhale. Obs.

up·bring' (ŭp·brĭng'), v. t.; UP·BROUGHT' (-brôt'); UP·BRING'ING. 1. To bring up. Rare.
2. To rear and train in breeding (a young person).

up·brow' (ŭp·brou'), adv. Mining. Up the slope or dip of an ore or coal bed. Eng.

up'brow' (ŭp'brou'), n. A slope or incline driven up the dip. Eng.

up·build' (ŭp·bĭld'), v. t.; -BUILT' (-bĭlt'); -BUILD'ING. To build up, in any sense. — up·build'er, n.

up'by' (ŭp'bī'; 66), up'bye', adv. Upyonder. Chiefly Scot.

up·cast' (ŭp·kăst'), v. t. 1. To cast, turn, or throw, up.
2. To reproach. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

up'cast' (ŭp'kăst'), n. 1. Act of casting upward, or state of being cast up; also, anything cast up.
2. A taunt; a reproach or cause of reproach. Chiefly Scot.
3. An upward dislocation of a stratum.
4. An upset, as from a carriage. Scot.
5. Chiefly Mining. The ventilating shaft up which the air passes after circulation.

up'cast' (ŭp'kăst'; 66), adj. 1. Cast up; directed upward; as, with upcast eyes or glance; an upcast spray.
2. Mining. Having an upward draft; as an upcast shaft.

up'cham'ber (ŭp'chām'bĕr; -chăm'bĕr), adv. Upstairs. Dial.

up·chance', adv. Peradventure; perchance. Obs.

up·cheer' (ŭp·chēr'), v. t. To encourage. Obs.

Up'church' ware (ŭp'chûrch'). Ceramics. A dark-gray Roman pottery found esp. near Upchurch, in Kent, Eng.

up·climb' (ŭp·klīm'), v. t. & i. To climb up; ascend.

up'climb' (ŭp'klīm'), n. Ascent by or as by climbing.

up·close' (ŭp·klōz'), v. t. & i. To close up; shut. — up·clos'er (-klōz'ĕr), n.

up'coast' (ŭp'kōst'), adj. Situated or going up the coast.

up·come' (ŭp·kŭm'), v. i. To come up; arrive; grow up.

up'come' (ŭp'kŭm'), n. a Scot. A coming up; ascent; also, growth; the final point. b Output; outcome.

up'com'ing (ŭp'kŭm'ĭng), n. Act or process of coming up.
— adj. Coming up.

up'coun'try (ŭp'kŭn'trĭ; 66), adj. Living or lying remote from the seacoast; being in the interior; as, an upcountry residence. Colloq. — n. The interior of the country. Colloq.

up'coun'try (66), adv. In an upcountry direction; as, to live upcountry. Colloq.

up·cut' (ŭp·kŭt'), v. t. Mach. To cut (the work) while the tool is moving upwards. — up'cut' (ŭp'kŭt'), n.

up·dive' (ŭp·dīv'), v. i. To spring upward; to rise. Rare.

up'draft' (ŭp'drăft'), n. An upward movement of gas, air, or the like. — up'draft', adj.

up·dress' (ŭp·drĕs'), v. t. To set up. Obs.

up·end' (ŭp·ĕnd'), v. t. & i. To set, stand, or rise, on end.

u·pey'gan (ōō·pā'găn), n. [Of Mashona origin.] The borele, or black rhinoceros.

up'feed' (ŭp'fēd'), adj. Having its direction of feeding upwards.

up'fin'gered (ŭp'fĭng'gĕrd), adj. Having a finger raised.

up'gang' (ŭp'găng'), n. [AS., a going up.] Ascent; passage up. Now Dial.

up·give' (ŭp·gĭv'), v. t. To give up or out; to yield; declare. Archaic.

up·go' (ŭp·gō'), v. i. To ascend. — n. (pron. ŭp'gō'); pl. UPGOES (-gōz'). An ascent.

up'grade' (ŭp'grād'; 66), n. An upward grade or slope, as of a road; hence, an ascent toward a better state. — up'-grade' (66), adj. & adv.

up·grave' (ŭp·grāv'), v. t. To dig up.

up'growth' (ŭp'grōth'), n. The process or a result of growing up; development; also, a thing grown up.

The new and mighty upgrowth of poetry in Italy. J. R. Green.

up·hale' (ŭp·hāl'), v. t. To draw up. Obs.

up'hand' (ŭp'hănd'), adj. a Marked by a raising of the hand; as, uphand emphasis. b Lifted by the hand, or by both hands.

up'heart'ed (ŭp'härt'tĕd; -tĭd; 66; 119), adj. Buoyant in spirit.

up·heav'al (ŭp·hēv'ăl), n. Act or instance of upheaving, esp. of part of the earth's crust; hence, a violent social commotion or agitation; a striking alteration.

up·heav'al·ist (-ĭst), adj. An advocate of upheaval, as in explaining geological changes or in agitating for social reforms.

up·heave' (ŭp·hēv'), v. t. To heave or lift up from beneath; to raise. — v. i. To rise.

up·helm' (ŭp·hĕlm'), v. i. Naut. To put the helm to windward.

up'hel·y·a' (ŭp'hĕl·y·ä'), n. [up, adj., 51 + haliday, var. of HOLIDAY.] The festival of Epiphany. Scot.

u'pher (ū'fĕr), n. [D. juff r, the same word as juffer, juffrouw, jufvrouw, young woman, fr. jong young + vrouw woman. See YOUNG; 1st FROW. Cf. EUPHROE.] A fir pole of from 4 to 7 inches diameter, and 20 to 40 feet long, sometimes roughly hewn, used for scaffoldings, etc. Eng.

up'hill' (ŭp'hĭl'; 66), n. 1. An ascent; rising ground.
2. pl. Dice that cast high scores.

up'hill' (ŭp'hĭl'; 66), adv. Upwards on or as on a hillside.

up'hill' (ŭp'hĭl'; 66), adj. 1. Elevated in situation.
2. Ascending; going up; as, an uphill road; hence, laborious; difficult; as, uphill work.
3. Striving under difficulty or against odds.

up·hold' (ŭp·hōld'), v. t. 1. To hold up; to raise.
2. To keep erect; to support; sustain; maintain.

Honor shall uphold the humble in spirit. Prov. xxix. 23.

3. To aid by approval or encouragement; to countenance.
4. To provide with food. Obs. exc. Dial.
Syn. — Defend; abet, aid, back, encourage. Cf. ASSERT.
Ant. — Denounce, repudiate. See RENOUNCE, OPPOSE.

up'hold' (ŭp'hōld'; -ŏd'), n. Support; stay. Scot. & N. of Eng.

up·hold'en (ŭp·hōl'd'n), adj. That is held up. Poetic.

up·hold'er (-dĕr), n. [up + holder. Cf. UPHOLSTERER.]
1. One who or that which upholds; a supporter; defender.
2. Obs. a A tradesman; a retail dealer. b An undertaker, or provider for funerals. c An upholsterer.

up·hol'ster (ŭp·hōl'stĕr), v. t. [From UPHOLSTERER.] Transitive: 1. To furnish (a room) with hangings, curtains, etc.
2. To stuff (chairs, furniture, etc.) and to cover (the stuffed parts) with fabric, usually decorative.
—, Intransitive: 1. To furnish a room with hangings.
2. To provide furniture, etc., with cushions; to stuff furniture, etc.; to cover with fabric.

up·hol'ster (ŭp·hōl'stĕr), n. = UPHOLDER, 2 & c. up·hol'stered (ŭp·hōl'stĕrd), adj. Furnished with or as with upholstery.

up·hol'ster·er (ŭp·hōl'stĕr·ĕr), n. [From upholster, upholdster, for older upholder, in ME., a tradesman. See UPHOLDER; -STER.] One who provides upholstery; one who upholsters.

upholsterer bee. A leaf-cutting bee.

up·hol'ster·ous (ŭp·hōl'stĕr·ŭs), adj. Given to using upholstery.

up·hol'ster·y (-ĭ; 59), n. 1. Furniture or interior fittings, as hangings, cushions, curtains, coverings, etc., covered or made with textile materials, leather, and the like; esp., material used to stuff or cover furniture.
2. The art or business of an upholsterer.

U'pis (ū'pĭs), n. [Gr. Oupis.] Gr. Relig. Artemis or Nemesis; — an ancient name. In early times Upis was a goddess of childbirth; later, a goddess who watched over human deeds.

up·keep' (ŭp·kēp'), v. t. To keep up; support; maintain.

up'keep' (ŭp'kēp'), n. Act or cost of keeping up, or maintaining; maintenance; also, state of being kept up; repair.

Small outlays for . . . upkeep of buildings. A. R. Colquhoun.

up'la (ōōp'lä), n. [Hind. uplā.] Dried cow dung, in cakes, used for fuel. Cf. ARGOL, BOIS DE VACHE. India.

up'land (ŭp'lănd), n. The country, as distinguished from populous districts, or the neighborhood of towns. Obs. — adj. Of or pertaining to the country, as disting. from the neighborhood of towns; rustic; also, rude; unpolished. Obs. — adv. In the rural districts. Obs.

up'land' (ŭp'lănd'; -lănd), n. High land, esp. far from the sea; ground elevated above the lowlands along rivers or between hills; a district of such land. — adj. Of, pertaining to, or living on, upland; inland; also, growing or found on high ground. — adv. In the interior regions.

upland boneset. A thoroughwort (Eupatorium sessilifolium) closely related to the true boneset (E. perfoliatum).

upland cotton. A short-staple cotton derived chiefly from Gossypium herbaceum, and cultivated in some parts of the United States.

upland cranberry. = BEARBERRY a.

upland cress. Any of several cresses of the genus Barbarea, esp. B. vulgaris and B. verna.

up'land·er (ŭp'lăn·dĕr), n. One dwelling in or native to upland.

upland goose. A Patagonian wild goose (Chloëphaga magellanica).

upland hickory. The shagbark Carya ovata.

up'land'ish (ŭp·lăn'dĭsh; ŭp'lăn'dĭsh), adj. a Obs. = 1st UPLAND, adj. b Now Rare. = 2d UPLAND, adj. c Obs. Outlandish.

upland moccasin. See MOCCASIN, 2.

upland plover. A large sandpiper (Bartramia longicauda) of eastern North America, which frequents fields and uplands; — so called because it resembles a plover in its short bill and general appearance, and in habits. It is a fine game bird and has already been nearly exterminated in some States.

Upland Plover.

upland speedwell. The speedwell Veronica officinalis.

upland sumac. The smooth sumac Rhus glabra.

upland white aster. A tufted, rigid North American perennial herb (Aster ptarmicoides) with rather open, loose clusters of white-rayed heads.

upland willow oak. = BLUEJACK, 2.

up·lean' (ŭp·lēn'), v. i. To lean; recline. Obs. Spenser.

up·leap' (ŭp·lēp'), v. i. To leap up; to bound with joy. — up'leap' (ŭp'lēp'), n.

up·lift' (ŭp·lĭft'), adj. Uplifted. Archaic.

up·lift' (ŭp·lĭft'), v.; past tense -LIFT'ED; past part. -LIFT'ED, Obs. exc. Poetic -LIFT'; pres. part. & verbal n. -LIFT'ING. Transitive: 1. To lift or raise aloft; to raise; elevate; as, to uplift the arm, the head, a rock.

Satan, talking to his nearest mate,
With head uplift above the wave. Milton.

2. To improve or to attempt to improve the condition of, esp. morally, socially, or intellectually; as, a movement to uplift the drama.
3. To collect, as wages; lift, as rents, bonds, etc. Scot.
—, Intransitive: To raise or elevate someone or something; to engage in uplift.

up'lift' (ŭp'lĭft'), n. Act, process, or result, of uplifting; as: a An elevation; esp., Geol., upheaval, not necessarily sudden or violent. b A bettering in condition, esp. mentally or emotionally. c A social movement to uplift morally, aesthetically, etc.; the work or cause of uplifting.

up·lift', adj. Pertaining to or engaged in uplift (sense c). up·lift'ed (ŭp·lĭf'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Raised; elevated; also, Now Dial., elated. — up·lift'ed·ly, adv. — up·lift'ed·ness, n.

up·lift'er (-tĕr), n. 1. One who or that which uplifts.
2. A person engaged in or devoted to uplift (sense c). up·lift'ing, adj. That uplifts. — up·lift'ing·ly. adv. — up·lift'ing·ness, n.

up·lim'ber (ŭp·lĭm'bĕr), v. i. Mil. To limber up. Brit.

up'long' (ŭp'lŏng'; 185), prep. Up along. — adj. Extending upwards. — adv. Upalong.

up'long', n. A bar along the sail of windmills.

up·look' (ŭp·lŏŏk'), v. i. To look upward. — n. (pron. ŭp'lŏŏk'). A look upward. — up·look'er, n.

up·ly'ing (ŭp·lī'ĭng), adj. Located or growing on upland.

up'mak'ing (ŭp'māk'ĭng), n. 1. Act of making up; make-up.
2. Material for making or filling up, as courses of planks between the bilge ways and a ship's bottom before launching.

up'mak'ing, adj. That makes up for something; also, that seeks closer acquaintance.

up'most (ŭp'mōst), adj. [Cf. UPPERMOST.] Uppermost.

u·po' (ū·pō'), prep. Upon. Archaic & Dial.

up oars. Naut. A command at which the oars, that have been lying in the boat, are raised smartly to a vertical position, in line, with blades fore and aft.

---

up·bray', n. & v. = UPBRAID. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. up·brought', past & past part. of UPBRING. Obs. exc. Dial. upfeed system. See GRAVITY HOT WATER HEATING. u·phar'sin (ū·fär'sĭn). Bib. See MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN. up·haud' (ŭp·hôd'). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of UPHOLD.
U'phaz (ū'făz). Bib. up·heav'en (ŭp·hĕv'ĕn). Archaic past part. of UPHEAVE. up·held', past tense & past part. of UPHOLD.
up·hill'ward, adj. & adv. See -WARD. up·hold',up·howd'. Dial. vars. of UPHOLD, v.
up·hol'ster·y·dom, n. See -DOM. up·hol'stress, n. Also up·hol'ster·ess. Fem. of UPHOLSTERER. u'phroe. Var. of EUPHROE.
U pin, or U'-pin', n. See U, adj.
Up Jenkins. = JENKINS, n., 2.
U plate, or U'-plate', n. See U, adj. up·lift'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
up·lift·i'tis, n. See -ITIS. up·lift'ment, n. See -MENT. up'ness, n. See -NESS.

up·on' (ŭ·pŏn'; 71), prep. [ME. upon, uppon, fr. up up + on, an, on. See UP, adv.; ON, prep.] On; — in all its senses. See ON. Use of upon is more common in the following senses: 1. Upward so as to be on; as, he leaped upon his steed; — often written up on.
2. With little or no interval after; as, he answered upon receipt.
3. a Against (one), as in vengeance.

What cannot you and I perform upon The unguarded Duncan. Shak.

b So as to shut in; as, turning the key upon him. c Encountering or approaching hostilely; as, the enemy are upon us.
4. By means of. Now Dial.

To die upon the hand I love so well. Shak.

5. Obs. a Above in status or authority. b On condition that. c Approximating to; about; also, verging or bordering on.
☞ For phrases, as upon the whole, to set upon, etc., see under the nouns, verbs, etc.
Syn. — See ABOVE. Ant. — See BELOW.

-up·on'. A combining form of upon, as in there*upon,* where*upon.*

up·on', adv. On or upon one; on the surface; also, thereon. Obs.

Indeed, my Lord, it followed hard upon. Shak.

up'–o'ver, adj. Designating a method of shaft excavation by drifting to a point below, and then raising.

up'–pa'tient, n. Med. A patient not confined to bed.

‖upp'båd' (ŭp'bŏd'), n. [Sw.] Mil. Either the first or the second category of service in the Swedish active or regular army. From eleven years of service in the first uppbåd (or beväring), the men pass to the second uppbåd, where they serve for four years, before passing to a final period of service of eight years in the landstorm.

up'per (ŭp'ĕr), adj.; orig., comp. of UP, adj. 1. Being farther up; as: a Occupying higher ground; farther inland; as, upper Egypt. b Higher in place, position, rank, dignity, or the like; superior; as, the upper woods; the upper side of a thing; the upper house of a legislature.
2. Forming part of a higher portion, as of a pair or set of things or a building; as, an upper step, story; upper case; the upper lip.
3. Of clothes: a Worn above or outside another garment; outer. b Covering a part above the waist
4. Further indoors; innermost; as, the upper end of the hall or table.
5. Directed upward. Cf. UPPERCUT.
6. That is above the earth's surface; as, upper earth, light.

The vital breath of upper air. Dryden.

7. Relatively advanced in the acquirement or imparting of instruction; as, the upper school.
8. Designating strata relatively near the earth's surface; hence [cap.], Geol., designating a later period or formation (of a specified period); — so called because the strata are normally above those of the earlier formations; as, Upper Cambrian, Cretaceous, Jurassic, Silurian, etc.
☞ For many phrases beginning with upper, see the word or words with which upper is used.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
upper-circle, upper-form, upper-grade, upper-school.

up'per, adv. Further up; higher. Now Rare.

up'per, n. A part that is upper or superior; specif., Shoemaking, one of the uppers (which see); also, Colloq., an upper berth.

upper band. The band about a rifle nearest to the muzzle.

Upper Barren Coal Measures. Geol. A series of sandstones and shales overlying the Coal Measures proper and belonging to the Permian. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

Upper Bench. Eng. Hist. The highest court of common law (continuing the King's Bench) during the Commonwealth.

Upper Carboniferous. See PENNSYLVANIAN, n., 2.

upper case. Print. The top one of a pair of compositor's cases usually containing capital letters. See 3d CASE, 17.

up'per–case' (66), adj. Denoting or printed in capital letters.

Upper Chalk. Geol. A subdivision of the Upper Cretaceous in Britain. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

Upper Chamber. [often not cap.] Upper House.

up'per–class' (66), adj Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a class regarded as socially superior, or the junior and senior classes in a college or secondary school.

up'per·class'man (ŭp'ĕr·klăs'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A member of the junior or senior class in a college or secondary school.

upper crust. a The crust over a loaf, pie, etc. b The earth immediately below the surface. c Slang. A head; also, a hat. d Colloq. The highest circle of the upper classes. — up'per–crust'er, n. Slang, U. S. upper culmination. See TRANSIT, 4 a.

up'per·cut' (ŭp'ĕr·kŭt'), n. In boxing, a short-arm swinging blow directed upward. — v. t. & i. To strike, or hit, with an uppercut.

upper deck. Naut. The topmost full-length deck of any vessel; also, a partial deck above the main deck.

upper dominant. Music. The dominant.

up'per·er (ŭp'ĕr·ĕr), n. Shoe Mfg. One who makes uppers. U. S.

Upper Greensand. Geol. Formerly, a division of the English Upper Cretaceous, now regarded as a facies of the Gault.

upper hand. The advantage; mastery; dominion; also, preferred position; preference. — up'per·hand'ism, n.

Upper House. [often not cap.] In a legislature, the house of more restricted membership, as the House of Lords or the Senate.

Upper Huronian. Geol. The Animikean.

upper leather. Leather for the vamps and quarters of shoes; also, vamps and quarters collectively.

upper limit of a function. Math. See LIMIT OF A FUNCTION.

upper Mars. See PALMISTRY, 1.

up'per·more (ŭp'ĕr·mōr), adv. [upper + more, adv.] Higher up. Obs. exc. Scot. — adj. Upper. Now Chiefly Dial.

up'per·most (ŭp'ĕr·mōst), adj. [upper + -most. Cf. UPMOST.] 1. Highest in place, position, rank, power, or the like; upmost; topmost; also, nearest to hand for attention or expression; as, the thing uppermost in one's thoughts.

Whatever faction happens to be uppermost. Swift.

2. Outermost; as, the uppermost skin.
3. Farthest uptown.
— up'per·most, adv.

up'per·most, n. That which is highest; also, the upper hand. Now Rare.

upper partial. See PARTIAL TONE.

upper pharyngeal. Pharyngobranchial.

upper platform. See DECK, n., 2.

up'pers (ŭp'ĕrz), n. sing. & pl. 1. The parts of a shoe or boot above the sole.
2. Gaiters of cloth buttoned over the ankle.
3. The best grade of lumber.
4. Mining. A drill hole driven upward.
— on one's uppers. Having worn out one's shoe soles; hence, at the end of one's means, or in hard luck.

Upper Sonoran zone. See SONORAN, adj., 3.

up'per·stocks' (ŭp'ĕr·stŏks'), n. pl. Breeches. Archaic.

upper story. a A story, as of a house, above the first story or ground floor. b Slang. The brain.

upper ten thousand, or (abbreviated) upper ten. The ten thousand, more or less, who are highest in position or wealth; the aristocracy. Colloq. — up'per·ten'dom (ŭp'ĕr·tĕn'dŭm), n. Colloq.

upper topsail. Naut. The upper sail of double topsails.

upper transit. Astron. See TRANSIT, n., 4 a.

Upper Turbarian. [See TURBARY.] Geol. The fifth and last stage of Quaternary glaciation as recognized in Scotland.

upper works. a Naut. All those parts of the hull of a vessel that are above the load water line. b Slang. Brains.

upper world. The surface of the earth, abode of the living, as distinguished from the lower, under, or nether, world.

up'ping (ŭp'ĭng), n. [From UP.] 1. Act or process of marking a swan or swans by cuts on the beak. See SWAN-UPPING.
2. Act of getting up.
3. Upshot; issue. Dial. Eng.

up'pish (ŭp'ĭsh), adj. [From UP.] 1. Proud; arrogant; assuming; putting on airs of superiority. Colloq.
2. Somewhat up in position or direction.
3. Obs. a Provided with money. b Elated. c Drunk; intoxicated. d Peevish.
— up'pish·ly, adv. — up'pish·ness, n.

up·po'woc (ŭ·pō'wŏk), n. [Virginian uppówoc, uhpooc; cf. Massachuset uhpŭonk, Lenape hopoakan tobacco pipe, Narraganset púck smoke. Cf. 1st POKE, n., 1st PUNK, n.] Tobacco.

up'–put' (ŭp'pŭt'), n. Also up'–put'ting. Lodging and entertainment. Scot.

up·raise' (ŭp·rāz'), v. t.; -RAISED' (-rāzd'); -RAIS'ING (-rāz'ĭng). To raise or lift up; elevate; encourage; erect; also, Obs., to extol. — up·rais'al (-rāz'ăl), n. — up·rais'er (-ĕr), n.

up'raise' (ŭp'rāz'), n. Mining. = RAISE, n., 4, Colloq.

up·rear' (ŭp·rēr'), v. t.; -REARED' (-rērd'); -REAR'ING. To raise; hence, to erect; exalt; bring up; excite. — v. i. To rise.

up·rest' (ŭp·rĕst'), n. A rising. Poetic.

up'right' (ŭp'rīt'; sometimes also ŭp·rīt'; 66), adj. [AS. upriht, uppriht. See UP; RIGHT, adj.] 1. Erect in position or posture; perpendicular; vertical, or nearly vertical; pointing upward; as, an upright tree.

With chattering teeth, and bristling hair upright. Dryden.

2. Erect in bearing or carriage.
3. a Morally correct; having rectitude; honest; just.

And that man [Job] was perfect and upright. Job. i. 1.

b Conformable to moral rectitude; right.

Conscience rewards upright conduct. J. M. Mason.

4. Having a vertical or upward course.
5. Having greater height than width.
6. Obs. a = SUPINE, 1. b In good condition; sturdy. c Unambiguous. d Straight; — of shoes and graining.
7. Golf. Having a head nearly at a right angle with the shaft; — said of a club.
Syn. — Erect, moral, righteous, virtuous; honorable square; equitable.
Ant. — Horizontal; recumbent; dishonest; unjust; corrupt.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
upright-growing, upright-hearted, upright-standing, adj. adj. upright-heartedness, upright-walking, adj. upright-grown, upright-minded up'right', adv. Uprightly.

up'right', v. t. To make upright.

up'right' (ŭp'rīt'), n. 1. State of being upright or vertical; the perpendicular; as, a pillar out of upright.
2. Something standing upright, as a piece of timber in a building or the wall down the middle of a brick clamp.
3. Arch. A vertical face; an elevation. Obs.
4. Basketwork. A tool made from a flat strip of steel with chisel edges at both ends, bent into horseshoe shape, the opening between the cutting edges being adjustable, used for reducing splits to skeins; — called in full upright shave.
5. pl. Football. The goal posts.
6. Geol. An upright stratum.
7. Music. Short for UPRIGHT PIANO.

upright drill. A drilling machine with a vertical spindle.

up·right'eous (ŭp·rī'chŭs), adj. Morally upright. — up·right'eous·ly, adv. — up·right'eous·ness, n.

up'right'ing (ŭp'rīt'ĭng), n. Act or process of making upright, or of insuring uprightness; specif.: Horol. The process of securing such position of the pivot holes in the plates of a timepiece that the arbors shall be perpendicular to the plates.

up'right'ly, adv. In an upright manner or position.

up'right'man (ŭp'rīt'măn), n. The chief of a beggar band. Obs.

up'right'ness, n. Quality or state of being upright.
Syn. and Ant. — See RECTITUDE.

upright piano. See PIANO, 1. upright shave. Basketwork. = UPRIGHT, n., 4.

up·ris'al (ŭp·rīz'ăl; -l), n. An uprising or arising.

up·rise' (ŭp·rīz'), v. i. 1. To rise, as from sleep; to get up; to rise to a standing posture; to become erect.
2. To ascend; to rise or seem to rise into view; as, the smoke uprose; the sun uprises.
3. To rise from the dead or the underworld.
4. To become existent. "Since earth uprose." Shelley.
5. To have an upright direction or inclination.

Uprose the mystic mountain range. Tennyson.

6. To swell up, as a sound; to increase in size or volume.

up'rise' (ŭp'rīz'; ŭp·rīz'), n. 1. Act or process of rising; rising or ascent; dawn. "The sun's uprise." Shak.
2. A becoming existent or prominent.
3. A slope upward; an ascending shaft.
4. An insurrection; uprising.
5. Gymnastics. An act of rising from the end of a backward swing to a position of rest on an apparatus, as the horizontal bar or flying rings.

up·ris'er (ŭp·rīz'ĕr), n. A participant in an uprising.

up·ris'ing (ŭp·rīz'ĭng; ŭp'rīz'-), n. 1. Act of rising; also, a steep place; ascent. "The steep uprising of the hill. Shak.
2. An insurrection; a revolt.
3. A coming into existence or prominence.

up·ris'ing, adj. That rises up; ascending; increasing; ensuing.

up·rist' (ŭp·rĭst'), n. [AS. rīst (in comp.) a rising.] Uprising; resurrection. Obs.

up·rist', adj. Uprisen. Archaic.

up'riv'er (ŭp'rĭv'ĕr; 66), adj. Situated or leading toward the source of a river. — n. An upriver district.

up'roar' (ŭp'rōr'; 66; 181), n. [D. oproer; akin to MLG. uprōr, G. aufruhr, and to D. roeren to stir, G. rühren, OHG. ruoren, ON. hræra, Dan. røre, AS. hrēran. See UP-, UP; cf. REREMOUSE.] Orig., an insurrection or similar outbreak of disorder; now, great tumult; violent disturbance and noise; noisy confusion; bustle and clamor.

But the Jews . . . set all the city on an uproar. Acts xvii. 5.

Syn. — Hurly-burly, tumult, turmoil, pandemonium.
Ant. — Calm, quiet, tranquillity, peacefulness.

up·roar' (ŭp·rōr'; 181), v. t. To throw into uproar or confusion. — v. i. To make uproar. Both Rare. — up·roar'er, n. Obs.

up·roar'i·ous (-ĭ·ŭs), adj. Making, or accompanied by, uproar, or noise and tumult; hence, disordered. — up·roar'i·ous·ly, adv. — up·roar'i·ous·ness, n.

up roll. Nav. Gun. That part of a complete roll during which the ship rolls away from the target.

up·root' (ŭp·rōōt'; 200), v. t. To root up.

up·root', v. t. To tear up by or as by the roots; hence, to remove utterly; eradicate; extirpate. — up·root'er, n.

up·root'al (ŭp·rōōt'ăl; -l), n. Act of uprooting; state of being uprooted.

up·sad'dle (ŭp·săd'l), v. t. & i. To saddle (a horse or mule). S. Afr.

up'scud'dle (ŭp'skŭd'l), n. A quarrel. Southern U. S. up·seek' (ŭp·sēk'), v. t. To seek after. Obs.

up·seek', v. i. To seek or strain upward.

up·set' (ŭp·sĕt'; 66), adj. a Set up; as: (1) Erected. (2) Fixed; determined. b Overturned; disordered; capsized. c Mentally distressed or perturbed.

up·set' (ŭp·sĕt'), v.; past tense & past part. UP·SET' or (esp. in sense 6) UP·SET'TED; pres. part. & verbal n. UP·SET'TING. Transitive: 1. To set up or raise; to put upright. Obs.
2. To refund or repair, as a loss; also, to recover from, as from an injury. Obs. exc. Dial.
3. To overturn, overthrow, or capsize; as, to upset a carriage; to upset an argument; to upset the situation.
4. a To discompose; disturb the self-possession of; as, the fright upset her. b To make physically ill.
5. Basketwork. To turn upwards the outer ends of (stakes) so as to make a foundation for the side of a basket or the like; also, to form (the side) in this manner.
6. Mach. a To thicken and shorten, as a heated bar of iron, by hammering on the end; to swage. b To shorten (a tire) in the process of resetting, as by cutting it and hammering on the ends or by treating in a special machine without cutting.
——, Intransitive: 1. To become upset or overturned.
2. To become bent; — of projectiles.
3. Basketwork. To upset the stakes.
Syn. — Disturb, disconcert, discompose; subvert. See OVERTURN. Ant. — Settle, establish; right, balance.

upset the applecart. To throw affairs into confusion. Colloq.

up'set' (ŭp'sĕt'), n. 1. Act or result of upsetting, or state of being upset; overturn; as, the wagon had an upset; hence, a derangement of plans or ideas; a physical disorder; also, a quarrel.
2. Formerly, a setting up in business. Chiefly Scot.
3. A putting into some form, as in a rough draft.
4. Outcome; upshot. Chiefly Dial.
5. Basketwork. The rods plaited or woven around the bottoms of the stakes immediately after upsetting, to keep them in position. See BASKET, Illust.
6. Carp. Buckling of wood fibers due to crushing.
7. Mach. a A swage used in upsetting. b A part of a rod or the like that is upset. See UPSET, v. t., 6 a.
8. Manège. A part of the bit curving over the horse's tongue. Obs.

upset butt welding. See BUTT WELDING.

up'set' price. The price fixed on as the minimum for property offered in a public sale, or, the price at which property is set up or started by an auctioneer, and the lowest price at which it will be sold.

up·set'tal (ŭp·sĕt'ăl; -l), n. An upsetting.

up·set'ter (-ĕr), n. One who or that which upsets; specif., an upsetting machine or its tender up·set'ting, n. Act of one who upsets; also, its result.

up·set'ting, adj. a That upsets or disconcerts b Scot. Conceited; assuming; as, an upsetting fellow. — up·set'ting·ly, adv.

upsetting thermometer. A thermometer by merely inverting which the temperature may be registered. The column of mercury is broken and, as it remains so until the instrument is reset, the reading may be made at leisure.

up'shoot' (ŭp·shōōt'), v. i. & t. To shoot up; raise; rise.

up'shoot' (ŭp'shōōt'), n. a Obs. exc. Dial. Outcome; upshot. b Act or result of shooting up; that which shoots up; specif., an offshoot. c Baseball. A pitched ball that curves upward. See CURVE, n., 5.

up'shot' (ŭp'shŏt'), n. [Orig., the last shot in an archery contest. The force of up- is uncert.] 1. Formerly, in archery, a final shot; hence: a Obs. A termination; a parting shot; also, a mark aimed at. b The limit.
2. Final issue; conclusion; the sum and substance; the end, result, or consummation; as, the upshot of the matter.

We account it frailty that threescore years and ten make the upshot of man's pleasurable existence. De Quincey.

— in the upshot. Finally; at the end.

up'side' (-sīd'), n. The upper side; the uppermost part.

upside down. [A corruption of ME. up so down, lit., up as down.] With the upper part undermost; hence, in confusion; in complete disorder; topsy-turvy. — up'side'–down', adj.

These that have turned the world upside down. Acts xvii. 6.

— up'side–down'ism, up'side–down'ness, n.

up'sides' (ŭp'sīdz'; ŭp·sīdz'), adv. On the same plane; even; quits; — followed by with. Scot. & Dial.

---

up'pard (ŭp'ĕrd; ŏp'-). Var. of UPWARD. Obs. exc. Dial. uppe. Archaic var. of UP. up'per·est, adj., superl. of UP. Now Rare. up'pest, adj., superl. of UP. Obs. up'pl·ty (ŭp'l·tĭ), adj. = UPPISH, 1. U. S. up·plight', past part. [up- + plight, past part. of plitch.] Plucked up. Obs. [UPHIRE.] up·rais'. Obs. past tense of up·raught', past part. Raised. Obs. up'right'ish, adj. See -ISH. up'rights', ads. = UPRIGHT. up·rise'ment, n. See -MENT. up·ris'en, adj. = ARISEN. up·roar'i·ness, n. = UPROARIOUSNESS. up·roar'ish, adj. Seditious. Obs. up·rose', past tense of UPRISE. ups and downs. See 3d UP AND DOWN. upsedoun. † UPSIDE DOWN. up'see. Var. of UPSY. — up'sees, n. pl. Scot. [DAISY.] up'-see-dai'sy, interj. = UP-Aup·set'ment, n. See -MENT. R. up·setf', Var. of UPSET. up·set'ta·ble, adj. See -ABLE. up·set'ted, past tense & past part. of UPSET, v. t. (sense 5). up'sey. = UPSY.
up'side-down'wards, ads. See -WARDS.

---

up'sight'ed (ŭp'sīt'ĕd; -Id; 66), adj. Having anoöpsia. Dial. Eng.

up'si·lon (ūp'sī·lŏn or, esp. Brit., ūp·sī'lŏn), n. [Gr. y psilon bare, mere, simple y.] 1. The twentieth letter (Υ, υ) of the Greek alphabet, a vowel having originally the sound of oo as in room, becoming before the 4th century B.C. that of French u or German ü. Its equivalent in English is u or y. See U, Y. Upsilon is variously used for classifying, as, Astron., to designate some star, usually the twentieth brightest, of a constellation; as, Upsilon (υ) Scorpii.
2. a An instance of the letter Υ, υ, written, printed, etc. b As a numeral, 400. Cf. GREEK NUMERAL.

up'si·lon·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Marked or excessive use of Greek upsilon or its equivalents as English u or y.

up·sit'ten (ŭp·sĭt'n), part. adj. [up- + dial. sitten (past part of sit) firmly seated.] Indifferent. Scot.

up·sit'ting (-ĭng), n. 1. A lifting up. Obs.
2. A sitting up after accouchement or illness. Now Dial.
3. Indifference; listlessness. Obs. Scot.
4. A sitting up at night in courtship. S. Afr.

up'slip' (ŭp'slĭp'), n. Geol. An upward displacement on one side of a fault; — implying that the other side has not slipped downward to the full extent of the total displacement.

up·spear' (ŭp·spēr'), v. i. To shoot up spears, as grass.

up·spin' (ŭp·spĭn'), v. t. To evolve by or as by spinning.

up·spring' (ŭp·sprĭng'), v. i. To spring up; rise; come to be.

up'spring' (ŭp'sprĭng'), n. a Obs. Rise (of the sun). b A spring or leap into the air; hence, jet, as of a fountain. c Generation; growth; development.

up'spring', adj. Upstart. Obs.

up'stage' (ŭp'stāj'), adv. Toward or at the rear of the stage; as, to retire upstage; — the rear being originally higher than the front.

up'stage', adj. Of or pertaining to the rear of the stage; hence, Colloq., backward or shy; also, offish; snobbish.

up'stage', v. t. To treat snobbishly. Slang.

up'stairs' (ŭp'stârz'; 66), adv. Up the stairs; in or toward an upper story; as, she walked upstairs; go upstairs; in or toward higher position, authority, etc.

up'stairs' (ŭp'stârz'; 66), adj. Being above stairs; pertaining to an upper story; as, an upstairs room. — n. The portion of a building above the ground story; also, a person or the persons dwelling on an upper story.

up·stand' (ŭp·stănd'), v. i. a Obs. To stand upright. b To stand up. — n. A thing or part that stands upright.

up·stand'er (ŭp·stăn'dĕr), n. A parish minister. Shetland & Orkney I.

up·stand'er (ŭp·stăn'dĕr), n. One of the handle bars of an Eskimo sledge.

up·stand'ing (-dĭng), adj. 1. Erect; hence, straightforward; having integrity.
2. Continuing intact or in good condition.
3. Superior; exceptional. Colloq.

up·stare' (ŭp·stâr'), v. i. 1. To stare upward.
2. To rise upward; to be erect or conspicuous. Obs.
Rearing fiercely their upstaring crests. Spenser.

up·start' (ŭp·stärt'), v. i. & t. To start or cause to start up; hence: a To rise on end; — of hair. b To come into being or notice.

up'start' (ŭp'stärt'), n. 1. One who has risen suddenly, as from humble position to wealth, power, or honor, esp. such a one who presumes on his success; a parvenu.
2. The meadow saffron.
3. Obs. a An upward start. b Origin.
4. Gymnastics. An act of rising to a position of rest on an apparatus, or, in tumbling, to a standing position, by the aid of a quick flexion, followed by extension, of the thighs.

up'start', adj. 1. Suddenly raised to prominence or consequence; characteristic of, or of the nature of, a parvenu.
A race of upstart creatures. Milton.
2. Erect on end. "Upstart hair." Spenser.

up'state' (ŭp'stāt'; 66), adj. Of or from that part of a State outside of some large city, esp. to the north. — n. An upstate region, esp. northern New York. — up'state', adv. — up'stat'er (-stāt'ĕr), n. All U.S. Written up'-State', up'-Stat'er with reference to a particular State.

up·stay' (ŭp·stā'), v. t. To sustain.

up·stir' (ŭp·stûr'), v. t. To stir up; incite; stimulate.

up'stir' (ŭp'stûr'), n. Tumult; commotion. Now Dial.

up'straight' (ŭp'strāt'; 66), adj. Erect. Rare.

up'stream' (ŭp'strēm'), adv. At or toward a location nearer the source of a stream; — sometimes with of. — adj. Situated or occurring upstream.

up·stream' (ŭp·strēm'), v. i. To stream upward, as mist.

up'street' (ŭp'strēt'), adv. Farther up the street; away from downtown.

up'stroke' (ŭp'strōk'), n. 1. An upward stroke; esp., a stroke or line made by a pen, or the like, moving upward.
2. Outcome; upshot. Dial. Eng.

up'sun' (ŭp'sŭn'), n. Scots Law. The time between sunrise and sunset.

up·surge' (ŭp·sûrj'), v. i. To surge up. — up·sur'gence (-sûr'jĕns), n.

up·swarm' (ŭp·swôrm'), v. i. & t. To rise, or cause to rise, in a swarm.

up·sweep' (ŭp·swēp'), v. t. & i.; past tense & past part. UP·SWEPT' (-swĕpt'); pres. part. & verbal n. UP·SWEEP'·ING. To sweep up or upward. — (ŭp'swēp'), n. A sweeping up or upward; specif., the upward curving of the under jaw of certain animals, as the bulldog.

up·swing' (ŭp·swĭng'), v. i.; UP·SWUNG' (-swŭng'); UP·SWING'ING. To swing up; improve. — (ŭp'swĭng'), n. A swinging upward; improvement.

up'sy, up'see (ŭp'sĭ), [D. op zijn, lit. in its, as op zijn Friesch in good Frisian manner.] In the manner of; as; à la; — chiefly in composition, as up'sy–Dutch', up'sy–Eng'lish, up'sy–Freeze' (Frisian), jocose terms for tippling; as, a frolic upsy-Freeze. Obs. Slang.

up'sy–dai'sy (ŭp'sĭ·dā'zĭ), interj. = UP-A-DAISY.

up'sy–free'sy (ŭp'sĭ·frē'zĭ), adj. [See UPSY.] Given to heavy drinking. Rare.

up'sy–tur'vy (-tûr'vĭ), adv. [Cf. UPSIDE DOWN; TOPSY-TURVY.] Topsy-turvy. Rare.

up'tails' all' (ŭp'tālz'). Obs. a Wanton frolic; also, a reveler. b [caps.] A name for an old song and its tune.

up'take' (ŭp'tăk'; ŏŏp'-; ŏŏp·tăk'), v. t. a Archaic & Dial. To take or draw up. b Obs. Scot. To collect; levy. c Obs. To help; support; succor. d Archaic & Dial. To comprehend.

up'take' (ŭp'tăk'), n. 1. Act of taking up; a lifting.
2. Understanding; comprehension; as, quick in the uptake.
3. a Steam Boilers. The pipe leading upward from the smoke box of a steam boiler to the chimney, or smokestack; a flue leading upward. b A shaft or tube up which a current of air passes, esp. for ventilation; upcast.
4. A take-up, esp. for a loom.

up'tak'er (ŭp'tăk'ĕr), n. One who or that which takes up; as: a Obs. One who helps or supports. b (ŭp'tăk'ĕr; ŏŏp'-; ŏŏp·tăk'ĕr). Scot. A collector.

up the wind. Aviation Into the wind; as, the airplane landed up the wind.

up·throw' (ŭp·thrō'), v. t. To throw or raise aloft; to cast or lift up.

up'throw' (ŭp'thrō'), n. 1. Upheaval; a casting up.
2. Mining. See 3d THROW, 9.

up'thrust' (-thrŭst'), n. An upward thrust; specif., Geol., an uplift of part of the earth's crust, commonly with faulting.

up·till' (ŭp·tĭl'), prep. Up to; against. Rare. Shak.

up to date. To the present date or time; in up-to-date condition or preparation.

up'–to–date', adj. Extending to the present time; abreast of the times in style, manners, information, etc.
I must prefer to translate the poet in a manner more congenial if less up-to-date. Andrew Lang.
Syn. — Modern, new; fashionable.
Ant. — Outmoded, old-fashioned.
— up'–to–date'ly, adv. — up'–to–date'ness, n. — up'–to–dat'ish (-dāt'ĭsh), adj. — up'–to–dat'ish·ness, n.

up to the first. In the least degree; — after a negative. Dial.

up'–to–the–min'ute, adj. Extending up to the immediate present; up-to-date.

up'town' (ŭp'toun'), adv. a To or in the upper part of a town; as, to go uptown. b U. S. To or in that part of a city that is distant from the main business section, specif. the residential section.

up'town' (ŭp'toun'; 66), adj. a Situated in, or belonging to, the upper part of a town or city; as, an uptown street, shop, etc.; uptown society. b U. S. Situated in or belonging to the residential section of a city. — up'town', n.

up'town'er (ŭp'toun'ĕr), n. One who resides uptown. Colloq., U. S.

up·train' (ŭp·trān'), v. t. To train in rearing.

up·trill' (ŭp·trĭl'), v. t. To trill in a high voice.

up·turn' (ŭp·tûrn'), v. t. & i.; -TURNED' (-tûrnd'); -TURN'·ING. To turn up; as: a To turn over, as in digging, capsizing, etc. b To direct or turn upward. "A sea of upturned faces." D. Webster.

up'turn' (ŭp'tûrn'), n. A turning upward; a part upturned; esp., a turn toward better conditions, higher prices, etc.

U'pu·pa (ū'pū·pȧ), n. [L. See HOOPOE.] Zool. The genus consisting of the true hoopoes. It is the type of a family, U·pu·pi·dae (ū·pū'pĭ·dē). — u'pu·poid (ū'pū·poid), adj.

up'ward (ŭp'wĕrd), adv. [AS. upweard. See UP; -WARD.]
1. In a direction from lower to higher; toward a higher place; — opposed to downward; as, to tend or look upward.
2. Toward the source or origin; as, to explore a river from the mouth upward; toward the interior, a metropolis, etc.
3. Toward the past. Archaic.
4. Toward a higher, or greater, degree, rank, or the like; onward; up; as, from a clerkship upward.
5. In a higher or the highest relative position; as, lying with the face upward.
6. In the upper parts; above; toward the head; as, from the girdle upward.
Dagon his name, sea monster, upward man,
And downward fish. Milton.
7. Toward or into later years, esp. of age; as, from his youth upward.
8. Indefinitely more; above; over.
Fourscore and upward. Shak.
9. Toward a higher value or price; as, from five dollars upward.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

upward-borne	upward-pointed	upward-stirring upward-bound	upward-rushing	upward-striving upward-gazing	upward-shooting	upward-turning — upward of. Upwards of.

up'ward, prep. Along up. Rare.

up'ward, adj. [AS. upweard. See UP; -WARD.] Directed or moving toward, or situated in, a higher place; ascending; lofty; as, an upward course; also, upstream. — up'ward·ly, adv. — up'ward·ness, n.

up'ward, n. 1. The top. Obs.
2. Motion upward. Rare.

up'wards (ŭp'wĕrdz), adv. [AS. upweardes. See UP; -WARDS.] Upward (in all senses).

upwards of. a More than; in excess of; above. b Erron. & Dial.: (1) Not quite as much or as many as; approaching. (2) About; not exactly.

up'way' (ŭp'wā'), n. Ascent; also, upslip. Rare.

up'ways' (ŭp'wāz'), adv. Upward. Colloq.

up·wind' (ŭp·wĭnd'), v. t. & i. To wind, roll, or coil, up or upward.

up'wind' (ŭp'wĭnd'), adv. With face or course against the wind.

up'wind' (-wĭnd'), n. 1. A wind blowing against one's course.
2. Meteorol. A wind blowing up a slope.

up'with (ŭp'wĭth), adv. [up, adv. + with.] Upward. Scot. — n. An upward course; an ascent. Chiefly Scot. — adj. Rising; uphill. Scot.

up'wry (ŭp'rī'), v. t. To twist upward.

up·wind' (ŭp·wĭnd'), v. i.; UP·WOUND' (-wound'); UP·WIND'ING. To wind up; improve. — (ŭp'wĭnd'), n. A winding upward; improvement.

up'wind' (ŭp'wĭnd'), adv. With face or course against the wind.

up'wind' (-wĭnd'), n. 1. A wind blowing against one's course.
2. Meteorol. A wind blowing up a slope.

up'with (ŭp'wĭth), adv. [up, adv. + with.] Upward. Scot. — n. An upward course; an ascent. Chiefly Scot. — adj. Rising; uphill. Scot.

up'way' (ŭp'wā'), n. Ascent; also, upslip. Rare.

up'ways' (ŭp'wāz'), adv. Upward. Colloq.

up·wind' (ŭp·wĭnd'), v. t. & i. To wind, roll, or coil, up or upward.

up'wind' (ŭp'wĭnd'), adv. With face or course against the wind.

up'wind' (-wĭnd'), n. 1. A wind blowing against one's course.
2. Meteorol. A wind blowing up a slope.

up'wind' (ŭp'wĭnd'), n. 1. Act of winding up.
2. Mining. See 3d THROW, 9.

up'wound', past part. & past. adj. of UPWIND. [WORK.

up·wrought', past part. of UP-WORK.

u·ra' (ū'rȧ). See -UROUS.

u·rae'mi·a. Var. of UREMIA.

U'ra·go'ga (ū'rȧ·gŏ'gȧ), n. [NL., fr. 3d ur- + Gr. agōgos leading. See -AGOGUE.] Syn. of CEPHALIS.

U'ral (ū'rĭ; ū'rȧ·l) D. Bib.

U'ral-Al·ta'ian (ū'rȧl·ăl·tā'yăn; -ī'ăn), U·ra'lo-Al·ta'ian (ū·rȧ'lō-), adj. = URAL-ALTAIC.

u·ra'ra (ū·rȧ'rȧ), n. [Cf. WOURALI.] = CURARE. [= 1st URAL.

u'ra·line (ū'rȧ·lēn; -lĭn; 157), n. = 1st URAL.

u·ra'li·um (ū·rā'lĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.]

u'ra·cil (ū'rȧ·sĭl), n. [3d ur- + acid + -il.] Biochem. A colorless crystalline base, $C_4H_4N_2O_2$, 2,4-dihydroxypyrimidine; also, any of various derivatives of it. Cf. NUCLEIN BASE.

u·rae'us (ū·rē'ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ouraios.] Egypt. Relig. The representation of the sacred asp appearing on the headdress of rulers, esp. just over the forehead, as a symbol of sovereignty.

Uraeus (from an Egyptian Relief).

U rail. A U-shaped rail.

u'ral (ū'răl), n. [urethan + chloral.] Pharm. A bitter crystalline substance, a compound of chloral and urethan, used as a hypnotic.

U'ral (ū'rȧl; 242), adj. Pertaining to or designating the Urals, a mountain range running north and south and forming for the most part the eastern boundary of Soviet Russia in Europe, or a river of southern Russia, chiefly in Asia.

U'ral–Al·ta'ic (ū'rȧl·ăl·tā'ĭk), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to the Urals and the Altai; as, the Ural-Altaic customs.
2. Designating or pertaining to a great linguistic family, the Ural-Altaic languages, or the peoples whose mother tongues are comprised in it. Physically these peoples vary from the pure Mongolian type of eastern Siberia to the Caucasian Finn and Magyar, the tribes of western Siberia and central Asia presenting every degree of variation between these two. The Ural-Altaic languages comprise most of the agglutinative languages of Europe and northern Asia. They vary in structure from the primitive and amorphic agglutination of Mongolic to the complex elaboration of Turkish and the developed inflection of Finnish. They are characterized by vowel harmony and by the constancy of stress upon the first syllable, which is always the root or stem. They are called also Ugro-Altaic, Finno-Tatar, Turanian, etc. See AGGLUTINATIVE LANGUAGES; cf. JAPANESE, n., 2. These various languages may be classified as in the following table, but their exact relationships are not yet scientifically established, and some scholars dispute kinship between the Uralian and the Altaian tongues.

URAL–ALTAIC LANGUAGES

SUBFAMILY	BRANCH	LANGUAGES	CHIEF LOCALITY
FINNO-UGRIC		See FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES
SAMOYED		Yurak, Yenisei, Tavghi, Kamasin, Ostyak Samoyed	From the White Sea to the Khatanga River in Siberia
TURKIC or TURKO-TATAR	East Turki	Uigur, Jagatai, Uzbek, Kara-Kalpak, Turkoman	Mongolia, Turkestan
	West Turki	Osmanli Turkish (Azerbaijani), Chuvash	Turkey, northwestern Persia, Transcaucasia, central Russia (Europe)
	Kipchak	Coman (extinct), Kazan Tatar Kirghiz, Nogai, Kumyk	Central Asia, the Pamir, West Siberian steppes, the lower Volga, Crimea, Caucasus, etc.
	Siberian Tatar	Teleut, Koibal, Soyot, Bashkir	From the Altai to the Ural Mountains
	Yakut	Yakut	Northeast Siberia
MONGOLIC		East Mongolian (Sharra, Khalkha), North Mongolian or Buriat, West Mongolian or Kalmuck	Mongolia, Lake Baikal region, lower Don and Volga in Russia
TUNGUSIC or MANCHU		Tungus, Lamut, Gold, Manchu	Manchuria, Siberia east of the Yenisei River

U'ral–Al·ta'ic, n. The Ural-Altaic family of languages.

U·ra'li·an (ū·rā'lĭ·ăn), adj. 1. Of or relating to the Ural Mountains or to the people dwelling in or near them.
2. Designating, or pertaining to, the Finno-Ugric, or the Finno-Ugric and Samoyed, languages.

Uralian emerald. A demantoid. See 1st GARNET, 1.

U·ral'ic (ū·răl'ĭk), adj. Uralian.

u'ral·ite (ū'rȧl·īt), n. [From the Ural Mts.] Mineral. Amphibole, usually fibrous and dark-green, resulting from alteration of pyroxene. — u'ral·it'ic (-ĭt'ĭk), adj.

u'ral·ite–gab'bro, n. Petrog. A gabbro whose pyroxene has been altered to secondary amphibole.

u·ral'i·tize (ū·răl'ĭ·tīz), v. t.; -TIZED (-tīzd); -TIZ'ING (-tīz'ĭng). Mineral. To alter (pyroxene) so as to form uralite. — u·ral'i·ti·za'tion (-tĭ·zā'shăn; -tī·zā'shăn), n.

U·ra'lo- (ū·rā'lō-). A combining form for Ural, denoting Ural and, as in U·ra'lo–Al·ta'ic, U·ra'lo–Cas'pi·an, U·ra'lo–Fin'nic.

u'ra·mi'do- (ū'rȧ·mē'dō-; ū·răm'ĭ·dō-). Also u'ra·mi'no- (ū'rȧ·mē'nō-; ū·răm'ĭ·nō-). [See 1st URO-; AMIDO-, AMINO-.] Chem. Carbamido-. — u'ra·mi'do (-dō), u'ra·mi'no (-nō), adj.

u'ra·mil (ū'rȧ·mĭl), n. [G. See UREA; AMMONIA.] Chem. A nitrogenous cyclic compound, $CO<(NHCO)_2>CHNH_2$, obtained from alloxantin and other urea derivatives in colorless crystals which redden on exposure; 5-aminobarbituric acid; — called also murexan. — u'ra·mil'ic (ū'rȧ·mĭl'ĭk), adj.

u'ran (ū'răn), n. [F. ouran, varan, fr. Ar. waran, waral. Cf. VARAN.] A monitor lizard.

U'ran (ōō'rȧn), n. & adj. See URO. uran-. = 1st & 2d URANO-.

u'ra·nal'y·sis (ū'rȧ·năl'ĭ·sĭs), n. Chemical analysis of urine.

u'ra·nate (ū'rȧ·nāt), n. Chem. A salt of uranic acid.

U·ra'ni·a (ū·rā'nĭ·ȧ), n. [L., fr. Gr. Ourania, fr. ouranios heavenly, fr. ouranos heaven. See URANUS.] 1. a Gr. Myth. The Muse of astronomy. b An epithet of Aphrodite. c A work on an astronomical subject; — in titles.
2. Feminine proper name. F. Uranie (ü'rȧ'nē').
3. [NL.] Zool. A genus of large, brilliantly colored moths, typifying a family, U'ra·ni'i·dae (ū'rȧ·nĭ'ĭ·dē), native of the West Indies and South America. Their bright-colored and tailed hind wings and their diurnal flight cause them to resemble butterflies. — u·ra'ni·id (ū·rā'nĭ·ĭd), n. & adj.

Urania blue. The color independence.

u'ra·nic (ū·răn'ĭk), adj. = URAL-ALTAIC.

u'ra·ni'um (ū·rā'nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] = 1st URAL.

u'ra·nit'ic (ū'rȧ·nĭt'ĭk), adj. = URANIC.

u'ra·nit'i·ca (ū'rȧ·nĭt'ĭ·kȧ), n. [Cf. URANITIC.] = CURARE. [= 1st URAL.

u'ra·nite (ū'rȧ·nīt), n. = 1st URAL.

u'ra·nium (ū·rā'nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] = 1st URAL.

u'ra·no- (ū'rȧ·nō-). A combining form for urachus denoting urachal and, as in u'ra·cho-ves'i·cal. See VESICAL.

u'ra·chus (ū'rȧ·kŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ourachos urinary canal of a fetus, fr. ouron urine + echein to hold.] Anat. A cord of fibrous tissue extending from the bladder to the umbilicus. It is the functionless remnant of a part of the duct of the allantois of the embryo, the basal part of the duct forming the bladder. — u'ra·chal (-kăl), adj.

u'ra·nol'o·gy (ū'rȧ·nŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [Gr. Ouranos heaven + -LOGY.] The science of the heavens; astronomy. — u'ra·nol'o·gist, n.

u'ra·nom'e·try (ū'rȧ·nŏm'ĕ·trĭ), n. [Gr. Ouranos heaven + -METRY.] Astronomy. — u'ra·no·met'ric (ū'rȧ·nō·mĕt'rĭk), u'ra·no·met'ri·cal, adj.

u'ra·no·pla'ni·ty (ū'rȧ·nō·plăn'ĭ·tĭ), n. [Gr. Ouranos heaven + planētēs wanderer.] Astrol. Influence of the planets.

u'ra·nos'co·pe (ū'rȧ·nŏs'kō·pē), n. [Gr. ouranoskopos star-gazer.] Zool. A genus of fishes typifying a family, U'ra·nos'co·pi·dae (-pĭ·dē), of the perches, with the eyes on the top of the head. — u'ra·nos'co·pic (-pĭk), adj.

u'ra·nous (ū'rȧ·nŭs), n. [Gr. Ouranos heaven.] Astrol. Influence of the planets.

u'ra·nus (ū'rȧ·nŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Ouranos heaven, personified as the husband of Gaia, the earth, and father of the Titans.] 1. a Gr. Myth. The personification of the vault of heaven, the husband of Gaia, the earth, and father of the Titans. b Astron. The planet discovered by Herschel in 1781, the seventh in order from the sun, with a period of 84 years and 7 days. It has four satellites and a system of rings. c Astrol. The influence of the planet Uranus.
2. Feminine proper name. F. Uranie (ü'rȧ'nē').

u'ra·nyl (ū'rȧ·nĭl), n. Chem. The bivalent radical UO_2, forming salts with acids.

u'ra·nyl'ic (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or designating, uranyl.

u'ra·nyl'i·ty (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Uranyl.

u'ra·nyl'o·ra (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ō·rȧ), n. [Cf. URANYLITIC.] = CURARE. [= 1st URAL.

u'ra·nyl'o·ra·line (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ō·rȧ·lēn; -lĭn; 157), n. = 1st URAL.

u'ra·nyl'o·ra·lin (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ō·rȧ·lĭn), n. [NL.] = 1st URAL.

u'ra·nyl'o·ra·lum (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ō·rȧ·lŭm), n. [NL.] = 1st URAL. u'ra·nyl'o·ra·ly (ū'rȧ·nĭl'ō·rȧ·lĭ), n. [Cf. WOURALI.] = CURARE. [=

U·ra′ni·an (ū·rā′nĭ·ăn), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or concerned with, the heavens, or the science of astronomy; astronomical.
2. Pertaining to or dedicated to Urania.
3. Heavenly; — an epithet of Aphrodite.

U·ra′ni·an, adj. Astron. Of or pertaining to the planet Uranus. — n. A hypothetical inhabitant of the planet Uranus.

u·ran′ic (ū·răn′ĭk), adj. [Gr. ouranos heaven.] Of or pertaining to the heavens; celestial; astronomical.

u·ran′ic, adj. [From URANIUM.] Chem. Of, pertaining to, or containing, uranium; specif., designating compounds in which uranium has a valence higher than in uranous compounds.

u·ran′ic, adj. [Gr. ouranos palate.] Anthropom. Of or relating to the palate.

uranic acid. a An acid of uranium, H_2UO_4, obtained as a yellow powder by boiling a solution of uranyl nitrate, and by other methods. b By extension, any of various other acids corresponding to uranic oxide, UO_3, known only in their salts, as $H_2U_2O_7$ (diuranic acid).

uranic anhydride. Chem. See URANIUM OXIDE.

U·ra′ni·cen′tric (ū·rā′nĭ·sĕn′trĭk), adj. Astron. Referred to Uranus as a center.

uranic oxide. Chem. See URANIUM OXIDE.

U·ran′i·dae (ū·răn′ĭ·dē), n. pl. [Gr. Ouranidai.] Gr. Myth. Descendants of Uranus.

u·ran′i·dine (ū·răn′ĭ·dēn; -dĭn), n. Also -din. [uranic + -id + -ine.] Biochem. Any of certain yellow pigments, soluble in fat solvents, obtained from such marine animals as some corals, worms, sea cucumbers, and mollusks (Aplysia). They are oxidized to brown or brownish-black pigments.

u·ra·nif′er·ous (ū′rȧ·nĭf′ĕr·ŭs), adj. [uranium + -ferous.] Containing or yielding uranium.

u·ran′i·nite (ū·răn′ĭ·nīt), n. [From URANIUM.] Mineral. A mineral commonly occurring in black octahedrons with a hardness of 6.6 and a specific gravity as high as 9.7 when unaltered. It consists largely of uranium and is regarded as a uranate of uranyl, but it contains also thorium, the cerium and yttrium metals, and lead; further, it often yields when heated a gas consisting chiefly of helium. Bröggerite, cleveite, and nivenite are varieties. Pitchblende is regarded as a massive and altered form, of lower hardness and specific gravity. The recent discovery of radium in these minerals has given them great importance (see RADIUM.)

u·ra′ni·on (ū·rā′nĭ·ŏn), n. [G., prob. fr. Gr. ouranos heaven.] Music. A keyboard instrument, invented by Buschmann in 1810, consisting of a series of pieces of wood, sounded by being pressed against a revolving wheel.

uranisco-. A combining form for uraniscus, the palate, as in u·ra·nis′co·chas′ma, cleft palate, u·ra·nis′co·plas′ty, u·ra·nis·cor′a·phy, u·ra·nis·cor′rha·phy.

‖u·ra·nis′cus (ū′rȧ·nĭs′kŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ouraniskos.] Anat. The palate.

u·ra·nism (ū′rȧ·nĭz′m), n. [See URANIA, 1 b.] Homosexuality among males. — u·ra·nist (-nĭst), n.

u·ra·nite (ū′rȧ·nīt), n. [Cf. G. uranit, F. uranite. See URANIUM.] Mineral. A general term for the uranium phosphates, autunite, or lime uranite, and torbernite, or copper uranite, formerly classed as a single species. The uranite group includes these and a few related minerals. — u·ra·nit′ic (-nĭt′ĭk), adj.

u·ra′ni·um (ū·rā′nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Uranus the planet. See URANUS.] Chem. A radioactive element of the chromium group, found in combination in pitchblende and certain other rare minerals, and reduced as a heavy, hard, nickel-white metal. Symbol, U or Ur; at. no., 92; at. wt., 238.07. It was discovered by Klaproth in 1789. It has several valences, but the chief ones are four (uranous compounds) and six (as in uranyl compounds). Natural uranium consists of U 238 (99.3 per cent), U 235 (0.7 per cent), and U 234 (trace). U 238 and U 235 are used as sources of atomic energy. Uranium compounds are used in coloring porcelain and glass, in photography, in medicine, etc. The radioactive disintegration products of uranium (called specif. uranium I) are: uranium X_1 → uranium X_2 → uranium Z → uranium II → ionium → radium. See RADIUM.

uranium glass. A fluorescent yellow glass colored by adding uranium compounds.

uranium lead. Chem. Radium G. See RADIUM.

uranium nitrate. Chem. Uranyl nitrate.

uranium oxide. Chem. Any oxide of uranium. Uranium dioxide or uranous oxide, UO_2, is a black crystalline solid. Uranium trioxide, uranic oxide, or uranic anhydride, UO_3, is obtained as a red or yellow powder. Uranoso-uranic oxide, U_3O_8, forms green crystals and is the chief constituent of pitchblende. These oxides are used as pigments, esp. in porcelain glazes, as catalysts, etc.

uranium rays. Becquerel rays.

uranium red. Any of certain red pigments that are salts of complex sulphur-containing acids of uranium.

uranium yellow. See DIURANATE.

u·ra·no- (ū′rȧ·nō-), uran-. A combining form, Greek ourano-, ouran-, from ouranos, meaning: a The sky, heaven, as in uranography, uranion. b The palate, as in the following list.

uranoplastic	uranorrhaphy	uranostaphyloplasty
uranoplasty	uranoschisis	uranostaphylorrhaphy
uranoplegia	uranoschism
uranorrhaphia	uranoscope u·ra·no-, uran-. A combining form for uranium, as in uranothorite, uranyl.

u·ra·no·cir′cite (ū′rȧ·nō·sûr′sīt), n. [G. uranocircit, fr. uranit uranite + Gr. kirkos falcon (from Falkenstein in the Saxon Vogtland, where found).] Mineral. A hydrous barium uranyl phosphate in yellow-green crystals.

u·ra·nog′ra·phy (ū′rȧ·nŏg′rȧ·fĭ), n. [Gr. ouranographia, fr. ouranos heaven + graphein to write.] a Description of heaven. b The science of describing the heavens and the celestial bodies; the construction of celestial maps, globes, etc.; uranology. — u·ra·nog′ra·pher (-fĕr), n. — u·ra·no·graph′ic (-nō·grăf′ĭk), adj. — u·ra·no·graph′i·cal (-k·ăl), adj. — u·ra·nog′ra·phist (-nŏg′rȧ·fĭst), n.

u·ra·nol′a·try (-nŏl′ȧ·trĭ), n. [1st urano- + -latry.] Worship of celestial bodies and phenomena.

u·ran′o·lite (ū·răn′ō·līt), n. Also u·ran′o·lith (-lĭth). [1st urano- + -lite.] A meteorite or aerolite. Rare.

u·ra·nol′o·gy (ū′rȧ·nŏl′ō·jĭ), n. [1st urano- + -logy.] A discourse or treatise on the heavens and the celestial bodies; the study of the heavens. — u·ra·no·log′i·cal (-nō·lŏj′ĭ·k·ăl), adj.

u·ra·no·met′ri·a (ū′rȧ·nō·mĕt′rĭ·ȧ; -nŏm′ĕ·trĭ′ȧ), n. [NL.] A uranometry.

u·ra·nom′e·try (-nŏm′ĕ·trĭ), n. [1st urano- + -metry.] Astron. a A chart or catalogue of celestial bodies, esp. of visible fixed stars. b The measurement of the heavens — u·ra·no·met′ri·cal (-nō·mĕt′rĭ·k·ăl), adj.

u·ran′o·phane (ū·răn′ō·fān), n. [G. uranophan, fr. uran uranium + Gr. phainein to show.] Mineral. A hydrous uranium calcium silicate, in yellow fibrous masses. Sp. gr., 3.81–3.90.

u·ra·no·pho·tog′ra·phy (ū′rȧ·nō·fō·tŏg′rȧ·fĭ), n. [1st urano- + photography.] The photography of the heavens.

U·ra·no·scop′i·dae (-skŏp′ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See URANOSCOPY.] Zool. The family of fishes constituted by the stargazers. The type genus is U·ra·nos′co·pus (-nŏs′kō·pŭs).

u·ra·nos′co·py (-nŏs′kō·pĭ), n. Also u·ra·no·sco′pi·a (-nō·skō′pĭ·ȧ). [1st urano- + -scopy.] Observation of the heavens or celestial bodies. — u·ra·no·scop′ic (-nō·skŏp′ĭk), adj.

u·ra·no′so- (ū′rȧ·nō′sō-), adj. Chem. A combining form for uranous, as in u·ra·no′so·u·ran′ic ox′ide (see URANIUM OXIDE).

u·ra·no·spa′thite (ū′rȧ·nō·spā′thĭt), n. [2d urano- + Gr. spathē a broad blade + 1st -ite, 4.] Mineral. A yellow or pale-green hydrous uranyl phosphate, resembling autunite. See AUTUNITE.

u·ra·no·sphae′rite (-sfē′rĭt), n. [G. uranosphaerit, fr. uran uranium + Gr. sphaira ball.] Mineral. A hydrous bismuth uranate ($BiO)_3U_2O_7.3H_2O$, occurring in orange-yellow to brick-red, half-globular aggregates.

u·ra·nos′pi·nite (-nŏs′pĭ·nīt), n. [G. uranospinit, fr. uran uranium + Gr. spinos siskin; — from its green color.] Mineral. A hydrous calcium uranium arsenate in green tabular crystals.

u·ra·no·tan′ta·lite (ū′rȧ·nō·tăn′tȧ·līt), n. [2d urano- + tantalite.] Mineral. Samarskite.

u·ra·no·thal′lite (-thăl′īt), n. [G. uranothallit, fr. uran uranium + Gr. thallos green shoot; — from its color.] Mineral. A hydrous calcium uranium carbonate in green crystalline aggregates.

u·ra·no·tho′rite (-thō′rĭt; 181), n. Mineral. A uraniferous variety of thorite.

u·ran′o·til (ū·răn′ō·tĭl), n. [NL., fr. 2d urano- + Gr. tilos fiber.] Mineral. Uranophane.

u·ra·nous (ū′rȧ·nŭs), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or containing uranium; specif., designating those compounds in which uranium has a lower valence than in uranic compounds.

U·ra·nus (-nŭs; 242), n. [LL., fr. Gr. Ouranos Uranus, ouranos heaven, sky. See VARUNA; cf. URANIA, URANIUM.] 1. Gr. Myth. The personification of Heaven, husband (or son) of Gaea (Earth) and father of the Titans, the Hecatoncheires, the Cyclops, the giants, the Furies, etc. He hated his offspring and confined them in Tartarus, but, at the instigation of Gaea, his son Cronus attacked him and dethroned him.
2. Astron. One of the most remote known major planets. It is barely visible to the naked eye, and is of a sea-green color as seen in a telescope. It is nearly 1,800,000,000 miles from the sun, about 32,000 miles in diameter, and its period of revolution round the sun is about 84 of our years. It rotates on its axis in 10.7 hours. See PLANET, 1. It is sometimes called Herschel, from Sir William Herschel, who discovered it in 1781 and named it Georgium Sidus in honor of George III. Uranus has four satellites, Ariel, Umbriel, Titania, and Oberon, which move in a plane nearly perpendicular to the ecliptic. Symbol, ♅, ♅, or ♅.

u·ra·nyl (ū′rȧ·nĭl), n. [uranium + -yl.] Chem. The bivalent radical UO_2, which behaves as an element in many uranium compounds. — u·ra·nyl′ic (-nĭl′ĭk), adj.

uranyl nitrate. Chem. A yellow salt, $UO_2(NO_3)_2$, used in chemical analysis, in photography, etc.

u·ra′o (ōō·rȧ′ō), n. [Sp.] Mineral. Trona, esp. a pure form.

u·ra′re, u·ra′ri (ōō·rȧ′rē), n. Curare.

U′rar·tae′an (ōō′rär·tē′ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the ancient kingdom of Urartu, or Van; Vannic. — n. a A Van. b Vannic.

U·rar′tic (ōō·rär′tĭk), adj. Urartaean.

U·rar′tu (ōō·rär′tōō), n. [Assyr.-Bab. Urarṭu (Heb. Ārārāṭ, E. Ararat.)] Armenia.

u·rase (ū′rās; -rāz), n. Biochem. Urease.

U′rash (ōō′rȧsh), n. Babylon. Relig. A Babylonian god, esp. of agriculture.

urat-. A combining form for urate, as in:
uratasemia, uratemia, uratoma, uratosis, uraturia.

u′rate (ū′rāt; 242), n. [F.] Chem. A salt of uric acid.

u·rat′ic (ū·răt′ĭk), adj. Of, pert. to, or containing, urates.

u·ra·zine (ū′rȧ·zēn; -zĭn; 157), u·ra·zin, n. [G. urazin, fr. urin urine + hydrazin.] a A crystalline compound, $C_4H_4N_4O_2$, an amino derivative of urazole, obtained indirectly from urea, and otherwise; — so named in the belief that it had the structure $CO<(NHNH)_2>CO$. b An isomeric crystalline compound, $CO<(NHNH)_2>CO$, of the tetrazine class, derivable (theoretically) from two molecules of urea.

u·ra·zole (-zōl), n. [G. urazol, fr. 3d ur- + hydrazin + -ol.] Org. Chem. A crystalline acid compound, $C_2H_3N_3O_3$, of the triazole class, made by heating urea with hydrazine sulphate and in other ways; also, a derivative of it.

ur·bac′i·ty (ûr·băs′ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. urbs, urbis, city + -acity.] Metropolitan insularity.

ur·bain′ite (ûr·bān′īt), n. [From St. Urbain, Quebec.] Petrog. A differentiation rock consisting of rutile, much intergrown ilmenite and hematite, and a little saphirine.

ur′ban (ûr′bȧn), adj. [L. urbanus belonging to the city or town, refined, polished, fr. urbs, urbis, a city; perh. orig. a palisade of hurdles, hence, enclosure, town, and akin to L. verber rod. See VERVAIN; cf. SUBURB, URBANE.] 1. Characteristic of, constituting, or pertaining to, a city or town.
2. Having control, property, or residence, in a city or town.
3. Roman & Civil Law. Belonging, or having relation, to buildings, as being characteristic of towns or cities.

ur′ban, n. A dweller in a city or town. Rare.

Ur′ban (ûr′bȧn), n. [L. Urbanus. See URBANE.] Literally of the town; courteous; — masculine proper name. L. Urbanus (ûr·bā′nŭs); F. Urbain (ür′băn′); It. Urbano (ōōr·bä′nō); G. Urbanus (ōōr·bä′nōōs), Urban (ōōr′bän).

Ur′ban, Syl·va′nus. See SYLVANUS URBAN, GENT.

urban district. In England, Wales, and Northern Ireland, a subdivision of an administrative county comprising thickly populated communities. It is distinguished from a borough in not possessing a borough charter, and is governed by an urban district council having local jurisdiction in matters of roads, housing, policing, etc., and, to some extent, sanitation and education. Cf. RURAL DISTRICT; DISTRICT, 3 a.

ur·bane′ (ûr·bān′), adj. [See URBAN; cf. URBANITY.] 1. Archaic. = URBAN, 1 & 2.
2. Evincing the polish and suavity characteristic of social life in large cities; courteous; polite.
Syn. — See CIVIL. Ant. — Crude, unpolished, gruff.
— ur·bane′ly, adv. — ur·bane′ness, n.

Ur′bane (ûr′bān), n. Bib. Var. of URBAN.

ur′ban·ist (ûr′bȧn·ĭst), n. [urban, adj. + -ist.] A specialist in city planning.

Ur′ban·ist (ûr′bȧn·ĭst), n. 1. Eccl. One of the Poor Clares, or Franciscan nuns, living under the mitigated rule approved by Pope Urban IV, 1264. See CLARE, n.
2. Eccl. Hist. A partisan of Pope Urban VI (1378–89) against the antipope Clement VII (1378–94), whose election began the Western Schism.

ur′ban·ite (-īt), n. One who lives in a city.

ur·ban′i·ty (ûr·băn′ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. urbanitas; cf. F. urbanité.] 1. Quality or state of being urbane; courtesy of manners; politeness; suavity; refinement; hence, a civility; a courtesy.
Urbanity, the tone of the city, of the center, the tone which always aims at a spiritual and intellectual effect, and, not excluding the use of banter, never disjoins banter itself from politeness, from felicity. M. Arnold.
2. State of being urban; also, urban life.
3. Urban conversation, esp. when witty or facetious. Obs.
Syn. — Affability, courtesy; blandness.
Ant. — Surliness, crudeness, roughness.

ur′ban·ize (ûr′bȧn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ′ING (-īz′ĭng). 1. To render urbane; to refine; polish.
2. To render urban; to cause to have the characteristics of a city; as, electric railways urbanize rural districts.
— ur′ban·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′shŭn), n.

urban quaestor. See QUAESTOR, 1.

urban servitude. See SERVITUDE, n., 8 b.

urban sociology. The branch of sociology dealing with development of urban communities and their effect upon society.

ur·bar′i·al (ûr·bâr′ĭ·ăl), adj. [G. urbarium land register, fr. MHG. urbar rented land, rent, yield. See ORDEAL; BEAR to carry.] Based on a register of landed property.

ur·bic′o·lous (ûr·bĭk′ō·lŭs), adj. [L. urbs, urbis, city + -colous.] Dwelling in a city or cities.

‖ur′bi et or′bi (ûr′bĭ ĕt ôr′bĭ). [L.] To the city (that is, Rome) and the world; that is, to everyone; — used esp. in publishing papal bulls.

ur′bi·nate (ûr′bĭ·nāt), adj. Of or from Urbino, Italy.

‖ur′bis et or′bis (ûr′bĭs ĕt ôr′bĭs). [L.] Of the city and the world. See URBI ET ORBI.

‖urbs (ûrbz), n. [L.] A city; specif., Archaeol., a capital city; — contrasted with oppidum.

ur′ce·l·form′ (ûr′sē·l·fôrm′), adj. [L. urceus jar, pitcher + -iform.] Shaped like an urceus.

ur′ce·o·lar (ûr′sē·ō·lĕr), adj. Urceolate.

ur′ce·o·late (ûr′sē·ō·lāt), adj. [L. urceolus, dim. of urceus pitcher, waterpot.] Urn-shaped; gibbous below and contracted at the orifice.

ur′ce·ole (ûr′sē·ōl), n. [L. urceolus a little pitcher.] R.C.Ch. A vessel for water for washing the hands; also, one to hold wine or water; a cruet.

Ur′ce·o·li′na (-ō·lĭ′nȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. urceolus (see URCEOLE); — from the shape of the flowers.] Bot. A small genus of South American ornamental herbs (family Amaryllidaceae) cultivated under the name urn-flower, having urceolate flowers, usually yellow and green, and broad leaves produced from a bulb.

Urceolate Corolla of Vaccinium.

ur·ce′o·lus (ûr·sē′ō·lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [L., a little pitcher.] 1. Bot. An urn-shaped organ or part.
2. Zool. The external tube of certain rotifers.

ur′ce·us (ûr′sē·ŭs), n.; pl. URCEI (-ī). [L.] Rom. Antiq. A jug or pitcher with one handle.

ur′chin (ûr′chĭn), n. [ME. urchon, hurchon, irchoun, fr. OF. irechon, herichon, ireçon, hericon (F. hérisson), fr. L. ericius, fr. er hedgehog, for her; akin to Gr. chēr, and to Skr. hṛṣyati he bristles. See HORROR; cf. CAPRICE, HERISSON.] 1. A hedgehog.
2. A pert or roguish child, now usually a boy; youngster.
You did indeed dissemble, you urchin you; but where's the girl that won't dissemble for an husband? Goldsmith.
3. A mischievous elf supposed sometimes to take the form of a hedgehog. Obs. "Urchins, ouphes, and fairies." Shak.
4. A hunchback. Obs. exc. Dial.
5. A sea urchin.
6. Either of a certain two of the small card cylinders around the large drum of a carding machine.

ur′chin, adj. 1. Elfish; mischief-making. Rare. Milton.
2. Of, pertaining to, or like, an urchin.

ur′chin·ess, n. A female urchin (sense 2).

urchin fish. A porcupine fish.

ur′chin·ly, adj. Urchinlike.

urd (ûrd), n. [Hind. urd, urad.] An annual bean closely resembling and classed in the same species as the mung bean, but differing in being procumbent rather than bushy. The urd is probably native to India, where it is cultivated, esp. near Bombay, for seed and forage. It is grown in the West Indies for green manure. Called also woolly pyrol.

Urd (ōōrd), n. Var. of URTH. See NORN.

Ur′du (ōōr′dōō; ōōr·dōō′; ûr-), n. [Prop., (the language of) the camp, fr. Hind. urdū, fr. Per. urdu, fr. Turk. ordu. Cf. HORDE.] Hindustani; specif., the Persianized Moslem form of Hindustani. See HINDUSTANI, n.; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table. — Ur′du, adj.

ure (ūr), n. [ME. ure, fr. OF. oevre, uevre, euvre, work (F. œuvre), fr. L. opera. See OPERA, OPERATE; cf. INURE, MANURE.] Use; custom; practice; exercise. Obs.

ure, v. t. [Cf. OF. ovrer, ouvrer, to work. See URE, n.] To exercise; inure; to accustom by practice. Obs.

ure (ūr), n. [OF., fr. L. urus. See URUS.] The urus. Obs.

ure (ōōr), n. [ON. ūr. See URINE.] Mist; haze. Chiefly Scot.

ure (ūr), n. An eighth of a mark; an ounce; — in measures of land. Shetland & Orkney I.

-ure. [F. or L.; F. -ure, fr. L. -ura.] A suffix denoting: a Act, process, or being, as in censure, culture, exposure. b Result (of an act), as in enclosure, picture. c State, u·ran′i·cal, adj. [ML. uranicus.] = CELESTIAL, 1. Obs.

U′ra·nin (ū′rȧ·nĭn), U′ra·nine (-nĭn; -nēn; 157), n. [From the yellowish-green fluorescence (resembling that of uranium glass) of its solution.] See FLUORESCEIN.

u·ra·nog′ra·fy. Uranography. Ref. Sp.

uranous oxide. Chem. See URANIUM OXIDE.

u·ran′u·tan (ōō′rȧn·ōō′tȧn). Var. of ORANGUTAN. [Urbane. Obs.

ur·ban′i·cal (ûr·băn′ĭ·k·ăl), adj. = URBAN, 1. [IAN. Obs.

ur′ban·ism, n. See -ISM.

Ur·ba′nus (ûr·bā′nŭs). D. Bib.

ur′bi·an (ûr′bĭ·ăn), adj. [L. urbs, urbis, city.] = URBAN, 1.

ur′bic (-bĭk), adj. [L. urbicus.] = URBAN, 1.

ur′bi·car′y, adj. = SUBURBICARY.

Ur·bic′o·las (ûr·bĭk′ō·lē), n. pl. [NL. See URBICOLOUS.] Zool. Syn. of HESPERIIDAE.

ur′bi·fy, v. t. = URBANIZE. — ur′bi·fi·ca′tion, n.

ur′ce·l, n., pl. of URCEUS.

ur′chin·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

ur′chon. Var. of URCHIN. Obs. exc. Dial.

ur′dé, ur′dée (ûr′dā; -dē), adj. [Origin uncert.] Her. = CLECHÉ.

Ur′dur (ōōr′ȧ·ōōr′). Var. of URTH.

ur′dy (ûr′dĭ), adj. Her. Var. of URDÉ.

ure. † EURE, EWER, HOUR, ORE, [OUR.

rank, etc.; as in judicature, prefecture; also, a constituted body, as in legislature. d An agent or means of action, as in ligature, signature.

-ure. See -UROUS.

ure-. = UREO-.

u·re'a (ū·rē'ȧ; ū'rē·ȧ; see note below), n. [NL., fr. F. urée, fr. Gr. ouron urine. See URINE.] Biochem. a A very soluble, crystalline, nitrogenous compound, $CO(NH_2)_2$, the chief solid constituent of the urine of man and other mammals; — called also carbamide. It is also present in the urine of other animals and in small quantity in blood, serous fluids, lymph, the liver, etc. It can be made by various methods, as by the transformation of ammonium cyanate on heating, first performed by Wöhler in 1828. It unites with acids, bases, and salts, to form crystalline compounds, as urea nitrate. By hydrolysis it yields ammonium carbonate. Urea is the main product of the catabolism of protein matter in the body, and about 35 grams of it is excreted daily by a man of average weight. b Hence, any of various derivatives of the above compound; as, alkylated ureas. ☞ Although most general dictionaries accent u'rea, practically all medical dictionaries and chemists favor ure'a.

urea ferment. Urease.

urea frost. Med. A frostlike deposit of urea crystals sometimes seen on the skin in uremia, when the skin takes over part of the excretory function of the damaged kidneys.

u're·al (ū'rē·ăl; ū·rē'ăl), adj. Of or pert. to urea; containing, or consisting of, urea; characterized by excessive urea.

u're·am'e·ter (ū'rē·ăm'ē·tĕr), n. [urea + -meter.] Biochem. An apparatus for determining the amount of urea in urine. — u're·am'e·try (-trĭ), n.

u're·ase (ū'rē·ās; -āz), n. [urea + -ase.] Biochem. An enzyme that accelerates the hydrolysis of urea into ammonium carbonate. It is present in the alkaline fermentation of urine, produced by many bacteria, esp. Pseudomonas (syn. Bacterium) ureae and Micrococcus ureae (syn. M. subgriseus), and is found in seeds, as the jack bean or soybean.

u're·chi'tin (ū'rē·kĭ'tĭn), n. A poisonous crystalline glucoside, $C_{28}H_{49}O_8$, extracted with the similar compound u're·chi·tox'in (-kĭ·tŏk'sĭn), $C_{15}H_{30}O_8$, from the leaves of the wild unction, Urechites lutea, of the family Apocynaceae.

u're·de'ma (ū'rē·dē'mȧ), n. [NL., fr. 3d ur- + edema.] Med. A swelling of the tissues around a rupture of any part of the urinary tract, caused by infiltration of urine.

U·red'i·na'les (ū·rĕd'ĭ·nā'lēz), n. pl. [NL. See UREDO.] Bot. An order of parasitic fungi (class Basidiomycetes) known as rusts, or rust fungi, from the rustlike spots or pustules they produce on various leaves and stems. Many are heteroecious, developing two or more spore stages, each on a different host. The order includes four families, of which the Pucciniaceae is most important. See AECIUM, PYCNIUM, TELIUM, UREDINIUM; also CHLAMYDOSPORE. — U're·din'e·al (ū'rē·dĭn'ē·ăl), adj. — u're·din'e·ous (-ŭs), adj.

U·red'i·na'les Im'per·fec'ti (ĭm'pûr·fĕk'tī). [NL.] Bot. A group of fungi of rust fungi (Uredinales) including those in which the telial (perfect) stage is either unknown or cannot be definitely predicted. See AECIDIUM b; CAEOMA a; PERIDERMIUM, UREDO, 1 b.

U're·din'i·op'sis (ū'rē·dĭn'ĭ·ŏp'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. uredinium + -opsis a.] Bot. A genus of rusts (family Melampsoraceae) having solitary sessile teliospores formed within the mesophyll of the leaves of the host.

a, a Urediniospores; b Teliospore.

u're·din'i·o·spore' (-dĭn'ĭ·ō·spōr'; 181), n. [uredinium + -spore.] Bot. One of the thin-walled summer spores developed by the uredinia of a rust fungus. They produce a vegetative mycelium immediately on germination. In some rust fungi the aeciospores function as urediniospores. See UREDINIUM. — u're·din'i·o·spor'ic (-spōr'ĭk), adj.

u're·din'i·um (ū'rē·dĭn'ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -IA (-ĭ·ȧ). [NL., fr. L. uredo blight.] Bot. The spore fruit formed during the uredostage of rust fungi, consisting of a group of spore-bearing hyphae crowded together to form spore pustules, or sori, which become exposed by the rupture of the cuticle or of the epidermis beneath which they are developed. Each upright hypha produces a single urediniospore. Cf. AECIUM. — u're·din'i·al (-ăl), adj.

u·red'i·noid (ū·rĕd'ĭ·poid), adj. [See UREDO; -OID.] Bot. Resembling the Uredinales.

u·red'i·nol'o·gy (ū·rĕd'ĭ·nŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [L. uredo, urediniis, blight + -logy.] The department of mycology dealing with the rusts (order Uredinales). — u·red'i·nol'o·gist (-jĭst), n.

u·red'i·nous (ū·rĕd'ĭ·nŭs), adj. 1. Bot. Of the nature of a uredo; belonging to the order Uredinales.
2. Med. Affected with, or of the nature of, uredo.

u·re'do (ū·rē'dō), n. [L., a blast, blight, a burning itch, fr. urere to burn, to scorch. See EMBER, n.] 1. Bot. a The uredostage of a rust, formerly regarded as a distinct genus. b [cap.] A form genus of rusts (Uredinales Imperfecti) including those having a uredostage only, or, also, having pycnial and aecial stages.
2. Med. a Urticaria. b Any burning sensation of the skin.

u·re'do·so'rus (ū·rē'dō·sō'rŭs), n. [NL. See UREDO; SORUS.] Bot. A uredinium.

u·re'do·spore (ū·rē'dō·spōr; 181), n. Bot. A urediniospore. — u·re'do·spor'ic (-spōr'ĭk), -spo'rous (-spō'rŭs), adj. — u·re'do·spo'rif'er·ous (-spō·rĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj.

u·re'do·stage' (ū·rē'dō·stāj'), n. [uredo + stage.] Bot. The stage in the life cycle of a typical rust characterized by the production of urediniа; the urediniа stage. It is a summer stage preceding the teliostage. See UREDINIUM; 1st RUST, 6.

u·re'ic (ū·rē'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or containing, urea.

u're·ide (ū'rē·īd; -ĭd; 157), n. Also -id. Chem. a Any of various compounds derived from urea and an acid by eliminating water. Those from one molecule of urea, as alloxan, are monoureides; those derived from two, as uric acid, diureides. Many ureides are cyclic. b Any of various compounds similarly derived from urea and an aldehyde, esp. an aldose.

u·re'i·do- (ū·rē'ĭ·dō-). Chem. A combining form for ureide, meaning: a Designating or containing the bivalent radical -NHCONH-, of which urea is the hydride. b Carbamido-. — u·re'i·do (-dō), adj.

u·re'mi·a, u·rae'mi·a (ū·rē'mĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. 3d ur- + -emia.] Med. Accumulation in the blood of constituents which should have been eliminated in the urine, producing a toxic condition marked by headache, gastrointestinal disorders, esp. vomiting, and coma and convulsions. It is due to insufficient secretion of urine, commonly from advanced disease of the kidneys. — u·re'mic, u·rae'mic (-mĭk), adj.

U·re'na (ū·rē'nȧ), n. [NL., fr. Malayalam uren, name of one species.] Bot. A small genus of tropical herbs or shrubs (family Malvaceae) having small yellow flowers with five connate bracts, and fruit with hooked bristles. They yield a medicinal mucilaginous juice. U. lobata furnishes a useful fiber comparable to jute.

u'rent (ū'rĕnt), adj. [L. urens, -entis, pres. part.] Burning; parching. Rare.

u're·o- (ū'rē·ō-), u're- (ū'rē-). A combining form for urea, as in: u're·om'e·ter, u're·om'et·ry. See -METER, -METRY.

u're·o·se·cre'to·ry (ū'rē·ō·sē·krē'tō·rĭ), n. Physiol. Of or pertaining to the secretion of urea.

ure'–ox' (ūr'ŏks'), n. The urus.

u·re'sis (ū·rē'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ourēsis, fr. ourein to urinate.] Physiol. Excretion of urine; urination.

-u·ret (-ū·rĕt). [For earlier -ure (after Latinized forms in -uretum), fr. F. -ure, in sulfure (fr. L. sulphur), phosphure, carbure, used to express compounds with metals.] Chem. A suffix formerly used with the same meaning as -ide. Corresponding participial adjectives were formed in -eted, -eted, as in carbu*reted*, phosphu*reted*.

bromuret	phosphuret	telluret carburet	seleniuret
cyanuret	sulphuret

u·re'tal (ū·rē'tăl), adj. Anat. Ureteral.

u·re'ter (ū·rē'tĕr), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ourētēr. See URINE.] Anat. & Zool. The duct which carries away the urine from a kidney to the bladder or cloaca. In man each ureter is a membranous epithelium-lined flat tube of the diameter of a goose quill, and about sixteen inches long, which opens above into the pelvis of the kidney and below into the back part of the bladder at a very oblique angle. In mammals except monotremes the ureters open into the bladder; in other vertebrates, into the cloaca (in fishes often after uniting and forming an expansion which serves as a bladder). In the lower vertebrates the ureters are mesonephric, not metanephric, ducts, and often serve also as sperm ducts in the male. — u·re'ter·al (ū·rē'tĕr·ăl), u're·ter'ic (ū'rē·tĕr'ĭk), adj.

ureter-. = URETERO- (which see), as in:

ureteralgia	ureterectasia	ureterectomy ureterocystoscope	ureterectasis	ureteritis u·re'ter·al cal'cu·lus or stone (ū·rē'tĕr·ăl). Med. A concretion lodged in a ureter.

ureteral catheter. Med. A pliable hollow rubber catheter of small bore for insertion into a ureter through the ureteral orifice in the urinary bladder. It is used to test the patency of a ureter and to obtain urine from a single kidney.

u·re'ter·o- (ū·rē'tĕr·ō-), ureter-. A combining form from Greek ourētēr, ureter, denoting: a The ureter, as in ureterography and the list below (see -CELE, etc.):

ureterocele	ureterolysis	ureterorrhagia ureterocolostomy	ureteronephrectomy	ureterorrhaphy ureterocystanastomosis	ureterophlegma	ureterosalpingostomy ureterocystoscope	ureteroplasty	ureterosigmoidostomy ureterocystostomy	ureteroproctostomy	ureterostegnosis ureterodialysis	ureteropyelitis	ureterostenoma ureteroenterostomy	ureteropyelonephritis	ureterostoma ureterolith	ureteropyelostomy	ureterotomy ureterolithiasis	ureteropyosis	ureterotomy ureterolithic	ureterorectostomy	ureterotomy

b Ureteral and; — in adjectives, as in ureterocervical, pertaining to a ureter and the cervix.
ureteroenteric, ureterogenital, ureterointestinal, ureterouteral, uretero-uterine, ureterovaginal, ureterovesical.

u·re'ter·o·gram' (-ō·grăm'), n. [uretero- + -gram.] Med. An X-ray photograph of the ureters which have been made opaque by a filling injection of a substance opaque to X rays.

u·re'ter·o·graph' (-grăf'), n. [See -GRAPH.] Med. A ureterogram.

u·re'ter·og'ra·phy (-ŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [See -GRAPHY.] Med. The science, practice, or act, of making ureterograms.

u·re'ter·o·li·thot'o·my (-ō·lĭ·thŏt'ō·mĭ), n. The surgical removal of a calculus from a ureter.

u·re'ter·o·py'e·lo·gram' (-ō·pī'ē·lō·grăm'), n. [uretero- + pyelo- + -gram.] Med. An X-ray photograph of the pelves of the kidneys and the ureters made after filling them by injection of material opaque to X rays.

u·re'ter·o·py'e·log'ra·phy (-lŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [uretero- + pyelo- + -graphy.] Med. Radiography of the ureters and renal pelves.

u·re'ter·o·ra'di·og'ra·phy (-rā'dĭ·ŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. Med. The radiography of a ureter or the ureters.

u·re'ter·o·ste·no'sis (stē·nō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. ureters- + -stenosis.] Med. Stricture or narrowness of a ureter.

u·re'ter·o·u·re'ter·os'to·my (-ū·rē'tĕr·ŏs'tō·mĭ), n. [See -STOMY.] a Surgical establishment of an artificial communication between the two ureters. b Surgical re-establishment of a passage between the ends of a divided ureter.

u're·than' (ū'rē·thăn'; ū·rēth'ăn), n. Also -thane' (-thān'; -ān). [F. uréthane. See UREA; ETHER.] Chem. a A colorless crystalline compound, ethyl carbamate, $NH_2CO\text{-}OC_2H_5$, produced by the action of ammonia on ethyl carbonate or by heating urea nitrate and ethyl alcohol, and used as a hypnotic, antispasmodic, and sedative. b By extension, any ester of carbamic acid.

urethr-. = URETHRO- (which see), as in:

urethralgia	urethrectomy	urethreurynter urethratresia	urethremphraxis u·re'thra (ū·rē'thrȧ), n.; pl. URETHRAE (-thrē); URETHRAS (-thrȧz). [LL., fr. Gr. ourēthra. See URINE.] The canal which in most mammals carries off the urine from the bladder and in the male serves also as a genital duct. In Human Anat., in the male, it is considered as divided into three portions, called the prostatic where it passes through the prostate gland; the membranous, a short section of narrow diameter; and the cavernous, or spongy, in which it lies in the corpus cavernosum. The posterior part of the spongy portion, within the bulb of the corpus cavernosum, is called the bulb, or bulbous portion. In the female the urethra is very short and not divisible into corresponding portions. — u·re'thral (-thrăl), adj.

urethra-. = URETHRO-, as in:
urethragraph, urethrameter, urethrascope, urethratome.

u·re'thral cal'cu·lus (ū·rē'thrăl). Med. A concretion lodged in the urethra.

urethral fever. Med. Fever consequent upon operations on the urethra, as passing a catheter or sound.

u·re'thrism (ū·rē'thrĭz'ĭm), n. Med. Irritability or spasm of the urethra.

u're·thri'tis (ū'rē·thrī'tĭs), n. [NL. See URETHRA; -ITIS.] Inflammation of the urethra. — u're·thrit'ic (-thrĭt'ĭk), adj.

u·re'thro- (ū·rē'thrō-), urethr-. A combining form from Greek ourēthra, urethra, denoting: a The urethra, as in urethroplasty and the list below (see BLENNORRHEA, etc.):

urethroblennorrhea	urethrorrhagia	urethrostaxis urethrocystitis	urethrorrhaphy	urethrostenosis urethrograph	urethrorrhea	urethrostomy urethrometer	urethrorrhoea	urethrotome urethrophyma	urethrospasm

b Urethral and; — in adjectives, as in u·re'thro·bulb'ar, urethral and bulbar.
urethrogenital, urethropenile, urethroperineal, urethroprostatic, urethrorectal, urethrosexual, urethrovaginal, urethrovesical.

u·re'thro·cele (-thrō·sēl), n. [urethro- + -cele.] Med. a A pouchlike protrusion of urethral mucous membrane in the female. b A thickening of connective tissue around the female urethra.

u·re'thro·gram (-grăm), n. [urethro- + -gram.] Med. & Physiol. a A tracing from a urethrograph. b A radiogram of the urethra.

u·re'thro·plas'ty (ū·rē'thrō·plăs'tĭ), n. [urethro- + -plasty.] Surg. An operation for the repair of an injury or a defect in the walls of the urethra. — u·re'thro·plas'tic (-plăs'tĭk), adj.

u·re'thro·scope (-skōp), n. [urethro- + -scope.] Med. An instrument for viewing the interior of the urethra.

u're·thros'co·py (ū'rē·thrŏs'kō·pĭ), n. Med. Examination of the urethra by means of a urethroscope. — u·re'thro·scop'ic (ū·rē'thrō·skŏp'ĭk), -scop'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj.

u're·throt'o·my (ū'rē·thrŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [urethro- + -tomy.] Surg. Any cutting into the urethra, esp. for the relief of stricture. — u·re'thro·tom'ic (ū·rē'thrō·tŏm'ĭk), adj.

u·reth'yl·an (ū·rĕth'ĭ·lăn), n. Also -ane (-lān). [urea + ethyl + -an(e).] Chem. A white crystalline compound, NH_2COOCH_3; methyl carbamate.

u·ret'ic (ū·rĕt'ĭk), adj. [LL. ureticus, fr. Gr. ourētikos. See URINE.] Med. Of or pertaining to the urine; diuretic; urinary; as, uretic medicine. — n. An agent or remedy affecting the flow of urine.

u·re'yl·ene (ū·rē'ĭ·lēn), n. [ure- + -ylene.] Chem. The bivalent radical -NHCONH-, from urea.

urf (ûrf), n. A stunted person, esp. a child. Scot. & N. of Eng.

ur'fir'nis (ûr'fĭr'nĭs), n. [G., fr. ur- (see 2d UR-) + firnis varnish.] Classical Archaeol. A lustrous paint, varying from black to red, found on some types of prehistoric Greek pottery.

Ur·gan'da (ûr·găn'dȧ), n. In the original romance of Amadis of Gaul, a fairy. In the Spanish romances relating to the descendants of Amadis she is an enchantress.

urge (ûrj), v.; URGED (ûrjd); URG'ING (ûr'jĭng). [L. urgere. See WREAK.] Transitive: 1. To present in an earnest or pressing manner; to press upon attention; to insist upon; to plead or allege, as in argument or justification; to advocate or demand with importunity; as, to urge an argument; to urge a petition; to urge the necessity of a case.
2. To force onward; to press or push forward; impel; prosecute energetically, as an enterprise.

The peasants urge their harvest. Cowper.

3. To press the mind or will of; to ply with motives, arguments, persuasion, or importunity; to solicit or entreat earnesty; as, to urge one to go or stay; to urge one to consent.
4. To influence constrainingly; to bear on so as to actuate or spur; as, to urge one's conscience, patience, will.
5. To provoke; to exasperate. Now Dial.

Urge not my father's anger. Shak.

6. To force or impel in an indicated direction, esp. onward; to drive.

The blue waves sport around the stern they urge. Byron.

7. To excite or augment; stimulate; intensify; as, to urge a fire, heat, wrath.
8. To ply hard, as a scourge or oars.
9. To press hard upon; to follow closely; hasten; as, to urge one's course, pace, way.
10. To cause to accelerate in pace or speed; — often with on or forward; as, to urge on one's horse.
11. To treat with intense heat, as tin. Obs.

—, Intransitive: 1. To declare, advance, or press earnestly, a statement, argument, charge, or the like.
2. To press on or forward; hasten; — usually with on, upward, etc.
3. To exercise influence so as to incite, constrain, or stimulate.

The combat urges, and my soul's on fire. Pope.

Syn. — Animate, incite, instigate, stimulate. Cf. MOVE.
Ant. — Restrain, hinder, deter, dissuade.

urge (ûrj), n. Act of urging; a force or impulse that urges; esp., a continuing impulse or tendency towards some activity or goal; as, the travel urge; an urge to express oneself.

urge'ful (ûrj'fŏol; -fĭ), adj. Urgent. Obs.

ur'gence (ûr'jĕns), n. [F.] Urgency.

ur'gen·cy (ûr'jĕn·sĭ), n. [Cf. F. urgence. See URGENT.]
1. Quality or state of being urgent; insistence; pressure, as of necessity; as, the urgency of a petitioner, or of a need.
2. An urgent stress, as of wind or need.
3. Force or impulse that impels or constrains; an urge.
4. An importunity or entreaty.

ur'gent (ûr'jĕnt), adj. [F., fr. L. urgens, -entis, pres. part. of urgere. See URGE.] 1. Urging; pressing; plying with importunity; calling for immediate attention; instantly important; as, an urgent appeal. "The urgent hour." Shak.
2. Impelling onward.

Borne by the mastery of its urgent wings. R. Bridges.

3. Impelling or constraining; as, urgent affections.
4. Solicitous; importunate; as, urgent suitors.
5. Obs. a Oppressive. b Passing quickly.

Syn. — Exigent, critical; importunate.
Ant. — Unimportant, trivial; casual.

urg'er (ûr'jĕr), n. One who or that which urges.

Ur·gin'e·a (ûr·jĭn'ē·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. name of an Arab tribe, Ben Urgin, in Algeria, near Bône, where it was first found.] Bot. A genus of bulbous herbs (family Liliaceae) related to Scilla, but with a deciduous perianth and 3-angled capsule. They are natives of the Old World, esp. of the Mediterranean region. U. scilla is the chief squill of medicine. See SQUILL, 2 a. Urginea of the British Pharmacopoeia is the younger bulbs of U. indica. Its action and uses are the same as those of squill.

urg'ing (ûr'jĭng), adj. That urges. — urg'ing·ly, adv.

Ur·go'ni·an (ûr·gō'nĭ·ăn), adj. [F. urgonien, named from a place near the Jura.] Geol. Pertaining to or designating the middle division of the European Lower Cretaceous. See GEOLOGY, Chart. — Ur·go'ni·an, n.

‖Ur'grund' (ōōr'grōōnt'), n. [G. See 2d UR-.] Original ground; primal cause; ultimate cosmic principle.

-urgy. [See DEMIURGE.] A combining form, Greek -ourgia, from -ourgos, worker, denoting a technical art of working a (specified) product, as in:

acidurgy	halurgy	siderurgy crystallurgy	metallurgy	zymurgy ur'heen' (ōōr'hēn'), n. [Chin. (Pek.) ēr[4] -hsien[2], lit., two strings.] Music. The Chinese fiddle. It consists of two strings (usually of silk) tuned a fifth apart and stretched across a small mallet-shaped hollow block and fastened at the other end to tuning pegs set in a long stick.

-u'ri-a (-ū'rĭ-ȧ). [NL., fr. Gr. -ouria, fr. ouron urine.] A combining form meaning a condition of the urine, esp. implying an abnormal or diseased condition caused by the presence of a (specified) substance as in:

acetonuria	glucosuria	indicanuria albuminuria	glycosuria	melanuria azoturia	hematinuria	nycturia bacilluria	hematocyturia	phosphaturia bilirubinuria	hemoglobinuria	polyuria blennuria	hyperglycosuria	pyuria creatinuria	hypoazoturia	spermaturia

U-ri'ah (ū-rī'ȧ), n. [Heb. Ūrīyāh.] 1. Literally, flame of Jehovah, or my light is Jehovah; — masculine proper name. 2. Bib. A Hittite captain in the army of Israel who was at David's orders so exposed in battle as to be killed in order to give David Uriah's wife, Bath-sheba.

u'ri-al (ōō'rĭ-ăl), n. [Panjabi hurēāl.] A wild sheep (Ovis vignei) of northern India. It is reddish brown, with a white neck and a dark beard from the chin to the chest.

U'ri-an (ū'rĭ-ăn), n. Masculine proper name.

U'ri-an, Sir (ū'rĭ-ăn). [G. Urian.] A name formerly applied to one who was unknown or whose name it was thought improper to mention, and hence sometimes to the Devil.

u'ric (ū'rĭk; 242), adj. [Gr. ouron urine; cf. F. urique. See URINE.] Of or pertaining to urine; obtained from urine.

-u'ric. Chem. The adjective uric used as a suffix in naming certain acids related to uric acid or urea, or occurring in urine; as in allantu*ric*, hipp*uric*.

uric acid. Chem. A white, odorless and tasteless, nearly insoluble diacid, $C_5H_4N_4O_3$, present in small quantity in the urine of man and most mammals, and abundantly (in the form of urates) in the urine of birds, reptiles, and invertebrates, constituting their chief nitrogenous excretion; 2,6,8-trihydroxy-purine. Traces of it are also found in the various organs of the body, and it is a common constituent, either as the free acid or as a urate, of urinary or renal calculi and of the so-called gouty concretions. From acid urine, uric acid is frequently deposited, on standing in a cool place, in the form of a reddish-yellow sediment, nearly always crystalline. When heated, uric acid decomposes into urea, ammonia, carbon dioxide, etc. It can be prepared artificially in several ways. — u'ric–ac'id, adj.

u'ric–ac'id di-ath'e-sis. Med. The morbid condition characterized by excess of uric acid or urates in the blood, or tendency to urate deposits, as in gout.

u'ric-ac'i-de'mi-a, -dae'mi-a (ū'rĭk-ăs'ĭ-dē'mĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. uric acid + -emia.] The presence of uric acid in the blood, esp. in excess.

u'ric-ac'i-du'ri-a (-dū'rĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. uric acid + -uria.] Med. Excess or concentration of uric acid in the urine.

u'ri-co- (ū'rĭ-kō-), uric-. A combining form for uric, denoting uric acid, as in u'ri-col'y-sis, u'ri-co-lyt'ic. See -LYSIS, -LYTIC.

u'ri-dro'sis (ū'rĭ-drō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. 3d ur- + Gr. hidrōsis to sweat.] Med. Morbid excretion of constituents of the urine in the sweat.

U'ri-el (ū'rĭ-ĕl), n. [Heb. Ūrīēl.] 1. Bib. Literally, flame of God, or my light is God; — masculine proper name. 2. In Semitic angelology, one of the archangels. In the second book of Esdras he is represented as sent by God to answer the questions of Esdras. Milton makes him "regent of the sun."

-urient. [L. -uriens, -entis.] A suffix, in adjectives from verbs, meaning desirous, as in part*urient*.

U'rim (ū'rĭm), n. pl. [Heb. ūrīm, of uncert. origin.] Bib. Certain objects mentioned in the Old Testament (Ex. xxviii. 30; 1 Sam. xxviii. 6; Deut. xxxiii. 8; Ezra ii. 63, etc.), usually in connection with the Thummim, as being used as mediums for the revelation of the will of God to his people or as being placed in the breastplate by the high priest on certain occasions. The nature of the Urim and Thummim and their original use are conjectural; and their use is not mentioned in the historical narratives after David's time. Perhaps the more widely accepted view is that they were originally forms of lots used for obtaining oracular answers.

U'rim and Thum'mim (thŭm'ĭm). Mormon Ch. Sacred instruments alleged to have been found by Joseph Smith with the engraved plates containing the Book of Mormon record and to have been used by him in the work of translation. In the Book of Mormon they are described as "two stones in silver bows," and called interpreters.

u'ri-nal (ū'rĭ-năl), n. [ME. urynal(e), orynal, fr. OF. urinal, orinal, fr. LL. urinal, fr. urinalis, adj., fr. urina urine.] 1. A vessel for holding urine; esp., formerly, a bottle or tube for holding urine for inspection. 2. A building or enclosure for urinating purposes. 3. A convenience worn by one incontinent of urine.

u'ri-nal-ist, n. One who diagnoses diseases from examination of urine.

u'ri-nal'y-sis (ū'rĭ-năl'ĭ-sĭs), n. [NL. See URINO-; ANALYSIS.] Chemical analysis of the urine.

u'ri-nant (ū'rĭ-nănt), adj. [L. urinans, -antis, pres. part. of urinari to plunge under water, to dive.] Her. Depicted palewise with the head in base; — said of a fish. Cf. HAURIENT.

u'ri-nar'i-um (ū'rĭ-nâr'ĭ-ŭm; 79), n. [ML. urinarium.] Agric. A reservoir for urine, etc., for manure.

u'ri-nar'y (ū'rĭ-nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nēr-ĭ), adj. [L. urina urine; cf. F. urinaire.] 1. Pertaining to, occurring in, or designating, the organs for the excretion and removal of urine. 2. Of, pertaining to, or for, urine. 3. Excreted as or in urine.

u'ri-nar'y, n.; pl. -IES (-Iz). A urinal (sense 2).

urinary bladder. Anat. A distensible membranous sac in many vertebrates, serving for the temporary retention of the urine. In man it is situated in the pelvis in front of the rectum, and receives the urine from the two ureters, discharging it at intervals into the urethra through an orifice closed by a sphincter. It is lined with transitional hypoblastic epithelium, and develops from the proximal part of the allantois of the embryo. In the lowest mammals, and in birds, reptiles, and amphibians, the ureters and the bladder open separately into the cloaca. In fishes, if present, it is not homologous with that of the higher vertebrates, but is a dilatation of a ureter or of the united ureters.

urinary calculus. Med. A concretion composed of some one or more constituents of the urine, occurring in any portion of the urinary passages or in the pelvis of the kidney.

urinary fever. Med. Urethral fever.

urinary pigments. Biochem. Certain colored substances, urochrome, urobilin, uroerythrin, etc., present in the urine together with indican, a colorless substance which by oxidation is convertible into colored substances.

urinary tract. Anat. The tract conducting urine; collectively, the renal tubules and pelvis of the kidney, the ureters, the bladder, and the urethra.

u'ri-nate (ū'rĭ-nāt), v. i.; -NAT'ED (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -NAT'ING (-nāt'ĭng). [ML. urinare.] To discharge urine; to make water. — v. t. To wet with, or pass as, urine. — u'ri-na'tion (-nā'shŭn), n.

u'ri-na'tive (-nā'tĭv; -nȧ-tĭv), adj. Provoking the flow of urine; uretic.

u'ri-na'tor (-nā'tĕr), n. [L., fr. urinari to plunge under water, to dive.] One who dives under water for something, as pearls; a diver. Rare.

u'rine (ū'rĭn), n. [ME. urine, fr. OF. urine, fr. L. urina; akin to L. urinari to plunge under water, to dive, Gr. ouron urine, Skr. vār water, ON. ūr drizzling rain, AS. wær the sea. Cf. UREA, URETER, URETHRA, URIC.] Physiol. In mammals, a fluid excretion from the kidneys; in birds and reptiles, a solid or semisolid excretion. In man, the urine is a clear, transparent fluid of an amber color and peculiar odor, with an average density of 1.02. The average amount excreted in 24 hours is from 35 to 50 ounces (about 1,000–1,500 cubic centimeters). Chemically, the urine is mainly an aqueous solution of urea, creatinine, and uric acid, together with some hippuric acid, inorganic salts (sodium, potassium, calcium, magnesium, chloride, phosphate, and sulphate ions), and peculiar pigments. It usually has an acid reaction. Normally, it contains about 960 parts of water to 40 parts of solid matter, and the daily average excretion is 35 grams (540 grains) of urea, 1 to 2 grams (15 to 30 grains) of creatinine, 0.75 gram (11 grains) of uric acid, and 16.5 grams (260 grains) of salt. Abnormally, it may contain sugar as in diabetes, albumin as in Bright's disease, bile pigments as in jaundice, blood in diseases or injuries of the kidneys or urinary passages, or abnormal quantities of some one or more of the normal constituents.

u'rine, v. i. & t. [Cf. F. uriner.] To urinate. Now Rare.

urini-. A combining form from Latin urina, urine, as in u'ri-nif'er-ous, u'ri-nip'a-rous. See -FEROUS, -PAROUS.

u'ri-no- (ū'rĭ-nō-), urin-. A combining form from Latin urina, urine, equivalent to 1st URO-, as in:

urinocryoscopy	urinologist	urinoscopic urinogenital	urinology	urinoscopist urinogenitary	urinomancy	urinoscopy u'ri-no-gen'i-tal ridge (-jĕn'ĭ-tăl). Embryol. A pair of ridges out of which the urinogenital organs are developed.

urinogenital sinus. Zool. & Embryol. A pouch or cavity communicating with the exterior, or with the cloaca (of which it may be a part), and receiving the urinary and genital canals.

u'ri-nog'e-nous (ū'rĭ-nŏj'ē-nŭs), adj. [urino- + -genous.] Originating in urine.

u'ri-nom'e-ter (-nŏm'ē-tĕr), n. [urino- + -meter.] A small hydrometer for determining the specific gravity of urine. — u'ri-no-met'ric (-nō-mĕt'rĭk), adj. — u'ri-nom'e-try (-nŏm'ē-trĭ), n.

u'ri-nose (ū'rĭ-nōs), adj. Urinous.

u'ri-nous (ū'rĭ-nŭs), adj. [NL. urinosus. See URINE.] Of, pertaining to, like, or having the qualities or odor of, urine; containing urine. — u'ri-nous-ness, n.

u'rite (ū'rĭt), n. [Gr. oura tail.] Zool. One of the segments of the abdomen or postabdomen of arthropods.

U'ri-zen (ū'rĭ-zĕn), n. In several of William Blake's poems, a figure representing intellect and order, esp. as the originator of codes and social systems, regarded, however, as antagonistic to the ideal, or "eternal" ethic.

urled (ûrld), adj. Stunted; pinched with cold. N. of Eng.

url'ing (ûr'lĭng), n. A stunted creature. Scot. & N. of Eng.

ur'luch (ōōr'lŭk), adj. Dull, as weather; also, stupid. Scot.

ur'man' (ōōr-män'), n. [Russ., fr. Tatar ūrmān forest.] In northern Siberia, any large tract of swampy coniferous forest.

‖Ur'mensch' (ōōr'mĕnsh'), n. [G.] Primitive man.

urn (ûrn), n. [ME. urne, fr. L. urna; akin to L. urceus pitcher, ewer, Gr. hyrchē a jar; perh. of Phoenician origin.] 1. A vessel of various forms, usually a vase furnished with a foot or pedestal, employed for different purposes, as for holding liquids, for ornamental uses, now esp. for preserving the ashes of the dead after cremation, and anciently for holding lots to be drawn. 2. Figuratively, any place of burial; the grave. 3. Something resembling or suggesting an urn (sense 1) in form, function, use, or the like, as: a A spring, fountain, or watercourse, considered as the source of a flow of liquid. b A sculptured urn-shaped ornament or decoration. 4. A closed vessel, commonly with a heating device and a spigot, used in making and serving hot beverages, as tea and coffee. 5. Bot. In mosses, the theca, or capsule. 6. Mining. A water cistern for a stamp mill. 7. Rom. Antiq. = URNA, 2. See MEASURE, Table.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:
urn-buried, urn-cornered, urn-enclosing, adj., urnmaker, urn-topped.

urn, v. t. To enclose in or as in an urn; to inurn; to bury. R.

urn, v. t. & i. To cause or feel pain. Scot.

urn (ûrn), v. i. [AS. iernan. See RUN.] To run. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

ur'na (ûr'nȧ), n. [L.] 1. An urn. Obs. 2. pl. -AE. Rom. Antiq. See MEASURE, Table.

urn'al (ûr'năl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or like, an urn or urns, esp. as used for sepulchers.

urn burial. 1. Archaeol. Burial in which a pottery vessel is used as a grave repository for the ashes and bones of the corpse. 2. [caps.] Familiar subtitle of a book, Hydriotaphia or Urn Burial, by Sir Thomas Browne, published in 1658, inspired by the discovery of sepulchral urns at Norfolk, England, and famed for its elevated style and the author's profound reflections on life.

urn field. Archaeol. An ancient kind of cemetery, common in the late Bronze Age, where cremation was practiced and the ashes of the dead deposited in urns.

urn'flow'er (ûrn'flou'ĕr), n. A plant of the genus Urceolina.

urn'ful (ûrn'fŏōl; -fĭ'l), n.; pl. -FULS (-fŏōlz; -fĭ'lz). As much as an urn will hold; enough to fill an urn.

ur'ning (ōōr'nĭng), n. [G.] Med. A male homosexual. — ur'ning-ism (-ĭz'm), n.

urn moss. a A true moss; — so called in allusion to the urn-shaped thecae. b Specif., any moss of the genus Physcomitrium, esp. P. turbinatum.

urn schemata. Statistics. The representation of frequency distributions by means of withdrawals of different-colored balls from one or more vessels or urns containing the balls in various numbers and proportions.

urn'–shaped' (ûrn'shāpt'), adj. Shaped like an urn; as, the urn-shaped capsules of some mosses.

U'ro (ōō'rō), n. An Indian of a tribe of primitive culture, dwelling in western Bolivia. They are generally recognized as constituting a distinct linguistic stock — the Uraus — but by some philologists their language is classified, together with the extinct Puquina, as a branch of Arawakan. Cf. ARAWAKAN, PUQUINA. — U'ran (-răn), adj. & n.

u'ro- (ū'rō-), ur-. Chem. & Med. A combining form, Greek ouro-, our-, from ouron, denoting: a Urine, as in urology, uranalysis. b Urinary tract, as in urogram. c Urination, as in urolagnia. For words below, see the word or element with which uro- is combined.

uroacidimeter	uromantist	uroptysis uroazotometer	uronephrosis	urorrhagia urocystitis	urophanic	urorrhea urodialysis	urophanous	urosaccharometry uromancy	urophthisis	uroschesis uromantia	uroplania

u'ro-, ur-. Zool. A combining form, Greek ouro-, our-, from oura, meaning tail, as in urohyal, urite.

u'ro-bi'lin (ū'rō-bĭ'lĭn; -bĭl'ĭn), n. [1st uro- + bile + -in.] Biochem. A yellow pigment in urine that has been exposed to light and air, formed from a colorless antecedent, urobilinogen. Cf. HYDROBILIRUBIN. It is held to be a mixture of pigments identical with stercobilin found in feces.

u'ro-bil'i-ne'mi-a, -nae'mi-a (-bĭl'ĭ-nē'mĭ-ȧ; -bĭ'lĭ-), n. [NL., fr. urobilin + -emia.] Med. The presence of urobilin in the circulating blood.

u'ro-bi-lin'o-gen (-bĭ-lĭn'ō-jĕn), n. Biochem. A chromogen found in urine that gives rise to urobilin on oxidation. Cf. HYDROBILIRUBIN.

u'ro-bi-lin'o-ge-nu'ri-a (-jē-nū'rĭ-ȧ), n. [NL. See -URIA.] Med. The presence of urobilinogen in the urine, esp. in excess.

u'ro-bil'i-nu'ri-a (ū'rō-bĭl'ĭ-nū'rĭ-ȧ; -bĭ'lĭ-), n. [NL., fr. urobilin + -uria.] Med. The presence of urobilin in the urine, esp. in excess.

u'ro-can'ic ac'id (-kăn'ĭk). [See 1st URO-; CANINE.] Biochem. An acid, $C_5H_4N_4O_3$, obtained from the urine of the dog or from the digestion of casein; 4-imidazole-acrylic acid.

u'ro-cele (ū'rō-sēl), n. [1st uro- + -cele.] Med. A swelling of the scrotum due to extravasation of urine into it.

U'ro-cer'a-ta (ū'rō-sĕr'ȧ-tȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. keras, -atos, horn.] Zool. The Siricoidea. See HORNTAIL.

u'ro-chlo-ral'ic (-klō-răl'ĭk), adj. [1st uro- + chloral + -ic.] Chem. Designating a white crystalline acid, $C_8H_{11}Cl_3O_7$, found in the urine after administering chloral hydrate.

u'ro-chord (ū'rō-kôrd), n. [2d uro- + chord.] 1. Zool. The notochord of larval ascidians and of certain adult tunicates; — so called because chiefly confined to the caudal region. 2. One of the Urochorda.

U'ro-chor'da (-kôr'dȧ), n. pl. Also U'ro-chor-da'ta (-kôr-dā'tȧ). [NL. See UROCHORD.] Zool. A subphylum, often considered also a class, of marine animals, the tunicates, which are, esp. from studies of their tadpolelike larvae, regarded as degenerate members of the phylum Chordata (see ASCIDIAN). The group comprises a great variety of forms, both permanently attached (in the adult stage) and free-swimming, some simple, others reproducing by budding as well as by eggs, and forming large colonies. Among the characteristics more important and usually found are: clefts (stigmata) in the walls of the pharyngeal region, these walls usually containing blood vessels and serving as gills; the secretion of a thick outer covering (test, or tunic) for the body, often containing a celluloselike substance (tunicin); the reduction of the nervous system to little more than a single dorsally placed ganglion; and a heart which so changes its contractions as to reverse the direction of the blood flow at intervals. The class Urochorda comprises the orders Ascidiacea, Thaliacea, and Larvacea.

u'ro-chor'dal (-dăl; -d'l), adj. Pertaining to the Urochorda; having a notochord in the tail region only.

u'ro-chor'date (-dāt), adj. Zool. Having a urochord.

u'ro-chrome (ū'rō-krōm), n. [1st uro- + -chrome.] Biochem. A yellow pigment to which the yellow color of normal urine is principally due. It appears to be closely related to urobilin.

u'ro-chro'mo-gen (-krō'mō-jĕn), n. [See UROCHROME; -GEN.] Med. A substance which on oxidation forms urochrome. It occurs in the urine in wasting diseases, as pulmonary tuberculosis.

U'ro-cop'tis (ū'rō-kŏp'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. koptein to cut.] Zool. A large genus of land snails of southern Florida and the West Indies, found only on limestone cliffs and outcrops. It is the type of a family, U'ro-cop'ti-dae (-tĭ-dē), of the order Pulmonata.

u'ro-cy-an'o-gen (ū'rō-sī-ăn'ō-jĕn), n. [1st uro- + cyano-, 1 + -gen.] Med. A blue coloring matter occasionally found in the urine, esp. in cholera patients.

U-roc'y-on (ū-rŏs'ĭ-ŏn), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. kyōn dog.] Zool. The genus consisting of the American gray foxes. See FOX, n., 1.

u'ro-cyst (ū'rō-sĭst), n. [1st uro- + -cyst.] Anat. The urinary bladder. — u'ro-cys'tic (-sĭs'tĭk), adj.

U'ro-cys'tis (-sĭs'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + -cystis.] Bot. A genus of smuts (family Tilletiaceae) containing many American species. They have compound chlamydospores (spore balls) with the dark central cells fertile and the outer sterile. U. cepulae causes onion smut and U. tritici the flag smut of wheat.

u'ro-dae'um (-dē'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. hodaios on the way, fr. hodos way.] Zool. The part of the cloaca, esp. of a bird, into which the ureters and genital ducts empty.

U'ro-de'la (-dē'lȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. dēlos visible.] Zool. The Caudata. — u'ro-de'lan (-lăn), u'ro-dele (ū'rō-dēl), adj. & n. — u'ro-de'lous (-dē'lŭs), adj.

u'ro-dyn'i-a (-dĭn'ĭ-ȧ; -dĭ'nĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. 3d ur- + -odynia.] Med. Painful urination.

---

ur-hien', urh-heen'. Vars. of URHEEN.
U'ri (ū'rĭ). Bib.
U-ri'a (ū-rī'ȧ). D. Bib.
U'ri-a, n. See GUILLEMOT.
Uriah Heep. See HEEP, URIAH.

U-ri'as (ū-rī'ăs). Bib. Var. of URIAH. u'ri-ce'mi-a, u'ri-cae'mi-a (ū'rĭ-sē'mĭ-ȧ), n. [NL.] = URICACIDEMIA. — u'ri-ce'mic, u'ri-cae'mic, adj.

U'ri-ens, n. See FATA MORGANA, 1.
U-ri'jah (ū-rī'jȧ). Bib. urin-. = URINO-. u'ri-ne'mi-a (ū'rĭ-nē'mĭ-ȧ), u'ri-nae'mi-a, n. Med. = UREMIA.

uriniferous tubules. See KIDNEY. u'ri-no-ser'u-al, adj. = URINOGENITAL. u'risk (ū'rĭsk). [Gael. uirisg, ūruisg.] Var. of URUISG.
U-ri'ya (ōō-rē'yȧ). Var. of URIAH.

ur'lar (ûr'lĕr), n. See PIBROCH. ur'nism, n. = URNINGISM. urn'like', adj. See -LIKE.
u'ro-ben-zo'ic (ū'rō-bĕn-zō'ĭk), adj. [1st uro- + benzoic.] Biochem. = HIPPURIC.

U'ro-cer'i-dae (-sĕr'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of SIRICIDAE. See HORNTAIL. — u'ro-cer'id (ū'rō-sĕr'ĭd), n. & adj. u'rochs (ū'rŏks). † AUROCHS. u'ro-cord. Var. of UROCHORD.

u'roe·de'ma (ū′rē·dē′mȧ), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + edema.] Med. Swelling caused by extravasation of urine into the tissues.

u'ro·e·ryth'rin (ū′rō·ē·rĭth′rĭn; -ē·rĭth′-), n. [See 1st URO- ; ERYTHRIN.] Biochem. A pink or reddish pigment found in the urine under many pathological conditions, and also frequently in normal urine in very small quantity; — called also purpurin. The red color of urinary sediments is due to this pigment.

u'ro·fus'co·hem'a·tin, -haem'a·tin (ū′rō·fŭs′kō·hĕm′ȧ·tĭn; -hē′mȧ·tĭn), n. [1st uro- + L. fuscus dark + Gr. haima, haimatos, blood.] Med. A brownish-red pigment found in the urine in some diseases.

u'ro·gas'ter (ū′rō·găs′tĕr), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + -gaster.] 1. Anat. & Embryol. The urinary tract, esp. that of the embryo, including the allantoic cavity.

2. Zool. The posterior division of the gastric region of a crustacean, as a crab.

— u'ro·gas'tric (-găs′trĭk), adj.

u'ro·gen'ic (ū′rō·jĕn′ĭk), adj. Physiol. & Med. Urogenous.

u'ro·gen'i·tal (-jĕn′ĭ·tŭl; -t′l), adj. Also u'ro·gen'i·tar'y (-tĕr′ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ). Anat. & Zool. Pert. to or designating the organs or functions of excretion (production or removal of urine) and reproduction.

urogenital trigone. A double layer of pelvic fascia between the ischiopubic rami, supporting the prostate in the male and traversed by the vagina in the female. In both it gives passage to the membranous part of the urethra, and encloses the urethral sphincter muscle.

u·rog'e·nous (ū·rŏj′ē·nŭs), adj. [1st uro- + -genous.] Physiol. & Med. a Producing urine. b Derived from urine.

u·ro·glau'cin (ū′rō·glô′sĭn), n. [1st uro- + L. glaucus bright.] Biochem. Indigo blue; — from its occurrence in urine under certain circumstances.

U'ro·gle'na (ū′rō·glē′nȧ), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. glēnē socket, cavity.] Zool. A genus of flagellate protozoans in which many individuals are united in spherical, gelatinous, free-swimming colonies. Some species are said to cause a bad odor and taste in lake waters.

u'ro·gram (ū′rō·grăm), n. [1st uro- + -gram.] Med. An X-ray photograph of any part of the urinary tract.

u·rog'ra·phy (ū·rŏg′rȧ·fĭ), n. [1st uro- + -graphy.] Med. X-ray photography of the urinary tract. See PYELOGRAM.

u'ro·hem'a·tin, u'ro·haem'a·tin (ū′rō·hĕm′ȧ·tĭn; -hē′mȧ-), n. [1st uro- + hematin.] Biochem. A red pigment in urine.

u'ro·hy'al (-hī′ăl), adj. [2d uro- + hyoid + -al.] Zool. a In fishes, designating, or pert. to, a median posterior bony element of the hyoid arch attached between the hypohyals. The term has also been applied to the basibranchials. b In birds, designating, or pert. to, a median posterior process (or a separate piece) extending backward from the basihyal. It is a basibranchial element. — n. A urohyal element.

u'ro·lag'ni·a (-lăg′nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + -lagnia.] Sex excitement associated with urination.

u'ro·leu'cic (ū′rō·lū′sĭk), or u'ro·leu·cin'ic (-lū·sĭn′ĭk), ac'id. [G. uroleucinsäure, fr. Gr. ouron urine + leukos white.] Biochem. A crystalline acid, $C_5H_{10}O_5$, found in certain abnormal urine.

u'ro·lith (ū′rō·lĭth), n. [1st uro- + -lith.] Med. A urinary calculus. — u'ro·lith'ic (-lĭth′ĭk), adj.

u'ro·li·thi'a·sis (-lĭ·thī′ȧ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + lithiasis.] Med. The condition characterized by the formation or presence of calculi in any part of the urinary tract.

u'ro·li·thol'o·gy (-lĭ·thŏl′ō·jĭ), n. [1st uro- + lithology, 2.] Med. The science treating of urinary calculi.

u·rol'o·gist (ū·rŏl′ō·jĭst), n. Med. One who practices, or is skilled in, urology.

u·rol'o·gy (ū·rŏl′ō·jĭ), n. [1st uro- + -logy.] Medical science relating to the urine or urinary organs; specif., to diseases of the urinogenital organs. — u'ro·log'ic (ū′rō·lŏj′ĭk), u'ro·log'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj.

u'ro·lu'te·in (ū′rō·lū′tē·ĭn), n. [1st uro- + lutein.] Biochem. A yellowish pigment occasionally found in the urine.

u'ro·mel'a·nin (ū′rō·mĕl′ȧ·nĭn), n. [1st uro- + melanin.] Biochem. Any of various black pigments found in the urine in certain diseased conditions.

u·rom'e·lus (ū·rŏm′ē·lŭs), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. melos limb.] Terat. A monster in which the lower limbs are more or less united, with but one foot.

u'ro·mere (ū′rō·mēr), n. [2d uro- + -mere.] Zool. An abdominal segment of an arthropod. — u'ro·mer'ic (-mĕr′ĭk), adj.

U'ro·my'ces (-mī′sēz), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + -myces.] Bot. A very large genus of rusts (family Pucciniaceae) having one-celled teliospores, sometimes separated into four genera (Klebahnia, Nigredo, Pucciniola, and Teleutospora). The common bean rust is caused by U. appendiculatus; the carnation rust by U. caryophyllinus.

U'ro·my·cla'di·um (-mī·klā′dĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Uromyces + Gr. klados a shoot.] Bot. A genus of chiefly Australian rusts (family Pucciniaceae) with the teliospores clustered at the top of a stalk and generally accompanied by a colorless cyst. It includes species, esp. U. tepperianum, seriously destructive to wattles, or acacias, in Australia.

u·ron'ic (-ū·rŏn′ĭk). Chem. A combining form from Greek ouron, urine, used in naming certain aldehyde acids derived from sugars, as in glu*curonic.* — u·ron'ic (ū·rŏn′ĭk), adj.

u'ro·pa·ta'gi·um (ū′rō·pȧ·tā′jĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + patagium.] Zool. a The interfemoral membrane of a bat. b One of two plates bounding the sides of the anus in insects.

U'ro·pel'ti·dae (ū′rō·pĕl′tĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. peltē shield + -idae.] Zool. A family of burrowing snakes of Ceylon and southern India having a short round body and a short truncated tail, ending in a peculiar shield. Uropeltis and Rhinophis are the best-known genera.

u'ro·phe'in, u'ro·phae'in (ū′rō·fē′ĭn), n. [1st uro- + Gr. phaios gray, dun.] Biochem. A pigment present in urine, said to cause its peculiar odor.

U'ro·phlyc'tis (-flĭk′tĭs), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. phlyktis vesicle.] Bot. A genus of pond-scum parasites. U. alfalfa causes the crown wart of alfalfa. See CHYTRIDIALES.

u'ro·pod (ū′rō·pŏd), n. [2d uro- + -pod.] Zool. Any of the abdominal appendages of a crustacean or other arthropod, esp. one of the posterior ones when larger than the rest or different in structure, as in the lobster, where they form part of the tail fin. — u·rop'o·dal (ū·rŏp′ō·dăl), adj. — u·rop'o·dous (-dŭs), adj.

u'ro·poi·e'sis (-poi·ē′sĭs), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + -poiesis.] The production or secretion of urine. — u'ro·poi·et'ic (-poi·ĕt′ĭk), u'ro·po·et'ic (-pō·ĕt′ĭk), adj.

u'ro·por'phy·rin (-pôr′fĭ·rĭn: see PORPHYRIN), n. [See 1st URO- .] Biochem. A porphyrin found in urine. Turacin is held to be its copper salt.

u·rop'sile (ū·rŏp′sĭl; -sīl), n. [2d uro- + Gr. psilos bare, smooth.] Zool. A shrewlike mole (Uropsilus soricipes) of Tibet, allied to the desman, and the only species of its genus. U'rop·si'lus (ū′rŏp·sī′lŭs).

U'ro·py'gi (ū′rō·pī′jĭ), n. pl. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. pygē rump.] Zool. A division of Pedipalpida including those with a tail, as the whip scorpions.

u'ro·pyg'i·al (-pĭj′ĭ·ăl), adj. [See UROPYGIUM.] Zool. Of or pert. to the uropygium. — u'ro·pyg'i·al, n.

uropygial gland. Zool. A large gland opening on the back at the base of the tail feathers in most birds, secreting an oily fluid which the bird uses in preening its feathers. It is especially developed in waterfowl, its oil helping to make the plumage shed water.

u'ro·pyg'i·um (-ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ouropygion, for orrhopygion, fr. orrhos the end of the os sacrum + pygē rump.] Zool. The fleshy and bony prominence at the posterior extremity of a bird's body, which supports the tail feathers. It contains the free caudal vertebrae and the pygostyle.

u'ro·py·lor'ic (ū′rō·pĭ·lŏr′ĭk; -pĭ·lōr′ĭk), adj. [2d uro- + pyloric.] Zool. Designating, or pert. to, a posterior division of the stomach in certain crustaceans.

u'ro·ro'se·in (-rō′zē·ĭn), n. [1st uro- + L. roseus rosy + -in.] A red pigment formed by the addition of mineral acids to certain abnormal kinds of urine.

u'ro·ru'bin (-rōō′bĭn), n. [1st uro- + rubin.] Biochem. A red pigment found in urine.

u'ro·sa'cral (ū′rō·sā′krăl), adj. [2d uro- + sacral.] Zool. & Anat. Pertaining to the caudal and sacral parts of the vertebral column; designating anterior caudal vertebrae of birds, consolidated with the true sacral vertebrae and pelvic bones.

u·ros'co·py (ū·rŏs′kō·pĭ), n. [1st uro- + -scopy; cf. F. uroscopie.] 1. The diagnosis of diseases by inspection of urine.

2. Examination or analysis of the urine, as for the purpose of medical diagnosis.

— u'ro·scop'ic (ū′rō·skŏp′ĭk), adj. — u·ros'co·pist (ū·rŏs′kō·pĭst; ū′rō·skō′pĭst), n.

u'ro·sep'sis (ū′rō·sĕp′sĭs), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + sepsis.] Med. Septic condition due to absorption of infected urine extravasated into and decomposing in the tissues, or to pyogenic infection of the urinary organs. — u'ro·sep'tic (-tĭk), adj.

u·ro'sis (ū·rō′sĭs), n. [NL., fr. 1st uro- + -osis.] Med. Any disease of the urinary organs.

u'ro·some (ū′rō·sōm), n. [2d uro- + 2d -some.] a The tail region of a fish; that part of the body behind the vent. b The abdomen or postabdomen of an arthropod. — u'ro·so·mat'ic (-sō·măt′ĭk), adj. All Rare.

u'ro·so'mite (-sō′mīt), n. [2d uro- + somite.] A uromere. — u'ro·so·mit'ic (-sō·mĭt′ĭk), adj.

U'ro·ste'a·lith (ū′rō·stē′ȧ·lĭth), n. [1st uro- + Gr. stear fat + -lith.] Biochem. A peculiar fatty substance occasionally found in urinary calculi.

u'ro·stege (ū′rō·stēj), n. [2d uro- + Gr. stegē roof.] Zool. One of the plates on the under side of the tail of a serpent. — u·ros'te·gal (ū·rŏs′tē·găl), adj. & n.

u·ros'te·gite (ū·rŏs′tē·jīt), n. Zool. A urostege.

u·ros'te·on (ū·rŏs′tē·ŏn), n.; pl. L. -TEA (-ȧ), E. -TEONS (-ŏnz). [NL., fr. 2d uro- + Gr. osteon a bone.] Zool. A median ossification, at the back of the lophosteon in the sternum of some birds.

u'ro·ster'nite (ū′rō·stûr′nĭt), n. [2d uro- + sternum.] Zool. The sternite of a uromere.

u'ro·sthene (ū′rō·sthēn), n. Zool. Any urosthenic animal.

u'ro·sthen'ic (-sthĕn′ĭk), adj. [2d uro- + sthenic.] Zool. Having the posterior or caudal region much developed for locomotion.

u'ro·style (ū′rō·stīl), n. [2d uro- + -style.] Zool. a A long, rodlike, unsegmented bone, representing a number of fused vertebrae, which forms the posterior part of the vertebral column of frogs and toads. b The hypural bone of a fish, or a similar bone formed by the fusion of two or more caudal vertebrae at the end of the tail in certain extinct turtles. — u'ro·sty'lar (-stī′lĕr), adj.

u'ro·tox'ic (-tŏk′sĭk), adj. [1st uro- + toxic.] Physiol. Of or relating to the toxicity of the urine.

urotoxic coefficient. Physiol. The number of urotoxies per kilogram of body weight, formed in 24 hours.

u'ro·tox·ic'i·ty (ū′rō·tŏks·ĭs′ĭ·tĭ), n. Physiol. The toxicity of urine.

urotoxic unit. Physiol. A urotoxy.

u'ro·tox'in (ū′rō·tŏk′sĭn), n. [1st uro- + toxin.] Med. A supposed poisonous principle of urine; also, any toxic substance in urine.

u'ro·tox'y (ū′rō·tŏk′sĭ), n.; pl. -TOXIES (-sĭz). Physiol. The number of urine required to kill an animal weighing one kilogram; — used as a unit in expressing the toxicity of urine. According to Bouchard 30–60 cubic centimeters of normal human urine injected into the veins of a rabbit weighing one kilogram will kill it.

-urous. A combining form, Greek -ouros, from oura, tail, meaning -tailed, as in brachy*urous,* oxy*urous,* xiphi*urous.* In Zool. (and rarely in Bot.), corresponding nouns denoting genera are formed in -urus, and nouns denoting individuals in the genus, in -ure, as in Brachy*urus,* brachy*ure,* Dasy*urus,* dasy*ure,* Saur*urus.* The New Latin pl. -ura is used for larger classifications, as in Brachy*ura,* Macr*ura.*

u·rox'a·nate (ū·rŏk′sȧ·nāt), n. Chem. A salt or ester of uroxanic acid.

u'rox·an'ic ac'id (ū′rŏks·ăn′ĭk). [uric + allo*xan.*] Chem. A white crystalline acid, $C_4H_3N_3O_4$, obtained by the slow oxidation of uric acid in alkaline solution.

u'ro·xan'thin (ū′rō·zăn′thĭn), n. [1st uro- + xanthin.] Indican.

u·rox'in (ū·rŏk′sĭn), n. [1st uro- + Gr. oxys sharp, acid.] Biochem. Alloxantin.

ur'ra·dhus law (ŭr′ȧ·thŭs). [Ir. urradh sponsor, surety, responsible person, leading man, gentleman.] Ir. Hist. The minor laws of the Brehon code, administrable by nobles and magistrates. Cf. CAIN LAW.

ur'ro·din (ū′rō·dĭn), n. [1st uro- + Gr. rhodon a rose.] A red pigment sometimes found in pathological urines. — ur'ro·din'ic (ū′rō·dĭn′ĭk), adj.

Ur'sa (ûr′sȧ), n. [L. ursa a she-bear, also, a constellation, fem. of ursus a bear. See ARCTIC; cf. OSOBERRY.] Astron. Either one of the Bears. See URSA MAJOR, URSA MINOR.

ur'sal (ûr′săl), adj. [See URSINE, URSA.] Bearish or churlish in disposition. Rare.

ur'sal (ûr′săl), n. [L. ursus bear. Cf. URSINE SEAL.] The fur seal Callorhinus alascanus.

Ur'sa Ma'jor (mā′jŏr); gen. URSAE MAJORIS (ûr′sē mȧ·jō′rĭs). [L.] The most conspicuous of the northern constellations. It is situated near the pole, and contains the stars which form the Dipper, two of which are the Pointers, or stars which point toward the North Star. Called also Great Bear.

The Dipper in Ursa Major. α, β The Pointers.

Ur'sa Mi'nor (mī′nôr); gen. URSAE MINORIS (ûr′sē mĭ·nō′rĭs). [L.] The Little Bear (sometimes also the Little Dipper), the constellation including the north pole, and the North Star, or polestar (Polaris), situated in the tip of the tail of the Bear.

Ursa Minor.

Ur'sa Mi·no'rid (mĭ·nō′rĭd). [See 1st -ID a.] Any of the meteors whose radiant is in the constellation Ursa Minor.

‖Ur'schleim' (ōōr′shlīm′), n. [G.] Original slime; as conceived by early speculative biologists, the primal matter from which all life was held to evolve; hence, protoplasm.

Ur'sha·na'bi (ōōr′shä·nä′bē), n. [Assyr.-Bab. Ur-Shanabi, lit., servant of Shanabi (Ea).] Babylon. Myth. In the Gilgamesh Epic, the boatman or ferryman who conducts the hero to the abode of Ut-napishtim; — called also Ardi-Ea.

ur'si·cid'al (ûr′sĭ·sīd′ăl), adj. [See -CIDE.] Of or pertaining to the slaying of bears. Jocose.

ur'si·cide (ûr′sĭ·sīd), n. One who slays a bear. Jocose.

Ur'sid (ûr′sĭd), n. [Ursa (Major or Minor) + 1st -id.] A member of the family of plantigrade carnivores consisting of the bears.

ur'si·form (ûr′sĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. ursus, ursa, a bear + -form.] Having the shape of a bear.

ur'si·gram (ûr′sĭ·grăm), n. [From U. R. S. I. for (F.) Union Radio Scientifique Internationale, which inaugurated these messages in 1930. See -GRAM.] A message, broadcast by radio or otherwise, giving data on terrestrial magnetism, radio transmission, sunspots, or related scientific data.

ur'sine (ûr′sīn; -sĭn; 156), adj. [L. ursinus, fr. ursus a bear. See FOX.] Of, pertaining to, or like, a bear or the bear family; having bearlike characters or characteristics; arctoid.

ursine baboon. The chacma.

ursine dasyure. The Tasmanian devil.

ursine howler. See HOWLING MONKEY.

ursine seal. The fur seal Callorhinus alascanus.

ur'soid (ûr′soid), adj. [Ursus + -oid.] Bearlike.

ur·sol'ic ac'id (ûr·sŏl′ĭk). [Uva-ursi + 1st -ol + -ic.] Chem. A colorless crystalline acid, $C_{30}H_{48}O_3$, found in various plants, esp. ericaceous plants, as the bearberry; — called also ur'son (ûr′sŏn), ur'sone (-sōn).

ur'son (ûr′sŏn), n. [F. ourson, prop., bear's cub, dim. of ours bear, fr. L. ursus. See URSA.] The Canada porcupine. See PORCUPINE, 1.

‖Ur'spra'che (ōōr′shprä′kĕ), n. [G. See 2d UR-.] A parent language; the original tongue, esp. primitive Indo-European.

ur'suk (ōōr′sōōk), n. [Esk. ugssuk, ukjuk.] The bearded seal.

Ur'su·la (ûr′sū·lȧ), n. [ML., dim. of ursa she-bear.] Literally, she-bear; — fem. proper name. L. id.; F. Ursule (ür′sül′); It. Orsola (ōr′sō·lä); Sp. Ursola (ōōr′sō·lä).

Ursula, Saint. A British princess who, according to legend, was martyred with her train of virgins at Cologne (c. 300) by the Huns.

Ursula butterfly. [NL. ursula. See URSULA.] A beautiful North American butterfly (Basilarchia astyanax). Its wings are purplish black with red and blue slight markings.

½

Ursula Butterfly.

Ur'su·line (-lĭn; -līn), n. [NL. Ursulinus.] R.C.Ch. One of an order of women, founded by St. Angela Merici, at Brescia, Italy, about 1537; — so called from its patron, St. Ursula. The order was introduced into Canada as early as 1639, and into the United States in 1727. Its work is chiefly educational. — Ur'su·line, adj.

Ur'sus (ûr′sŭs), n. [L., a bear.] Zool. A genus of Ursidae formerly coextensive with the family, but now commonly restricted to the European brown bear and its allies, including the American grizzly bears.

Ur·ta'-juz (ōōr·tä′jōōz), n. sing. & pl. One of a division of the Kazak Kirghiz. See GREAT HORDE.

Ur'ti·ca (ûr′tĭ·kȧ; ûr·tī′kȧ), n. [L., a nettle.] 1. Bot. a A genus of widely distributed plants, the nettles, typifying the Urticaceae. They have opposite stipulate leaves with stinging hairs, and small greenish tetramerous flowers. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

2. Med. A wheal.

Ur'ti·ca'ce·ae (ûr′tĭ·kā′sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See URTICA.] Bot. A family of herbs, shrubs, and trees, the nettle family, type of the order Urticales. They have small monoecious, dioecious, or polygamous, apetalous flowers, the fruit being an achene, except in the strawberry nettle (which see). There are about 40 genera, including Urtica, Pilea, Boehmeria, Parietaria, and Laportea, and 475 species. Many are noteworthy for the stinging hairs with which their foliage is covered. — ur'ti·ca'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Ur'ti·ca'les (-kā′lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of dicotyledonous plants embracing the Urticaceae, Ulmaceae, Moraceae, and Cannabinaceae, characterized mainly by the free apetalous perianth, and one-celled, superior ovary. — ur'ti·cal (ûr′tĭ·kăl), adj. Obs.

ur'ti·cant (ûr′tĭ·kănt), adj. [L. urtica nettle.] Producing itching or stinging, esp. producing an itching wheal; specif., Zool., adapted for stinging. — n. An urticant substance.

---

u'ro·gra·vim'e·ter, n. [1st uro- + gravimeter.] = URINOMETER.

u'ro·lyt'ic (ū′rō·lĭt′ĭk), adj. = URICOLYTIC.

U'ro·mas'tix (-mĂs′tĭks), n. [NL., fr. 2d uro- + -mastix.] Zool. A genus of lizards. See MASTIGURE.

u·rom'e·ter (ū·rŏm′ē·tĕr), n. Med. = URINOMETER.

u'ro·nol'o·gy (ū′rō·nŏl′ō·jĭ), n. [1st uro- + -logy.] = UROLOGY.

u'ro·tox'i·a (ū′rō·tŏk′sĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] = UROTOXY.

u'rox (ū′rŏks), n. [See AUROCHS; cf. URUS.] † AUROCHS.

Ur'sae Mi·no'rids, pl. of URSA MINORID.

ur'ain. Ursine. Ref. Sp.

Urth (ōōrth), Ur'thr (ōōr′thär), n. [ON. Urthr.] See NORN.

Ur'thar·brunn' (ōōr′thär·brōōn′), n. Norse Myth. See YGGDRASILL; cf. NORN.

ur'ti·ca'ri·a (ûr'tĭ·kā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL. See URTICA.] Med. An inflammatory disease of the skin, characterized by transient wheals surrounded by a red area, accompanied with a burning or stinging sensation and intense itching; hives; nettle rash; uredo. The cause may be external, such as the bite of insects or contact with certain plants, or it may follow ingestion of some foods, such as shellfish or strawberries, in individuals with a particular susceptibility. — ur'ti·car'i·al (-kär'ĭ·ȧl), adj.

ur'ti·car'i·ous (-kär'ĭ·ŭs), adj. Urticarial.

ur'ti·cate (ûr'tĭ·kāt), v. t. & i.; -CAT'ED (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT'ING (-kāt'ĭng). [ML. urticare.] To sting or to flog with or as with nettles; to raise wheals on, as with a whip of nettles; hence, to thrash; flog.

ur'ti·cate (-kāt), adj. Urticated; affected with wheals.

ur'ti·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n. [ML. urticatio.] Med. a Act or process of whipping or stinging with nettles, for its stimulating effect. b An itching and stinging sensation, as from contact with nettles. c Wheal formation in urticaria.

ur'ti·cose (ûr'tĭ·kōs; see -OSE), adj. [NL. urticosus, fr. L. urtica nettle.] Abounding with nettles.

urt'ite (ûr'tĭt), n. [From Lujavr-Urt, Kola Peninsula-Russia.] Petrog. A granular igneous rock consisting pre, dominantly of nephelite with some aegirite and apatite.

u'ru·bu' (ōō'rōō·bōō'), n. [Sp. & Pg. urubú, fr. Tupi urubú, lit., voracious bird, fr. urú bird + vú to eat.] The black vulture (Coragyps atratus).

u'ru·ca', u'ru·cum'. Vars. of URUCÚ. Brazil.

u'ru·cú' (ōō'rōō·kōō'), n. [Pg., fr. Tupi urucú. Cf. ROUCOU.] Annatto, widely used by the Indians of Brazil to stain the body red; also, the annatto tree itself. Brazil.

u'ru·cu'-ra'na (ōō'rōō·kōō'rä'nȧ), n. [Pg., fr. Tupi urucurana, lit., false urucú. See UMBU-RANA, URUCÚ.] A tropical South American timber tree (Hieronyma alchorneoides), family Euphorbiaceae; also, its deep, reddish-brown, hard wood used for many purposes.

u'ru·cu'ri, u'ru·cu'ry (ōō'rōō·kōō'rĭ), n. [Pg. urucuri, urucari, fr. Tupi urucuri.] An important Brazilian feather palm (Attalea excelsa) whose large oily nuts are burned for their smoke in curing Pará rubber.

u'ru·cu'ri i'ba (ē'bȧ), n. [Pg., fr. Tupi urucuri iba, lit., urucuri tree.] A Brazilian coconut palm (Cocos coronata) producing nuts which yield a valuable oil.

U'ru·guay'an (ū'rōō·gwā'ăn; ōō'rōō·gwī'ăn), n. A native or citizen of Uruguay. — adj. Of or pertaining to Uruguay or its inhabitants, a large proportion of whom are descendants of Spanish and other European settlers.

U'ru·guay po·ta'to (ū'rōō·gwā; ōō'rōō·gwī'). A South American plant (Solanum commersonii); also, its tuber, resembling the common potato.

u'ruisg, u'risk (ū'rĭsk), n. [Gael. ūruisg, fr. uisge water. See USQUEBAUGH.] Scottish Folklore. A sort of brownie, having the qualities of a man and of a spirit, haunting sequestered places and waterfalls and usually visible only to those who have second sight. It may be mischievous or helpful and has a special fondness for milk.

U'ru·kue'na (ōō'rōō·kwā'nä), n. An Indian of a little-known Cariban tribe of the interior of Surinam, probably a division of the Oyanas.

u·run'day (ōō·rōōn'dī), n. [Sp., fr. Guarani urundai.] Any of several timber trees of the genus Astronium (family Anacardiaceae) of southern South America, esp. A. urundeuva. They have hard, fine wood used for a variety of purposes.

u'rus (ū'rŭs), n. [L., of Teut. origin. See AUROCHS.] A large, longhorned wild ox (Bos primigenius) of the German forests, now extinct, but believed to be the wild ancestor of the domestic ox; — so called by Julius Caesar. See AUROCHS.

-urus. [NL.] See -UROUS.

u'ru·shi (ōō'rōō·shē), n. [Jap., lacquer.] a The Japanese varnish tree Rhus verniciflua. b Japanese lacquer. See LACQUER, n., 2 b.

u'ru·shi·ol (-ōl; -ŏl), n. [urushi + 1st -ol.] Chem. A poisonous, liquid, phenolic substance, $C_{21}H_{32}O_2$, the chief constituent of Japanese and Chinese lacquer.

u'ru·shi·ye (ōō'rōō·shē·yĕ), n. [Jap., lit., lacquer picture.] Jap. Art. A color print in which the dark colors are printed with a lustrous medium, commonly considered to be lacquer.

ur'va (ûr'vȧ), n. [In Nepal, urvá, arvá; prob. a Tibetan word.] The crab-eating mongoose (Herpestes urva) of southeastern Asia. The fur is black, annulated with white at the tip of each hair, and a white streak extends from the mouth to the shoulder.

us (ŭs; 71), pron. [ME., fr. AS. ūs; akin to OFris. & OS. ūs, D. ons, G. uns, ON. & Sw. oss, Dan. os, Goth. uns, L. nos we, us, Gr. nō, nōi (dual), hēmas (pl.), Skr. nas. Cf. NOSTRUM, OUR.] The objective case of we, used: 1. As dative of indirect object: a In connection with a direct object.

Give us this day our daily bread. Matt. vi. 11.

b Archaic. Reflexively, ourselves. "Let's make us medicines." Shak. c Obs. Designating the speaker's party as interested or concerned; — used as the "ethical dative."

She looks us like a thing more made of malice. Shak.

2. As direct object of a verb or preposition; — sometimes reflexive. "The world is too much with us." Wordsworth.

3. As pl., of royalty and editorially in the same way as we.

What touches us ourself shall be last served. Shak.

4. Ungrammatically for we; as, us poor people must get along as best we can. Now Dial.

5. For me as a pl. of modesty; as, give us a bite. Colloq.

6. In the predicate after the verb to be. "The miraculous generation which is us." Arnold Bennett.

7. Naut. Our ship; as, about to board us.

☞ The constructions of us are analogous to those of thee, which is more fully treated. See THEE.

-us. A suffix, Latin -us, in nouns from or simulative of Latin (cf. -OS), as in acanthus, genus, syllabus, Taurus.

us'a·ble (ūz'ȧ·b'l), adj. a That can be used. b That is convenient and practicable for use. — us'a·bil'i·ty (ūz'ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — us'a·ble·ness, n. us'age (ūs'ĭj; ūz'ĭj; 277: see note below), n. [ME., fr. F. usage, ML. usaticum. See USE, n.] 1. Use; employment. Obs.

2. Long-continued practice; customary mode of procedure or action; custom; habitual use; method. Technically, in law, a usage is or becomes a common-law custom when it fulfills certain conditions. See CUSTOM, 3.

3. The methods or principles, collectively, of a body or group of persons, as those of a certain profession, business, craft, etc.; as, business usage demands certain standards be observed.

4. Act of using; mode of using or treating; treatment; as, good usage; ill usage; hard usage.

5. Manners; conduct; behavior. Obs.

6. Customary use or employment, as of a word or phrase in a particular sense or signification.

7. Use; utility; advantage.

We can fell trees and put them to our usage. George Moore.

8. Interest, as on a loan; also, rate of interest.

9. Experience. Obs. "Wisdom and usage." Chaucer.

10. pl. Eccl. Certain ceremonies or ritual practices maintained by nonjurors in the Scottish Episcopal Church and Church of England, namely dilution of the Eucharistic wine, the invocation and oblation in the prayer of consecration, and the prayer for the departed. These practices were authorized in the Scottish Episcopal Communion office of 1764.

Syn. — Custom, use. See HABIT.

Ant. — Disuse, discontinuance, neglect.

☞ Though the preponderance of lexical authority is for ūz'ĭj, investigation shows that ūs'ĭj strongly prevails in America.

us'ag·er (ūz'ĭj·ẽr), n. [F.] 1. One having the use of a thing in trust for another. Obs.

2. [often cap.] Eccl. Hist. One who maintained the "usages" in the Scottish Episcopal Church and among the English nonjurors.

U'sam·ba'ra vi'o·let (ōō'säm·bä'rä). [From Usambara, district of Tanganyika Ter., Africa.] The African violet.

us'ance (ūz'ăns), n. [OF. See USE, v.] 1. In Obs. senses: a Use; employment. b Custom; practice; usage. c Interest paid for money; also, usury.

2. Com. The time allowed (exclusive of grace) for the payment of a bill of exchange or note orig. as fixed by custom, now in some countries by law. On bills drawn in India, China, or Japan, it is four (formerly six) months sight. The customary usances are now mostly given up. The time is sometimes modified by specifying in the bill that it shall be double, or half, usance.

3. Econ. The flow of advantage or benefits coming from the use of something, as money or any form of wealth. Alfred Marshall.

u'sar (ōō'sär), n. [Hind. ūsar, ussar.] = REH.

usar grass. [usar + grass.] An East Indian perennial grass (Sporobolus orientalis) useful for forage in alkali or saline situations.

use (ūz), v.; USED (ūzd); US'ING (ūz'ĭng). [ME. usen, fr. OF. user to use, make use of, to be accustomed (F. user, v. i., to make use, v. t., use up, wear out), fr. (assumed) VL. usare to use, fr. L. uti, past part. usus, to use, OL. oeti, oesus; of uncert. origin. Cf. ABUSE, PERUSE, USURP, USURY, UTENSIL, UTILITY.] Transitive: 1. To make use of, esp. habitually or customarily; to follow as a regular custom; to practice or make a practice of; as, a method which the clergy use; to use diligence in business.

2. To convert to one's service; to avail oneself of; to employ; as, to use a plow, a chair, a book; an artist uses a model or an author uses a neighbor as a character in his story; also, now rarely, to frequent or resort to; as, to use an inn; to use one's seashore cottage.

3. To engage in, carry on, indulge in, or the like; as, to use little exercise; boxing is more used now than formerly.

4. To pass in some occupation, interest, or activity; as, he used his time in whittling and thinking.

Time wasted is existence, used is life. Young.

5. To put into operation; to cause to function; as, for his purposes he used the same machinery and the same skill he had previously used.

6. To behave toward; to act with regard to; to treat; as, to use a beast cruelly. "I will use him well." Shak.

7. To partake of; to eat or drink; to consume, as food; also, to smoke (tobacco); as, he had used tobacco all his life.

8. To accustom; to habituate; to render familiar by practice; to inure; — employed chiefly in the passive participle; as, men used to cold and hunger.

Every reader who has used himself to the consideration of literary differences. Saintsbury.

9. To make (a person) an involuntary means to one's own ends.

His sense of being used rose suddenly above the treacherous sympathy he had begun to feel for her. Booth Tarkington.

—, Intransitive: 1. To be wont or accustomed; to be in the habit or practice; as, he used to ride daily; — now archaic in the present tense. See 2d USED.

Men use to tell us that we love flattery. Emerson.

He does not use to be so accessible to strangers. Scott.

2. To be accustomed to go; to frequent; as, watch where the squirrels use; bears do not use around that district any more.

3. To receive the sacrament of Communion. Obs.

Syn. — USE, EMPLOY are often freely interchangeable. USE is commonly more direct than EMPLOY, which frequently means to make a particular use of; as, one uses words to convey one's meaning; one employs certain technical terms for the sake of precision. As applied to persons, use sometimes connotes undue passivity, as of a tool; employ seldom carries such an implication; as, he used his friend unscrupulously for his own ends; he employed him as his agent in certain confidential negotiations; to employ a workman.

use language. To use profanity; to swear. Colloq.

Her husband's "using language" before ladies showed him to be in high good humor. Edith Wharton.

use oneself. To behave. Obs. "Pray, forgive me, if I have used myself unmanerly." Shak.

use the sea. To follow the sea as a profession; to be a sailor.

use up. a To consume or exhaust by using; to leave nothing of; as, to use up the supplies. b Colloq. To exhaust; to leave no capacity of force or use in; as, he was used up by his toil.

use (ūs), n. [ME. use, us, fr. OF. us use, usage, fr. L. usus, fr. uti, past part. usus, to use. See USE, v.] 1. Act of employing anything, or state of being employed; application; employment; as, the use of a pen; his machines are in use.

Books can never teach the use of books. Bacon.

2. The fact of being used or employed habitually; usage; as, the wear and tear resulting from ordinary use.

3. a Continued or repeated exercise or employment; as, a habit is strengthened by use. b A practice, habit, or custom; esp., a custom prevailing in a certain group, district, country, etc.; as, it was not the use of the farmers to make friends quickly.

How weary, stale, flat and unprofitable, Seem to me all the uses of this world! Shak.

4. Occasion or need to employ; necessity; — often with for; as, no further use for a book. "I have use for it." Shak.

5. Method or way of using; as, he knew the use of various herbs in the neighborhood for concocting remedies.

6. Quality of being suitable for employment; capability of being used or of serving to promote an end; usefulness; utility; advantage; as, there is small use in anger; also, the end served; the purpose or object; as, he put his knowledge to good use.

'T is use alone that sanctifies expense. Pope.

7. Function; particular service; as, everything in nature seems to have its use.

8. Common occurrence; ordinary experience. Rare.

O Caesar! these things are beyond all use. Shak.

9. Premium for money; interest; usury. Obs. exc. Dial.

10. A rough block of iron or steel suitable for working up into small forgings, or for welding in making large ones.

11. Law. That enjoyment of property which consists in its employment, occupation, exercise, or practice; specif., Roman & Civil Law, a personal servitude consisting in a jus utendi, or right to make use of a thing, as distinguished from the usufruct. The usuary had only a personal right limited by his own necessities or those of his family. He was not entitled to any of the fruits or profits of the subject of the use, except where the use was of land, when the later Roman law allowed him to take vegetables, wood, etc., for his family needs. The use of money or other thing of which the use was the only profit arising from it was equivalent to the usufruct.

☞ This sense is not to be confused with sense 12, below.

12. [Due to confusion with OF. uses profit, advantage, fr. L. opus need, business, employment, work (cf. OPERATE).] Law. Behalf; advantage; benefit; profit; specif., the benefit or profit of lands and tenements the legal title to which is given to a person other than the one entitled to the occupation or use (in sense 11); a trust of real estate. Deeds of land made to one person to, or for, the use of another appear to have been first commonly used in England by the friars to enable them to receive the benefit of land title to which by their vows they were unable to hold. The use imports a trust or confidence in the holder of the legal title, which, although not recognized by the common law, was protected by the chancellors in equity, many of whom were of the clergy. The statutes of mortmain (which see) caused this to be perfected in the so-called doctrine, or law, of uses, by which the right of the cestui qui use (as the beneficiary was called) was recognized as an equitable title enforceable in chancery, distinct from the legal title vested in the trustee. By the Statute of Uses (27 Henry VIII, c. 10; 1535) the legal title was vested in certain cases in the cestui qui use, but the same object was again accomplished by the law of trusts, which was practically a refinement of the doctrine of uses. (See STATUTE, 2; MORTMAIN; TRUST, n., 9.) The law of uses became part of the common law of the United States, but has been expressly abolished in some States, as New York. See SHIFTING USE, SPRINGING USE.

13. [often cap.] Liturgics. The special form of ritual or liturgy or of any liturgical form or observance, used in some particular church, diocese, etc.; as, the Roman or Anglican use; esp., one of the local forms of the liturgy which existed in various English dioceses before the Reformation; as, the Sarum (Salisbury) or Canterbury use (see LITURGY, 1); the York, Bangor, Hereford, and Lincoln, uses.

From henceforth all the whole realm shall have but one use. Preface to Bk. of Com. Prayer (Ch. of Eng.).

The better known and the more distinctive of these Uses were those of York and Hereford. Encycl. Brit.

Syn. — USE, USEFULNESS, UTILITY. USE, as here compared (see HABIT), is very general in sense, and occurs chiefly in certain familiar phrases; as, to be of use; there's no use in that; what's the use? USEFULNESS is employed chiefly of things in the concrete; UTILITY is more general and abstract; as, the usefulness of a tool, the utility of an invention. But the two words are often interchangeable.

— in use. a In employment; in customary practice or observance. b In heat; — said esp. of mares. J. H. Walsh. — no use to. Of no avail to; of no advantage to; as, it's no use to tease; it has been no use to labor. — to have little or no use for. To hold of little or no worth or use.

use and occupancy insurance. See INSURANCE, n., 1.

use and wont. Customary practice; custom.

used (ūzd; see sense 3), adj. 1. Employed in accomplishing something, esp. customarily or repeatedly so employed; as, his most used name, tool; hence, usual; customary.

2. That has endured considerable use; that has been utilized according to its nature or purpose; hence, worn; partly worn-out; second-hand.

3. (pron. ūzd; ūz; ūst; ūs; 57; 277.) Accustomed; habituated; experienced; as, used as he was to her bursts of temper. — us'ed·ly (ūz'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — us'ed·ness, n.

used (ūzd; ūz; ūst; ūs; 57; 277: see note below), past tense of USE, v. t. Was accustomed; — now only with to and infinitive.

☞ The prons. ūzd and ūz occur chiefly before vowels or voiced consonants; as, he used always to go; he used daily to go.

use district. A zone or area, in a city or town, within which the types of usage to which buildings are put are regulated by law.

us'ee' (ūz'ē'), n. Law. One to or for whose use a thing is done or given. Rare.

use'ful (ūs'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Full of use; producing, or having power to produce, good; serviceable for any end or object; helpful; capable of any beneficial use, as distinguished from that which is vicious or pernicious; having utility (which see); beneficial; advantageous; as, instruments useful in a hospital; a dictionary is useful for reference; useful knowledge or arts; a car would be useful to him; a useful man in his profession.

To what can I be useful! Milton.

use'ful·lish, adj. Useful to some degree; slightly useful.

useful load. Aeronautics. The excess of the full load over the dead weight of an aircraft itself. It includes the crew and passengers, oil and fuel, electric-light installation, chart board, wireless apparatus, and the like. Cf. DEAD LOAD.

use'ful·ly, adv. In a useful manner or fashion.

use'ful·ness, n Quality or state of being useful; conduciveness to an end; utility.

Syn. — Value, profit. See USE.

Ant. — Uselessness, futility, vanity.

use'hold' (ūs'hōld'), n. A proposed system of holding land in which ownership is to be in the state and rights of individuals are to be on the sole basis of actual use and occupation. It is analogous to certain systems of water use. It has been proposed in Australasia.

Ur'ti·cas'trum (ûr'tĭ·kăs'trŭm), n. [NL.] Bot. Syn. of LAPORTEA.

ur'ti·cat'ing, adj. = URTICANT.

U'ru (ōō'rōō). Var. of URO.

u·ru'shic (ōō·rōō'shĭk), or u'ru·shin'ic (ōō'rōō·shĭn'ĭk), ac'id. [Jap. urushi the juice of the lac tree.] Chem. = URUSHIOL.

us. † USE.

us'ant (ūz'ănt), adj. [OF.] Using; accustomed. Obs.

u·sa'ra root. = UZARA ROOT.

u·sa'rin. Var. of UZARIN.

u·sa'ron. Var. of UZARON.

U'sas. Var. of USHAS.

u·sa'tion, n. = USAGE. Rare.

usance. † USANCE.

Us'bek (ŭs'bĕk), Us'beg (-bĕg). Vars. of UZBEK, UZBEG.

Ŭs'coc, n. = USKOK.

use'a·ble, use'a·ble·ness. Vars. of USABLE, USABLENESS.

U section, or U'-sec'tion, n. See U, adj.

used'n't, use'n't (ūz'ĕnt; ūs'ĕnt; ūz'n; see 2d USED). Colloquial contraction of used not; as, he used'n't, or usen't, to be so badly behaved.

use inheritance (ūs). Evolution. The inheritance by offspring of characters acquired by a parent. See LAMARCKISM.

use'less (ūs'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Having, or being of, no use; unserviceable; producing no good end; answering no desired purpose; ineffectual or inefficient; as, useless gifts, pity, persons.

Syn. — USELESS, FRUITLESS, BOOTLESS, INEFFECTUAL. USELESS is the general word; that is FRUITLESS which is barren of result; that is BOOTLESS which is unavailing; INEFFECTUAL often implies futility or insufficiency; as, "useless lumber" (Cowper); "dying patriotism, which labored so fruitlessly" (Hurd); "bootless prayers" (Shak.); "the moonlight's ineffectual glow" (Shelley). Cf. VAIN.

Ant. — Useful, serviceable; effectual; beneficial.

— use'less-ly, adv. — use'less-ness, n.

Useless Parliament. Eng. Hist. The first Parliament under Charles I, sitting from June 18 to August 12, 1625.

use money (ūs). Interest money. Dial. Eng.

us'er (ūz'ĕr), n. One who or that which uses.

us'er, n. Enjoyment of a right of use; a right to use, resulting from long-continued use.

ush (ŭsh), v. t. To clean out, as a room; also, to turn (persons) out of; to expel. Obs.

ush (ŭsh), v. t. & i. To usher. Slang.

u·shab'ti (ū·shăb'tĭ), n.; pl. USHABTIU (-tĭ·ōō). [Egypt. ushebti, shawabti.] Egypt Relig. A mummy-like figure deposited in a tomb with the mummy, generally bearing inscriptions from the Book of the Dead. The ushabtiu were expected to do certain agricultural labors required in the land of the dead.

Ushabti.

U·shak' (ōō·shäk'), adj. Of or from Ushak, a town near Smyrna. — n. A kind of large Turkish carpet for mosques, and a kind of prayer rug, made in Ushak, distinguished by thick pile, coarse knotting, and bright colors; — called sometimes Smyrna. Ushak carpets are often reproduced in 16th-century paintings. Their manufacture remained on a high level until early in the 19th century.

U'-shaped' (ū'shāpt'), adj. Having the form of the letter U; specif., Phys. Geog., of valleys, resembling a broad U in cross profile.

U'shas (ōō'shäs; ōō·shäs'), n. [Skr. Uṣas. See EAST.] Vedic Myth. The goddess of the dawn, to whom are addressed some of the noblest hymns in the Vedas.

ush'er (ŭsh'ĕr), n. [ME. ussher, uschere, fr. OF. uissier (F. huissier), fr. VL. ustiarius, fr. ustium, for L. ostium, door, entrance, mouth of a river; akin to Skr. oṣṭha lip, Lith. uostas haven, and to L. os mouth. See ORAL; cf. OSTIARY.] 1. An officer or servant who has the care of the door of a court, hall, chamber, or the like. Also, one who escorts persons to seats in a church, theater, etc.

2. Hence: a An officer whose business it is to introduce strangers, or to walk before a person of rank. There are various ushers attached to the royal household in England, including the Gentleman-Usher of the Black Rod. See BLACK ROD. b Also, until 1852, specif., an inferior officer of the English Court of Chancery.

3. An underteacher, or assistant, in a school. Brit.

4. Loosely, any attendant; as: a An escort accompanying or paying court to a lady. b A herald, considered as ushering in a dignitary; a precursor.

ush'er, v. t.; USH'ERED (-ĕrd); USH'ER·ING. 1. To introduce or escort, as an usher, forerunner, or harbinger; as, to usher in a stranger; to usher forth the guests.

The stars that usher evening rose. Milton.

2. To precede (a dignitary) as a herald or announcer.

3. To serve as introduction for (a discourse, essay, book, etc.); to preface.

usher in. a To bring on and serve, as a feast, with ceremony and formality. b To introduce; inaugurate; as, the King's accession ushered in a long period of prosperity for the country.

ush'er·ance (ŭsh'ĕr·ăns), n. Ushering; introduction. Rare.

ush'er·er (-ĕr), n. An usher.

ush·e'ri·an (ŭsh·ēr'ĭ·ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or done by, ushers. Rare.

Ush·e'ri·an, adj. Of or pertaining to Archbishop Usher (1580–1656) or designating his biblical chronology, formerly printed in the margins of Bibles.

ush'er-in', n. An usher; introducer.

This usher-in of the material implements for our progress. Conrad.

Usher of the Green Rod. An officer who attends the king and knights of the Order of the Thistle in chapter. Eng.

‖u'sine' (ü'zēn'), n. [F.] A factory; — applied esp. to sugarworks in the West Indies.

us'ing-ground' (ūz'ĭng·ground'), n. A place frequented by game, esp. by wild fowl.

us'ings (ūz'ĭngz), n. pl. Property; belongings. Dial., U. S.

u'si·tate (ū'zĭ·tāt), adj. [L. usitatus, past part.] Usual; customary. Rare.

u'si·ta'tive (ū'zĭ·tā'tĭv; -tā·tĭv), adj. [L. usitari to use often.] Denoting usual or customary action; as, the usitative aorist.

Us'kok (ōōs'kŏk), n. A Slav of Dalmatian origin originally fugitive from Turkish rule. Early in the 17th century the Uskoks became brigands but later took up agriculture.

Us'ne·a (ŭs'nē·ȧ), n. [ML., fr. Ar. (fr. Per.) ushnah moss.] Bot. a A genus of widely distributed, fruticose lichens of the family Usneaceae. Most of the species have a grayish or yellow, pendulous, freely branched thallus, whence they are called tree mosses. U. barbata is the common beard lichen. b [not cap.] A lichen of this genus.

Usnea (U. barbata). 1 Apothecium.

Us'ne·a'ce·ae (ŭs'nē·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of fruticose lichens, with prostrate, erect, or pendulous, thalli, generally radially symmetrical. The most important genera are Usnea, Evernia, Ramalina, and Alectoria. — us'ne·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj. — us'ne·oid (ŭs'nē·oid), adj.

Us'nech (ōōsh'nĕk), n. [MIr.] Father of the hero Noise and his two brothers, who are banished from Ireland with Deirdre and are treacherously murdered. See DEIRDRE; THREE SORROWS of STORYTELLING.

us'nic (ŭs'nĭk), or us·nin'ic (ŭs·nĭn'ĭk), ac'id. Chem. A yellow crystalline acid, $C_{18}H_{16}O_7$, obtained from some lichens (genera Usnea, Parmelia, etc.).

Us'pan·te'ca (ōōs'pän·tā'kä), n. Also Us·pan'tec (ōōs·pän'tĕk). An Indian of a Mayan tribe dwelling in central Guatemala. See MAYA, n.; MAYAN.

‖us'que ad a'ras (ŭs'kwē ăd ā'răs). [L.] Even to the altars, that is, in everything except what is contrary to one's religion. Cf. AMICUS USQUE AD ARAS.

‖us'que ad fi'lum a'quae (fī'lŭm ā'kwē). [L.] Law. As far as to the filum aquae (which see).

‖us'que ad nau'se·am (nô'shē·ăm). [L.] Even to nausea; even so far as to disgust.

us'que·baugh (ŭs'kwē·bä; -bô), n. [Ir. & Gael. uisge beatha, lit., water of life, fr. uisge water + beatha life; akin to E. WATER; QUICK. Cf. WHISKY.] a Whisky, as made in Ireland or Scotland. b A strong Irish cordial flavored with cinnamon, cloves, etc.

us·selv' (ŭz·sĕlz'), pron. Also us'self, pron.; pl. USSELVEN. Ourselves. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

us'sing·ite (ŭs'ĭng·īt), n. [After N. V. Ussing, of Copenhagen.] Mineral. A sodium aluminum silicate, related to the zeolites. It occurs in reddish-violet masses. H., 6–7. Sp. gr., 2.5.

U. S. S. thread. Mach. United States standard thread, now known as the American National coarse thread. See SCREW THREAD.

Us'ta·ra·na, Ush'ta·ra·na (ōōsh'tȧ·rȧ·nȧ), n. sing. & pl. One of a Pathan pastoral and trading tribe on the west side of the middle Indus, North-West Frontier Province, India.

Us'ti·lag'i·na'ce·ae (ŭs'tĭ·lăj'ĭ·nā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See USTILAGO.] Bot. One of the two families of smuts typifying the order Ustilaginales, distinguished from the Tilletiaceae by having chlamydospores which germinate to form a several-celled promycelium either bearing terminal and lateral sporidia or forming an infection thread. — us'ti·lag'i·na'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Us'ti·lag'i·na'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of parasitic fungi (class Basidiomycetes) of two families, the Ustilaginaceae and the Tilletiaceae, comprising the widespread destructive smuts. They produce smutlike chlamydospores on ovaries and leaves, and turn the grains of corn, wheat, etc., into a black mass of greasy spores. See SMUT, n., 2.

us'ti·la·gin'e·ous (-lȧ·jĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. Also us'ti·lag'i·nous (-lăj'ĭ·nŭs). Bot. Pertaining to, or characteristic of, the genus Ustilago or the order Ustilaginales.

Us'ti·lag'i·noi'de·a (-lăj'ĭ·noi'dē·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Ustilago, -inis, + -oidea.] Bot. A genus of fungi (family Hypocreaceae) forming conidia-bearing sclerotia which replace the grain in certain grasses, and later produce ascigerous heads, similar to those in Claviceps. See GREEN SMUT.

Us'ti·la'go (ŭs'tĭ·lā'gō), n. [LL., a thistlelike plant (akin to L. ustulatus burned, scorched), hence, in NL., smut, with ref. to its scorched look. See USTULATE.] Bot. A genus of smut fungi typifying the Ustilaginaceae; the loose smuts. Cf. TILLETIA, SMUT, n., 2.

us'tion (ŭs'chŭn), n. [F., fr. L. ustio, fr. urere, ustum, to burn. See EMBER, n.] Act of burning, or state of being burned; cauterization. Rare.

U'-stir'rup (ū'stĭr'ŭp; -stûr'ŭp), n. A stirrup bent in the form of a U. See STIRRUP, 2 b. us·to'ri·ous (ŭs·tō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. [L. urere, ustum, to burn.] Having the quality or power of burning. Rare.

us'tu·late (ŭs'tū·lāt), adj [L. ustulatus, past part. of ustulare to scorch, fr. urere to burn. See EMBER, n.] Discolored as if burned.

us'tu·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [ML. ustulatio.] 1. Act of burning or searing. Rare.

2. Old Chem. The operation of expelling one substance from another by heat, as sulphur from ores, in a muffle.

3. Pharm. a The roasting or drying of moist substances to prepare them for pulverizing. b The burning of wine.

4. Lascivious passion; concupiscence. Obs.

Us'tu·li'na (ŭs'tū·lī'nȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. ustulatus burned.] Bot. A genus of sac fungi of the family Xylariaceae. U. zonata causes a common root disease of tea.

u'su·al (ū'zhōō·ăl; 277), adj. [OF. usual, usuel (F. usuel), fr. LL. usualis, fr. usus use. See USE, n.] Such as is in common use; such as occurs in ordinary practice, or in the ordinary course of events; customary; ordinary; habitual; common; as, the usual charge for this service; our usual messenger failed to come; the usual meeting of the trustees; such dissipation was not usual with him.

Consultation with oracles was a thing very usual. Hooker.

Syn. — Accustomed, prevailing, wonted; normal, regular, typical; conventional, orthodox, stereotyped. — USUAL, CUSTOMARY, HABITUAL. USUAL, the general term, applies to whatever happens in the ordinary course of events; that is CUSTOMARY which is according to the usual practices, conventions, usages, and the like, whether of an individual or (esp.) of a community; HABITUAL implies settled practice or regularity of repetition, and has commonly personal or individual reference; as, "bid the main flood bate his usual height" (Shak.); "After the customary pause, Pontiac rose to speak" (Parkman); "an Englishman's habitual diffidence" (Irving). Cf. COMMON, REGULAR, HABIT.

Ant. — Uncommon, extraordinary, different, odd, abnormal. See STRANGE.

— u'su·al·ness, n.

u'su·al, n. That which is usual; esp., normal health.

usual covenants. Eng. Law. a In conveyances, those covenants (called covenants for, or of, title) usually inserted in a deed conveying land to secure to the grantee the benefit of the title purported to be conveyed. They are: (1) The covenant of seizin (that the grantor is seized of the estate in question); (2) the covenant that the grantor has a good right to convey; (3) the covenant for quiet enjoyment (that the grantee's enjoyment of the conveyed estate shall not be interfered with by the grantor or by the lawful act of anyone claiming under him); (4) the covenant against encumbrances; (5) the covenant for further assurance (that the grantor will make such further conveyances as may be necessary to perfect the grantee's title); and (6), in the United States, the covenant of warranty (which binds the covenantor to warrant and defend the title against anyone claiming under paramount title an interest in the estate conveyed). Of these the 1st covenant is sometimes omitted, and in the United States the 6th often replaces the 3d. In some States the 6th covenant is the only one commonly used. b In the law of landlord and tenant, a covenant by the lessor for "quiet enjoyment" so far as concerns his own acts and those of persons claiming under or through him, and covenants by the lessee to pay rent, to pay taxes except those expressly payable by the lessor, to keep and deliver up the premises in repair, and to allow the lessor to enter and view the state of repair.

u'su·al·ism (ū'zhōō·ăl·ĭz'ĭm), n. Quality or character of being usual, habitual, normal, or as expected.

Everything in the matter of precautions and usualisms. Henry James.

u'su·al·ly, adv. In the usual manner; customarily; as usual.

usual tare. = CUSTOMARY TARE. See TARE.

u'su·ar'y (ū'zhōō·ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr·ĭ), n. [LL. usuarius.] Roman & Civil Law. The benefiaciary of a use. See USE, n., 11.

u'su·ca'pi·ent (ū'zū·kā'pĭ·ĕnt), n. [L. usucapiens, -entis, pres. part.] Roman Law. One who claims title by usucapion.

u'su·ca'pi·on (ū'zū·kā'pĭ·ŏn), n. [L. usucapio, -onis, fr. usucapere, usucaptum, to acquire by long use, fr. usu (abl. of usus use) + capere to take. Cf. USUCAPTION.] Roman Law. The mode by which one acquired title to property by uninterrupted possession of it for a certain period (one year for movables, two for immovables) under a title acquired in good faith. Usucapion gave a quiritarian title, while the prescription (which see) was praetorian, and originated only as a defense. In the later Roman law the two became merged. — u'su·ca'pi·on·ar'y (-ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr·ĭ), adj.

u'su·capt (ū'zū·kăpt), v. t. [L. usucapere, -captum. See USUCAPION.] Roman Law. To claim or acquire the title to by usucapion.

u'su·cap'ta·ble (-kăp'tȧ·b'l), u'su·cap'ti·ble (-kăp'tĭ·b'l), adj. Roman Law. Capable of being acquired by usucapion.

u'su·fruct (ū'zū·frŭkt), n. [LL. usufructus, fr. L. usufructus (abl. usufructu), usus fructus, usus et fructus, fr. usus use + fructus fruit; cf. F. usufruit. See USE, n.; FRUIT.] Roman & Civil Law. The right of using and enjoying the fruits or profits of an estate or other thing belonging to another, without impairing the substance. This right (called a perfect usufruct) is generally treated as a personal servitude, and includes both the use (jus utendi) and the enjoyment of the fruits (jus fruendi). Also, by extension, a similar right (an imperfect, or quasi, usufruct) allowed in things consumed in the using.

u'su·fruct, v. t. To hold (property) subject to usufruct.

u'su·fruc'tu·ar'y (-frŭk'tū·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -ARIES (-ĭz). [LL. usufructuarius.] Roman & Civil Law. One having the usufruct of property.

u'su·fruc'tu·ar'y, adj. Law. Of or pertaining to a usufruct; having the nature of, or possessing in the character of, a usufruct.

U'sun' (ōō'sōōn'), n. sing. & pl. Also Us'sun', U'zun'. One of an ancient people mentioned by Chinese historians as migrating to the region between Lake Balkhash and Lake Issiq Köl, about 200 B.C. They are said to have been blond and blue-eyed, true Nordics.

u'sure (ū'zhōōr), n. Usage; use. Rare.

u'sure (ū'zhōōr), v. i. [OF. usurer, fr. ML. usurare.] To practice usury. Obs.

u'sure, n. [OF.] = USURY. Obs.

u'su·rer (ū'zhōō·rĕr; 249), n. [ME., fr. OF. usureor, usurier, fr. ML. usurarius. See USURY; cf. USURARIOUS.]

1. One who lends money and takes interest for it; a moneylender.

If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou shalt not be to him as a usurer. Ex. xxii. 25.

2. Specif., one who lends money at a rate of interest beyond that established by law or at an exorbitant rate.

u·su'ri·ous (ū·zhōōr'ĭ·ŭs; 242), adj. [From USURY.] 1. Practicing usury; taking illegal or exorbitant interest for the use of money; as, a usurious person.

2. Partaking of or involving usury; of the nature of usury; as, a usurious contract.

— u·su'ri·ous·ly, adv. — u·su'ri·ous·ness, n.

u·surp' (ū·zûrp'; -sûrp'), v.; U·SURPED' (-zûrpt'; -sûrpt'); U·SURP'ING. [OF. usurper, fr. L. usurpare, -patum, to make use of, enjoy, get possession of, usurp, fr. usus use + rapere to seize. See USE; RAPID.] Trans.: 1. To seize and hold in possession by force, or without right; — applied to seizure of office, place, functions, powers, rights, etc.; as, to usurp a throne; to usurp the prerogatives of the crown; to usurp power; to usurp the right of a patron is to oust or dispossess him.

2. To seize and hold by or as by force, as land, a city; in general, to take possession of; as, the great regions to the north usurped by the Roman legions; passionate anger usurped the place which pity had filled.

3. To employ wrongfully; to use without authority; to assume unrightfully.

—, Intransitive: To commit forcible seizure of place, power, functions, or the like, without right; to commit unjust encroachments; to be, or act as, a usurper.

The parish churches on which the Presbyterians and fanatics had usurped. Evelyn.

Syn. — USURP, ARROGATE, ASSUME. TO ASSUME, as here compared (cf. ASSUME), is to take upon oneself, whether with or without right; to ARROGATE (cf. ARROGANT) is to assume unduly or with presumption; USURP implies forcible seizure, as of power, rights, functions, and the like, without right; as, "Pompey, Crassus, and Caesar . . . divided the government betwixt them, which none of them was able to assume alone" (Dryden); "By arrogating to himself too much, he was in danger of losing that degree of estimation to which he was entitled" (Johnson); "[He], still affecting fame, usurped a patriot's all-atoning name" (Dryden).

u'sur·pa'tion (ū'zûr·pā'shŭn; -sûr-), n. [OF. usurpacion (F. usurpation), fr. L. usurpatio.] 1. Act of usurping; unauthorized arbitrary assumption and exercise of power, esp. as infringing on others' rights; specif., the illegal seizure of sovereign power; — commonly with of, sometimes with on or upon; as, the usurpation of a throne.

Manifest usurpation on the rights of other States. D. Webster.

Specif., Eng. Hist., the period of the Commonwealth; — often with the. See COMMONWEALTH, n., 3 a.

2. An act or an instance of encroachment; as, the ocean's steady usurpation of the land.

3. Use; usage; custom. Obs.

4. Eng. Eccl. Law. The dispossession of the patron of a church, by a stranger presenting a clerk to a vacant benefice, who is thereupon admitted and instituted.

5. Roman Law. An interruption of use or possession, as in usucapion or in cohabitation.

---

u'se·ry. † USURY.

U'sha (ōō'shä), n. See BANA.

U·sheen'. Var. of OSSIAN.

ush'erd. Ushered. Rcf. Sp.

ush'er·dom, n. See -DOM.

ush'er·ess, n. Also ush'er·ette'. Feminine of USHER.

ush'er·ism, n. See -ISM.

ush'er·less, adj. See -LESS.

ush'er·ship, n. See -SHIP. [RANA.]

Ush'ta·ra·na. Var. of USTA-

U·sip'e·tes (ū·sĭp'ē·tēz), n. pl. [L.] See ISITVAZONTS.

Us·ka'ra (ōōs·kä'rä), n. = EUSKERA.

Us'nach. Var. of USNECH.

us'qua·bae, us'que·bae. Vars. of USQUEBAUGH.

us'que (ŭs'kwĭ), n. Short for USQUEBAUGH. Scot. [Obs.]

us·sel'ven, pron. pl. Ourselves.

us'suk (ōōs'sōōk). Var. of USSUE. [USED TO.]

ust, us'ter. Dial. vars. of USED, usuage. † USAGE.

‖u'su·ca'pi·o (ū'zū·kā'pĭ·ō), n. Law. = USUCAPION.

u'su·cap'tion (-kăp'shŭn), n. [ML. usucapio.] Roman Law. = USUCAPION.

u'su·cap'tor, n. = USUCAPIENT.

u'su·fruit, n. [F.] = USUFRUCT, n. Obs.

‖u·su'ra (ū·sū'rȧ), n. [L.] See INTEREST, n., 3.

‖u·su'ra u'su·ra'rum (-rē ū'-sū·ā'rŭm). [L.] See INTEREST, n., 3.

u'su·rar'i·ous (ū'sū·rĕr'ĭ·ŭs; 79), adj. [L. usurarius that serves for use, that pays interest. See USURER.] Usurious. Obs.

u'su·rar'y (ū'zhōō·ĕr'ĭ), adj. [L. usurarius.] That bears (excessive) interest. Obs.

u'su·rer·like', adj. See -LIKE.

u'su·ress, n. Feminine of USURER.

u'su·rous, adj. = USURIOUS. Obs.

u·sur'ant (ū·zûr'ănt; -sûr'-), adj. [L. usurpans, pres. part.] Usurping. Obs.

u·sur'pate, adj. = USURPATIVE. Obs.

u·surp'a·tive (ū·zûr'pȧ·tĭv; -sûr'-), adj. Usurpatory; usurping. — u·surp'a·tive·ly, adv.

u·surp'a·to'ry (-pȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [LL. usurpatorius.] Marked by usurpation; usurping.

u·surp'a·ture (-pȧ·tûr), n. Usurpation. Rare.

u·surp'er (-pĕr), n. One who usurps, or seizes and holds without proper authority; esp.: a One who seizes illegally on sovereign power; as, the usurper of a throne. b One who infringes or encroaches upon the rights or property of another. c One who without proper authority assumes public office and performs official acts.

u·surp'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. Hence: adj. Holding by, or marked by, usurpation. — u·surp'ing·ly, adv.

u'su·ry (ū'zhōō·rĭ; 249; 277), n.; pl. USURIES (-rĭz). [ME. usurie, fr. usure, fr. OF. usure, fr. L. usura use, usury, interest, fr. uti, past part. usus, to use; cf. ML. usuria. See USE, v.] 1. A premium or increase paid, or stipulated, for a loan of money or goods; interest. Obs.

Thou shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of anything. Deut. xxiii. 19.

2. The lending out of money with an interest charge for its use; the taking, or practice of taking, usury (now usually, or always, in sense 3).

3. An unconscionable or exorbitant rate or amount of interest; specif., Law, interest in excess of a legal rate charged to a borrower for the use of money. In primitive societies the taking in return for a loan of money or goods of anything in excess of the loan appears always to have been a practice repugnant and in some cases unknown, owing to the fact that in the early stages of civilization the thing loaned is not used as productive capital, but for consumption, generally by persons in want. The exaction then of a return seemed a taking advantage of the life necessities of another. Following the Jewish law, the taking of interest is prohibited by the common law, except under certain conditions. With the growth of commerce and manufactures usury became a practice carried on by various devices in evasion of the laws prohibiting it. With the Reformation legal sanction began to be given in European countries to the taking of interest up to a rate fixed by law; and today interest is allowed in all civilized countries, either unrestrictedly, except the prohibition of unconscionable or iniquitous bargains (as in Great Britain since 1854, and in parts of the United States), or with restriction to some legal rate of interest, with a penalty for exactions of more than that amount, as in various States of the United States. See INTEREST, n., 3; DRY EXCHANGE.

‖u'sus (ū'zŭs), n. [L., use.] Rom. Law. User; use. See USE, n., 11.

‖u'sus lo·quen'di (lō·kwĕn'dī). [L.] Usage in speaking.

ut (ūt; in solmization, ōōt), n. [L. See GAMUT, and def. of SOLMIZATION.] Music. a The first syllable in Guido's system of solmization, now usually superseded by do. See SOLMIZATION. b The pitch C.

U'ta (ū'tȧ), n. [NL., fr. Utah, var. of UTE.] Zool. A genus of 23 species of iguanid lizards found from New Mexico to Lower California. See SWIFT, n., 5.

u'ta (ōō'tä), n. [Sp., fr. Quechua uta.] Med. A form of leishmaniasis of the skin, occurring in Peru.

u'ta (ōō'tȧ), n. [Jap.] A song of any kind; — generally applied to verses, especially the tanka. See 2d TANKA.

U'tah (ū'tô; ū'tä), n. 1. Var. of UTE.

2. A State of the United States.

U'tah·an (ū'tô·ăn), n. A native or inhabitant of the State of Utah.

u'tah·ite (ū'tô·ĭt), n. [From Utah, the State, fr. Utah, var. of UTE.] a Mineral. A hydrous orange-yellow basic iron sulphate. b Variscite.

u'ta·i (ōō'tȧ·ē), n. [Jap., to sing.] The singing of no songs; no songs; — called also yo-kyoku. See 6th NO.

u'tas (ū'tăs), n. [OF. huitieves, witieves, witaves, pl. of huitieve, witieve, etc., eighth, fr. L. octava, fem. of octavus. See OCTAVE.] 1. Eccl. The octave of a feast.

2. A festive occasion; festivity; an octave. Obs.

‖ut de fe'o·do (ŭt dē fē'ō·dō). [LL.] Law. As proceeding from fee.

Ute (ūt; ū'tē), n. An Indian of a group of Shoshonean tribes, of extremely primitive culture, formerly ranging in Colorado, Utah, and New Mexico. Among the most important divisions are the Uncompahgre and the Uinta. About 2,000 survivors live on reservations in Colorado and Utah.

u·ten'sil (ū·tĕn'sĭl; -s'l; formerly also ū'tĕn·sĭl), n. [OF. utensile (F. ustensile), fr. L. utensile, fr. utensilis that may be used, fit for use, fr. uti, past part. usus, to use. See USE, v.] 1. An instrument or vessel, esp. one used in a kitchen or dairy.

2. Any useful tool or implement; as, a barn filled with farming utensils; figuratively, Rare, a useful person.

3. A vessel, ornament, furnishing, or the like, belonging to a church or, esp., used in religious service; as, theft of the consecrated utensils from the cathedral.

Syn. — See IMPLEMENT.

uter-. = UTERO- (which see), as in:

uteralgia, uterectomy.

u'ter·ine (ū'tĕr·ĭn; -īn; 156), adj. [LL. uterinus born of the same mother, fr. uterus womb; cf. F. utérin.] 1. Of or pertaining to the uterus, or womb.

2. Born of the same mother, but by a different father.

Walter Pope, uterine brother to Dr. Joh. Wilkins. Wood.

3. Suited for use in or on the uterus.

uterine artery. Anat. An artery derived from the hypogastric artery which supplies the uterus (reaching it at the cervix) and adjacent parts, and, during pregnancy, the placenta. Its course lies between the layers of the broad ligament. The blood is returned by the uterine plexus of veins, which is tributary to the hypogastric vein.

uterine descent. Matriarchy.

uterine gland. Anat. Any of the branched tubular glands in the mucous membrane of the uterus.

uterine system. Anthropol. A system of marriage in which it is believed that a woman becomes pregnant by direct influence of the clan totem, — common among Australian natives.

uterine tube. = FALLOPIAN TUBE.

u'ter·o- (ū'tĕr·ō-), uter-. A combining form from uterus (cf. HYSTERO-; METRO-), denoting: a The uterus, as in u'ter·ol'o·gy and the following:

uterocele	uterolith	uterosclerosis
uterocystotomy	uterometer	uteroscope uterogestation	uteroperitoneal	uterotomy uterointestinal	uteroplasty	uterotonic

b Uteral and; — in adjectives, as in u'ter·o·ab·dom'i·nal, pert. to the uterus and abdomen, and the following:

uterocervical	uteropelvic	uterovaginal
uteroovarian	uteroplacental	uteroventral uteroparietal	uterosacral	uterovesical

u'ter·o·gram' (ū'tĕr·ō·grăm'), n. [utero- + -gram.] Med. An X-ray photograph of the uterine cavity, made after injecting a substance opaque to X rays into the cavity.

u'ter·og'ra·phy (ū'tĕr·ŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [utero- + -graphy.] Med. Art, practice, or act, of making uterograms.

u'ter·o·tub'al (-ō·tūb'ăl), adj. [utero- + tubal.] Anat. & Med. Of or pertaining to the uterus and Fallopian tubes; as, a uterotubal insufflation of air, in which air injected into the uterus is forced through the tubes.

u'ter·us (ū'tĕr·ŭs), n.; pl. UTERI (-ī). [L., womb, belly, abdomen; akin to Skr. udara, Lith. vėdaras. Cf. HYSTERIA.] 1. Anat. & Zool. In female mammals, an organ for containing, and usually for nourishing, the young during the development previous to birth; the womb. Considered morphologically it is a greatly modified and enlarged section of an oviduct (or of the two oviducts united). In many of the lower mammals there is a separate uterus on each side, continuous with each Fallopian tube, but more often they unite for some distance, the single uterus thus formed being Y-shaped. In the primates and a few others the coalescence is complete and the uterus is somewhat pear-shaped, opening below into the vagina by a narrow neck, or cervix, the larger portion being termed the body, and receiving the Fallopian tubes on each side. The uterus has thick walls, consisting of an external serous coat, a very thick muscular coat of nonstriated muscle, and a mucous coat containing numerous glands. During pregnancy the uterus undergoes remarkable increase in size, and change in the condition of its walls, the mucous membrane of which in the higher forms takes part in the formation of the placenta (which see).

2. Zool. a A section or diverticulum of an oviduct of any of various animals (vertebrate or invertebrate) other than mammals, which is enlarged or modified to serve as a place of development of the eggs or of the young. b The glandular part of the oviduct, which secretes the eggshell.

3. Bot. In gasteromycetous fungi, the peridium. Rare.

‖u'te·rus bi·cor'nis (ū'tĕ·rŭs bī·kôr'nĭs). [NL.] A bicornuate uterus.

‖u'te·rus bi'par·ti'tus (bī'pär·tī'tŭs) or bi·lo'cu·la'ris (bī·lŏk'ū·lā'rĭs). [NL. See BIPARTITE; BILOCULAR.] Zool. An almost completely double uterus, having a common opening into the vagina, found in carnivores, ruminants, horses, and pigs.

‖u'te·rus du'plex (dū'plĕks), ‖u'te·rus di·del'phys (dī·dĕl'fĭs). [NL. Cf. DUPLEX; DIDELPHIA.] Zool. A completely double uterus, having separate openings into a single vagina, resulting from fusion of the Müllerian ducts only at their posterior extremity, found in rodents.

‖u'te·rus mas'cu·li'nus (măs'kū·lī'nŭs). [NL.] Anat. The utriculus prostaticus.

‖u'te·rus sep'tus (sĕp'tŭs). [NL.] = UTERUS BIPARTITUS.

‖u'te·rus sim'plex (sĭm'plĕks). [NL. Cf. SIMPLE.] Anat. & Zool. The completely fused uterus, as in primates.

Ut'gar·tha–Lo'ki (ōōt'gär·thä·lō'kē), n. Norse Myth. A cunning giant who outwits Thor and Loki.

Ut'gar·thar (ōōt'gär·thär), n. [ON. Útgarthar, pl.] Norse Myth. 1. The land of giants, as opposed to Midgard.

2. The region of the dead.

U'ther (ū'thĕr), n. One of the three principal magicians of Britain, later regarded as King of Britain and father of King Arthur. See IGRAINE.

U'ti·ca (ū'tĭ·kȧ), adj. [From Utica, N. Y.] Designating or pertaining to a subdivision of the American Ordovician (Lower Silurian) as, Utica shale. See GEOLOGY, Chart. — U'ti·ca, n.

u'tick (ū'tĭk), n. The whinchat. Local, Eng.

u'tile (ū'tĭl; see -ILE), adj. [F., fr. L. utilis, fr. uti to use. See USE, v.] Practical; profitable; useful.

It may have arisen as a utile agent, as means of preservation or an inducement to propagation. H. B. Alexander.

u·til'i·tar'i·an (ū·tĭl'ĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn; ū'tĭl-), adj. [See UTILITY.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or consisting in, utility; aiming at utility as distinguished from beauty, ornament, etc.; sometimes, derogatorily, evincing, or characterized by, a regard for utility of a lower kind, or marked by a sordid spirit; as, utilitarian narrowness, indifference to art.

2. Of or pert. to utilitarianism; supporting utilitarianism.

Syn. — Practical, matter-of-fact; useful.

Ant. — Idealistic, impractical.

— u·til'i·tar'i·an·ly, adv.

u·til'i·tar'i·an, n. One who believes in utilitarianism.

The utilitarians are for merging all the particular virtues into one, and would substitute in their place the greatest usefulness, as the alone principle to which every question respecting the morality of actions should be referred. Chalmers.

u·til'i·tar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Ethics. The doctrine that the useful is the good, and that the determining consideration of right conduct is the usefulness of its consequences; esp., the doctrine that the aim of moral action is the largest possible balance of pleasure over pain, or the greatest happiness of the greatest number. Utilitarianism is essentially an English ethical system, having as its chief expounders Jeremy Bentham (1748–1832) and James and John Stuart Mill.

u·til'i·tar'i·an·ist (-ĭst), n. A utilitarian. Rare.

u·til'i·tar'i·an·ize (-ĭz), v. t. To treat from a utilitarian standpoint; to render of utility.

u·til'i·ty (ū·tĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ME. utilite, fr. OF. utilité, fr. L. utilitas, fr. utilis useful. See UTILE.] 1. Quality or state of being useful; usefulness; profitableness to some desired end; as, the utility of manures upon land; the utility of the sciences; the utility of medicines; a fowl bred for utility rather than for display.

The utility of the enterprise was, however, so great and obvious that all opposition proved useless. Macaulay.

2. Econ. Power to satisfy human wants. "Wants are here reckoned quantitatively with regard to their volume and intensity; not according to any ethical or prudential standard" (A. Marshall). Modern economists distinguish the total utility, measured by the loss which would be involved in the entire deprivation of a commodity, from the marginal utility, or final utility, which would be involved in the loss of a certain amount of it. Thus the total utility of water is infinitely great; but the marginal utility of a single quart of water is ordinarily very small, because a man or a community has usually so much water at command that one quart more or less makes very little difference. Subjective utility is the satisfaction which different articles give to one and the same individual.

3. Happiness; the greatest good or happiness of the greatest number, — the foundation of utilitarianism. J. S. Mill.

4. A useful thing, factor, implement, etc.; esp., a tool or device used as an adjunct to a more important machine.

5. Frequently, short for PUBLIC UTILITY (which see); — usually in pl. Also used attributively; as, utility holding companies; a utility merger.

6. pl. Shares of stock in public utility companies.

Syn. — See USE. Ant. — Uselessness, worthlessness.

u·til'i·ty (ū·tĭl'ĭ·tĭ), adj. Serving for utility or as a utility man.

utility man. 1. A man available for service in various positions; hence, a member of a professional baseball team who plays various positions in the absence of regular players.

2. Theater. An actor who performs minor parts and does odd jobs.

u'ti·liz'a·ble (ū'tĭ·lĭz'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being utilized; as, the utilizable products of the gasworks.

u'ti·li·za'tion (-lĭ·zā'shŭn; -lĭ·zā'shŭn), n. [F. utilisation.] Act of utilizing, or state of being utilized.

u'ti·lize (ū'tĭ·līz), v. t.; U'TI·LIZED (-lĭzd); U'TI·LIZ'ING (-lĭz'ĭng). [F. utiliser.] To make useful; to turn to profitable account or use; to make use of; as, to utilize the whole power of a machine; to utilize one's opportunities.

In former ages, the mile-long corridors, with their numerous alcoves, might have been utilized as . . . dungeons. Hawthorne.

— u'ti·liz'er (-līz'ĕr), n.

u'ti·nam (ū'tĭ·năm), n. [L., would that!] Wish; desire. R.

‖ut in'fra (ŭt ĭn'frȧ). [L.] As below.

‖u'ti pos'si·de'tis (ū'tī pŏs'ĭ·dē'tĭs). [L., as you possess.] 1. Roman & Civil Law. A species of interdict for deciding the right to the possession of immovables, and preserving things in statu quo pending the decision. At Roman law the party prevailed who was in actual possession at the time of the issue of the interdict and had not taken possession from his opponent by force, stealth, or with his permission. This interdict and utrubi finally became practically merged.

2. Internat. Law. Short for principle of uti possidetis: that is, the principle that a conclusion or treaty of peace between belligerents vests in them respectively as absolute property the territory under their actual control and things attached to it, and the movables then in their legal possession, except as otherwise stipulated.

‖u'ti ro'gas (rō'gȧs). [L.] Rom. Law. As you ask; — in voting yes, or aye.

Ut'man Khel (ōōt'män kāl). One of an independent Pathan tribe in the country southwest of the junction of the Swat and the Panjkora, tributaries of the Indus.

ut'most (ŭt'mōst; -mŭst), adj. [ME. outemest, utmest, utemest, fr. AS. ūtmest, ūtemest, ȳt(e)mest, double superl. (see FOREMOST) fr. ūt, ūte, out. See OUT; cf. AFTERMOST, OUTMOST, UTTERMOST.] 1. Situated at the farthest point or extremity; most distant; extreme; last; final; as, the utmost limits of the land; the utmost extent of knowledge. "The utmost town in France." Evelyn.

Betwixt two thieves I spend my utmost breath. Herbert.

2. Of the greatest or highest degree, quantity, number, or the like; greatest; as, the utmost assiduity, misery.

He shall answer to his utmost peril. Shak.

Six or seven thousand is their utmost power. Shak.

ut'most, n. 1. The most possible; the uttermost; the farthest limit, or that which is located there; the greatest power, degree, or effort; as, try your utmost.

We have tried the utmost of our friends. Shak.

2. The final issue; the end.

— to the utmost. To the limit or extreme of one's effort, capacity, strength, etc.

Ut'na·pish'tim (ōōt'nä·pĭsh'tĭm), n. Babylon. Myth. In the Gilgamesh Epic, a hero who by the special favor of the gods has secured immortal life, and to whom his great-grandson Gilgamesh applies for the secret of immortality. He is the hero of the Babylonian deluge myth, and has therefore been called "the Babylonian Noah." He and his household are sole survivors of the deluge. See XISUTHROS, GILGAMESH.

U'to–Az'tec·an (ū'tô·ăz'tĕk·ăn), adj. Pertaining to or designating one of the most important of American Indian linguistic families, formerly occupying two large irregular territories, the northern, which included the southern half of Idaho and adjacent areas in Montana, Oregon, and Wyoming, almost all of Utah and Nevada, most of southern California, the western half of Colorado, northeastern New Mexico, and northwestern Texas, and the southern, which included the southern part of Arizona and most of northwestern and central Mexico, and occupying also several outlying areas in Arizona, southern Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Panama. It comprises some 50 distinct tribes and peoples, and others now extinct, whose native culture was most diverse, ranging from the highest to the lowest types found on the continent. The Uto-Aztecan peoples are classified, according to language, in three principal branches: a Shoshonean, occupying most of the northern area, and including (1) the nomadic tribes of the plateau, of which the most important are: the Bannock, Chemehuevi, Comanche, Paiute, Ute, and Shoshoni, (2) the Kern River Indians of California, (3) the Cahuilla, Gitanemuk, Luiseño, Serrano, and other tribes of southern California, and (4) the Hopi or Moqui of Arizona. b Piman of southern Arizona and northwestern Mexico, of which the most important tribes are: the Cahita or Yaqui, the Cora, Opata, Papago, Pima, Tarahumare, Tepecano, and Zacateco. c Nahuatlan, including the Aztecs, Pipils, and other advanced peoples of Mexico and Central America. There are at present about 24,000 Uto-Aztecan Indians in the United States, and some 1,800,000 in Mexico.

U·to'pi·a (ū·tō'pĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. ou not + topos a place.] 1. A book, describing an ideal commonwealth, first published in Latin, in 1516, by Sir Thomas More. It was translated into English in 1551. Utopia is an imaginary island, represented as enjoying approximate perfection in politics, laws, etc.

2. [often not cap.] Hence, any place or state of ideal perfection, esp. in laws, government, and social conditions; also, an impracticable scheme of social regeneration.

3. An imaginary country or locality. Rare.

4. Any romance or other work describing a Utopia, or ideal society or commonwealth.

---

u'sur·pa'tor, n. [LL.] A usurper. Obs. [past part.]

u·surp'ed·ly, adv. of usurped.

u·surp'er·ship, n. See -SHIP.

u·surp'ment, n. = USURPATION.

u·sur'por, n. = USURPER. Rare.

u·sur'press, n. A woman usurper. Rare.

u·surpt', Usurped. Ref. Sp.

us'ward (ŭs'wĕrd), adv. Also us'wards (-wĕrdz). See TOWARD, Note. Rare.

U'ta (ū'tȧ). Bib.

u'tas (ū'tăs). ✝ OUTAS, outcry.

utch, utch'y. Dial. vars. of I.

u·tees' (ū·tēs'). Var. of ATIS.

u·ten'sile, adj. [L. utensilis.] Useful. Obs.

u·ten'sil·ies, n. pl. Utensils. Obs.

u'ter·i, n., pl. of UTERUS.

u'ter·i'tis (ū'tĕr·ī'tĭs), n. [NL. See UTERO-; -ITIS.] Med. = METRITIS. [HYSTEROPEXY.

u'ter·o·fix·a'tion, n. Surg. = u'ter·o·ma'ni·a (ū'tĕr·ō·mā'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. utero- + -mania.] = NYMPHOMANIA.

u'ter·o·pex'y (ū'tĕr·ō·pĕk'sĭ·ȧ), u'ter·o·pex'i·a (-pĕk'sĭ·ȧ), n. Surg. = HYSTEROPEXY.

ut'fang·thief' (ŭt'făng·thēf'), n. Also ut'fang·the'f, utfangenethef, utfangethef, etc. [See OUT, FANG, v. t., THIEF.] O. Eng. Law. See INFANGTHIEF.

Ut'hai (ūt'hī; -thä·ī). Bib.

U'thi (ū'thī). Bib. Var. of UTHAI.

u·ti'a (ōō·tē'ȧ). Var. of HUTIA.

u'ti·ble, adj. [L. utibilis that can be used.] Usable; useful. Obs.

‖u'ti·le dul'ci. [L.] The useful with the agreeable.

Horace (Ars Poetica, 343).

u'tis (ū'tĭs). ✝ OCTAVE, UTAS.

Ut'ki·a'vi·miut (ōō't'kē·ä'vē·mūt), n. See ESKIMO.

ut'lag'a·ry, n. = OUTLAWRY. Obs.

ut'le·ga'tion (ŭt'lē·gā'shŭn), n. [ML. ullagatio. See OUTLAW.] Outlawry. Obs.

utlepe. ✝ OUTLEAP.

utmest. ✝ UTMOST.

ut'most·ness, n. See -NESS.

U·to′pi·an (ū·tō′pĭ·ăn), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, Utopia; hence [often not cap.], founded upon or involving imaginary perfections; ideal; chimerical; visionary; as, Utopian projects; of persons, proposing or advocating visionary and impracticable schemes.
2. [not cap.] Of or pertaining to an imaginary locality.
Syn. and Ant. — See VISIONARY.

U·to′pi·an, n. 1. An inhabitant of Utopia.
2. Hence [not cap.], one who believes in the perfectibility of human society; a visionary; one who proposes or advocates plans, esp. plans usually regarded as impracticable, for social improvement; a social reformer; idealist.

u·to′pi·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n. The ideas, views, aims, etc., of a utopian; impracticable schemes of human perfection.

u·to′pi·an·ist (-ĭst), n. A utopian; an optimist.

U·to′pi·an·iz′er (ū·tō′pĭ·ăn·īz′ĕr), n. 1. One who constructs a Utopian scheme.
2. [n. cap.] = UTOPIAN, n., 2. Rare.

u·to′pi·ast (-ăst), n. A Utopian. Rare.

u·to′pism (ū′tō·pĭz′m), n. Utopianism. — u′to·pist (-pĭst), n. — u·to·pis′tic (-pĭs′tĭk), adj. All Rare.

u·to·pog′ra·pher (-pŏg′rə·fĕr), n. [See UTOPIA; -GRAPHER.] A writer who describes a Utopia.

U′tra·quism (ū′trə·kwĭz′m), n. The doctrine of the Utraquists, or Calixtins.

u′tra·quist (-kwĭst), n. [NL. utraquista, fr. L. utergue, fem. utraque, both.] 1. One who holds that the Eucharist should be administered in both kinds (sub utraque specie); esp. [cap.], a Calixtin. See 2d CALIXTIN.
2. One who writes or speaks both, or two, languages, as Latin and the vernacular.
— u′tra·quist, u′tra·quis′tic (-kwĭs′tĭk), adj.

u′tri·cle (ū′trĭ·k'l), n. [L. utriculus, dim. of uter, utris, a bag or bottle made of an animal's hide; cf. F. utricule.] 1. A little sac or vesicle, as the air cell of a fucoid seaweed, the bladder of Utricularia, etc.
2. Bot. a A small, one-celled, usually indehiscent, one-seeded or few-seeded achene with thin, membranous pericarp, as that of the goosefoots (Chenopodiaceae), amaranths (Amaranthaceae), etc. b = PERIGYNIUM b. c Obs. A parenchyma cell. d In leaves of Sphagnum, any of the large hyaline cells containing spiral fibers or spiral thickenings of the walls. Cf. DUCT, 4 b.
3. Anat. a The part of the membranous labyrinth of the ear into which the semicircular canals open. b The utriculus prostaticus.
4. Biol. A cell. Obs.

u·tric′u·lar (ū·trĭk′ū·lĕr), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a utricle, or utriculus; containing a utricle or utricles.
2. Resembling a utricle or bag, whether large or minute; — said esp. of certain substances, as sulphur, selenium, etc., when condensed from vapor and deposited on cold bodies, in small globules filled with liquid.
3. Uterine.

U·tric′u·la′ri·a (-lā′rĭ·ə; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. utriculus a small skin or leather bottle.] Bot. A large widely distributed genus of aquatic plants (family Lentibulariaceae), the bladderworts, with saclike ascidia which serve as animal traps. They have floating stems with finely dissected leaves. The scapose, often showy, flowers have a very irregular, spurred, bilabiate corolla.

Utricularia (U. inflata). 1 Bladder-bearing Leaf; 2 Scape of Flowers; 3 Fragment of Leaf, showing two enlarged Bladders.

u·tric′u·late (ū·trĭk′ū·lāt), adj. Resembling a bladder; swollen like a bladder; inflated; utricular.

u·tric′u·lif′er·ous (-lĭf′ĕr·ŭs), adj. [utriculus+-ferous.] Bot. Bearing or producing utricles.

u·tric′u·li·form′ (ū·trĭk′ū·lĭ·fôrm′), adj. [utriculus + -form.] a Biol. Like a utricle. b Bot. Utricular.

u·tric′u·li′tis (-lī′tĭs), n. [NL., fr. utricul- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of a utricle, as that of the internal ear.

u·tric′u·lo- (ū·trĭk′ū·lō-), utricul-. A combining form for utricle, as in u·tric′u·lo·plas′tic, u·tric′u·lo·plas′ty (see -ITIS, -PLASTY), denoting also utricular and, as in *utriculo-*saccular (see SACCULAR).

u·tric′u·loid (-loid), adj. [L. utriculus small leather bottle + -oid.] Resembling a bladder; utricular.

u·tric′u·lo·sac′cu·lar (-lō·săk′ū·lĕr), adj. [utriculo- + saccular.] Anat. Of or pertaining to the utriculus and sacculus of the inner ear; specif., designating a duct connecting the two.

u·tric′u·lose (ū·trĭk′ū·lōs), adj. Bot. Utricular.

u·tric′u·lus (-lŭs), n. [L. See UTRICLE.] A utricle; esp., Anat., that of the ear. See 1st EAR, 1.

‖u·tri′cu·lus ho′mi·nis (hŏm′ĭ·nĭs), or ‖u·tri′cu·lus mas′cu·li′nus (măs′kū·lī′nŭs). [NL.] The utriculus prostaticus.

‖u·tri′cu·lus pro·sta′ti·cus (prō·stăt′ĭ·kŭs), [NL.] Anat. A small blind pouch directed dorsally from the urethra into the prostate, regarded as a vestige of the fused lower ends of the Müllerian ducts, and therefore the homologue in the male of the uterus and vagina in the female; — called also uterus masculinus and sinus pocularis.

u′tri·form (ū′trĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. uter, utris, leather bottle + -form.] Having the form of a leather bottle.

u′tri·us′que ju′ris (ū′trĭ·ŭs′kwē jōō′rĭs). [L.] Of either law; i. e., of canon or civil law.

ut′ru·bi (ŭt′rōō·bī), n. [L., on which of two sides, where.] Roman & Civil Law. A species of interdict for deciding the right of possession of movables, and preserving things in statu quo pending the decision. At Roman law the party prevailed who had been in possession, acquired "nec vi, nec clam, nec precario" (i. e., without force, stealth, or his opponent's permission), for the longer period in the year preceding. See UTI POSSIDETIS.

‖ut su′pra (ŭt sū′prə). [L.] As above. Abbr. ut sup.

ut′ter (ŭt′ĕr), adj. [ME. utter, uter, fr. AS. ūttra, ūtera, ūterra, ȳtera; akin to OFris. ūtera, ūtra, OHG. ūzaro, G. äusser; compar. adj. to AS. ūt out, G. aus. See OUT, adv.; cf. OUTER, UTMOST, UTTER, v.] 1. Outer; as, an utter garment. Obs. Spenser.
2. Situated on the outside, or extreme limit; remote, often most remote, from the center. Obs.
Through utter and through middle darkness borne. Milton.
The very utter part of Saint Adelmes point is five miles from Sandwich. Holinshed.
3. Complete; total; entire; absolute; as, utter ruin; utter darkness; utter strangers.
A spirit of the most utter reverence. Samuel Butler.
4. Extreme to the point of strangeness or abnormality; unusual.
You wouldn't have known me in those days; I was utter — intensely utter — to look at. Leonard Merrick.
5. Peremptory; unconditional; unqualified; final; as, an utter refusal or denial.

ut′ter, adv. Utterly; completely; also, Obs., outside; farther out.

ut′ter, v.; UT′TERED (-ĕrd); UT′TER·ING. [ME. uttren, outren, fr. utter(e) outside, adv. (fr. AS. ūtter, ūttor, ūtor, compar. of ūt out), and fr. out, ut, out, adv.; cf. G. äussern to utter, express, MD. uteren. See UTTER, adj., OUT.] Transitive: 1. In Obs. senses: a To put forth or out; to pour, thrust, or reach, out; to emit. b To vanquish. c To publish. d To dispose of in trade; to sell or vend.
Such mortal drugs I have, but Mantua's law Is death to any he that utters them. Shak.
2. To put in circulation, as money or currency; to cause to pass in trade; to put to use, or found upon, in dealing with others; to put upon the public; — often used, specif., of counterfeit notes or coins, forged or fraudulent documents, etc.
To utter and publish a document is to offer directly or indirectly, by words or actions, such document as good. F. Wharton.
3. To give public expression to; to speak; pronounce.
"Blest voices, uttering joy." Milton.
And the last words he uttered called me cruel. Addison.
4. To reveal; disclose; divulge; make known.
—, Intransitive: To talk; speak; make a statement.
Syn. — Express, enunciate, voice, deliver; issue.

ut′ter, n. The utmost degree, extent, or the like. Rare.

ut′ter·a·ble (ŭt′ĕr·ə·b'l), adj. Capable of being uttered. — ut′ter·a·bil′i·ty (-ə·bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), ut′ter·a·ble·ness, n.

ut′ter·ance (ŭt′ĕr·ăns), n. [OF. outrance. See OUTRANCE.] The last extremity; the ultimate; uttermost; esp., the point of death. Obs.
— at utterance. = À OUTRANCE. Obs.

ut′ter·ance, n. [From UTTER, v.] 1. Act of uttering. Specif.: a Obs. Sale or disposal to the public. b Putting in circulation, as false coin or forged notes. c Issue, as from a stock or storehouse.
2. Vocal expression; articulation; speech; style or power of speaking.
At length gave utterance to these words. Milton.
O, how unlike!
To that large utterance of the early gods! Keats.
3. That which is uttered, or spoken or published.

utter bar. See BAR, n., 20 a.

utter barrister. See BARRISTER, 1.

ut′ter·er (ŭt′ĕr·ĕr), n. One who utters (in various senses).

ut′ter·less, adj. That cannot be uttered; also, speechless.

utter loss. Marine Insurance. An actual total loss, as distinguished from a constructive total loss.

ut′ter·ly, adv. In an utter manner; to the full extent; fully; totally; as, utterly ruined; it is utterly vain; also, Obs., straightforwardly; with sincerity and truth.

ut′ter·most (ŭt′ĕr·mōst; -mŭst), adj. [From UTTER. Cf. UTMOST, OUTERMOST.] 1. Farthest out; outside; external; outmost. Obs.
2. Extreme; utmost; being in the farthest, greatest, or highest, degree; as, the uttermost extent; the uttermost penury, distress, peril.

ut′ter·most, n. The utmost; the highest or greatest degree; the farthest extent or reach.
So aid me Heaven when at mine uttermost. Tennyson.

ut′ter·ness, n. Completeness. See -NESS.

u′tu (ōō′tōō; colloq. ōōt), n. [Maori.] 1. In Maori law or custom, satisfaction for injuries received, as by retaliation in kind or by payment. J. M. Moore.
2. Hence, any compensation, as for services rendered; reward; wages; — often corrupted to hoot. New Zealand.

U′tu (ōō′tōō), U′tug (ōō′tōōĸ), n. Babylon. Relig. A sungod, the Sumerian equivalent of Shamash. Called also Babbar.

U tube, or U′-tube′, n. See U, adj.

u′tum (ū′tŭm), n. [Appar. fr. Jav. uṭĕm swollen-faced.] A small owl (Ketupa zeylonensis) of southern Asia.

u′tu·run′cu (ōō′tōō·rōōn′kōō), n. [Quechua, lit., jaguar.] Among the Quechuan and Aymaran Indians, a jaguar believed to be a sorcerer who has undergone metamorphosis. Cf. WEREWOLF.

uu-. For various words beginning uu-, see corresponding forms beginning uv-, vu-.

Uu′cha·thon (ōō′kə·thŏn), n. [Aram. akhtāna venomous, vindictive.] Astrol. One of the four main astral spirits associated with the malefic planet Saturn.

u′va (ū′və), n. [L., a grape. See UVULA.] Bot. A pulpy indehiscent fruit with a central placenta, of which the grape is a typical example. — u′val (-văl), adj.

u′va grass (ōō′və). [Sp. uva, fr. Guarani uĩbá, huĩbá.] An ornamental tropical American grass (Gynerium sagittatum) somewhat like pampas grass; — called also caña brava. See GYNERIUM.

u·val′ha (ōō·väl′yə), n. [Pg., fr. Tupi uvâaya.] A Brazilian shrub or small tree (Eugenia uvalha); also, its roundish, yellow or orange, edible fruit, used for making refreshing drinks.

U valley, or U′-val′ley, n. A valley of U-shaped cross section such as results from erosion by a valley glacier.

u′van·ite (ū′văn·īt), n. [uranium + vanadium + 1st -ite, 4.] Mineral. A hydrous uranium vanadate, occurring as a brownish-yellow powder.

u·va′rov·ite (ōō·vä′rŏf·īt), n. [After Count S. S. Uvarov (1786–1855), Russ. statesman.] Mineral. An emerald-green variety of garnet containing chromium, which colors it. See GARNET, 1.

u′vate (ū′vāt), n. [L. uva grape.] A conserve made of grapes.

U′va–ur′si (ū′və·ûr′sī), n. [NL., fr. L. uva grape + ursus bear, gen. ursi.] a Syn. of ARCTOSTAPHYLOS. b [not cap.] The bearberry.

u′ve·a (ū′vē·ə), n. [ML., fr. L. uva grape.] Anat. The posterior pigmented layer of the iris; also, the iris and ciliary body together with the chorioid coat. — u′ve·al (-əl), adj. — u′ve·ous (-ŭs), adj.

u′ve·i′tis (-ĭ′tĭs), n. [NL., fr. uvea + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of the uvea. — u′ve·it′ic (-ĭt′ĭk), adj.

u′vid (ū′vĭd), adj. [L. uvidus.] Moist; wet. Rare.

u′vi·ol glass (ū′vĭ·ōl; -ôl). [ultra- + violet.] A special glass, particularly transparent to ultraviolet rays.

uviol lamp. Elec. A mercury-vapor lamp using uviol glass, used esp. for medical purposes requiring the use of ultraviolet light.

u·vit′ic (ū·vĭt′ĭk), adj. [L. uva grape; — because producible indirectly from tartaric acid, found in the grape.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a colorless crystalline acid, $CH_3C_6H_2(CO_2H)_3$, obtained by partial oxidation of mesitylene and otherwise; 5-methyl-isophthalic.

u·vi′to (ōō·vē′tō), n. [Sp.] A medium-sized tropical American tree (Ardisia revoluta); also, its strong, durable, wood used in native construction. Panama.

u′vi·ton′ic ac′id (ū′vĭ·tŏn′ĭk). [L. uva grape; — because obtained from pyroracemic acid (cf. RACEMIC).] Chem. A colorless crystalline acid, $C_8H_7NO_4$, obtained by the action of ammonia on pyruvic acid; 6-methyl-2, 4-pyridinedicarboxylic acid.

u·vi′ yam (ōō·vē′). [Fiji uvi.] The white yam.

u′vu·la (ū′vū·lə), n.; pl. -LAS (-ləz), -LAE (-lē). [ML., dim. fr. L. uva grape, uvula; prob. akin to Gr. οἶε, οα, service tree, and E. yew; basic idea: berry. See YEW.] Anat. a The pendent fleshy lobe in the middle of the posterior border of the soft palate. b A lobe of the vermiform process of the lower surface of the cerebellum, in front of the pyramid. c An elevation of the mucous membrane lining the lower anterior part of the bladder.

u′vu·lar (-lĕr), adj. [NL. uvularis.] Of or pertaining to the uvula; specif., Phonet., pronounced with the aid of the uvula, as in trilling.

u′vu·lar, n. Phonet. A uvular sound.

U′vu·la′ri·a (-lā′rĭ·ə; 79), n. [NL.; so called from the drooping flowers.] Bot. A small genus of North American herbs (family Convallariaceae), the bellworts, having erect stems, sessile or perfoliate leaves, and yellowish drooping bell-shaped flowers. U. grandiflora is the large-flowered bellwort. Syn. Oakesia.

u′vu·lar·ly, adv. With thick utterance, as when the uvula is too long.

uvular, or velar, r. An r formed by trilling the uvula against the back of the tongue; also, an r in which the trill is replaced by friction of the breath between the back of the tongue and the uvula or the velum. Cf. 1st BURR, 13 a. See Pron., §§ 44 (5), 211 f.

u′vu·li′tis (ū′vū·lī′tĭs), n. [NL., fr. uvula + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of the uvula.

u′vu·lop·to′sis (ū′vū·lŏp·tō′sĭs), n. [NL., fr. uvula + Gr. ptōsis a falling.] Med. A relaxed, pendulous condition of the uvula.

u′vu·lo·tome (ū′vū·lō·tōm), n. [uvula + -tome.] Surg. An instrument for removing the uvula.

u′vu·lot′o·my (-lŏt′ō·mĭ), n. [uvula + -tomy.] Surg. The operation of removing the uvula.

UX base. Elec. A standard American form of electron-tube base having four projecting metal pins.

ux·o′ri·al (ŭks·ō′rĭ·əl; ŭg·zō′-; 181), adj. [See UXORIOUS.] Rare. 1. Uxorious.
2. Of, pertaining to or characteristic of, a wife.
— ux·o′ri·al·i·ty (-ăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — ux·o′ri·al·ly, adv.

ux·or′i·cide (ŭks·ôr′ĭ·sīd), n. [L. uxor wife + -cide.] The murder of a wife by her husband; also, one who murders his wife. — ux·or′i·cid′al (-sīd′əl), adj.

ux·o′ri·ous (ŭks·ō′rĭ·ŭs; ŭg·zō′-; 181), adj. [L. uxorius, fr. uxor wife.] Excessively or dotingly fond of, or submissive to, a wife. — ux·o′ri·ous·ly adv. — ux·o′ri·ous·ness, n.

U Y base. Elec. A standard American form of electron-tube base having five projecting metal pins.

‖u′yezd′ (ōō′yĕzd′), n. [Russ. uezd district.] See SOVIET.

Uz (ŭz), n. Bib. The home of Job.

u·za′ra root (ōō·zä′rä). [Origin unknown.] Pharm. The root of a South African woody herb (Dicoma anomala), family Carduaceae, yielding uzarin. It is dried and used by the natives as a stimulant for dysentery.

u·za′rin (-rĭn), n. [uzara + -in.] Chem. A colorless crystalline glucoside, the active principle of uzara root.

u·za′ron (-rŏn), u·sa′ron (-sä′-), n. Pharm. The dried alcoholic extract of uzara root used in the treatment of dysentery and reported to have a digitalislike action on the heart.

Uz′bek (ŭz′bĕk), Uz′beg (ŭz′bĕg), n. 1. A member of the most civilized of the Turkic peoples of Turkestan, esp. in the Uzbek republic, who have largely abandoned nomadic life for agriculture and town life. About the close of the 15th century they became dominant in Turkestan. They are Sunnite Moslems.
2. The East Turki language of the Uzbeks, with many dialects, dominant in the Uzbek republic. Their literary language is Jagatai. See URAL-ALTAIC LANGUAGES.

Uz·zi′ah (ŭ·zī′ə), n. Bib. A king of Judah. 2 Kings xv; 1 Chron. xxvi.

Uz·zi′el (ŭ·zī′ĕl; ŭz′ĭ·ĕl), n. [Heb. 'uzzī′ēl my strength is God.] An angel in Milton's Paradise Lost, next in power to Gabriel.

U·to′pi·an·ize, v. i. See -IZE.

U·top′i·cal (ū·tŏp′ĭ·kəl), adj. Utopian. Obs. [trap.

U trap. A U-shaped running

U′trecht (ū′trĕkt; Du. ü′trĕxt), n. See TREATY, Table.

Utrecht velvet. See FURNITURE PLUSH.

utricul-. = UTRICULO-.

U·tric′u·la′ri·a′ce·ae (ū·trĭk′ū·lā′rĭ·ā′sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of LENTIBULARIACEAE.

u′trum, n. Short for ASSIZE OF UTRUM.

ut′suk (ŏt′sŏŏk). Var. of URSUK.

Ut′ta·ra Mi·mam′sa (ŏt′ə′tə·rə). See MIMAMSA.

ut′ter·an·cy, n. = 2d UTTERANCE, 2.

ut′terd. Uttered. Ref. Sp.

ut′ter·est, adj. = UTMOST, adj. Obs.

ut′ter·more′, adj. [Cf. UTTERMOST.] Further; outer. Obs.

u′ve. Var. of UBI.

U·vel′la (ū·vĕl′ə), n. Syn. of SPONDYLOMORUM.

u′vic ac′id (ū′vĭk). [L. uva grape.] = PYROTRITARIC ACID.

u′vi·tin′ic (ū′vĭ·tĭn′ĭk), adj. Chem. = UVITIC.

u′vrou (ū′vrōō). Var. of KUPHEOR.

u′vu·lap·to′sis. Var. of UVULOPTOSIS.

u′vu·la·tome (ū′vū·lə·tōm), -lat′o·my (-lăt′ō·mĭ). Vars. of UVULOTOME, -TOMY.

u′vule, n. = UVULA. Obs.

uv′ver (ŏv′ĕr). Dial. Eng. var. of OVER.

u·wa′row·ite (ōō·vä′rŏf·īt). Var. of UVAROVITE.

U′zai (ū′zī; -zā·ī). Bib.

U′zai (-zāi). Bib.

u′zan′, n. sing. & pl. [Ashanti.] See WEIGHT, Table.

Uz′bak (ŭz′băk). Var. of UZBEK.

uze, v. Use. Ref. Sp.

Uz′za (ŭz′ə). Bib.

Uz′zah (-ə). Bib.

uz′zard (ŭz′ĕrd; ŏŏz′ĕrd). Dial. Eng. var. of IZZARD. [Bib.]

Uz′zen·she′rah (ŭz′ĕn·shē′rə). [

Uz′zi (ŭz′ī). Bib.

Uz·zi′a (ŭ·zī′ə). Bib.

Uz·zi′el·ites (ŭ·zĭ′ĕl·īts; ŭz′ĭ·ĕl·īts), n. pl. Bib. KOHATHITE.

V

V, v (vē), n.; pl. V's, v's, Vs, vs (vēz). 1. The twenty-second letter of the English alphabet. V and U are varieties of the same character, U being the cursive form, and the two letters were formerly used indiscriminately (see U). The letter W, a doubled V called "double U," is a survival of this use. V does not occur in the oldest English texts, its sound being represented medially by f. The letter was probably introduced by French scribes, and it occurs in Middle English for w, and initially in many words now beginning with f. V is from the Latin alphabet, where it was used both as a vowel and as a consonant (first with the value of English w, and later with that of v). The Latin derived the letter from a western or Chalcidian alphabetic form (V) of the Greek upsilon (see Y). In Greek it was used as a vowel, but it originated in a Semitic character (vau) which had consonantal value (see F). In English v represents a labiodental continuant, the voiced correlative of f. See Pron., § 254. Except in a few words of dialectic origin, initial v does not appear in inherited words, but only in loan words, chiefly from French and Latin. But when not in the initial position v may stand for a voiced Anglo-Saxon f in native words (see F, n., 1), as in love (AS. *luf*u). See ALPHABET.
2. a An instance of the letter V, v, printed, written, painted, etc. b A printer's type, a stamp, etc., for the letter V, v. c The sound, or any sound, of the letter V. d [cap.] In Roman numerals, 5 or, in the form V̄, 5,000. In this use V was only the upper part of X, the symbol for 10.
3. Anything having the shape of the letter V; specif.: a A V-shaped low neck of a gown. b Mach. A rib, guiding strip, or groove, having sloping sides like a V; as, the V's on the bed of a turning lathe on which the carriage slides.
4. A five-dollar bill. Colloq., U. S.
5. As a symbol, used to denote or indicate anyone or anything arbitrarily or conveniently so designated, esp. as the twenty-first or (cf. K, n., 4) twenty-second in order or class.
6. As an abbreviation: see Abbreviations, in Appendix.

V, v (vē), adj. 1. Twenty-first or (cf. K, adj., 1) twenty-second in order or class.
2. [cap.] Having the form of capital V, or resembling a V in cross section; as, V gear or V-gear, a herringbone gear; V notch or V-notch, a triangular notch as in a weir for measuring water flow; V thread or V-thread, see V THREAD; V tool or V-tool, a chisel for cutting triangular grooves; V vat or V-vat, a funnel box; also, having a groove or grooves of triangular section; as, a V block or V-block.

V Tool.

☞ COMBINATIONS are: V′-formed′, V′-grooved′.

v-. For various words beginning v-, followed by a vowel, see the forms in F-, or W-. v-. See 1st AB-, Note.
‖va (vä). [It.] It proceeds; — in musical directions reinforcing one given before; as, va cre·scen′do, it continues increasing in volume.
va-. See 2d M-. vaag′mer′ (väg′mĕr′), n. Also vaag′maer′, vaag′mar′ (-mär′). [From Scand.; cf. Icel. vāgmeri a kind of flounder, prop., mare of the sea.] A dealfish.
vaal′ite (väl′ĭt), n. [From Vaal River, South Africa.] Mineral. A kind of vermiculite.
Vaal′pens (väl′pĕns), n. [Prop., vaalpens, fr. D. vaal fallow, colored + pens belly.] One of a nomadic pygmy people in the Transvaal near the Magalakwin River, resembling the Bushmen.
Vac (väch), n. [Skr. Vāc. See VOICE.] Hindu Myth. A goddess personifying speech; celebrated in one Vedic hymn and later identified with Sarasvati. va′cance (vā′kăns), n. [F.] A vacancy; a vacation. Scot.
va′can·cy (vā′kăn·sĭ), n.; pl. -CIES (-sĭz). [ML. vacantia.]
1. Time of freedom from occupation; leisure or an interval of leisure; vacation or a vacation period. Archaic.
Those little vacancies from toil are sweet. Dryden.
2. The state or fact of being free from occupation, or, of the mind, from preoccupation; physical or mental inactivity or relaxation; idleness. Now Rare. "All dispositions to idleness or vacancy . . . are dangerous." Sir H. Molton.
3. A vacating of an office, post, piece of property, etc., or the state of such when vacated or vacant; also, the time such office, etc., is vacant; as, the death of the incumbent has caused a vacancy; in case of vacancy of the property.
4. A vacant office, post, tenancy, etc.; as, three vacancies in this apartment house; to fill a vacancy in Congress.
5. Empty space; the void; also, a vacuum; a blank; a gap; a chasm. "You do bend your eye on vacancy." Shak.
Stretched athwart the vacancy Its swinging boughs. Shelley.
6. State of being empty or void; barrenness; loneliness; also, vacuity; as, the vacancy of cities in the summer.
7. Obs. a An interim. b Lack; want. vacancy clause. Insurance. A special endorsement permitting premises to be vacant or unoccupied beyond the period stipulated in the original contract, the insurance remaining in force during the extension period, either for the full or a reduced amount.
va′cant (vā′kănt), adj. [OF., fr. L. vacans, -antis, pres. part. of vacare to be empty, to be free or unoccupied, to have leisure; akin to L. vacuus empty, vanus vain, vastus empty, waste, vast. See WANE, WASTE; cf. EVACUATE, VACATION, VACUUM, VAIN, VOID.] 1. Not filled or occupied by an incumbent, possessor, or officer; as, a vacant throne, parish, office.
2. Without contents or content; having no occupant; of the mind, free from preoccupation, cares, etc.; as, a vacant room, space, or seat in a bus.
The vaunted verse a vacant head demaunded Ne wont with crabbed care the Muses dwell. Spenser.
3. Destitute; devoid; free; — with of; as, an hour vacant of business; also, Poetic, devoid of life, activity, etc.; intensely quiet.
Amid the stillness of the vacant night. Cowper.
4. Characterized by freedom from occupation; leisure; unemployed; unoccupied; disengaged; free; — formerly of persons, now chiefly of a period of time; as, few vacant hours.
At leisure and vacant from the affairs of the world. Dr. H. More.
5. Characterized by or manifesting absence of thought or reflection; specif.: a Vacuous; foolish; silly; devoid of intelligence. Cf. def. 2, above. "Gay ideas crowd the vacant brain." Pope. b Marked by or enjoying a respite from thought; unreflecting. "In vacant or in pensive mood." Wordsworth. c Expressionless; inane; as, a vacant laugh or stare.
6. Insurance. Empty; — used of premises which are not lived in, and from which the furniture and fixtures have been removed. Cf. UNOCCUPIED.
7. Law. a Not occupied or put to use as land. b Of an estate or the like, abandoned; having no heir or claimant; as, a vacant estate; a vacant succession. c Not granted away, as State lands. Local, U. S.
Syn. — Void, unfilled; idle, unencumbered; untenanted; blank, expressionless. See EMPTY.
Ant. — Full; busy, crowded, employed; filled, occupied; intelligent, keen.
☞ COMBINATIONS in this sense are:

vacant-brained	vacanthearted	vacant-minded vacant-eyed	vacantheartedness	vacant-mindedness vacant-headed	vacant-looking, adj.	vacant-seeming, adj.

va′cant (vā′kănt), n. A vacancy; also, one temporarily unemployed. Obs.
va′cant, v. t. & i. = VACATE. Rare.
‖va·can′ti·a, or va·can′ti·a bo′na (vā·kăn′shĭ·ä bō′nä). [L.] Rom. & Civil Law. Goods without an owner or claimant; specif., the inheritance of a deceased person when there is no one able and willing to enter.
va′cant·ly (vā′kănt·lĭ), adv. In a vacant manner; idly; inanely.
va′cate (vā′kāt; 277), v.; VA′CAT·ED (-kāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VA′CAT·ING (-kāt·ĭng). [L. vacare, vacatum, to be empty. See VACANT.] Transitive: 1. To annul; to make void; to make of no authority or validity; as, to vacate a charter; — now in legal use only.
2. To render useless, ineffectual, or without force or significance. Now Rare. "He vacates my revenge." Dryden.
3. To make vacant, as an office, post, house, etc.; to deprive of an incumbent or occupant; also, to give up the incumbency or occupancy of; as, the throne was vacated by the exile of the royal family; to vacate one's seat in Congress by resignation; the house was suddenly vacated.
4. Hence, to free, as from thoughts, cares, etc.
Its problems, indeed, vacated my mind of her. Edgar Saltus.
—, Intransitive: 1. To vacate an office, post, tenancy, etc.
2. To give one's time (to); to devote oneself. Evelyn.
3. Slang. a To leave; go away. b To take a vacation.
Syn. — Empty; evacuate, abdicate, quit, abandon; void, abrogate. Ant. — Fill; occupy, possess; ratify, enforce. va·ca′tion (vā·kā′shŭn; vā-; 277), n. [ME. vacacioun, fr. OF. vacacion, -tion (F. vacation), fr. L. vacatio a being free from a duty, service, etc., fr. vacare. See VACATE.] 1. Respite or a time of respite (from something); an intermission or rest; as, to have no vacation from business; the world needs a vacation from war.
2. Obs. a Freedom from work or cares; leisure. b Time free (for something else); specif., time for contemplation. c Hence, work to which one devotes himself; occupation.
3. A scheduled period during which activity or work is suspended; a recess; specif.: a In industry and business, etc., a period of exemption from work granted to each employee, usually in the summertime; a leave of absence for rest and relaxation. b In educational institutions, an intermission of the regular studies and exercises, as between terms, during the summer, or at the Christmas season. c Law. Intermission of judicial proceedings; the space of time between the end of one term and the beginning of the next; nonterm; recess. See TERM, n., 13 d.
4. Hence, a period (often coinciding with the foregoing) spent away from home or business in travel or recreation; holidays. Chiefly U. S.
5. Act or an instance of vacating, esp. of vacating an office, post, house, etc.; also, a vacancy. Now Rare.
va·ca′tion, v. i. To take a vacation; pass one's vacation.
va·ca′tion·al (-ăl), adj. Of or pert. to a vacation. vacation barrister. See BARRISTER, n., 1. va·ca′tion·er (-ĕr), n. A vacationist. U. S.
va·ca′tion·ist, n. A person taking a vacation, esp. one traveling for pleasure or passing a vacation at a summer resort.
vacation school. A school held, usually in a public school, during the long summer vacation.
va·ca′tur (vā·kā′tĕr), n. [NL., it is made void, fr. L. vacare to be empty. See VACANT.] Law. An order of court vacating a proceeding.
Vac·ca′ri·a (vă·kā′rĭ·ä), n. [ML., cow pasture; — in allusion to its value as fodder.] Bot. A small genus of Eurasian annual herbs of the pink family (Caryophyllaceae) having opposite, acute leaves, and rather small red or pink flowers in terminal cymes with a 5-angled, much-inflated capsule. V. vulgaris, the cowherb, is a naturalized weed in North America.
vac′ca·ry (văk′ä·rĭ), n. [ML. vaccaria, fr. L. vacca cow. Cf. VACHERY.] A cow house, dairy house, or cow pasture. Obs. exc. Hist.
vac·cen′ic ac′id (văk·sĕn′ĭk). [L. vacca cow.] Chem. An unsaturated crystalline acid, $C_{18}H_{34}O_2$, isomeric with elaidic acid, obtained from suet and butter.
vacci-. A combining form from Latin vacca, cow, as in vac′ci·cide (see -CIDE); — used also for vaccine, as in vac·cig′e·nous. See -GENOUS.
vac′ci·na (văk·sī′nä), n. [NL.] Med. Vaccinia. vac′ci·na·ble (văk′sĭ·nä·b'l), adj. Med. Capable of being successfully vaccinated; susceptible to vaccination.
vac′ci·nal (văk′sĭ·năl), adj. Med. Of or pertaining to vaccine or vaccination.
vac′ci·nate (văk′sĭ·nāt), v. t.; -NAT′ED (-nāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -NAT′ING (-nāt′ĭng). [From VACCINE, adj.] To inoculate with cowpox vaccine, esp. in order to prevent or mitigate an attack of smallpox; hence, to inoculate with any vaccine, or, loosely, any antigen, esp. as a preventive measure. See VACCINATION. — v. i. To perform or practice vaccination.
vac′ci·na′tion (-nā′shŭn), n. Act, art, or practice, of vaccinating. Vaccination against smallpox is commonly performed by pricking, scratching, or scarifying the skin and applying the vaccine to the wounded surface. Bacterial vaccines are usually injected, esp. hypodermically. Inoculation is effected also by feeding, and by spraying vaccine upon mucous membranes, esp. of the nose and throat.
vac′ci·na′tion·ist (văk′sĭ·nā′shŭn·ĭst), n. Med. One who advocates the practice of vaccination.
vac′ci·na′tor (văk′sĭ·nā′tĕr), n. Med. One who vaccinates; also, an instrument used in vaccinating.
vac′ci·na·to′ry (-nä·tō′rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Vaccinal.
vac′cine (văk′sēn; -sĭn; 277), adj. [L. vaccinus, fr. vacca a cow; prob. akin to Skr. vaśa a cow.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or derived from, cows, or, esp. in technical use, cows afflicted with vaccinia or inoculated with its virus; as, vaccine lymph, matter, or virus; the vaccine disease.
2. Of or pertaining to vaccinia or vaccination; as, a vaccine pustule.
vac′cine, n. 1. Matter or a preparation containing the virus of cowpox, or vaccinia, in a form used for vaccination. It is obtained usually from an artificially inoculated calf (bovine vaccine), sometimes from a vaccinated child (humanized vaccine). The matter from the vesicles was formerly collected on bone, ivory, or quill points (vaccine points) and dried, but it is now usually removed with a curette, mixed with glycerin, and sealed hermetically in capillary tubes.
2. In general, any substance for preventive inoculation, esp. a suspension of sensitized, attenuated, or killed, bacteria, called preferably bacterial vaccine, injected into the body to induce immunity to the same species of bacteria or their toxins. Such a vaccine made of bacteria cultured from the individual to be inoculated is an autogenous vaccine, while one made from any other virulent strain or strains of the species is a stock vaccine.
vac′cin·ee′ (văk′sĭ·nē′), n. One vaccinated.
vac′ci·nel′la (văk′sĭ·nĕl′ä), n. [NL., dim.] Med. Spurious vaccinia; an eruption following vaccination but not conferring immunity against smallpox.
vaccine lymph. Med. The fluid exudate in the vesicles esp. of vaccinia, used for vaccination. vaccine points. See VACCINE, n., 1. vaccine therapy. Med. Treatment of a disease by a vaccine specific for that disease.
vac·cin′i·a (văk·sĭn′ĭ·ä), n. [NL. See VACCINE.] Med. A bovine disease closely resembling smallpox and communicable to man; cowpox; vaccina. See COWPOX.
Vac·cin′i·a′ce·ae (-ā′sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of widely distributed, but chiefly tropical shrubs and trees (order Ericales), including among its 20 genera Vaccinium, Gaylussacia, and Oxycoccus, comprising the huckleberries, cranberries, etc. It is distinguished from Ericaceae chiefly by the inferior ovary, which forms in fruit a many-seeded berry or drupe. — vac·cin′i·a′ceous (-shŭs), adj.
vac·cin′i·al (văk·sĭn′ĭ·ăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, vaccinia.
vac·cin′i·fer (-ĭ·fĕr), n. [vaccine + L. ferre to bear.] Med. a The person or animal that is the source of vaccine. b A vaccine point.
vac·cin′i·form (-fôrm), adj. Med. Resembling vaccinia. vac·cin′i·o′la (văk·sĭn′ĭ·ō′lä), n. [NL., dim. of vaccinia.] Med. A secondary, more or less generalized, vesicular eruption sometimes following vaccination.
vac′cin·ist (văk′sĭ·nĭst), n. A vaccinator; also, a vaccinationist.
Vac·cin′i·um (văk·sĭn′ĭ·ŭm), n. [L., the blueberry, or whortleberry.] Bot. a A large, widely distributed genus of shrubs, the blueberries, typifying the family Vacciniaceae, disting. by the 4–5-celled ovary, the baccate fruit, and the urn-shaped or nearly globose corolla. See BLUEBERRY, n., 1. b [not cap.] Any plant of this genus.
vac′ci·ni·za′tion (văk′sĭ·nĭ·zā′shŭn; -nĭ·zā′shŭn), n. Med. Vaccination by repeated inoculation with the virus.
vaccino-. A combining form for vaccine, as in vac′ci·no·gen′ic, vac′ci·nog′e·nous, vac′ci·no·pho′bi·a. See -GENIC; -GENOUS; -PHOBIA.
vac′ci·no·syph′i·lis (văk′sĭ·nō·sĭf′ĭ·lĭs), n. [NL.] Med. Syphilis transmitted by vaccination. vache (F. vàsh), n. [F.] A cow; hence, a beast. Chaucer.
Va·chel′li·a (vä·kĕl′ĭ·ä), n. [NL., after C. H. Vachell, Eng. missionary and botanist in China.] Bot. A genus of shrubs or small trees of the mimosa family (Mimosaceae) having as the only known species V. farnesiana, the huisache.
va′chette′ clasp (vä′shĕt′). [F. vachette cowhide leather used for ligatures.] Veter. A piece of strong steel wire with the ends curved and pointed, used on toe or quarter cracks to bind the edges together and prevent motion. vac′il·lant (văs′ĭ·lănt), adj. [F. or L.; F. vacillant, fr. L. vacillans, pres. part. of vacillare. See VACILLATE.] Vacillating. — vac′il·lan·cy (-lăn·sĭ), n. Both Now Rare.
vac′il·late (văs′ĭ·lāt), v. i.; -LAT′ED (-lāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -LAT′ING (-lāt′ĭng). [L. vacillare, vacillatum; akin to Skr. vañcati he totters, moves to and fro, Goth. un*wāhs* blameless, AS. wōh crooked, wrong. Cf. VARIOUS.] 1. To sway through lack of equilibrium; to waver; totter; hence, to fluctuate; oscillate.
[A spheroid] is always liable to shift and vacillate from one axis to another. Paley.
2. To waver in mind, will, or feeling; to hesitate in choice of opinions, courses, etc.; to be variable in one's emotions, judgments, etc.; as, statesmen that vacillate; the dictator never vacillated; to vacillate between hope and fear.
Syn. — See FLUCTUATE. Ant. — Resolve, determine. vac′il·lat′ing (văs′ĭ·lāt′ĭng), adj. That vacillates or is inclined to vacillate; fluctuating; wavering; hesitating through indecision. — vac′il·lat′ing·ly, adv.
vac′il·la′tion (-lā′shŭn), n. [L. vacillatio; cf. F. vacillation.] 1. Act or an instance of vacillating; a wavering in conduct, purpose, policy, etc.
His vacillations, always exhibited most pitiably in emergencies. Macaulay.
2. The quality of one that vacillates; specif., changeableness; irresolution; inability to take a stand; as, timidity is often coupled with vacillation.
Syn. — Indecision, uncertainty, faltering, wavering.
Ant. — Constancy, steadiness.

vac'il·la·tor (văs'ĭ·lā'tĕr), n. One who vacillates.

vac'il·la·to'ry (văs'ĭ·lə·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Manifesting vacillation.

va·co'a (və·kō'ə), n. Also va·co'na (-nə), va·cou'a (-kōō'ə). [Native name in Mauritius.] The screw pine Pandanus utilis.

vac'u·al (văk'ū·əl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or approximating, a vacuum.

vac'u·ate (-āt), v. t. [L. vacuatus, past part. of vacuare to empty, fr. vacuus empty. See VACANT.] To evacuate. — vac'u·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. Both Obs.

va·cu'e·fy (və·kū'ē·fī), v. t. [Cf. L. vacuefacere. See VACUUM; -FY.] To create a vacuum.

vac'u·ist (văk'ū·ĭst), n. [NL. vacuista; cf. F. vacuiste.] One who maintains that there are vacuums in nature. Chiefly Hist.

At the present moment, I'm a perfectly convincible vacuist. W. J. Locke.

va·cu'i·ty (və·kū'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. vacuitas. See VACUOUS.] 1. An empty space; specif.: a An unfilled cavity, interstice, or hollow, within a body, substance, or the like; as, a bubble is a vacuity in water. b An empty open space; a vacancy; a void; a gap. c Figuratively an extent devoid throughout of content, substance, activity, or the like; a dull or monotonous stretch; as, the long vacuity of an arctic night or of a tiresome book.

2. Space wholly or approximately devoid of matter; a vacuum. Now Rare.

3. The condition, fact, or quality, of being empty or unfilled (either physically or spiritually); vacancy; emptiness; hollowness; as, the vacuity of the arteries after death; the vacuity of a desert.

God . . . alone can . . . fill every vacuity of our soul. Rogers.

A deep sense of vacuity in things. Pater.

4. Vacancy of mind; the state or fact of being temporarily or characteristically free of ideas, reflections, cares, etc.; mental emptiness or inactivity. "Fatigued his mind into an agreeably grave vacuity." Arnold Bennett.

5. Inanity; blankness; vacuousness; as, the vacuity of his face.

6. A vacuous or inane thing; as, to fill up a speech with vacuities.

7. State or quality of being completely free (from) or devoid (of); as, a vacuity of ideas or impressions; a vacuity of emotions or feelings.

8. Nothingness; nihility as distinguished from reality.

Va·cu'na (və·kū'nə), n. [L.] Rom. Myth. A Sabine goddess, originally an agricultural deity, but also said to be a goddess of hunting and of victory in war.

‖va'cu·o (văk'ū·ō). Ablative of Latin vacuum, empty space, used esp. in the phrase in vacuo, in an empty space; specif., in a space from which the air has been exhausted.

vac'u·o·lar (văk'ū·ō·lĕr), adj. [F. vacuolaire.] Biol. Pertaining to, or of the nature of, a vacuole.

vac'u·o·lat'ed (văk'ū·ō·lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Biol. Containing one or more vacuoles.

vac'u·o·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. The development or formation of vacuoles.

vac'u·ole (văk'ū·ōl), n. [F., fr. L. vacuus empty. See VACUOUS.] Biol. a A small cavity or space in the tissues of an organism, containing air or fluid. b In modern usage, a cavity or vesicle in the protoplasm of a cell, containing a watery fluid. Vacuoles are especially characteristic of plant cells and of the protozoans, but occur also in cells of higher animals. In plants (where they may occupy the greater part of the cell) they contain the cell sap; in protozoans they may contain secretions of the protoplasm or substances about to be excreted, or food in various stages of digestion and assimilation. See CONTRACTILE VACUOLE.

vac'u·ol'i·za'tion (-ōl'ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī-), n. Biol. Vacuolation.

vac'u·ome (văk'ū·ōm), n. Biol. In plant cells, granular cytoplasmic structures, supposed to develop into a network which is the foundation of a system of vacuoles.

vac'u·om'e·ter (-ŏm'ĕ·tĕr), n. [vacuum+-meter.] Physics. a An instrument for the comparison of barometers. b An apparatus for the measurement of low pressures.

vac'u·ous (văk'ū·ŭs), adj. [L. vacuus. See VACANT; cf. VACUOLE.] 1. Empty; unfilled; void; also, emptied of air or gas; as, vacuous spaces; the vacuous globe of an incandescent lamp.

Boundless the deep, because I am who fill Infinitude; nor vacuous the space. Milton.

2. Marked by, or indicative of, mental vacuity, or lack of ideas or intelligence; without substance; thin in intellectual content; dull; stupid; inane; as, a vacuous mind, expression, style, or play.

3. Devoid of serious occupation; spent in inanities or frivolity; idle.

That the few may live selfish and vacuous days. J. Morley.

4. Math. Containing no element or point; — said of a class.

Syn. — Blank, unintelligent, dull. See EMPTY.

Ant. — Keen, alert, intelligent, meaningful.

— vac'u·ous·ly, adv. — vac'u·ous·ness, n.

vacuous aggregate. Math. An aggregate not containing any member or element.

vac'u·um (văk'ū·ŭm), n.; pl. -UMS (-ŭmz), -A (-ə). [L., prop. neut. of vacuus empty. See VACUOUS.] 1. Space devoid of matter; emptiness of space. Now Rare.

Flames . . . mounting on high Into vacuum, into nonentity. Blake.

2. A space entirely devoid of matter (called specif. absolute vacuum); hence, a space, as the interior of a closed vessel, exhausted to a high or the highest degree by an air pump or by any of various other artificial means (called specif. partial vacuum).

3. A degree of rarefaction well below atmospheric pressure; as, to get a fair or good vacuum.

4. An unfilled or empty space or extent; something devoid of contents or content; a void; a gap; as, his brain is a vacuum, I fear; his death has left a vacuum in their lives.

5. Short for vacuum cleaner, drier, etc.

vac'u·um, adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or used in producing, a vacuum; as, a vacuum fan or gauge.

2. Operated by suction or by a device producing a partial vacuum; — of a mechanism; as, a vacuum brake or sweeper.

3. Exhausted or partly exhausted of air or gas; also, made nonconductive by means of a vacuum between double walls; — of a vessel, bulb, etc.; as, a vacuum lamp or bottle; a vacuum tube, tank.

4. Performed or carried on in a vacuum vessel or by means of a vacuum mechanism; — of a process; as, vacuum cleaning or distillation.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

vacuum boiler, vacuum booster, vacuum breaker, vacuum brush, vacuum bulb, vacuum can, vacuum canning, vacuum carafe, vacuum cleaning, vacuum condenser, vacuum container, vacuum cooler, vacuum crystallizer, vacuum cup, vacuum cylinder, vacuum desiccator, vacuum distillation, vacuum drier, vacuum engine, vacuum evaporating, vacuum evaporator, vacuum extractor, vacuum fan, vacuum flask, vacuum furnace, vacuum gauge, vacuum hammer, vacuum header, vacuum jar, vacuum jug, vacuum kettle, vacuum lamp, vacuum oven, vacuum pack, vacuum packed, vacuum pan, vacuum picker, vacuum pipe, vacuum pitcher, vacuum pot, vacuum separator, vacuum shunt, vacuum still, vacuum strainer, vacuum sweeper, vacuum tester, vacuum trap, vacuum vessel vac'u·um, v. t. To use a vacuum cleaner, drier, or the like, upon; to clean, dry, remove, etc., by means of a vacuum device. Colloq.

vacuum bottle, flask, or vessel. A bottle, flask, or vessel, made on the principle of the Dewar vessel, as for keeping liquids either hot or cold for several hours. Cf. DEWAR VESSEL.

Sectional view of a Vacuum Bottle. 1, 2 Inner and Outer Walls (of glass), both silver-coated to prevent entry or escape of heat by radiation; 3 Space between walls from which air has been exhausted through Exhausting Tube (4); 5 Cushion (of cork) supporting bottle; 6 Cork; 7, 7 Pads of asbestos to hold 1 and 2 apart.

vacuum brake. A brake using a vacuum or a partial vacuum in its operation; specif., Automobiles, a brake in which the braking pressure applied by hand is augmented by the negative pressure of a partial vacuum, as the suction on the intake manifold of an automobile.

vacuum cleaner. A machine for cleaning carpets, tapestry, upholstered work, etc., by suction.

vacuum filter. A filter in which the pressure on the outlet side of the filter medium is less than that of the atmosphere. In a rotary vacuum filter, the drum-shaped or disk filter medium rotates in the material to be filtered, the outlet side of the filter medium being connected to a vacuum pump.

vac'u·um·ize (văk'ū·ŭm·īz), v. t. & i. To produce a vacuum (in); also, to clean, dry, pack, etc., by a vacuum mechanism in a vacuum container.

vacuum machine. Mech. Refrig. The complete equipment used in a vacuum system.

vacuum pump. A pulsometer.

vacuum tank. In some internal-combustion engines, a tank into which the fuel (usually gasoline) is sucked from the main tank and from which it flows by gravity to the carbureter, usually directly below.

vacuum tar. Tar resulting from vacuum distillation; specif., that from the vacuum distillation of coal.

vacuum tube. Elec. a A sealed tube or bulb with the contained gas exhausted to a pressure low enough to permit the passage of electric discharges between metallic electrodes projecting into the tube from the outside; — called also discharge valve, vacuum discharge tube. Cf. BRAUN TUBE, CROOKES TUBE, GEISSLER TUBE, etc. b A vacuum tube (sense a) with the contained gas exhausted to so low a pressure that the performance characteristics are essentially due to electron conduction, as a diode, an electron tube, a photoelectric cell, a tetrode.

vacuum tube rectifier. Elec. = THERMIONIC RECTIFIER.

vacuum valve. a = SAFETY VALVE, 1 b. b = ELECTRON TUBE.

vacuum ventilation. See VENTILATION, 2 a.

vacuum vessel. See VACUUM BOTTLE.

vade (vād), v. i. To go away; to leave. Rare, exc. as ‖va'de (vā'dē), Latin imperative, go hence! Depart!

va'de me'cum (vā'dē mē'kŭm). [L., go with me.] A book or other thing that a person carries with him as a constant companion; hence, a manual; a handbook.

‖va'de re'tro me, sa'ta·na (vā'dē rē'trō mē, sāt'ā·nə). See RETRO, adv.

vad'i·mo'ni·um (văd'ĭ·mō'nĭ·ŭm), n. [L.] Law. a Roman & Civil Law. A pledge or security, specif., under the Twelve Tables, a contract of suretyship used in sales to secure the payment of the purchase price; — disused in later times. See BAILMENT b. b Old English Law. A bond or pledge for appearance before a judge on a certain day.

va'di·um (vā'dĭ·ŭm), n. [ML., fr. L. vas, vadis, bail. See WED.] Law. Pledge; security; bail; — used esp. in ‖va'di·um mor'tu·um (môr'tū·ŭm), a mortgage; and ‖va'di·um vi'vum (vī'vŭm), lit., a living pledge, which exists where an estate is granted until a debt is paid out of its proceeds.

va'dose (vā'dōs), adj. [L. vadosus shallow, shoal, fr. vadum a shallow, ford.] Geol. Pertaining to or due to water or solutions in that part of the earth's crust which is above the level of permanent ground water; as, vadose circulation; vadose deposits.

va'dy (vā'dĭ), n. A vade mecum. Dial. Eng.

vag (văg). [Cf. 2d FAG.] Turf or peat used as fuel. Dial. Eng.

vag (văg), n. A vagrant; a vagabond. — v. t. To arrest as a vagrant. Both Slang.

vag'a·bond (văg'ə·bŏnd), adj. [OF., fr. L. vagabundus, fr. vagari to stroll about, wander. See VAGARY.] 1. Moving from place to place without a settled habitation; wandering; nomadic; as, a vagabond people.

2. Of, characteristic of, or leading, the life of a vagrant or tramp; hence, homeless; unsettled and irresponsible; good-for-nothing; as, vagabond habits or thieves; a vagabond crew.

3. Not having a fixed course, direction, etc.; following an irregular or vagrant course, path, line, etc.; as, vagabond celestial bodies; a vagabond stream.

Syn. — See VAGRANT.

vag'a·bond, n. One who wanders from place to place, having no fixed dwelling, or, if he has one, not abiding in it; a wanderer; esp., such a person who is lazy and generally worthless and without means of honest livelihood; vagrant; tramp; hence, Colloq., a worthless person; scamp; rascal. In legal usage vagabond was formerly used literally to denote a strolling, idle, worthless person, belonging, as described in old English statutes, to "such as wake on the night and sleep on the day, and haunt customable taverns and alehouses, and rout about; and no man wot from whence they came, nor whither they go." Now the term has no technical use in the United States, but is retained in various English statutes, as the Vagrancy Act of 1824 (5 Geo. IV c. 83), by which the term is applied to certain offenders against good order specifically mentioned, who are not necessarily persons leading "a wandering and vagabond life." It was held in 28 Tex. App. 562 that the term was not equivalent to vagrant.

A fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be. Gen. iv. 12.

vag'a·bond (văg'ə·bŏnd), v. i.; VAG'A·BOND'ED; VAG'A·BOND'ING. To play the vagabond; to wander like a vagabond; to rove.

vag'a·bond'age (-bŏn'dĭj), n. [F.]. The condition of a vagabond; state or habit of wandering about in idleness; vagrancy; also, vagabonds as a class.

vag'a·bond'ag·er (-bŏn'dĭj·ĕr), n. A vagabond. Rare.

vag'a·bon'di·a (văg'ə·bŏn'dĭ·ə), n. [NL.] The life of a vagabond; also [cap.], the world of vagabondage; — without derogatory connotation. Literary.

vag'a·bond·ism (văg'ə·bŏn·dĭz'm), n. Vagabondage; also, an act of a vagabond.

vag'a·bond·ize (-bŏn·dīz), v. i.; -IZED (-dīzd); -IZ'ING (-dĭz'ĭng). To play the vagabond; to wander in idleness; roam. — vag'a·bond·iz'er (-dĭz'ĕr), n.

vag'a·bond'ry (-bŏnd'rĭ), n. Vagabondage. Rare.

vag'a·bond's dis·ease'. Med. A condition of pigmentation of the skin caused by long continued exposure, uncleanliness, and esp. by scratch marks and other lesions due to the presence of body lice.

va'gal (vā'găl), adj. [See VAGUS.] Anat. Pert. to the vagus.

va·gar'i·an (və·gâr'ĭ·ăn), n. One who has vagaries. Rare.

va·gar'i·ous (-ŭs), adj. Given to, or characterized by, vagaries; capricious; whimsical; also, Rare, vagrant. — va·gar'i·ous·ly, adv.

va·gar'ish (-ĭsh), adj. Vagarious.

va·gar'i·some (-ĭ·sŭm), adj. Vagarious. Rare.

va·gar'ist (və·gâr'ĭst), n. One given to vagaries. — va'ga·ris'tic (vā'gə·rĭs'tĭk), adj.

va·gar'i·ty (və·găr'ĭ·tĭ), n. State or quality of being vagarious.

va·gar'y (və·gâr'ĭ; -gā'rĭ; 79; 277), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [Formerly used also as a v., towander, fr. L. vagari to stroll about (but perh. due partly to confusion with vagrant); akin to L. vagus wandering, Skr. vaṅgati he limps, G. wanken to totter, waver. Cf. VAGABOND, VAGUE, WINK.] 1. Now Rare. a A wandering abroad; a ramble; an excursion or jaunt. b A rambling from the subject; an aimless digression. c A divergence from the right, lawful, or proper, course of conduct; a breach of morality or decorum. d A trick; a prank; a caper.

2. A departure from the expected, normal, or logical, order or course; an eccentric or erratic manifestation, procedure, action, notion, etc.; a caprice; as, the vagaries of his imagination; a vagary of a child, of nature, or of fashion.

No one could predict the vagaries, the absurd self-sacrifices, of love. Hergesheimer.

Syn. — See CAPRICE.

va·gar'y, v. i. To roam; stray. Rare.

va·ga'tion (-gā'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. vagatio.] Act or instance of wandering; straying. Obs.

vagi-. Bot. A combining form for vague, as in vag'i·form, vag'i·ner'vose. See -FORM; -NERVOSE.

vag'ile (văj'ĭl), adj. [L. vagus wandering.] Biol. Free to move about, as an aquatic organism. Cf. SESSILE.

vagin-. = VAGINO- (which see), as in vag'i·no·dyn'i·a.

va·gi'na (və·jī'nə), n.; pl. -NAE (-nē), -NAS (-nəz). [L., prop., a scabbard, sheath. Cf. VANILLA.] 1. Anat. & Zool. a A sheath or sheathlike part or tube; a theca. b Specif., in female mammals, a canal which leads from the uterus to the external orifice of the genital canal, or to the cloaca; — extended also to a canal of similar function or location in various other animals. That of mammals, like the uterus, is developed from the terminal part of both or one of the Müllerian ducts of the embryo. These unite to form a single median canal in all but some of the lowest mammals. In some marsupials the two vaginas are united at their anterior ends only, and from this point a median backward diverticulum, the median vagina, affords an additional passage (serving in parturition) to the urinogenital sinus.

2. Arch. The shaft of a terminus, or its upper part, from which the bust or figure seems to issue or arise.

3. Bot. The expanded or sheathing part of some leaf bases.

vag'i·nal (văj'ĭ·nəl; vā·jī'nəl; -n'l; 277), adj. Anat. & Zool. a Resembling, or pertaining to, a vagina, or sheath; thecal; as, a vaginal synovial membrane surrounding a tendon; the vaginal branches of the hepatic artery (which ramify in Glisson's capsule). b Of, pertaining to, supplying, or used in treating, the vagina of the genital canal; as, the vaginal plexus of nerves or veins.

vag'i·nal, n. A vaginal artery or muscle.

vaginal arteries. Branches of the hypogastric artery supplying the vagina.

vag'i·na·lec'to·my (văj'ĭ·nə·lĕk'tō·mĭ), n. [NL. tunica vaginalis+-ectomy.] Surg. Dissection and removal of the tunica vaginalis.

vag'i·na·li'tis (văj'ĭ·nə·lī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. tunica vaginalis+-itis.] Med. Inflammation of the tunica vaginalis of the testis.

vaginal process. Anat. a A projecting lamina of bone (continuous with the tympanic plate) on the inferior surface of the petrous portion of the temporal bone, and surrounding the root of the styloid process. b Either of a pair of projecting laminae on the inferior surface of the sphenoid which articulate with the alae of the vomer.

Vaginate Culm of Grass.

vag'i·nant (văj'ĭ·nănt), adj. [Cf. F. vaginant.] Bot. Sheathing. Rare.

‖va·gi'na sy·no'vi·a'lis (və·jī'nə sĭ·nō'vĭ·ā'lĭs). [NL. See SYNOVIA.] = VAGINA TENDINIS.

vag'i·nate (văj'ĭ·nāt), adj. [See VAGINA.] Invested with or as with a sheath, or vagina.

‖va·gi'na ten'di·nis (tĕn'dĭ·nĭs). [NL.] Anat. The synovial sheath of a tendon, esp. of the hand or foot.

vag'i·nec'to·my (văj'ĭ·nĕk'tō·mĭ), n. [vagin-+ectomy.] Surg. A surgical removal of the vagina, or resection of a part of it. b Vaginalectomy.

---

vao'ouf (văk'ōōf), n. = WAKF.

‖va cre·scen'do (vä krē·shĕn'dō). See VA.

vac'u·a, n., pl. of VACUUM.

vac'u·o·lar'y, adj. = VACUOLAR.

vac'u·o·late, adj. = VACUOLATED.

va'da·ble (vā'dä·b'l), adj. [ML. vadabilis, fr. L. vadare to ford.] Fordable. Obs.

Vaddah. ✝ VEDDA.

vade (vād), v. i. [Var. of FADE.] To fade. Obs.

‖va'de in pa'ce. [L.] Go in peace.

va'de·lect, n. [Anglo-Lat. vadelectus, fr. AF. vadlet. See VARLET.] A servant. Obs.

vader. ✝ FATHER.

vad'i·mo'ny, n. = VADIMONIUM, n., b. [WADMAL.]

vad'mel (wŏd'mĕl). Var. of WADMAL, n. Obs.

va'dra, n. sing. & pl. [Rumanian vadră.] See MEASURE, Table.

‖vae (vē; vī), interj. [L. See WOE.] Alas!

‖vae' vic'tis (vē). [L.] Woe to the vanquished. Livy (V. xlviii).

va'frous (vā'frŭs), adj. [L. vafer.] Crafty; sly. Obs.

vagabond green. = DUCK GREEN.

va'ga·bond'i·cal, adj. Vagabond. Obs.

va'ga·bond'ish, adj. See -ISH.

va'ga·bon·dis'mus (văg'ə·bŏn·dĭz'mŭs), n. = VAGABOND'ISM.

va·gas', n. [Armen.] = VAKASS.

vage (vāj). Var. of VOYAGE. Obs. exc. Dial.

vage. ✝ WAGE.

va'gi (vā'jī), n., pl. of VAGUS.

va'gi·ent (vā'jĭ·ənt), adj. [L. vagiens.] Crying like a child. Obs.

va·gi'na·less, adj. See -LESS.

va'gi·nat'ed, adj. = VAGINATE.

va·gra'bone (văg'rə·bōn; vāg'-). Dial. corrupt. of VAGABOND.

va'gan·cy (vā'gən·sĭ), n. [See VAGANT.] Wandering; pl., extravagances. Obs.

va'gant (vā'gənt), adj. [OF., fr. L. vagans, pres. part.] Wandering; vagrant. Obs.

Va·ga'o (vä·gä'ō). D. Bib.

vagini-. Zool. = VAGINO-, as in vag'i·nic'o·line, vag'i·mi·pen'nate. See -COLINE, etc.

Vag'i·nic'o·la (văj'ĭ·nĭk'ō·lȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. vagina sheath + colere to inhabit.] Zool. A genus of ciliate protozoans which form minute vaselike or tubular cases in which they dwell.

Vaginicola (V. cristalina). Much enlarged.

vag'i·nic'o·lous (-lŭs), adj. [vagini- + -colous.] Zool. Secreting and inhabiting a theca, or sheath.

vag'i·nif'er·ous (-nĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [vagini- + ferous.] Zool. Having a sheath or theca.

vag'i·nis'mus (-nĭz'mŭs; -nĭs'mŭs), n. [NL.] Med. A painful spasmodic contraction of the vagina.

vag'i·ni'tis (-nī'tĭs), n. [NL.] Med. a Inflammation of the vagina. b Inflammation of any sheath.

vag'i·no- (văj'ĭ·nō-), vagin-. A combining form for vagina, denoting: a The vagina, as in va·gi·no·fix·a'tion. b Vaginal and; — in adjectives, as in vag'i·no·ab·dom'i·nal, pertaining to the vagina and abdomen; vag'i·no·la'bi·al, vag'i·no·per'i·ne'al, vag'i·no·per'i·to·ne'al, vag'i·no·ves'i·cal, vag'i·no·vul'var. See LABIAL, etc. For words below see the word or element with which vagino- is combined.

vaginocele	vaginopexy	vaginoscopy vaginometer	vaginoplasty	vaginotome vaginomycosis	vaginoscope	vaginotomy va·gin'u·la (vȧ·jĭn'ū·lȧ), n. [L., dim. of vagina sheath.] 1. Bot. In certain mosses, that part of the archegonium enveloping the base of the embryo (sporophyte) or seta after the upper part (calyptra) has been torn away. 2. Zool. a [cap.] Syn. of VERONICELLA. b A small theca, or sheath.

— va·gin'u·late (-lāt), adj.

vag'i·nule (văj'ĭ·nūl), n. A vaginula.

va·gi'tus (vȧ·jī'tŭs), n. [L., fr. vagire to cry.] Med. The cry of the newborn child.

vago-. Anat. A combining form for vagus denoting: a The vagus, as in va'go·gram, va·gol'y·sis. See -GRAM. b Vagal and; — in adjectives, as in va'go·ac'ces·so'ri·us, va'go·glos'so·phar'yn·ge'al. See ACCESSORIUS, etc.

va'go·de·pres'sor (vā'gō·dē·prĕs'ĕr), adj. [NL., fr. vago- + depressor.] Physiol. Depressing, as a drug, to the vagus nerve.

va'go·sym'pa·thet'ic (-sĭm'pȧ·thĕt'ĭk), adj. Anat. Of, pertaining to, or designating, the vagus and a cervical sympathetic nerve, when enclosed in the same sheath, as in the dog. — va'go·sym'pa·thet'ic, n.

va·got'o·my (vȧ·gŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [vago- + -tomy.] Surgical division of the vagus nerve. — va·got'o·mize (-mīz), v. t.

va'go·to'ni·a (vā'gō·tō'nĭ·ȧ), n. Also va·got'o·ny (vȧ·gŏt'ō·nĭ). [NL., fr. vago- + -tonia.] Physiol. & Med. Irritability, esp. hyperirritability, of the vagus nerve, or the resulting constitutional condition marked by spastic tendency in the smooth muscles, nervousness, and fatigue. — va'go·ton'ic (-tŏn'ĭk), adj. & n.

va'go·trop'ic (-trŏp'ĭk), adj. [vago- + -tropic.] Physiol. & Med. Acting selectively upon the vagus nerve, as a drug. — va'go·trop'ic, n. — va·got'ro·pism (vȧ·gŏt'rō·pĭz'm), n.

va'grance (vā'grȧns), n. Vagrancy. Rare.

va'gran·cy (vā'grȧn·sĭ; 232), n. 1. The condition, quality, or fact, of being vagrant; also, a vagrant act, thought, procedure, course, etc.; a vagary; as, inclined to vagrancy; the vagrancies of genius; also, sometimes, a wandering; also, a nomadic life or habit.

2. Specif., the state or offense of being a vagrant (which see); as, committed on a charge of vagrancy.

va'grant (vā'grȧnt), n. [Prob. fr. OF. waucrant, wacrant, pres. part. of waucrer, wacrer, walcrer, to wander, of Teut. origin (see WALK), but influenced by F. vagant, pres. part. of vaguer to stray, fr. L. vagari (cf. VAGARY).] One who strolls from place to place; an idle wanderer; specif., one who has no settled habitation; a vagabond. In statutory law, in Great Britain and in various States in the United States, vagrant is arbitrarily defined to include any of various offenders against good order or persons liable to become a menace to the public peace or a public burden. Cf. VAGABOND.

va'grant, adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a vagrant; inclined or given to vagrancy, or a wandering idle life; as, vagrant beggars or children.

2. Vagabond; nomadic; tied to no home, country, abode, or the like; roving; as, vagrant tribes or herds.

3. Having no fixed course, direction, aim, etc.; wandering hither and thither; wayward; capricious; as, vagrant breezes, fancies, or longings.

Syn. — VAGRANT, VAGABOND, TRUANT are here compared in their figurative senses. VAGRANT is often used of that which is roving or unsettled; VAGABOND heightens the implication of care-free wandering at will; TRUANT suggests more definitely a wandering or loitering away from where one ought to be; as, "He revolved through the family system like a vagrant comet in its orbit" (Irving); "curls blown vagrant in the wind" (Keats); "stray thoughts and vagrant fancies" (Landor); "I was overpowered by a host of conquering, vagabond, adventurous aspirations" (Mrs. Humphry Ward); "a truant disposition" (Shak.); to recall one's truant thoughts. Cf. WANDER, RANDOM, CAPRICE.

— va'grant·ly, adv. — va'grant·ness, n.

va'grant, v. i. To play the vagrant. Rare.

va'grant·ism, n. Vagrancy.

va'grant·ize, v. t. & i. To make a vagrant (of); also, to arrest for vagrancy. Rare.

va'grate (vā'grāt), v. i. [From vagrant, after migrate.] To wander. Rare.

va'grom (vā'grŭm), adj. A corruption of VAGRANT; — used by Dogberry in Shakespeare's Much Ado about Nothing. Humorous. "All vagrom men." Lowell.

vague (vāg), v. i. [F. vaguer, fr. L. vagari.] To wander; roam; stray. — n. a A wandering; a vagary; a prank. b A wanderer; a vagabond. All Obs. exc. Dial.

vague (vāg), adj.; VA'GUER (vā'gĕr); VA'GUEST. [F., fr. L. vagus. See VAGARY.] 1. Not definitely fixed; wandering; also, Obs., vagrant.

Vague regardless eyes. Keats.

2. Not clearly expressed; stated so as to be indefinite or not clear; as, a vague accusation, promise, or answer.

3. Hence: a Lacking in precision; not giving the exact meaning; as, vague words or phrases. b Not clearly defined, grasped, or understood; indistinct; as, a vague idea. c Not clearly felt or sensed; more or less subconscious; as, a vague unrest; a vague premonition. d Not sharply outlined; dim or indistinct in form, character, etc.; shadowy; hazy. "The paling sky where the vague moon was coming up." Galsworthy. "The vague but typical hero." Symons.

4. Not thinking or stating one's thoughts clearly or sharply; given to looseness or haziness of thought or expression; as, Pope may be superficial but he is never vague.

Syn. — Unsettled, unfixed, ill-defined, ambiguous; obscure, confused, hazy, shadowy; loose. See DARK.

Ant. — Clear, palpable, concrete, distinct; definite, certain; exact.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

vague-eyed	vague-looking	vague-phrased vague-ideaed	vague-minded	vague-worded vague (vāg), n. [From VAGUE, adj.] Something vague; — with the; as: a An indefinite or unsettled state. b A haze of thoughts, sensations, etc.; vagueness. c An indefinite expanse.

The gray vague of unsympathizing sea. Lowell.

vague, adv. Vaguely; — chiefly in combinations; as, vague'–men'ac·ing; vague'–shin'ing.

vague, v. i. To indulge in vague thought, expression, etc.

vague'ly, adv. In a vague manner or form; uncertainly; idly; inanely.

He was wandering vaguely about. Arnold Bennett.

vague'ness, n. The state or character of being vague; want of clearness or distinctness; also, a vague expression, line, etc.

va'guer (vā'gĕr), n. [From 1st VAGUE.] A vagrant. Scot.

vague year. A year of 365 days used by the ancient Egyptians, superseded by the Alexandrian year; — so called because in a cycle of 1507 years any date in it passed through all the seasons. See SOTHIC CYCLE.

va·gu'i·ty (vȧ·gū'ĭ·tĭ), n. Vagueness. Rare.

vag'u·lous (văg'ū·lŭs), adj. [L. vagulus.] Uncertainly wandering; straggling. Rare.

va'gus (vā'gŭs), n.; pl. VAGI (-ī). Also vagus nerve. [L. vagus wandering.] Anat. & Zool. Either of the tenth pair of cranial nerves. Each arises from the lateral sulcus of the medulla in line with the ninth and eleventh cranial nerves, and leaves the skull with these nerves through the jugular foramen. The sensory fibers, with cell bodies in the ganglion nodosum, are mainly visceral from the pharynx, larynx, trachea, esophagus, and thoracic and abdominal viscera, to the medulla. The efferent fibers are from the medulla, those from the dorsal motor nucleus pass to the thoracic and abdominal viscera as preganglionic fibers; those from the nucleus ambiguus to the pharynx and larynx. The vagus also transmits cutaneous fibers from the external auditory meatus and gustatory fibers from the epiglottis. In water-breathing vertebrates, it supplies some of the visceral arches and the lateral line organs. Called also pneumogastric.

Vai (vī; vā), n. Also Vei. A Negro people in Liberia, north of Monrovia; also, their language, akin to Mandingo, with a syllabic script invented about 1834 by Doalu Bukere, later widely used among the Moslem tribes of the Sudan.

vail (vāl), v. i. [Aphetic form of AVAIL.] Archaic. To avail; to be of profit or benefit; — often with it. — v. t. To be advantageous, profitable, or beneficial, to.

vail, n. Archaic. 1. Advantage; profit; return; proceeds. Obs.

2. A perquisite of one's office or position; an occasional fee or offering.

3. A gratuity, esp. to a servant; a tip; also, a dole; a bribe.

vail, v. i. To give vails, or gratuities. Rare.

vail (vāl), v. [Aphetic form of AVALE.] Transitive: 1. To lower; to let fall; to allow or cause to sink. Archaic.

He look'd but once, and vail'd his eyes again. Tennyson.

2. To lower, as a banner, or take off, as a cap, in token of submission, surrender, inferiority, reverence, or the like; to doff. Archaic.

France must vail her lofty-plumed crest! Shak.

3. To humble, as one's pride; to submit or yield, as one's will. Archaic.

—, Intransitive: 1. Obs. a To move or slope downward; to descend. b To subside. c To bend one's body in bowing. d To lower a sail.

2. To doff one's cap; to take off one's hat; also, to be doffed.

3. To give way; yield; to give supreme place or homage.

vail, n. Decline; descent; also, downflow. Obs.

vail'a·ble (vāl'ȧ·b'l), adj. Obs. a Serviceable; profitable; beneficial. b Valid legally.

Vai·li'ma Let'ters (vī·lē'mȧ). A collection of letters (to Sidney Colvin, 1895) by Stevenson, recording his life at his Samoan estate.

vain (vān), adj.; VAIN'ER (-ĕr); VAIN'EST. [ME. vaine, vein, fr. OF. vain, vein (F. vain), fr. L. vanus empty, void, vain. See VACANT; cf. INANE, VANISH, VANITY, VAUNT.] 1. Empty; devoid of real value, worth, or meaning; useless; idle; worthless; as, vain promises or studies.

"Vain pomp and glory." Shak.

2. Hence: a Fruitless; ineffectual; futile; as, to spend time in a vain discussion. b Rare. Of trifling value or importance; petty. c Of persons, their powers, actions, etc., foolish; silly; empty-headed; ignorant.

All that vain men imagine or believe. Shelley.

3. Having or manifesting undue or excessive pride in one's appearance, attainments, etc.; desirous of admiration; conceited; as, pretty, but not vain; vain of one's skill.

Syn. — Unavailing, unrewarded; unimportant, trivial; overweening, vainglorious. — VAIN, FUTILE, NUGATORY. That which is VAIN is fruitless or without avail; FUTILE implies utter ineffectiveness; that which is NUGATORY is trifling or insignificant, or (often) inoperative; as, "that not a moth with vain desire is shriveled in a fruitless fire" (Tennyson); "vain hopes and idle fancies" (Hazlitt); "It was equally in vain, and he soon wearied of his futile vigilance" (Stevenson); "that obstinate silence which makes eloquence futile" (Mary Wilkins); "representing all titles . . . as nugatory and superfluous" (Southey); "They hope to render their proposition safe, by rendering it nugatory" (Burke). Cf. IDLE, USELESS, EMPTY, PETTY.

Ant. — Valuable, worthwhile, satisfying; effective, telling; important, momentous, weighty; modest, diffident.

— for vain. In vain. Shak. — in vain. a To no purpose; ineffectually; without success or result; as, he sought in vain; he has not lived in vain. b In an irreverent, disrespectful, or blasphemous, manner; — always in phrase to take one's (usually God's) name in vain.

vain (vān), n. Vanity; emptiness. Obs.

vain'ful (vān'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Vain; useless; fickle. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

vain'glo'ri·ous (vān'glō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. Feeling or manifesting vainglory; elated by vanity; boastful; as, vainglorious men or speech. — vain'glo'ri·ous·ly, adv. — vain'glo'ri·ous·ness, n.

vain'glo'ry (-rĭ), n. [vain + glory.] Excessive pride in one's own performances, attainments, etc., as shown in undue elation, boasting, etc.; a vaunting of oneself in speech or action.

vain'glo'ry, v. i. To indulge in or manifest vainglory. Rare.

vain'ly (vān'lĭ), adv. In a vain manner; in vain; futilely; foolishly; conceitedly; vainglariously.

vair (vâr), n. [OF., fr. L. varius various, variegated. See VARIOUS; cf. MINIVER.] 1. The skin of a species of squirrel, much used in the 14th century as fur for the costly dresses of kings, nobles, and prelates.

Vair.

2. Heraldry. The representation of this fur by a series of small shields placed close together, and alternately argent and azure unless other tinctures are specifically named. See Illust.

3. A stoat; a weasel. Now Dial.

vai·ra'gi (vī·rä'gē), n. [Skr. vairāgī, nom., one free from desire.] A Hindu ascetic mendicant.

vai'ré', vai'rée' (vā'rā'; vā'rā), adj. [F.] Her. Covered with a vair pattern of any specified tinctures.

Vai·ro'cha·na (vī·rō'chȧ·nȧ), n. [Skr. vairocana.] The first Dhyani Buddha; Adi-Buddha. In Japan, Dai Nichi. See ADI-BUDDHA, SHINGON-SHU.

Vai·se'shi·ka (vī·sā'shĭ·kȧ; vī·shā'-), n. [Skr. vaiśeṣika.] A division of the Nyaya school of Hindu philosophy, from which it differs chiefly in its doctrine that eternal substances, such as time, space, soul, light, air, exist as atomic individualities.

Vaish'na·va (vĭsh'nȧ·vȧ), n [Skr. vaiṣṇava.] Hinduism. A worshiper of Vishnu in any of his forms or incarnations. — Vaish'na·vism (-vĭz'm), n.

Vai'sya (vī'syȧ), Vai'shya (vī'shyȧ), n. [Skr. vaiśya.] See CASTE, n., 2.

vaj'ra (vŭj'rȧ), n. [Skr.] 1. Also Vaj'ra. Hindu & Buddhist Myth. The thunderbolt (Indra's thunderbolt), represented as a short double trident held in the hand of Indra and some other deities.

2. Diamond.

vaj'ra, adj. Adamantine.

vaj·ra'sa·na (vŭj·rä'sȧ·nȧ), n. [Skr. vajrāsana diamond seat.] The miraculous seat of the Buddha when he obtained Enlightenment.

va·kass' (vȧ·kăs'), n. [Armenian vagas.] Armenian Ch. An appareled amice.

va·kil', va·keel' (vȧ·kēl'; wȧ-), n. [Hind. vakīl, fr. Ar. wakīl.] An ambassador, agent, representative, attorney, or the like; esp., an authorized native public pleader in a court of justice. Anglo-Indian.

vak·kal'i·ga (vȧ·kŭl'ē·gȧ), n. A member of a Hindu caste, of the higher Sudra rank numerous in Madras.

val'ance (văl'ăns), n. [Perh. fr. OF. avalant descending, hanging down, pres. part. of avaler to go down, let down, descend (cf. AVALE); but prob. from the town of Valence, France.] 1. A short, usually flat, sometimes flounced, drapery hanging vertically from an edge as of an altar table, a canopy, a shelf, a chair seat, bed, etc.; specif., a short decorative drapery across the top of a window.

2. A similar pendent border in leather, metal, wood, etc.

3. A vertically hanging flap of a hat or cap. Rare.

val'anced (-ănst), adj. Provided or decorated with a valance.

va·lanche' (vȧ·lănch'; F. vȧ'lănsh'), n. An avalanche. Rare.

val·bel'lite (văl·bĕl'ĭt), n. [From Val Bello, Piedmont, Italy.] Petrog. A fine-grained, melanocratic, dike rock, belonging to the peridotite family, and consisting of orthopyroxene, olivine, and brown hornblende. Pyrrhotite occurs locally.

vale (vāl), n. [OF. val, fr. L. vallis, valles; akin to L. volvere to roll, turn. See VOLUBLE; cf. AVALE, VAIL to lower, VALLEY, VAUDEVILLE.] 1. A valley, low-lying country, or a tract of such. Chiefly Poetic.

2. In poetic and religious use: a The earth, world, or earthly life, in contrast to heaven or eternity; — often this vale of tears. b Usually vale of years. The decline of life; old age.

‖ va'le (vä'lē). [L., fr. valere. See WIELD; cf. CARNIVAL.] Farewell; a farewell.

val'e·dic'tion (văl'ē·dĭk'shŭn), n. [L. valedicere, valedictum, to say farewell, fr. vale farewell (imper. of valere to be strong or well) + dicere to say. See VALIANT; DICTION.] A farewell; a bidding farewell; a valedictory address.

Syn. — VALEDICTION, VALEDICTORY. VALEDICTION has always been a learned word; VALEDICTORY is a learned word become popular, through its use in the sense of valedictory oration; as, "A valediction forbidding Mourning" (Donne); to deliver the valedictory at a college commencement.

val'e·dic·to'ri·an (-dĭk·tō'rĭ·ȧn; 181), n. In American colleges and high schools, the student of the graduating class who pronounces the valedictory oration at commencement, usually the student who ranks first in scholarship.

val'e·dic'to·ry (-dĭk'tō·rĭ), adj. Bidding farewell; delivered as a valediction; suitable for or befitting an occasion of leave-taking; as, Washington's valedictory address to his officers; valedictory honors. — val'e·dic'to·ri·ly (-rĭ·lĭ), adv.

val'e·dic'to·ry, n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). A valedictory oration or statement; esp., the address of a valedictorian.

Syn. — See VALEDICTION.

va·len'ce (vȧ·lĕn'sē), n. A kind of sheer fabric. Obs.

va'lence (vā'lĕns), n. Also va'len·cy (-lĕn·sĭ). [L. valens, -entis, pres. part. of valere to have power, to be strong. See VALIANT.] 1. Chem. & Physics. a The degree of combining power of an element (or radical) as shown by the number of atomic weights of hydrogen, chlorine, sodium,

---

Vag'ner·a (văg'nĕr·ȧ), n. Bot. Syn. of SMILACINA.

va'gous (vā'gŭs), adj. [L. vagus. See VAGUE.] Wandering. Obs.

va'grant·like', adj. & adv. See -LIKE.

va'guish, adj. See -ISH.

vah, interj. [L.] = FAUGH, interj. Obs.

va·hi'ne (vä·hē'nā), n. [Tahitian.] = WAHINE. Society Islands and Central Polynesia.

Vai'dic (vī'dĭk; vīd'-), adj. [Skr. vaidika.] = VEDIC. [VAGUE.]

vaig (vāg). Dial. var. of 1st vail. ✝ VALE, VEIL.

vail'ant, adj. [See 1st VAIL.] Availing. Obs.

vaild. Vailed. Ref. Sp.

vaile. ✝ VAIL, VAIL, VALE, VEIL.

vail'er, n. One who vails, as in saluting. Obs.

vai'mure. ✝ VAUNTMURE.

vain. ✝ FAIN, VEIN.

vainesse, n. ✝ VAINNESS.

vain'ness, n. See -NESS.

vai'ry (vā'rĭ), adj. Her. Var. of VAIRE.

vair'y, n. = VAIR, n., 1. Rare.

Vai·sra'va·na, n. See BISHAMON.

vai'rode, vai'vod, n. = VOIVODE.

Va·jes'a·tha (vȧ·jĕs'ȧ·thȧ; văj'ē·zȧ'thȧ). Bib.

Vaj'rac·ched'i·ka -praj'na·par'a·mi·ta 'Su'tra. [Skr. Vajracchedikā-prajñāpāramitā.] See DIAMOND SUTRA.

va·ki'a (vȧ·kē'ȧ), n. sing. & pl. See WEIGHT, Table.

va'kuf. Var. of WAKF.

Va·la'chi·an (vă·lā'kĭ·ȧn). Var. of WALACHIAN.

val'anst. Valanced. Ref. Sp.

Va'la-skjalf' (vä'lä·skyälv'; wä'lä-), n. See ASGARD.

Val·den'ses (văl·dĕn'sēz; wăl·dĕn'sēz), Val·den'sian (văl·dĕn'shĭn). Vars. of WALDENSES, etc.

Va'le. Norse Myth. Var. of VALI.

vale. ✝ VAIL, VALLEY, VEIL.

‖ va'le·at ac'co·ra vir'tus. [L.] Virtue avails as an anchor.

‖ va'le·at quan'tum va'le·re pot'est. [L.] Let it pass, or be taken, for what it is worth.

val'ect, n. = VALET, 1. Obs.

valeie. ✝ VALLEY.

valeisa, n. Valise. Obs.

val'ence. Var. of VALANCE.

or the like, with which the atomic weight of the element (or the partial molecular weight of the radical) will combine, or for which it can be substituted, or with which it can be compared. Thus, one atomic weight of potassium combines with one atomic weight of hydrogen (to form KH) or of chlorine (to form KCl); hence, it is said to have a valence of one. An element or radical having a valence of one is said to be univalent; of two, bivalent; of three, trivalent or tervalent; of four, quadrivalent, etc. The valence of certain elements varies in different compounds; thus, nitrogen is trivalent in ammonia, NH_3, and quinquevalent in ammonium chloride, NH_4Cl. Valence may extend as high as seven or eight, as in the cases of iodine and osmium respectively. Valence is a measure of the extent to which an atom is able to combine directly with others; it should not be confused with chemical affinity or activity (readiness to combine.) According to modern theory, valence, as well as other chemical properties, depends on the number and arrangement of the electrons (valence, or valency, electrons) composing the outermost shell (valence shell) of the atom. The valence shell of the inert gases is complete, hence they are nonvalent; that of the other elements is incomplete, hence they exhibit a valence governed by the number of valence electrons which they tend to gain from, lose to, or share with, other atoms, thus establishing one or more bonds. See 3d BOND, 11; POLAR, adj., 5; NONPOLAR. See also ATOMIC THEORY, PERIODIC TABLE. b A unit of valence; as, the four valences of carbon.

2. The degree of power which exists, in varying amounts, between certain bodies or substances, causing them to unite or produce a specific effect upon each other; — used, specif., Biol., of chromosomes, serums, or the like; — usually in combination, as in bi*valence*, poly*valence*.

3. Biol. Morphological or taxonomic value or rank. Rare.

valence electron. Physical Chem. See 2d VALENCE, 1 a.

valence formula. Chem. See FORMULA, 5.

valence isomerism. Chem. Isomerism assumed to be due to a difference in the nature of the bonds uniting different atoms or groups to the same atom, as in the platinum ammines.

valence shell. Physical Chem. See 2d VALENCE, 1 a.

Va·len'ci·a (vȧ·lĕn'shĭ·ȧ), adj. Of, pertaining to, or derived from, Valencia, esp. the province of Valencia, Spain.

Va·len'ci·a, n. [From Valencia, Spain.] 1. [not cap.] A kind of woven fabric, with a silk or cotton warp and wool filling, used for waistcoats.

2. Hort. a A summer-ripening variety of orange. b Any of certain varieties of other plants, as of the almond, onion, peanut, etc.

Va·len'ci·an (-shĭ·ăn; -shăn), n. A native or resident of Valencia. — adj Of or pertaining to Valencia or Valencians.

va·len'ci·an·ite (-ăn·īt; -shăn·īt), n. An orthoclase feldspar similar to adularia. It is from a silver mine at Valencia, Mex.

Va·len'ciennes' (vȧ'lăN'syĕn'; vȧ·lĕn'sĭ·ĕnz'; 277), n. Also Valenciennes lace. [From Valenciennes, France.] A type of fine bobbin lace formerly made at Valenciennes, France, having a ground with a square or diamond-shaped mesh which is plaited, not twisted, and a pattern, without outlining thread, made together with the ground and of the same kind of thread.

va'len·cy (vā'lĕn·sĭ), n.; pl. -CIES (-sĭz). 1. Power; importance; value. Rare.

2. Chem. & Physics = 2d VALENCE.

valency electron. Physics & Chem. See 2d VALENCE, 1.

va'lent (vā'lĕnt), adj. [L. valens, -entis, pres. part.] 1. Worth. Obs.

2. Chem. Having valence; — usually in compounds; as, mono*valent*, bi*valent*, etc.

Va·len'ta test (vȧ·lĕn'tȧ). [After E. Valenta (b. 1857), Austrian chemist.] Anal. Chem. A test for fixed oils and fats based on their solubility in glacial acetic acid, made by determining the temperature in degrees centigrade (Valenta number or value) at which a hot clear solution of given concentration of the oil in the acid first shows turbidity as it cools. For butter the number varies from 35 to 44.4.

Val'en·tide' (văl'ĕn·tīd'), n. [See -TIDE.] The time of St. Valentine's Day. Spenser.

Val'en·tine (văl'ĕn·tīn), n. [L. Valentinus, fr. Valens, proper name, fr. L. valere, pres. part. valens, to be strong.] 1. Lit., strong; healthy; powerful; — masc. proper name L. Valentinus (văl'ĕn·tī'nŭs); F. Valentin (vȧ'lăN'tăN'); It. Valentino (vȧ'lĕn·tē'nō); Sp. Valentín (vȧ'lĕn·tēn'); Pg. Valentim (vȧ'lĕn·tēN'); G. Valentin (vȧ'lĕn·tēn).

2. A noble but too forgiving youth, one of the "Two Gentlemen of Verona" in Shakespeare's play of that name. See SILVIA, 1; PROTEUS, 2.

3. One of the twin title heroes of Valentine and Orson, a romance first printed in 1495. Both are abandoned in infancy, but Valentine is carried off by his uncle and brought up in court. Orson is suckled by a bear but is eventually reclaimed.

4. [G. Valentin.] In Goethe's Faust, Margaret's brother, who meets death from the hand of Faust when he seeks to avenge her wrongs.

val'en·tine (văl'ĕn·tīn), n. [OF. valentin, valentine, after St. Valentine. See VALENTINE.] 1. a [cap.] Rare. St. Valentine's Day. b A sweetheart chosen or complimented on St. Valentine's Day; hence, one's beloved. c Dial. One of the number of folded papers, each containing a name, which are drawn on the eve of this day.

2. Something sent or given, esp. to one's sweetheart, on St. Valentine's Day, as an amorous letter; specif., an ornamental engraved or printed greeting of a sentimental, or by extension, comic character, sent, usually anonymously, on this day.

3. [cap.] A love song. Tennyson.

val'en·tine, v. t. & i. To greet with or as with a valentine; to sing a love song.

Valentine, Saint. A Roman martyr, whose feast day, February 14th, gives the name to a purely secular festival. See Saint VALENTINE'S DAY.

Valentine Day. February 14. See ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

Valentine State. Arizona; — a nickname, so called because it was admitted to the Union on Feb. 14, 1912.

Val'en·tin'i·an (văl'ĕn·tĭn'ĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Valentinus, who taught at Alexandria and Rome A.D. 140 and 160 (see GNOSTICISM), or his system of Gnosticism (Valentinian Gnosticism). In his view the divine pleroma is made up of eight aeons, or emanations (the ogdoad), from which in turn proceed the ten and the twelve (thirty aeons in all). These aeons are aspects of the nature and activity of God.

Val'en·tin'i·an n. An adherent of Valentinianism.

Val'en·tin'i·an·ism (văl'ĕn·tĭn'ĭ·ăn·ĭz'm), n. Valentinian Gnosticism. See VALENTINIAN, adj val'en·tin·ite (văl'ĕn·tĭn·īt), n. [After Basil Valentine Ger. 15th-century alchemist, who discovered the properties of antimony.] Mineral. Antimony trioxide, in orthorhombic crystals.

Va'len·tin's knife (vă'lĕn·tĕnz). Micros. A knife with two parallel adjustable blades, used to cut thin slices of fresh tissues.

val'er·al'de·hyde (văl'ĕr·ăl'dē·hīd), n. Chem. Any of four liquid aldehydes, C_4H_9CHO, corresponding to the valeric acids; specif., the normal variety.

val'er·am'ide (-ăm'īd; -īd; 157), n. Also -id. [valeric + amide.] Chem. Any of four crystalline amides, C_4H_9-$CONH_2$, derived from the valeric acids; specif., the normal variety.

val'er·ate (văl'ĕr·āt), n. Chem. A salt or ester of valeric acid.

Va·le'ri·a (vȧ·lē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [L., fem. of Valerius.] Fem. proper name. F. Valérie (vȧ'lā'rē'); It. Valeria (vä·lā'rē·ä); G. Valerie (vȧ·lā'rē·ē).

va·le'ri·an (vȧ·lē'rĭ·ăn), n. [OF. valeriane, fr. ML. valeriana, fr. L. valere to be strong, powerful; from its medicinal virtues. See VALIANT.] 1. Bot. Any plant of the genus Valeriana. The common valerian is V. officinalis.

2. Pharm. a A drug consisting of the dried rhizome and roots of the common valerian, Valeriana officinalis, used as a carminative and calmative, esp. in nervous affections. b The dried rhizome and roots of the East Indian species V. wallichii, used in incense and perfumes.

Va·le'ri·a'na (vȧ·lē'rĭ·ā'nȧ), n. [LL., valerian. See VALERIAN.] Bot. a A large genus of widely distributed perennial herbs, type of the family Valerianaceae, having lobed or dissected leaves, and cymose white or pink flowers with spurless corollas. V. officinalis, the common valerian, is called also the garden heliotrope. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Va·le'ri·a·na'ce·ae (-ȧ·nā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of herbs typifying the order Valerianales. They have opposite leaves and mostly cymose flowers, the corolla regular or irregular and the anthers free. The fruit is an achene crowned with the persistent calyx border. There are about 9 genera and 300 species chiefly natives of temperate regions. Most of them possess tonic or stimulant properties. — va·le'ri·a·na'ceous (-ē'rĭ·ȧ·nā'shŭs), adj.

Va·le'ri·a·na'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of dicotyledonous plants consisting of the two families Valerianaceae and Dipsacaceae (which see). They have a gamopetalous corolla and an inferior ovary.

va·le'ri·a·nate (vȧ·lē'rĭ·ȧ·nāt), n. Chem. A valerate.

Va·le'ri·a·nel'la (vȧ·lē'rĭ·ȧ·nĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., dim. See VALERIANA.] Bot. A large genus of annual herbs (family Valerianaceae) disting. by the variously appendaged but not pappose calyx. They are mainly natives of the Old World, some occurring in the United States. Several are edible. See CORN SALAD.

valerian family. The Valerianaceae.

va·ler'ic (vȧ·lĕr'ĭk; -lēr'ĭk), adj. Also va·le'ri·an'ic (-lē'rĭ·ăn'ĭk). [See VALERIAN.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating any of four isomeric acids, $C_4H_9CO_2H$, of the fatty acid series. These are: (1) Normal valeric acid, pentanoic acid, or propylacetic acid, $CH_3(CH_2)_3$-CO_2H, a liquid of disagreeable odor, occurring in pyrolyneous acid and prepared artificially in various ways. (2) Isovaleric acid, or isopropylacetic acid, $(CH_3)_2$-$CHCH_2CO_2H$, an oily liquid with an odor like old cheese; β-methyl-butyric acid. It occurs in many plants, as in valerian root, in certain animal oils, in perspiration, etc., and is also obtained by the oxidation of isoamyl alcohol from fusel oil. (3) A liquid acid (α-methyl-butyric acid), called also methylethylacetic acid, $C_2H_5CH(CH_3)$-CO_2H, occurring in the essential oil from the fruit of Angelica archangelica, in valerian root, etc., and prepared artificially. (4) A crystalline acid (α, α-dimethyl-propionic acid), called also pivalic acid, or trimethylacetic acid, $(CH_3)_3CCO_2H$, made by oxidation of pinacolin and otherwise. Ordinary valeric acid is considered to be a mixture of isovaleric acid with dextro-α-methyl-butyric acid.

val'er·in (văl'ĕr·ĭn), n. [valeric + glycer*in.*] Chem. a Any of the esters of glycerol and valeric acid. b Specif., glyceryl tri-valerate; — called also trivalerin.

val'er·o- (văl'ĕr·ō-), valer-. Chem. A combining form from valerian, denoting valeric.

val'er·o·lac'tone (-lăk'tōn), n. Chem. The lactone $C_5H_8O_3$, of any hydroxy derivative of valeric acid; specif., the γ-lactone, a colorless oily liquid occurring in crude wood vinegar.

val'er·one (văl'ĕr·ōn), n. Chem. Either of two liquid ketones, $(C_4H_9)_2CO$, obtained indirectly from normal valeric acid and isovaleric acid respectively, and called specif. normal valerone and isovalerone.

val'er·yl (-ĭl), n. [valeric + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical, C_4H_9CO, of valeric acid; specif., the normal variety. Cf. BENZOYL.

val'er·yl·ene (-ĭ·lēn), n. Chem. a A liquid mixture of isomeric hydrocarbons, C_5H_8, obtained indirectly from amylene from fusel oil. b 2-Pentyne, $CH_3C{:}CC_2H_5$ (a constituent of the above mixture).

val'et (văl'ĕt; -ĭt; văl'ā; 119; 277: see note below), n. [F. valet, fr. OF. vallet, varlet, vaslet. See VARLET, VASSAL.] 1. A manservant; now, one who attends a man, taking care of his clothes and assisting with his toilet, etc.; a valet de chambre; a body servant.

2. Hence, an attendant, as in a hotel, apartment house, etc., who performs the services of a valet (sense 1) for patrons, esp. in cleaning, pressing, and mending, clothes.

3. Man. A kind of goad or stick with a point of iron.

☞ Valet has been Anglicized since the 17th century. Dr. Johnson (1755) gives val'et, Buchanan (1766) văl'ĕt, Sheridan (1797) văl'ĕt, Smart (1836) văl'ĕt, and the best usage still prefers văl'ĕt; -ĭt.

val'et (văl'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), v. t. & i.; VAL'ET·ED (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VAL'ET·ING. To serve as a valet.

va·le'ta (vȧ·lā'tȧ; -lē'tȧ), n. [Prob. fr. Sp. veleta weather vane.] A dance in slow waltz time.

‖val'et' de cham'bre (vȧ'lĕ' d' shăN'br'); pl. VALETS DE CHAMBRE (vȧ'lĕ'). [F.] A body servant, or personal attendant.

‖val'et' de pied' (d' pyā'). [F.] A footman.

‖val'et' de place' (plăs'). [F.] A valet who serves transient travelers or strangers, often, in Europe, acting as guide.

val'et·ry (văl'ĕt·rĭ), n. The occupation or service of a valet.

val'e·tude (văl'ē·tūd), n. [L. valetudo.] Health; state of health. Obs.

‖va'lé'tu'di'naire' (vȧ'lā'tü'dĭ'nâr'). n. & adj. [F.] Valetudinarian.

val'e·tu'di·nar'i·an (văl'ē·tū'dĭ·nâr'ĭ·ăn), n. [See VALETUDINARY.] A person of a weak or sickly constitution, esp. one whose chief concern is his invalidism.

His eminence as a valetudinarian now made him an object of engrossing interest. Edith Wharton.

val'e·tu'di·nar'i·an, adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a valetudinarian; sickly; weakly; infirm; as valetudinarian crotchets or habits.

Syn. and Ant. — Cf. SICKLY.

val'e·tu'di·nar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. The condition or state of mind of a valetudinarian. — val'e·tu'di·nar'ist (văl'ē·tū'dĭ·nĕr'ĭst), n.

val'e·tu'di·na'ri·um (văl'ē·tū'dĭ·nā'rĭ·ŭm; 79), n.; pl. -RIA (-ȧ). [L.] An infirmary; a hospital. Chiefly Rom. Antiq.

val'e·tu'di·nar'y (-tū'dĭ·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit. -nēr·ĭ), adj. [L. valetudinarius, fr. valetudo state of health, health, ill health, fr. valere to be strong or well. See VALIANT.] Infirm; sickly; valetudinarian. — val'e·tu'di·nar'i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

It renders the habit of society dangerously valetudinary. Burke.

val'e·tu'di·nar'y, n. Rare. a A hospital. b A valetudinarian.

Val'e·tu'do (văl'ē·tū'dō), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. A goddess of health whose cult was introduced into Rome with that of Aesculapius.

val'eur (văl'ĕr), n. Also val'ew (-ū). [F. valeur.] Valor. Spenser.

val'goid (văl'goid), adj. [See -OID.] Med. Resembling talipes valgus.

val'gus (-gŭs), adj. [L.] Med. Turned abnormally outward or inward; bowlegged or knock-kneed.

val'gus, n. Med. a Talipes valgus. b A bowlegged person. c A knock-kneed person.

Val·hal'la, Val·hall' (văl·hăl'ȧ, văl·hăl'), n. [ON. valhöll, lit., hall of the slain, fr. valr the slain (akin to AS. wæl, OHG. wal battlefield, wuol defeat, slaughter, AS. wōl pestilence) + höll a royal hall. See HALL; cf. WALHALLA, VALKYRIE.] 1. Norse Myth. The hall of Odin, into which he receives the souls of heroes slain in battle. From its 540 gates each morning the warriors go to fight, and at night they return to feast with the gods, Valkyries being their servitors. See ASGARD.

2. A hall or temple adorned with statues or other memorials of a nation's heroes; esp., the Pantheon near Regensburg, in Bavaria, consecrated to the illustrious dead of Germany.

Va'li (vä'lē), n. [ON.] Norse Myth. One of the Aesir, son of Odin, and avenger of Balder. He survives Ragnarok.

Va'li (vä'lĭ). Var. of 2d BALI.

va'lī' (vä'lē'), n. [Turk. wālī, fr. Ar. wālī. Cf. VILAYET.] a A governor general of a vilayet. Turkey. b A Mohammedan viceroy, esp. in Persia or North Africa.

val'iance (văl'yăns), n. [F. vaillance. See VALIANT.] Valiancy; a valiant deed. Archaic.

val'ian·cy (văl'yăn·sĭ), n. The quality or state of being valiant; bravery; valor; also, an instance of it.

val'iant (văl'yănt), adj. [ME., fr. OF. vailant, vaillant, valant, pres. part. of OF. valoir to be worth, fr. L. valere to be strong. See WIELD; cf. AVAIL, CARNIVAL, CONVALESCE, EQUIVALENT, INVALID, PREVAIL, VALEDICTION, VALENTINE, VALERIAN, VALETUDINARY, VALID, VALUE.] 1. Vigorous in body; sturdy; powerful; stalwart; robust. Now Dial.

Today he looks nearly as valiant as Harry. S. Kaye-Smith.

2. Stouthearted; intrepid in danger; courageous; boldly brave.

And Saul said to David, . . . be thou valiant for me, and fight the Lord's battles. 1 Sam. xviii. 17.

3. Performed with valor or bravery; heroic.

Thou bearest the highest name for valiant acts. Milton.

4. Strong, meritorious, or excellent of its kind; fine; very good; brave (senses 2 & 3). Now Dial.

5. Worth (so much); having the value of. Obs.

Syn. — Heroic, brave, courageous, steadfast, intrepid.

Ant. — Fainthearted. See COWARDLY.

— val'iant·ly, adv. — val'iant·ness, n.

val'iant, n. A valiant person.

val'iant, v. t. To make valiant. Rare.

val'id (văl'ĭd), adj. [F. valide, fr. L. validus strong, fr. valere to be strong. See VALIANT.] 1. Strong; powerful; robust; healthy. Now Rare.

2. Founded on truth or fact; capable of being justified, supported, or defended; not weak or defective; well-grounded; sound; good; as, a valid argument; a valid objection.

An answer that is open to no valid exception. I. Taylor.

3. Efficient; effective; accomplishing what is claimed or intended; as, a valid method or test.

4. Biol. Founded on an adequate basis of classification; having distinctive characters of recognized importance; as, a valid species or genus.

5. Eccl. Conforming to conditions essential to sacramental efficacy, namely, the proper rites, the intention and status of the minister, and the moral fitness and the intention of the recipient; as, a valid marriage or baptism.

6. Law. Having legal strength or force; executed with the proper formalities; legally sufficient or efficacious; incapable of being rightfully overthrown or set aside; as, a valid deed, covenant, title, marriage.

Syn. — Efficacious, just, weighty, cogent, sufficient; legal, lawful, binding.

Ant. — Weak, ineffectual, indefensible; null, void.

val'id, v. t. [F. valider to validate.] To validate. Obs.

val'id, n. One in good health; — opp. to invalid. Rare.

val'i·date (văl'ĭ·dāt), v. t.; VAL'I·DAT'ED (-dāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VAL'I·DAT'ING (-dāt'ĭng). [ML. validare. See VALID.] 1. To make valid; to give legal force to; to affirm officially the validity of; also, to declare legally elected.

Refusing to validate at once the election. London Spectator.

2. To test or prove the validity of; to confirm; to substantiate; as, to validate another's conclusions.

val'i·da'tion (văl'ĭ·dā'shŭn), n. [F.] Act or process of validating; a declaration of validity.

validation of marriage. R.C.Ch. A rendering valid by renewal of consent or judicial process of a marriage which is null through defect of consent or canonical impediment.

val'i·da'to·ry (văl'ĭ·dā'tō·rĭ), adj. Of or pert. to validation.

va·lid'i·ty (vȧ·lĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. validité, fr. L. validitas strength.] 1. The state, status, or fact, of being valid; as, to establish the validity of a marriage; to deny the validity of an election. Cf. def. 5, below.

2. The quality of being valid; esp., the quality of being val'ent, n. = VALANCE. Dial.

---

va·len'ti·a (vȧ·lĕn'shĭ·ȧ). Var. of VALENCIA.

vale of years. See 1st VALE, 2 b. valer-. Chem. = VALERO-.

val'er·al (văl'ĕr·ăl), n. Chem. = VALERALDEHYDE.

Va·le'ri·a·noi'des (vȧ·lē'rĭ·ȧ·noi'dēz). [NL.] Syn. of STACHYTARPHETA val'er·ate, n. See -ATE.

val'er·dom (văl'ĕr·dŭm; vȧl'ĕr-), n. See -DOM.

val'er·hood, n. See -HOOD.

val'er·ism, n. See -ISM.

va'le·tu·di·na'ri·a, n., pl. of VALETUDINARIUM.

va'le·tu'di·nar'i·ous, adj. Valetudinary. Obs.

va'le·tu'di·nous (-tū'dĭ·nŭs), adj. Valetudinary. Obs.

valewe. ✝ 5th FALLOW; VALUE.

val'iant·ise, n. [OF. vaillantise.] = VALIANCE. Obs.

va·lid'i·fi·ca'tion, n. [See -FICATION.] = VALIDATION.

vale'wa'ter, n. [F. aval downstream.] Low tide. Obs.

fully acceptable to the reason or judgment because grounded on fact or sound principles or in accordance with established laws or recognized criteria; justness; soundness; meritoriousness; as, to test the validity of a conclusion; an argument of no validity.
3. Now Rare. a Strength; robustness. b Value; worth. "Rich validity." Shak. c A quality or power that makes a thing valid.
4. Chem. & Physics. Valence. Now Rare.
5. Law. Legal strength, force, or authority; that quality of a thing which renders it supportable in law or equity; legal sufficiency; as, validity of a will, contract, title.

val'ine (văl'ēn; -ĭn; vā'lēn; -lĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [From -isovaleric (see def.) + -in(e).] Biochem. A white crystalline amino acid, $C_5H_{11}NO_2$, obtained from certain proteins by hydrolysis; α-amino-isovaleric acid.

va·lise' (vȧ-lēs' or, esp. Brit., -lēz'), n. [F., fr. It. valigia, or ML. valisia, of uncert. origin.] A case, usually of leather and designed to be carried in the hand, for the clothes, toilet articles, etc., of a traveler; a traveling bag.

Val'jean', Jean (zhăn văl'zhăn'; jēn văl'jēn'). The hero of Victor Hugo's novel Les Misérables. An ex-convict of great strength and courage, he rises to be a prominent manufacturer and a municipal officer whose past is unknown until discovered by the detective Javert. He endures consequent persecutions with heroism and patience. See MARIUS, COSETTE.

Val·kyr'i·an (văl·kĭr'ĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the Valkyries; hence, relating to battle.

Val·kyr'ie (văl·kĭr'ĭ; -kĭ'rĭ; văl'kĭ·rĭ), Val·kyr'ia (văl·kĭr'yȧ; the Old Norse form [see the Etymology] was pron'd văl'kür'yä, mod. văl·kĭr'yȧ), n. [ON. valkyrja (akin to AS. wælcyrie), fr. valr, the slain + a stem akin to kjósa to choose. See VALHALLA; CHOOSE.] Norse Myth. [sometimes not cap.] Orig., a demonic being; later, one of the maidens of Odin, awful and beautiful, who hover over the field of battle choosing those to be slain, and conducting the worthy heroes to Valhalla (which see). Cf. BRÜNNHILDE; BRYNHILD; WALKÜRE, DIE.

Val·la·bha·char'ya (vŭl'lȧ·bä·chär'yȧ), n. [Skr. Vallabhācārya, the founder, prop., Teacher Vallabha.] Hinduism. A Vaishnava sect, whose members are mostly banians, in which antiascetic, Epicurean teaching and practice and the doctrine of self-dedication to Krishna are prominent. It was founded by Vallabha (b. A.D. 1479). The priests are called gosains.

Val lace (văl). Short for VALENCIENNES LACE; usually, a machine-made imitation.

val·lan'cy (vȧ·lăn'sĭ), n. [Cf. VALANCE.] A 17th-century type of wig.

val'lar (văl'ẽr), adj. [L. vallaris.] Designating a gold crown with palisades, bestowed in Ancient Rome on the soldier who first surmounted the rampart and broke into the enemy's camp; hence, of or pertaining to such a crown. — n. A vallar crown.

val'lar·y (-ĭ), adj. Vallar; — used esp. in heraldry.

vallary crown. A vallar crown.

val'late (văl'ăt), adj. [L. vallatus surrounded with a rampart. See VALLATION.] Having a rim around a depression.

val'lat·ed (văl'ăt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Provided with a rampart.

vallate papilla. Any of eight to twelve papillae, arranged in a V-shaped row on the back part of the tongue, richly supplied with taste buds; — formerly called circumvallate papilla.

val·la'tion (vă·lā'shŭn), n. [LL. vallatio, fr. vallare to surround with a rampart, fr. vallum rampart. See WALL.] A rampart or entrenchment; an earthwork wall; also, the act or art of laying out or erecting ramparts.

val·lec'u·la (-lĕk'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [NL., dim. fr. L. vallis, vallea, valley.] 1. Anat. A groove; esp., one between the base of the tongue and the epiglottis.
2. Bot. A groove, channel, or depression, as one of those on the stem of Equisetum, on the fruit of various plants of the Ammiaceae, etc.

‖val·le'cu·la ce're·bel'li (sĕr'ē·bĕl'ī). [NL.] Anat. The fossa on the underside of the cerebellum, separating the hemispheres and containing the inferior vermis.

val·lec'u·lar (vă·lĕk'ū·lẽr), adj. Pertaining to or designating a vallecula, or groove.

vallecular canal. Bot. One of the large intercellular passages of the cortical parenchyma, alternating with the vascular bundles in the stems of Equisetum.

‖val·le'cu·la Syl'vi·i (sĭl'vĭ·ī). [NL.] Anat. In the brain, the depression in which the fissure of Sylvius begins.

val·lec'u·late (vă·lĕk'ū·lăt), adj. Having valleculae.

Val'let's' pills (vȧ'lĕz'). [After Dr. Vallet of Paris.] Med. Pills prepared by mixing saccharine matter with ferrous sulphate and sodium carbonate, which react in the pill mass and form ferrous carbonate; — called also Vallet's mass.

val'le·var'ite (văl'ē·văr'ĭt), n. [From Vallevara, Sweden.] Petrog. A leucocratic differentiate of a monzonitic rock, consisting of andesine-microcline-antiperthite with a little diopside, biotite, and apatite.

val'ley (văl'ĭ), n.; pl. VALLEYS (-ĭz). [ME. vale, valeie, fr. OF. valee (F. vallée), fr. val. See VALE.] 1. An elongate depression, usually with an outlet, between bluffs, or between ranges of hills or mountains. A river valley is the depression made by the stream, and by the various processes which precede and accompany the development of the stream. A structural valley is a relatively long and narrow depression, produced by movements of the surface. Thus a downfold produces a synclinal valley, while a rift valley is caused by down faulting. The valley flat is the low flat land bordering a stream's channel.
2. A valleylike depression; specif.: a The trough between waves. b Anat. A vallecula. c Arch. The place of meeting of two slopes of a roof which form on the plan a re-entrant angle; also, the material such as sheet metal or tile placed in a roof valley to shed water.

val'ley, v. i. & t. To form a valley or valleys (in or beside). Rare.

val'ley, adj. Pertaining to or situated in a valley.

valley board. Arch. A board for the reception of the lead gutter in the valley of a roof. The valley board and lead gutter are not usual in the United States.

valley breeze. A breeze that blows up valleys on clear days.

valley flat. See VALLEY, n., 1.

valley lily. The lily of the valley.

valley mahogany. The mountain mahogany Cercocarpus montanus.

valley oak. The valley white oak.

Valley of Humiliation. In Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, the valley in which Christian defeated Apollyon.

Valley of Rephaim. See REPHAIM.

valley of the shadow of death. 1. A period of gloom and suffering such as is or might be passed by one about to die. Ps. xxiii. 4.
2. [caps.] In Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, the valley through which Christian was obliged to pass on his way to the Celestial City.

valley partridge. = VALLEY QUAIL.

valley quail. The California quail, esp. a pale race (Lophortyx californica vallicola) which inhabits the arid parts of the interior of California.

valley rafter. The rafter running from the wall plate to the ridge and along the valley of a valley roof.

valley roof. Arch. A roof having one or more valleys.

valley tile. Roofing tile shaped to fit in the valley of a roof.

valley train. Phys. Geog. The filling of gravel, sand, etc., deposited in a valley by drainage from glaciers.

valley white oak. A tall tree (Quercus lobata) native to California and much planted as a shade tree. It has dark-green leaves, whitish beneath, and nearly sessile acorns which are about one thin third enclosed by the cup.

valley winds. See MOUNTAIN AND VALLEY WINDS.

val·lic'u·la (vă·lĭk'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., a little valley.] Anat. & Bot. A vallecula. — val·lic'u·lar (-lẽr), adj.

val'li·dom (văl'ĭ·dŭm), n. [See VALUE; -DOM.] Value; worth; amount. N. of Eng. & Scot.

Val'lis·caul'i·an (văl'ĭs·kô'lĭ·ăn), n. A member of an order of Hermit monks established in Vallis Caulium in Burgundy in 1193. It was amalgamated with the Cistercians in 1764; — called also Caulite. — Val'lis·caul'i·an, adj.

Val'lis·ne'ri·a (văl'ĭs·nē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Antonio Valisnieri (1661–1730), It. naturalist.] Bot. A genus of submerged aquatic plants typifying the family Vallisneriaceae. Of the two species, one, V. spiralis, is the tape grass; — often called wild celery.

Val'lis·ne'ri·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of monocotyledonous aquatic herbs (order Naiadales), distinguished by having flowers with the tube of the perianth more or less adnate to the ovary, and the carpels united in fruit. There are 6 genera and about 25 species, including several waterweeds. — val'lis·ne'ri·a'ceous (văl'ĭs·nē'rĭ·ā'shŭs), adj.

Val'lom·bro'san (văl'ŏm·brō'săn), n. Eccl. Hist. A member of an order of Benedictine Hermits founded at Vallombrosa, Italy, in 1038.

Val·lo'ta (vă·lō'tȧ), n. [NL., after Antoine Vallot, French botanist.] Bot. A genus of South African bulbous herbs (family Amaryllidaceae) with long funnel-shaped perianth tube and winged seeds, and having as the only known species V. speciosa, the Scarborough lily.

val'lum (văl'ŭm), n.; pl. VALLA (-ȧ), VALLUMS (-ŭmz). [L. See WALL.] 1. Rom. Antiq. A rampart; a wall, as in a fortified camp; esp., a rampart set with a palisade or stakes.
2. The combination of earthworks and ditch which follows the line of Hadrian's wall in Great Britain; — an inexact designation.

‖val'lum un'guis (ŭng'gwĭs). [NL. See UNGUIS.] Anat. The wall or fold of skin overlapping the nail.

Va'lois' (vȧ'lwä'), n. [F.] The house of Valois, a French royal family reigning from 1328 to 1589. — Va'lois', adj.

va·lo'ni·a (vȧ·lō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [It. vallonia, vallonea, fr. NGr. balania, balanidia, the holm oak, balani, balanidi, acorn, fr. Gr. balanos. See GLAND.] 1. The dried acorn cups of the valonia oak, and sometimes of certain other oaks. They contain from 20 to 40 per cent of tannin and are used esp. in tanning sole leather and (mixed with other substances) in dressing leather.
2. [cap.] [NL., fr. It. valonia; perh. from its resemblance to an acorn.] Bot. A genus of marine green algae constituting the family Valoniaceae. The thallus is a single oval or cylindrical multinucleate cell, often an inch long. V. ventricosa is the sea bottle.

Va·lo'ni·a'ce·ae (vȧ·lō'nĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of coenocytic green algae usually classed among the Siphonocladales, but sometimes, esp. formerly, among the Siphonales. See VALONIA, 2.—va·lo'ni·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

valonia oak. A tall evergreen oak (Quercus aegilops) of southwestern Europe and Asia Minor. Its immature fruit yields valonia and camata (see these terms) and the wood is used for furniture.

val'or (văl'ẽr), n. [ME. valour, fr. OF. valor, valur, valour (F. valeur), fr. LL. valor, fr. L. valere to be strong, or worth. See VALIANT.] 1. Value; worth. Cf. VALOUR, 3. Specif.: a Obs. Value in money; valuation. b Hist. Assessed value of church property; a list of such assessments. c Signification; full or precise import; as, to lose something of the valor of the original word in translation.
2. Also val'our. Strength of mind or spirit which enables a man to encounter danger with firmness; personal bravery.
Syn. and Ant. — See COURAGE.

val'or·i·za'tion (văl'ẽr·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. [Pg. valorização.] Act or process of attempting to give an arbitrary market value or price to a commodity, usually by governmental interference, as by maintaining a purchasing fund, making loans to producers to enable them to hold their products, etc.; price fixing by other means than equation of supply and demand; — distinguished from valuation.

val'or·ize (văl'ẽr·īz), v. t. & i. [From VALORIZATION.] To determine prices or the price of by valorization; as, to valorize coffee; to avoid valorizing.

val'or·ous (văl'ẽr·ŭs), adj. [OF. valeureux; cf. ML. valorosus.] 1. Possessing, exhibiting, or characteristic of, valor; brave.
2. Having value or worth; meritorious. Obs.
— val'or·ous·ly, adv. — val'or·ous·ness, n.

val'our (văl'ẽr), n. [See VALOR.] Chiefly Brit. 1. Obs. a Personal importance or consequence; social position or distinction. b Personal worth; virtue.
2. Hence: a Valor, or courage in danger; personal bravery. b A valorous man; a valiant man.
3. Material or monetary value; value in money, or the like; an amount, quantity, etc., equivalent in value. Cf. VALOR, 1. Obs.

Val'pa·rai'so oak (văl'pȧ·rā'zō). The canyon live oak. Calif.

Val'sa (văl'sȧ), n. [NL., of uncert. origin.] Bot. A genus of sphere fungi (order Sphaeriales) having perithecia immersed in a stroma, generally with elongated necks converging toward the center. It typifies a family, Val·sa'ce·ae (văl·sā'sē·ē). V. leucostoma causes cankers and dieback of stone fruits.

Val·sal'van (văl·săl'văn), or, incorrectly, Val·sal'vi·an (-vĭ·ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or named after, Valsalva, an Italian anatomist of the 17th century.

Valsalvan experiment. Med. The inflation of the middle ear by closing the mouth and nostrils, and blowing so as to puff out the cheeks.

Valsalvan sinus. = SINUS OF VALSALVA.

valse (vȧls; vôls), n. [F.] Music. A waltz; specif., a concert waltz. — v. i. To waltz.

val'soid (văl'soid), adj. [See -OID.] Bot. Of or pertaining to, or having perithecia like, fungi of the genus Valsa.

val'u·a·ble (văl'ū·ȧ·b'l; 59), adj. [From VALUE, v.] 1. Having monetary value; being, or capable of being, sold for (such) a price; — chiefly in comparisons; as, at present, silver is less valuable than some base metals.
2. Having relatively great monetary value; commanding or worth a good price; as, a valuable horse, farm, cargo, or franchise.
3. Of considerable worth in any respect; highly useful or serviceable; worthy; estimable; precious; as, a valuable friend; valuable counsel; discoveries valuable to mankind; valuable for many purposes.

In good hands she will turn out a valuable woman. Jane Austen.

4. Obs. a Capable of being valued or equated in value. b Valid.
Syn. — VALUABLE, PRECIOUS. That is valuable which has either permanent worth or useful qualities; PRECIOUS implies high value, whether intrinsic or resulting from some association; as, a valuable property, a valuable citizen; "[Wisdom] is more precious than rubies" (Prov. iii. 15); "precious friends" (Shak.). Cf. COSTLY, RICH, PRICE.
Ant. — Worthless, useless, cheap.
— val'u·a·ble·ness, n. — val'u·a·bly, adv.

val'u·a·ble, n. A precious possession; a thing of value, esp. a small thing, as a jewel; — used mostly in pl.

valuable consideration. Law. An equivalent or compensation having value given for a thing acquired or promised, as money, marriage, services, etc. It may consist either in some right, interest, profit, or benefit, accruing to one party, or some responsibility, forbearance, detriment, or loss, exercised by, or falling upon, the other party.

val'u·ate (văl'ū·ăt), v. t. To place a value on; to value; appraise.

val'u·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. [OF. valuacion, valuation.]
1. Act of valuing, or of estimating value or worth; specif., act of setting or determining the price of something, as land or commodity, by its market value; appraisal; as, engaged in the valuation of an estate. Cf. VALORIZATION.
2. Value set upon a thing; price as estimated or determined market value; appraised price; as, to sell at a figure above the valuation; to disagree about a valuation.
3. Estimation, usually personal estimation, as of the merit, standing, or character, of something; judgment of value or relative values; as, to take one at his own valuation; a false valuation of one's environment.
4. Obs. a Value; worth. b Market value, as of a currency or monetary metal.
5. Life Ins. The determination of the present value of a policy as measured by the difference between the present value, at the age of valuation, of the benefits promised and the present value of all the premiums expected to be received on the policy; — called gross valuation when based upon the total premiums (net premiums, plus loading, etc.), and net valuation, or usually simply valuation, when based upon the net premiums, the value in the latter case being equal to the reserve (which see). The net valuation is the one ordinarily used. Because of the expense of writing new policies, insurance companies are sometimes allowed by law to use the reserve of the first year, in whole or in part, or of the first few years, in part, to pay new business expenses, and, in reporting their legal reserves, are permitted to employ modified methods of valuation, which result, for the first few years at least, in showing a smaller liability than the full net reserve.

valuation account. Accounting. An account to be subtracted from a related account, as one showing the amount to be deducted from the machinery account for value shrinkage through depreciation.

val'u·a'tion·al (văl'ū·ā'shŭn·ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to valuation.

valuation survey. Forestry. The survey of the stand upon an average area selected for detailed measurement and valuation. Two kinds are distinguished: a The strip survey, which comprises the measurement of the stand, or a given portion of it, upon strips usually one chain wide. b The plot survey, which comprises the measurement of the stand, or a given portion of it, upon isolated plots not in the form of strips.

val'u·a'tor (văl'ū·ā'tẽr), n. An appraiser.

val'ue (văl'ū), n. [OF., fr. valoir, past part. valu, to be worth, fr. L. valere to be strong, to be worth. See VALIANT; cf. AVAL, n., VALOR.] 1. A fair return in money, goods, services, etc., for something exchanged; that which is considered an equivalent in worth; as, to get the value of one's money in a purchase; to recover the value of lost merchandise.
2. Monetary worth of a thing; marketable price; also, worth as estimated in terms of a currency or of another medium of exchange; as, what is the value of this watch?; the dollar has a present value of 19 francs; gold having the assayed value of $20,000.
3. Obs. a A standard of exchange; also, a sum in terms of a (specified) exchange. b A maritage payment. See MARITAGE b. c = VALOUR, 3.
4. The quality or fact of being worth while, excellent, useful, or desirable; worth in a thing, whether real or imputed; as, to have utmost value; to deny value to realism in art; the objective value of education.
5. Relative worth, importance, or utility; degree of excellence or usefulness; status in a scale of preferences or the like; as, to be a poor judge of values; to arrange in order of value (or values); to determine the value of evidence.
6. Estimated or assessed worth; valuation; estimation; as, to rate one's services at a high value; to give a poem a value beyond its real worth.
7. Estimate or valuation (of a person); high opinion; esteem. Now Rare.

His value of her was sincere. Jane Austen.

8. Amount or quantity; extent as of time or space. Now Dial.
9. That in a thing or kind of thing which makes possible its valuation or distinction; specif.: a Precise signification; import; as, the value of a word. b Distinctive character or quality of sound, esp. in speech; as, a character having more than one phonetic value.

---

val'id·ly, adv. of VALID. val'id·ness, n. See -NESS. val'id·ous, adj. Valid. Obs. val'inch. Var. of VELLINCH. va·lise'ful, n. See -FUL. va'li·ship, n. See -SHIP.
Val'kir. Valkyr. Ref. Sp.
Val'kyr, Val·kyr'ia, n. = VALKYRIE. [n., 1. Rare.
vall, n. [L. vallis.] = VALLEY, val'lance. Var. of VALANCE. val'leus. Var. of VALANCE. val'ley·ful, n. See -FUL. val'ley·ite, n. See 1st -ITE, 1 a. val'ley·let, n. Dim. of VALLEY. val'ley·like', adj. See -LIKE. val'ley·ward, adv. See -WARD. val'ley·wise', adv. See -WISE. vallies. ✝ VALISE. val'lis (văl'ĭs), n. [NL., fr. L. vallis valley.] = VALLECULA CEREBELLI. val·lo'ni·a (vȧ·lō'nĭ·ȧ). Var. of VALONIA. val'ly. Valley. Ref. Sp.
Val'my' (văl'mē'), n. See BATTLE, Table. va·lo'ne·a. Var. of VALONIA. valop. ✝ WALLOP. valouwe. ✝ FOLLOW.

10. Something, as a principle, quality, or the like, which is, or is regarded as, intrinsically valuable or desirable; as, to re-establish lost values in religion.
11. a That property of a color by which it is distinguished as light or dark; luminosity; brilliance. See BRILLIANCE, 2. b Degree of lightness as conditioned by the presence of white or pale color, or their opposites.
12. Art. Hence, in painting and other graphic arts, the relation of one part or detail in a picture to another with respect to lightness and darkness, esp. as affected by considerations of brightness or shadow, of distance, surface texture, and atmospheric plane. Thus a detail is out of value when it is too light or too dark to preserve the relationship of tone which it should have in the given surroundings, distance, etc.
13. Com. A valuable consideration, as in value received, a phrase often used, esp. on negotiable paper, to denote that it was given for a valuable consideration.
14. Econ.: a Efficiency in exchange; power which an object confers upon its possessor, irrespective of political compulsion or personal sentiment, to command the commodities and services of others; purchasing power in the abstract. b Concrete purchasing power; the specific quantity of another object for which a given object can be exchanged; a price which can be actually obtained. The value of an article depends, not upon its total utility, but upon its marginal utility (see these terms under UTILITY), diminishing as the supply increases. It will usually be proportionate to the cost of production, because when the value of an article is above its cost producers will tend to increase the supply, while if its value is below its cost producers will tend to diminish the supply. c Proper price; the quantity of money, goods, or services, which an article is likely to command in the long run, as distinct from its price in an individual instance; a legitimate price, as distinct from an unfair or extortionate one; — sometimes called normal value, in contrast to market value.

The commercial or competitive theory bases value upon what the buyer is willing and able to offer for an article; the socialistic theory bases it upon what the article has cost the seller in the way of toil and sacrifice. A. T. Hadley.

d The estimate which an individual places upon some of his possessions as compared with others, independently of any intent to sell; — sometimes called subjective value, or, less correctly, value in use, and employed in a loose sense as nearly equivalent to utility.

Value in use is utility, and nothing else, and in political economy should be called by that name and no other. F. A. Walker.

15. Math. & Statistics. Any particular quantitative determination; as, the different values of a variable.
16. Mining. Usually pl. The precious metals contained in rock, gravel, or the like; as, the vein carries good values; the values on the hanging walls.
17. Music. The relative length or duration of a tone or note, corresponding to quantity in prosody; thus, a quarter note has the value of two eighth notes.
Syn. — See PRICE.
— at value. Com. At the value fixed by the ruling, or current, market price; — a phrase used where goods are sold subject to the price being fixed at some time later than the sale, as when shipment is made. — in chief value (of). Customs. For the most part; chiefly; consisting principally (of); as, woven fabrics wholly or in chief value of wool.

val'ue (văl'ū), v. t.; VAL'UED (-ūd); VAL'U-ING (-ū-ĭng). [From VALUE, n.] 1 To estimate the value or worth of; to rate with respect esp. to price or value; to appraise; — often with at; as, the jewels will be valued; to value a house at $10,000; also, Now Rare, to estimate the number, power, quantity, or strength, of.

The queen is valued thirty thousand strong. Shak.

2. To rate in value, usefulness, excellence, etc.; to place in a scale of values; as, to value honor above riches or one's life as a song.
3. To rate highly; to hold in high esteem; to prize; as, one who values his friends or his books; also, to plume or give great credit to (oneself); to value oneself on being successful.
4. Obs. a To be worth; to be equal to in value.

The peace between the French and us not values
The cost that did conclude it. Shak.

b To take account of; to heed; esp., to regard as important or significant.

In sickness . . . the mind doth value every moment. Bacon.

c To make valuable or of value; to enhance in value. Obs.

Some value themselves to their country by jealousies of the crown. Sir W. Temple.

d To speak in commendation or praise of.
Syn. — Evaluate, compute; cherish, respect. See ESTIMATE.
Ant. — Disdain, scorn, contemn. See DESPISE.

val'ued (văl'ūd), adj. Having been given a value; esp., highly regarded; esteemed; prized; as, a valued friend; a valued opinion.
value date. The date when the proceeds of a credit instrument, as a check, or of a foreign exchange transaction, as the sale of dollars for sterling, become available for use. Called also here and there. Chiefly Brit.
val'ued-pol'i-cy law. Fire Insurance. A law requiring insurance companies to pay to the insured, in case of total loss, the full amount of the insurance, regardless of the actual value of the property at the time of the loss.
val'ue-less, adj. Of no value; worthless; not valued. value of service. Railroad Transportation. The highest sum which any particular class of shippers can afford to pay rather than forgo sending their goods by the route charging it. Imposition of transportation charges on this basis is called "charging what the traffic will bear."
val'u-er (văl'ū-ẽr), n. One who values; an appraiser. Chiefly Brit.
value received. A phrase usually employed in a bill of exchange or a promissory note, to denote that it was not given without a consideration, as if an accommodation note.
value stress. Phonet. Sentence stress that enhances the importance of a word; emphasis.
‖va·lu'ta (vä-lōō'tä), n. [It., fr. valere to be worth, fr. L valere. See VALUE.] Value; worth; specif., the value of any currency, as of certain European countries, as agreed upon, or its exchange value with reference to the currency of another (specified) country.
‖val'va (văl'vä), n.; pl. VALVAE (-vē). [L. See VALVE.] Anat. A valve. valv'al (văl'văl), valv'ar (văl'vẽr), adj. [From VALVE.] Biol. Valvular. valval view. Bot. The view of a diatom in which the surface of one of the valves is next the observer; a side view; — opposed to zonal view.
Val·va'ta (văl-vā'tä), n. [NL. See VALVATE.] Zool. A genus of fresh-water, operculate snails having the gill attached only by its base, so that it forms a featherlike process outside the shell when extended. It constitutes a family, Val·va'ti·dae (-văt'ĭ-dē) of the suborder Taenioglossa.
val'vate (văl'vāt), adj. [L. valvatus having folding doors. See VALVE.] Having valves or valvelike parts; specif.: Bot. a Meeting at the edges without overlapping; — said of sepals or petals in estivation, and of leaves in vernation. b Opening as if by doors or valves, as most capsules, some anthers, etc.
valve (välv), n. [L. valva the leaf, fold, or valve of a door; akin to L. volvere to roll, turn. See VOLUBLE.] 1. One of a pair of folding doors, or one of the leaves of such a door. Archaic.
2. The door or gate of a sluice, for regulating the flow of water.
3. Anything suggestive of a valve, esp. in regulating, checking, or permitting the flow of something.
4. Anat. Any of various structures for temporarily closing a passage or orifice or for permitting a movement of fluid in one direction only. It may consist of a sphincter muscle or of two, sometimes three, membranous folds inclined in the normal direction of flow. Reversal of this direction causes their free edges to come together. Such valves are numerous in the veins and lymphatics. See also MITRAL VALVE; TRICUSPID VALVE; SEMILUNAR VALVE.
5. Archaeol. One of the two halves of a stone or clay mold for casting bronze objects.
6. Bot. a One of the segments or pieces into which a dehiscing capsule or legume separates. b The lidlike portion of certain anthers, as of the barberry. c One of the two silicified shells or incasing membranes of a diatom.
7. Elec. Any device, as a kind of vacuum tube or of electrolytic cell, that permits a flow of current in one direction only, used esp. for rectifying alternating currents; specif., Chiefly Brit., an electron tube.
8. Mach. Any of numerous devices by which the flow of liquid, air or other gas, loose material in bulk, etc., may be started, stopped, or regulated by a movable part which opens, shuts, or partially obstructs one or more ports or passageways; also, the movable part of such a device. Cf. 1st COCK, 6. The movable part may be a hinged lid or disk, a ball which lifts or rolls, a plug or disk with beveled edge fitting in a correspondingly shaped seat, a swiveling or flat plate, any of many variously shaped sliding devices, a rocking or rotating plug or cylinder partly cut away to permit flow in certain positions, etc. Valves may be operated by the difference of fluid pressure on opposite sides of the movable part, by hand, or mechanically. They often close by their own weight or by a spring. See ALARM VALVE, CHECK VALVE, CUTOFF VALVE, DRY-PIPE VALVE, GATE VALVE, LIFT VALVE, PISTON VALVE, ROCKING VALVE, SAFETY VALVE, SLIDE VALVE, THROTTLE VALVE, etc.

Sectional view of a Globe Valve, showing: 1 Handwheel; 2 Stem, or Spindle; 3 Stuffing Nut; 4 Stuffing Box; 5 Bonnet; 6 Bonnet Ring; 7, 7 Body, or Case; 8 Lock Nut; 9 Disk; 10, 10 Pipe Ends.

☞ COMBINATIONS in this sense are:

valve body	valve filter	valve plate valve box	valve fitting	valve rod valve cage	valve generator	valve seat valve cap	valve grinder	valve spring valve casing	valve-grinding, adj.	valve stem valve casting	valve handle	valve tool valve chamber	valve housing	valve travel valve control	valve indicator	valve washer valve coupling	valve key	valve wrench valve cup	valve line

9. Music. A device in instruments of the horn and trumpet class for quickly varying the tube length in order to change the fundamental tone by some definite interval. It is usually either a form of piston or rotary valve. In the piston valve, the piston works up and down in a cylinder having three openings, one of which connects with the main tube when the piston is in its normal position, the other two serving to connect the extra crook with the main tube when the piston is depressed. The rotary valve constitutes a kind of four-way cock turning in a cylinder, two of the openings serving to connect the parts of the main channel, the other two (when the lever is pressed down) connecting the extra crook as in the piston valve. Three valves are commonly used, lowering the tone respectively by a step, a half step, and a step and a half. By their means the natural brass instruments are rendered chromatic.
10. Zool. a One of the distinct pieces, usually movably articulated, of which the shell of lamellibranch mollusks, brachiopods, barnacles, and some other shell-bearing animals consists. b One of the pieces forming the sheath of the ovipositor or external genital organs of many insects.
valve (välv), v. t. & i. To furnish with a valve or valves; to control the flow or escape (of) by means of a valve; specif., to allow (balloon gas) to escape by opening a valve.
valve chest. Also valve box. Mach. A chamber in which a valve works; specif., a steam chest.
valved (välvd), adj. Having a valve or valves; valvate. valve diagram. Steam Engin. A diagram illustrating the motion of a valve gear. See VALVE ELLIPSE. For valves having harmonic motion, as the slide valve, the diagram, as a Bilgram, a Reuleaux, or a Zenner, diagram, shows the interdependence of the four variables, outside lap, exhaust lap, angular advance, and valve travel, with the four events of opening and closure, the points of admission, cutoff, compression, and release.
valve ellipse. Steam Engin. A valve diagram for any valve, as a Corliss-engine valve, in which valve displacements, as ordinates, are plotted against per cent of stroke. valve file. See 4th FILE, 1. valve gear. Mach. Any of numerous gears by which motion is given to the valve or valves of an engine, esp. of a steam engine; specif., such a gear for a steam engine by which the cutoff may be varied while the engine is running, and the engine started, stopped, or reversed. The link motion (which see) forms an important class of valve gears, and is simplified in the radial gear by replacing either or both of the eccentrics, and sometimes also the slotted link, by one or more radius rods, etc. Hackworth's valve gear (fig. 1 in Illust.) is a typical radial gear with one eccentric. Reversing is effected by tilting over the slotted link (C) to the dotted position. Joy's valve gear (fig. 2) takes its motion from the connecting rod (D), as do some others. Marshall's valve gear (fig. 3) has one eccentric and no slotted link. Reversing is accomplished by moving over the swinging link (not shown) which carries the pivoted support (E) of the radius rod. Walschaert's gear is driven in part from the crosshead of the engine and in part from an adjustable eccentric, used to modify the effect of the crosshead drive. In locomotives a supplementary outside crank takes the place of the eccentric. The Corliss valve gear is a trip gear in which a central wrist plate, moved by an eccentric rod, operates four rocking valves, one steam valve and one exhaust valve at each end of the cylinder.

Valve Gears. A Valve Rod; B Eccentric.

valve'-in-head' en'gine. Mach. An internal-combustion engine in which both inlet and exhaust valves are located in the cylinder head; — called also overhead-valve engine.
valve'less, adj. Having no valve or valves; specif., Mach., having no separate valve, as a two-cycle engine in which the piston, in covering or uncovering port openings in the cylinder, acts as a valve to control admission and exhaust.
valve'let, n. A little valve; a valvule; esp., one of the pieces which compose the outer covering of a pericarp. valve'man (välv'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A valve operator. valve motion. = VALVE GEAR. valve of Bau'hin' (bō'ăN'). [After G. Bauhin, French anatomist.] Anat. The ileocaecal valve. valve of Ger'lach (gĕr'läk). [After J. von Gerlach (1820–96), Ger. anatomist.] Anat. An inconstant fold of mucous membrane, resembling a valve, at the caecal end of the vermiform appendix. valve of Has'ner (häs'nẽr). [After Joseph von Hasner (1819–92), Austrian oculist.] Anat. An imperfect valve at the opening of the nasolachrymal duct into the inferior meatus of the nose. valve of Heis'ter (hīs'tẽr). [After L. Heister (1683–1758), Ger. anatomist.] = VALVULA SPIRALIS. valve of Hous'ton (hous'tŭn). [After J. Houston (1802–45), Ir. physician.] = RECTAL VALVE. valve of Kerck'ring (kĕrk'rĭng). [After Theodor Kerckring (1640–93), Ger. physician.] Anat. = PLICA CIRCULARIS. valve of The·be'si·us (tē·bē'zĭ·ŭs). [After A. C. Thebesius (1686–1732), Ger. physician.] Anat. = CORONARY VALVE. valve of Vieus'sens' (vyū'sănsʹ). [After R. Vieussens (1641–1715), French anatomist.] Anat. The anterior medullary velum. See MEDULLARY VELUM. valve ring. = RELIEF FRAME. valve trombone. Music. An instrument similar in shape

Valve Trombone.

to the ordinary, or slide, trombone but with three piston valves instead of a slide.
valve trumpet. Music. The ordinary trumpet with three valves. valve view. = VALVAL VIEW.
val·vif'er·ous (văl·vĭf'ẽr·ŭs), adj. [valve + -ferous.] Having a valve or valves.
valv'i·form (văl'vĭ·fôrm), adj. Valve-shaped.
val·vot'o·my (văl·vŏt'ō·mĭ), n. Surgical incision into, or division of, a valve; specif., division of the rectal valves. val'vu·la (văl'vū·lä), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [NL., dim. fr. L. valva valve of a door.] Anat. A little valve or fold.
‖val'vu·la co'li (kō'lĭ). [NL.] = ILEOCAECAL VALVE.
‖val'vu·la con·ni'vens (kŏ·nī'vĕnz); pl. VALVULAE CONNIVENTES (-lē kŏn'ĭ·vĕn'tēz). [NL., closing valve.] = PLICA CIRCULARIS. val'vu·lar (văl'vū·lẽr), adj. [Cf. F. valvulaire.] 1. Of or pertaining to a valve or valves; specif., Med., of or pertaining to the valves of the heart; as, valvular disease.
2. Containing, or opening by, valves; serving as a valve; also, valviform; valved.
‖val'vu·la spi·ra'lis (spī·rā'lĭs). [NL. See SPIRAL.] Anat. A series of crescentic folds of mucous membrane somewhat spirally arranged on the interior of the gall bladder, continuing into the cystic duct; — called also valve of Heister. val'vu·late (văl'vū·lāt), adj. [See VALVULA.] Having valvules. val'vule (văl'vūl), n. [F.] A small valve or valvelike structure. val'vu·li'tis (văl'vū·lī'tĭs), n. [NL. See VALVULA; -ITIS.] Med. Inflammation of a valve, esp. of the heart.
val'vu·lo- (văl'vū·lō-), valvul-. A combining form for valvula, as in val'vu·li'tis, val'vu·lo·tome, val'vu·lot'o·my. See -ITIS, etc.
val'yl (văl'ĭl), n. [valine + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical $C_5H_{10}NO$, of valine. Cf. BENZOYL. val'yl·ene (văl'ĭ·lēn), n. [valerian + -yl + -ene.] Chem. A liquid mixture of isomeric unsaturated hydrocarbons, C_5H_8, obtained indirectly from valerylene (the mixture). vam'brace (văm'brās), n. [F. avant-bras, lit., forearm, fr. avant fore + bras arm.] In medieval armor, the piece designed to protect the forearm. See REREBRACE, Illust. — vam'braced (-brāst), adj. vam'font (văm'fŏnt), n. sing. & pl. [Hung. vámfont, fr. vám duty, custom + font pound, fr. MHG. pfunt.] See WEIGHT, Table.
vam'ma'zsa (văm'mä'zhä), n. sing. & pl. [Hung. vámmázsa, fr. vám duty, custom + mázsa hundredweight.] See WEIGHT, Table. va·moose' (vä·mōōs'), v. i. [Sp. vamos let us go. Cf. MOSEY to go.] To depart quickly; to decamp. — v. t. To depart from. Slang.
vamp (vămp), n. [ME. vampe, vampe, fr. OF. avanpié (F. avant-pied), fr. avant before, fore + pié, pied, foot, fr. L. pes, pedis. See AVANT; FOOT. Cf. ADVANTAGE, VAN of an army.] 1. A short hose coming to the calf, formerly sometimes worn over a stocking; a sock. Now Dial.
2. The part of a boot or shoe above the sole and welt, and in front of the ankle seam; an upper. See SHOE, Illust. A whole, or full, vamp is a one-piece upper seamed at the center of the heel. A three-quarter vamp extends from the inner side of the shank around the toe to the back seam. A circular vamp covers the fore part of the foot valued policy. See 3d POLICY, 1. val'ue-less-ness, n. See -NESS. val'ure, n. Worth; valor; value. Obs. val'ur-ous, adj. Valuable. Obs. valv. Valve. Ref. Sp. val'va-sor (văl'vä-sŏr). Var. of VAVASOR. valve'like', adj. See -LIKE. valve'-shaped', adj. See -SHAPED. valvul-. = VALVULO-. valyaunt. ✝ VALIANT. vam'brash, v. i. [Origin uncert.] To brandish. Obs.

‖va'mos (vä'mōs), v. i. [Sp.] = VAMOOSE, v. i. [Of VAMOOSE.] va·moose' (vä·mōs'; văm'ōs). Var.

and extends to the ball. A brogued vamp has a long and generally perforated tip extension along each side of the shoe.
3. [From 2d VAMP.] Something vamped or patched up; esp., a literary composition based on old material; specif., Music. a A simple accompaniment improvised for the occasion. b An introductory section of two or four measures, often played several times, esp. in vaudeville, before a solo or between verses while the soloist is preparing to sing or is indulging in byplay.

vamp (vămp), v.; VAMPED (vămpt); VAMP'ING. Transitive: 1. To provide, as a shoe, with a new vamp; to revamp; hence, to piece, as any old thing, with a new part; to patch; — with together or up.

I had never much hopes of your vamped play. Swift.

2. Hence, to invent; to concoct; to fabricate; — with up.
3. To make (one) into something else; to bring forth; — with second object following as or an objective complement. Obs.
4. To walk or tramp over or along. Dial.
5. Music. To make a vamp to; to improvise.
——, Intransitive: To go on foot; to tramp; plod. Now Dial. Eng.

vamp, n. A volunteer fireman. Slang, U. S.

vamp, n. Short for VAMPIRE, n., 2; in jocose use, one who uses her charm or wiles to gain admiration and attentions from the opposite sex. Slang.

vamp, v. t. [From VAMP vampire.] To treat as a vamp; to play the vamp with; to beguile into admiration or attentions. — v. i. To play vampire parts or the part of a vamp. Both Slang.

vamped (vămpt), adj. Usually vamped'-up'. a Patched up; repaired. b Made up of old materials; refurbished; not fresh or original. c Trumped up; fabricated.

vamp'er (vămp'ĕr), n. 1. One who vamps.
2. Shoe Mfg. A closer who stitches quarters to vamps.

vamp'er (văm'pĕr), v. i. [Cf. dial. vamp, and E. VAPOR, v., VAUNT.] To boast; to bluster; to pose. Scot. & N. of Eng.

vamp'horn' (vămp'hôrn'), n. [vamp to improvise (see 2d VAMP, 5) + horn.] A kind of megaphone used in churches during the 18th and early 19th centuries.

vam'pire (văm'pīr), n. Also vam'pyre. [F., fr. G. vampir, fr. Slav.; cf. Russ., Bulg., Serb. vampir, Bulg. vapir, vepir, Ukrainian upyr, uper; appar. of Ural-Altaic origin; cf. Turk. dial. uber witch.] 1. A bloodsucking ghost or reanimated body of a dead person; a soul or reanimated body of a dead person believed to come from the grave and wander about by night sucking the blood of persons asleep, causing their death. This superstition is still prevalent in parts of eastern Europe, including Greece and the Balkan countries, and was esp. current in Hungary about 1730.
2. One who lives by preying on others; an extortioner; a bloodsucker; hence, in a play, novel, etc., a mercenary, seductive type of character; commonly, a woman who uses her attractions to win passionate love and to bring her lover to a debased, humiliated, or impoverished, condition; also, an actress who plays such parts.
3. Also vampire bat. Any of various bats popularly reputed to feed on blood; — hence called also bloodsucking bats; esp.: a The great or false vampire (Vampyrum spectrum) and members of the genus Phyllostomus, large South and Central American insectivorous leaf-nosed bats. b Any of the true vampires of South America, comprising the genera Desmodus and Diphylla of the family Desmodontidae, which are modified to subsist on blood. The incisor and canine teeth are adapted to slitting the skin of the victim, the stomach is small and tubular, and the intestine is short and ill-suited to food other than blood. Though small, these bats, when present in numbers, are dangerous to man and domestic animals, esp. as they sometimes are vectors of equine trypanosomiasis and of rabies. c Loosely, any bat, esp., any large Old World bat, as the fruit bats. None of this group actually feed on blood though certain forms are destructive pests of cultivated fruit.

Skull of True Vampire (Desmodus). (⅔)

4. A kind of stage trap door for sudden disappearances.

vam'pire, v. t. To prey upon or exhaust as a vampire.

vam'pire, adj. Vampirish.

vam·pir'ic (văm·pĭr'ĭk), adj. Pert. to or like a vampire.

vam'pir·ish (văm'pīr·ĭsh), adj. Of, pertaining to, resembling, or characteristic of, a vampire.

vam'pir·ism (văm'pĭr·ĭz'm; văm'pĭ·rĭz'm), n. [Cf. F. vampirisme.] 1. Belief in vampires (the ghosts).
2. The actions of a vampire; act or practice of bloodsucking; also, the practice of preying upon others, esp. upon a lover.

vam'pir·ize (-īz), v. t. & i. To exhaust or suck in the manner of a vampire; to play the vampire.

vam'plate' (văm'plāt'), n. [AF. (a)vant before, fore + plate plate.] A round plate of iron on the shaft of a lance or tilting spear, to protect the hand.

Vam'py·rel'la (văm'pĭ·rĕl'ä), n. [NL., dim. See VAMPYRUS, VAMPIRE.] Zool. A genus of protozoans (order Amoebida) comprising small amoeboid forms, ectoparasitic on algae. It typifies a family, Vam'py·rel'li·dae (-l·dē).

Vam'py·rum (văm'pĭ·rŭm), n. [NL.] Zool. The genus which includes the great vampire. See VAMPIRE, n., 3.

van (văn), n. [F., fr. L. vannus a van, or fan, for winnowing grain; or dial. form of E. fan. See FAN.] 1. A fan or other winnowing device. Now Dial.
2. Poetic. a A wing. "Plumy vans." Milton. b A windmill's sail.
3. A shovel used in dressing ore; also, the process of testing ore on such a shovel. Cf. VANNER, 2. Dial. Eng.

van, v. t.; VANNED (vănd); VAN'NING. [Cf. F. vanner to winnow, to fan. See VAN a fan.] 1. To winnow with a van; to fan. Obs.
2. To dress (ore) with a van or vanner. Dial. Eng.

van (văn), n. [Abbr. fr. VANGUARD.] The front of an army, fleet, or advancing body, composed of individuals; specif., in a military formation, the leading unit; hence, the front or those at the front of any line, movement, etc.; as, a nation in the van of progress.

van, v. t. To be in the van of; to lead. Rare.

van, n. [Abbr. fr. CARAVAN.] 1. A light wagon, usually covered, used by tradesmen and others for the transportation of goods. Eng.
2. A large covered vehicle, now usually motorized, used for moving furniture, for trucking, etc.; also, such a vehicle used for conveying wild beasts, etc., for exhibition. Chiefly U.S.
3. A closed railway car for baggage. See CAR, n., 2. Eng.
4. In a lumber camp, a small general store, sometimes on wheels, at which clothing, tobacco, and other small articles for the crew are kept for sale. Local, U. S. and Canada.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

van attendant	van driver	van loader
van boy	van load	van owner
van builder

van (văn), v. t. To carry or forward in a van. — v. i. To travel in a van.

‖van (văn; Eng. văn), prep. [D. Cf. VON.] Of; from.
☞ In foreign practice, the van of personal names is written with a small "v"; in American and British usage the style of the individual owner of the name is generally followed. For the alphabetization, in this Dictionary, of names with van, see the notes preceding the Biographical Dictionary.

van (văn), n. [W. fan, ban. Cf. 1st BEN.] A summit, as of a hill. Rare.

Van (văn), n. a = URARTU. b One of the Vannic people.

van, n. Tennis. Short for ADVANTAGE, n., 6. Brit.

van-. Short for vant-, as in vanguard.

van'a·date (văn'ä·dāt), n. Also va·na'di·ate (vä·nā'dĭ·āt). [Cf. F. vanadate.] Chem. A salt or ester of vanadic acid.

va·nad'ic (vä·năd'ĭk; -nā'dĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or containing vanadium; specif., designating those compounds in which vanadium has a relatively higher valence than in the vanadous compounds; as, vanadic oxide, V_2O_5.

vanadic acid. Chem. a Any of a number of acids (known with certainty only in their salts) regarded as hydrates of vanadium pentoxide, V_2O_5, as orthovanadic acid, H_3VO_4, metavanadic acid, HVO_3, and pyrovanadic acid, $H_4V_2O_7$. A golden-yellow crystalline solid said to be metavanadic acid is used as a pigment under the name of vanadium bronze. Many salts of more complex acids are also known. b Vanadium pentoxide, V_2O_5.

vanadic anhydride. Chem. See VANADIUM OXIDE.

vanadic oxide. Chem. See VANADIUM OXIDE.

van'a·dif'er·ous (văn'ä·dĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Containing or yielding vanadium.

va·nad'i·nite (vä·năd'ĭ·nīt), n. Mineral. A mineral occurring in yellowish, brownish, and ruby-red, hexagonal crystals. It consists of lead vanadate with a small proportion of lead chloride. H., 2.75–3. Sp. gr., 6.66–7.10.

va·na'di·um (vä·nā'dĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. ON. Vanadīs, a name of the goddess Freya.] Chem. An element of the same group (V) of the periodic table as nitrogen and phosphorus, found combined in many minerals, usually in small quantities, and isolated as a brilliant steel-white metal, quite malleable, soft, and ductile. Symbol, V; at. no., 23; at. wt., 50.95. Vanadium was discovered in 1801 in vanadinite by Del Rio, who named it erythronium, but afterward considered it to be a compound of chromium. It was rediscovered in 1830 by Sefström and renamed vanadium. The metal finds its chief use as a constituent of vanadium steel. Chemically, vanadium is both basic and acid; its valences are 2, 3, 4, and 5, the last being the most stable.

vanadium bronze. See VANADIC ACID a.

vanadium family. Chem. The elements vanadium, columbium (niobium), tantalum, and protoactinium, forming a subdivision of group V of the periodic table.

vanadium oxide. Chem. Any oxide of vanadium. Vanadium monoxide (vanadium dioxide), or hypovanadous oxide, VO or V_2O_2, is obtained as a metallic gray powder. Vanadium trioxide or sesquioxide, V_2O_3, is a black crystalline solid. Vanadium tetroxide (vanadium dioxide), or hypovanadic oxide, V_2O_4 or VO_2, occurs in dark-blue crystals. Vanadium pentoxide, or vanadic oxide or anhydride, V_2O_5, is obtained usually as yellowish-red crystals or as a yellow colloidal solution, and is used as a catalyst and in medicine, photography, etc.

vanadium steel. a Steel alloyed with vanadium (usually about 0.10 to 0.15 per cent), an element which strengthens the steel and serves to remove oxygen and possibly nitrogen. b Steel alloyed with vanadium and other elements, esp. chromium. See CHROME-VANADIUM STEEL.

van'a·do- (văn'ä·dō-), vanad-. Chem. A combining form for vanadium.

van'a·do·sil'i·cate (-sĭl'ĭ·kāt), n. Chem. & Mineral. A combined vanadate and silicate. Cf. ARDENNITE.

van'a·dous (văn'ä·dŭs), va·na'di·ous (vä·nā'dĭ·ŭs), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or containing vanadium; specif., designating compounds in which vanadium has a lower valence than in vanadic compounds.

vanadous oxide. Chem. a = VANADIUM TRIOXIDE. b = VANADIUM MONOXIDE. See VANADIUM OXIDE.

van'a·dyl (văn'ä·dĭl), n. [vanad- + -yl.] Chem. a The radical VO, usually bivalent or trivalent. b Less often, the univalent radical VO_2.

Va'na·heim' (vä'nä·hām'; cf. VANIR), Va'na·heimr (-hām'r), n. [ON. Vanaheimr.] Norse Myth. The home of the Vanir, one of the Nine Worlds.

va·na·pras'tha (vŭn'ä·prŭs'thä), n. [Skr.] Hinduism. A forest-dwelling hermit, esp. one in the third stage of the Brahmanical scheme of life. See ASHRAMA b.

van'cou·rier' (văn'kōō·rēr'), n. [F. avant-courier. See VAUNT-COURIER.] Avant-courier; precursor. Archaic.

Van'cou·ve'ri·a (văn'kōō·vē'rĭ·ä), n. [NL., from Fort Vancouver, Wash.] Bot. A genus of two species of western North American herbs (family Berberidaceae), having dissected basal leaves and small panicled white flowers with numerous sepals and six petals. From their relationship to Epimedium, the plants have been called American barrenworts. See BARRENWORT c.

Van'da (văn'dä), n. [NL., fr. Hind. vandā mistletoe, fr. Skr. vandā a parasitic plant.] 1. Bot. a A genus of Indo-Malayan epiphytic orchids, distinguished by the loose racemes of large flowers with spreading perianth, the lip being saccate at the base. Several are cultivated for ornament. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.
2. [not cap.] A color, blue-red in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. It is slightly bluer and of lower saturation than crocus, and slightly bluer and of lower saturation and higher brilliance than Campanula violet. Cf. COLOR.

Van'dal (văn'dăl), n. [L. Vandalus, Vandalius, of Teut. origin.] 1. One of a Germanic people anciently dwelling south of the Baltic between the Vistula and the Oder. In the 4th and 5th centuries they overran Gaul, Spain, and northern Africa, and in 455 entered Italy and sacked Rome, destroying many monuments of art and literature. Their final stronghold, the Vandal kingdom of North Africa, was overthrown by Belisarius in 534. See HERMINONES.
2. [usually not cap.] One who willfully destroys or mars anything beautiful, as a work of art; also, a wanton or ignorant destroyer or defacer of any building, monument, etc., which should be preserved; as, to protect a museum against vandals.

Van'dal, van'dal (văn'dăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, Vandals or vandals; carelessly or ignorantly destructive; given to vandalism.

van'dal·ish, adj. Having the character of a Vandal; done, or appearing as if done, by Vandals; wantonly destructive.

van'dal·ism (văn'dăl·ĭz'm), n. 1. The spirit or conduct of, or like that of, the Vandals; hostility to, or willful destruction or defacement of, things of beauty, as works of art, literature, historical monuments, etc.
2. An act of a Vandal or vandal.

van'dal·is'tic (văn'dăl·ĭs'tĭk), adj. Given to, or manifesting, vandalism; vandal; vandalic.

van'dal·ize (văn'dăl·īz), v. t. & i. To subject to, or indulge in, vandalism; to treat in the fashion of vandals. — van'dal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

van'dal·root' (-rōōt'), n. a The common valerian (Valeriana officinalis). b Pharm. = VALERIAN, 2 b. van'de·las (văn'dĕ·lăs), n. [From Le Vendelais, a former district of Brittany.] A coarse canvas of Brittany. Obs.

Van'de·mo'ni·an (văn'dē·mō'nĭ·ăn), n. Also Van'die·me'ni·an (-dē·mē'nĭ·ăn), Van'die·mo'ni·an (-mō'nĭ·ăn). [From Van Diemen's Land, after Anton Van Diemen (1593–1645), Dutch governor of Java.] A white inhabitant of Tasmania, formerly known as Van Diemen's Land; esp., one penally transported there before 1853. Hist.

Van'de·mo'ni·an, adj. Of, pertaining to, or designating, a Vandemonian; hence, violent or ruffianly. — Van'de·mo'ni·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Both Now Rare.

van den Bergh re·ac'tion (văn dĕn bĕrĸ; văn dĕn bûrg). [After A. A. H. van den Bergh, Dutch physician.] Med. A reaction indicated by the formation of a red color when a diazotizing reagent is added to serum containing bilirubin. It constitutes a test (van den Bergh test) for bilirubinemia, as in jaundice and destructive diseases of the liver.

Van'der·deck'en (văn'dĕr·dĕk'ĕn), n. The name of the Flying Dutchman, in some forms of the legend.

van der Waals' e·qua'tion (văn dĕr väls; văn dĕr wälz). [After J. D. van der Waals (1837–1923), Dutch physicist.] Physical Chem. An equation for defining the physical state of a homogeneous gas or liquid: $(p + \frac{a}{v^2})(v - b) = RT$, where p is the pressure, v the volume, R the gas constant, T the absolute temperature, and a and b are constants (a is van der Waals' volume constant and b is van der Waals' pressure constant). It is a modification of the fundamental gas equation to fit actual conditions. $\frac{a}{v^2}$ corresponds to the cohesion between molecules and b to the volume occupied by the molecules.

Van·dyke' (văn·dīk'), adj. Of or pertaining to the style of Van Dyck, or Vandyke, the painter; used or represented by Van Dyck.

Van·dyke', n. 1. A picture by Van Dyck.
2. Short for VANDYKE BEARD, VANDYKE CAPE, VANDYKE COLLAR, VANDYKE EDGE.
3. One of the triangular points of a deeply indented border as that of a Vandyke collar or edge. Cf. SCALLOP, n., 3.
4. [not cap.] A brown opaque print similar to a blue-print except in color; also, the paper on which it is made.

Van·dyke' (văn·dīk'), v. t.; VAN·DYKED' (-dīkt'); VAN·DYK'ING (-dīk'ĭng). To fit or furnish with a Vandyke; to form with points or deep indentations like a Vandyke; to give or form a Vandyke-edged line or border to or upon. — v. i. To follow a course suggestive of a Vandyke edge.

Vandyke beard. A trim, pointed beard, such as those often seen in pictures by Van Dyck.

Vandyke brown. 1. A deep-brown pigment of uncertain identity, used by the painter Van Dyck; hence, any of various brown pigments, as a natural earth resembling umber, a preparation of charred cork, a mixture of lamp-black and Indian red, etc.
2. A color, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Called also Cologne brown, Verona brown. Cf. COLOR.

Vandyke collar or cape. A broad collar or shoulder cape of fine linen and lace with a deep pointed or indented edge; — so called from its appearance in pictures by Van Dyck.

Vandyke edge. A sharp-pointed edge of a collar, cape, or similar garment. — Van·dyke'-edged', adj.

Vandyke red. [After A. Van Dyck, or Vandyke, Flemish painter.] 1. A color, red in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. It is yellower than raspberry, and less yellow and of higher brilliance than garnet. Cf. COLOR.
2. Copper ferrocyanide, $Cu_2Fe(CN)_6$, obtained artificially as a brownish-red powder and used as a pigment.

vane (vān), n. [ME., dial. form of fane weathercock, banner, fr. AS. fana a banner, flag; akin to D. vaan, G. fahne, OHG. fano cloth, gund*fano* flag, ON. gunn*fani,* Sw. fana, Dan. fane, Goth. fana cloth, L. pannus, Gr. pēnos, pēnē, pēnion, the thread wound upon a bobbin, the woof, web, fabric. Cf. FANON, PANE, 1st PANIC.] 1. A contrivance attached to some elevated object so as to be moved by the wind, to show which way the wind blows; a weathercock. It is usually a plate or strip of metal, or slip of wood, often cut into some fanciful form, and placed upon a perpendicular axis around which it moves freely. On a ship or other vessel it is usually a small streamer or a slender cone of cloth, placed at the masthead.
2. Any flat extended surface attached to an axis and moved by the wind; as, the vane of a windmill; hence, a similar fixture of any form moved in or by water, air, or other fluid; as, the vane of a propeller, a fan blower, etc.
3. Figuratively, one who or that which is easily shifted or moved; one characteristically unstable.
4. The web or flat expanded part of a feather, formed of the barbs and their appendages. See FEATHER, n., 1.
5. Archery. A feather fastened to the shaft near the nock of an arrow.
6. Surv. a The target of a leveling staff. b One of the sights of a compass, quadrant, etc.

vaned (vānd), adj. Having a vane or vanes.

Va·nel'lus (vä·nĕl'ŭs), n. [NL., fr. F. vanneau lapwing, fr. van fan. See 1st VAN.] Zool. The genus of birds including the lapwings.

Va·nes'sa (vä·nĕs'ä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. Phanēs, a mystic divinity in the Orphic system.] Zool. a A genus of butterflies; — properly applied to the genus (often called Pyrameis) to which the red admiral, painted beauty, etc., belong. b [not cap.] A butterfly of the genus Vanessa. — va·nes'si·an (-ĭ·ăn), n.

---

vamp'ey, n. = 1st VAMP, 1 & 2.
— v. t. = 2d VAMP, v. t., 1. Both Obs. vampire bat. See VAMPIRE, n., 3. vam'pire·proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF. vamp'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF. vampt. Vamped. Ref. Sp. vam'pyre. Var. of VAMPIRE. vamure. † VAUMURE.
va·na'di·ous (vä·nā'dĭ·ŭs). Var. of VANADOUS.
Vance, Joseph. See JOSEPH VANCE. vand. Vanned. Ref. Sp.
Van·dal'ic (văn·dăl'ĭk), adj. [sometimes not cap.] = VANDAL, adj. van'dew, van'doo. Dial. vars. of VENDUE.
Van·dyck' (văn·dĭk'). Var. of VANDYKE. vane'less, adj. See -LESS. vane'like', adj. See -LIKE.

Van·es'sa (văn·ĕs'ȧ), n. [From Vanhomrigh + Essa, Swift's name for Esther.] A name given by Swift to Esther Vanhomrigh, a young lady whose proposal of marriage to him is the theme of his poem Cadenus and Vanessa.

van'foss' (văn'fŏs'), n. [F. avant-fossé, fr. avant before + fossé ditch. See AVANT; FOSSE. Cf. 1st VAMP.] Fort. A ditch on the glacis close to the counterscarp, usually filled with water.

vang (văng), n. [D. vang a catch, curb, fr. vangen to catch, seize. See FANG.] Naut. One of two ropes extending from the peak of a gaff to steady it when the sail is not set.

van'gee (văn'jē), n. [Origin unknown.] Naut. A barrel fitted with cranks, used in pumping a vessel. Now Rare.

van·ge'li (văn·jā'lē), n. pl. [It., lit., evangels.] Italian religious plays on the Gospels.

van'glo, van'gloe (văng'glō), n. [Also vangala, fr. Kongo wangila.] Sesame. W. Ind.

van'guard' (văn'gärd'), n. [For vantguard, avant-guard, fr. OF. avant-garde, fr. avant before, fore + garde guard. See AVANT, AVAUNT; GUARD. Cf. 1st VAMP.] 1. Mil. The troops who march in front of an army; the van; specif., formerly, the more advanced part of an advance guard.
2. Hence, one who or that which is in the forefront; as, he was in the vanguard of literary thought.

van guard. A guard for a van, truck, or the like.

Van'guard'ist, n. One of the Avanguardisti.

Van·gue'ri·a (văn·gwĕ'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Malagasy voavanguer.] Bot. A genus of tropical African and Asiatic trees or shrubs (family Rubiaceae) having axillary clusters of small whitish flowers with five stamens and a 3–5-celled ovary, and drupaceous fruit. V. madagascariensis is the voa vanga (which see).

va·nil'la (vȧ·nĭl'ȧ), n.; pl. VANILLAS (-ȧz). [NL., fr. Sp. vainilla, dim. of vaina a sheath, a pod, L. vagina; — because its grains, or seeds, are contained in little pods. Cf. VAGINA.] 1. [cap.] Bot. a A genus of tropical American climbing orchids bearing fleshy, distichous leaves and numerous aerial roots. The flowers are in axillary racemes; they have a spreading perianth, with the labellum united to the column. V. planifolia, the vanilla of commerce, occurs in Florida and throughout tropical America; it is also widely cultivated. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Vanilla. 1 Flowering Branch; 2 Pod.

2. a The long podlike capsule of Vanilla planifolia or related species; — commonly used in sing., in a collective sense. The pods when cured are an important article of commerce. See VANILLON. b A flavoring extract made from the capsules, extensively used in confectionery, perfumery, etc. It has a pleasant fragrance and taste.
3. = WILD VANILLA. U. S.

va·nil'la, adj. Flavored with vanilla; hence, sweet-tasting or sweet-smelling; also, mawkish; cloying.

vanilla bean. The long capsule of Vanilla planifolia.

vanilla chica. The plant Selenipedium chica. See SELENIPEDIUM.

vanilla extract. = VANILLA, n., 2 b.

vanilla grass. The holy grass Hierochloë borealis.

van'il·lal (văn'ĭ·lăl; vȧ·nĭl'ăl), n. Chem. The bivalent radical $C_8H_7O_2$, of which vanillin is the oxide.

vanilla leaf. The wild vanilla.

vanilla plant. a The plant Vanilla planifolia. b The wild vanilla.

van'il·late (văn'ĭ·lāt), n. A salt or ester of vanillic acid.

va'nille' (vȧ'nēl'), n. [F.] Vanilla; also, short for vanille ice, a vanilla-flavored ice.

va·nil'ler·y (vȧ·nĭl'ĕr·ĭ), n. [See -ERY c.] A plantation of vanilla.

va·nil'lic (-ĭk), adj. Of or derived from vanilla or vanillin.

vanillic acid. Chem. An odorless crystalline acid, $C_8H_8O_4$, found in some varieties of vanilla and formed by oxidation of vanillin and otherwise.

vanillic alcohol. Chem. = VANILLYL ALCOHOL.

van'il·lin (văn'ĭ·lĭn; vȧ·nĭl'ĭn), n. Also -line (-lĭn; -lēn). Chem. a A white crystalline compound, (OH)(CH_3O)-C_6H_3CHO, the fragrant constituent of vanilla; 4-hydroxy-3-methoxy-benzaldehyde. It occurs also in many other plants, as the sugar beet, in resins, balsams, etc. Vanillin is obtained artificially in various ways, as indirectly from eugenol by oxidation and from coniferin by oxidation and hydrolysis, and is used as a substitute for vanilla. b Any of certain compounds isomeric with the above; as, ortho-vanillin (3-methoxy-salicylaldehyde).

va·nil'lism (vȧ·nĭl'ĭz'm), n. Med. a A morbid condition produced by vanilla, as coryza and malaise, from prolonged exposure to its volatile principle. b Dermatitis from excessive handling of vanilla.

va·nil'lon (vȧ·nĭl'ŏn), n. [F., fr. vanille vanilla.] An inferior kind of vanilla derived from Vanilla pompona and other related species; also, the plants themselves.

va·nil'lo·yl (vȧ·nĭl'ō·ĭl), n. Chem. The univalent radical, $C_8H_7O_3$, of vanillic acid. Cf. BENZOYL.

van'il·lyl (văn'ĭ·lĭl), n. [vanillic + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical, $C_8H_9O_2$, of which vanillyl alcohol is the hydroxide.

vanillyl alcohol. A crystalline compound, $C_8H_{10}O_3$, obtained by reducing vanillin; — called also vanillic alcohol.

Va'nir (vä'nĭr; class. Icel. wä'-), n. pl. [ON., pl. of Vanr.] Norse Myth. An early race of gods, in part of southern origin and originally deities of fertility, who became gods of the weather, of crops, and of commerce. The three whose names survive, Njorth, Frey, and Freya, are later associated with the Aesir (which see).

van'ish (văn'ĭsh), v.; VAN'ISHED (-ĭsht); VAN'ISH·ING. [ME. vanysshen, vanissen, fr. OF. evanir, esvanuir (F. évanouir), to evanish, fr. (assumed) VL. evanire, for L. evanescere. See EVANESCE; cf. 2d -ISH.] Intransitive: 1. To pass quickly or entirely from sight or existence; to disappear utterly; to become suddenly or mysteriously invisible or dissipated.
Ah, would the scandal vanish with my life! Shak.
2. Math. To assume the value zero.
—, Transitive: To cause to disappear; to consume. Now Rare.
Ant. — Appear, materialize, loom.

vanish into, or in, thin air. To vanish utterly; to be completely dissipated or annihilated.

van'ish (văn'ĭsh), n. A vanishing; specif., Phonet., the relatively faint latter part of a speech sound, esp. of such falling diphthongs as ā in ale (ending in a slight ĭ) or ō in go (ending in a slight ŏŏ).

van'ish·er (văn'ĭsh·ĕr), n. One who or that which vanishes.

van'ish·ing, adj. That vanishes; specif., of certain cold creams and lotions, having the property of being quickly absorbed by the skin. — van'ish·ing·ly, adv.

vanishing fraction. Math. A fraction that takes the form $\frac{0}{0}$ for a particular value, a, of the variable, x; its value is usually taken to be the limit approached by the fraction as x approaches a, provided that this limit exists.

vanishing line. Persp. One of the lines converging to a vanishing point.

vanishing point. Persp. See PERSPECTIVE, n., 2.

vanishing trace. See PERSPECTIVE, n., 2.

van'ish·ment, n. A vanishing; a state of having vanished.

Van'ist (văn'ĭst), n. Eccl. Hist. A follower of Sir Henry Vane, governor of Massachusetts colony (1636–37), in his defense of Anne Hutchinson.

van'i·tar'i·an·ism (văn'ĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn·ĭz'm), n. Absorption in vanities. Thackeray.

van'i·tied (văn'ĭ·tĭd), adj. Imbued with vanity.

van'i·ty (văn'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ME. vanite, fr. OF. vanité, fr. L. vanitas, fr. vanus empty, vain. See VAIN.] 1. That which is vain or empty, idle, or useless; a vain, unprofitable, or futile, thing or things; also, Obs., an idle or false tale; a lie.
Vanity of vanities; all is vanity. Eccl. i. 2.
2. Quality or fact of being vain, or devoid of worth, use, truth, etc.; emptiness; falsity; futility; as, the vanity of war.
Here I may well show the vanity of that which is reported in the story of Walsingham. Sir J. Davies.
3. Obs. a Foolishness; fatuousness; also, absurd notions. b Dizziness.
4. The quality of being vain of one's personal appearance, attainments, or characteristics; also, the state of mind resulting from such; vainglory; conceit; pride in oneself or one's appearance; as, overweening vanity; devoid of vanity; to cultivate a proper vanity.
5. Hence: a An instance, manifestation, or sign, of personal vanity or self-glorification. "Royal and imperial vanities." Arnold Bennett. b Rare. Something of which one is vain, or very proud. c A vain person; a fop. "The lean old vanities quizzed and ogled the frail ladies."
Compton Mackenzie.
6. [cap.] a A stock character in old moralities and puppet shows. b A town in Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.
7. A vanity box or case; — called more fully, according to its form, vanity bag, vanity roll, etc.
8. A dressing table; — called also vanity dresser or vanity table. Trade Name.
9. The color sandust.
Syn. — Hollowness; egoism. See PRIDE.
Ant. — Worth, importance; modesty.

vanity box or case. A small box, sometimes jeweled or of precious metal and worn on a chain, containing a mirror, powder puff, and other small toilet articles for a woman.

Vanity Fair. 1. In Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, a fair which was held all the year long in the town of Vanity.
2. Hence, the world as a place where vanity and ostentation obtain; also, the world of fashion.
3. The title of a novel (1847–48) by Thackeray. See SHARP, BECKY.

Van'i·ty-fair'i·an (văn'ĭ·tĭ·fâr'ĭ·ăn), n. One belonging to Vanity Fair, or the world of fashion. Thackeray.

van'-john' (văn'jŏn'), n. Vingt et un.

van'man (văn'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who drives a van; a roundsman.

van'most (văn'mōst), adj. Foremost.

Van'nai, Van'ni (văn'ĭ), n. pl. The Vans. See VANNIC, adj.; URARTAEAN; KHALDIAN, adj.

van'ner (văn'ĕr), n. [From VAN to winnow, VAN a fan.] Mining. One who vans with a shovel or pan; also, a machine for similarly dressing ore by means of a shaking motion and a current of water.

van'ner, n. A horse used, or suitable for use, in hauling vans. Eng.

van'ner·man (văn'ĕr·măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). Mining. One who tends a vanner.

van'net (văn'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. [F.] Her. A scallop shell depicted without ears and displaying the inside.

Van'nic (văn'ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to the people and language of a proto-Armenian kingdom in the region of Lake Van, which flourished in the first half of the first millenium B.C.

Van'nic, n. The language of pre-Armenian cuneiform inscriptions found in the Lake Van region, dating from the 9th and 8th centuries B.C., and containing the records of the kings of the Urartaeans, or Khaldians. The affinities of the language are obscure, but it was neither Indo-European nor Semitic. Cf. ALARODIAN.

van'quish (văng'kwĭsh; văn'-), v.; VAN'QUISHED (-kwĭsht); VAN'QUISH·ING. [ME. venquishen, venquissen, venkisen, fr. OF. vainquir (cf. venqui, pret. of veintre, F. vaincre), var. of veintre (F. vaincre), fr L. vincere. See VICTOR.] Transitive: 1. To conquer or overcome in battle; to subdue completely; to rout; as, a vanquished foe.
2. Hence: a To overcome after mental or physical struggle; to rise superior to; to suppress; as, love vanquished his pride. b To get the better of, as in a controversy, debate, etc.; to confute, confound, or the like.
E'en though vanquished, he could argue still. Goldsmith.
3. Obs. a To expel by force. b To be victorious in (a battle, etc.).
—, Intrans.: To gain a victory; to defeat an opponent.
Syn. — Surmount, overcome. See CONQUER.

van'quish, n. A wasting disease in sheep, attributed to feeding on certain plants. Scot.

van'quish·er, n. One who vanquishes.

van'sire (văn'sīr), n. [F., fr. Malagasy vontsira.] An ichneumon or mongooselike mammal of Madagascar, of uncertain identity.

Van Slyke' meth'od (văn slīk'). Any of several chemical methods devised by D. D. Van Slyke, American biochemist (1883–), as for the analysis of proteins, for the determination of the capacity of the blood to hold carbon dioxide, etc.

van'tage (văn'tĭj; 83), n. [Aphetic for ME., avantage, fr. OF. avantage. See ADVANTAGE; cf. 1st VAMP.] 1. Advantage; gain. Archaic.
2. Obs. a Financial profit. b A fee; a perquisite. c A surplus amount; an additional sum or quantity; a little more; something additional.
3. Superiority in position, equipment, etc.; advantage; also, a position or state of affairs giving an advantage; vantage ground. "Bierce had gone to New York to carry on the battle from that vantage." Thomas Beer.
4. A favorable opportunity to defeat, destroy, etc.; also, formerly, opportunity; chance.
I am unarm'd; forego this vantage, Greek. Shak.
5. Tennis. = ADVANTAGE, 6. See LAWN TENNIS.
— to the vantage. In addition; to boot. Shak.

van'tage, v. t. & i. [See VANTAGE, n.] To advantage; profit. Archaic.

vantage game. Lawn Tennis. The game next after a set is at deuce. vantage ground. Superiority of state or place; the place or condition which gives one an advantage over another.

The vantage ground of truth. Bacon.

vantage point. A point giving advantage; vantage ground.

vantage post. A vantage point.

van't Hoff's law (vänt hŏfs'). [After J. H. van't Hoff, Dutch physical chemist.] Physical Chem. The law that, when a system is in equilibrium, of the two opposed interactions the endothermic is promoted by raising the temperature, the exothermic by lowering it. It is a particular case of Le Chatelier's law.

van'ward' (văn'wôrd'), n. = VANGUARD, 1. Obs.

van'ward (văn'wĕrd), adj. [van + -ward.] Being on, or toward, the van, or front; as, the vanward troop. — adv. In the van; to the front.

Vaph'i·o cups, the (văf'ĭ·ō). Two gold cups, found in a prehistoric tomb of beehive form, at Vaphio, near Sparta. They are ornamented with finely executed reliefs in repoussé, representing (1) wild bulls, (2) tame bulls in a pasture. The cups are probably of Cretan (Minoan) workmanship.

vap'id (văp'ĭd), adj. [L. vapidus having lost its life and spirit, vapid; akin to L. vappa vapid wine, vapor vapor. See VAPOR; cf. FADE.] Having lost its life, spirit, or zest; dead; insipid; flat; as, vapid beer; a vapid state of the blood; hence, dull; spiritless; unanimated; inane; as, a vapid speech.
A cheap, bloodless reformation, a guiltless liberty, appear flat and vapid to their taste. Burke.
Syn. and Ant. — See INSIPID.
— vap'id·ly, adv. — vap'id·ness, n.

vap'id·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Vapidity. Carlyle.

va·pid'i·ty (vȧ·pĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. The quality or state of being vapid; also, something vapid.

va'po- (vā'pō-). A combining form for vapor, as in va'po·cau'ter·i·za'tion.

va·pog'ra·phy (vȧ·pŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [vapo- + -graphy.] Photog. The process of obtaining a developable image by permitting a sensitive film or plate to remain in contact with any substance such as zinc or printer's ink which gives off vapors or emanations affecting it without exposure to light. — va'po·graph'ic (vā'pō·grăf'ĭk), adj.

va'por, va'pour (vā'pĕr), n. [ME. vapour, fr. OF. vapour, vapor, vapeur (F. vapeur), fr. L. vapor; prob. for cvapor, and akin to Gr. kapnos smoke, kapyein to breathe forth, Lith. kvėpti to breathe, blow, and OSlav. kypěti to boil. See COVET; cf. VAPID.] 1. Any diffused matter suspended floating in the air and impairing its transparency, as smoke, fog, mist, steam, or an exhalation.
It draws up vapors which obscure its rays. Pope.
2. Physics. Any substance in the gaseous state, thought of with some reference to the liquid or solid form; a gasified liquid or solid; a gaseous substance which is at a temperature below its critical point and therefore liquefiable by pressure alone. See GAS, n., 1.
Vapor is any substance in the gaseous condition at the maximum of density consistent with that condition. Nichol.
3. Hence, a substance, as gasoline, alcohol, mercury, benzoin, etc., vaporized for industrial, therapeutic, or other uses; also, a mixture of such a vapor with air, as the explosive mixture in an internal-combustion engine.
4. Figuratively: a Something unsubstantial, fleeting, or transitory; a phantasm; a bubble. b pl. Obs. Braggadocio; blustering. c A foolish or fanciful notion; a fantastic idea.
It 's extraordinary what amazing vapors a lonely man may get into his head. H. G. Wells.
5. Old Med. a Stomach or intestinal gas as affecting the physical or mental condition; flatulence. b pl. Archaic. Hypochondria or melancholy; the blues.
6. Pharm. A medicinal agent designed for administration in the form of inhaled vapor.
☞ PHRASES in senses 1, 2, or 3 are:

vapor burner	vapor inhaler	vapor treatment
vapor cabinet	vapor regulator	vapor valve vapor cloud	vapor stove	vapor volume vapor condenser

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vapor-belted	vapor-clouded	vapor-producing vapor-braided	vapor-filled	vapor-sandaled vapor-burdened	vapor-headed	vaportight va'por, va'pour (vā'pĕr), v.; VA'PORED, VA'POURED (-pĕrd); VA'POR·ING, VA'POUR·ING. [From VAPOR, n.; cf. L. vaporare.] Intransitive: 1. To rise in vapor, as a mist; to be emitted or exhaled in vaporous form, as fumes; to pass off as vapor or to evaporate, as liquid alcohol; to emit vapors, to send forth steam, fumes, etc.; — also figurative.

Running waters vapor not so much as standing waters. Bacon.
2. To indulge in vapors, esp. in bragging or blustering, or in fanciful notions; now usually, to speak or write in a pompous, inflated, or extravagant, manner.
Strutting and vaporing in an empty school. Cowper.
—, Transitive: 1. To send in or as in vapor; to cause to evaporate, or become dissipated; to reduce to vapor; — with away, forth, off, out, to, and up; as, to vapor away a heated fluid. Now Rare. "Vapor forth his soul."
B. Jonson.
2. To assert or boast loudly or foolishly; to utter in high-flown language; also, to overcome by such language; to bully.
3. To affect with vapors, or blues; to depress; often, to bore.

vang (vĭng). Dial. Eng. var. of FANG.

van'gel·ist, n. An evangelist. Obs.

van Hoorne's ca·nal' (văn hōrnz'). [After J. van Hoorne (1621–70), Dutch anatomist.] = THORACIC DUCT.

Va·ni'a (vȧ·nī'ȧ). D. Bib.

Va·ni'ah (-ȧ). Bib.

van'il·lal'de·hyde (văn'ĭ·lăl'dē·hīd), n. [vanillin + aldehyde.] Chem. = VANILLIN.

van'il·lin'ic (văn'ĭ·lĭn'ĭk), adj. = VANILLIC.

va·nil'loes (vȧ·nĭl'ōz), n. = VANILLON.

van'isht. Vanished. Ref. Sp.

‖va'ni·tas va'ni·ta'tum (văn'ĭ·tăs văn'ĭ·tā'tŭm). [L.] Vanity of vanities. Eccl. i. 2.

van·jar'rah (vŭn·jär'ȧ), n. = BENJARRY, 1.

van·lay', n. [Cf. AVANT, AVAUNT; RELAY, n.] A set of hounds first used. Obs. — v. t. To hunt with vanlays. Obs.

van'quish·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

van'quish·ment, n. See -MENT.

van'quisht. Vanquished. Ref. Sp.

Vans (wänz), n. pl. = VANIR.

vant. † VAUNT.

vant-. [AF.] A shortened form of AVANT-. [exc. Dial.] vant (vănt). Var. of FONT. Obs.

van'tage·a·ble, adj. Advantageous. Obs.

van'tage·less, adj. See -LESS.

vant'brace (vănt'brās), vant'-brass (-brăs). = VAMBRACE.

vanterie. † VAUNTERY.

vant'guard', † VANGUARD.

van'toun. † WANTON.

vantour. † VAUNTER.

vant'ward', n. = VANGUARD. Obs.

van'-winged' hawk (văn'-wĭngd'). = 1st HOBBY. Local, Eng.

va'por·a·ble, va'pour·a·ble (vā'pĕr·ȧ·b'l; văp'ĕr-), adj. That can be vaporized; vaporizable. — va'por·a·bil'i·ty, va'pour·a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

va'po·rar'i·um (vā'pō·rär'ĭ·ŭm), n. [L., a steam pipe in a hot bath.] a A vapor bath. b An establishment where vapor baths are given. c An apparatus by which vapor baths are administered.

vapor bath. A bath in vapor, esp. in a therapeutic vapor; the application of vapor to the body, or to a part of it, in a close place; also, the bathing place itself. — vapor bathing.

vapor density. The relative weight of a gas or vapor as compared with some specific standard, usually hydrogen, but sometimes air.

va'pored, va'poured (vā'pĕrd), adj. Now Rare. a Obs. Wet with vapors; moist. b Affected with the vapors; depressed in spirits.

vapor engine. An engine in which the working fluid is a vapor, esp. one other than steam.

va'por·er, va'pour·er (vā'pĕr·ĕr), n. One who vapors or indulges in vaporings; a spouter; a braggart.

vaporer moth. A tussock moth.

va'por·es'cence, va'pour·es'cence (vā'pĕr·ĕs'ĕns; -'ns), n. [vapor + -escence.] A vaporizing or the effect of such. — va'por·es'cent, va'pour·es'cent (-ĕnt; -'nt), adj.

vapor heating. Steam heating in which the steam, or vapor, has a pressure slightly above that of the atmosphere; very low-pressure steam heating.

vapori-, vapouri-. A combining form, Latin vapori-, from vapor, vapor, as in vaporiform, vaporimeter.

va'por·if'er·ous, va'pour·if'er·ous (vā'pĕr·ĭf'ĕr·ŭs; văp'ō·rĭf'-), adj. [L. vaporifer, fr. vapor + ferre to bear.] Conveying or producing vapor. — va'por·if'er·ous·ness, va'pour·if'er·ous·ness, n.

va'por·if'ic, va'pour·if'ic (vā'pĕr·ĭf'ĭk; văp'ĕr-), adj. [L. vapor + facere to make.] Producing vapor; tending to pass, or to cause to pass, into vapor; also, vaporous.

va'por·i·form', va'pour·i·form' (vā'pĕr·ĭ·fôrm'), adj. Existing in a vaporous form or state; as, steam is a vaporiform substance.

va'por·im'e·ter, va'pour·im'e·ter (vā'pĕr·ĭm'ē·tĕr; văp'ĕr·ĭm'-), n. [vapori- + -meter.] An instrument for measuring the volume or the tension of a vapor; specif., one used in alcoholometry.

va'por·ing, va'pour·ing (vā'pĕr·ĭng), adj. That vapors; spouting forth vapors; vaunting. — va'por·ing·ly, va'pour·ing·ly, adv.

va'por·ing, va'pour·ing, n. Act or speech of one that vapors; an idle, extravagant, or high-flown, expression or speech; vapid remark or statement.

va'por·ish, va'pour·ish (vā'pĕr·ĭsh), adj. 1. Of the nature of vapor; full of vapors; vaporous; vaporing. 2. Affected by the vapors; given to fits of depression or hysteria. — va'por·ish·ness, va'pour·ish·ness, n.

va'por·i·za'tion, va'pour·i·za'tion (vā'pĕr·ĭ·zā'shŭn; văp'ō·rĭ-; -ĭ·zā'-), n. [Cf. F. vaporisation.] 1. Act or process of vaporizing, or state of being vaporized; artificial formation of vapor; specif., conversion of water into steam, as in a steam boiler. 2. Med. Treatment with vapor.

va'por·ize, va'pour·ize (vā'pĕr·īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To convert into vapor, either naturally or artificially, as by the application of heat, by spraying, etc. 2. To reduce to a vaporous state or form; to cause to become ethereal, dissipated, etc.

> Science and philosophy have . . . vaporized the God of Abraham and Moses into an Unknowable Energy. F. Harrison.

3. To spray with a vapor. Rare. —, Intransitive: 1. To become converted into vapor. 2. To indulge in vaporings.

> Vaporizes about the rights of humanity. Owen Wister.

va'por·iz'er, va'pour·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n. That which vaporizes; specif.: a An atomizer. b An apparatus for vaporizing a heavy oil, as petroleum, for the explosive charge of an internal-combustion engine. Also, sometimes, a simple form of carburetor. Cf. CARBURETOR.

vapor jacket. Physics. A closed glass or metal case surrounding a bulb or other apparatus. Vapors at known temperatures may be introduced between the case and apparatus.

vapor lamp. a A lamp burning a vapor, as of alcohol. b A lamp in which an electric discharge takes place through a metallic vapor. Cf. MERCURY-VAPOR LAMP.

vapor lock. In an internal-combustion engine, partial or complete interruption of fuel flow caused by the formation of bubbles of vapor or gas in the fuel-feeding system.

va'por·o·graph' (vā'pĕr·ō·grăf'), n. A vapographic picture. — va'por·o·graph'ic (-grăf'ĭk), adj.

va'por·ose, va'pour·ose (vā'pĕr·ōs; see -OSE), adj. Vaporous; vaporizable; volatile. — va'por·ose·ness, va'pour·ose·ness, n.

va'por·os'i·ty (-ŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. State of being vaporous.

va'por·ous (vā'pĕr·ŭs), adj. Also, Rare, va'pour·ous. [L. vaporosus; cf. F. vaporeux.] 1. Consisting or characteristic of vapor or vapors; having the form or nature of vapor; as, a vaporous substance, agent, or consistency. 2. Full of vapors, esp. of exhalations; containing vapor or vapors; foggy, misty, or the like; as, a vaporous atmosphere. 3. Producing vapor, or flatulence; — esp. of food. Obs. 4. Vaporlike; ethereal; unsubstantial; vain; more narrowly, consisting of, of the nature of, or indulging in, vaporings.

> Such vaporous speculations were inevitable. Carlyle.

— va'por·ous·ly, va'pour·ous·ly, adv. Rare. — va'por·ous·ness, va'pour·ous·ness, n. Rare.

vapor plane. Meteorol. The level at which convectional clouds begin to form.

vapor pressure. Physics. The pressure of a confined body of vapor. The pressure of a given saturated vapor is a function of the temperature only, and may be measured by introducing a small quantity of the substance into a barometer and noting the depression of the column of mercury.

vapor tension. = VAPOR PRESSURE.

va'por·y, va'pour·y (vā'pĕr·ĭ), adj. 1. Full of, or of the nature of, a vapor or vapors; vaporous; vaporlike. 2. Hypochondriacal; splenetic; peevish; also, vaporing.

vap'u·late (văp'ū·lāt), v. t. & i. [L. vapulare to be flogged.] To beat; to flog. — vap'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. — vap'u·la·to'ry (văp'ū·lȧ·tō'rĭ; 68), adj. All Rare.

va'por·ar'y (vā'pō·rĕr'ĭ; -rĕr·văp'ō-), n. A vaporarium. Obs.

va'po·rate (-rāt), v. t. & i. Also va'pour·ate. [L. vaporare, vaporatum. See VAPOR.] To vapor; evaporate, vaporize. — va'po·ra'tion, va'pour·a'tion, n. Both Obs.

va'po·ra'tive, va'pour·a'tive, adj. = VAPORABLE. Obs.

va'pord. Vapored. Ref. Sp.

va'po'ri·um (vā·pō'rĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] = VAPORARIUM.

va'por·iz'a·ble, va'pour·iz'a·ble (vā'pĕr·īz'ȧ·b'l), adj. See -ABLE. — va'por·less, va'pour·less, adj. See -LESS. [See -LIKE.]

va'por·like', va'pour·like', adj.

va'pour, va'pour·belt'ed, va'pour·braid'ed, va'pour·bur'dened, va'pour·cloud'ed, etc. Vars. of VAPOR, VAPOR-BELTED, etc.

vap'u·lar'y (văp'ū·lĕr'ĭ; -lĕr·ĭ), adj. = VAPULATORY. Rare.

va·ra'han (vȧ·rä'hŭn), n. sing. pl. [Tamil varāgan a pagoda (small gold coin with figure of a boar), fr. Skr. varāha boar.] See WEIGHT, Table. [= VARANGIAN.

Var'ang·er (văr'ăng·ĕr), n. & adj.

Va·ran'i·dae (vȧ·răn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See VARAN.] Var'a·nus (văr'ȧ·nŭs), n. [NL.] See MONITOR, 5. — var'a·nid (-nĭd), adj. — Var'a·noid (-noid), adj.

Var'den, Dolly. See DOLLY VARDEN, 1. [PERTIT, SIMON.]

Var'den, Gabriel. See TAP-

Var'den, Mrs. See MIGGS, MISS. [Obs.] var'din·gale, n. = FARTHINGALE.

vare. † FARE, VEER.

vare'head'ed widg'eon. = VARE WIDGEON. Local, Eng.

va·rel'la (vȧ·rĕl'ȧ), n. Also va·relle' (vȧ·rĕl'). A pagoda, or temple. Obs. [JUICE.]

varge. Dial. var. of VERGE, VER-var'i·a·bly, adv. of VARIABLE.

‖va'ri·ae lec'ti·o'nes (vā'rĭ·ē ĕk'shĭ·ō'nēz). [L.] Various or variant readings. [RANGIAN.

Va'ri·ag (vā'rĭ·ăg), n. = VA-variable gear. Mach. A gear wheel of irregular outline, which gears with a corresponding wheel so that the velocity ratio changes one or more times throughout a single revolution. Hence, variable gearing.

variable inductor. Elec. An inductor, or reactor, whose inductance is continuously adjustable.

variable nebula. Astron. A nebula whose light is subject to fluctuations. Not many such nebulae are known.

var'i·a·ble·ness (vâr'ĭ·ȧ·b'l·nĕs; -nĭs; 79; 119), n. Quality of being variable; changeableness.

variable of integration. = ARGUMENT OF INTEGRATION.

variable pitch propeller. Aeronautics. = CONTROLLABLE PITCH PROPELLER.

var'i·a·ble-speed' gear. = CHANGE GEAR.

variable star. Astron. A star that varies in its apparent magnitude, usually in more or less regular periods, the variation being due either to internal changes, or to external causes such as eclipse by a dark companion. Variable stars are classified as Algol variables, long-period and short-period variables, Cepheid variables, cluster variables, punctual variables, etc. Pickering divides them into the following classes: I. Novae. II. Long-period variables. III. Irregular variables. IV. Short-period variables, including Cepheids and variables of the Beta (β) Lyrae type (the latter now usually being regarded as Algol variables). V. Algol, or eclipsing, variables.

variable toad. = GREEN TOAD.

Variable Zone. The Temperate Zone. See ZONE, Illust.

var'i·ance (vâr'ĭ·ŭns; 79), n. [OF., fr. L. variantia.] 1. The fact, quality, or state, of being variable or variant; an instance manifesting such a quality or condition; change; variation or a degree of such; difference; deviation; discrepancy; as, to account for the variance in crops; a daily variance of one degree Fahrenheit; the variance between reports; there is a variance here in the testimony. 2. Variableness; fickleness. Obs. 3. The fact or state of being in disagreement; a difference of opinion producing dispute or controversy; dissension; discord; also, an instance of such; a dispute; quarrel; as, to forestall variance among the heirs; friends who have never had a variance. 4. Law. A disagreement or difference between two parts of the same legal proceeding, which, to be effectual, ought to agree, as the writ and the declaration, or the allegation and the proof. Under modern code pleading variances that do not actually mislead the opposing party to his prejudice in maintaining his action or defense on the merits are generally considered immaterial or amendable. 5. Physical Chem. Degree of variableness. See PHASE RULE. 6. Statistics. The square of the standard deviation. See DEVIATION, 7.

— at variance. a In a state of difference; not in harmony or agreement; as, his acts are at variance with his words. b In a state of dissension or controversy; at enmity. "At variance with himself." Milton. — in variance. Being discussed, disputed, or tried in court. Obs.

var'i·an·cy (vâr'ĭ·ăn·sĭ), n. The quality or fact of being variant; variance.

var'i·ant (vâr'ĭ·ănt; 79), adj. [OF., fr. L. varians, pres. part. of variare to change. See VARY.] 1. Variable; not constant, unchanging, or uniform; tending to, undergoing, or exhibiting, change; specif., of persons, changeable; fickle; restless. Now Rare. 2. Manifesting variety; marked by diversity; variegated; varied; sometimes, various. Now Rare. 3. Different from others of its kind or class; exhibiting difference in likeness; as, variant forms of Christianity; more narrowly, varying from the norm, standard, type, or the like; not definitive, generally accepted, or commonly found; modified; as, a variant spelling of a word; a variant reading of a text. 4. Being at variance; discrepant; divergent.

var'i·ant, n. [Cf. F. variante.] Something that is variant; specif.: a A form as of a story, song, etc., varying from the original or archetype; as, the variants of a particular ballad. b A variant spelling of a word. c A variant form of religion; as, the variants of Protestantism. d Biol. That which exhibits variation from type.

var'i·ate (vâr'ĭ·āt), adj. [L. variatus, past part.] Varied; diversified. Obs.

var'i·ate (-āt), v. t. & i.; VAR'I·AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VAR'I·AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). [L. variatus, past part. of variare. See VARY.] To produce a modification in; to make or become different; to vary; diversify. Now Rare.

var'i·ate (-āt), n. 1. Biometry. a An individual exhibiting variation from the mode of its class. b More precisely, the quantity obtained by estimating an attribute of an organism when this quantity is used as a member of an array. 2. Science & Statistics. a A particular value of a variable. b Less precisely, a variable.

var'i·a'tion (vâr'ĭ·ā'shŭn; 79), n. [ME. variacioun, fr. OF. variacion, -tion (F. variation), fr. L. variatio. See VARY.] 1. Obs. a Variance; divergence; also, dissension. b Inconstancy. 2. Act or an instance of varying; the process, state, or fact, of being varied; change in the form, position, state, or qualities, of a thing; modification, alteration, mutation, diversification, or deviation, or an instance or example of such; as, to long for a variation in one's routine; things incapable of variation; an agreeable variation in weather.

> His brothers were the type; he was the variation. Henry Adams.

3. Extent to which, or range in which, a thing varies; degree of departure from norm, type, etc.; amount or rate of change; as, great variations in temperature, speed, prices, etc.; within the limits of barometric variation. 4. An embellishing change; a modification, usually for artistic effect; as, to tell his story again with variations. 5. Alg. a One of the different linear arrangements that can be made of any number of objects taken from a set. b The sequence + − or − + in a row of such signs or of terms affected by them. Cf. PERMANENCE, 3. 6. Astron. A change in the mean motion, mean orbit, etc., of a planet or other celestial body; as, the variation of the moon depending on its angular distance from the sun. 7. Biol. In an organism, divergence in structural or physiological characters from those typical or usual in the group (esp. the species) to which it belongs; also, divergence in the characters of the offspring from those of the parents producing it. Also, the concrete result or effect of such divergence; esp., an organism differing from a type or from its parents. Variation is often regarded as opposed to heredity. Variation is practically universal among organisms, and the solution of its causal relations is the chief problem of the study of evolution. Simple individual variations, or those arising in certain of the individuals of one parentage, were regarded by Darwin as fortuitous, or due to chance and subject to the operation of natural selection (which see). Fluctuating, or continuous, variations are essentially individual variations which occur with frequency and themselves vary within limits or around a mean. Sudden pronounced variations are saltatory, or discontinuous, variations. Determinate, or definite, variation is that supposed to follow certain fixed lines predetermined, according to various theories, by inherent tendencies, by accumulated hereditary impulses, or by environmental influences (see ORTHOGENESIS, 1). Geographic variation is that in which the individuals of a given region possess common characters unlike those of the same stock in adjacent regions (see SUBSPECIES).

8. Chess. A series of moves other than those actually played, or, in an opening, other than those most common.
9. Elec. The maximum angular displacement in electrical degrees between the voltage wave of an alternating-current circuit or machine and a wave whose constant frequency is the average frequency of the circuit or machine.
10. Mach. The maximum angular or phase displacement of the revolving member or armature of a machine from the position of uniform rotation. Cf. PULSATION, 4.
11. Magnetism. = DECLINATION, n., 8.
12. Music. a Repetition of a theme or melody with embellishments or modifications in rhythm, tune, harmony, or key; the presentation of a musical thought in new and varied aspects, yet keeping the essential features of the original. b pl. In a composition, the varied repetitions of a theme. See THEME AND VARIATIONS.
Syn. — Deflection, aberration, departure, change, variety.

var'i·a'tion·al (vâr'ĭ·ā'shŭn·ăl; 79), adj. Of or pertaining to variation.

variation compass. A compass of delicate construction for observing the variation of the magnetic needle.

variation factor. Photom. The ratio of either the maximum or minimum illumination on a given plane to the average illumination on that plane.

var'i·a'tion·ist, n. A composer of variations.

variation of a curve. Math. The change of a curve into another neighboring curve; if $x = x(t, \theta)$, $y = y(t, \theta)$ are the equations of a family of curves and if $x = x(t, \theta_0)$, $y = y(t, \theta_0)$ are the equations of the original curve of the family, the equations of the curves produced by the variation are $x = x(t, \theta_0 + \partial\theta)$ $y = y(t, \theta_0 + \partial\theta)$ where $\partial\theta$ is an arbitrary increment of θ_0; also, the curve produced by the variation (called also varied curve). In weak variation, not only the increments of the dependent variables, but also the increments of their derivatives with respect to the independent parameter, are infinitesimal on passing from the original curve to the varied curve. In strong variation, no assumption as to the infinitesimal character of the increments of the derivatives is made, it being sufficient that the increments of the dependent variables be infinitesimal.

variation of a function. Math. a In a subdivision $x_0 = a, x_1, x_2, \ldots x_n = b$ of an interval (a, b), the sum of the numerical value of the differences $f(x_1) - f(x_0)$, $f(x_2) - f(x_1), \ldots f(x_n) - f(x_{n-1})$. b In an interval (a, b), the upper bound of the various variations of the function corresponding to different subdivisions of the interval; — called also total variation.

variation of an integral. Math. The differential ∂I with respect to the parameter θ of the integral $I(\theta) = \int_{t_0}^{t_1} F(x, y, x', y')dt$ over a curve of the family $x = x(t, \theta)$, $y = y(t, \theta)$. x' and y' denoting $\frac{\partial x}{\partial t}$ and $\frac{\partial y}{\partial t}$ respectively. Called also first variation as opposed to the second and higher order differentials with respect to θ which are the higher order variations of the integral.

variation of constants or parameters. Math. A method for solving a differential equation by first solving a simpler equation and then generalizing this solution properly so as to satisfy the original equation by treating the arbitrary constants not as constants, but as variables.

variation of latitude. Astron. A small periodic change in the observed latitude of any place. It is due to a slight difference between the earth's axis of rotation and its axis of figure, to seasonal effects, and to other more obscure causes. See EULERIAN MOTION.

variation range. Photom. The ratio of the maximum illumination on a given plane to the minimum illumination.

var'i·a'tive (vâr'ĭ·ā'tĭv; *-ā-*tĭv; 79), adj. Of, pertaining to, or showing, variation. — var'i·a'tive·ly, adv.

var'i·a'tor (-ā'tĕr), n. One who or that which variates; as, a speed variator. Specif.: Elec. A kind of joint that compensates for variations in length due to temperature changes.

varic-. = VARICO-.

var'i·cal (văr'ĭ·kăl), adj. Of or pertaining to a varix.

var'i·cat'ed (văr'ĭ·kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having varices.

var'i·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n. a The condition of having varices; also, a varix. b The formation or form of a varix; an arrangement of varices.

var'i·cel'la (văr'ĭ·sĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., dim. fr. VARIOLA.] Med. Chicken pox. — var'i·cel'lar (-ẽr), adj.

var'i·cel'late (-ăt), adj. [Dim. of varix + -ate.] Zool Having small or indistinct varices; — said of certain shells.

var'i·cel·la'tion (-sĕ·lā'shŭn), n. [varicella + -ation.] Med. Prophylactic inoculation with chicken-pox virus.

var'i·cel'loid (-sĕl'oid), adj. [varicella + -oid.] Med. Resembling chicken pox (varicella); as, varicelloid smallpox.

var'i·cel'lous (-ŭs), adj. Of, pertaining to, affected with, or designating, chicken pox.

va·ric'i·form (vȧ·rĭs'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [varix + -form.] Med. Resembling a varix.

var'i·co- (văr'ĭ·kō-), varic-. A combining form for varix, as in varicocele, varicosis.

var'i·co·bleph'a·ron (-blĕf'ȧ·rŏn), n. [varico- + -blepharon.] Med. A varicose swelling in the eyelid.

var'i·co·cele' (văr'ĭ·kō·sēl'), n. [varico- + -cele; cf. F. varicocèle.] Med. A varicose enlargement of the veins of the spermatic cord, giving rise to the formation of a soft compressible tumor mass in the scrotum.

var'i·coid (văr'ĭ·koid), adj. [varic- + -oid.] Like a varix.

var'i·col'ored, var'i·col'oured (vâr'ĭ·kŭl'ẽrd; 79), adj. Having various colors; hence, figuratively, diversified.

var'i·col'or·ous (vâr'ĭ·kŭl'ẽr·ŭs), adj. Varicolored.

var'i·cose (văr'ĭ·kōs; see -OSE), adj. [L. varicosus, fr. varix, -icis, a dilated vein; prob. akin to L. varus blotch, pimple.] 1. Irregularly swollen or enlarged; affected with, containing, or pertaining to, varices or varicosities; as, a varicose vein or ulcer.
2. Med. Intended for the treatment of varicose veins; — said of elastic stockings, bandages, and the like.
3. Bot. Abnormally enlarged, as the veins of a leaf or a filamentous organ.

varicose aneurysm. Med. Aneurysmal varix.

var'i·cosed (vâr'ĭ·kōst), adj. Med. Affected with or characterized by varicosity.

var'i·co'sis (-kō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. varic- + -osis.] Med. a The formation of varices. b Varicosity.

var'i·cos'i·ty (-kŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Quality or state of being varicose; also, a varicose part or a varix.

var'i·cot'o·my (-kŏt'ŏ·mĭ), n. [varico- + -tomy.] Surg. Incision of a varicose vein.

va·ric'u·la (vȧ·rĭk'ŭ·lȧ), n. [L., a small varix.] Med. Varicosity of the veins of the conjunctiva.

var'ied (vâr'ĭd; 79), adj. 1. Changed; altered.
2. Various; diversified; diverse; as, a varied experience; varied interests; varied scenery.
3. Marked conspicuously or contrastingly with several colors, as many animals.

varied bunting. A bunting (Passerina versicolor) of eastern Mexico and southern Texas. The male is handsomely colored, with the plumage largely of shades of purplish and red.

varied curve. Math. See VARIATION OF A CURVE.

varied thrush. A thrush (Ixoreus naevius) of western North America similar in form and size to the robin, but rufescent or orange brown underneath, with black mark on the breast.

Varied Thrush. (1/10)

var'i·e·gate (vâr'ĭ·ē·gāt; vâr'·ĭ·gāt), v. t.; -GAT'ED (-gāt'·ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -GAT'ING (-gāt'·ing). [L. variegatus, past part. of variegare to variegate, fr. varius various + root of agere to move, make. See VARIOUS; AGENT.] 1. To diversify in external appearance, esp. with different colors; to dapple.

The shells are filled with a white spar, which variegates and adds to the beauty of the stone. Woodward.

2. Hence, figuratively, to give variety to; to diversify; to enliven or impart interest to by means of variety.

var'i·e·gat'ed (-gāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having marks or patches of different colors.

variegated copper ore. Bornite.

variegated cutworm. A widespread and destructive cutworm (Lycophotia, syn. Peridroma, margaritosa).

variegated grass. Ribbon grass.

variegated langur or monkey. The douc.

variegated sheldrake. The paradise duck.

variegated spider monkey. A black, white, and yellow, South American spider monkey (Ateles variegatus).

variegated spurge. = SNOW-ON-THE-MOUNTAIN b.

var'i·e·ga'tion (vâr'ĭ·ē·gā'shŭn; vâr'ĭ·gā'-), n. 1. Act of variegating, or state of being variegated; diversity of colors or tints.
2. Bot. The presence of two or more colors in leaves, flowers, stems, etc., often in irregular patches or markings, whether due to special pigments or (in the case of yellow or white foliage leaves) to their absence through etiolation.

var'i·e·ga'tor (vâr'ĭ·ē·gā'tĕr; vâr'ĭ·gā'-), n. One who or that which variegates.

var'i·er (vâr'ĭ·ẽr), n. One who varies.

va·ri'e·tal (vȧ·rī'ē·tăl; -ĭ'), adj. Of or pert. to, or characterizing, a variety; constituting a variety, in distinction from an individual or species; subspecific. — va·ri'e·tal·ly, adv.

‖va·ri'e·tas (vȧ·rī'ē·tăs), n. [L.] Biol. Variety.

va·ri'e·tist (vȧ·rī'ē·tĭst), n. One who varies from the norm, as in aptitudes, desires, appetites, etc. — va·ri'e·tism (-tĭz'm), n.

va·ri'e·ty (-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. or L.; F. variété, fr. L. varietas. See VARIOUS.] 1. State or quality of being various or varied; intermixture or succession of different things or qualities; diversity; multifariousness.

There is a variety in the tempers of good men. Atterbury.
Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale
Her infinite variety. Shak.

2. Act of varying or tendency to vary; variation; difference.

Fanny's mind was thrown into the most distressing of all its varieties. Jane Austen.

3. That which is various; as: a A number or collection of different things; a varied assortment; as, a variety of silks. b Something varying or differing from others of the same general kind; one of a number of things that are akin; a sort; as, varieties of wood, land, rocks, etc.
4. Such entertainment as is given in variety shows; the production of, or performance in, variety shows; variety performances, collectively. Cant.
5. Biol. A group of animals or plants related by descent, but distinguished from other similar groups only by characters considered too inconstant or too trivial to entitle it to recognition as a species, or whose distinguishing characters are dependent on breeding controlled by man for their perpetuation; often, any group of lower rank than a species. Cf. GEOGRAPHICAL VARIETY. Hybrids between varieties of the same species are generally easily produced and fertile. As used by Darwin, Asa Gray, and other naturalists, a variety indicated a group or association of individuals whose characters were too inconstant or too trivial to entitle it to specific rank, and which, unlike species, produced fertile offspring when intercrossed. In modern usage the category next below a species is termed a subspecies (which see), and there is a prevailing tendency to abandon the word variety on account of its indefiniteness in meaning. In botany variety is sometimes used to indicate a special differentiation of a species (cf. MUTATION, 3) correlated with environmental conditions. In horticulture, it has been applied to forms, as cabbage, squash, etc., evolved under cultivation (cultural varieties); it now usually connotes a but slightly differentiated group (within a species) capable of being reproduced, as varieties of apples, dahlias, etc. Among domestic animals variety often designates a subdivision of breeds based on color or some other minor character.
6. Math. = EXTENT, n., 7.
7. Mineral. & Petrog. One of those forms in which a species or kind may occur, which differ in minor characteristics of structure, color, purity of composition, etc.; as, the sapphire is a blue variety of corundum.
Syn. — VARIETY, DIVERSITY. VARIETY suggests the diversified character of the elements involved, rather than their absolute or essential difference; DIVERSITY implies more marked difference or even divergence; as, "Earth hath this variety from heaven of pleasure situate in hill and dale" (Milton); "when Babel was confounded, and the great confederacy . . . was split into diversity of tongues" (Cowper); "They had brought from their remote old homes all varieties of hereditary gifts" (W. Pater); "Even between people of the best taste there are diversities of opinion on the same subject" (Cowper). Cf. DIFFERENCE, MANIFOLD, CHANGE.
Ant. — Sameness, monotony, likeness.

variety hybrid. A cross between varieties of the same species; a mongrel.

variety shop or store. a A shop or store which deals in a variety of wares, chiefly in drygoods and hardware. b = GENERAL STORE.

variety show. A stage entertainment of successive separate performances, usually songs, dances, acrobatic feats, short dramatic sketches, exhibitions of trained animals, or any specialties. Often loosely called vaudeville show.

var'i·form (vâr'ĭ·fôrm; 79), adj. [vari- + -form.] Having various forms; varied or different in form; diversiform. — var'i·form'i·ty (-fôr'mĭ·tĭ), n. — var'i·form'ly, adv.

var'i·formed (-fôrmd), adj. Variform.

var'i·gra·da'tion (vâr'ĭ·grā·dā'shŭn; 79), n. [vari- + gradation.] Phys. Geog. Rhythm in the interaction of streams and their alluvial deposits whereby local phases of deposition and erosion alternate upstream. Rare.

Va·ri'na (vȧ·rī'nȧ), n. A poetical name given by Swift to a Miss Waring, for whom in early life he professed an attachment.

var'i·o·cou'pler (vâr'ĭ·ō·kŭp'lẽr; 79), n. [vari- + coupler.] Elec. An inductive coupler, of which the mutual inductance is adjustable by rotating one of the coils.

va·ri'o·la (vȧ·rī'ō·lȧ), n. [ML., fr. L. varius various. See VARIOUS.] Med. Smallpox.

va·ri'o·lar (-lẽr), adj. Med. Variolous.

var'i·o·late (vâr'ĭ·ō·lāt; 79), v. t.; -LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [See VARIOLA.] Med. To inoculate with the virus of smallpox.

var'i·o·late, adj. Varioloid; also, Med., having lesions or marks like those of smallpox.

var'i·o·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Med. Inoculation with the virus of smallpox. It was widely practiced before the era of vaccination, as prophylaxis against spontaneous severe smallpox.

var'i·ole (vâr'ĭ·ōl; 79), n. [Cf. F. variole smallpox. See VARIOLA.] 1. A foveola.
2. Petrog. A spherule of a variolite.

var'i·ol'ic (-ŏl'ĭk), adj. Med. Variolous.

var'i·ol'i·form (-ĭ·fôrm), adj. [variola + -form.] Med. Resembling smallpox.

var'i·o·lite (vâr'ĭ·ō·lĭt; 79), n. [G. variolit, fr. ML. variola smallpox; — from its variegated color.] Petrog. Any basic rock embedded with whitish spherules.

var'i·o·lit'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj. 1. Thickly marked with small round specks; spotted.
2. Petrog. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, variolite.

var'i·o·lit'i·za'tion (-lĭt'ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. [variolite + -ize + -ation.] Petrog. Conversion into variolite; production of variolitic structure.

var'i·o·loid (vâr'ĭ·ō·loid; văr'-; 79), adj. [variola + -oid.] Med. a Resembling smallpox. b Pertaining to the disease called varioloid.

var'i·o·loid, n. [Cf. F. varioloïde. See VARIOLOID, adj.] Med. A modified mild form of smallpox, or variola, occurring in persons who have been vaccinated or who have had smallpox.

va·ri'o·lous (vȧ·rĭ'ō·lŭs), adj. [ML. variolosus, fr. variola smallpox; cf. F. varioleux.] 1. Med. Of or pertaining to smallpox; suffering from smallpox; also, having pits, or sunken impressions, like those of smallpox.
2. Zool. Foveate.

va·ri'o·lo·vac'cine (-lō·văk'sēn; -sĭn; 157), n. Med. Vaccine lymph obtained in variolovaccinia vesicles.

va·ri'o·lo·vac·cin'i·a (-văk·sĭn'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] Med. A vaccinialike disease in an animal, esp. a calf, produced by inoculation with smallpox virus.

var'i·om'e·ter (vâr'ĭ·ŏm'ē·tĕr; 79), n. [L. varius various + -meter.] Elec. a An instrument for comparing magnetic forces, esp. in the earth's magnetic field. b A variable inductor consisting of two coils of wire one rotating within the other and connected in series or parallel.

var'i·o'rum (vâr'ĭ·ō'rŭm; 79; 181; 277), n. [Abbr. fr. L. cum notis variorum with notes of various persons.] 1. An edition or text (variorum edition or text), esp. of a classical author, with notes by different persons; as Furness's Shakespeare Variorum.
2. An edition of a publication containing variant readings, or versions, of the text. See VARIAE LECTIONES.
3. (pron. vȧ'rĭ-) A medley; a diversion. Scot.

var'i·o'rum, adj. 1. Designating an edition or text containing notes of various commentators and editors.
2. Loosely, drawn or derived from various sources; as, variorum illustrations, readings.

var'i·o·tint'ed (vâr'ĭ·ō·tĭn'tĕd; -tĭd; 79; 119), adj. [L. varius varied + E. tinted.] Of various or diversified tints, shades, or colors.

var'i·ous (vâr'ĭ·ŭs; 79), adj. [L. varius; prob. akin to L. varus bent apart. See PREVARICATE; cf. VAIR, VARIEGATE, VARIETY.] 1. Different; diverse; several; manifold; as, men of various names; various occupations; various colors.

So many and so various laws are given. Milton.

2. Changeable; uncertain; inconstant; variable.

The names of mixed modes . . . are very various. Locke.

3. Having or manifesting varied characteristics; many-sided; diversiform; also, variegated; diversified; as, the various and several duties of the manager.

When we think of the various work of a Gregory, a Benedict, a Boniface, an Alfred, a Charlemagne. John Fiske.

4. Of varied color; varicolored.
Syn. — See DIFFERENT.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

various-blossomed	various-leaved	various-priced various-colored	various-measured	various-tinctured various-formed	various-minded	various-vested — var'i·ous·ly, adv. — var'i·ous·ness, n.

var'i·a'tious (vâr'ĭ·ā'shŭs), adj. = VARIATIONAL. Rare.

var'i·cel'li·form (vȧ'rĭ'·sĕl'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [See -IFORM.] = VARICELLOID.

var'i·ces (vâr'ĭ·sēz; văr'-), n., pl. of VARIX.

var'i·cose·ness, n. See -NESS.

var'i·cous (văr'ĭ·kŭs), adj. Varicose. Obs.

var'id. Varied. Ref. Sp.

var'ied·ly, adv. of VARIED.

var'i·e·gat'ed·leaved', adj. See -LEAVED.

var'i·ty (vâr'ĭ·tĭ), v. t. [vari- + -fy.] To vary; variegate. Obs.

va·ri'o·la e·qui'na (vȧ·rī'ō·lȧ ē·kwī'nȧ). [NL. See EQUINE.] = HORSEPOX.

Va'ri·o·la'ri·a (vā'rĭ·ō·lā'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See VARIOLA.] Syn. of PERTUSARIA.

va·ri'o·la vac·cin'i·a (vȧ·rī'ō·lȧ văk·sĭn'ĭ·ȧ). [NL. See VACCINE.] = COWPOX.

var'i·ol'i·za'tion, n. = VARIOLATION.

‖va'ri·o'rum no'tæ (vā'rĭ·ō'rŭm nō'tē; 79; 181). [L.] The notes of various commentators.

var'i·ous (vâr'Ĭ·ŭs; 79), n. Several different ones, collectively; as, I questioned various of them. U. S.

var'is·cite (vär'Ĭs·Īt), n. [From L. Variscia the Vogtland (in Germany), fr. Variscī or Varisti, var. of Naristi, a Teut. tribe.] Mineral. A green hydrous aluminum phosphate, $AlPO_4.2H_2O$; — called also amatrice, utahite.

variscite green. A color, yellowish-green in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

var'ix (vär'Ĭks; 79), n.; pl. VARICES (vär'Ĭ·sēz; văr'-). [L. See VARICOSE.] 1. Med. A permanent uneven or tortuous dilatation of a vein (or, less commonly, an artery or lymph vessel); a varicose vein. Varices occur mostly in the superficial veins of the legs, esp. of pregnant women.

2. Zool. One of the prominent ridges or ribs across each whorl of certain univalves showing a former position of the outer lip of the aperture.

Shell of Triton grandimaculatum, with Varices, v, v.

var'let (vär'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. [OF., var. of vaslet, vallet, servant, young man, young noble, dim. fr. source of vassal. See VASSAL; cf. VALET.] 1. An attendant; servant; menial; esp., Hist., a knight's page; also, bailiff. Obs.

2. A low fellow; scoundrel; knave.

What a brazen-faced varlet art thou! Shak.

3. In a pack of playing cards, the court card now called the knave, or jack. Obs.

var'le·taille' (vär'lĕ·tăl'), n. Varletry. Rare.

var'let·ess (vär'lĕt·ĕs; -lĭt·ĭs; 119), n. A female varlet.

var'let·ry (-rĭ), n. Varlets, collectively; group of menials; hence, rabble; crowd; mob.

Var'ley's gray (vär'lĭz). A color, bluish blue-red in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

var'ment (vär'mĕnt), var'mint (-mĭnt), adj. [See VARMENT, n., 2.] Colloq. a Sporting; dashing. b Clever; sharp; cunning.

var'ment, var'mint, n. 1. Dial. var. of VERMIN.

2. [Perh. a different word.] An amateur in sports, possessed of professional skill and ability. Brit.

var'na (vŭr'nȧ), n. [Skr. varṇa color, sort, class.] A group of castes; — often loosely translated as caste. See CASTE, 2.

var·nash'ra'ma (vŭr·näsh'rä'mȧ), n. [Skr. varṇāśrama.] The institution of caste.

var'nish (vär'nĭsh), v.; -NISHED (-nĭsht); -NISH·ING. [ME. varneschen, vernyshen, fr. OF. vernir, vernisser, fr. the n., OF. vernis, ult. perh. fr. the town of Berenice, Gr. Berenikē, in Cyrenaica (Libya). Cf. 1st VERONICA.] Transitive: 1. To lay varnish on; to cover with a liquid which produces, when dry, a hard glossy surface; as, to varnish a table; to varnish a painting.

2. To coat over with something resembling or likened to varnish; to cover or conceal with something that gives a fair appearance.

Close ambition, varnished o'er with zeal. Milton.

3. To furbish or polish up; to adorn; embellish; as, to varnish guilt. "Beauty doth varnish age." Shak.

4. To dip in water and freeze a coating upon (fish), previous to packing and shipping.

—, Intransitive: To apply varnish.

var'nish (vär'nĭsh), n. [ME. vernisch, fr. OF. vernis. See VARNISH, v.] 1. A liquid preparation which, when spread upon a surface, dries by evaporation or oxidation, forming a hard, lustrous coating (more or less transparent unless pigments have been added), serving for decoration and protection. There are a few natural varnishes or lacquers (see LACQUER, 2 b). Artificial varnishes are divided into two classes: a Oil varnishes, which are essentially solutions of resins (natural or artificial) or of asphalt in drying oils, esp. linseed oil and tung oil. Driers and thinners (as turpentine) are usually added. b Spirit varnishes, which are solutions of resins (natural or artificial), asphalt, cellulose esters (as pyroxylin), etc., in volatile solvents, as alcohol, spirits of turpentine, or amyl acetate. A common spirit varnish is a solution of shellac in alcohol. Varnishes containing pigments are usually called enamels, japans, or lacquers (see these).

2. The covering, coating, or glaze, given by the application of varnish (sense 1); also, the act of applying this substance to a surface.

3. That which resembles or suggests varnish by its gloss.

The varnish of the holly and ivy. Macaulay.

4. An artificial covering to give a fair appearance to any act or conduct; outside show; gloss.

5. Lithography. Thickened linseed oil, with which pigments are ground to form the ink used in printing.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

varnish brush	varnish filler	varnish renovator varnish cleaner	varnish maker	varnish thinner varnish dryer	varnish-making, adj.	varnish-treated varnish-drying, adj.	varnish remover	varnish-treating, adj.

var'nished (vär'nĭsht), adj. Covered with or as if with varnish; as, a varnished table, floor; a varnished reputation; specif., Bot., vernicose.

var'nish·er (-nĭsh·ĕr), n. One who or that which varnishes; specif., one whose work is varnishing a (specified) thing, as in: paper varnisher, rubber varnisher.

varnish gum. A natural or synthetic resin, used in making varnish.

var'nish·ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VARNISH, v. t. Hence: n. Materials for varnish.

varnishing day. At an exhibition of paintings, a day reserved for the painters to varnish or put on finishing touches. Critics are often admitted.

var'nish·ment (vär'nĭsh·mĕnt), n. Varnishing. Rare.

varnish sumac. = DWARF SUMAC.

varnish tree. Any of various trees yielding a milky juice from which in some cases varnish or lacquer is prepared. Specif.: a The Japanese varnish tree; also, the lacquer tree. b The black-varnish tree. c The marking nut. d The ailanthus. e The tree Koelreuteria paniculata. See KOELREUTERIA.

var'nish·y (vär'nĭsh·ĭ), adj. Of, like, or pertaining to, varnish or a varnished surface; as, a varnishy smell, appearance.

värn'plik'ti·ge (vĕrn'plĭk'tĭ·yĕ), n. [Sw.] In the Swedish army, the conscripts drawn by annual levy to serve between the ages of 20 and 42. See UPPBÅD.

värn'sing·ite (vĕrn'sĭng·Īt), n. [From Värnsinge, Sweden.] Petrog. A coarse-grained dike rock composed essentially of albite and some augite, with accessory titanite, apatite, and magnetite. Epidote, prehnite, and muscovite are secondary.

Va·ro'li·an (vȧ·rō'lĭ·ăn), adj. Anat. Of, pertaining to, or designating, parts named after the Italian anatomist Costanzo Varoli (1542?–1575), esp. the pons.

Var'ri·us (vär'Ĭ·ŭs), n. A character in Shakespeare's Measure for Measure.

Var·ro'ni·a (vȧ·rō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Marcus Terentius Varro, Roman writer.] Bot. A large genus of tropical American shrubs and trees (family Ehretiaceae) having pubescent or scabrous foliage, and small, usually white flowers with a 4-lobed or 5-lobed limb. The fruit is a small, slightly fleshy drupe. Some species yield timber.

Var·ro'ni·an (vȧ·rō'nĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to a person having the surname Varro, esp. Marcus Terentius Varro (116–27 B.C.).

Varronian canon. The plays of Plautus regarded as genuine by Marcus Terentius Varro.

Varronian satire. A form of dramatic satire practiced by Marcus Terentius Varro.

var'sha (vŭr'shȧ), n. [Skr. varṣā.] The rains; rainy season; monsoon. India.

var'si·ty (vär'sĭ·tĭ; 122), n. Colloq. short form of UNIVERSITY; as, the varsity crew, baseball team.

Var·so'vi·an (vär·sō'vĭ·ăn), adj. [ML. Varsovia Warsaw.] Of, belonging to, happening in, or coming from, Warsaw.

var'so·via'na (vär'sō·vyä'nȧ), n. A varsovienne.

‖var'so'vienne' (vär'sō'vyĕn'), n. [F., prop. fem. of varsovien pertaining to Warsaw, fr. Varsovie Warsaw.] a A dance similar to the polka or mazurka, which became very popular in the 19th century as a slow triple measure and characteristic strong accent beginning every second measure.

Var'u·na (vär'ōō·nȧ; vŭr'-). [Skr. Varuṇa; prob. akin to Gr. Ouranos Uranus.] Hinduism. The supreme cosmic deity, creator and ruler, and especially guardian of cosmic order. In the earliest Vedic period he was called an asura, and described as the origin of the tree of life. He bestows rain in due season and also punishes offenders. The soma and horse sacrifices were originally offered to him. The corresponding cosmic female power is Aditi, mother goddess and earth-goddess. In character Varuna contrasts with the martial Deva Indra who partly displaces him. Varuna's character and creation myths are also successively inherited by Prajapati and Vishnu; hence, his functions are gradually reduced to those of a god of the sea and ruler of the west. He is represented in art as riding on a makara, holding a noose or fetter with which to bind sinners, and a vessel of gems, and accompanied by the river-goddesses Ganges and Jumna as his consorts. He is the Vedic equivalent of the Avestan Ormazd.

Varuna.

var'us (vär'ŭs; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. varus bent, grown inwards. See PREVARICATE.] Med. A deformity in which the foot is turned inward. See TALIPES.

var'us, adj. [L.] Med. Turned inward; as, a varus position of the feet.

varve (värv), n. [Sw. varv layer.] Geol. An annual layer of silt as deposited in a lake or other body of still water. As individual layers differ in thickness and character, a succession of such layers forms a characteristic group which can be identified as of contemporaneous deposition in whatever deposit it may be found. It is thus possible, by combining different sections, to measure the time involved in the deposition of the entire group of sediments and to construct a time scale in a manner similar to that employed in the study of annual rings in trees.

varved (värvd), adj. Stratified in layers of annual deposition, as varved clays.

var'y (vär'Ĭ; 79), v.; VAR'IED (-Ĭd); VAR'Y·ING. [ME. varien, fr. OF. varier, fr. L. variare, fr. varius various. See VARIOUS; cf. VARIATE.] Transitive: 1. To alter in form, appearance, substance, position, or the like; to make different by a partial change; to modify; as, to vary the proportions of a thing; to vary a posture; to vary one's ideas.

Shall we vary our device at will,
Even as new occasion appears? Spenser.

2. To make of different kinds; to make different or change from one another; as, to vary one's meals; also, to express (the same thing) in different ways.

God hath varied their inclinations. Sir T. Browne.

3. To diversify; variegate so that one part differs from another or so as to change from time to time; to arrange in a manner to assure variety; as, to vary one's diet; to vary one's day.

4. Music. To present under new aspects, as of rhythm, interval, harmonic treatment, etc. See VARIATION, 12.

—, Intransitive: 1. To alter, or be altered, in any manner; to suffer a partial change; to become different; to be modified; as, colors vary in different lights.

2. To differ, or be different; to be unlike or diverse; as, the laws of France vary from those of England.

3. To disagree; to be at variance or in dissension; as, men vary in opinion. Obs., exc. as specif. use of 2.

The rich jewel which we vary for. Webster (1623).

4. To deviate; depart; swerve; — followed by from; as, to vary from the law, or from reason.

5. To alter or change in succession; to alternate; as, one mathematical quantity may vary inversely as another. Cf. DIRECT PROPORTION.

While fear and anger, with alternate grace, Pant in her breast, and vary in her face. Addison.

6. Biol. To exhibit or undergo variation. See VARIATION, 7.

Syn. — Alter, shift; diverge; dissent. See CHANGE; cf. DEVIATE.

var'y, n. Change, esp. of mood.

var'y·ing du'ty. Elec. See DUTY, n., 7.

varying hare. Any of certain hares having white fur in winter, esp. Lepus americanus, a rather large species of northern North America now rare or local in the east, south of northern New England. L. timidus is a somewhat similar European species. In the southern parts of their range individuals of varieties may remain brown or partly so in winter.

vas (văs), n. [L.] Roman & Civil Law. A pledge; a surety.

‖vas (văs), n.; pl. VASA (vā'sȧ). [L., a vessel. See VASE.] Anat. A vessel; a duct.

vas-. = VASO-; specif., = VASO- b, as in vas·i'tis. See -ITIS.

va'sa (vā'sȧ), n. [L., pl.] A vase. Obs.

Va'sa (vä'sȧ), n. See ORDER, n., 1.

‖va'sa (vā'sȧ), n., pl. of VAS.

‖vas ab'er·rans (văs ăb'ĕr·ănz); pl. VASA ABERRANTIA (vā'sȧ ăb'ĕr·ăn'shĭ·ȧ). [L. aberrans deviating from.] Anat a A blind tube or canal, occasionally present, lying parallel to the first part of the vas deferens, with which (or with the epididymis) it may communicate. b [pl.] Slender arteries, only occasionally present, connecting the axillary or brachial artery and the radial or other artery of the forearm, or the subclavian artery and the thoracic aorta.

‖va'sa bre'vi·a (vā'sȧ brĕ'vĭ·ȧ). [L. brevia, neut. pl. of brevis short.] Anat. Short branches of the splenic artery and vein which run to the greater curvature of the stomach.

‖va'sa de'fe·ren'ti·a (dĕf'ĕ·rĕn'shĭ·ȧ), pl. of VAS DEFERENS.

‖va'sa ef'fe·ren'ti·a (ĕf'ĕ·rĕn'shĭ·ȧ). [L. efferentia, neut. pl. of efferens, pres. part., bringing out or forth.] Anat. Efferent vessels; specif., the tubes (12 to 20 in number) which lead from the rete of the testis to the vas deferens. Except near their commencement they are greatly convoluted, forming a mass (the head, globus major of the epididymis).

‖va'sa in'tes·ti'ni te'nu·is (ĭn'tĕs·tĭ'nī tĕn'ū·ĭs). [L. intestini tenuis of the small intestine.] Anat. The branches (12 to 15 in number) of the superior mesenteric artery which supply the ileum and jejunum.

va'sal (vā'săl), adj. [L. vas vessel.] Biol. Pertaining to a vessel or vessels.

va'sa par'rot (vā'sȧ; vā'zȧ). [Malagasy vàza, lit., loud-voiced.] Any of several blackish-brown Madagascan parrots of the genus Coracopsis, esp. C. vasa.

‖va'sa va·so'rum (vā'sȧ vȧ·sō'rŭm; 181). [L. vasorum of the vessels.] Anat. Small blood vessels which are distributed to the walls of the larger arteries and veins. They arise from a branch of the same vessel or from a neighboring vessel.

Vas'cons (văs'kŏnz), Vas'co·nes (-kō·nēz), n. pl. [L. Vascones.] The Basques.

vas'cu·lar (văs'kū·lĕr), adj. [NL. vascularis, fr. L. vasculum a small vessel, dim. of vas vessel. See VASE; cf. VESSEL.] 1. Biol., Med., etc. a Of or pertaining to a vessel or vessels for the conveyance of a fluid, esp. (in animals) a nutritive fluid, as blood or lymph, or (in plants) the sap; designating, or pertaining to, the entire system of vessels having this function. Cf. WATER-VASCULAR SYSTEM. b Supplied with, or containing, vessels or ducts, esp. blood vessels; as, a vascular tumor; the vascular layer of the skin.

2. Hence, figuratively, hot-blooded; high-spirited; intensely passionate.

That rich life of consciousness which . . . makes the Elizabethan drama so hotly vascular. Conrad Aiken.

-vas'cu·lar. A combining form of vascular, as in bivascular.

vascular area. Embryol. = AREA VASCULOSA.

vascular bundle. Bot. See BUNDLE, n., 5; STEM, Illust.

vascular cryptogams. Bot. Cryptogamous plants possessing vascular tissue, as the ferns.

vascular cylinder. Bot. The stele.

vas'cu·lar'i·ty (văs'kū·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Quality or state of being vascular; also, a vascular growth.

vas'cu·lar·ize (văs'kū·lĕr·īz), v. t. & i.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To render or to become vascular. — vas'cu·lar·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

vascular keratitis. Med. Chronic inflammation of the cornea accompanied by the formation of blood vessels entering from the surrounding conjunctiva.

vas'cu·lar·ly, adv. In a vascular manner; by vessels.

vascular plants. Bot. Plants composed in part of vascular tissue, as the seed plants and ferns; — opposed to cellular plants.

vascular ray. = MEDULLARY RAY b.

vascular system. Bot. The aggregate of the vascular tissue. See VASCULAR TISSUE.

vascular tissue. Bot. Any conductive tissue in plants, esp. the highly specialized tissue found in the higher plants, consisting essentially of phloem and xylem and forming a continuous system, vascular system, throughout the plant body. See vascular bundle, under BUNDLE, n., 5, PHLOEM, XYLEM.

vas'cu·lat'ed (văs'kū·lāt'ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. [See VASCULUM.] Having small ducts or tubular vessels.

vas'cu·la·ture (văs'kū·lȧ·tūr), n. [See VASCULAR; cf. MUSCULATURE.] Anat. The disposition or arrangement of blood vessels in an organ or part.

vas'cu·lif'er·ous (văs'kū·lĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [vasculum + -ferous.] Having a seed vessel.

vas'cu·li·form' (văs'kū·lĭ·fôrm'), adj. [vasculum + -form.] Shaped like a flowerpot.

vas'cu·li'tis (-lī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. vascul- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of a blood or lymph vessel.

vas'cu·lo- (văs'kū·lō-), vascul-. Anat. A combining form for vasculum, as in vasculomotor, vasculitis.

vas'cu·lo·gen'e·sis (-jĕn'ĕ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. vasculo- + -genesis.] Embryol. The origin and development of the blood-vascular system.

vas'cu·lo·lym·phat'ic (-lĭm·făt'ĭk), adj. [See VASCULO-.] Of, pertaining to, or designating, the blood vessels and lymphatic vessels.

vas'cu·lo·mo'tor (-mō'tĕr), adj. [vasculo- + motor.] Physiol. Vasomotor, esp. in respect to the capillaries.

vas'cu·lose (văs'kū·lōs; see -OSE), adj. Also vas'cu·lous (-lŭs). Vascular.

vas'cu·lum (văs'kū·lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lȧ). [L., a small vessel.] 1. Bot. = ASCIDIUM, n., 1.

2. A tin box, commonly cylindrical or flattened and with a cover opening lengthwise, used in collecting plants.

‖vas de'fe·rens (dĕf'ĕ·rĕnz); pl. VASA DEFERENTIA (vā'sȧ dĕf'ĕ·rĕn'shĭ·ȧ). [L. deferens carrying down.] Anat. & Zool. The excretory duct of a testicle; a spermatic duct; in man, a small but thick-walled tube about two feet long, formed by the union of the vasa efferentia. It is greatly convoluted in its proximal portion, where it forms the body and tail (globus minor) of the epididymis. It runs up in the spermatic cord, through the inguinal canal, and descends into the pelvis joining the duct of the seminal vesicle to form the ejaculatory duct.

vase (vās; văz; or, esp. Brit., văz, vŏz; 277; see note below), n. [F., fr. L. vas, also vasum, of obscure origin. Cf. VASA, VASCULAR, VESSEL.] 1. A vessel, usually rounded and of greater depth than width, commonly decorative and now used chiefly for ornament or for flowers, though also adapted for various domestic purposes, and used anciently in sacrifices; as, a porcelain vase; a Grecian vase.

var'i·ous-leaved', adj. See -LEAVED.

va·risse' (vȧ·rĭs'), n. [F. varice varix. See VARIX.] = BLOOD SPAVIN.

‖va'ri·um et mu·ta'bi·le sem'per fe'mi·na (vā'rĭ·ŭm ĕt mū·tăb'ĭ·lē, fĕm'ĭ·nȧ). [L.] Woman is ever a fickle and changeable thing. Vergil (Aeneid, IV. 569, 570).

var·kas' (vär·käs'). Var. of VAKASS.

var·let'to, n. [Quasi It.] = VARLET. Rare. Shak.

varnished willow. = CRACK WILLOW a.

var'nish·like', adj. See -LIKE.

var'nisht. Varnished. Ref. Sp.

var'nist. Obs. past part. of VARNISH.

Var'ro, Era of (vär'ō). See ERA, Table.

var'sal (vär'sȧl), adj. Dial. corrupt. of UNIVERSAL.

var'ta·bed, var'ta·bet. Vars. of VARDAPET.

var'tue. Obs. exc. dial. Eng. of VIRTUE.

var'vel (vär'vĕl), var'veled, var'velled (-vĕld). Vars. of VERVEL, etc.

var'y·ing·ly, adv. of VARYING, pres. part.

var'y·ing·speed' mo'tor. Elec. See MOTOR, n., 4.

vas. ✝ WAS.

vascul-. = VASCULO-.

2. Arch., Furniture, etc. An ornament having the form of a vase (sense 1).

☞ The pron. vās, like case, base, etc., given by most orthoëpists before Walker (1791), prevails in America, though vāz, like phase, phrase, etc., given by Walker, is used by many; vāz prevails in British usage.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

vasemaker vase painter vasework vasemaking vase painting

vase clock. Art. A clock whose decorative case has the general form of a vase, esp. one in which there is no dial of the usual form, but in which a part of a vase revolves while a single stationary indicator serves as a hand.

vas·ec'to·my (văs·ĕk'tō·mĭ), n. [vas + -ectomy.] Surg. Resection or removal of the vas deferens. See STERILIZATION. — vas·ec'to·mize (-mīz), v. t.

vase'ful (vās'fŏŏl; vāz'-; văz'-), n. As much as a vase will hold.

Vas'e·line (văs'ē·lēn; -lĭn; 277), n. [Irreg. fr. G. wasser water + Gr. elaion olive oil.] A trade-mark for petrolatum and certain other petroleum products; hence [sometimes not cap.], petrolatum or other petroleum product bearing this trade-mark.

vase of Tantalus. = TANTALUS CUP.

vase rug. One of a group of 16th-century Persian rugs, woven over a double warp, in beautiful and severe floral designs, with which a vase motive is often combined. These rugs have been attributed to Kerman without sufficient proof.

vase'-shaped' (vās'shāpt'; vāz'-; văz'-), adj. Formed like a vase, or, Bot., like a common flowerpot.

vase'-vine' (-vīn'), n. The leatherflower.

Va'sey grass (vā'zĭ). [After George Vasey (1822–93), Am. botanist.] An erect perennial grass (Paspalum urvillei), native to Argentina, grown for pasture from North Carolina to Texas.

va'she·gy·ite (vä'shĕ·gĭ·ĭt), n. [From Vashegy, N. Hungary.] Mineral. A hydrated basic aluminum phosphate, occurring in white to yellow masses. H., 2–3. Sp. gr., 1.96.

Vash'ti (văsh'tī), n. Bib. In the story of Esther, the wife of Ahasuerus.

vasi-. = VASO- (which see), as in *vasi*form.

vas'i·cen'tric (văs'ĭ·sĕn'trĭk), adj. [vasi- + -centric.] Bot. Occurring close to the vessels or tracheids, as certain wood parenchyma cells.

vas'i·cine (văs'ĭ·sēn; -sĭn), n. Also -cin. [NL. vasica (in specific name), fr. Skr. vāsikā, vāsaka.] Chem. A crystalline alkaloid, $C_{11}H_{18}N_2O$, in the leaves of the Malabar nut (Adhatoda vasica), family Acanthaceae. It is reported to poison various invertebrates but not vertebrates.

va·sif'er·ous (vā·sĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [vasi- + -ferous.] Bearing a vessel or duct.

vas'i·form (văs'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [vasi- + -form.] Biol. Having the form of a vessel, or duct.

vasiform tissue. Bot. Vascular tissue.

vasiform wood cell. Bot. A tracheid.

‖va'so (vä'zō), n. [It.] Vase.

vas'o- (văs'ō-), vas-. Biol. & Physiol. A combining form for vas, used to signify: a The blood vessels, as in *vaso*motor, *vaso*formative. b Surg. The vas deferens, as in:

vasoepididymostomy vasorrhaphy vasotomy vasoligature vasosection vasovesiculectomy vasopuncture vasostomy

c Vasomotor, as in: vasostimulant. d = ANGIO-, as in: vas'o·neu·ro'sis, vas'o·tribe, vas'o·trip'sy.

vas'o·con·strict'ing (-kŏn·strĭk'tĭng), adj. Physiol. Causing vasoconstriction.

vas'o·con·stric'tion (-strĭk'shŭn), n. [vaso- + constriction.] Physiol. The narrowing of the lumen of blood vessels, esp. as a result of vasomotor action.

vas'o·con·stric'tive (-tĭv), adj. Physiol. Vasoconstricting.

vas'o·con·stric'tor (-tĕr), adj. [vaso- + constrictor.] Physiol. Causing constriction of the blood vessels; vasohypertonic; as, the vasoconstrictor nerves.

vas'o·con·stric'tor, n. Physiol. A vasoconstricting agent, esp. a nerve or a drug.

vas'o·co·ro'na (-kō·rō'nä), n. [NL., fr. vaso- + L. corona crown.] Anat. The system of peripheral blood vessels of the spinal cord, sending branches toward the central canal.

vas'o·den'tine (-dĕn'tēn; -tĭn), n. [vaso- + dentine.] Anat. & Zool. A modified form of dentine, permeated by blood capillaries; vascular dentine. It is common in the teeth of the lower vertebrates. — vas'o·den'ti·nal (-tĭ·năl), adj.

vas'o·dil'a·ta'tion (-dĭl'ā·tā'shŭn; -dĭ'lā-), n. [vaso- + dilatation.] Physiol. The widening of the lumen of blood vessels, esp. as a result of vasodilator action or paralysis of vasoconstrictor action.

vas'o·di·la'tin (-dī·lā'tĭn; -dĭ'-), n. Physiol. A substance, as a drug, or a specific constituent of an organic extract, with a vasodilating action.

vas'o·di·lat'ing (-dĭ·lāt'ĭng; -dĭ'-), adj. Physiol. Causing vasodilatation.

vas'o·di·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Physiol. Vasodilatation.

vas'o·di·la'tor (-tĕr), adj. [vaso- + dilator.] Physiol. Causing dilatation or relaxation of the blood vessels; vasoinhibitory; vasohypotonic; as, the vasodilator nerves.

vas'o·di·la'tor, n. Physiol. A vasodilating agent, esp. a nerve or drug.

vas'o·fac'tive (văs'ō·făk'tĭv), adj. [See -FACTIVE.] Biol. & Physiol. Vasoformative.

vas'o·form'a·tive (-fôr'mä·tĭv), adj. [vaso- + formative.] Biol. & Physiol. Concerned in the development and formation of vessels, esp. blood vessels, and blood corpuscles; vasifactive; as, the vasoformative cells.

vas'o·gan'gli·on (-găng'glĭ·ŭn), n. [NL. See VASO-; GANGLION.] Anat. A dense knot of blood vessels.

vas'o·in·hib'i·tor (-ĭn·hĭb'ĭ·tĕr), n. [vaso- + inhibitor.] Physiol. An agent, as a drug, with vasoinhibitory action.

vas'o·in·hib'i·to'ry (-tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Physiol. Depressing or inhibiting the action of vasomotor, esp. vasoconstrictor, nerves.

vas'o·li·ga'tion (-lī·gā'shŭn), n. [vaso- + ligation.] Med. Ligation of a vessel, specif. of the vas deferens.

vas'o·mo'tion (-mō'shŭn), n. [vaso- + motion.] Physiol. A change in the caliber of a blood vessel.

vas'o·mo'tor (vās'ō·mō'tĕr), adj. [vaso- + motor.] 1. Physiol. & Anat. Controlling the size of the blood vessels; designating or pertaining to those nerves (arising from centers the chief of which is in the medulla, with others in the spinal cord and sympathetic nervous system) which are distributed to the muscle fibers in the walls of the blood vessels. They comprise both vasoconstrictors (sympathetic) and vasodilators (parasympathetic), which by inducing contraction or dilatation of these fibers (and hence of the vessels) control the amount of blood passing to the various parts or organs, and thus indirectly also their functional activity.

2. Pertaining to the vasomotor nerves or centers.

vas'o·pa·re'sis (vās'ō·pă·rĕ'sĭs; -păr'ĕ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. vaso- + paresis.] Med. More or less complete paralysis of vasomotor action.

vas'o·re'flex (vās'ō·rē'flĕks), n. [vaso- + reflex.] Physiol. A reaction, or reflex, of a vessel, usually a blood vessel.

vas'o·spasm (vās'ō·spăz'm), n. [vaso- + spasm.] Med. Spastic contraction of a vessel, esp. a blood vessel. — vas'o·spas'tic (-spăs'tĭk), adj.

vas'o·ton'ic (-tŏn'ĭk), adj. [vaso- + tonic.] Physiol. & Med. Of, pertaining to, or promoting, the tone of blood vessels.

vas'o·troph'ic (-trŏf'ĭk), adj. [vaso- + -trophic.] Physiol. a Pertaining to the nutrition of blood vessels. b Affecting nutrition through changes in blood vessels, as by increase in their caliber.

vas'quine' (vās'kēn'), n. [F.] A petticoat. Cf. BASQUINE. Scot.

vas'sal (vās'ăl), n. [OF., fr. ML. vassallus, fr. LL. vassus, of Celt. origin; cf. W. & Corn. gwas a youth, page, servant, Bret. gwaz a man, a male, OIr. foss servant; akin to Skr. upasthāna a waiting on, attendance, service, lit., a standing near. See SUB-; STAND. Cf. VALET, VARLET, VAVASOR.] 1. Early Law. One who has placed himself under the protection of another as his lord and has vowed homage and fealty; later, a feudal tenant; a feudatory.

2. One who is in a position or status resembling or suggesting that of a vassal (sense 1); one who owes allegiance and service to a superior after the feudal fashion; as, Persian princes who became Alexander's vassals.

3. A subject; dependent; servant; sometimes, a bondman; slave.

"The vassals of his anger." Milton.

That trembling vassal of the Pole
The feeling compass, Navigation's soul. Byron.

vas'sal, adj. Like a vassal; servile; subservient.

vas'sal, v. t.; -SALED or -SALLED (-ăld); -SAL·ING or SAL·LING. To treat as, or reduce to the state of, a vassal; to vassalize; also, rarely, to dominate; rule.

Climbs some proud hill, whose stately eminence Vassals the fruitful vale's circumference. William Browne.

vas'sal·age (-ĭj), n. [OF. (F. vasselage). See VASSAL.] 1. Prowess; valor; courage; a courageous act. Obs.

2. State or status of being a vassal, or feudatory; relation of a vassal to his lord, or the homage, fealty, or services, due from the vassal.

3. Servitude; esp., political dependence; subjection; slavery; as, the Greeks were held in vassalage by the Turks; a mind in vassalage to passion.

4. Vassals, collectively; vassalry. Rare. Shak.

5. A territory held in vassalage; also, the dominion or authority of a feudal superior over his vassal or vassals.

vas'sal·age, v. t. = VASSAL. Obs.

vas'sal·ess (-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female vassal. Rare.

vas·sal'ic (vă·săl'ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to, or of the nature of, a vassal or vassalism.

vas'sal·ism (vās'ăl·ĭz'ĭm), n. The practice, theories, or usages of the vassal system.

vas·sal'i·ty (vă·săl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Status of a vassal; vassalage.

vas'sal·ize (vās'ăl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To make a vassal or vassals of; as, to vassalize a people.

vas'sal·ry (vās'ăl·rĭ), n. Vassals collectively. Rare.

vassal state. A state under the suzerainty of another state.

‖vas spi·ra'le (văs spī·rā'lē). [NL. spirale spiral.] Anat. A blood vessel in the connective tissue on the under surface of the basilar membrane of the ear.

vast (väst; 83), adj.; VAST'ER (väs't ĕr); VAST'EST. [L. vastus empty, waste, ravaged, uncultivated, desert, immense; akin to OIr. fāss empty, G. wüst desolate, desert, waste, disorderly, OHG. wuosti, AS. wēste. See VACANT; cf. DEVASTATE, WASTE.] 1. Waste; desert; lonely. Obs.

The empty, vast, and wandering air. Shak.

2. Of great extent; also, huge in bulk; immense; enormous; as, vast mountains; a vast empire.

Through the vast and boundless deep. Milton.

3. Very great in numbers, quantity, or amount; as, a vast army; a vast sum of money.

4. Very great in degree, intensity, range, or the like; as, vast labor; a matter of vast importance. "A vast process of evolution." James Ward.

5. Vaguely great in size, quantity, number, etc.; —used as an intensive; as, vast exactness; vast seriousness. "A sort of sighing animation, which had a vast deal of the lover." Jane Austen.

Syn. — Huge, great, mighty. See ENORMOUS.

Ant. — Small, scant, little, meager.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

vast-dimensioned, vast-rolling, vast-skirted.

vast, adv. Vastly.

vast, n. 1. A waste; a boundless compass or space; immensity. "The vast of heaven." Milton.

The dead vast and middle of the night. Shak.

2. A great quantity, amount, or number; a vast deal; as, a vast of pleasure; a vast of rain, of people. Dial. Eng.

'vast, v. t. & i. Short for AVAST.

vas'tate (vās'tāt), v. t. [L. vastatus, past part. of vastare to lay waste.] To render immune.

vas·ta'tion (văs·tā'shŭn), n. [L. vastatio.] 1. Devastation. Obs.

2. Purification through the burning away or destruction of evil attributes.

vas·tid'i·ty (văs·tĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. [See VASTITY.] Vastness; immensity. "The spiritual idea of Friendship, the huge vastidity of its essence." Robert Bridges.

vas'ti·tude (văs'tĭ·tūd), n. [L. vastitudo.] 1. Vastness; immensity; a vast extent or space; a vast.

Systems ago, dead vastitudes afar. W. E. Henley.

2. Destruction; devastation. Obs.

vas'ti·ty (văs'tĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. or L.; F. vastité, fr. L. vastitas.] Vastness; wasteness; a vast. Now Rare. "The dreadful vastity of the stars." Rose Macaulay.

vast'ly (väst'lĭ), adv. 1. To a vast extent or degree; immensely; Colloq., very greatly; as, I shall be vastly obliged.

2. As a waste or desert. Obs. Shak.

vast'ness (väst'nĕs; -nĭs; 83; 119), n. Quality or state of being vast; also, a vast expanse or region.

‖vas'tus ex·ter'nus (văs'tŭs ĕks·tûr'nŭs). [NL.] = VASTUS LATERALIS.

‖vas'tus in'ter·me'di·us (ĭn'tĕr·mē'dĭ·ŭs). [NL. (sc. musculus), great intermediate (muscle).] Anat. The division of the quadriceps muscle which arises from, and covers the front of, the shaft of the femur.

‖vas'tus in·ter'nus (ĭn·tûr'nŭs). [NL.] = VASTUS MEDIALIS.

‖vas'tus la'te·ra'lis (lăt'ĕ·rā'lĭs). [NL. vastus (sc. musculus) lateralis great lateral (muscle).] Anat. A division of the quadriceps muscle covering the outer anterior aspect of the femur, arising chiefly from that bone and inserted into the outer border of the patella by a flat tendon which blends with that of the other divisions of the muscle and sends an expansion to the knee capsule.

‖vas'tus me'di·a'lis (mē'dĭ·ā'lĭs). [NL. vastus (sc. musculus) medialis great medial (muscle).] Anat. A division of the quadriceps muscle covering the inner anterior aspect of the femur, arising chiefly from that bone and the adjacent intermuscular septum, and inserted into the inner border of the patella and into the tendon of the other divisions of the muscle, sending also a tendinous expansion to the capsule of the knee joint. It is closely united (in the upper part often inseparably) with the vastus intermedius.

vast'y (väs'tĭ), adj. [From VAST.] Vast; immense.

I can call spirits from the vasty deep. Shak.

Va'su (vä'sōō), n. [Skr.] Vishnu, as the immanent Supreme Being, or Soul of the universe.

va'su (vä'sōō), n. [Fiji.] Among Fijians, a nephew or his extraordinary rights in relations with his maternal uncle.

Va'su·de'va (vä'sōō·dā'vä), n. [Skr.] A patronymic of Krishna.

Va'su·ki (vä'sōō·kĭ), n. [Skr. Vāsuki.] Hindu Myth. One of the three chief Naga kings.

Va·sun'dha·ra' (vä·sōōn'dä·rä'), n. [Skr. Vasuṁdharā.] Hindu & Buddhist Myth. The earth-goddess.

vat (văt), n. [Dial. for fat, fr. ME. fat, fr. AS. fæt; akin to D. vat, OS. fat, G. fass, OHG. faz, ON. fat, Lith. puodas pot, and to G. fassen to seize, contain. See FETTLE; cf. FAT a vat.] 1. A large vessel, cistern, tub, or barrel; esp., such a large vessel for holding liquors in an immature state, preparations for dyeing or tanning, stock for handmade paper, etc.

2. [Cf. D. vat.] A measure of capacity, formerly of greatly varying value, as the old Dutch grain vat (about ¾ bushel), the old London coal vat (9 bu.), or the Amsterdam wine vat (241.6 wine gallons); now, in Belgium and Holland, a hectoliter (22.00 imperial, or 26.42 U. S., gallons).

3. A liquor containing a dye which has been converted by reduction into a soluble, nondyeing form (leuco base), and called, according to the reducing agent used, copperas vat, zinc vat, hydrosulphite vat, etc. When textile material steeped in the liquor is exposed to the air, the dye is reformed by oxidation and precipitated in the fiber. Dyes so used are called vat dyes; indigo is the original and chief example.

4. A salt pit; sometimes, Local U. S., the incrusted dried margin around a water hole.

5. Metal. a A wooden tub in which to wash ores and minerals. b A square hollow place on the back of a calcining furnace, where tin ore is laid to dry.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

vat builder vatmaker vatman vat keeper vatmaking vat setter vat (văt), v. t.; VAT'TED (văt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VAT'TING. To put into, or treat in, a vat.

vat (văt), n. = WAT, temple.

Va·te'ri·a (vä·tē'rĭ·ä), n. [NL., after Abraham Vater (1684–1751), Ger. botanist.] Bot. A genus of Asiatic trees (family Dipterocarpaceae), having entire small coriaceous leaves and white or yellow flowers with about fifteen stamens. Many species yield oils, resins, and varnishes. V. indica is the piney tree.

‖Va'ter·land' (fä'tĕr·länt'), n. [G.] Fatherland; country.

‖va'tes (vā'tēz), n. pl. [L. See EDDA.] Among the Gauls, a learned class of soothsayers, prophets, and seers, along with the bards and druids. Cf. OVATE.

‖va'tes sa'cer (sā'sĕr). [L.] Literally, a sacred prophet; hence, a poet.

Vath'ek (văth'ĕk; F. vä'tĕk'), n. The usual short title and hero of a novel (1786) by William Beckford, written in French, of which the anonymous English translation has superseded the original. He is a haughty effeminate Mohammedan caliph, influenced by a giaour and an evil mother to commit all sorts of crimes, abjure his faith, and offer allegiance to Eblis, the Mohammedan Satan, in the hope of gaining the throne of the preadamite sultans. In the end he is doomed to eternal torment and remorse.

vat'ic (văt'ĭk), vat'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [L. vates a prophet. See VATES.] Of or pertaining to a prophet; prophetical; oracular. — vat'i·cal·ly, adv.

Vat'i·can (văt'ĭ·kăn), n. [L. Vaticanus (sc. mons, or collis), the Vatican hill, in Rome, on the western bank of the Tiber; cf. F. Vatican, It. Vaticano.] 1. The Pope's palace, an assemblage of buildings at Rome, beside the Church of St. Peter, including museums, art galleries, library, the Sistine Chapel, etc. Here was held the Vatican Council (1869–70), which promulgated the dogma of papal infallibility.

2. Elliptically, the papal authority or government. See VATICAN CITY.

— vat'i·can·al (-ăl), vat'i·can'ic (-kăn'ĭk), vat'i·can'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj.

Vat'i·can, n. [L. Vaticanus.] Rom. Relig. The god who causes an infant to utter his first cry.

Vatican City. The independent papal state, established in 1929 in Rome, Italy, by the Lateran Pact. See in Gaz.

Vatican Codex. = CODEX VATICANUS.

Vatican Fragments. Roman Law. Portions of a compilation of Roman law discovered in 1823 and published in 1828 as Fragmenta Vaticana.

Vat'i·can·ism (văt'ĭ·kăn·ĭz'ĭm), n. The doctrine of absolute papal supremacy; — used opprobriously. — Vat'i·can·ist (-ĭst), n. & adj.

Vat'i·can·ize (-īz), v. t. To bring under the authority of, or make like, the Vatican. — Vat'i·can·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

vat'i·cide (văt'ĭ·sīd), n. [L. vates a prophet + -cide.] The murder, or the murderer, of a prophet.

va·tic'i·nal (vä·tĭs'ĭ·năl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or containing, prophecy; prophetic.

---

vase'let, n. See -LET.
vase'like', adj. See -LIKE.
vase'wise', adv. See -WISE.
Vash'ni (văsh'nĭ). Bib. vas'i·fac'tive (vās'ĭ·făk'tĭv), vas'o·fac'tive (vās'ō-), adj. = VASOFORMATIVE.

‖va'so a ca'li·ce, a cam·pa'na, a co'lon·net'te (vä'zō ä kä'lĭ·chā, käm·pä'nä, kō'lŏn·nĕt'tä). See CRATER.
vas'o·hy'per·ton'ic, adj. [See HYPO-; TONIC.] = VASODILATOR. vas'o·mo·tor'i·al (vās'ō·mō·tō'rĭ·ăl), vas'o·mo·tor'ic (-tōr'ĭk), vas'o·mo'tor·y (-mō'tĕr·ĭ), adj. = VASOMOTOR. vas'o·pres'sor (-prĕs'ĕr), adj. & n. [See PRESSOR.] = VASOCONSTRICTOR. vas'sal·ate, v. t. To reduce to vassalage. Obs. — vas'sal·a'tion, n. Obs. vas'sal·dom, n. See -DOM. vas'sal·less, adj. See -LESS. vas'sal·ship, n. See -SHIP.
Vas'se·ni (vä's'ĕ·nī). D. Bib. vast'i·ly, adv. of VASTY. vast'i·ness, n. See -NESS.
vat. † FAT, WIT.
vat dye or color. See VAT, n., 3.
‖Va'ter·recht' (fä'tĕr·rĕkt'), n. [G.] See PATRIARCHY, 2.
Va'ter's am·pul'la (fä'tĕrz). = AMPULLA OF VATER.
Vater's corpuscle. [See VATERIA.] Anat. = PACINIAN CORPUSCLE. vat'ful, n. See -FUL.

va·tic'i·nant (vȧ·tĭs'ĭ·nănt), adj. [L. vaticinans, antis, pres. part.] Prophesying. Rare.

va·tic'i·nate (-nāt), v. i. & t.; VA·TIC'I·NAT'ED (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VA·TIC'I·NAT'ING (-nāt'ĭng). [L. vaticinatus, past. part. of vaticinari to prophesy, fr. vaticinus prophetical, fr. vates a prophet. See EDDA.] To prophesy; foretell.

vat'i·ci·na'tion (văt'ĭ·sĭ·nā'shŭn), n. [L. vaticinatio.] Prophesying; prediction; prophecy.

Archer had been wont to smile at these annual vaticinations of his mother's. Edith Wharton.

va·tic'i·na·tor (vȧ·tĭs'ĭ·nā'tĕr), n. [L.] A prophet.

va·tic'i·na·to'ry (-nȧ·tō'rĭ; 68), adj. Prophetic.

va·tic'i·na·tress (-nā'trĕs; -trĭs), n. A prophetess. Rare.

vat'-net', n. A laundry net used for suspending fabrics in a bluing vat.

vat'ter (văt'ĕr), n. One who tends a vat; a vatman.

vau (vô), n. [Heb. wāw (wāv), lit., hook.] a Also waw (wô). The sixth letter [ו] of the Hebrew alphabet, a bilabial spirant. As a numeral = 6. b A letter of the primitive Greek alphabet, of the same value as the digamma, and kept only as a numeral (= 6).

Vau·che'ri·a (vô·kē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Jean Pierre Étienne Vaucher (1763–1841), Swiss botanist.] Bot. A genus of green algae constituting a family, Vau·che'ri·a'·ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), of Siphonales. The thallus consists of a single elongated, irregularly branched multinucleate cell, or coenocyte, attached to the substratum by rhizoids. Reproduction is both sexual and asexual. The species live in fresh or brackish water or on damp ground, often forming a green tangled mat, known as green felt. — vau·che'ri·a'·ceous (vô·kē'rĭ·ā'shŭs), adj.

Vau·clain' sys'tem (vô·klăn'). [After S. M. Vauclain (b. 1856), Am. manufacturer.] A system of arranging four-cylinder compound locomotives, using a piston valve to each pair of cylinders, and no receivers.

vaude'ville (vōd'vĭl; vō'dĕ·vĭl; or, esp. Brit., vō'dĕ·vĭl), n. [F., fr. Vau-de-Vire, lit., valley of Vire (a village in Normandy), where such songs were composed. See VALE.] 1. A popular song, often satirical in character; a topical song.

2. a Now Rare. A theatrical piece, usually comic, the dialogue or pantomime of which is intermingled with light or satirical songs, sometimes set to familiar airs, with dancing, etc. b Loosely, and now commonly, variety; as, to play in vaudeville; a vaudeville actor, show, etc.

vaude·vil'li·an (vōd·vĭl'ĭ·ăn; vō'dĕ·vĭl'-), adj. Of or pertaining to vaudeville.

vaude·vil'li·an, n. A vaudevillist.

vaude·vil·list (vōd'vĭl·ĭst; vō'dĕ·vĭl'ĭst), n. A vaudeville writer, actor, singer, or performer.

Vau'dism (vō'dĭz'm), n. The doctrines or tenets of the Vaudois, or Waldenses, or adherence to their principles.

Vau·dois' (vō·dwä'), n. sing. & pl. [F.] An inhabitant, or the inhabitants, of the Swiss canton of Vaud; also, the dialect spoken there.

Vau·dois', n. pl. [F., fr. ML. Valdenses. See WALDENSES.] The Waldenses.

vau'dy (vô'dĭ), adj. [Origin uncert.] a Gay; cheerful; elated. b Showy; gaudy. c Scot. Sturdy.

vau'gne·rite (vō'nĕ·rīt), n. [From Vaugneray, near Lyon, France.] Petrog. A melanocratic intrusive rock in gneiss, characterized by much biotite and apatite, with quartz, orthoclase, and hornblende.

vault (vôlt; the l, a later etymological insertion, was at first prob. not pronounced; cf. VAULT, a leap), n. [ME. vawte, vowte, voute, fr. OF. vaute, vaulte, voute, volte (F. voûte), fr. (assumed) VL. volvita, fr. volvitus, for L. volutus, past part. of volvere to roll, to turn about. See VOLUBLE; cf. VAULT a leap, VOLT a turn, VOLUTE.] 1. a An arched structure of masonry, usually forming a ceiling, or roof, but sometimes carrying a separate roof, a floor, staircase, or the like. b Any arched covering superficially resembling such a structure.

2. A room or space covered by a vault (sense 1 a), esp. when underground, as a part of a cellar devoted to a special purpose, as the storage of wine or valuables. By extension, such a compartment even when not covered by a vault, as below the street pavement in front of a building; also, a room for the safekeeping of valuables, and commonly built of steel.

3. Some place, as a cavern, the crater of a volcano, a great pit, resembling or suggesting a vault (sense 1 a); as, the vaults of Mt. Vesuvius. "The deep vaults to which primitive life has been consigned." Brewster.

4. Figuratively, the canopy of heaven; the sky.

Vaults. 1. 1 Barrel; 2 Cylindrical Intersecting, or Cross; 3 Welsh or Underpitch; 4 Cloister (Coved); 5 Sexpartite; 6 Quadripartite; 7 Lierne. 2, 3, 5, 6, and 7 are Groined Vaults; 5, 6, and 7 are Ribbed Vaults.

5. A burial chamber, whether with or without an arched roof, esp. when underground or partly so.

6. Anat. Any arched or dome-shaped structure; as, the vault of the cranium (the skullcap, or calvaria); the vault of the pharynx (the roof of the nasopharynx); the vault of the mouth, or palatine vault (the hard and soft palate); the vault of the vagina (the fornix).

7. Paleontol. An arched covering of calcareous plates between the arms of Paleozoic crinoids.

vault (vôlt), v. t.; VAULT'ED; VAULT'ING. [ME. vauten, vouten, fr. OF. vaulter, vouter. See VAULT an arch.] a To form with, or to cover with, a vault; to give the shape or the character of a vault to; to arch; as, to vault a roof or ceiling; also, to overarch, or extend over, in the fashion of a vault.

The shady arch that vaulted the broad green alley. Scott.

b Dial., U. S. To bury; to place in, or as in, a vault. — v. i. To arch, bend, or curve, in the shape of a vault.

vault (vôlt; the l was formerly often not pronounced; cf. 1st VAULT), n. [F. volte, prop., a turn, fr. It. volta, fr. (assumed) VL. volvita. See 1st VAULT.] A leap or bound; specif.: a A leap over or upon something, made by aid of the hands, or of a pole. b Manège. The bound or leap of a horse; a curvet.

vault, v. [OF. volter, fr. It. voltare to turn. See VAULT a leap.] Intransitive: 1. To leap; bound; spring.

Leaning on his lance, he vaulted on a tree. Dryden.

Lucan vaulted upon Pegasus with all the heat and intrepidity of youth. Addison.

2. Specif.: To execute a vault or leap (see 3d VAULT a or b); also, now rarely, to exhibit feats of tumbling or leaping. —, Transitive: To leap over; esp., to leap over by aid of the hands or a pole; as, to vault a fence; also, to leap on, as the back of a horse; to mount with a leap; as, he vaulted his steed and started away.

I will vault credit, and affect high pleasures. Webster (1623).

vault'ed, adj. 1. Built as a vault; arched; as, a vaulted roof; covered with a vault; as, a vaulted passage.

2. Having a vault or vaults.

3. Bot. Arched like the roof of the mouth, as the upper lip of many ringent flowers.

— vault'ed·ly, adj.

vault'er (vôl'tĕr), n. One who vaults.

vault'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of 1st VAULT. Hence: n. Act, practice, or art, of building vaults; also, vaulted construction.

vault'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of 4th VAULT. Hence: adj. 1. That overleaps; also, overweening; as, vaulting ambition; a vaulting imagination.

2. That is used in vaulting, as in gymnastic exercises; as, a vaulting block, box, buck, etc.

vaulting capital. Arch. The capital of a vaulting shaft.

vaulting cell. Arch. A compartment of a vault, contrived, as in ribbed structure, to allow of the building of an entire part at a time.

vaulting course. Arch. A course consisting of the springers of a vault, usually set with horizontal beds, and in projection or corbeled out.

vaulting horse. = HORSE, n., 12.

vaulting house. A brothel. Obs.

vaulting pillar. = VAULTING SHAFT.

vaulting shaft. Arch. A slender upright member, as a pilaster or column, from which springs a rib, or group of ribs, of a vault. It is commonly one of a cluster, or forms part of a larger pier.

vaulting shoe. A shoe especially designed to give support to the foot and ankle in pole vaulting.

vaulting tile. Arch. A tile for use in vaulting, esp. timbrel vaulting.

vault mount. Gymnastics. A leap on to an apparatus made by aid of the hands.

vault rib. One of the arches carrying a vault. Cf. VAULT, n., 1., Illust.

vault'y (vôl'tĭ), adj. [Cf. F. voûté, past part.] Arched; concave; vaultlike.

vaunt (vônt; vänt; 277), v. i.; VAUNT'ED; VAUNT'ING. [OF. vanter, fr. LL. vanitare, fr. L. vanus vain. See VAIN.] To make a vain display of one's own worth, attainments, or the like; to talk vainglariously; to brag; boast.

Pride, which prompts a man to vaunt and overvalue what he is, does incline him to disvalue what he has. Gov. of Tongue.

— v. t. To boast of; to make a vainglorious display of; to put forward boastfully.

Charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up. 1 Cor. xiii. 4.

Syn. — See BOAST. Ant. — Belittle, decry.

vaunt, n. A vainglorious display of what one is, or has, or has done; ostentation; a boast; brag.

vaunt, interj. & adv. = AVAUNT. Obs.

vaunt (vônt), n. [F. avant before, fore. See AVANT, VANGUARD.] Front part; van. Obs.

vaunt (vônt). Var. of FONT. Obs. exc. Dial.

vaunt'age (vôn'tĭj; vän'-), n. Vaunt; arrogant boasting.

vaunt'-cour'i·er (vänt'kōōr'ĭ·ĕr; vônt'-), n. [F. avant-courrier. See AVANT, VAN of an army; COURIER. Cf. AVANT-COURIER.] 1. One sent in advance; an avant-courier, as of a body of troops. Obs.

2. Hence, a precursor; harbinger; forerunner.

vaunt'ed (vôn'tĕd; -tĭd; vän'-; 119), adj. Boasted; as, his vaunted wealth, skill, prowess.

vaunt'er (-tĕr), n. One who vaunts.

vaunt'er·y (-tĕr·ĭ), n. [F. vanterie.] A vaunting; bravado; also, a boast. Rare.

vaunt'ful (vônt'fōōl; -f'l; vänt'-), adj. Vaunting; boastful; vainglorious. — adv. Boastfully. Rare.

vaunt'i·ness (vôn'tĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; vän'-; 119), n. Arrogant boasting.

vaunt'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VAUNT. Hence: adj. That vaunts or boasts. — vaunt'ing·ly, adv.

vaunt'mure' (vänt'mūr'), n. [F. avant-mur.] Fort. A low work in front of the main wall, like a faussebraie. Now Rare.

vaunt'y (vôn'tĭ), adj. Proud; boastful; vain. Scot.

vauque'lin·ite (vōk'lĭn·īt), n. [After L. N. Vauquelin, French chemist.] Mineral. A green to brown lead copper phosphate and chromate.

‖vau'rien' (vō'ryăn'), n. [F.] A worthless fellow.

Vau'trin' (vō'trăn'), n. In several of the novels of Balzac and in his drama of this name, an iron-willed criminal who becomes a chief of secret police.

Vaux (vôks), n. 1. A messenger in Shakespeare's 2 Henry VI. 2. Sir Nicholas Vaux, a character in Henry VIII.

Vaux (vō), n. See Verdun, under BATTLE, Table.

Vaux'hall' (vôks'hôl'; 66), n. a Short for VAUXHALL GARDENS. b A quarter in London on the south bank of the Thames in Lambeth.

Vauxhall Gardens. A former popular pleasure resort in London, on the south bank of the Thames above Lambeth. Laid out in 1661, it was at first known as the New Spring Gardens at Foxhall. It was finally closed in 1859.

Vaux·hall'i·an (vôks·hôl'ĭ·ăn), adj. Pertaining to or characteristic of Vauxhall Gardens; esp., of ordinary, common, or vulgar nature, suitable to the masses of people who frequented Vauxhall Gardens.

vaux'ite (vôks'īt), n. [After George Vaux (1863–1927), Am. naturalist.] A hydrous iron aluminum phosphate.

vav'a·sor, vav'a·sour (văv'ȧ·sōr, -sōōr), n. [ME. vavasour, fr. OF. vavassor, vavassour (F. vavasseur), fr. LL. vassus vassorum vassal of vassals. See VASSAL.] 1. Feud. Law. Any of a certain class of feudal lords next in rank to a knight banneret; a subtenant holding his property directly from a tenant in capite. Chaucer.

2. A jolly fellow, or a great man. Derogatory. Obs.

vav'a·so'ry (văv'ȧ·sō'rĭ; -sĕr·ĭ), n. [OF. vavassorie.] Feud. Law. The tenure of a fee, or the lands, held by a vavasor.

va'ward' (vä'wôrd'), n. [For avantward, fr. ONF. avantwarde. See VANGUARD; WARD a guarding.] Vanguard, as of troops; hence, the forefront; the van. Archaic.

Va·yu' (vä·yōō'), n. [Skr. Vāyu.] Vedic Myth. The wind-god, and, in the Ramayana, also father of Hanuman.

Va·zim'ba (vȧ·zĭm'bȧ), n. Also Ba·zim'ba. A member of one of the Negroid peoples of Madagascar.

vb-. For words beginning with vb-, see the forms in UB-.

V bend, or V'-bend', n. See V, adj., 2.

V block, or V'-block', n. See V, adj., 2.

V'-blouse', n. A blouse with V-shaped neck.

V bob, or V'-bob', n. Mining. A strong frame shaped like an isosceles triangle, and turning on a pivot at its apex, used as a bell crank to change the direction of a main pump rod.

V'-bot'tom, n. Naut. a A type of sailboat peculiar to the United States, usually broad and shoal, the bottom being in the form of a flat V, and joined by a chine to vertical or flaring sides. b A type of powerboat, usually of high speed, developed early in the 20th century from the sailing type.

vc-. For words beginning with vc-, see the forms in UC-.

V connection. Elec. A method of connecting a generator, motor, or transformer, to a three-phase system by joining two of the apparatus coils in series and then uniting this joint and the outer terminals of the coils to the system. The junction of the coils is connected to the neutral wire of the system. Called also open delta connection. Cf. DELTA CONNECTION.

V crowder. Irrigation. = 2d CROWDER c.

V croze, or V'-croze', n. See V, adj., 2.

V curve, or V'-curve', n. See V, adj., 2.

vd. For words beginning with vd-, see the forms in UD-.

Ve'a·dar' (vē'ȧ·där'; vā'-), n. [Heb. wē-Adhār, lit., and Adar, i. e., the second or intercalary Adar.] See JEWISH CALENDAR.

veal (vēl), n. [ME. vel, vele, veel, fr. OF. veel (F. veau), fr. L. vitellus, dim. of vitulus a calf. See WETHER; cf. VELLUM, VITULINE.] 1. A calf. Obs. exc. Dial.

2. The flesh of a calf used for food; formerly, that of any bovine animal up to the time of its maturity; now, usually restricted to that of calves of a few days to twelve or fourteen weeks in age. Most market veal comes from three-weeks-old to six-weeks-old calves from dairy cattle.

Cuts of Veal. 1 Leg (Cutlets, Roasts, Stew); 2 Loin (Loin and Kidney Chops); 3 Rack (Rib Chops); 4 Chuck (Roasts and Stew); C Cutlets; R, R Roasts; S Shank. 1 and 2 together constitute the Hind Saddle; 3 and 4 the Foresaddle.

veal, adj. Made from veal.

veal, v. t. To raise or fatten for veal; as, he vealed the calf.

veal bird. A small thin slice of veal rolled around stuffing, seared, and stewed.

veal'er (vēl'ĕr), n. A calf suitable for veal. Cant.

veal'y (vēl'ĭ), adj. Like or suggesting veal or a calf; hence, immature. Colloq. — veal'i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Colloq.

‖veau (vō), n. [F.] Veal; calf.

vec'tion (vĕk'shŭn), n. [L. vectio, fr. vehere, vectum, to carry.] 1. Vectitation. Obs.

2. Med. Transference of disease germs from an infected to a well person.

vec'tis (vĕk'tĭs), n. [L., pole, bar.] Obstetrics. An instrument with a curved blade used as a lever to assist in delivery.

vec'tor (vĕk'tĕr), n. [L., a bearer, carrier, fr. vehere, vectum, to carry. See WAY.] 1. Astron. = RADIUS VECTOR.

2. Biol. An organism, usually an insect, which carries and transmits disease-causing microorganisms.

3. Math. A complex entity representative of a directed magnitude, as of a force or a velocity, and represented by any of a system of equal and parallel line segments. It is the symbol of a definite translation from one point to another in Euclidean space. Nonlocalized vectors are said to be equal when their directions are parallel and in the same sense and their lengths equal. Cf. SCALAR, 1 a; LOCALIZED VECTOR; UNIT VECTOR; PARALLEL VECTORS; ROTATIONAL VECTOR; POTENTIAL VECTOR; ZERO VECTOR; LAMELLAR VECTOR.

vector addition. Math. The process of finding the geometric sum of a number of vectors; specif., the determination of a single vector equivalent to two or more vectors. To add the vectors, the lines representing them are placed in a linear series, without changing their directions, so that each line, after the first, begins where the one before it ends; the line joining the initial point of the first vector to the terminal point of the last is the sum. Called also geometrical addition.

vector algebra. See ALGEBRA, n., 2 a.

vector analysis. Math. That branch of mathematics which treats of vector algebra (see ALGEBRA, n., 2 a) and the space or time rate of change of scalar point functions and of vector fields.

va·tic'i·na'trix (vȧ·tĭs'ĭ·nā'trĭks), n. [L.] = VATICINATRESS.

vat'i·cine (văt'ĭ·sĭn), n. [L. vaticinium.] A vaticination. Obs.

va·tic'i·ny (vȧ·tĭs'ĭ·nĭ), n. [L. vaticinium.] Vaticination. Obs.

vat liquor. Chem. See LEBLANC PROCESS. [See TAMIL, n., 2.

Vat'te·lut'tu (văt'ĕ·lŭt'tōō), n.

vat waste. Chem. = SODA WASTE. See LEBLANC PROCESS.

vau, or waw consecutive, or conversive. See CONSECUTIVE, adj., 4. [of VAUDOIS.]

Vau·dese' (vō·dēz'; -dēs'). Var.

vaude'vil. Var. & ref. sp. of VAUDEVILLE. [Vars. of VOODOO.]

vau'dou', vau'doux' (vō'dōō').

vault'age, n. A vaulted place; an arched cellar. Obs.

vault'like', adj. See -LIKE.

vau'mure', n. = VAUNTMURE. Obs. [Obs.] vaunce (vôns), v. i. To advance.

vaunt'ie. Var. of VAUNTY.

vaunt-lay'. Var. of VANLAY.

vaunt'par'ler, n. [MF. avant-parleur.] A spokesman; also, a meddler. Obs.

vaut. † VAULT.

vav (văv). Var. of VAU.

vav'as·sor, etc. Var. of VAVASOR.

vaw'mure'. Var. of VAUNTMURE.

vawte. † VAULT.

vay. † FAY, faith; WAY.

vaye. † WAY.

Ve (vē), n. [Icel. Vē.] Norse Myth. See 1st VILI.

've. Colloquial contraction of have; as, we 've got to do these things.

veadore. † VEEDOR.

veal'like', adj. See -LIKE.

veal'skin', n. = CALFSKIN.

veare. † VEER.

vecke, n. A hag. Obs.

vec·tĭ'gal (vĕk·tĭ'găl), n. [L.] Roman Hist. See ager publicus, under 2d AGER.

vec'ti·ta'tion (vĕk'tĭ·tā'shŭn), n. [L. vectitatus borne about, fr. vectare, v. intens. fr. vehere, vectum, to carry.] A carrying, or being carried about. Obs.

vector area. Math. = AREA VECTOR. vector field. Math. & Physics. A set of vectors defined at the various points of a curve or surface or region of space, one of the set being attached to each point of the curve, surface, or volume. It is a function of position, the components of each vector of the field being functions of the co-ordinates of the point to which the vector is attached. Called also distributed vector, vector point function; — distinguished from scalar point function.
vec·to'ri·al (vĕk·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. Math. Of or relating to a vector or vector quantity. — vec·to'ri·al·ly, adv.
vectorial angle. Math. The angle reckoned from the polar axis to the radius vector. vectorial co-ordinates. Math. See CO-ORDINATE, n., 2. vector line. Math. A line whose tangent at every point has the direction of the vector at that point.
vector point function. = VECTOR FIELD.
vector potential. Math. A vector field so distributed in space as to represent by means of its curl some physically important vector, as a vector field A from which another vector field B may be derived by the formula B = curl A; specif., Maxwell's vector potential, in which curl A is the magnetic induction B of an electromagnetic field.
vector product (of two vectors A and B). Math. The vector whose magnitude is that of the area of the parallelogram determined by two coterminous representative line segments of A and B, respectively, and whose representative line segment is perpendicular to the plane of this parallelogram and positively related to the sense of rotation from the representative line segment of A to that of B through the smaller angle between these line segments, denoted by [A,B] or A × B. Called also cross product, owing to the use of the sign ×. Cf. SCALAR PRODUCT.
vector quantity. Physics. A quantity which requires for its representation only a magnitude and a direction, and therefore may be described by a vector. vector sum. The sum obtained in vector addition. vec'ture (vĕk'tûr), n. [L. vectura, fr. vehere, vectum, to carry. See VEHICLE; cf. VETTURA, VOITURE.] Conveyance; carriage. Obs.
Ve'da (vā'dȧ; vē'dȧ; 277), n. [Skr. veda knowledge, sacred lore, sacred book; akin to Skr. veda I know, Av. vaēdā, Gr. oida, OSlav. vědě, Armen. gitem, OIr. ro-fetar, Goth. wait, OHG. weiz, G. weiss, ON. veit, AS. ic wāt, E. I wot; an old preterit-present (I have seen = I know) fr. the root of L. videre to see, Gr. idein. See WIT.] The most ancient sacred literature of the Hindus, comprising more than one hundred extant books and including, in addition to the four Sanhitas to which they are individually attached, works of exegesis, legend, ritual, and religio-philosophical speculation (see BRAHMANA, ARANYAKA, UPANISHAD, SUTRA); specif. (singular or collective; pl. VEDAS [-dȧz]), one or all of the four canonical collections (see SANHITA) of hymns, prayers, and liturgical formulae (see MANTRA) which are the foundation of Vedic literature and religion: namely, the Rig-Veda, the oldest and most important, comprising more than a thousand hymns; the Yajur-Veda, comprising liturgical and ritualistic formulae in verse and prose; the Sama-Veda, hymns, many of which occur in the Rig-Veda, for which musical notation is added or indicated; and the Atharva-Veda, in verse and prose, comprising charms, prayers, curses, spells, etc., as well as some theosophic and cosmogonic hymns, and written in a cruder and more popular style than the preceding. The Vedas, especially the Rig-Veda, display a vivid tendency to personify nature, and represent a stage of religion generally considered to be that of the Aryan invaders of India (see ARYAN, n., 1), but material from indigenous sources is embodied, especially in the later books. Included in the Vedas are the Brahmanas and Upanishads. The Vedic period is conservatively estimated to have begun about 1500 to 1000 B.C. The language of the Vedas, Vedic Sanskrit, is usually distinguished from the classical Sanskrit. See SANSKRIT; cf. HINDUISM, VEDANTA. — Ve·da'ic (vȧ·dā'ĭk; vē-), adj. — Ve'da·ism (vā'dȧ·ĭz'm; vē'dȧ-), n.
Ve·da'li·a (vē·dā'lĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., said to be a coined name without significance.] Zool. The genus containing the Australian ladybird. See LADYBIRD.

Vedalia (V. cardinalis). × 4 ve'da·na (vā'dȧ·nä), n. [Skr. vedanā.] Buddhism. Sensation or sense knowledge.

Ve·dan'ga (vȧ·dän'gȧ), n. [Skr. Vedāṅga, lit., limb of the Veda.] Any one of six classes of Sanskrit works written in the sutra style, including phonetics, meter, grammar, etymology, religious ceremony, and the ritualistic calendar. They are designed to teach how to recite, understand, and apply, Vedic texts.
Ve·dan'ta (vȧ·dän'tȧ; vē·dän'tȧ; 277), n. [Skr. Vedānta, fr. Veda Veda + anta end. See VEDA; END.] 1. The Aranyakas and older Upanishads. The Vedanta, or Upanishads as variously interpreted, are the common doctrinal basis of all Hinduism.
2. Hinduism. A system of monistic or pantheistic philosophy, based on the Upanishads and systematized by the philosopher Shankara; — primarily so called as being an investigation of the latter part of the Vedas, afterwards interpreted as embodying the ultimate aim or end of the Vedas. Cf. UPANISHAD.
Ve·dan'tic (-tĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to the Vedanta philosophy; also, of or pertaining to the Vedas; Vedic.
Ve·dan'tism (-tĭz'm), n. Vedantic philosophy. — Ve·dan'tist (-tĭst), n. & adj.
Ved'da, Ved'dah (vĕd'ȧ), n. [Singhalese vedda a hunter.] One of an aboriginal people of Ceylon characterized by slender build and small stature (five feet for adult males), by dark complexion, and profuse wavy hair. Their culture is exceedingly primitive, except where brought under the influence of the Singhalese. They have been considered as a race intermediate between the Australian blacks and the Dravidians of Hindustan. — Ved'doid (-oid), adj.
ve·dette' (vē·dĕt'), n. [F., fr. It. vedetta (after vedere to see), fr. veletta, fr. Sp. vela, fr. L. vigilare to keep watch. See VIGILANT.] a Mil. A mounted sentinel, stationed in advance of the pickets, to watch an enemy, and give notice of danger. b Nav. A small vessel used to watch an enemy; — usually called vedette boat.
vedette post. Mil. An outpost of two or more vedettes, one of whom is constantly on the alert.
Ve'dic (vā'dĭk; vē'dĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to the Vedas, the language in which they are written, or the period and culture which they represent.
Ve'dic, n., or Vedic Sanskrit. See SANSKRIT, VEDA. ve'di·ka (vā'dĭ·kä), n. [Skr.] Hindu. a An altar. b A railing enclosing a sacred object or area; — often called a Buddhist railing, but not exclusively Buddhist.
Ved'io·vis, Ved'u·is, Vej'o·vis (vĕd'yō·vĭs, -ū·ĭs, vĕj'ō·vĭs), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. An ancient underworld divinity, antitype of Jupiter as the god of the heavens, whose festival was the agonium of May 21. He was sometimes identified with Apollo as a death-dealing god.
Ve'dism (vā'dĭz'm; vē'-), n. The religious system and practices based upon the Vedas.
Ve'dist (-dĭst), n. A student of the Vedas; also, a believer in Vedism. vee (vē), n.; pl. VEES (vēz). 1. The letter V, v.
2. Anything having the shape of the letter V.
3. A five-dollar bill (= V, n., 4). vee, adj. Having the form of capital V; V-shaped. vee (vē), n. [AF., fr. veer to refuse.] Old Law. A refusal. vee' de name' (vē' dĕ nȧm'). [ML. vetitum namium] Refusal to deliver a thing distrained. Cf. WITHERNAM. veen (vēn), adj. [Manx veen, veein, small.] Little; — chiefly in endearment. Isle of Man. veer (vēr), v. [F. virer (cf. Sp. virar, It. virare), of uncert. origin. Cf. ENVIRON, WEAR of ships.] Intransitive: 1. To change direction; to turn; to shift, as from one direction, condition, inclination, position, etc., to another; to be variable. "His veering gait." Wordsworth.
2. Metereol. To shift in a clockwise direction; — said of the wind. Opposed to back.
3. Naut. To wear ship; to alter the course by turning away from the direction of the wind.
—, Transitive: To direct to a different course; to turn; to shift; specif., Naut., to wear; as, to veer, or wear, a vessel.
Syn. — See CHANGE.
veer and haul. To vary the course or direction; — said of the wind, which is said to veer aft and haul forward.
veer (vēr), v. t. [MD. vieren to slacken; akin to OHG. fieren.] Naut. To let or pay out, as a rope, anchor chain, etc.; as, to veer the mainsheet.
veer and haul. Naut. To pay out and haul in alternately, or simultaneously on different parts.
veer away or out. Naut. a To let out; to slacken and let run; to pay out; as, veer away the cable; veer out a rope. b Hence, to permit to drift off by letting out a line.
veer, n. Act of veering; a change in course, direction, inclination, or the like; as, he took a sharp veer to the left; a veer toward ultraconservatism.
ve'er (vē'ĕr), n. [ə + -er.] Metal. = 2d GLUTTER. veer'a·ble (vēr'ȧ·b'l), adj. Changeable; shifting; variable; as, veerable winds. veer'y (vēr'ĭ), n.; pl. VEERIES (-ĭz). [Prob. imitative of one of its notes.] A thrush (Hylocichla fuscescens) common in the eastern United States, light tawny brown above, pale buff below, rather indistinctly spotted with brown, and grayish white on the sides;—called also Wilson's thrush.
Ve'ga (vē'gȧ), n. [ML. (whence Sp. Vega), fr. Ar. (al-Nasr) al-Waqī' the falling (vulture).] Astron. A brilliant star of the first magnitude, the brightest in the constellation Lyra; Alpha (α) Lyrae. It is a hydrogen star similar to Sirius, but differs in showing a little helium. Vega is about 26 light-years distant. See STAR, Table.
‖ve'ga (vā'gä), n. [Sp.] An open tract of ground; a meadow, esp. one moist and fertile. Sp. Amer. & Phil. I. ve'gas·ite (vā'gȧs·ĭt), n. [From Las Vegas, Nevada.] Mineral. A hydrous lead ferric sulphate, $PbO.3Fe_2O_3.3SO_3.6H_2O$, occurring in straw-yellow, ocherous masses.
veg'e·cul'ture (vĕj'ē·kŭl'tûr), n. [vegetable + culture.] Hort. The cultivation of vegetables.
veg'e·ta·bil'i·ty (vĕj'ē·tȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being vegetable. Rare.
veg'e·ta·ble (vĕj'ē·tȧ·b'l; 59), adj. [See VEGETABLE, n.] 1. Of or pertaining to plants; having the nature of, or produced by, plants; growing in the manner of a plant; as, a vegetable nature; vegetable growths, juices, etc.; consisting of plants; as, the vegetable kingdom.
2. Made from vegetables or their substance; specif., in textiles, foods, etc., made synthetically from plant tissue or substance to resemble an animal product; as, vegetable silk, wool, leather, butter, tallow, pigments.
3. Resembling or suggesting a plant, esp. in its lowliness, its monotony of existence attached to one place, its inexpressiveness, or the like; hence, monotonous; dull; stupid; as, he led a vegetable existence.
veg'e·ta·ble, n. [OF., fr. vegeter to vegetate, fr. ML. vegetare, fr. L. vegetus lively, active, fr. vegere to be active. See VIGIL; cf. VEGETATE.] A plant; specif., in common usage, a herbaceous plant cultivated for food, as the cabbage, turnip, potato, bean, etc.; also, the edible part or parts of such plants, as prepared for market or table. There is no well-drawn distinction between vegetables and fruits (see FRUIT, 2) in the popular sense; but it has been held by the courts that all those which, like potatoes, carrots, peas, celery, lettuce, tomatoes, etc., are eaten (whether cooked or raw) during the principal part of a meal are to be regarded as vegetables, while those used only for dessert are fruits.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
vegetable-eating, vegetable-feeding, vegetable-growing. vegetable acid. An acid occurring in plants, as oxalic acid or citric acid; an organic acid. Obs.
vegetable alkali. Old Chem. a Potash. b A vegetable alkaloid. vegetable alkaloid. An alkaloid of vegetable origin; a plant alkaloid. vegetable anatomy. The morphology of plants. vegetable antimony. The common boneset (Eupatorium perfoliatum). vegetable bezoar. A concretion formed of the hairs of crimson clover, awns of oats, etc., found in the stomach of ruminating animals and sometimes fatal.
vegetable black. A fine variety of lampblack made by the combustion of vegetable oils.
vegetable brimstone. Lycopodium powder.
vegetable bristles. The fibers of the gomuti. vegetable butter. a Any fixed vegetable oil that is solid at ordinary temperatures, as cacao butter, shea butter, etc.; specif., phulwa butter. See OIL, Table I. b The avocado. vegetable calomel. = PODOPHYLLUM. See PODOPHYLLUM, n., 2. vegetable casein. = LEGUMIN. vegetable caterpillar. The aweto. vegetable cheese. = BEAN CURD. vegetable color. Any coloring matter of plant origin as contrasted with synthetic and mineral colors.
vegetable dye. Any dye obtained from a plant, as contrasted with synthetic and mineral dyes. vegetable earth. Vegetable mold.
vegetable egg. a The eggplant. b The fruit of the marmalade tree. vegetable ethiops. Charcoal made by incinerating rockweed, formerly used as a remedy in scrofula. vegetable fibrin. = GLUTEN, 2. vegetable flannel. A textile material, manufactured in Germany from pine wool. vegetable fountain. Water vine. vegetable gelatin. a = AGAR-AGAR. b = GLIADIN a. vegetable glue. a Agar-agar. b An adhesive made from vegetable material, as by treating starch with alkali. vegetable gold. The saffron Crocus sativus.
vegetable hair. a Pine wool. b A fibrous substance used for stuffing cushions, packing, etc., prepared in the southern United States from the long moss; also, the plant itself. c Vegetable horsehair. vegetable horsehair. A fiber from the European dwarf fan palm (Chamaerops humilis), used to stuff cushions. vegetable ivory. a See IVORY NUT a. b The shell of the coquilla nut. vegetable jelly. See PECTIN. vegetable kingdom. The primary division of living things which includes all plants. See PLANT, n., 3. vegetable lamb. a = SCYTHIAN LAMB a. b The cotton plant. vegetable leather. a A shrubby West Indian spurge (Adenorima punicea), family Euphorbiaceae, with leathery foliage and crimson bracts. b An imitation leather made of cotton waste. vegetable marrow. a An egg-shaped gourd, commonly eight to ten inches long. It is tender, and is a favorite vegetable in England. It is one of the forms of Cucurbita pepo. b The flesh of this gourd, cooked, seasoned, and served as a vegetable. c The avocado.
vegetable milk. A synthetic milk made from plants, esp. from soybeans. vegetable mold. Humus. vegetable naphtha. = WOOD NAPHTHA. vegetable oil. Any oil obtained from plants. See OIL, n., 1, and Table I.
☞ Since all essential oils are of vegetable origin and hence need no further designation, vegetable oil is used esp. of fixed oils from plants to distinguish them from animal oils.
vegetable orange. The mango melon.
vegetable oyster. a The salsify. b The black salsify. vegetable parchment. = PARCHMENT PAPER. vegetable pathology. = PLANT PATHOLOGY. vegetable pear. The chayote. vegetable pepsin. Papain. vegetable plate. A main course, without meat, consisting of several vegetables cooked separately and served on one plate.
vegetable pomegranate. The snake melon. vegetable red. = CARTHAMUS RED. vegetable rennet. Any plant which has the power of coagulating milk; specif.: a The butterwort. b A shrub (Withania coagulans) of Afghanistan, whose seeds are used in place of rennet.
vegetable rouge. = CARTHAMUS RED. vegetable satyr. = SATYR ORCHID. vegetable serpent. The snake melon. vegetable sheep. See RAOULIA a. vegetable silk. A cottonlike fibrous material obtained from the coating of the seeds of a Brazilian tree (Chorisia speciosa), family Bombacaceae. It is used for stuffing cushions, etc. Also, the similar product of various related trees. Cf. SILK COTTON. vegetable soul. See ANIMAL SOUL a. vegetable spermaceti. = CHINESE WAX. vegetable sponge. The dishcloth gourd. vegetable stock. Vegetable pot liquor. vegetable sulphur. Lycopodium powder. vegetable tallow. Any fatty tallowlike substance obtained from plants and used in soap and candles, for burning, etc.; specif., Chinese tallow. See OIL, Table I. veg'e·ta·ble–tal'low tree. Also vegetable tallow. The wax myrtle. vegetable tanning. See TAN, v. t., 1. vegetable towel. The dishcloth gourd. vegetable turpeth. = TURPETH, 1. vegetable wax. Any waxy product secreted by various plants, as palm wax, Chinese wax, Japan wax, bayberry tallow, etc. Wax is commonly secreted in thin flakes by the walls of the epidermal cells of leaves, fruits, etc., and sometimes forms a "bloom."
veg'e·ta·bl·ize (vĕj'ē·tȧ·b'l·īz), v. t. To transform into or cause to take the properties of a vegetable.
veg'e·ta·bly (-blĭ), adv. In the manner of or like a vegetable; with the characteristics of a vegetable.
This living vegetably and intuitively — is it really going to be possible? Aldous Huxley.
veg'e·tal (-tăl; -t'l), adj. [Cf. F. végétal. See VEGETABLE.] 1. Pertaining to vegetables, or the vegetable kingdom; of the nature of a vegetable, as in growth and development contrasted with animal; vegetable.
2. Being, resembling, or suggesting, a vegetable in lack of sense responses and reasoning power. "Famous theories of the vegetal, sensitive, and rational souls." Tylor.
3. Composed of or derived from vegetables; as, a vegetal diet, remedy.
4. Biol. Pertaining to vegetation; vegetative. veg'e·tal, n. [Cf. F. végétal.] A vegetable. Rare.
veg'e·tal'cule (vĕj'ē·tăl'kūl), n. [From vegetal, after animalcule.] A minute organism of vegetable nature; — contrasted with animalcule.
veg'e·tal'i·ty (-tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality of being vegetal. Rare.
veg'e·tant (vĕj'ē·tănt), adj. [LL. & ML. vegetans, -antis, pres. part. See VEGETATE, VEGETABLE.] a Inspiring growth and vigor; invigorating. b Of the nature of vegetation, in lack of sense response and power of reason; vegetative; vegetable.
veg'e·tar'i·an (-târ'ĭ·ăn; 79), n. a One who believes that plants afford the only proper food for man. Strict vegetarians eat no butter, eggs, or milk. b Commonly, a lactovegetarian.
veg'e·tar'i·an, adj. Of or pertaining to vegetarianism; also, consisting wholly of vegetables; as, a vegetarian diet.
veg'e·tar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. The theory or practice of living solely upon vegetables and fruits.
veg'e·tate (vĕj'ē·tāt), v.; -TAT'ED (-tāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -TAT'ING (-tāt'ĭng). [ML. vegetatus, past part. of vegetare. See VEGETABLE.] Intransitive: 1. To grow after the fashion of plants.
See life dissolving vegetate again. Pope.

---

vedere. ✝ FATHER, FEATHER. ve·det'. Vedette. Ref. Sp. ve·dro' (vē·drō'), n. sing. & pl. [Russ., lit., bucket.] See MEASURE, Table.
ve'e·dor' (Sp. vā'ā·dōr'), n. [Sp.] A chief officer under the sovereign; inspector. Obs. veerd. Veered. Ref. Sp.
veer'ing·ly, adv. of veering, pres. part. [VISIT.] vee'sit (vē'zĭt). Scot. var. of veg (vĕg). Var. of 1st VAGUE. veg'e·ta·bl. Vegetable. Ref. Sp. veg'e·ta·ble·like', adj. See -LIKE. veg'e·ta·ble·wise', adv. See -WISE. vegetal pole. Zool. = VEGETATIVE POLE.

2. Hence, to lead a passive existence without initiative or exertion of body or mind; to do little but eat and grow.
Persons who . . . would have vegetated stupidly in the places where fortune had fixed them. Jeffrey.
3. Med. To grow exuberantly; to produce fleshy or warty outgrowths; as, a vegetating papule.
—, Transitive: To make vegetate; to cause growth in. R.

veg'e·tate (vĕj'ē·tāt), adj. = VEGETATIVE. Obs.

veg'e·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n. [ML. vegetatio. See VEGETATE.] 1. Act or process of vegetating, or growing as a plant does; vegetable growth, development, or activity.
2. Hence, inert existence; a monotonous life removed from the stimulation of social contacts; dull and stagnant living.
3. The sum of vegetable life; plants in general; as, luxuriant vegetation.
4. A plantlike formation or arborescent crystallization; as, vegetation of salts.
5. Med. A morbid outgrowth upon any part, esp. an excrescence of fibrin and leucocytes upon the valves of the heart.

veg'e·ta'tion·al (-ăl), adj. Resembling, suggesting, or having the characteristics of, vegetation.

vegetation spirit. Primitive Relig. A spirit believed to be in and responsible for the growth of vegetation. Cf. CORN GOD.

veg'e·ta'tive (vĕj'ē·tā'tĭv), adj. [ML. vegetativus.] 1. Growing, or having the power of growing, as plants; pertaining to growth; designating functions (as metabolism, nutrition, etc.) most directly concerned with the maintenance of life; — often, esp. in Bot., in specif. sense opposed to reproductive; as, a vegetative stage in the life history of a plant.
2. Having the power to produce growth in plants; fertile; productive; as, the vegetative properties of soil.
3. Designating the division of nature which includes the vegetable kingdom; as, the vegetative as contrasted with the animal world.
4. Leading a passive existence; plantlike; vegetal; inert; as, he led a vegetative life in the country.
— veg'e·ta'tive·ly, adv. — veg'e·ta'tive·ness, n.

veg'e·ta'tive, n. A vegetable, or plant. Obs.

vegetative apogamy. See APOGAMY, n., 2.

vegetative cone. Bot. The conical protuberance which commonly forms the apex of a growing shoot; the apical point.

vegetative mutation. Biol. A mutation occurring in a somatic cell or tissue.

vegetative nervous system. = SYMPATHETIC NERVOUS SYSTEM. See AUTONOMIC NERVOUS SYSTEM.

vegetative pole. Embryol. The part of an egg diametrically opposite to the animal pole (which see). Its protoplasm often contains more yolk, divides more slowly, and forms larger blastomeres than that about the animal pole, and gives rise to the hypoblast of the embryo.

Vegetative Cone of Equisetum (diagrammatic). a Apical Cell; b, b Leaf Primordia.

vegetative reproduction. Biol. Reproduction, or propagation, as in horticulture, by nonsexual processes, esp. gemmation, formation of runners, tubers, etc., or the like.

ve·gete' (vē·jēt'), adj. [L. vegetus. See VEGETABLE.] Lively; healthy; flourishing. —ve·gete'ness, n. Both Rare.

veg'e·tism (vĕj'ē·tĭz'm), n. Vegetal state or characteristic.

veg'e·tive (vĕj'ē·tĭv), adj. [From VEGETATIVE.] Vegetable; vegetative. — veg'e·tive, n.

veg'e·tiv'o·rous (vĕj'ē·tĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. [From vegetable, after herbivorous.] Feeding on vegetables or on vegetation.

veg'e·to- (vĕj'ē·tō-). [Cf. F. végeto-.] A combining form denoting vegetable (and), as in:
vegetoalkaline, vegetoanimal, vegetobituminous, vegetocarbonaceous, vegetomineral.

veg'e·to·al'ka·loid (-ăl'kȧ·loid), n. A vegetable alkaloid.

ve'he·mence (vē'ē·mĕns; vē'hē·mĕns), n. [F. véhémence, fr. L. vehementia.] Quality or state of being vehement; intensity; as: a Impetuous force; impetuosity; violence; fury; as, the vehemence of the wind; to speak with vehemence. b Violent ardor; fervor, as of passion. "Petitionary vehemence." Shak.

ve'he·men·cy (-mĕn·sĭ), n. [L. vehementia.] Vehemence. Rare. Shak.

ve'he·ment (-mĕnt), adj. [F. véhément, fr. L. vehemens, fr. vehere to carry. See WAY.] 1. Acting with great force; furious; violent; impetuous; intense; as, a vehement wind, torrent; a vehement fire or heat; a vehement drumming with his knuckles on the panel of the door.
2. Having a strong action or effect; as, a vehement medicine, drug. Now Rare.
3. Deeply felt or experienced; as, a vehement suspicion; also, compelling attention, belief, conviction, or the like; as, these vehement proofs of what I have said.
4. Very ardent; very eager or urgent; passionate; as, a vehement protest against injustice; a vehement person; a vehement nature. "Vehement instigation." Shak. "Vehement desire." Milton.
Syn. — See IMPETUOUS.
Ant. — Listless, indifferent. See PASSIVE.

ve'hi·cle (vē'ĭ·k'l; vē'hĭ-; 277), n. [F. véhicule, fr. L. vehiculum, fr. vehere to carry. See WAY; cf. CONVEX, INVEIGH, VECTURE, WAIN.] 1. That in or on which a person or thing is or may be carried from one place to another, esp. along the ground, also through the air; any moving support or container fitted or used for the conveyance of bulky objects; a means of conveyance.
2. That which is used as the instrument of conveyance or communication; as, matter is the vehicle of energy. "A simple style forms the best vehicle of thought." Wirt.
3. An art form or device used to convey an effect; specif., an artistic composition serving to convey a particular conception. Cf. sense 7, below.
4. a Painting. The liquid medium, as oil, with which a pigment is applied. See FRESCO, 2 a; 4th DISTEMPER. b Paints. The liquid portion, as oil, of a paint or the like.
5. Pharm. A medium in which medicine is administered, as sirup in liquid preparations, lard in ointments, liquid petrolatum in sprays, etc.
6. Photog. Any medium in which the light-sensitive salt is suspended or contained. Cant.
7. Theater. A play written to display the special powers of an actor or actress.

ve'hi·cle, v. t. To convey in or by means of a vehicle. Rare.

vehicle tank. A tank, having one or more compartments, mounted upon a wagon or motor vehicle.

ve·hic'u·lar (vē·hĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. [L.L. vehicularis.] Of or pertaining to a vehicle; also, serving as a vehicle, transported by vehicle, or intended for use by vehicles; as, a vehicular contrivance; vehicular travel or traffic; a vehicular tunnel. — ve·hic'u·lar·ly, adv.

ve·hic'u·lar'y (vē·hĭk'ū·lĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭ), adj. Vehicular. Rare.

ve·hic'u·late (-lāt), v. t. & i. To convey, or to ride, in a vehicle. Rare. — ve·hic'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Rare.

ve·hic'u·la·to'ry (-lȧ·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Vehicular. Rare.

‖Vehm'ge·richt (fām'gĕ·rĭkt), n.; pl. -GERICHTE (-rĭk'tĕ). [G. vehme, fehme, feme, criminal tribunal + gericht court, judgment. Cf. VEHMIC.] One of certain late medieval tribunals common in Germany, chiefly in Westphalia. They developed into bodies of "free judges," who met in secret and usurped many functions of government, but served to maintain a measure of order and justice in a period of robber barons, petty courts, and weak regular government. They figure in Scott's Anne of Geierstein.

Veh'mic (fā'mĭk; vā'-), adj. [G. vehme, fehm, fehme, feme, a secret tribunal of punishment, MHG. veime, veme; cf. F. vehmique.] Of or pertaining to the Vehmgericht.

ve'i (vā'ē). Erron. for VERI, a centipede. Tahiti.

Vei (vī; vā), n. Var. of VAI.

vei'gle (vē'g'l), v. t. To inveigle. Obs. exc. Dial.

veil (vāl), n. [ME. veile, fr. ONF. veile (OF. & F. voile), fr. L. vela, pl. of velum a sail, covering, curtain, veil, dim. vexillum banner, flag. See WICK. Cf. REVEAL, VELA, VELAMEN, VELAR, VOILE.] 1. A fabric hung up, or spread out, to intercept the view, and hide an object; a curtain; esp., a piece of stuff, usually diaphanous, worn as a screen to hide or protect the face.
The veil of the temple was rent in twain. Matt. xxvii. 51.
She, as a veil down to the slender waist,
Her unadorned golden tresses wore. Milton.
2. Hence, something like or suggesting a veil, as in concealing objects; a cover; disguise; mask; — used in many phrases, as veil of silence, veil of darkness, veil of anonymity, veil of night.
[I will] pluck the borrowed veil of modesty from the so-seeming Mistress Page. Shak.
3. The state accepted or the vows made by a nun when she assumes the white veil of a novice or the black veil on making solemn profession of her vows; hence, the cloistered life; as, to take the black veil; to renounce the veil.
4. Anat. A part of the amnion sometimes covering the face of a newborn child; a caul.
5. Bot. a In fungi, the velum. b In mosses, the calyptra.
6. Eccl. a A covering for a person or thing; as, a nun's veil; a paten veil; an altar veil. b Hist. A curtain hung before the sanctuary, esp. in Lent.
7. Photog. A slight darkening of the lighter portions of the image and the unexposed areas so that the image loses contrast, usually a result of chemical fog.
8. Singing. A slight obscuration of the voice, as from a peculiarity of the larynx, breathiness, huskiness, or the like. A voice characterized by a veil is called veiled voice or voce velata.
9. Zool. A velum.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
veil-hid, veilmaker, veilmaking, veil-wearing.
— beyond the veil. Beyond the grave; in or into the unknown condition or place to which one passes after death. — to draw a veil over. To conceal as by a veil; hence, to refrain from discussing or thinking of (something).
— within the veil. Within the Holy of Holies, concealed by the veil in the temple at Jerusalem. Figuratively, in heaven; beyond the veil of sense perception.

veil (vāl), v.; VEILED (vāld); VEIL'ING. [ME. veilen; cf. OF. veler (3d sing. pres. veile) (F. voiler), fr. L. velare. See VEIL, n.] Transitive: 1. To throw a veil over; to cover with a veil.
2. To cover as with a veil; to hide; conceal; cloak; mask.
To keep your great pretenses veiled. Shak.
3. To dim or soften the outlines of; to render less clear or sharp to the sight.
4. To admit to the veil. See VEIL, n., 3.
—, Intransitive: To take the veil.

veil (vāl), n. [OF. veille, prop., a watching, fr. L. vigilia.] A watcher. Obs.

veiled (vāld), past tense & past part. of VEIL. Hence: adj.
1. Covered by or as by a veil; hidden. "A veiled meaning." Earle.
2. Wearing a veil; as, the veiled women of the East.
3. Singing. Characterized by a veil. See VEIL, n., 8.
— veil'ed·ly (vāl'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119), adv. — veil'ed·ness, n.

veiled plate. Photog. A fogged plate.

Veiled Proph'et of Kho'ras·san' (kō'rȧ·sän'). The title and hero of a tale in Thomas Moore's Lalla Rookh, based on the history of Hakim or Ata, surnamed Mokanna ("the Veiled"), the founder of an Arabian sect in the 8th century. He pretended to be a god, and wore a veil to hide the (alleged) dazzling brightness of his countenance, but in fact to conceal disfigurements received in battle.

veiled voice. See VEIL, n., 8.

veiled wool. Wool in which the fibers do not unite into distinct staples, but overlap so that the curves are intermixed and hardly discernible.

veil'er (vāl'ẽr), n. One who or that which veils.

veil'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VEIL. Hence: n. 1. Act of covering with a veil.
2. A veil; a thin covering; also, gauzy material, as for veils.

‖veil'leuse' (vĕ'yûz'), n. [F.] A dimmed night lamp.

veil'y (vāl'ĭ), adj. Like a veil; suggesting a veil, as in concealment, diaphanous character, or the like.

vein (vān), n. [ME. veine, fr. OF. veine, fr. L. vena; prob. akin to Skr. vakṣaṇā, pl., the stomach, abdomen, a river bed, Gr. ochetos a channel, aqueduct, and to L. vehere to convey. In antiquity the veins were confused with the arteries and intestines. See WAY; cf. VENA, VENOUS.] 1. A fissure or cavity, as in any substance.
Let the glass of the prisms be free from veins. Sir I. Newton.
2. A crevice or narrow water channel in rock, earth, or ice.
The rapid current; . . . through veins of porous Earth with kindly thirst updrawn. Milton.
She taught the skill to pierce the soil and meet the veins of clear cold water winding underneath. Bryant.
3. A streak or wave of different color or shade, appearing in wood, and in marble and other stones; variegation.
4. Anything of distinctive character considered as running through something else; a strain; as, a vein of humor; a particular disposition or turn of mind, or a peculiar manner of speech or conduct expressive of it; as, a satirical vein; also, a special aptitude or talent, as for literary composition of a particular type; as, he wanted to write poetry, but this vein was discouraged by his parents and friends.
He can open a vein of true and noble thinking. Swift.
5. A strip of land differentiated by quality from its surroundings, as by special fertility.
6. A course of action; procedure; habitual action or behavior; also, tendency; inclination. Obs.
7. Anat. & Zool. One of the system of tubular branching vessels (arising by the union of the capillaries in the various organs and tissues) which carry the blood back to the heart. In man and the higher animals they resemble the arteries in structure, but are thinner-walled, and often have valves at intervals to prevent reflux of the blood, which flows in a steady stream and in most veins is impure and dark-colored. Many of the arteries in their course are accompanied by veins, the larger by a single vein, smaller ones oftener by two veins, called venae comites. In many invertebrates having arteries distinct veins are wanting, the blood returning to the heart by cavities or spaces between the organs or in the tissues. See CIRCULATION, 11 a.
8. Bot. One of the vascular bundles forming the framework of fibrous tissue of a leaf; — called also nerve. The veins may represent several separate steles arising from a polystelic stem, or one or more partial steles (meristeles) from the single stele of the stem. They differ much in arrangement, mode of branching, etc. See 1st VENATION, 2.
9. Geol. & Mining. a A fissure in rock filled by mineral matter, usually by material deposited from solution by underground water. The distinction between vein and dike (which see) is not wholly sharp, esp. between some quartz veins and pegmatite dikes. b A lode. See LODE, n., 3 and Note. c A bed of useful mineral material; as, a vein of coal.
10. Zool. One of the thickened ribs, nervures, or nerves, which serve to stiffen the wings of insects.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
vein-bearing, adj., vein-healing, adj., vein-mining, adj., vein-streaked, veinwork.
Syn. — Channel; touch, tinge, shade, smack, tang. — VEIN, STREAK, SPICE, DASH. VEIN and (Colloq.) STREAK denote a particular strain, turn, or cast (esp.) of mind or disposition, SPICE and DASH suggest a slight admixture or infusion, esp. such as gives zest, relish, or pungency; as, "thy humorous vein" (Prior); "In Swift he discovered an inimitable vein of irony" (Johnson); "He had always had a vein of childish obstinacy" (Mary Wilkins); a stubborn streak; "There was a spice of obstinacy about Miss Dale" (Trollope); "A king of England should have a spice of the devil in his composition" (Smollett); "Sévigné . . . lover of Montaigne and with a spice of his free thought and speech" (E. FitzGerald); "He is a man with a dash of genius in him" (M. Arnold); "Godwin . . . has a dash of affectation" (Lamb); cf. "an all-pervading dash of the coxcomb" (Carlyle). Cf. BENT, TURN, COLOR, TASTE.

vein (vān), v. t.; VEINED (vānd); VEIN'ING. To form or mark with veins; as: a To fill or cover with veins. b To extend in or over in a manner like or suggestive of veins. c To decorate with narrow stripes suggesting veins; as, veined fabrics.

vein'age (vān'ĭj), n. Venation; veins collectively. Rare.

vein'al (-ăl; -l), adj. Pertaining to veins; venous. Rare.

vein claim. Mining. = LODE CLAIM.

vein dike. A mineral vein or lode formed by a body of igneous rock injected in a molten mass into a fissure.

veined (vānd), adj. Full of veins; showing venation; streaked; variegated; specif.: a Bot. Having veins, or vascular fibers. b Rare. Ingrained; running in the blood. "Thy veined follies." Ford.

-veined (-vānd). A combining form of veined denoting having (such) veins, as in:

blue-veined	gray-veined	parallel-veined crimson-veined	hidden-veined	pink-veined cross-veined	light-veined	pinnate-veined curve-veined	many-veined	purple-veined dark-veined	netted-veined	red-veined fan-veined	net-veined	stiff-veined feather-veined	palm-veined	white-veined vein'er (vān'ẽr), n. One who or that which veins; as: a One whose occupation is the making of the veins in artificial flowers. b A kind of small V gouge used in wood carving, etc.; — called also veining tool.

vein'er·y (-ĭ), n. Venation. Rare.

vein'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VEIN. Hence: n. 1. A system or pattern of veins; venation.
2. A streak or streaking; as: a A streaked or variegated surface. b Weaving. A stripe due to a lapse in the warp.

vein islet. Bot. The area of leaf tissue bounded by the small anastomosing veinlets. Cf. AREOLA a.

vein'let (vān'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. A small vein.

vein of Ga'len (gā'lĕn). = GALEN'S VEIN a. vein'ous (vān'ŭs), adj. [See VEIN; cf. VENOUS.] Veiny or veined; also, venous.

vein quartz. Quartz occurring as gangue in a vein.

vein'stone' (vān'stōn'), n. Mining. Valueless material surrounding the ore in a lode; gangue; lodestuff; matrix.

vein'ule (vān'ūl), n. Also vein'u·let (vān'ū·lĕt; -lĭt; 119). [Dim. of vein; cf. F. veinule.] A small vein; a veinlet.

vein'y (vān'ĭ), adj.; VEIN'I·ER (-ĭ·ẽr); VEIN'I·EST. [From VEIN; cf. F. veiné.] Full of veins; veined, as marble.

Ve·joz' (vā·hōs'), n.; pl. VEJOCES (vā·hō'sās). An Indian of a Matacan tribe dwelling in northern Argentina.

ve'la (vē'lȧ), n., pl. of VELUM. [L. See VEIL.] Specif. [cap.]: gen. VELORUM (vē·lō'rŭm). Astron. A subdivision of the constellation Argo; the Sails.

ve·la'men (vē·lā'mĕn), n.; pl. VELAMINA (vē·lăm'ĭ·nȧ). [L., fr. velare to cover. See VEIL, v.] 1. Anat. A membrane; a velum.
2. Bot. The thick whitish or greenish corky epidermis covering the aerial roots of epiphytic orchids. The air-containing tracheids of which it is composed are capable of condensing and absorbing atmospheric moisture.

vel'a·men'tous (vĕl'ȧ·mĕn'tŭs), adj. a Pertaining to or resembling a velamen. b Like a sail.

vel'a·men'tum (-tŭm), n. [L., a veil.] Anat. A membrane.

ve'lar (vē'lẽr), adj. [L. velaris pert. to a veil or curtain, fr. velum. See VELUM.] 1. Of or pertaining to a velum; esp., of or pertaining to the velum of the palate (the soft palate).
2. Phonet. Formed with the back of the tongue touching or near the velum, or soft palate (the k sound in coop, g in good, ng in song, or the vowels ä, ô, ō, ōō); guttural; back. The place of contact for forming the sounds k, g, ng, varies with a neighboring sound: in coop, goose, song it is on the velum; in keep, geese, sing it may be as far forward as the veg'e·ta'tion·less, adj. See -LESS. veg'e·ta'tion·proof' (ōō), adj. See -PROOF. veg'e·ta'tiv. Vegetative. Ref. Sp.

veg'e·to·al'ka·li, n. = VEGETABLE ALKALI. veg'e·tous (vĕj'ē·tŭs), adj. [L. vegetus.] = VEGETE. Obs. ve'he·ment·ly, adv. of VEHEMENT. See -LY. ve'hi·cl. Vehicle. Ref. Sp.
‖Vehm (fām), ‖Veh'me (fā'mĕ), n.; pl. VEHME (fā'mĕ). [G.] = VEHMGERICHT. veild. Veiled. Ref. Sp. veil'less, adj. See -LESS. veil'like', adj. See -LIKE.
Veil'tail', n. = FRINGETAIL. veind. Veined. Ref. Sp. vein'i·ness, n. See -NESS. veining tool. See VEINER. vein'less, adj. See -LESS. vein'stuff', n. Mining. = VEINSTONE. vein'wise', adv. See -WISE.
Vej'o·vis, n. = VEDIOVIS. ve'lal (vē'lăl; -l'l), adj. = VELAR. vel'am. + VELLUM.
ve·la'ni oak (vē·lā'nĭ). Var. of VALONIA OAK.

back part of the hard palate. See Pron., §§ 43 (10), 31. Cf. PALATAL, adj., 2 a.

ve'lar (vē'lĕr), n. A velar sound.

ve·lar'ic (vē·lăr'ĭk), adj. Phonet. Formed with the aid of the velum.

ve·lar'i·um (vē·lâr'ĭ·ŭm; 79), n.; pl. -IA (-ä). [L., covering. See VELUM.] 1. Rom. Antiq. An awning over a theater or amphitheater.

2. The velum which occurs in certain Scyphozoa (some Cubomedusae). It differs from that of hydrozoa in containing endoderm-lined canals.

ve'lar·ize (vē'lĕr·īz), v. t. [velar + -ize.] Phonet. To modify in utterance by simultaneously raising the back of the tongue toward the velum, as in the l of pool, and in English w.

velar l. Velarized l; specif., an l sound in which, besides the primary articulation of the tongue tip against the teethridge, the back of the tongue is raised toward the velum as for ō or ōō. Cf. CLEAR L.

ve'lar·pha·ryn'ge·al (vē'lĕr·fā·rĭn'jē·ăl; -făr'ĭn·jē'ăl), adj. Phonet. Formed with the base of the tongue near the back end of the velum and the back wall of the pharynx, as in one kind of r sound in Danish.

velar r. = UVULAR R.

ve'la·ry (vē'lä·rĭ), adj. Velic.

ve'late (vē'lāt), adj. [L. velatus, past part. of velare to veil. See VEIL, v.] Bot. & Zool. Having a veil or velum.

ve'lat·ed (-lāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Veiled; specif., Bot. & Zool., velate.

ve·la'tion (vē·lā'shŭn), n. [L. velatio a veiling. See VELATE.] 1. Act or process of veiling, or state of being veiled; hence, concealment; secrecy.

2. The formation of a velum.

vel'a·tu'ra (vĕl'ä·tōō'rä), n. [It.] An early Italian method of glazing a painting by rubbing the color, or by rubbing on varnish, with the hand.

Vel'cha·nos (vĕl'kä·nŏs), n. [Gr. (on coins) Welchanos, of uncert., perh. Cypriote, origin.] Gr. Reliq. A divinity worshiped at Phaistos (Phaestus), Crete, and loosely identified with Zeus.

veld, veldt (vĕlt; fĕlt), n. [D. veld. See FIELD.] In South Africa, a grassland, in which there may be also scattered shrubs or trees. Three main types are recognized: grass veld, dominated by grasses; bushveld, having more or less shrubby growth, mostly of the Proteaceae, and hence often called protea veld; and tree veld, having many scattered, usually thorny trees (genus Acacia), and often called acacia veld. The bush veld is in Cape Province between Great Karroo and the Orange River, and the grass veld chiefly in Transvaal and Natal.

veld cornet. = FIELD-CORNET. S. Africa.

veld'–kost' (vĕlt'kŏst'; fĕlt'-), n. [S. Afr. D., fr. D. kost food.] Bulbs and roots found on the veld and used as food. S. Africa.

veld'man (vĕlt'măn; fĕlt'-), veldts'man (vĕlts'-; fĕlts'-), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who frequents the veld; one who lives or hunts on the veld.

veld'schoen' (vĕlt'skŏōn'; fĕlt'-), n.; pl. VELDSCHOENS (-skŏōnz'), or VELDSCHOENEN (-skŏōn'ĕn). Also veldt'-schoen'. [S. Afr. D. veldschoen (after veld veld), fr. earlier velschoen, fr. D. vel skin, hide + schoen shoe. See FELL skin; SHOE.] A shoe made of untanned hide, without insole stitched through the upper and without nails. S. Africa.

veld sickness. = HEARTWATER.

veld sore. Med. An infective sore, occurring mostly on the hands and feet, often contracted in life on the veld and apparently due to pyogenic microorganisms.

Ve·lel'la (vē·lĕl'ä), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. velum a veil, a sail.] Zool. a A genus of floating oceanic Siphonophora widely distributed in warm seas. It is closely akin to Porpita, but has an oblique crest which acts as a sail and often causes the animal to be drifted to coasts remote from its natural habitat. The common species (V. vulgaris) of the Atlantic and Mediterranean is bright blue and grows two inches long. b [not cap.] An animal of this genus. — ve·lel'li·dous (-ĭ·dŭs), adj.

Velella (Velella, or Armenista, mutica). a Side View; b Dorsal View. (½) ve'lic (vē'lĭk), adj. [L. velum sail.] Of or pertaining to a ship's sail.

ve·lif'er·ous (vē·lĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. velifer, fr. velum a sail + ferre to bear.] a Obs. Carrying or bearing sails. b Veligerous.

ve'li·form (vē'lĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. velum veil + -form.] Resembling a velum.

ve'li·ger (vē'lĭ·jĕr), n. [NL., fr. L. velum a veil + gerere to bear.] Zool. A larval mollusk in the stage when it has developed the velum. See VELUM, 2.

Veliger of the Gastropod Vermetus. Much enlarged.

ve·lig'er·ous (vē·lĭj'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Zool. Having a velum or veillike organ, as a veliger.

Ve'li·ka (vä'lē·kä), n. [Russ. velikiĭ great.] One of the Great Russians.

vel'i·ta'tion (vĕl'ĭ·tā'shŭn), n. [L. velitatio, fr. velitari, -tatus, to skirmish, fr. veles, -itis, light-armed soldier. See VELITES.] A dispute or slight contest; skirmish.

‖ve'li·tes (vē'lĭ·tēz), n. pl. [L., pl. of veles, velitis; akin to L. velox swift. Cf. VELOCITY.] Rom. Antiq. Light-armed foot soldiers, a skirmishing corps first attached to the legion at the siege of Capua, 211 B.C.

vell (vĕl), v. t. [From vell, dial. var. of fell a skin.] To cut the turf from, as for burning. Dial. Eng.

vell, n. [Cf. FELL a skin.] The stomach of a calf, used in making rennet. Dial. Eng.

vel·la'la (vĕ·lä'lä), n. A member of a Tamil caste of the highest Sudra rank, numerous in Madras, chiefly landowners and cultivators.

vel'le·da moth (vĕl'ĕ·dä). [NL. velleda, fr. L. Veleda, a German prophetic virgin.] A lappet moth (Tolype velleda) having the body chiefly white and wings dusky gray with white markings. Its larva feeds on the apple, poplar, and other trees. See LAPPET MOTH, Illust.

vel·le'i·ty (vĕ·lē'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. VELLEITIES (-tĭz). [ML. velleitas, fr. L. velle to will, to be willing; cf. F. velléité.] 1. The lowest degree of desire; imperfect or incomplete volition.

Velleity, which is only a conditionate, faint, imperfect volition of an end, without regard to the means. T. Gale.

2. Hence, a slight wish; a faint hope, desire, inclination, or the like.

Every wish, every velleity of his (Prince Albert) had only to be expressed to be at once Victoria's. Lytton Strachey.

vel'li·cate (vĕl'ĭ·kāt), v.; -CAT'ED (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT'ING (-kāt'ĭng). [L. vellicatus, past part. of vellicare to twitch, fr. vellere to pluck, pull.] Transitive: 1. To twitch; nip; pinch; also, to cause to twitch.

2. To tickle; titillate.

—, Intransitive: To move spasmodically; to twitch.

vel'li·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n. [L. vellicatio.] Act of twitching, or of causing to twitch; also, Med., a local twitching, or convulsive motion, of a group of muscle fibers, esp. of the face.

vel'li·ca'tive (vĕl'ĭ·kā'tĭv), adj. Having the power of vellicating, plucking, or twitching; causing vellication.

vel'linch (vĕl'ĭnch), or vel'linch·er (-ĕr), n. [Also valinch, valentia, fr. Sp. venencia.] Brewing. An instrument for drawing a sample from a cask through the shive hole. Called also flincher.

vel·lon' (vĕl·yōn'), n. [Sp. vellón.] Billon; esp. copper, as used in Spanish money; debased silver. See 1st REAL.

vel·lo'sine (vĕ·lō'sēn; -sĭn; vĕl'ō-; 157), n. Also -sin. Chem. A colorless, crystalline, very poisonous alkaloid, $C_{23}H_{26}N_2O_6$, in the bark of a tropical South American vine (Geissospermum vellosii), family Apocynaceae.

Vel·lo'zi·a (vĕ·lō'zĭ·ä), n. [NL. See VELLOZIACEAE.] Bot. A genus of Brazilian plants typifying the family Velloziaceae. They have branching stems clothed with the bases of the stiff, linear, pointed leaves. Some species are cultivated for their handsome bell-shaped flowers under the name of tree lily.

Vel·lo'zi·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., after José Velloso Xavier (1742–1811), Brazilian botanist.] Bot. A family of African and Brazilian plants (order Liliales), of 2 genera and about 70 species, distinguished from Amaryllidaceae by woody stems, one-flowered peduncles, commonly persistent perianth, and more numerous stamens. — vel·lo'zi·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

vel'lum (vĕl'ŭm), n. [ME. velim, fr. OF. velin, veelin (F. vélin), orig. adj., fr. veel calf. See VEAL.] 1. Originally, a thin calf or lamb gut, specially prepared for use as parchment, as for writing upon, binding books, etc.; now, a fine-grained lamb, kid, or calf, skin prepared for this purpose; also, a vegetable composition made to resemble such skin and to serve the same purpose. See PARCHMENT, n., 1 b.

2. A manuscript written or printed on vellum.

3. Loosely, parchment paper.

4. A membrane.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:
vellum binder, vellum binding, vellum-bound, vellum-covered, vellum-leaved, vellum-written.

vel'lum, adj. Of, like, or bound in, vellum.

vellum cloth. A fine kind of cotton fabric, made very transparent, and used as a tracing cloth.

vellum form. A frame covered with fine brass wirework, on which vellum paper is made.

vellum paper. Parchment paper. — vel'lum–pa'pered, adj.

vel'lum·y (vĕl'ŭm·ĭ), adj. Resembling vellum.

‖vel non (vĕl nŏn). [L., or else not.] Law. Whether or not; — as in the issue devisavit vel non to try the making and validity of a devise; hence, also, to express a situation where something must be done, or a given determination must be made, or not, with no third alternative.

ve'lo (vē'lō), n. [Abbr. fr. velocity.] Mech. A velocity of one foot per second, a proposed unit of velocity.

‖ve·lo'ce (vä·lō'chā), adj. [It., swift.] Music. Rapid and dashing in tempo; — a direction.

ve·loc'i·man (vē·lŏs'ĭ·măn), n. [L. velox, -ocis, swift + manus hand.] An obsolete hand-driven vehicle like a velocipede.

vel'o·cim'e·ter (vĕl'ō·sĭm'ē·tĕr), n. [L. velox, -ocis, rapid + -meter.] An apparatus for measuring speed, as of machinery or vessels, or esp. of projectiles.

ve·lo'cious (vē·lō'shŭs), adj. [L. velox, -ocis. See VELOCITY.] Speedy; fast. — ve·lo'cious·ly, adv.

ve·loc'i·pede (vē·lŏs'ĭ·pēd), n. [F. vélocipède, fr. L. velox, -ocis, swift + pes, pedis, foot. See VELOCITY, FOOT.] Any of various relatively light vehicles propelled by the rider or riders; — applied esp. to early forms of bicycle and tricycle, and later to a form of railroad handcar. — See HANDCAR, Illust. Cf. DRAISINE. — vel'o·cip'e·dal (vĕl'ō·sĭp'ĕ·dăl), adj. — ve·loc'i·pe'dic (vē·lŏs'ĭ·pē'dĭk), adj.

Old Form of Two-wheeled Velocipede.

ve·loc'i·pede, v. i.; -PED'ED (pēd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -PED'ING. To ride on a velocipede.

ve·loc'i·pe'de·an (-pē'dē·ăn), ve·loc'i·ped'ist (vē·lŏs'ĭ·pĕd'ĭst), n. Also ve·loc'i·ped'er (-pēd'ĕr), ve·loc'i·pe'di·an (-pē'dĭ·ăn). One who rides a velocipede.

ve·loc'i·tous (vē·lŏs'ĭ·tŭs), adj. Having velocity.

ve·loc'i·ty (-ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. vélocité, fr. L. velocitas, fr. veloz, -ocis, swift, quick. See VELITES.]

1. Quickness of motion; swiftness; speed; celerity; rapidity; — said chiefly of inanimate things; as, the velocity of wind, a bullet, light, sound.

2. The rate at which a chemical reaction progresses.

3. Mech. Time rate of motion in a given direction and sense. Average velocity equals the total distance passed over, divided by the whole time taken. When the motion is uniform, that is, when indefinitely small equal distances are passed over in equal times, this quotient represents the actual velocity at each instant. When the motion is not uniform the velocity at a given point is the limiting value of the fraction representing the average velocity over a space including the point when the numerator and denominator of this fraction are taken indefinitely small. Velocity is a vector quantity equal to speed in a particular direction and is always relative to a stated frame of reference. Cf. 1st SPEED, 4.

Syn. — VELOCITY, CELERITY. VELOCITY (which is here compared in its popular sense only; for its scientific use see defs.) is employed chiefly of the movement of inanimate objects, or of voluntary movements regarded merely as motion; CELERITY applies to such movements or (esp.) actions of living beings as suggest promptitude or dispatch; as, the velocity of a bullet; "His momentum depended on velocity of stroke" (Carlyle); "They [eaves swallows] dive downwards with such velocity" (Richard Jefferies); "The dinner . . . was dispatched with uncommon celerity" (T. L. Peacock); "some loitering fiddler . . . making up for lost time by traveling over a passage with prodigious celerity" (Irving). Cf. HASTE, FAST.

Ant. — Slowness, sluggishness.

velocity co–ordinate. Dyn. = CO-ORDINATE VELOCITY. See TIME DERIVATIVE.

velocity function. Astrophysics. The distribution of the velocities of the stars in a given region of space.

velocity head. The vertical distance through which a liquid would fall to attain a given velocity. In a flowing stream the velocity head, h_v, is equal to one-half the square of the velocity divided by the gravity constant g, or $h_v = \frac{v^2}{2g}$.

velocity of circulation. Finance. The average number of times that each piece of money circulates during a given period of time in a given community; the rate of turnover of money.

velocity of escape. Astrophysics. That average molecular velocity of a gas which is sufficient to counteract the gravitational attraction of a planet, allowing the gas to leave the planet; — a term used in the theory of the atmospheres of the planets. Also, that velocity which a star must possess in order to escape permanently from the attraction of a galaxy or other stellar system.

velocity potential. The scalar quantity whose gradient equals the velocity in the case of irrotational flow of a fluid.

velocity ratio. Mach. The ratio at any instant of time of the velocity of a piece to that of a piece that directly or indirectly drives it.

velocity screen. Mil. A metal screen used in testing the velocity of a projectile. The projectile makes contact electrically and records the exact instant of passing a series of the screens placed at known distances.

velocity stage. Steam Turbines. The stage in the process of expansion and of energy transformation in which there is no pressure drop and in which the velocity of steam flow decreases the kinetic energy of the steam being imparted to the moving blades. Cf. PRESSURE STAGE.

ve'lo·drome (vē'lō·drōm), n. [F. vélodrome. Cf. VELOCIPEDE; HIPPODROME.] A building with a specially designed cycle track.

ve·lom'e·ter (vē·lŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [L. velox, -cis, swift + -meter.] A kind of governor for marine engines.

ve·lours' (vē·lōōr'), ve·lour', n. [F. See VELURE.] a Any of various fabrics finished to present a velvetlike surface. b A felt made from the fur of rabbit, hare, or nutria. — adj. Made of velours; resembling velours as in texture or appearance.

‖ve·lou'té' (vē·lōō'tā'), n. Also velouté sauce. [F. velouté, lit., velvety.] Cookery. A white sauce made by thickening white stock with white roux.

vel'ou·tine' (vĕl'ōō·tēn'), n. [F. velouté velvety + 1st -ine, 1.] A corded wool dress fabric having a velvet finish.

ve'lum (vē'lŭm), n.; pl. VELA (-lä). [L., an awning, a veil. See VEIL.] 1. Anat. & Zool. A membrane or membranous partition likened to a veil or curtain; specif.: a The soft palate. b In hydromedusans and a few other jellyfishes (Cubomedusae), an annular membrane projecting inward from the margin of the umbrella. c A delicate membrane bordering the mouth of some infusorians.

2. Bot. a In many agaricaceous fungi, a thin membrane which in young sporophores extends from the stipe to the margin of the pileus or which envelops the whole plant. The former (ve'lum par'ti·a'le [pär'shĭ·ä'lē]) is ruptured by the growth of the pileus and remains as a ring of tissue (annulus) surrounding the stipe. The latter (ve'lum u'ni·ver·sa'le [ū'nĭ·vĕr·sā'lē]) is also ruptured by growth, the lower part forming the volva or death cup (sense c). See VOLVA. b In Isoetes, the thin membrane which envelops a sporocarp.

3. Zool. A larval swimming organ especially well developed in the later larval stages of many marine gastropods, but occurring also in those of many lamellibranchs and other mollusks, but not in cephalopods. It is developed from the preoral ciliated ring of the trochopore stage, the ring of cilia becoming raised on a more or less prominent and contractile collarlike ridge, which in typical cases is produced into large lateral lobes bordered with long cilia. The velum probably serves also for respiration.

ve·lu'men (vē·lū'mĕn), n.; pl. VELUMINA (-mĭ·nä). [L., fleece.] The velvety covering of certain parts of plants or animals.

‖ve'lum in'ter·po'si·tum (vē'lŭm ĭn'tĕr·pŏz'ĭ·tŭm). [NL., membrane interposed.] Anat. The tela chorioidea of the third ventricle.

‖ve'lum pa·la'ti (pä·lä'tĭ). [NL.] Anat. The soft palate.

ve·lure' (vē·lūr'), n. [F. velours, fr. OF. velous, fr. Pr. velos, lit., shaggy, fr. L. villosus, fr. villus shaggy hair. See VELVET.] 1. Velvet, or some fabric resembling it, esp. one of linen, silk, or jute.

2. A silk or plush pad used as a brush for silk hats; a lure.

ve·lure', v. t.; VE·LURED' (-lūrd'); VE·LUR'ING (-lūr'ĭng). To brush with a velure; as, to velure a hat.

Ve'lu·ti'na (vē'lū·tī'nä), n. [NL. See VELVET.] Zool. a A genus of marine gastropods (family Lamellariidae) having a shell with few whorls and a thick periostracum. b [not cap.] A member of this genus.

Velutina (V. laevigata). Nat. size.

ve·lu'ti·nous (vē·lū'tĭ·nŭs), adj. [It. velluto velvet. See VELVET.] Covered with a fine and dense silky pubescence; velvety.

Ve·lu'tus (vē·lū'tŭs), n. A tribune in Shakespeare's Coriolanus.

vel'ver·et' (vĕl'vĕr·ĕt'), n. [From VELVET.] A kind of velvet having a cotton back.

vel'vet (vĕl'vĕt; -vĭt; 119), n. [ME. velvet, veluet, dim. fr. OF. velu shaggy, fr. (assumed) VL. villutus, fr. L. villus shaggy hair; akin to L. vellus a fleece. See WOOL; cf. FLUE down, VELOURS, VILLOUS.] 1. a A silk fabric having a thick soft pile of short erect threads. It is called pile velvet when the loops of the pile are uncut, and cut velvet when the loops are cut so that the pile is of single threads. Inferior qualities are made with a silk pile on a cotton or linen back. b A piece of this fabric.

2. Something like or suggesting velvet, the fabric, as in softness, luster, etc.

---

ve·lar'den·ite (vē·lär'dĕn·īt), n. Mineral. = GEHLENITE.

[ve·la'ta (vē·lä'tä), adj. [It.] Singing. See VOCE VELATA, under 1st VEIL, 8.

veld'craft', n. See -CRAFT.

velde. † FIELD; FELT; WIELD; obs. past tense & past part. of FEEL, FILL.

veldt (vĕlt; fĕlt). Var. of VELD.

veldt'schoen', n. = VELDSCHOEN. S. Africa.

vele. † FEEL; FELE; VEAL; VEIL.

velic point. = CENTER OF EXPOSURE. [VELINCH.]

vel'inche (vĕl'ĭnch). Var. of vel'i·tar'y, adj. Of the nature of velites. Obs.

vel'let. † VELVET.

vell'nich (vĕl'nĭch). Var. of VELINCH. [vet. Obs.] vel·lute', n. [It. velluto.] Velvet.

ve·lo'ni·a (vē·lō'nĭ·ä). Var. of VALONIA, 1.

ve·lour', Var. of VELOURS.

velte (vĕlt), velt, n. [F. velte.] See MEASURE, Table.

velt'fare'. † FIELDFARE.

velthe. † FILTH.

veltht. † WEALTH.

velthy. † WEALTHY.

velt'-mar'shal, n. [From G. feldmarschall, after D. veld field.] = FIELD MARSHAL. Archaic.

vel'ume. † VELLUM.

velunge † FEELING.

3. The soft and highly vascular hairy skin which envelops and nourishes the antlers of deer during their rapid growth, but later peels off or is rubbed off by the animal.
4. Surplus; the cash or chips a player is ahead in any game; as, he is gambling on velvet; hence, loosely, any profit or gain, esp. when beyond ordinary expectation; as, that amount is just so much velvet. Slang.
5. A kind of drink. "A bowl of velvet, three quarts of champagne, and three of English porter." F. O'Brien.

☞ COMBINATIONS (mostly adjectives) are:

velvet-banded	velvet-eyed	velvetmaking velvet-bearded	velvet-faced	velvet-pawed velvet-black	velvet-footed	velvet-ribboned velvet-caped	velvet-green	velvet-sheathed velvet-clad	velvethearted	velvet-sleeved velvet-covered	velvet-hooded	velvet-soled velvet-crimson	velvet-hung	velvet-suited velvet-draped	velvet-jacketed	velvet-tipped velvet-eared	velvet-lined	velvet-winged velvet-edged	velvetmaker

— to be, play, etc., on velvet. In gambling or speculation, to have, or operate with, money previously won; hence, to be in an easy, safe, or desirable, position, employment, or the like. Slang.

vel'vet (vĕl'vĕt; -vĭt; 119), adj. 1. Made of or covered with velvet; sometimes, clad in velvet.
2. Like or suggesting velvet; velvety.

vel'vet, v. i. To paint velvet. Rare. — v. t. To make like, or cover with, velvet. Rare.

Bald mountains that velvet their own sides with shadows. The New Republic.

velvet ant. Any species of solitary fossorial wasp of Mutilla or an allied genus, constituting the family Mutillidae, in which the female is wingless, thus resembling an ant. They usually have the body covered with fine soft hair, often bright red or of some other conspicuous color or colors. They are able to sting, and, in many cases at least, are parasitic in the nests of bees or other Hymenoptera and feed while young on the larvae of their hosts.

velvet ash. A forest tree (Fraxinus velutina) of New Mexico and Arizona.

velvet bean. An annual legume (Mucuna deeringiana) of vigorous growth, related to the cowhage and cultivated for green manure and grazing in the southern United States; also, its seed, which is fed to cattle and hogs.

velvet bent. Dog bent.

vel'vet-breast' (vĕl'vĕt-brĕst'; vĕl'vĭt-), n. The American merganser. Connecticut.

velvet bur. A tropical American perennial herb (Priva lappulacea), family Verbenaceae, the fruiting calyx of which is beset with small, hooked bristles.

velvet cap. A cap of velvet; hence, Obs., a physician or student.

velvet carpet or rug. A carpet or rug having a cut pile; esp., more fully tapestry velvet carpet, a kind of carpet made like tapestry Brussels (see BRUSSELS CARPET), but having the pile longer and cut so that the surface resembles that of Wilton carpet.

velvet cork. The best kind of cork bark, supple, elastic, and not woody or porous.

velvet dock. a The common mullein (Verbascum thapsus). b The elecampane.

velvet duck. The velvet scoter. vel'vet-ed (vĕl'vĕt-ĕd; -vĭt-ĭd; 119), adj. Covered with velvet; rendered velvetlike.

vel'vet-een' (vĕl'vĕ-tēn'; 66), n. [From VELVET.] 1. An all-cotton velvet.
2. pl. Clothes, esp. trousers, of this fabric.
— vel'vet-een', vel'vet-eened' (-tēnd'), adj.

velvet finish. Leather Mfg. See OOZE LEATHER.

velvet fish. Any of several Australian fishes having a velvety skin, esp. Apoactis milesii, related to the scorpion fishes, and Catherines setosus, related to the filefishes.

velvet flower. = LOVE-LIES-BLEEDING a.

velvet glove. A glove of velvet; — used in the phrase to handle with velvet gloves, to treat with superficial gentleness and courtesy masking a strong and unyielding will, determination, etc.

velvet grass. A tall European grass (Holcus lanatus) with velvety stem and leaves. It is naturalized in the United States, and yields inferior forage.

Velvet Grass.

velvet green. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

velvet groundsel. The California geranium.

velvet guard. Velvet trimming, or one wearing it. Obs.

velvet head. A deer's head with velvet on the horns. Obs.

vel'vet-i-ness (vĕl'vĕ-tĭ-nĕs; -vĭ-tĭ-nĭs; 119), n. Quality of velvet; velvety appearance, feeling, or the like.

vel'vet-ing, n. The fine shag or nap of velvet; also, a piece of velvet; velvet goods.

vel'vet-leaf' (vĕl'vĕt-lēf'; vĕl'vĭt-), n. Any of several plants which have soft, velvety leaves; as: a Cissampelos pareira. See CISSAMPELOS. b The Indian mallow. c The tree mallow. d The common mullein Verbascum thapsus.

velvet leather jacket. The velvet fish Catherines setosus.

velvet moss. A North European lichen (Gyrophora murina), used in dyeing.

velvet osier. See OSIER, 1.

velvet paper. Flock paper. See 1st FLOCK, 3.

vel'vet-pile', adj. Having a velvety pile. — n. A fabric, rug, or carpet, having such pile.

velvet plant. a The common mullein (Verbascum thapsus), native to Europe, but at one time cultivated in England and called American velvet plant. b A Javanese foliage plant (Gynura aurantiaca) with handsome velvety leaves with violet-purple hairs.

velvet rug. See VELVET CARPET.

velvet runner. The European water rail. See RAIL. Local, Eng.

vel'vet-ry, n. Velvet goods, collectively; also, stuff like or suggesting velvet.

velvet scoter. A large scoter (Melanitta fusca) of northern Europe and Asia, closely resembling the white-winged scoter (M. deglandi) of America, to which the name is also extended.

vel'vet-seed' (vĕl'vĕt-sēd'; vĕl'vĭt-), n. a A shrub or small tree (Guettarda elliptica), family Rubiaceae, of the West Indies and Florida, with yellowish-white flowers and black fruit. b The seven-year apple.

velvet sponge. A fine, soft, commercial sponge (Hippospongia equina meandriformis) of more or less cakelike form, occurring in the Gulf of Mexico and off the West Indies.

velvet sumac. The staghorn sumac.

velvet tamarind. A West African tree (Dialium guineense), family Caesalpiniaceae; also, its velvety black pod, used as food in Sierra Leone.

velvet tips. Sprouting horns; — alluding to cuckolding. Obs.

velvet tree. The velvet plant Gynura aurantiaca.

velvet violet. = PANSY VIOLET a.

vel'vet-weed' (vĕl'vĕt-wēd'; vĕl'vĭt-), n. The Indian mallow.

velvet willow. The Sitka willow.

vel'vet-work' (vĕl'vĕt-wûrk'; vĕl'vĭt-), n. Embroidery on or with velvet.

vel'vet-y (vĕl'vĕ-tĭ; -vĭ-tĭ), adj. 1. Velvetlike; of the character of velvet; soft and smooth, as in appearance, or to the sight, hearing, or touch; as, a velvety tone; this book would be more readable if the author's style had been a little less velvety.
2. Mild; smooth to the taste; as, velvety rum; hence, giving a contact like that of velvet; as, a velvety touch of a pianoforte player.

‖ve'na (vē'nȧ), n.; VENAE (-nē). [L. See VEIN.] Anat. A vein.

‖ve'na a·scen'dens (ȧ·sĕn'dĕnz). [L. ascendens ascending.] Embryol. The ductus venosus.

‖ve'na a'zy·gos ma'jor and mi'nor (ăz'ĭ·gŏs mā'jôr, mī'·nôr). [L.] See AZYGOUS VEINS.

‖ve'na ca'va (kā'vȧ); pl. VENAE CAVAE (vē'nē kā'vē). [L. cava hollow.] Anat. & Zool. One of the large veins by which in air-breathing vertebrates the blood is returned to the right atrium of the heart. They develop in part from, and replace in function, the cardinal sinuses and ducts of Cuvier of the embryo. Commonly two anterior venae cavae (returning blood from the head and forelimbs) and one posterior vena cava (returning blood from the posterior parts of the body and the viscera) are present. In man they are called respectively superior and inferior venae cavae, and but one superior (formed by the junction of the innominate veins) is present. The inferior vena cava is formed by the junction of the common iliac veins opposite the fifth lumbar vertebra, and passes up the front of the spinal column on the right side of the aorta, receiving the renal and hepatic veins and smaller tributaries in its course.

‖ve'na co'mes (kō'mēz); pl. VENAE COMITES (kŏm'ĭ·tēz). [L. comes companion.] A vein accompanying an artery.

‖ve'na co'mi·tans (kŏm'ĭ·tănz); pl. VENAE COMITANTES (kŏm'ĭ·tăn'tēz). [L.] Anat. = VENA COMES.

‖ve'na con·trac'ta (kŏn·trăk'tȧ). [L. contracta contracted.] Hydraul. Any of the contracted parts of minimum size of a jet of fluid discharging from an orifice or aperture; — usually restricted to the one nearest the orifice.

ve·na'da (vē·nā'dȧ), n. [Sp. venado a deer, stag.] The pudu.

‖ve'nae (vē'nē), n., pl. of VENA.

‖ve'nae co'mi·tes (kŏm'ĭ·tēz), pl. of VENA COMES.

‖ve'nae The·be'si·i (thē·bē'shĭ·ĭ). [NL.] = THEBESIAN VEINS.

‖ve'nae vor'ti·co'sae (vôr'tĭ·kō'sē). [L. vorticosus, verticosus, lit., full of whirlpools.] Anat. The veins of the outer layer of the chorioid coat of the eye.

‖ve'na he'mi·a'zy·gos (hē'mĭ·ăz'ĭ·gŏs). [NL.] See AZYGOUS VEIN.

ve'nal (vē'nȧl; -n'l), adj. [L. venalis, fr. venus, venum, sale; akin to Gr. onos price, Skr. vasna; cf. F. vénal. Cf. VEND.] 1. Capable of being bought or obtained for money or other valuable consideration; made matter of trade or barter; salable; now esp., mercenary; open to corrupt influence, bribery, etc.; as, a venal legislative; venal services; venal votes.
2. Originating in, or characterized by, or associated with, corrupt bargaining; as, a venal throne; a venal arrangement with the police.

Syn. — Hireling, vendible; corrupt. See MERCENARY.

ve'nal (vē'nȧl), adj. [L. vena a vein.] Venous. Rare.

ve·nal'i·ty (vē·năl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. or L.; F. vénalité, fr. LL. venalitas; cf. F. vénalité.] Quality or state of being venal, or purchasable; mercenariness; prostitution of talents, offices, or services, for reward; willingness to be influenced by bribery or corrupt measures; as, the venality of a corrupt court or judge.

ve'nal·ize (vē'nȧl·īz), v. t. To render venal; to subject to corruption; to corrupt; bribe. — ve'nal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'·shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

Ve·nan'tes (vē·năn'tēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. venans hunting.] Zool. A group comprising the hunting spiders.

ve·nan'zite (vē·năn'zīt), n. [From San Venanzo, Italy.] Petrog. A porphyritic lava containing phenocrysts of olivine in a groundmass of leucite, melilite, mica, magnetite, and a little pyroxene and nephelite; — called also euktolite.

‖ve'na por'tae (vē'nȧ pôr'tē; 181); pl. VENAE PORTAE (vē'nē). [L., lit., vein of the entrance.] Anat. & Zool. The portal vein (which see).

‖ve'na sal'va·tel'la (săl'vȧ·tĕl'ȧ). [NL. salvatella, dim. of LL. salvare to save.] Anat. The superficial vein on the back of the hand, coming from the little finger. The ancients considered bleeding from this vein very efficacious in curing disease.

ve·nat'ic (vē·năt'ĭk), adj. [L. venaticus, fr. venatus hunting, fr. venari, past part. venatus, to hunt. See 2d VENERY.] Of or pert. to, or used in, hunting; also, fond of, or living by, hunting. — ve·nat'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

ve·nat'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Venatic.

ve·na'tion (vē·nā'shŭn), n. [L. vena a vein.] 1. The arrangement or system of veins, as in the wing of an insect; veins, collectively.
2. Bot. The arrangement and disposition of the veins or vascular bundles in the green tissue of a leaf blade; — called also nervation. The venation follows the same type of development as the leaf; thus a palmate leaf has palmate venation, and a pinnate leaf pinnate venation. In parallel venation, characteristic of most monocotyledons, several primary veins follow a nearly parallel course from base to apex; in reticulate venation, found in most dicotyledons, a central vein, the midrib, gives off numerous branches, which in turn subdivide and form a fine anastomosing network. There are numerous modifications of these primary types.

ve·na'tion (vē·nā'shŭn), n. [L. venatio, fr. venari to hunt.] Hunting. Now Rare.

ve·na'tion·al (-ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to venation.

ve·na'tor (vē·nā'tôr), n. [L.] A huntsman. Rare.

ven'a·to'ri·al (vĕn'ȧ·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), ven'a·to'ri·ous (-ŭs), ven'a·to'ry (vĕn'ȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. venatorius.] Venatic. Rare.

ven'co·la (vĕn'kō·lȧ), n. The quira.

vend (vĕnd), v. t. & i.; VEND'ED; VEND'ING. [F. vendre, fr. L. vendere, fr. venum dare, fr. venus, venum, sale + dare to give. See VENAL; DATE time.] 1. To transfer to another for a pecuniary equivalent; to make an object of trade, esp. by hawking or peddling; to sell; as, to vend fruit.
2. To utter publicly; to put forth in a statement or statements; to publish abroad.

Syn. — See SELL.

vend (vĕnd), n. 1. Act of vending; sale; specif., the total sales of a colliery, esp. as restricted by annual agreement. Eng.
2. Market; opportunity for selling. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

Vend (vĕnd), Ve·ned' (vē·nĕd'), n.; pl. VENDS (vĕndz), VENEDI (vē·nē'dē). [Cf. WEND.] One of an ancient people of uncertain identity; — usually taken as equivalent to Slav.

ven'dace (vĕn'dās), n. sing. & pl. [OF. vendoise (F. vandoise) dace, of Celt. origin.] A whitefish (Coregonus vandesius) native of certain lakes in Scotland and England.

‖ven'da·val' (vĕn'dȧ·văl'), n. [Sp., prop., a strong southwest wind.] An autumnal thundersquall on the coast of Mexico.

Ven·de'an (vĕn·dē'ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to La Vendée, France. — n. One of the people of La Vendée; esp., one of those who took part in the Wars of the Vendée (1793–96) during the French Revolution.

vend·ee' (vĕn·dē'), n. The person to whom a thing is vended, or sold; — correl. of vendor, and chiefly in legal usage.

vend'er (vĕn'dĕr), n. [From VEND. Cf. VENDOR.] A vendor; seller.

ven·det'ta (vĕn·dĕt'ȧ), n.; pl. -DETTAS (-ȧz). [It., fr. L. vindicta revenge. See VENGEANCE.] A feud for blood revenge; a blood feud. In Corsica, where this ancient custom has continued to recent times, the obligation of the nearest relatives of a dead or injured man to take vengeance on the offender, or if he escape, on his nearest relatives, is regarded as especially sacred, but sometimes the feud is harmonized by mediators and an oath taken to forgo vengeance. Analogous customs exist among the mountaineers of Kentucky and vicinity, in Montenegro, and elsewhere.

ven·det'tist (vĕn·dĕt'ĭst), n. One who engages or becomes involved in a vendetta.

‖ven'deuse' (văn'dûz'), n. [F.] Saleswoman.

vend'i·bil'i·ty (vĕn'dĭ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Quality or state of being vendible.

vend'i·ble (vĕn'dĭ·b'l), adj. [L. vendibilis.] a Capable of being vended; that may be sold; salable. b Venal; open to corrupt bargaining. c Obs. Passing as current; generally acceptable. — n. A vendible article; — usually in pl.

Syn. — VENDIBLE, MARKETABLE. VENDIBLE is the general term; MARKETABLE often applies to that which is proper or fit for market under the laws or customs of a given place. Cf. SELL, MERCENARY, COMMERCIAL.

Ant. — Unsalable, unmarketable.

— vend'i·ble·ness, n. — vend'i·bly, adv.

ven'di·cate (vĕn'dĭ·kāt), v. t. [L. vendicare for vindicare. See VINDICATE.] To claim; require. Obs.

Ven'di·dad' (vĕn'dē·dăd'; -dŏd'), n. [Modern Parsi pronunciation of Pahlavi vī-daevōdātem (law) created against the devas or demons.] See AVESTA.

vend'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VEND. Specif.: n. Act of one who vends; selling. — adj. That vends, or sells.

vending machine. A slot machine for vending merchandise.

ven'di·tate (vĕn'dĭ·tāt), v. t. [L. venditare, venditatum, to offer again and again for sale, v. freq. of vendere. See VEND.] To cry up or display as if for sale. Obs. — ven'di·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n. Now Rare.

ven·di'tion (vĕn·dĭsh'ŭn), n. [L. venditio; cf. F. vendition.] Act of vending, or selling; sale.

ven'dor (vĕn'dôr; in contrast with vendee often vĕn·dôr'), n. [AF. (F. vendeur). See VENDER.] 1. One who vends; a seller; vender.
2. A vending machine.

ven'dor's li'en (vĕn'dôrz). Law. An implied lien (one not created by mortgage or other express agreement) given in equity to a vendor of lands for unpaid purchase money.

vendors' share. A security taken instead of cash payment by one who has transferred property to a corporation.

ven'due (vĕn'dū; -dōō; văn'dōō; văn'dōō, also accented ven·due'), n. [D. vendu, fr. MF. vendue, fr. vendre, past part. vendu, to sell.] A public sale of anything, by outcry, to the highest bidder; an auction.

Ven'e·do'tian (vĕn'ē·dō'shăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Venedotia, the chief of the early states of Wales; as, the Venedotian code of early Welsh laws.

ve·neer' (vē·nēr'), n. [G. furnier or fournier. See VENEER, v. t.] 1. A thin sheet of a material; esp., a thin layer of wood cut or sawed from a log; specif.: a A layer of a more valuable or beautiful material for overlaying an inferior one, esp. such a thin leaf of wood to be glued to a cheaper wood. b Any one of the layers which are glued together to impart stiffness and strength to plywood. See PLYWOOD.
2. a A protective or ornamental facing of brick, stone, or the like, for a wall. b Thin, highly glazed, colored paperboard, used for veneering.
3. Superficial or meretricious show; gloss.

ve·neer' (vē·nēr'), v. t.; -NEERED' (-nēr'd'); -NEER'ING. [G. furnieren, fourniren, fr. F. fournir to furnish. See FURNISH.] 1. To overlay or plate, as a common sort of wood, with a thin layer of finer wood for outer finish or decoration; as, to veneer furniture with mahogany; hence, to coat or face with any material giving a superior surface; also, to glue together (thin pieces of wood) into plywood.
2. To cover over with a veneer; to give an attractive appearance to; to gloss over so as to conceal the real nature.

As a rogue in grain Veneered with sanctimonious theory. Tennyson.

— ve·neer'er (-ĕr), n.

veneer grafting. Hort. Grafting by chamfering the surfaces of cion and stock and applying the one to the other.

ve·neer'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VENEER. Specif.: n. Thin material used as a veneer or in plywood; also, a surface made by veneer.

veneer moth. Any of various small moths of the family Crambidae. Their mottled colors resemble those of some veneering.

---

vel'vet-leaved', adj. See LEAVED. vel'vet-like', adj. See -LIKE. velyarde, n. [F. vieillard.] An old man. Obs.

ven (vĕn). Var. of FEN. New Dial. ve'nal·ly, adv. of VENAL. ve'nal·ness, n. See -NESS. vence (vĕns), v. i. [Corrupt. of defence.] = 6th FEN; — used by boys playing marbles. [Obs.] vend'a·ble, adj. = VENDIBLE.
‖Ven'dé'miaire' (vĕn'dā'myâr'), n. [F., fr. L. vindemia vintage.] See REVOLUTIONARY CALENDAR. vend'er·ess, n., fem. of VENDER. vendicate. † VINDICATE.

ven'dis (vĕn'dĭs). Var. of VENDACE. ven'di·tor (vĕn'dĭ·tôr), n. [L.] = VENDOR. Rare.

vene. † VEIN, WEEN.
Ve·ned' (vē·nĕd'), n. See VEND.
Ve·ne'di (vē·nē'dē), n., pl. of VEND, VENED.

ve·nef'i·cal (vĕ·nĕf'ĭ·kăl), adj. [L. veneficus.] Venefícious. Now Rare.

ven'e·fi'cious (vĕn'ĕ·fĭsh'ŭs), adj. Acting by poison; used in poisoning or in sorcery. Now Rare.

ven'e·nate (vĕn'ĕ·nāt), v. t. [L. venenatus, past part. of venenare to poison, fr. venenum poison. See VENOM.] To poison. Rare.

ven'e·nate, adj. Poisoned; poisonous. Rare.

ven'e·na'tion (-nā'shŭn), n. Med. a Act of poisoning. b Condition of being poisoned.

ve·nene' (vĕ·nēn'), adj. Poisonous. Now Rare.

And shapes venene begin to crawl and eat
The ruddy apples of the blood. Edgar Lee Masters.

ve·nene' (vĕ·nēn'; vē'nēn). Var. of VENIN.

ven'e·nif'er·ous (vĕn'ĕ·nĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. venenum poison + -ferous.] Bearing or transmitting poison.

ven'e·nif'ic (vĕn'ĕ·nĭf'ĭk), adj. [L. venenum poison + -fic.] Producing poison.

ven'e·no- (vĕn'ĕ·nō-). = VENOMO-, as in ven'e·no·sal'i·var'y.

ven'e·nose' (vĕn'ĕ·nōs'; see -OSE), adj. [LL. venenosus.] Poisonous. — ven'e·nos'i·ty (-nŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Obs.

ven'e·nous (vĕn'ĕ·nŭs), adj. [See VENENOSE.] Poisonous. Rare. — ven'e·nous·ness, n. Rare.

ven'e·punc'ture (vĕn'ĕ·pŭngk'tûr; vē'nĕ-), n. [L. vena vein + E. puncture.] Med. Puncture of a vein, specif. with a hypodermic needle for the purpose of withdrawing blood or for intravenous injection of a remedy.

ven'er·a·ble (vĕn'ĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. [OF., fr. L. venerabilis.] 1. Capable of being venerated; worthy of veneration or honor and respect; — generally implying an advanced age; as, a venerable magistrate, parent. Venerable is used in the churches of the Anglican Communion as a title for an archdeacon. In the Roman Catholic Church venerable is applied to those who have attained to the lowest of the three recognized degrees of sanctity, but are not among the beatified or the canonized.

Venerable men [veterans of the Revolution] you have come down to us from a former generation. D. Webster.

2. Rendered sacred by religious, historic, or other associations; that should be regarded with awe and treated with reverence; as, the venerable walls of a temple or a church. 3. Claiming veneration or respect through age, character, and attainments; restrictedly, receiving or claiming special respect because of age. 4. Showing or rendering veneration or deep respect; reverential. Obs.

Syn. — See AUGUST, OLD. Ant. — Callow, immature. — ven'er·a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — ven'er·a·ble·ness, n. — ven'er·a·bly, adv.

ven'er·a·ble, n. One who is deserving of veneration by age, character, and attainments; also, one who by his position bears the title of venerable. See VENERABLE, adj., 1.

Venerable Bede. An Early English monk, noted for his ecclesiastical and historical writings. See BEDE, in Biog.

Venerable Doctor. [L. Doctor Venerabilis.] Guillaume de Champeaux (d. 1121), a scholastic philosopher noted as an advocate of realism.

Venerable Initiator. [L. Venerabilis Inceptor.] William Ockham (d. 1349?), an English scholastic philosopher.

Ven'er·a'ce·a (vĕn'ĕr·ā'shē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See VENUS.] Zool. A suborder of bivalve mollusks (order Eulamellibranchia) of which the Veneridae and Petricolidae are the chief families. — ven'er·a'cean (-shăn), adj. & n. — ven'er·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

ven'er·ance (vĕn'ĕr·ăns), n. [ML. venerantia.] Venerableness. Rare.

ven'er·ant (-ănt), adj. [L. venerans, -antis, pres. part.] Reverent. Rare.

ven'er·ate (vĕn'ĕr·āt), v. t.; VEN'ER·AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VEN'ER·AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). [L. veneratus, past part. of venerari to venerate; akin to L. Venus Venus, Skr. vanas desire, vanati he likes, desires. See WISH; cf. VENEREAL 1st VENERY, VENIAL, VENISON, VENOM.] To regard with reverential respect, or with admiration and deference as being hallowed or as having nobility, esp. if accompanied with age; to revere; as, we venerate noble parents.

And seemed to venerate the sacred shade. Dryden.

I do not know a man more to be venerated for uprightness of heart and loftiness of genius. Scott.

ven'er·ate (-āt), adj. a Obs. Reverent. b Rare. Revered; venerable.

ven'er·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. [L. veneratio; cf. F. vénération.] 1. Act of venerating, or state of being venerated; the highest degree of respect and reverence; respect mingled with awe, excited by the dignity, wisdom, or superiority, of a person, by sacredness of character, by consecration to sacred services, or by hallowed associations.

We find a secret awe and veneration for one who moves about us in a regular and illustrious course of virtue. Addison.

2. Act of expressing reverent feeling; worship; also, state of being venerated, or worshiped. 3. An object of veneration (in sense 1). R. Browning. 4. Phrenol. The faculty of reverence.

Syn. — Awe, respect, devotion. See REVERENCE.

Ant. — Contempt, disgust, loathing, scorn, aversion.

— ven'er·a'tion·al (-ăl), adj.

ven'er·a'tive (vĕn'ĕr·ā'tĭv), adj. Of or pert. to veneration; reverent; as, a venerative sentiment; a venerative man. — ven'er·a'tive·ly, adv. — ven'er·a'tive·ness, n.

ven'er·a'tor (-ā'tĕr), n. [L.] One who venerates.

ve·ne're·al (vĕ·nē'rē·ăl), adj. [L. venereus, venerius, fr. Venus, Veneris, Venus, the goddess of love. See VENERATE.] 1. Of or pertaining to venery, or sexual love; relating to sexual intercourse; inclined to be lascivious; as, venereal desire. 2. Adapted to excite venereal desire; aphrodisiac. 3. Med. a Arising from sexual intercourse with an infected person; as, venereal disease. b Adapted to the cure of venereal diseases; as, venereal medicines. c Infected with venereal disease; as, a venereal patient.

venereal granuloma. Med. Granuloma inguinale.

venereal wart. = FIG WART.

ve·ne're·ol'o·gist (vĕ·nē'rē·ŏl'ŏ·jĭst), n. Med. A physician specializing in venereal diseases.

ve·ne're·ol'o·gy (-jĭ), n. [See VENEREAL; -LOGY.] Med. That branch of medical science concerned with venereal diseases.

ven'er·er (vĕn'ĕr·ĕr), n. [See 2d VENERY.] A follower of venery; a huntsman.

Ve·ner'i·dae (vĕ·nĕr'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See VENUS; -IDAE.] Zool. A family of bivalve mollusks of the order Eulamellibranchia, mostly having a solid equivalve shell, short siphons, and a narrow foot. In some forms the shell is handsomely sculptured. Venus, containing the quahog, or round clam, is the type genus.

One of the Veneridae (Gemma gemma). ve·ner'i·form (-fôrm), adj. Zool. Having the form of a marine bivalve of the genus Venus.

‖ve·ne'ro (vā·nā'rō), n.; pl. -ROS (-rōz; Sp. -rōs). [Sp.] A spring of water.

ven'er·y (vĕn'ĕr·ĭ), n. [L. Venus, Veneris, the goddess of love.] Sexual intercourse; coition; also, pursuit of sexual delight.

ven'er·y, n. [ME. venerie, fr. OF. venerie, fr. vener to hunt, fr. L. venari. See VENISON.] 1. Art, act, or practice, of hunting; the sports of the chase; hunting. 2. Animals that are hunted; game; in the Middle Ages, the hunting of beasts of venery (hart, hind, hare, boar, and wolf). Cf. 2d CHASE, 1. Obs. 3. A kennel for dogs used in hunting. Obs.

ven'e·sect (vĕn'ĕ·sĕkt; vĕn'ĕ·sĕkt'), v. t. & i. [See VENESECTION.] To phlebotomize. — ven'e·sec'tor (vĕn'ĕ·sĕk'tĕr; vĕn'ĕ·sĕk'tĕr), n.

ven'e·sec'tion (vĕn'ĕ·sĕk'shŭn; vē'nĕ-), n. [NL. venaesectio, fr. L. vena vein, gen. venae + sectio a cutting.] Med. The operation of opening a vein for letting blood; phlebotomy.

ve·nes'i·a (vĕ·nĕs'ĭ·ȧ), n. In trade, the wood of the vera.

Ven'e·ti (vĕn'ĕ·tĭ), n. pl. a An ancient tribe in Gaul, conquered by Caesar 56 B.C. Vannes in Brittany is named from them. b An ancient people in northeastern Italy (Venetia), allies of the Romans. See VENETIC.

Ve·ne'tian (vĕ·nē'shăn), adj. [ML. Venetianus, fr. Venetia Venice.] Of or pertaining to Venice in Italy.

Ve·ne'tian (vĕ·nē'shăn), n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Venice; also, the language or dialect spoken by the people of Venice. 2. Any of various things suggesting, or named in allusion to, Venice; as: a Obs. pl. Galligaskins. b Colloq. A Venetian blind or Venetian window. c pl. A heavy kind of tape or braid used especially on Venetian blinds. d A domino, or robe for masquerade. e A fine twilled woolen cloth used for suiting. f A twilled and mercerized cotton fabric used chiefly as a lining for garments. g Obs. = SEQUIN, 1.

Venetian ball. A ball of glass made decorative by colored patterns or by objects enclosed within its mass, usually a modern toy or paper weight.

Venetian blind. A blind (capable of being raised or lowered) having numerous thin parallel slats placed horizontally one above another which are capable of being set simultaneously at any desired angle to admit varying amounts of light or air, or of being made to overlap one another to exclude light, etc.

Venetian blue. The color cobalt blue.

Venetian carpet. An inexpensive carpet, formerly used for passages and stairs, having a worsted warp which conceals the weft, the pattern being therefore commonly made up of simple stripes.

Venetian chalk. A white compact talc or steatite, used for marking on cloth, etc.

Venetian cloth. = VENETIAN, n., 2 e & 2 f.

Venetian dentil. Arch. One of a series of cubical projections alternating with splayed surfaces. They may be formed along the edge of a projecting band by cutting bevels at intervals to produce notches with the dentils between; also, the ornament so produced.

One form of Venetian Dentil.

Venetian door. Arch. A door having long, narrow windows or panes of glass on the sides. Rare.

Ve·ne'tianed (vĕ·nē'shănd), adj. Having or furnished with Venetian blinds.

Venetian embroidery. A kind of cut work done on linen, batiste, or net, with buttonhole and other lace stitches.

Venetian flat point. = FLAT POINT LACE a.

Venetian glass. a A dainty, delicate, and artistic glassware made at Murano near Venice. b A kind of glass made for decorative purposes by the combination of pieces of glass of different colors fused together and wrought into various ornamental patterns.

Venetian green. A color, green in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Venetian lake. = CARMINE.

Venetian mallow. The bladder ketmie.

Venetian pearl. An imitation pearl made of solid glass.

Venetian pink. The color blossom.

Venetian point. Venetian needle-point lace, as raised point and rose point.

Venetian raised point. = RAISED POINT.

Venetian red. 1. An earthy variety of hematite (ferric oxide), used as a red pigment; now, usually, a red pigment consisting of ferric oxides, artificially prepared, as by calcining ocher or by treating copperas with lime and calcining the precipitate. 2. A brown, reddish red-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance; — called also Sierra, Siena. Cf. COLOR.

Venetian rose point. = ROSE POINT.

Venetian sauce. Allemande sauce flavored with tarragon and nutmeg.

Venetian school. Painting as practiced in and near Venice in the 15th and 16th centuries, noted for its richness and beauty of color, including the painters from the Bellinis to Tiepolo, and culminating in the work of Giorgione, Tiţian, Paul Veronese, and Tintoretto.

Venetian soap. A kind of soap essentially the same as Castile soap.

Venetian sumac. The European smoke tree (Cotinus coggygria), which yields the yellow dyewood known as young fustic (which see).

Venetian swell. Music. A swell organ with blinds patterned on Venetian blinds closing the swell box.

Venetian turpentine. = VENICE TURPENTINE.

Venetian white. A pigment consisting of a mixture of equal parts of white lead and barium sulphate.

Venetian window. = PALLADIAN WINDOW.

Ve·net'ic (vĕ·nĕt'ĭk), adj. [L. Veneticus.] Of or pertaining to the ancient Veneti of Italy or their language. — n. The language of this people, known from inscriptions, and showing Illyrian affinities. The Venetic alphabet is perhaps of Etruscan origin.

‖ve·neur' (vĕ·nûr'), n. [F., fr. L. venator a hunter.] Fr. Hist. A superintendent of the chase, esp. of hounds. — an important officer under the French kings.

ve'ne·zo·la'no (vā'nā·sō·lä'nō; 267), n. [Sp., properly adj., pertaining to Venezuela.] The former Venezuelan coin unit, equivalent to 5 francs or bolivars.

Ven'e·zue'lan (vĕn'ĕ·zwē'lăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Venezuela or its people. — n. A native or inhabitant of Venezuela.

venge'a·ble (vĕn'jȧ·b'l), adj. Obs. a Able or apt to take vengeance; vindictive. b From or as from vengeance; mischievous; destructive. c Deserving or requiring to be revenged. d Very great; tremendous; extraordinary.

venge'a·ble (vĕn'jȧ·b'l), adv. Revengefully. Rare.

venge'ance (vĕn'jăns), n. [OF., fr. vengier, venchier (F. venger) to avenge, fr. L. vindicare to claim, defend, avenge, fr. vindex a claimant, defender, avenger, of obscure origin. Cf. AVENGE, REVENGE, VENDETTA, VINDICATE.] 1. Punishment inflicted in return for an injury or an offense; retribution; often, also, passionate or unrestrained revenge.

To me belongeth vengeance and recompense. Deut. xxxii. 35.

To execute fierce vengeance on his foes. Milton.

2. Harm; mischief; evil. Obs.

Syn. — See REQUITAL. Ant. — Forgiveness, mercy.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vengeance-crying vengeance-sated vengeance-seeking vengeance-prompting vengeance-scathed vengeance-taking — what a (or the) vengeance. What! — emphatically. Obs. "But what a vengeance makes thee fly!" Hudibras. "What the vengeance! Could he not speak 'em fair?" Shak. — with a vengeance. a With great violence, force, or the like; as, to strike with a vengeance. b Extremely. c In great or excessive amount. "Here are . . . materials enough with a vengeance." M. Arnold.

venge'ance, venge'ance·ly, adv. Extremely; very. Obs.

venge'ant (vĕn'jănt), adj. [OF., pres. part.] Avenging. R.

venge'ful (vĕnj'fŏol; -f'l), adj. Revengeful; as: a Vindictive; seeking to avenge. b Serving to gain vengeance. c Caused by the desire to gain vengeance; inspired by desire to avenge. "Vengeful ire." Milton. — venge'ful·ly, adv. — venge'ful·ness, n.

These proceedings had all the cold vengefulness of a death sentence. Joseph Conrad.

venge'ous·ly (vĕn'jŭs·lĭ), adv. Revengefully. Rare.

ven'ger (vĕn'jĕr), n. [OF. vengeor (F. vengeur).] An avenger.

V'-en'gine, n. An internal-combustion engine the cylinders of which are arranged in two banks forming an acute angle, or V.

ven'i- (vĕn'ĭ-; vē'nĭ-). = VENO-, as in ven'i·punc'ture, ven'i·su'ture.

‖ve'ni·a ae·ta'tis (vē'nĭ·ȧ ē·tā'tĭs). [L.] Civil Law. The privilege of age, sometimes granted a minor, entitling him to the rights and liabilities of a person of full age.

ve'ni·al (vē'nĭ·ăl; 159), adj. [OF. venial (F. véniel), fr. LL. venialis, fr. venia forgiveness, pardon, grace, favor, kindness; akin to L. venerari to venerate. See VENERATE.] 1. Capable of being forgiven; not heinous; excusable; as, a venial sin.

So they do nothing, 't is a venial slip. Shak.

2. Allowed; unobjectionable. Obs. Milton.

Syn. — VENIAL, PARDONABLE. VENIAL applies esp. to faults, and is often virtually equivalent to trifling, allowable; PARDONABLE (cf. the implications of unpardonable) retains more of its primary significance; as, "those who imagine that the sins, of which a deep sense was upon his mind, were merely such little venial trifles as pouring milk into his tea on Good Friday" (Boswell); "the venial indiscretions of youth" (Southey); pardonable pride, a pardonable error. For the theological sense of venial see def. of VENIAL SIN. Cf. EXCUSE.

Ant. — Flagrant, heinous, flagitious.

— ve'ni·al·ly, adv. — ve'ni·al·ness, n.

ve'ni·al, n. A venial sin. Obs.

ve'ni·al'i·ty (vē'nĭ·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Venialness.

venial sin. R.C.Ch. A slight offense against divine law in unimportant matters, or, in grave matters, an offense committed without reflection or full consent.

Ven'ice (vĕn'ĭs), n. 1. A city (built on many small islands in lagoons off the Adriatic), a province, and formerly a republic, of northern Italy. 2. Venice blue.

Venice blue. A color, greenish green-blue in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Venice glass, mallow, soap, sumac, etc. Venetian glass, etc.

Venice of the North. Stockholm; — sometimes so called, although its aspect is very different.

Venice red. = 2d BOLE, 3 b.

Venice treacle. Old Med. = THERIACA, 1.

Venice turpentine. A yellowish or greenish-yellow viscous oleoresin from the European larch (Larix decidua), used for lithographic work, in sealing wax, certain varnishes, etc. — called also Venetian or larch turpentine. A mixture of rosin and oil of turpentine is often sold as Venice turpentine.

Venice white. = VENETIAN WHITE.

‖Ve'ni, Cre·a'tor Spi'ri·tus (vē'nĭ, krē·ā'tôr spĭr'ĭ·tŭs), or, sometimes, Ve'ni Cre·a'tor. [L.] Eccl. Come, Creator Spirit; — a medieval Latin hymn of unknown authorship. It contains a pronounced assertion of the doctrine of the procession of the Holy Ghost from the Father and the Son. It is used in the Breviary at Whitve·nef'ic (vē·nĕf'ĭk), adj. Venefícious. Obs.

ve·nef'ic, n. A poisoner. Obs.

ven'e·fice (vĕn'ĕ·fĭs), n. [OF., fr. L. veneficium, fr. veneficus poisoning, fr. venenum poison + facere to make.] Act or practice of poisoning. Obs.

ven'e·fi'cial (-fĭsh'ăl), adj. Venefícious. Obs.

Ven'e·fi'cial, adj. [Venus + ficial as in beneficial.] Pertaining to the works of Venus. Obs.

ve·nef'ic·ness, n. See -NESS. R.

ve·nef'i·cous (vē·nĕf'ĭ·kŭs), adj. [L. veneficus.] = VENEFICIOUS. Rare. [-LOOKING.

ven'er·a·ble·look'ing, adj. See ven'er·a·bly, adv. of VENERABLE. See -LY. [EREAL. Obs.

ven'er·al (vĕn'ĕr·ăl), adj. = VEN-ven'er·al, adj. = VENERABLE. R.

Ven'er·a'li·a (vĕn'ĕr·ā'lĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [L.] See VENUS, 1.

venere, v. t. [F. vénérer.] To venerate. Obs.

ve·ne're·al·ness, n. See -NESS.

ve·ne're·an (vē·nē'rē·ăn), adj. [F. vénérien.] Obs. a Born under the influence of the star Venus; amorous. b Devoted to the offices of Venus or love; venereal. c Aphrodisiac; also, attractive; handsome.

ve·ne're·an, n. A libidinous person. Obs.

ve·ne're·ous (-ŭs), adj. [L. venereus.] Obs. a Lustful; lascivious. b Venereal; aphrodisiac.

— ve·ne're·ous·ness, n. Obs.

Ven'er·es (vĕn'ĕr·ēz), n. pl. See VENUS, 3.

ve·ne'ri·al (vē·nē'rĭ·ăl), adj. [From 2d VENERY.] = VENATIC. Rare. [Obs.

ve·ne'ri·al, adj. = VENEREAL.

ve·ne'ri·an, adj. & n. = VENEREAN. Obs.

venerie. † VENERY.

ve·ne'ri·en, adj. & n. = VENEREAN. Obs. [Obs.

ve·ne'ri·ous, adj. = VENEREOUS.

ven'er·ol'o·gy (vĕn'ĕr·ŏl'ŏ·jĭ). Var. of VENEREOLOGY.

ven'er·ous (vĕn'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [Cf. MF. venereus.] = VENEREAL. Obs.

Ven'e·tes (vĕn'ĕ·tēz), n. pl. = VENETI.

ve·ne'ti·a'no, n. [It. Veneziano.] A female avenger. Obs.

Coins. A Venetian sequin. Obs.

ven'ew. Var. of VENUE.

Ven'e·zue'le·an (vĕn'ĕ·zwē'lē·ăn). Var. of VENEZUELAN.

venge (vĕnj), v. t. & i. [OF. vengier (F. venger). See VENGEANCE.] = AVENGE. Archaic.

venge'a·bly, adv. Revengefully; cruelly. Obs.

venge'ment, n. [OF.] Avengement. Obs.

veng'er·ess, n. [OF. vengeresse.] veng'i·ble, adj. = VENGEABLE. Obs. — veng'i·bly, adv. Obs.

ve'ni·a·ble (vē'nĭ·ȧ·b'l), adj. [LL. veniabilis.] Venial; pardonable. Obs. — ve'ni·a·bly, adv. Obs.

veniance. † VENGEANCE.

N O P Q R S T U V

suntide, on solemn occasions such as ordinations and coronation of kings. An English version is used in Anglican churches at ordinations of bishops and priests.

ve'nie (vē'nĭ), n. [AF. venie, fr. L. venia pardon.] Supplication for pardon; also, a genuflection in making supplication. Obs.

ven'in (vĕn'ĭn; vē'nĭn), n. [L. venenum poison.] 1. Biochem. Any of a class of toxic substances in snake venom; also, a toxic substance, supposedly of the same nature, formed by cleavage of an albumose.
2. Poison. Obs.

ven'in, v. t. & i. To poison; to kill by poison. Obs.

ven'i·plex (vĕn'ĭ plĕks; vē'nĭ-), n. [NL.] Anat. A plexus of veins.

ven'i·punc'ture (vĕn'ĭ·pŭngk'tŭr; vē'nĭ-), n. [veni- + puncture.] Surgical puncture of a vein; venepuncture.

ve·ni're fa'ci·as (vē·nī'rē fā'shĭ·ăs), or ve·ni're, n. [L., make, or cause, to come.] Law. a A judicial writ or precept directed to the sheriff, requiring him to cause a certain number of qualified persons to appear in court at a specified time, to serve as jurors in said court; — called in full ‖ve·ni're fa'ci·as ju'ra·tō'res (jōō'rā·tō'rēz). b Eng. Law. A writ in the nature of a summons to cause the party indicted on a penal statute to appear.

ve·ni're fa'ci·as de no'vo (dē nō'vō). Also ve·ni're de no'vo. A new writ of venire facias issued to summon a jury anew on some irregularity or defect in the proceeding under the first venire.

ve·ni're·man (vē·nī're·măn; vē·nē'r'ē-), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). Law. A juror summoned by a venire.

‖Ve'ni, Sanc'te Spi'ri·tus (vē'nī sängk'tē spĭr'ĭ·tŭs). [L.] Come, Holy Spirit; — a medieval Latin hymn ascribed to Robert II, King (998–1031) of France, and to Innocent III. It is used as a Whitsuntide sequence by the Roman Catholic Church.

ven'i·son (vĕn'ĭ·z'n or, esp. in British usage, vĕn'z'n; 277: cf. MEDICINE, n.), n. [ME. veneison, veneson, venison, fr OF. veneison (F. venaison), fr. L. venatio hunting, the chase, game, fr. venari, past part. venatus, to hunt; prob. akin to Skr. vanati he desires, attacks, gains. See VENERATE; cf. VENATIC.] 1. a Obs. The flesh of any edible beast of the chase or a game bird. b The flesh of an animal of the deer kind.
2. A beast or beasts of the chase; esp., an animal of the deer kind; also, the sport of hunting; venery. Obs.

ven'i·son, adj. Pertaining to, composed of, or made of, venison, esp. of the flesh of an animal of the deer kind; as, a venison dinner, pie; also, used for serving venison.

ven'i·son·iv'o·rous (-ĭv'ō·rŭs; cf. VENISON), adj. [venison + -vorous.] Eating venison; given to eating venison. R.

Ve·ni'te (vē·nī'tē), n. [L., come, imper. 2d pers. pl.; — so called from its opening word in the Latin version.] The 94th Psalm (Vulgate; in A.V., the 95th), which in the form of a response is said or sung as the invitatory at matins.

‖ve'ni, vi'di, vi'ci (vē'nī, vī'dĭ, vī'sĭ; wā'nē, wē'dē, wē'kē). [L.] I came, I saw, I conquered; — the words in which Julius Caesar (Suetonius, 1 37) announced to the Senate his defeat of Pharnaces, king of Pontus, near Zela, 47 B.C.

Ven'i·ze'list (vĕn'ĭ·zā'lĭst), n. Greek Politics. One of the party which followed Eleutherios Venizelos (1864–1936), esp. in his policies of adherence to the side of the Allies in the World War, and of opposition to Constantine I and George II during and after the war.

ven'nel (vĕn'l), n. [F. venelle lane.] A lane; alley; also, gutter; sewer. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

ven'ner (vĕn'ĕr), v. i. To snarl; scowl. Dial. Eng.

Ven'ner, El'sie (vĕn'ĕr). See ELSIE VENNER.

‖ven·noot'schap (vĕ·nōt'skäp), n. [D.] Partnership. S. Africa.

ve'no- (vē'nō-; vĕn'ō-). A combining form for vena, as in ve'no·scle·ro'sis. See SCLEROSIS. Veno- denotes also in adjectives pertaining to the vena cava and, as in ve'no·a'tri·al, ve'no·au·ric'u·lar, ve'no·si'nal. See ATRIAL, etc.

ven'om (vĕn'ŭm), n. [ME. venim, fr. OF. venim, venin (F. venin), fr. (assumed) VL. venimen, for L. venenum poison; prob. orig. a love potion, and akin to L. Venus. See VENERATE.] 1. Matter fatal or injurious to life; poison in general. Archaic.
2. Specif., the poisonous matter which certain animals, such as serpents, scorpions, bees, etc., secrete in a state of health, and communicate by biting or stinging.
3. That which poisons, embitters, or blights; spite; malice; malignity. "The venom of such looks." Shak.
4. Dyeing matter; dye. Obs.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:
venom-breathing, adj. venom-hating, adj. venom-sputtering, venom-breeding, adj. venom maker adj. venom-cold, adj. venom-mouthed venom-venting, adj. venom-fanged venom-spotted ven'om, adj. Venomous. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

ven'om, v. t. [ME. venimen, fr. OF. venimer. See VENOM, n.] To infect with venom; to envenom; poison. Now Rare. — v. i. To become envenomed. Obs.

ven'omed (vĕn'ŭmd), adj. Poisoned.
The flame of his quick and leaping soul
To be quenched in a venomed bowl. Stephen Gwynn.

ven'om·er (vĕn'ŭm·ĕr), n. One who venoms or poisons.

ven'om·ize (-īz), v. t. To treat with snake venom. — ven'om·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

ven'o·mo- (vĕn'ō·mō-). A combining form for venomous, as in *venomo*salivary.

ven'o·mo·sal'i·var'y (vĕn'ō·mō·săl'ĭ·vĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -vĕr·ĭ), adj Zool. Of the nature of venom and saliva; designating the salivary glands of certain animals that secrete venom instead of saliva.

ven'om·ous (vĕn'ŭm·ŭs), adj. [ME. venimous, fr. OF. venimeux See VENOM.] 1. a Full of venom; noxious to animal life by means of venom; poisonous; as, a venomous sting b Virulent, baneful; as, a venomous doctrine.
2. Characterized by, or of the nature of, venom; hence, mischievous; malignant; spiteful; as, a venomous writer.
3. Tipped with, or dipped in, poison, as an arrow; poisoned; as, venomous darts, shafts.
4. Zool Having a gland or glands for the secretion of venom; able to inflict a poisoned bite, sting, or wound.
Syn. — Toxic, envenomed, deadly; malicious, rancorous. See POISONOUS.
Ant. — Salutary, wholesome; benign, benignant.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:
venomous-hearted, venomous-looking, venomous-minded.
— ven'om·ous·ly, adv. — ven'om·ous·ness, n.

ven'om·some (vĕn'ŭm·sŭm), adj. Venomous. Now Dial.

ven'om·y (-ĭ), adj. Venomous; poisonous.
Nothing hath cruelet venomy might. James Clarence Mangan.

ve·no'sal (vē·nō'săl), adj. Venous; of the nature of a vein.

ve'nose (vē'nōs; see -OSE), adj. [See VENOUS.] Venous; specif., Bot., having numerous or conspicuous veins; veiny.

-ve'nose. A combining form for venose, as in reticulato*venose.*

ve·nos'i·ty (vē·nŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Quality or state of being venous or venose.
2. Med. A condition in which the arterial blood exhibits venous qualities; also, general congestion of the veins.

ve·nos'ta·sis (vē·nŏs'tā·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. veno- + -stasis.] Med. The inhibiting of the flow of blood through the veins, as by compressing them with a ligature.

ve'nous (vē'nŭs), adj. [L. venosus, fr vena a vein See VEIN.] 1. Of or pertaining to a vein or veins.
2. Physiol. Designating blood which has passed through the capillaries and given up oxygen for the tissues and become charged with carbon dioxide, and hence must pass through the respiratory organs (lungs or gills) for purification and oxygenation; — opposed to arterial. Venous blood in the higher animals is dark red. It is so termed because most of the veins contain blood in this condition.
3. Marked with veins; veined; venose. Rare.
— ve'nous·ly, adv. — ve'nous·ness, n.

venous hemorrhage. See HEMORRHAGE.

venous hum. Med. A hum sometimes heard during auscultation of the veins of the neck, esp. in anemia.

venous pulse. Med. See 2d PULSE, 1.

venous sinus. Anat. & Zool. a A large vein or passage for venous blood, as in the dura mater. b = SINUS VENOSUS.

vent (vĕnt), n. [Sp. venta sale, market, roadside inn. See VENT sale.] 1. Inn; tavern. Obs.
2. A brand indicating the sale of the animal branded, sometimes a special mark, sometimes a bar across the seller's brand. Western U. S.

vent, v. t. To cancel by a vent (brand). Western U. S.

vent, n. [From fent, fente, a slit, fr. F. fente a slit, cleft, fissure, fr. fendre to split, fr. L. findere; confused with F. vent wind, fr. L. ventus. See FISSURE; cf. VENT scent.] 1. A small aperture; a hole or opening for passage or escape, as of air, a gas, or a fluid; as, the vent of a cask; the vent of a mold; a volcanic vent; the vent of a flute.
Look, how thy wounds do bleed at many vents. Shak
2. Specif.: a (1) Obs. exc. in Zool. The anus. (2) Zool. The opening of the cloaca or of the intestine on the surface of the body; esp., that of the lower vertebrates, as fishes. b Scot. & Dial. Eng. A chimney. "The spare bedroom vent." Barrie. c Now Rare. An opening or slit in a garment. d Obs. The opening or embrasure in a crenelated battlement. e An opening, as in a room or building, for ventilation.
3. Opportunity of escape or passage; outlet, as from confinement or privacy; passage; escape; hence, issue, as from a closed place; utterance, expression, or publication; as, to give vent to one's wrath. "The vent of words." Milton.
When Peter's next new book found vent. Shelley.
4. A discharge or emission. Obs.
5. The coming of an otter to the surface of the water in ordor to breathe. Eng.
6. Ordn. The opening at the breech of a gun through which fire is communicated to the powder. In muzzle-loading guns it was a hole from the top of the breech to the chamber. In modern breech-loading guns it is usually in the axis of the breechblock. See BREECHBLOCK, Illust.
Syn. — Hole, opening, aperture; outlet, release.

vent, adj. Having, or serving or used as, a vent.

vent, v.; VENT'ED; VENT'ING Transitive: 1. To let out at a vent, or small aperture; to give passage or outlet to.
2. To let out; to pour forth; as, the chimney vented smoke; cast out; specif., to eject from the body; to evacuate. Obs.
3. To give vent or expression to; to issue; let loose; as, to vent one's anger, spite, affection; also, to utter; report; publish; as, to vent a grievance.
The queen of heaven did thus her fury vent. Dryden.
Thou hast framed and vented very curious orations. Barrow.
4. To furnish, as a cask, with a vent; to make a vent in as a mold.
5. To relieve by giving vent; as, to vent oneself in grief.
6. Ordn. To put a vent on. See 3d VENT, 6.
—, Intransitive: 1. To snuff; to breathe or puff out; to snort. Obs.
2. To issue forth by or as by a vent; to go, flow, pour, etc., away or out through a vent.
3. To give expression; to express oneself or itself; to make or find an opening for utterance, as of one's feelings, thoughts, or grievances. Obs.
4. To have draft; to draw; as, the chimney vents well.
5. To come to the surface to breathe, as the otter. Eng.

vent, n. [F. vente, fr. (assumed) VL. vendita, fr. L. vendere, -ditum, to vend.] Now Rare. Sale; specif.: a Act of selling. b Opportunity to sell; market. — v. t. & i. To vend. Obs.

vent, n. [See VENT to scent.] Hunting. Scent, as of a deer; also, power of tracing by scent, as of a hound. Obs.

vent, v. t. & i. [F., wind, scent, fr. L. ventus wind; cf. F. venter to blow. See VENTILATE; cf. VENT opening.] Hunting. To scent or to track by scent; to smell. Obs.

vent. Obs. exc. dial. Eng. var. of FENT; WENT, a way.

‖ven'ta (vĕn'tä), n. [Sp.] An inn.

vent'age (vĕn'tĭj), n. A small hole, as a flute stop; a vent.

ven'tail (vĕn'tāl), n. [OF. ventaille (F. ventail). See VENTILATE; cf. AVENTAIL.] The lower movable front of a helmet, for the admission of air, usually the part below the visor but sometimes including the visor. Obs. exc. Hist.

‖ven·ta'na (vĕn·tä'nä), n. [Sp.] Window.

vent drill, gimlet, or punch. Mil. An instrument for clearing of obstructions the vent of a cannon.

ven'ter (vĕn'tĕr), n. [L.; akin to L. vesica, vensica, bladder, Skr. vasti, G. wanst paunch. Cf. VENTRILOQUISM, VESICLE.] 1. Some part or thing resembling or suggesting a vent; specif.: Anat. & Zool. a The belly; the abdomen; — sometimes applied to any large cavity containing viscera. b A belly, or protuberant part; as, the venter of a muscle. c A broad shallow concavity; as, the venter of the ilium or of the scapula (see ILIUM, SCAPULA).
2. Bot. In vascular cryptogams, the swollen basal portion of an archegonium, in which the egg is developed.
3. Law. Womb (of wife or mother); as, A has a son B by one venter, and a daughter C by another venter.
4. Zool. & Paleontol. The outer or convex part of the shell of a curved or coiled cephalopod or gastropod.

vent'er (vĕn'tĕr), n. One who or that which vents; esp., one who gives utterance or publicity to his ideas, doctrines, grievances, etc.

ven'ter (vĕn'tĕr), n. [Sp. ventero.] An innkeeper. Obs.

vent'er (vĕn'tĕr), n. A vender. Obs.

Ven'ters·dorp (vĕn'tĕrs·dôrp), adj. [From Ventersdorp, Transvaal.] Geol. Pertaining to or designating the third from the top of the major divisions of the predominantly sedimentary, unfossiliferous, Pre-Devonian rocks of South Africa. The Ventersdorp system is in considerable part volcanic and is over 5,000 feet in maximum thickness.

Ven'ters·dorp, n. Geol. The Ventersdorp period or system.

vent feather. Zool. A crissal feather.

vent'hole' (vĕnt'hōl'), n. An opening for the admission or emission of light, air, a liquid, etc.; as: a A vent in a cask b Ordn. A vent.

Ven·tid'i·us (vĕn·tĭd'ĭ·ŭs; -tĭj'ŭs), n. A friend to Antony in Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra, (which see).

ven'ti·duct (vĕn'tĭ·dŭkt), n. [L. ventus wind + ductus a leading, conduit, fr. ducere, ductum, to lead. See WIND; DUKE.] A passage or pipe for wind or air, as for ventilating apartments.

ven'ti·fact (vĕn'tĭ·făkt), n. [L. ventus wind + -fact as in arti*fact.*] Geol. A stone worn, polished, or faceted, by wind-blown sand; — called also glyptolith, rillstone.

ven'til (vĕn'tĭl; G. vĕn·tēl'), n. [G. See VENTILATE.] A valve in various wind instruments, etc. See VALVE, n., 9.

ven'ti·la·ble (vĕn'tĭ·lȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of ventilation.

ven·til'a·gin (vĕn·tĭl'ȧ·jĭn; vĕn'tĭ·lā'jĭn), n. [NL. Ventilago + -in.] Chem. A resinous reddish-brown coloring matter, $C_{15}H_{12}O_6$. from the root bark of an East Indian woody vine (Ventilago maderaspatana), family Rhamnaceae.

ven'ti·late (vĕn'tĭ·lāt), v. t.; VEN'TI·LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VEN'TI·LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [L. ventilatus, past part. of ventilare to toss, brandish in the air, to fan, to winnow, fr. ventus wind. See WIND air.] 1. To winnow; fan; as, to ventilate wheat. Now Rare.
2. To change or renew (air), as in a room; also, to start up or increase the combustion of (a fire) by or as if by the use of a blower; figuratively, to increase the intensity of by or as by blowing or fanning a flame. Obs.
3. To cause fresh air to circulate through (to replace foul air simultaneously removed), as a room, mine, etc.; to open up (a room, house, passage, etc.) to the fresh air for circulation; also, of the current of air, to pass or circulate through in such manner as to freshen and replace foul air, gas, etc.
4. To purify by subjecting to fresh air; to oxygenate; as, the blood is ventilated by the lungs.
5. To give vent to; to utter; to make public; as, to ventilate one's grievances; also, to open up to consideration and discussion; to discuss freely; as, after the election, the causes of the rift in the party were ventilated.
He broke off, feeling that these municipal quarrels shouldn't be ventilated before a stranger. Elmer Davis.
6. To provide with a vent, or escape, for air, gas, etc.; as, to ventilate a mold, or a water-wheel bucket.

ven'ti·late, adj. Ventilated; discussed. Obs.

ven'ti·lat'ing (-lāt'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of VENTILATE. Hence: adj. That ventilates or is used in ventilation.
☞ PHRASES are:
ventilating apparatus ventilating fan ventilating blower ventilating grate ventilating engineer ventilating skylight ventilating brick. A cored-out brick providing an air passage as for ventilation.

ventilating column. Mining. = MOTIVE COLUMN.

ventilating jack. A sheet-metal hood placed over the inlet of a ventilating pipe to cause the induction of an increased air volume into the pipe.

ventilating millstone. A millstone having a device for inducing a strong current of air through its grooves.

ven'ti·la'tion (vĕn'tĭ·lā'shŭn), n. [L. ventilatio; cf. F. ventilation.] 1. Movement of air; circulation of air for purifying, freshening, etc., the supply, as in a room or mine.
2. a Act or state of being ventilated, as effected by leakage of air through walls or around windows (natural ventilation), by the opening and closing of sashes (sash ventilation), by vent flues leading above the roof (gravity ventilation), or by forcing or drawing air through the rooms by means of fans or blowers (mechanical ventilation). In vacuum ventilation, the motive force is applied at the outlets, the air being drawn through the rooms and the air pressure inside the rooms being slightly less than that outside. In plenum ventilation, the motive force is applied at the inlets, the air being driven through the rooms, which become plenums. With plenum ventilation, the incoming of cold drafts is avoided. In the upward system, air is admitted to the rooms near the floor line and exhausted at or near the ceiling. In the downward system, the reverse practice is followed. The heated air from the bodies of the occupants of the room has a natural tendency to rise, which constitutes an opposing force to the uniform downward movement of air supplied by the downward system. With the upward system, the warm air escapes almost as rapidly as introduced. b Archaic Winnowing; fanning, as of grain. c Oxygenation, as of the blood.
3. Utterance; vent; expression, esp. publicly; as, his ventilation of his grievance alienated sympathy.
4. Free and open discussion; public exposition; publicity.

ven'ti·la'tive (vĕn'tĭ·lā'tĭv), adj. Of or pertaining to ventilation; adapted to secure ventilation; ventilating.

ven'ti·la'tor (-lā'tĕr), n. [Cf. F. ventilateur, L. ventilator a winnower.] 1. That which ventilates; esp., a contrivance, as a shutter device forming an adjustable aperture, for the inlet of fresh air, or a machine for drawing off or expelling foul or stagnant air, or for introducing fresh air, as into a room, a building, a mine, etc.
2. The gallery in the House of Commons reserved for ladies. Colloq., Eng.
3. One who ventilates; as: a One whose duty it is to ventilate some place. b One who discusses a subject freely and publicly.
— ven'ti·la·to'ry (-lȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj.

ven·tom'e·ter (vĕn·tŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [L. ventus wind + -meter.] An instrument for indicating the velocity of the wind, esp. as designed for use on target ranges. Cf. ANEMOMETER.

ven'tose (vĕn'tōs; vĕn·tōs'; see -OSE), adj. [L. ventosus, fr. ventus wind. See VENTILATE.] Flatulent; windy. — ven·tose'ness, n. Both Rare.

ven·tose' (vĕn·tōs'), n. [OF. (F. ventouse), fr. vento(u)ser, fr. ML. ventosare to bleed.] A cupping glass. Obs. — v. t. & i. To cup. Obs.

‖Ven'tôse' (vȧN'tōz'), n. [F. See VENTOSE, adj.] See REVOLUTIONARY CALENDAR.

ven'im. Var. of VENOM. Obs. exc Scot.

ven'i·son·like', adj. See -LIKE ven'i·su'ture, n. See VENI-.

venkisen. † VANQUISH.

ven'lin, n. [MLG. venlin, vanlen, lit., small flag, dim. of vāne. See VANE.] Mil. Company. Obs.

venn (vĕn). Var. of FEN. Now Dial.

ven'nie. † VENY.

vennum. † VENOM.

ven'omd. Venomed. Ref. Sp.

ven'om·ful, adj. Venomous. Obs.

ven'om·ly, adv. = VENOMOUSLY.

ven'om·ness, n. See -NESS.

ven'om·proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

ven'son. † VENISON.

ven'ti·la'tiv. Ventilative. R. S. ven'tin, n., [OD. vintijn, vintyn, fr. Pg. vintem.] = VENT IANO. Obs.

vent'less, adj. See -LESS.

ven·tos'i·ty (vĕn·tŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. ventosité, fr. LL. ventositas.] Obs. a Flatulence or its cause. b A gust or blast of wind; also, windiness. c Vain pride, conceit, or boasting.

vent'piece' (vĕnt'pēs'), n. = BUSHING, 1 b; also, a breech-block. Rare.

ven'trad (vĕn'trăd), adv. [L. venter belly + 1st -ad.] Anat. Toward the ventral side; ventrally.

ven'tral (vĕn'trăl), n. A ventral scale or plate; specif., Zool., a ventral fin of a fish.

ven'tral (vĕn'trăl), adj. [F. or L.; F. ventral, fr. L. ventralis, fr. venter the belly. See VENTER; cf. VENTRICLE.] 1. Of or pertaining to the belly; abdominal; hence, in Zool. & Anat., designating, pertaining to, or situated on or toward, that surface of the body which in man is anterior, but in most vertebrates, arthropods, and other elongated animals is normally the lower surface; hemal; — the opposite of dorsal, and applied specif. to any of certain large scales on the lower surface of the body in certain reptiles. 2. Bot. a Pertaining to or designating that surface of a carpel, petal, etc., which faces toward the center of a flower. b Pertaining to the lower side or surface of a dorsiventral organ or thallus; — opposed to dorsal.

ventral canal cell. Bot. A small cell which is cut off from the central cell of an archegonium just below the neck.

ventral fin. Zool. a In fishes, one of that pair of fins which correspond to the hind limbs of quadrupeds; a pelvic fin. In the less specialized fishes they are situated on the abdomen some distance behind the pectoral fins, but in many fishes are farther forward, and under the pectoral fins, or even under the throat. See FIN, 1. b Rare. An anal fin.

ventral hernia. Med. Hernia through the anterior abdominal wall.

ven'tral·ly, adv. In a ventral direction or position.

ventral median fissure. See SPINAL CORD, Illust.

ventral plate. Zool. In the embryos of insects and other arthropods, a thickening of the blastoderm on the under side of the egg, destined to develop into the body of the embryo.

ventral root. See 4th ROOT, 4. ventral segment. See 1st LOOP, 10 a; NODE, 11, Illust.

ventral spinocerebellar tract. See SPINOCEREBELLAR TRACT.

ventral spinothalamic tract. See SPINAL CORD, Illust.

ventral tube. Zool. = COLLOPHORE.

ven'tral·ward (vĕn'trăl·wĕrd), ven'tral·wards (-wĕrdz), adv. [ventral + -ward, -wards.] Toward the ventral surface.

ventral white commissure. See SPINAL CORD, Illust.

ven'tri- (vĕn'trĭ-). A combining form, Latin ventri-, from venter, meaning belly, ventral, as in ven'tri·cum'bent. See -CUMBENT. Cf. VENTRO-.

ven'tric (vĕn'trĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to the belly. Rare.

ven'tri·cle (vĕn'trĭ·k'l), n. [F. or L.; F. ventricule, fr. L. ventriculus the stomach, a ventricle, dim. of venter the belly. See VENTRAL.] 1. Anat. & Zool. A cavity of an organ; esp.: a The chamber, or one of the chambers, of the heart, which receives the blood from a corresponding atrium (auricle), and from which blood is forced into the arteries. See HEART, 1. b In the brain, one of the system of communicating cavities which are continuous with the central canal of the spinal cord, and like it are derived from the medullary canal of the embryo. The cavities are lined with epithelium called ependyma, and contain a serous fluid. Those of the adult human brain are four (see BRAIN, 1), the so-called fifth ventricle being merely a slitlike interval between the two layers of the septum pellucidum. c The fossa or pouch of each side of the larynx between the false vocal cords above and the true vocal cords below, called also ven'tri·cle of Mor·ga'gni (môr·gä'nyē). In some apes it becomes very large. d The stomach.

2. Any cavity of organic function, as the womb. Obs.

ven'tri·co·lum'na (vĕn'trĭ·kŏ·lŭm'nä), n.; pl. -NAE (-nē). [NL. See VENTRAL; COLUMNA.] The ventral column of gray matter on either side of the spinal cord. — ven'tri·co·lum'nar (-nĕr), adj.

ven'tri·cose (vĕn'trĭ·kōs), adj. [NL. ventricosus, fr. L. venter belly.] Bellied; having a large belly; specif., Bot. & Zool., inflated; swelling out on one side or unequally. — ven'tri·cose·ness, n.

ventricose shell. Zool. a A spiral shell having the body whorls rounded or swollen in the middle. b A bivalve shell in which the valves are strongly convex.

Ventricose Shell.

ven'tri·cos'i·ty (vĕn'trĭ·kŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Condition of being ventricose.

ven'tri·co'so- (vĕn'trĭ·kō'sō-). A combining form for ventricose.

ven·tric'u·lar (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a ventricle, specif., Anat., of the heart or brain. 2. a Bellied; bulging out. b Anat. Of or pertaining to the stomach or to the ventral abdominal wall. Cf. VENTER.

ventricular appendix of the larynx. See LARYNGEAL POUCH.

ventricular fibrillation. See FIBRILLATION.

ventricular folds. Anat. See VOCAL CORDS.

ven·tric'u·la'ris (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lā'rĭs; 79), n. [NL.] Anat. A part of the thyroarytenoid muscle which enters the ventricular fold on either side.

ven·tric'u·lite (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lĭt), n. [See VENTRICULUS.] A fossil sponge of Ventriculites or an allied genus. — ven·tric'u·lit'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj.

Ven·tric'u·li'tes (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lī'tēz), n. [NL. See VENTRICULUS.] Paleontol. A genus of fossil, often vase-shaped or mushroom-shaped, hexactinellid sponges, characteristic of the Cretaceous, having a latticelike skeleton in which the nodes formed by the crossing of the spicular threads are perforated. It is the type of a family, Ven·tric'u·lit'i·dae (-lĭt'ĭ·dē).

Ventriculites (Coeloptychium seebachi). A Side View; B Part of the Skeleton.

ventriculo-. A combining form for ventriculus, as in ven·tric'u·los'co·py.

ven·tric'u·lo·gram' (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lō·grăm'), n. [ventriculo- + -gram.] Med. An X-ray photograph of the ventricles of the brain, made after withdrawing fluid from the ventricles and replacing it with air. — ven·tric'u·log'ra·phy (-lŏg'rä·fĭ), n.

ven·tric'u·lose (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lōs), adj. [L. ventriculosus of the belly.] Ventricose in a slight degree. Rare.

ven·tric'u·lus (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lŭs), n.; pl. -ULI (-lī). [L. See VENTRICLE.] Anat. & Zool. An internal cavity; a ventricle; the stomach; specif., Zool., in certain animals with a compound stomach, a division of that organ posterior to the proventriculus; in birds, the gizzard; in insects, the digestive stomach.

ven'tri·cum'bent (vĕn'trĭ·kŭm'bĕnt), adj. [ventri- + cumbent.] Lying with the ventral surface downward; prone.

ven'tri·duct (vĕn'trĭ·dŭkt), v. t. [ventri- + L. ductus a leading.] To turn or draw toward the belly.

ven'tri·fix·a'tion (-fĭks·ā'shŭn), n. Also ven'tri·fix'ure (vĕn'trĭ·fĭk'shĕr). The surgical operation of stitching an organ to the ventral wall of the abdomen.

ven'tri·lat'er·al (-lăt'ĕr·ăl), adj. Ventrolateral.

ven'tri·lo·cu'tion (vĕn'trĭ·lō·kū'shŭn), n. [See VENTRILOQUISM.] Ventriloquism.

ven·tril'o·qual (vĕn·trĭl'ō·kwăl), adj. a = VENTRILOQUIAL. b Spoken as though proceeding from the belly; deep and guttural. — ven·tril'o·qual·ly, adv.

ven'tri·loque (vĕn'trĭ·lōk), adj. [F.] Ventriloquial. Rare. — n. A ventriloquist. Rare.

ven'tri·lo'qui·al (vĕn'trĭ·lō'kwĭ·ăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, resembling, or using, ventriloquism. — ven'tri·lo'qui·al·ly, adv.

ven·tril'o·quism (vĕn·trĭl'ō·kwĭz'm), n. [LL. ventriloquus a ventriloquist, fr. venter the belly + loqui, past part. locutus, to speak. See VENTRAL; LOQUACIOUS.] Act, art, or practice of speaking in such a manner that the voice appears to come from some source other than the vocal organs of the speaker. Voice cannot be produced in the stomach or elsewhere other than in the larynx. In ventriloquism the speaker takes a full breath, keeps the muscles of the chest, neck, lower jaw, and lips as motionless as possible, and speaks with the mouth almost closed and the glottis narrowed, not allowing the air to escape through the nose. The lower lip is slightly retracted and rested against the upper teeth, and the tongue articulations are greatly altered. Much of the deception depends on suggestion as to the source of the sounds.

ven·tril'o·quist (-kwĭst), n. One who practices, or is skilled in, ventriloquism.

ven·tril'o·quis'tic (-kwĭs'tĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to ventriloquism or ventriloquists; practicing ventriloquism.

ven·tril'o·quize (vĕn·trĭl'ō·kwīz), v. i.; -QUIZED (-kwĭzd); -QUIZ'ING (-kwĭz'ĭng). To practice ventriloquism. — v. t. To speak in the manner of a ventriloquist.

ven·tril'o·quous (vĕn·trĭl'ō·kwŭs), adj Ventriloquistic. — ven·tril'o·quous·ly, adv.

ven·tril'o·quy (-kwĭ), n. [Cf. F. ventriloquie.] Ventriloquism.

ven'tri·mes'on (vĕn'trĭ·mĕs'ŏn), n. [NL. See VENTER; 1st MESON.] Anat. The median line of the ventral surface. — ven'tri·mes'al (-ăl), adj.

ven'trine (vĕn'trĭn; 156), adj. [See VENTRAL.] Of or pertaining to the belly.

ven·trip'o·tent (vĕn·trĭp'ō·tĕnt), adj. [ventri- + L. potens, -entis, pres. part. of posse to be able.] Having a large belly; also, gluttonous. — ven·trip'o·ten·cy (-tĕn·sĭ), n. R. — ven'tri·po·ten'tial (vĕn'trĭ·pō·tĕn'shăl), adj. R.

No vintage was anywhere vatted Too strong for ventripotent me. Christopher Morley.

ven'tri·pyr'a·mid (vĕn'trĭ·pĭr'ä·mĭd), n. [ventri- + pyramid.] The pyramid of the medulla oblongata.

ven'tro- (vĕn'trō-). A combining form from Latin venter, paunch, denoting: a The abdomen, as in:

ventrocystorrhaphy	ventrohysteropexy	ventroscopy
ventrodorsad	ventroptosia	ventrosuspension ventrofixation	ventroptosis	ventrotomy

b Ventral and, as in:

ventroaxial	ventroinguinal	ventromedian
ventroaxillary	ventrolateral	ventromesal ventrocaudal	ventrolaterally	ventromesial
ventrodorsal	ventromedial	ventroposterior ventrodorsally

ven'tro·my'el (-mī'ĕl), n. [See VENTRO-; MYELO-.] Anat. The ventral part of the spinal cord.

ven·tros'i·ty (vĕn·trŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [See VENTROUS.] Abdominal obesity. Rare.

vent stack. A pipe placed vertically or nearly so and connected to the traps of plumbing fixtures in such a manner as to ventilate them and prevent the water seal from being siphoned out of them.

vent tank. A primary still used in the manufacture of natural gasoline to remove absorbed gases which are too volatile for gasoline.

ven'ture (vĕn'tûr; 249), n. [Aphetic form of ME. aventure. See ADVENTURE; cf. SUBVENTION, VENUE.] 1. An undertaking of chance or danger; the risking of something upon an event which cannot be foreseen with certainty; a hazard; risk; specif., a business enterprise of a speculative nature; a speculation; as, a mining venture.

2. Fortune; chance; hap; contingency; luck. Now Rare.

3. The thing put to hazard, as in gambling; a stake; a risk; esp., something sent to sea in trade.

4. The property, money, or other thing of value, which is risked in a business enterprise or speculation.

My ventures are not in one bottom trusted. Shak.

5. An adventurous spirit; courage; a willingness to take risks or run dangers. Dial. Eng. & Ir.

What in the world wide put venture into you that made you go face the dog? Lady Gregory.

6. An adventurer or adventuress. Obs.

Syn. — Cf. DANGER.

— at a venture (orig. at aventure). At hazard, without seeing the end or mark; without foreseeing the issue; at random.

A certain man drew a bow at a venture. 1 Kings. xxii. 34.

ven'ture, v.; VEN'TURED (-tûrd); VEN'TUR·ING (-tûr·ĭng). [See VENTURE, n., ADVENTURE, v.] Transitive: 1. To expose to hazard; to risk; hazard; as, to venture one's person in a balloon.

2. To undertake the risk of; to brave; dare as a voyage.

3. To put or send on a venture or chance, as a business speculation; as, to venture a horse to the West Indies.

4. To confide in; to rely on; to trust. Rare. Addison.

5. To dare to advance or put forward, or to expose to criticism or refutation, as an opinion or statement; as, he ventured a remark about the weather.

—, Intransitive: 1. To hazard oneself; to have the courage or presumption to do, undertake, or say something; to dare; as, I venture to contradict the statement.

2. To make a venture; to run a risk; to take the chances; to be bold.

Who freights a ship to venture on the seas. J. Dryden, Jr.

venture at, or venture on or upon. To dare to engage in; to attempt without any certainty of success; as, it is rash to venture upon such a project.

When I venture at the comic style. Waller.

ven'tur·er (vĕn'tûr·ĕr), n. 1. One who ventures, or puts to hazard; an adventurer; specif., a merchant who engages in business ventures.

2. A strumpet; a prostitute. Obs.

ven'ture·some (-tûr·sŭm), adj. 1. Inclined to venture; venturous; daring; as, a venturesome boy or act.

2. Risky; involving hazard; dangerous; as, a venturesome attempt, journey.

Syn. and Ant. — See RASH.

— ven'ture·some·ly, adv. — ven'ture·some·ness, n.

Ven·tu'ri·a (vĕn·tōō'rĭ·ä), n. [NL., after A. Venturi, It. botanist.] Bot. A genus of fungi (family Pleosporaceae) containing certain species which are pathogenic in the conidial stage. V. pyrina, causing pear scab, and V. inaequalis, causing apple scab, were formerly included in the genus Fusicladium.

Ven·tu'ri me'ter (vĕn·tōō'rē). [After G. B. Venturi (1746–1822), It. physicist.] a A trade-mark for a form of the venturi tube arranged to measure the flow of liquid in pipes. Small tubes are attached to the venturi tube at the throat and at the point where the liquid enters the converging entrance. The difference in pressure heads is shown on some form of manometer and from this difference and a knowledge of the diameters of the tubes the quantity of flow is determined. b Also [sometimes not cap.], the meter bearing this trade-mark.

ven'tu·rine (vĕn'tû·rĭn), n. [See AVENTURINE.] Japanning. Gold powder for varnished surfaces.

ven·tu'ri tube (vĕn·tōō'rē) or ven·tu'ri, n. [See VENTURI METER.] 1. Hydraulics. A short tube, inserted in a pipe line, whose internal surface consists of two truncated cones connected at the small ends by a very short cylinder called the Venturi throat. Its operation depends upon the fact that, as the velocity of flow increases in the throat, the pressure decreases. It may be used to measure the quantity of fluid flowing (see Venturi meter) or, by joining a branch tube at the throat, to produce a suction.

2. Aeronautics. A short tube with flaring ends and a constricted connecting portion, into which a side tube enters. It is placed parallel to the air flow and may be used as one of the tubes in a pressure nozzle (which see), or, by virtue of the diminished pressure in the throat, to furnish power to operate a gyroscope, an injector, or other device.

ven'tur·ous (vĕn'tûr·ŭs), adj. [Aphetic form of ME. aventurous. See ADVENTUROUS, VENTURE, n.] 1. Courting danger; ready to meet risks; daring; bold; hardy; fearless; venturesome; adventurous.

2. Involving danger or risk; hazardous; dangerous; risky; as, a venturous enterprise.

Syn. and Ant. — See RASH.

— ven'tur·ous·ly, adv. — ven'tur·ous·ness, n.

vent wire. Founding. A pointed wire for making vents in molds.

Ventz'ke (fĕnts'kĕ), adj. [After Ventzke (fl. 1842–52), Ger. chemist.] Designating, or conforming or pertaining to, a scale (Ventzke scale, or Ventzke sugar scale) used in determining the amount of sugar in a solution; a sugar scale; as, 4.18 degrees Ventzke (or 4.18° V.). The Ventzke scale is the one most generally used on saccharimeters outside of France and is used on all German saccharimeters. All saccharimeters using this scale are standardized according to the following decision of the International Sugar Commission (Paris, 1900): "The 100-degree point of the saccharimeter scale is obtained by polarizing a solution containing 26.000 grams of pure sucrose (weighed in air with brass weights) in 100 true cubic centimeters at 20° C. in a 200-millimeter tube in a saccharimeter whose quartz-wedge compensation must also have a temperature of 20° C." ven'ue (vĕn'ū), n. [OF., a coming, fr. venir to come, fr. L. venire. See COME.] 1. A coming; arrival; an onset or assault. Obs.

2. Obs. a A thrust, hit, or lunge, as in fencing. b An encounter, bout, or match, as in fencing or cudgel play.

3. A place or spot where an action has occurred or is planned to occur; by extension, the position, side, or line of argument assumed by one person in a debate or discussion; ground.

Rumania had designated Salzburg as the venue of a Russo-Rumanian conference. Manchester Guardian.

4. Law. a The place or county in which the alleged events from which an action arises took place; also, the place from which the jury is taken, and where the trial is held, in the action. In certain cases, to further justice, the court can change the place of obtaining the jury and holding trial. b The statement in a pleading, usually at the side or beginning, laying the place for the trial; also, sometimes, the clause in an affidavit indicating the place where it was sworn to. The term venue is omitted from the codes of procedure of some States, as New York.

ven'u·la (vĕn'ū·lä), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L. See VENULE.] A small vein; a venule.

ven'ule (-ūl), n. [L. venula, dim. fr. vena vein.] A small vein; a veinlet; specif., Zool., one of the small branches of the veins of the wings in insects. — ven'u·lar (-ū·lĕr), adj.

ven'u·lose (-ū·lōs), -lous (-lŭs), adj. Full of venules.

Ve'nus (vē'nŭs), n.; pl. VENUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [L. Venus, -eris, the goddess of love, the planet Venus. See VENERATE.] 1. Rom. Relig. An ancient Italian goddess of bloom and beauty, protectress of gardens, whose worship was early introduced into Rome. She was later identified with the Greek Aphrodite, whose famous cult at Eryx, Sicily, was the source of the worship of Ve'nus Er'y·ci'ne (ĕr'ĭ·sĭ'nē), to whom a temple was founded in Rome 217 B.C. In 114 B.C., as expiation for loss of chastity of three vestals, a temple to Ve'nus Ver'ti·cor'di·a (vûr'tĭ·kôr'dĭ·ä) was founded on April 1, and this day became the chief festival of Venus, the Ven'er·a'li·a (vĕn'ĕr·ä'lĭ·ä). The worship of Ve'nus Fe'lix (fē'lĭks), goddess of fortune, was inaugurated by Sulla, who made Ve'nus Pom'pe·ia'na (pŏm'pē·yā'nä; -ā'nä) the tutelary of his colony, Pompeii. Ve'nus Vic'trix (vĭk'trĭks), goddess of victory, was popular in the military provinces of the empire; but the most important form of the goddess was Ve'nus Gen'e·trix (jĕn'ē·trĭks), to whom, as mother of Aeneas and ancestress of his family, Caesar dedicated a temple 46 B.C. See DI; cf. ADONIS, 1.

2. A painting, statue, or other representation of Venus, the goddess; also, some woman resembling or likened to Venus.

---

ven·tos'i·tous (vĕn·tŏs'ĭ·tŭs), adj. Ventose. Obs.

ventoy, n. [MF. ventail.] A fan. Obs.

vent punch. = VENT DRILL.

ven'tral·most, adj. See -MOST.

ven'tre. ✝ VENTER, VENTURE, VINTRY.

‖ven'tre à terre' (vĕn'tr' ä târ'). [F.] Literally, belly to the ground; at very great speed.

ven'tri·cor'nu (vĕn'trĭ·kôr'nū), n. = VENTRICULUMNA. — ven'tri·cor'nu·al (-nū·ăl), adj.

ven'tri·cous (vĕn'trĭ·kŭs), adj. = VENTRICOSE.

ven·tric'u·lous (vĕn·trĭk'ū·lŭs), adj. [See VENTRICULOSE.] = VENTRICULAR, 2 a. ven·tril'o·quus (vĕn·trĭl'ō·kwŭs), n. [LL.] = VENTRILOQUIST. Obs.

ven'trose (vĕn'trōs; vĕn·trōs'), see -OSE), adj. [LL. ventrosus bellied.] = VENTRICOSE. Rare.

the goddess, as in beauty, grace, or charm; hence, broadly, a beautiful and charming woman, or one who exemplifies feminine grace and charm.
3. (pl. sometimes VENERES (vĕn′ĕr·ēz).) A fascinating or enticing quality or characteristic; charm; grace.
4. Sexual intercourse; venery. Obs.
5. In Roman dice games, the highest throw, when different numbers came up on all the dice.
6. Alchem. The metal copper; — probably so designated from the use of the metal in ancient times for making mirrors, a mirror being still the astronomical symbol of the planet Venus.
7. a Astron. One of the most important of the planets, moving in an orbit between that of Mercury and that of the earth, at a mean distance from the sun of about 67,000,000 miles. Venus passes through phases similar to those of the moon, and at its brightest is far more brilliant than any fixed star, often being visible in daylight, shining with a star-white light. As morning star, it was called by the ancients Lucifer; as evening star, Hesperus. Venus is surrounded by an atmosphere, doubtless abounding in clouds. Its period of rotation is not exactly known. The last two transits of Venus occurred in 1874 and 1882; coming transits occur in 2004, 2012, 2117, and 2125. Symbol, ♀. See TRANSIT, n., 4 b; PLANET. b Astrol. The lesser fortune, a feminine, temperately cold and moist, nocturnal planet, the mansions of which are Taurus and Libra, the exaltation, 27° Pisces, the depression, 27° Virgo, and the orb, 7°.
8. Her. Vert (green), in blazoning by the heavenly bodies.
9. Zool. a A large genus of marine bivalve mollusks (family Veneridae), comprising the quahog, or round clam, and related species. They have a thick, oval, usually inflated shell, often with prominent concentric ridges. The internal margins are finely denticulate. b [not cap.] Any shell of Venus or an allied genus.

Ve′nus ac′crou′pie′ (vē′nŭs ȧ′krōō′pē′). [F. accroupie, fem. past part. of s′accroupir to crouch.] A representation of Venus crouching undraped as if bathing, as in the Hellenistic marble statue in the Gabinetto della Maschere of the Vatican.

Ve′nus An′a·dy·om′e·ne (ăn′ȧ·dī·ŏm′ē·nē). [See ANADYOMENE.] A representation of Venus arising at birth from the sea undraped and usually accompanied by a dolphin, represented by a famous lost painting of Apelles, and an attempted reproduction of the latter by Botticelli in the Accademia delle Belle Arti at Florence.

Venus and Adonis. A poem (1593) by Shakespeare. Cf. ADONIS, 1.

Ve′nus·berg (vē′nŭs·bûrg; G. vā′nōōs·bĕrĸ), n. [G., mountain of Venus.] The Hörselberg between Eisenach and Gotha in Germany, in a cave of which, according to mediaeval legend, Venus held her court, enticing persons into it and by music, revelry, and sensuous pleasures keeping them from returning. The name was also given to various other mountains. See TANNHÄUSER, ECKEHART.

Ve′nus Bor·ghe′se (bôr·gā′zā). A marble statue by Canova (1805) in the Villa Borghese at Rome, representing, as Venus, Pauline Borghese (the sister of Napoleon I) reclining on a chaise longue.

Venus calendar. A calendar in use among the Mayan peoples, based on the synodic period of Venus, or 584 days. Five of such periods exactly equaled 8 solar years and 65 periods equaled 104 solar years, or exactly twice the calendar round of Mayan chronology.

Ve′nus Cal′li·py′ge, Cal′li·py′gus, or Kal′li·py′gos (kăl′ĭ·pĭ′jē, -gŭs, -gŏs). The Callipygian Venus. See CALLIPYGIAN VENUS.

Ve′nus de′ Me′di·ci (dā mĕd′ē·chē). [After Cosmo de′ Medici III, who brought the statue to Florence.] A statue of Greco-Roman times, in Parian marble, representing Venus looking toward the left, her hands held in front of her body, found in Hadrian's Villa at Tivoli and brought about 1680 to Florence, where it stands in the Uffizi Gallery. The signature of Cleomenes on the base is considered a modern forgery.

Ve′nus Gen′e·trix (jĕn′ē·trĭks), [L. genetrix she that produces.] A representation of Venus as the goddess of fecundity, usually holding an apple and raising the transparent, clinging drapery from her shoulder, represented by several ancient statues, the finest of these being in the museum of the Louvre.

Ve·nu′si·an (vē·nū′sĭ·ăn), adj. Relating to the planet Venus; of or pertaining to the planet Venus.

Ve′nus of Arles (ärlz; F. ȧrl). A Praxiteles marble statue, found in the ancient theater at Arles and now in the Louvre, representing Venus undraped above the thighs, looking toward her extended left hand while the right is raised and drawn aside.

Ve′nus of Cap′u·a (kăp′ū·ȧ; It. kä′pwä). A marble statue found in the 18th century in the amphitheater at Capua, now in the Museo Nazionale at Naples, representing Venus undraped above the thighs, wearing a stephane, and looking down, her left foot on a helmet. The Greek original was a bronze, probably of the 4th century B.C.

Ve′nus of Cni′dus (nī′dŭs). Aphrodite of Cnidus, which see.

Ve′nus of Mi′lo (mē′lō) or Me′los (mē′lōs). A Hellenistic marble statue, found on Melos in 1820 and now in the Louvre, representing Venus undraped above the thighs. Her arms are lost, and the mode of restoration is not agreed upon.

The Venus of Melos, . . . considered by many . . . to be the most beautiful of all the statues that have survived from antiquity. E. A. Gardner.

Venus of Milo.

Venus of the Capitol. A Hellenistic statue of Parian marble, since 1752 in the Capitoline Museum at Rome, representing Venus nude, bending slightly forward, and shielding herself with both hands.

Ve′nus of Wil′len·dorf (vĭl′ĕn·dôrf). Archaeol. A limestone statuette about four and one half inches in height, representing a female, found in a paleolithic station at Willendorf, Austria, and assigned to the late Aurignacian period.

Ve′nus Pan·de′mos (păn·dē′mŏs). = APHRODITE PANDEMOS.

Ve′nus's–ba′sin, n. The wild teasel; — so called because the connate leaf bases form a receptacle for water, formerly collected for the toilet.

Ve′nus's–bas′ket, n. A Venus's-flower-basket.

Ve′nus's–bath′, n. = VENUS'S-BASIN.

Ve′nus's–char′i·ot, n. The monkshood Aconitum napellus.

Ve′nus's–comb′, n. a = LADY'S-COMB. b A murex, or marine snail (Murex tenuispina), having a long tubular canal, with a row of long slender spines along both of its borders, and rows of similar spines on the body of the shell.

Ve′nus's–cup′, n. a The yellow lady's-slipper Cypripedium parviflorum. b The wild teasel.

Ve′nus's–ear′, n. = ABALONE.

Ve′nus's–fan′, n. A reticulated, fan-shaped gorgonian (Gorgonia flabellum), native to Florida and the West Indies. When fresh the color is purple or yellow, or a mixture of the two.

Ve′nus's–flow′er–bas′ket, n. An elegant tubular or cornucopia-shaped hexactinellid sponge of the genus Euplectella, native to the East Indies and the eastern coast of Asia. Its skeleton consists of glassy, transparent, siliceous fibers interwoven so as to form a firm network, and has long, slender, divergent anchoring fibers at the base, by means of which it stands erect in the soft mud at the bottom of the sea. The best-known species is E. aspergillum of the East Indies.

Venus's-Flower-Basket (Euplectella aspergillum).

Ve′nus's–fly′trap′, n. The insectivorous plant Dionaea muscipula. See DIONAEA.

Ve′nus's–gir′dle, n. A ctenophore of the genus Cestus in which the body is greatly compressed transversely and elongated in a sagittal plane so that it is ribbonlike, with the mouth at the middle of one border. The best-known species is C. veneris of the Mediterranean and Atlantic.

Venus's-Girdle (Cestus pectinalis), from the Maldive Islands.

Ve′nus's–gold′en–ap′ple, n. An East Indian shrub or tree (Atalantia monophylla), family Rutaceae, having a golden yellow fruit similar to a lime; also, the fruit itself.

Ve′nus's–hair′, n. A delicate maidenhair fern (Adiantum capillus-veneris) having a slender black and shining stipe and branches.

Ve′nus's–hair′stone′, n. Mineral. Quartz penetrated by acicular crystals of rutile.

Ve′nus's–look′ing–glass′, n. Any plant of the genus Specularia, esp. S. speculum-veneris.

Ve′nus's–na′vel·wort′, n. a Any herb of the genus Omphalodes (family Boraginaceae). b = NAVELWORT a.

Ve′nus's–nee′dle, n. The lady's-comb.

Ve′nus's–pride′, n. The bluet (Houstonia).

Ve′nus's–purse′, n. A Venus's-flower-basket.

Ve′nus's–shell′, n. a Any species of Cypraea; a cowrie. b = VENUS'S-COMB b. c = VENUS, 9 b.

Ve′nus's–shoe′, n. Any American species of Cypripedium.

Ve′nus's–slip′per, n. a The lady's-slipper. b Any heteropod shell of the genus Carinaria.

Ve′nus's–su′mac, n. = VENETIAN SUMAC.

ve·nust′ (vē·nŭst′), adj. [L. venustus; akin to L. Venus. See VENUS.] Beautiful; comely, graceful, or elegant. Obs. or Poet.

Ve′nus U·ra′ni·a (ū·rā′nĭ·ȧ). [Gr. Ourania, lit., the heavenly one.] A representation of Venus as the goddess of heavenly or spiritual love, represented by the lost statue by Phidias at Elis.

Ve′nus Ver′ti·cor′di·a (vûr′tĭ·kôr′dĭ·ȧ). See VENUS, 1.

Ve′nus Vic′trix (vĭk′trĭks). [L. victrix victorious.] A representation of Venus as victorious or as a goddess of victory, as in the Venus of Capua.

Ve·nu′tian (vē·nū′shăn), n. An imaginary inhabitant of the planet Venus.

ven′ville (vĕn′vĭl), n. [Origin obscure.] Eng. Law. A tenure peculiar to the neighborhood of Dartmoor forest, by which the tenants have certain rights in the forest.

Veps (vĕps), n. sing. & pl.; pl. also VEPSES (-ēz; -Iz; 119). Also Vep′se (vĕp′sē). One of the northern Chud, a Finnish tribe now merged in the general population of the area between the Dnieper and the Volga. Also, usually Vep′se, their language. Cf. 3rd VOTE. See FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES.

Vep′sish (vĕp′sĭsh), n. The language of the Vepses.

ve′ra (vā′rä), n. [Am. Sp., fr. Sp. vera edge, border.] A timber tree (Bulnesia arborea), family Zygophyllaceae, of northwestern South America; also, its very hard, brownish-yellow wood, used as a substitute for lignum vitae.

ver′a (vĕr′ȧ; vär′ȧ), adj. & adv. Very. Scot.

ve′ra (vā′rä), n. Erroneous form of VARA. Texas. See vara in Table under MEASURE.

ve·ra′cious (vē·rā′shŭs), adj. [L. verax, -acis, fr. verus true. See VERY.] 1. Observant of truth; habitually speaking truth; truthful; as, a veracious historian.
2. Characterized by truth; true; as, a veracious story.
3. Judging, estimating, or measuring correctly or accurately; precise; true.
— ve·ra′cious·ly, adv. — ve·ra′cious·ness, n.

ve·rac′i·ty (-răs′ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. véracité, fr. ML. veracitas.] 1. Quality or state of being veracious, or true; specif.: a Habitual observance of truth; truthfulness. b Power of conveying truth; correctness; as, veracity of vision. c Conformity with truth or actuality; trueness; as, the veracity of an instrument, a judgment.
2. That which is true; a truth; the truth.
Syn. — See TRUTH. Ant. — See FALSITY.

ve·ran′da, ve·ran′dah (vē·răn′dȧ), n. [Anglo-Indian; cf. Beng. bārāṇḍā, Hind. barāṇḍā portico, barāmda veranda, baleṇḍā thatched roof of a veranda, Nepali barandā, baramdā, Prakrit varaṇḍa wall; prob. ult. fr. Per. barāmda, but some forms doubtless fr. Pg. varanda, an earlier Ind. borrowing.] Arch. An open gallery or portico, usually roofed, attached to the exterior of a building, used for sitting out of doors; — in the United States often called a porch or piazza. See LOGGIA.

ve·ran′daed (-dȧd), adj. Also ve·ran′dahed (-dȧd). Having a veranda.

ver′a·scope (vĕr′ȧ·skōp), n. [L. verus true + -scope.] Photog. A small stereoscopic camera made of metal and taking plates 45 to 107 mm. in size.

ver′a·tral (vĕr′ȧ·trăl), n. [See VERATRUM.] Chem. The bivalent radical $C_9H_{10}O_2$, of which veratraldehyde is the oxide.

ver′a·tral′bine (vĕr′ȧ·trăl′bēn; -bĭn; 157), n. Also -bin [NL. Veratrum album white hellebore + 2d -ine, 2 b.] Chem. An amorphous alkaloid obtained from the roots of white and green hellebore.

ver′a·tral′de·hyde (-dē·hīd), n. [See VERATRUM; ALDEHYDE.] Chem. a A crystalline compound, $(CH_3O)_3C_6H_2$·CHO, obtained by methylating vanillin and otherwise; 3,4-dimethoxy-benzaldehyde. b A crystalline compound isomeric with the above and called, specif., orthoveratraldehyde; 2,3-dimethoxy-benzaldehyde.

ver′a·trate (vĕr′ȧ·trāt), n. Chem. A salt or ester of veratric acid.

ve·rat′ric (vē·răt′rĭk), adj. [See VERATRUM.] Chem. a Pertaining to or designating a white crystalline acid, $(CH_3O)_2C_6H_3CO_2H$, occurring in sabadilla seed and also formed by decomposition of veratridine and other alkaloids; 3,4-dimethoxy-benzoic. b Pertaining to or designating a crystalline acid isomeric with the above and called, specif., orthoveratric acid; 2,3-dimethoxy-benzoic.

ve·rat′ri·dine (vē·răt′rĭ·dēn; -dĭn; 157), n. Also -din. Chem. An amorphous alkaloid, $C_{27}H_{43}NO_{11}$, occurring in sabadilla seed. See VERATRINE.

ver′a·trine (vĕr′ȧ·trēn; -trĭn; 157), n. Also ver′a·trin, ver′a·tri′na (vĕr′ȧ·trī′nȧ), ve·ra′tri·a (vē·rā′trĭ·ȧ; -răt′rĭ·ȧ) [F. vératrine, NL. veratrina. See VERATRUM.] 1. Pharm A mixture of alkaloids (chiefly cevadine and veratridine) obtained as a white or grayish powder from sabadilla seeds and used as a counterirritant in neuralgia and arthritis. It is an intense local irritant and a powerful muscle and nerve poison.
2. Chem. a Veratridine; — called specif. amorphous veratrine. b Usually, cevadine; — called specif. crystalline, or crystallized, veratrine.

ver′a·trin·ize (vĕr′ȧ·trĭn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZING (-īz′ĭng). To treat or drug with veratrine.

ver′a·trize (vĕr′ȧ·trīz), v. t.; -TRIZED (-trīzd); -TRIZING (-trīz′ĭng). To veratrinize.

ver′a·trole (vĕr′ȧ·trōl), n. Also ver′a·trol (-trōl; -trŏl). [veratric + -ol.] Chem. A crystalline compound, $C_6H_4(OCH_3)_2(o)$, made by methylating pyrocatechol; orthodimethoxy-benzene.

ve·rat′ro·yl (vē·răt′rō·Ĭl), n. [Veratrum + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical, $C_9H_9O_2$, of veratric acid.

Ve·ra′trum (vē·rā′trŭm), n. [L., hellebore.] 1. Bot. A small genus of coarse herbs, family Melanthaceae, the false hellebores. They have short poisonous rootstocks, large plicate clasping leaves in three vertical ranks, and panicled flowers with the perianth segments adnate to the ovary. The rootstocks of the American hellebore (V. viride), and of the white hellebore (V. album), are used as a cardiac and muscular sedative. See VERATRINE.
2. [not cap.] Pharm. In America, the dried rhizome and roots of the American hellebore Veratrum viride; in Europe, the rhizome and roots of V. album. See HELLEBORE.

‖ve·ra′trum vi′ri·de (vē·rā′trŭm vĭr′ĭ·dē). [L., green hellebore.] Pharm. Veratrum from Veratrum viride.

ver′a·tryl (vĕr′ȧ·trĭl), n. [See VERATROYL.] Chem. a Preferably, the univalent radical 3,4-$(CH_3O)_2C_6H_3CH_2$, the hydroxide of which is veratryl alcohol (3,4-dimethoxy-benzyl alcohol). b The univalent radical, 3,4-$(CH_3O)_2C_6H_3$-, of which veratrole is the hydride. c Veratroyl.

ver′a·tryl′i·dene (vĕr′ȧ·trĭl′ĭ·dēn), n. [veratryl + -idene.] = VERATRAL.

verb (vûrb), n. [OF. verbe, fr. L. verbum a word, verb. See WORD; cf. PROVERB.] 1. A word; a vocable. Obs.
2. Gram. A word which affirms or predicates something; a word which, expressing an act, occurrence, or mode of being, carries the distinctive force of a predicate. The verb in its various predicating forms is called a finite verb in distinction from the infinitive and other verbals, and takes variations of form and phrasing for voice, mood, tense, person, and number. Verbs show differences in fullness of descriptive meaning and characterizing quality (answering to the difference between descriptive and pronominal adjectives), some of the least descriptive ones taking special uses as auxiliary and other link verbs. In their characteristic uses verbs are described as transitive and intransitive; also as active, neuter, and passive, some as reflexive, and reciprocal. By their forms verbs are classed according to conjugations, as strong and weak, regular and irregular, etc. Deponent verbs are so classed by both form and meaning.
— the principal verb. The chief or the essential thing, part, or factor.

verb, adj. Gram. Of the nature of, or having the function of, a verb; formed from or with a verb; verbal; as, a verb form; a verb group.

verb, v. t. To provide with a verb or verbs. Rare.
A rather long and poorly lubricated sentence, heavily verbed at the end. Christopher Morley.

‖ver′ba ge′ne·ra′li·a (vûr′bȧ jĕn′ē·rā′lĭ·ȧ). [L.] Law. General words or terms.

ver′bal (vûr′băl; -b′l), adj. [F., fr. LL. verbalis. See VERB.] 1. Of or pertaining to words; consisting in, or having to do with, words only; esp., dealing with words rather than with the ideas to be conveyed; as, verbal art; a verbal critic; verbal change; sometimes, Obs., verbose; wordy; as, a man who has become too verbal.
And loses, though but verbal, his reward. Milton.
Verbal refinements, instead of substantial knowledge. Whewell.
2. Expressed in words, whether spoken or written, but commonly in spoken words; hence, by confusion, spoken; oral; not written; as, a verbal contract. See ORAL, Syn.
Made she no verbal question? Shak.
3. Consisting of or using words and not effective action; as, he confined himself to a mere verbal protest.
4. Having word answering to word; word for word; literal; verbatim; as, a verbal translation.
5. Gram. Of or pert. to a verb; as, a verbal group; comprising a verb or verbs; as, a verbal predicate; derived directly from a verb; like a verb in sense and constructions; as, a verbal adjective; used in forming verbs; as, a verbal prefix.
6. Psychol. Pertaining to the function of speech.
Syn. — See ORAL.

ver′bal, n. Gram. A word form that combines something of verb meaning and use with the uses of a noun or adjective; in English, specif., infinitive, gerund, participle.

verbal amnesia. See AMNESIA.

verbal aphasia. See APHASIA.

verbal definition. A definition which merely repeats in other words the general meaning of the term defined, without the differentiae necessary to true definition.

verbal fallacy. See FALLACY, 2.

verbal image. Psychol. A mental image representing a word as heard, as seen, or as felt, when pronounced.

---

ven′us·ty, n. [L. venustas.] Comeliness of form. Obs.

ven′y (vĕn′ĭ), n. = VENUE, a thrust; hence, a retort. Obs.

Vep′sa. Var. of VEPSE.

ver, n. [OF. & L.] Spring (of the year). Obs.

ver. † FIR; FIRE; FOR; VERRE; WAR, worse; were, form of BE.

verd′ure (vûr′jŭr; 157), n. Also -dun. [NL. Veratrum + -oid + 2d -ine, 2 b.] = VERATRALBINE.

veray, verayе. † VERY.

verra (vĕr′ȧ; vär′ȧ), adj. & adv. Very. Scot.

ve·ra′da (vē·rā′trĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] = VERATRINE.

ver′a·troi′dine (vĕr′ȧ·troi′dēn; or marble cistern tops common in Venice.

ver′a·ment, adv. [AF. veirement (OF. voirement). See VERIMENT.] Truly; in fact; indeed. Obs.

ā̄le, chāotic, cāre, ȧdd, ȧccount, ärm, ȧsk, sofȧ; ēve, hēre (116), ēvent, ĕnd, silĕnt, makēr; īce, ĭll, charĭty; ōld, ōbey, ôrb, ŏdd, sôft, cŏnnect; fōōd, fo͝ot; verbal inspiration. Theol. See INSPIRATION, 2 a.

‖ Foreign Word. † Obsolete Variant of. + combined with. = equals. Abbreviations, Signs, etc., are explained on pages immediately preceding the Vocabulary.

ver'bal·ism (vûr'bŭl·ĭz'm; -b'l-), n. Verbal expression: a Something expressed verbally. b (1) An empty form of words; a wordy expression of little meaning. (2) Wordiness.

ver'bal·ist, n. A literal adherent to, or a minute critic of, words; a literalist; also: a One whose readiness of speech exceeds his intelligence. b A person skilled in the use of words.

ver·bal'i·ty (vûr·băl'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Quality or state of being verbal; mere words; bare literal expression. Rare. 2. Excessive nicety in the making of verbal distinctions; also, emphasis upon the use of words rather than upon essential facts under consideration or discussion.

ver'bal·ize (vûr'bŭl·īz; -b'l·īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [Cf. F. verbaliser.] Transitive: 1. a To be skilled in wording; to express with emphasis upon the choice of words. b To convert into a verb; to verbify. 2. Psychol. To express in speech; to name or describe in words; as, to verbalize one's behavior.

—, Intransitive: To be verbose.

— ver'bal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'-), n. — ver'bal·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n.

verbal note. Diplomatics. An unsigned memorandum serving as an informal reminder of an unanswered question, request, or the like.

verbal noun. Gram. A noun derived directly from a verb or verb stem and, in certain uses, partaking of the sense and constructions of a verb; in English, a noun in -ing meaning in general the act or process of doing something (a crying in the wilderness; by stepping carefully, he crossed; choosing is difficult); specif., an infinitive or gerund. Cf. -ING, GERUND.

verbal proposition. Logic. A proposition in which the subject and predicate are only verbally different and which conveys no real information unless about the meaning of words.

ver·bar'i·an (vûr·bâr'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. Verbal. Rare.

ver·bar'i·an, n. A coiner of words. Rare.

ver·bar'i·um (vûr·bâr'ĭ·ŭm; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. verbum word.] A game in which letters are formed into words; also, one in which a word is changed into others by rearrangement of its letters.

ver·bas'co (vĕr·băs'kō), n. [Sp., Pg., & It. See VERBASCUM.] The mullein.

ver·bas'cose (-kōs), n. [Verbascum + 2d -OSE a.] Chem. A crystalline sugar, $C_{18}H_{28}O_{21}$, obtained from mullein root.

Ver·bas'cum (vĕr·băs'kŭm), n. [L., mullein.] Bot. A very large genus of coarse, widely distributed herbs (family Scrophulariaceae), the mulleins, having large often woolly leaves and terminal spikes of yellow, white, or purplish flowers with a rotate corolla and five perfect stamens. A few species, as V. phoeniceum and V. olympicum, are handsome in cultivation; the majority are of weedy appearance.

ver'bate (vûr'bāt), v. t. [L. verbum word.] To render word for word, as a translation. Rare.

ver·ba'tim (vûr·bā'tĭm), adv. [ML., fr. L. verbum word.] 1. Word for word; in the same words; verbally; as, to tell a story verbatim as another has related it.

2. In speech; verbally; orally. Obs. Shak.

ver·ba'tim, adj. 1. Being a word-for-word reproduction (of some original); following the original exactly; as, a verbatim translation; a verbatim record.

2. Skilled in taking down a speech, report, etc., word for word; as, a verbatim reporter.

ver·ba'tim, n. An account, translation, or report which follows an original word for word.

‖ver·ba'tim ac lit'te·ra'tim (vĕr·bā'tĭm ăk lĭt'ĕr·ā'tĭm). [L.] Word for word and letter for letter. See VERBATIM.

ver·be'na (vĕr·bē'nȧ), n. [L. See VERVAIN.] 1. [cap.] Bot. A large genus of chiefly American herbs or subshrubs typifying the family Verbenaceae, having bracted flowers in heads or spikes, a regular corolla with a 5-lobed limb, and four one-seeded nutlets. Most of the weedy species are called vervains.

2. A garden plant of the genus Verbena, of numerous varieties, with large, often fragrant flowers ranging from white through pink and red to blue and purple, or sometimes variegated. The garden verbena is a hybrid derived from V. incisa, V. phlogiflora, V. teucrioides, and V. chamaedrifolia. Also, a flower or flower cluster of this plant.

3. A feminine proper name.

Ver·be·na'ce·ae (vûr'bē·nā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of herbs, shrubs, and trees (order Polemoniales), the verbena family, distinguished by the opposite leaves, chiefly irregular flowers, and entire ovary. There are 75 genera and about 1300 species of wide distribution, largely tropical. Many genera yield species attractive in cultivation, as Verbena, Clerodendron, Vitex, and Callicarpa; a few are medicinal, and some, as the teak (Tectona), are valuable timber trees. — ver'be·na'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

verbena family. The Verbenaceae.

ver·be'na·like' (vĕr·bē'nȧ·lĭk'), adj. See -LIKE.

ver·be'na·lin (vĕr·bē'nȧ·lĭn), n. Chem. A bitter, colorless, crystalline glucoside, $C_{17}H_{26}O_{10}$, in the flowers of the common vervain (Verbena officinalis).

verbena oil. An essential oil of perfumery obtained from various verbenas, esp. Lippia citridora. The commercial product is usually lemon-grass oil (often called specif. Indian verbena oil). See OIL, Table I.

ver'be·nate (vûr'bē·nāt), v. t.; -NAT'ED (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -NAT'ING (-nāt'ĭng). [L. verbenatus crowned with a wreath of sacred boughs. See VERBENA.] To crown with verbena, or vervain, as in certain Roman public rites.

verbena violet. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance; — called also vervain. Cf. COLOR.

ver·bene' (vĕr·bēn'; vûr'bēn), n. A verbena. Lindley.

ver'be·none (vûr'bē·nōn), n. [verbena + -one a.] Chem. A liquid ketone, $C_{10}H_{14}O$, found in true verbena oil.

ver'ber·ate (vûr'bĕr·āt), v. t. [L. verberatus, past part. of verberare to beat.] To beat; strike. Rare. — v. i. To shake; tremble; quiver. Rare.

ver'ber·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. [L. verberatio.] A verberating; a beating or knocking; specif., the impulse or vibration of a body which causes sound. Rare. — ver'ber·a'tive (vûr'bĕr·ā'tĭv; *-ȧ-*tĭv), adj. Rare.

Ver'be·si'na (vûr'bē·sī'nȧ), n. [NL., fr. OIt. (at Bologna) forbesina, verbesina, fr. L. verbena (see VERBENA); — from a resemblance in the leaves of the type species.] Bot. a A small genus of chiefly tropical herbs (family Carduaceae) having yellow or white heads of tubular and radiate flowers. V. helianthoides is called gravelweed; V. virginica is called Virginia crownbeard. Syn. Phaethusa. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

ver'bi·age (vûr'bĭ·ĭj), n. [F., fr. MF. verbeier, verboier, to chatter, talk much, fr. verbe word. See VERB.] 1. The use of many words without necessity, or with little sense; verbosity; wordiness.

Verbiage may indicate observation, but not thinking. Irving.

2. Diction; manner of expressing oneself in words; wording.

Syn. and Ant. — See REDUNDANCY.

ver'bi·cide (vûr'bĭ·sīd), n. [L. verbum word + -cide.] Perversion of a word, or one who perverts a word. Humorous.

ver'bi·cul'ture (-kŭl'tûr), n. [L. verbum word + E. culture.] Cultivation or coinage of words. Rare.

ver'bid (vûr'bĭd), n. [See VERB; 4th -ID.] Gram. An infinitive or participle; — used by some grammarians, following Jespersen.

ver'bi·fy (vûr'bĭ·fī), v. t.; VERB'I·FIED (-fīd) VERB'I·FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [verb + -fy.] To make into a verb; to use as a verb; to verbalize. — verb'i·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

ver·big'er·ate (vĕr·bĭj'ĕr·āt), v. i.; -AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). [L. verbigerare, verbigeratum, to talk, chatter.] 1. To talk; chat. Obs.

2. Med. To repeat a word or sentence, without regard to sense, in speaking or writing, without wishing to do so or in spite of efforts to cease.

ver·big'er·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. Psychiatry. Continual repetition of stereotyped phrases, as in dementia precox. — ver·big'er·a'tive (-ā'tĭv; *-ȧ-*tĭv), adj.

ver'bile (vûr'bĭl; -bīl), n. [From L. verbum word, after audile.] One whose mental imagery consists of words. Cf. AUDILE.

verbo-. A combining form from Latin verbum, word, as in ver·bol'a·try, ver'bo·ma'ni·a, etc. See -LATRY, MANIA.

verb of incomplete predication. = LINK VERB.

ver'bo·ma'ni·ac (vûr'bō·mā'nĭ·ăk), n. [L. verbum word + E. maniac.] One inordinately interested in words.

ver'bo·mo'tor (vûr'bō·mō'tĕr), adj. [verbo- + motor.] Designating or pertaining to the speech.

ver·bose' (vûr·bōs'), adj. [L. verbosus, fr. verbum word. See VERB.] Abounding in words; using or containing more words than are necessary; tedious by a multiplicity of words; prolix; wordy; as, a verbose speaker, argument. — ver·bose'ly, adv. — ver·bose'ness, n.

ver·bos'i·ty (-bŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. verbosité, fr. LL. verbositas.] State or quality of being verbose; use of more words than are necessary; prolixity; wordiness.

The extreme diffuseness and verbosity of his style. Jeffrey.

Syn. and Ant. — See REDUNDANCY.

‖ver·bo'ten (fĕr·bō'tĕn), adj. [G., past part. of verbieten. See FORBID.] Literally, forbidden; prohibited, usually by authority; — often used satirically, implying that the prohibition is unwarranted; as, a verboten novel.

verb phrase. Gram. A phrase made up of an auxiliary verb and one or more verbals. Verb phrases are sometimes further distinguished as mood phrases, phrases in which the verb and the accompanying verbals stress the mood (might have come), or tense phrases, phrases in which simple tense is expressed (was killed).

‖ver·bruik'len·ing (vĕr·brûk'lān'ĭng), n. [D.] Roman Dutch Law. The contract of mutuum.

‖ver'bum sat sa'pi·en'ti (est) (vûr'bŭm săt săp'ĭ·ĕn'tī (ĕst)). [L.] A word to the wise (is) sufficient; — abbrev. to verbum sap. or verbum sat.

verb'y (vûr'bĭ), adj. Characterized by, or filled with, verbs.

verd (vûrd), n. [F. verd, vert. See VERT.] 1. Green; greenness; freshness. Obs.

2. Eng. Forest Law. = 1st VERT, 1.

ver'dan·cy (vûr'dăn·sĭ), n.; pl. -CIES (-sĭz). Quality or state of being verdant.

ver'dant (-dănt; 91), adj. [From verdure, or fr. F. verdoyant, pres. part. of verdoyer to be verdant, to grow green, fr. OF. verdoier, verdeier, fr. verd, vert, green, fr. L. viridis green, fr. virere to be green, of uncert. origin. Cf. FARTHINGALE, VERDIGRIS, VERDURE, VERJUICE, VERT.] 1. Green with growing plants or grass; green in tint or color; covered with fresh vegetation; as, verdant fields or grass.

2. Unripe in knowledge or judgment; unsophisticated; raw; green; as, a verdant youth. Colloq.

verdant green. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

verd' an·tique' (vûrd' ăn·tēk'). [F. vert antique a kind of marble, fr. verd, vert, green + antique ancient; cf. It. verde antico.] a A green mottled or veined serpentine marble, or calcareous serpentine, much used for indoor decoration, esp. by the ancient Romans; ophicalcite. b An andesite porphyry showing crystals of feldspar in a dark-green groundmass; — called Oriental verd antique.

ver·de'a (vĕr·dē'ȧ; vûr·dē'ȧ), n. [It.] An Italian white grape; also, a Tuscan wine made from it.

‖ver'de an·ti'co (vär'dā än·tē'kō). [It.] Verd antique.

‖ver'de di Pra'to (vär'dā dē prä'tō). [It., Prato green.] A variety of verd antique, or ophicalcite, quarried at Prato, Italy.

ver·de'lho (vĕr·dā'lyō), n. [Pg., a white grape, prop. dim. of verde green.] A white wine. See MADEIRA, 2.

ver'der·er, ver'der·or (vûr'dĕr·ĕr), n. [For verder, fr. F. verdier, fr. L. viridis green. See VERDANT.] Early Eng. Forest Law. A judicial officer having charge of the king's forest, who is sworn to preserve the vert and venison, keep the assizes, and to view, receive, and enroll attachments and presentments of all manner of trespasses.

ver·det' (vĕr·dĕt'), n. Verdigris green.

ver·det', n. Also ver·det'to (vĕr·dĕt'ō). [It. verdetto.] = VERDIGRIS, 1. Obs.

Ver'det's' con'stant (vĕr'dĕz'). [After Marcel Émile Verdet (1824–66), French mathematician.] Elec. A measure of the effect of a magnetic field in rotating the plane of polarization of plane polarized light when it traverses a transparent substance placed in the field, being the rotation produced in one centimeter length of the substance by a magnetic field of one gauss.

Ver'det's' law. Physics. The principle that in a given medium the rotation of the plane of a light ray by a magnetic field is proportional to the difference of magnetic potential between the points of entrance and exit.

ver'dict (vûr'dĭkt), n. [ME. verdit, fr. OF. veirdit, voirdit, prop., a true saying, fr. veir, voir, true (fr. L. verus) + dit a saying, fr. L. dictum a thing said; cf. ML. verdictum, veredictum. See VERY; DICTUM.] 1. Law. The answer of a jury given to the court concerning any matter of fact in any cause, civil or criminal, committed to their examination and determination; the finding or decision of a jury on the matter legally submitted to them in the course of the trial of a cause. The ordinary comprehensive verdict in civil actions is "for the plaintiff" or "for the defendant," in criminal actions "guilty" or "not guilty," and these are each called a general verdict. A verdict of "not guilty" is conclusive at the common law. When a jury, whether at the direction of the court or otherwise, find the facts of the case, leaving to the court the application of the law to them, it is called a special verdict. In cases where the judge is not ready to receive the jury's verdict at the time of their arriving at a conclusion, he may authorize them to write, sign, and deliver it to the proper officer for custody until they shall be convened in court to announce it. This is called a sealed verdict. The decision of a judge or referee, upon an issue of fact, is not called a verdict, but a finding, or a finding of fact. Cf. SCOTCH VERDICT.

2. Decision; judgment; opinion pronounced; as, to be condemned by the verdict of the public.

Syn. — Word, opinion, finding.

ver'dict (vûr'dĭkt), v. t. To judge or pronounce sentence on. — v. i. To pronounce sentence. Both Rare.

ver'di·gris (vûr'dĭ·grēs; -grĭs), n. [ME. verdegrees, verdegrece, vertegrece, fr. OF. vert de Grice, vert de Grece, lit., green of Greece (F. vert-de-gris); cf. ML. viride grecum. See VERDANT.] 1. a A green or greenish-blue poisonous pigment and drug, obtained by the action of acetic acid on copper, consisting of one or more basic copper acetates. The essential constituent of blue verdigris has the formula $Cu(C_2H_3O_2)_2.CuO$. Green verdigris consists chiefly of $2Cu(C_2H_3O_2)_2.CuO$. Verdigris is less used as a pigment than formerly, being liable to fade, blacken, and react with other substances. It is used in dyeing and calico printing, in wood preservatives, etc. In medicine it is used externally, as a dusting powder or ointment for obstinate morbid proliferations and ulcers. b Normal copper acetate, $Cu(C_2H_3O_2)_2H_2O$; — called specif. crystallized, or distilled, verdigris.

2. A green or bluish deposit, esp. of copper carbonate, formed on copper, brass, or bronze surfaces. Cf. 2d PATINA, 1.

3. Verdigris green.

ver'di·gris, v. t. To cover, or coat, with verdigris. Rare. — v. i. To become spotted or stained with verdigris; — said of insects mounted on pins.

verdigris green. A color, greenish yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also verdigris, verdet, Montpellier green, Spanish green. Cf. COLOR.

ver'di·gris'y (vûr'dĭ·grēs'ĭ; -grĭs'ĭ), adj. Like or suggesting verdigris, as in color.

ver'din (vûr'dĭn), n. [F., yellowhammer.] A very small yellow-headed titmouse (Auriparus flaviceps) found from Texas to California and southward. It builds a large globular nest.

ver'di·ter (vûr'dĭ·tĕr), n. [F. vert-de-terre, lit., green of earth.] 1. a Obs. Verdigris. b Either of two basic carbonates of copper used as pigments, and prepared either by grinding the mineral azurite (giving blue verditer) and the mineral malachite (giving green verditer) or artificially; bice. Green verditer is fairly durable in oil, but liable to darken; blue verditer is inferior to cobalt blue, etc.

2. a = VERDITER BLUE. b = VERDITER GREEN.

verditer blue. The color azurite blue.

verditer green. The color malachite green.

ver'doy (vûr'doi), adj. [F. verdoyer to become green, past part. verdoyé.] Her. Charged with leaves, fruits, flowers, etc.; — with of, said of a border.

ver'dun' (vĕr'dŭn'), n. [From Verdun, France.] A long rapier used in the 16th century.

Ver'dun' (vĕr'dŭn'), n. See BATTLE, Table.

ver'dure (vûr'dûr), n. [OF., fr. verd green. See VERDANT.] 1. Greenness; esp., greenness and freshness of vegetation; also, such vegetation itself; a green growth.

A wide expanse of living verdure, cultivated gardens, shady groves, fertile cornfields, flowed round it like a sea. Motley.

2. Hence, a vigorous condition suggesting fresh growth of vegetation; good health; freshness and strength.

3. Freshness of taste; a pleasantly sharp flavor, as of wine or fruit; sometimes, Obs., a disagreeable tartness or acidity.

4. Odor; scent; smell. Obs.

5. A tapestry in which all or a considerable part of the design is made up of leaves or trees, usually with the addition of flowers and animals.

6. A color, greenish yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

ver'dured (-dûrd), adj. 1. Covered with verdure.

2. Having a pleasant sharpness of taste, as good wines or fresh fruit. Obs.

ver'dur·er (-dûr·ĕr). Var. of VERDERER.

ver'dur·ous (-dûr·ŭs), adj. Clothed with the fresh green of vegetation; verdured; verdant; as, verdurous pastures. — ver'dur·ous·ness, n.

ver·e·cund (vĕr'ē·kŭnd), adj. [L. verecundus.] Bashful; modest. — ver·e·cun'di·ty (-kŭn'dĭ·tĭ), n. — ver'e·cund'ness, n.

Vere' de Vere', Lady Clara (vēr' dē vēr'). The title and heroine of a poem (1842) by Tennyson. She has become a type of a cold, haughty aristocrat, and of "the repose which stamps the caste of Vere de Vere."

‖Ver·ein' (fĕr·īn'), n. [G.] An association; a society, esp. a social or political organization.

ver'ek (fĕr'ĕk), n. [Berber afarak, fr. Hausa farak k'aya, fr. fara(r) white + k'aya thorn.] The acacia Acacia senegal (syn. verek).

Ve·re·til'lum (vĕr'ē·tĭl'ŭm), n. [L., dim. of veretrum the private parts.] Zool. a A genus of club-shaped pennatulaceans with zooids distributed irregularly all round the rachis. They occur at moderate depths in the Mediterranean and Atlantic. b [not cap.] An animal of this genus. — ver·e·til'li·form (-ĭ·fôrm), adj.

Veretillum (V. cynomorium). — ½ verge (vûrj), n. [ME., fr. OF. verge, fr. L. virga. See WHISK.] 1. A rod or staff, or something of the form of one, carried as an emblem of authority or as a symbol of office.

2. The stick or wand with which persons were formerly admitted tenants, they holding it and swearing fealty. Such tenants were called tenants by the verge. Eng.

3. A virgate; a yardland. Obs.

4. A yard measure. Obs.

5. The shaft of a column, or a small ornamental shaft.

---

ver'bal·ly, adv. of VERBAL.

verbal phrase. See PHRASE, 6.

Ver·be·na'ri·us (vûr'bē·nā'rĭ·ŭs; 79), n. [L.] See PETIALES.

verb'less, adj. See -LESS.

ver'bous (vûr'bŭs), adj. = VERBOSE. Rare.

ver·chok' (vĕr·shŏk'), n. sing. & pl. Also ver·choo'. [Russ. vershok.] See MEASURE, Table.

ver'dant·ly, adv. of VERDANT.

ver'dant·ness, n. See -NESS.

verdant zone. = THERMAL BELT.

ver'der, n. = VERDURE. Obs.

ver'der·er·ship, n. See -SHIP.

Ver'dhan·di (vĕr'thăn·dē). Var. of VERTHANDI. See NORN.

ver'dit. Var. of VERDICT. New Dial. verdour, n. [AF.] = VERDERER. Obs.

verdour, n. [OF. See VERDURE.] = VERDURE.

verd' russe' (vär' rüs'). = RUSSIAN GREEN.

verdugal, n. [OF. verdugale, verdugale. See FARTHINGALE.] A farthingale. Obs.

ver·du'go, n. [Sp.] A hangman. Obs. [Nonce Word.] ver·du'go·ship, n. See -SHIP.

ver·du'que. Var. of BELDUQUE.

ver'dure·less, adj. See -LESS.

vere. † FERE, FIRE, VERE, VER.

veredict. † VERDICT.

Ve·ree'ni·ging (vĕ·rā'nĭ·ĭng; vĕ·rē'-), n. See TREATY, Table.

ve·ren'da (vĕ·rĕn'dȧ), n. pl. [L., private parts, neut. pl. fut. pass. part. of vereri to fear, respect.] Privacies. Obs. [Obs.] ver'gan·tine, n. = BRIGANTINE.

N O P Q R S T U V

6. An accent mark. Obs.
7. The penis; esp., Zool., the male intromittent organ of any of various invertebrates.
8. Watch; timepiece. Colloq.
Mr. Dyse took out an old, thick, silver verge. "Nine o'clock," he said. Neil Munro.
9. [From sense 16.] A border, limit, or boundary, of a space; as, within the verge of the cathedral close; esp., an edge, margin, or brink; as, on the horizon's verge; to be on the verge of tears or laughter; beyond the verge of possibility.
10. A circumference; range; scope; enclosed space; hence, an enclosing or encircling thing, as a circlet or ring.
The inclusive verge
Of golden metal that must round my brow. Shak.
11. Specif.: The edge of the tiling projecting over the gable of a roof. Encycl. Brit.
12. In a frame on which stockings are made, a piece of iron in front of the needle bar to regulate the position of the needles.
13. = VERGENCY. Obs.
14. Horol. The spindle of a watch balance, esp. one with pallets, as in the old vertical escapement. See ESCAPEMENT, 3.
15. Hort. a The edge or outside of a bed or border. b A strip of grass adjoining gravel walks.
16. Law. In early England, the area or limit within 12 miles of the place where the king held his court and within which (within the verge) the king's peace was enforced; — so called from the verge, or staff, which the marshal bore. Later, the Court of Marshalsea and the Palace Court, within which the lord steward and marshal of the king's household had special jurisdiction (see MARSHALSEA a); — called also the Court of the Verge. In the 18th century it was applied to the neighborhood of Whitehall. Cf. KING'S PEACE.
17. Print. In a linotype machine, a triggerlike device that permits the release of only one matrix at a time from the magazine. Also called trigger.
Syn. — See BORDER.

verge (vûrj), v.; VERGED (vûrjd); VERG'ING (vûr'jĭng). [From VERGE, n.] Intransitive: 1. To be on the verge, or border; as, verging on tears; his attitude verges on the ridiculous.
2. To be in the next or neighboring place; to be contiguous; as, the meadows which verge on the little river; the side streets verging on Fifth Avenue.
—, Transitive: 1. To border; edge; trim.
2. To constitute the verge or edge of.

verge, v. i. [L. vergere to bend, turn, incline; akin to Skr. varjati he bends, turns aside, and to AS. wrencan to twist. See WRENCH; cf. CONVERGE, DIVERGE.] 1. To tend; incline; as, a hill verges to the north; esp., to incline toward the horizon, as the setting sun; loosely, to stretch; extend.
I find myself verging to that period of life which is to be labor and sorrow. Swift.
2. To be in transition from one state to another; to be in the process of change or merging; as, a dark red verging on purple; as evening verges into night.

verge, v. i. To serve as verger. Colloq.

ver'gence (vûr'jĕns), n. [From 3d VERGE.] Any turning movement of the eyeballs; also, any state of being turned.

ver'gen·cy (-jĕn·sĭ), n. 1. Act of verging, approaching, or bordering, on something; tendency; inclination. Rare.
2. Optics. The reciprocal of the focal distance of a lens, used as a measure of the divergence or convergence of a pencil of rays. Rare. Humphrey Lloyd.

‖ver·gens ad in·o'pi·am (vûr'jĕnz ăd ĭn·ō'pĭ·ăm). [L.] Scots & Roman Dutch. Law. Tending toward insolvency; — said of the condition of a debtor under which creditors may resort to restraining action, as by inhibition.

ver'gent (vûr'jĕnt), adj. [L. vergens, -entis, pres. part. of vergere to incline.] Approaching an end; drawing to a close. Rare. — ver'gent·ness, n. Rare.

verge paper. Philately. Laid paper in which the watermark lines run obliquely.

ver'ger (vûr'jĕr), n. [F., fr. verge rod. See 1st VERGE.] One who carries a verge, or emblem of office. Specif.: a Eng. An attendant on a bishop, a dean, a justice, etc. b An official who takes care of the interior of a church building. c Obs. A master of ceremonies. — ver'ger·ism (-lz'm), n.

ver'ger (vûr'jĕr), n. [F.] A garden or orchard. Obs.

verg'er (vûr'jĕr), n. A lathe hand who cuts out verges.

ver'ger·y (vûr'jĕr·ĭ), n. [See VERGER official.] A sacristy. R.

Ver'ges (vûr'jĕz; -jĭz), n. An ingeniously absurd headborough in Shakespeare's Much Ado about Nothing. He is a companion of Dogberry.

verge watch. A watch with a vertical escapement. See VERGE, n., 14.

ver'gi (vĕr'gē), n. [Turk. vĕrgü, colloq. vergi, gift, tax.] A tax on houses and lands and on incomes. Turkey.

ver'gi·form (vûr'jĭ·fôrm), adj. [verge + -iform.] Zool. Rodlike.

Ver·gil'i·an (vûr·jĭl'ĭ·ăn), adj. Also Vir·gil'i·an. [L. Vergilianus, Virgilianus.] Of or pertaining to Vergil; esp., resembling the style of Vergil.

ver'go·bret (vûr'gō·brĕt), n. [L. vergobretus, of Celt. origin.] A prince or chief magistrate in ancient Gaul. Hist.

‖ver·gun'ning (vĕr·gŭn'ĭng), n. [D.] Permission, as by the owner of a farm to another to prospect on his property.

ve'ri (vä'rē), n. [Tahitian.] A centipede. Tahiti.

ve·rid'ic (vĕ·rĭd'ĭk), adj. Veridical.

ve·rid'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [L. veridicus, fr. verus true + dicere to say, tell.] a Truthtelling; truthful; veracious. b Genuine; not illusory. — ve·rid'i·cal·ly, adv. — ve·rid'i·cal·ness, n.

veridical hallucination. A hallucination corresponding to some real event, as when the apparition of an image of an absent person is coincident with his death.

ve·rid'i·cal'i·ty (-kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Quality or state of being veridical; also, a veridical statement.

ve·rid'i·cous (vĕ·rĭd'ĭ·kŭs), adj. [L. veridicus.] Veridical. Rare.

ve·rid'i·ty (-ĭ·tĭ), n. [veridical + -ity.] Truth; verity; genuineness.

ver'i·fi'a·ble (vĕr'ĭ·fī'ä·b'l), adj. Capable of being verified; confirmable. — ver'i·fi'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — ver'i·fi'a·ble·ness, n. — ver'i·fi'a·bly, adv.

ver'i·fi·cate (vĕr'ĭ·fĭ·kāt), v. t. [ML. verificare.] To verify; confirm.

ver'i·fi·ca'tion (vĕr'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [F. vérification.] 1. Act of verifying, or state of being verified; confirmation; authentication of truth or accuracy by means of facts, statements, citations, measurements, attendant circumstances, etc.; specif.: Law. a Confirmation by evidence. b An averment used in concluding a plea, stating that the pleader is prepared to prove his allegations. c In code pleading, an oath to the truth of a pleading.
2. Act or an instance of ratifying, as a treaty.

ver'i·fi·ca'tive (vĕr'ĭ·fĭ·kā'tĭv), adj. Serving to verify; verifying; authenticating; confirming.

ver'i·fi·ca'to·ry (vĕr'ĭ·fĭ·kā'tō·rĭ), adj. Verificative.

ver'i·fi'er (vĕr'ĭ·fī'ĕr), n. One who verifies, confirms, authenticates, or the like.

ver'i·fy (-fī), v. t.; VER'I·FIED (-fīd); VER'I·FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [OF. verifier, fr. ML. verificare, fr. L. verus true + -ficare to make. See VERY; -FY.] 1. To prove to be true; to establish the truth of; to confirm, as by comparison with facts; to substantiate, as by reasoning; as, to verify an account or a statement; to verify a theory.
This is verified by a number of examples. Bacon.
2. To confirm the truth or truthfulness of; to check or test the accuracy or exactness of.
So shalt thou best fulfill, best verify,
The prophets old, who sung thy endless reign. Milton.
3. To confirm or establish the authenticity of, as by examination or competent evidence; to authenticate; prove; specif., Law, to confirm or substantiate by oath or proof; to add the verification to (a pleading or petition).
4. In Obs. senses: a To make appear true. b To maintain; affirm. c To support; second; back, as a friend.
Syn. and Ant. — See CONFIRM.

ver'i·ly (vĕr'ĭ·lĭ), adv. [From VERY.] 1. In very truth; beyond doubt or question; in fact; certainly.
Trust in the Lord and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Ps. xxxvii. 3.
2. Truly; confidently; really; as, I verily think so.

ver'ine (vĕr'ēn; -ĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [From veratrine.] Chem. A yellow amorphous base, $C_{38}H_{44}NO_8$, formed, with veratric acid, by the hydrolysis of veratridine ver'i·sim'i·lar (vĕr'ĭ·sĭm'ĭ·lĕr), adj. [L. verisimilis, veri similis, fr. verus true, gen. veri + similis like. See VERY; SIMILAR.] Having the appearance of truth; probable; likely. "How verisimilar it looks." Carlyle. — ver'i·sim'i·lar·ly, adv.

ver'i·si·mil'i·tude (vĕr'ĭ·sĭ·mĭl'ĭ·tūd), n. [L. verisimilitudo; cf. MF. verisimilitude. See VERISIMILAR.] Quality or state of being verisimilar; appearance of truth; probability; likelihood; as, his tale has verisimilitude; also, that which is verisimilar; a statement apparently true.
Syn. — See TRUTH. Ant. — Absurdity, unreality, falsity.

ver'i·si·mil'i·tu'di·nous (-tū'dĭ·nŭs), adj. Having the appearance of truth or reality. Rare.
Even at the worst there is nothing in the world more verisimilitudinous. Henry James.

ver'i·si·mil'i·ty (-mĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Verisimilitude. Rare.

ver'ism (vĕr'ĭz'm), n. [L. verus true; cf. F. verisme.] The theory that in art and literature the ugly and the vulgar have their place on the grounds of truth and aesthetic value. In musical practice, the acceptance of this theory has led to impressionistic composition, often marked by sharp contrasts of harmony and timbre. — ver'ist, n. & adj. — ve·ris'tic (vĕ·rĭs'tĭk), adj.

‖ve·ris'mo (vä·rēs'mō), n. [It.] Verism, — originally propounded and developed in Italy.

ver'i·ta·ble (vĕr'ĭ·tä·b'l), adj. [F. véritable. See VERITY.] 1. Agreeable to truth or to fact; actual; real; true; genuine. "The veritable Deity." Sir W. Hamilton.
2. Truthtelling; honest; veracious. Obs.
— ver'i·ta·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — ver'i·ta·ble·ness, n. — ver'i·ta·bly, adv.

Ver'i·tas (vĕr'ĭ·tăs; F. vā'rē'täs'), n. [F. véritas. See VERITY.] An international institution, in the interest of maritime underwriters for the survey and rating of vessels; — called also Bureau Veritas. Founded in Belgium in 1828, it was removed to Paris in 1832, and is now represented all over the world. Also, any of several similar institutions; as, the Norske Veritas at Oslo, Norway.

‖ve'ri·tas (vĕr'ĭ·tăs), n. [L.] Truth; also [cap.], the personification of truth.

‖ve'ri·tas cog·ni'ti·o'nis (vĕr'ĭ·tăs kŏg·nĭsh'ĭ·ō'nĭs). [L.] Truth of cognition; phenomenological truth.

ve'rite (vä'rĭt), n. [From Vera, near Cabo de Gata, Spain.] Petrog. A glassy, basaltlike lava, containing phenocrysts of biotite, olivine, augite, and sometimes plagioclase, in a glassy groundmass.

ver'i·tism (vĕr'ĭ·tĭz'm), n. Verism. — ver'i·tist (-tĭst), n. & adj. — ver'i·tis'tic (-tĭs'tĭk), adj.

ver'i·ty (vĕr'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. verité, veritet (F. vérité), fr. L. veritas, fr. verus true. See VERY; cf. AVER, v., VERIFY.] 1. Quality or state of being true, or real; consonance of a statement, proposition, or other thing, with fact; truth; reality.
It is a proposition of eternal verity, that none can govern while he is despised. South.
2. That which is true; a truth; a reality.
Unproved verities, as unassailable as unheard melodies, have a knack of surviving the rack and ruin of time. Agnes Repplier.
3. [usually cap.] God or Christ; — usually with a qualifying word; as, the Eternal Verity.
4. Faithfulness; honesty; veracity. Obs. Shak.
Syn. — See TRUTH. Ant. — See FALSITY.

ver'juice' (vûr'jōōs'; 242), n. [ME. vergeous, fr. OF verjus, vert jus, lit., green juice, juice of green fruits, fr. vert green + jus juice. See VERDANT; JUICE.] 1. The sour juice of crab apples, of green or unripe grapes, apples, etc.; also, an acid liquor made from such juice.
2. Tartness; sourness, as of disposition.

ver'juice', v. t. To acidify with or as with verjuice.

ver'meil (vûr'mĭl; -m'l), n. [OF., vermilion, fr. L. vermiculus a little worm, the cocculus indicus, fr. vermis worm. See WORM; cf. VERMICULE.] 1. Vermilion; also, the color of vermilion, a bright red. Now Poetic.
I am the vermeil of the rose,
The perfume breathing in its veins. Madison Cawein.
2. Gilded silver; also, gilded bronze or copper.
3. A red varnish applied to a gilded surface to give luster.
4. An orange-red garnet.

ver'meil, adj. Vermilion in color.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
vermeil-cheeked vermeil-rimmed vermeil-tinted vermeil-dyed vermeil-tinctured vermeil-veined ver'meil, v. t. To color or stain with or as with vermeil, or vermilion.

‖ver·meng'ing (vĕr·mĕng'ĭng), n. [D.] Dutch Law. Lit., mingling; — used to designate the extinction of a debt by the debtor and creditor becoming the same person, as where the debtor becomes the heir of the creditor.

ver'me·ol'o·gy (vûr'mē·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [L. vermes worms + -logy.] Zool. Helminthology. Rare. — ver'me·ol'o·gist (-jĭst), n. Rare.

Ver'mes (vûr'mēz), n. pl. [L., pl. of vermis a worm.] Zool. In old classifications, an extensive and heterogeneous division (commonly a subkingdom or phylum) of the animal kingdom, containing the worms and various other groups included chiefly because they clearly did not belong in any of the other recognized divisions. As used by Linnaeus, all the invertebrates except arthropods were included. As used by later authorities, it has been variously restricted, especially by the removal of the mollusks (and with them the brachiopods), the radiates, protozoans, etc., becoming in more recent usage approximately equivalent to the phyla Platyhelminthes, Nemathelminthes, Annelida, and Trochelminthes, taken together. In all recent and critical classifications it has been abandoned as unnatural.

Ver·me'tus (vĕr·mē'tŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. vermis worm.] Zool. a A genus of marine univalves of the suborder Taenioglossa. Their shells are regularly spiral when young, and the animal is free to creep about, but later the shell becomes permanently attached to some object, and the whorls developed later in life are separate and often irregularly bent and contorted like a worm tube. The genus is the type of a small family, Ver·met'i·dae (-mĕt'ĭ·dē). b [not cap.] A mollusk of the above genus or family; a worm shell. — ver·me'tid (vûr'mē·tĭd), n. & adj.

Vermetus. a V. lumbricalis; b V. radicula, Young Shell with the Animal; o Operculum.

vermi-. A combining form, Latin vermi-, from vermis, meaning worm, as in vermiform, vermiparous.

ver'mi·an (vûr'mĭ·ăn), adj. [See VERMES.] 1. Wormlike; of or pertaining to the Vermes.
2. Anat. Of or pertaining to the vermis of the cerebellum.

ver'mi·cel'li (vûr'mĭ·sĕl'ĭ; -chĕl'ĭ), n. [It., pl. of vermicello lit., a little worm, dim. of verme a worm, fr. L. vermis. See WORM.] A variety of alimentary paste, made in cords of smaller diameter than spaghetti.

ver'mi·cel'li, adj. 1. Composed of or containing vermicelli; as, vermicelli soup.
2. Like or suggesting vermicelli, as in appearance; as, vermicelli braids, designs.

ver'mi·cide (vûr'mĭ·sīd), n. [vermi- + -cide.] Any of various substances which kill worms; esp., a drug to kill parasiticintestinal worms. — ver'mi·cid'al (-sīd'ăl; -'l), adj.

ver·mi'cious, ver·mi'ceous (vûr·mĭsh'ŭs), adj. [L. vermis a worm.] Wormy. Rare.

ver·mic'u·lar (vûr·mĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. [L. vermiculus a little worm, dim. of vermis worm. See VERMICELLI.] 1. a Resembling a worm in form or motion; vermiform. b Vermiculate, or vermiculated. c Obs. Filled with vermicules.
2. Med. Of, pertaining to, or caused by, worms.
— ver·mic'u·lar·ly, adv.

Ver·mic'u·la'ri·a (-lā'rĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. L. vermiculus. See VERMICULE.] Bot. A genus of imperfect fungi (family Sphaerioidaceae) characterized by setose pycnidia and unicellular vermiform pycnospores. See DARTROSE.

ver·mic'u·late (vûr·mĭk'ū·lāt), v.; -LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [L. vermiculatus inlaid so as to resemble the tracks of worms, past part. of vermiculari to be full of worms, fr. vermiculus a little worm. See VERMICULAR.] Transitive: 1. To infest with worms; to cause to be devoured by worms.
I am being vermiculated by the maggots of life (far worse than those of death). Edward Dowden.
2. To form or work, as by inlaying, with irregular lines or impressions resembling tracks of worms, or appearing as if formed by the motion of worms.
—, Intransitive: To be infested with, or be eaten by, worms.

ver·mic'u·late (-lăt), adj. 1. Wormlike in shape; covered with wormlike elevations; marked with irregular fine lines of color, or with irregular wavy impressed lines like worm tracks; as, a vermiculate nut.
2. Crawling or creeping like a worm; hence, insinuating; sophistical. "Vermiculate logic." R. Choate.
3. Full of worms; worm-eaten.

ver·mic'u·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Vermiculate.

vermiculated work. Arch. Stonework so wrought as to have the appearance of convoluted worms, or of having been eaten into by, or covered with tracks of, worms.

Vermiculated Work.

ver·mic'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [L. vermiculatio a being worm-eaten.] 1. Act or operation of moving like a worm; a writhing or twisting; as, the vermiculation, or peristaltic action, of the intestines (see PERISTALTIC, 1).
2. A narrow and wavy or tortuous marking or system of such markings for ornament.
3. Act or art of vermiculating, or forming or inlaying so as to resemble the motion, track, or work, of a worm.
4. Penetration by worms; state of being worm-eaten.

ver'mi·cule (vûr'mĭ·kūl), n. [L. vermiculus. See VERMICULAR.] a Rare. A small worm or insect larva; also, a wormlike body. b Biol. An oökinete.

ver·mic'u·lite (vûr·mĭk'ū·lĭt), n. [L. vermiculus, dim. of vermis worm.] Mineral. Any of a number of micaceous minerals, as kerrite, maconite, etc., which are hydrous silicates derived generally from the alteration of some kind of mica; — from the wormlike form of scales when heated. At very high temperatures its granules expand greatly, giving a light, highly water-absorbent material valued in agriculture for use in seed beds, as a mulch, etc.

ver·mic'u·lose (-lōs), ver·mic'u·lous (-lŭs), adj. [LL. vermiculosus. See VERMICULE.] Rare. a Wormy. b Wormlike. — ver·mic'u·los'i·ty (-lŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.

ver'mi·form (vûr'mĭ·fôrm), adj. Also ver'mi·for'mous (-fôr'mŭs). [vermi- + -form.] Wormlike; vermicular.

vermiform appendix. Anat. A narrow, blindly ending tube usually about three or four inches long and of the diameter of a goose quill, which extends from the caecum, or commencement of the large intestine, in the lower right-hand part of the abdomen in a direction which varies in different individuals. Its walls contain much lymphoid tissue, and its cavity normally communicates with that of the caecum, of which it represents an atrophied terminal part. Called also vermiform process. Cf. APPENDICITIS.

vermiform body. = SCOLECITE, 2.

Ver'mi·for'mi·a (vûr'mĭ·fôr'mĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A division of Molluscoida consisting of the genus Phoronis (which see).

ver'mi·form'i·ty (-fôr'mĭ·tĭ), n. Quality of being vermiform. Rare.

Worms in structure . . . their name Sagitta makes up in aptness what they lack in vermiformity. William Beebe.

vermiform process. Anat. a The vermis of the cerebellum. b The vermiform appendix.

ver·mif'u·gal (vûr·mĭf'ū·găl), adj. Also, Rare, ver·mif'u·gous (-gŭs). [vermi- + L. fugare to drive away, fr. fugere to flee. See WORM; FUGITIVE.] Med. Tending to expel or destroy worms; anthelmintic.

ver'mi·fuge (vûr'mĭ·fūj), adj. & n. [F. See VERMIFUGAL.] Med. Anthelmintic.

ver·mig'er·ous (vûr·mĭj'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [vermi- + -gerous.] Having worms; esp., infested with intestinal worms.

ver'mi·grade (vûr'mĭ·grād), adj. [vermi- + gradi to step.] Creeping like a worm.

Ver'mi·lin'gui·a (vûr'mĭ·lĭng'gwĭ·ȧ), n. pl. Also Ver'mi·lin'gues (-gwēz). [NL., fr. vermi- + L. lingua tongue.] Zool. a A group containing the American anteaters alone or also the aardvarks and pangolins. b A division of lizards consisting of the chameleons. — ver'mi·lin'gui·al (-gwĭ·ăl), adj.

ver·mil'ion (vĕr·mĭl'yŭn), n. [OF. vermillon, fr. vermeil. See VERMEIL.] 1. The cochineal insect; also, the dye from it; vermeil. Obs.

2. a A bright-red pigment consisting of mercuric sulphide (HgS), formerly obtained from the mineral cinnabar but now always prepared artificially. It varies from crimson when coarse-grained to nearly orange when finely divided. It has been highly valued by painters, and is also much used in coloring sealing wax, in printing, etc. b Any of certain other red pigments; as, imitation vermilion (which see); Austrian vermilion, or Austrian cinnabar, a variety of chrome red; para vermilion, an organic red precipitated on an inert base; radium vermilion, a red lead coated with an organic color; antimony vermilion (which see); English vermilion and orange vermilion, a sulphide of mercury color approaching carmine in tint.

3. Hence, a red color like the pigment; a lively and brilliant red; as, cheeks of vermilion. Specific colors are: French vermilion, called also paprika, a yellowish-red color of very high saturation and medium brilliance; Dutch vermilion, a color slightly yellower than cherry; Chinese vermilion, called also pimento, a yellowish-red color, slightly less yellow and of lower brilliance than cherry; scarlet vermilion, a color of yellowish-red hue, more yellow than French vermilion; orient red, or oriental red, is English vermilion (cf. sense 2 b, above).

4. Vermilion-colored cloth, yarn, etc. Obs.

5. = VERMEIL, 4.

6. Amboina wood.

ver·mil'ion, adj. Of the color vermilion.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vermilion-colored	vermilion-painted	vermilion-spotted vermilion-crimson	vermilion-red	vermilion-tawny vermilion-dyed	vermilion-scarlet	vermilion-veined ver·mil'ion, v. t. To color or tint with or as with vermilion.

ver·mil'ion·ette' (vĕr·mĭl'yŭn·ĕt'), n. [vermilion + -ette.] A substitute for the pigment vermilion, made by precipitating eosin or a similar dye (usually with lead salts) upon some base, as barium sulphate, white lead, or orange lead.

vermilion flycatcher. Any of several American flycatchers of the genus Pyrocephalus having in the adult male bright-scarlet and brownish-gray or black plumage. One of them (P. rubinus mexicanus) is found as far north as southern Texas and Arizona.

Vermilion Flycatcher. (¼) ver·mil'ion·ize (vĕr·mĭl'yŭn·īz), v. t. To make vermilion in color; to paint (something) vermilion.

Verily, I believe, I should have vermilionized the cosmos. W. J. Locke.

Vermilion Sea. The Gulf of California, formerly so called from its red color, due to infusoria.

ver'min (vûr'mĭn), n. sing. & pl.; chiefly as pl. [OF. vermin, vermine (F. vermine), fr. L. vermis worm; cf. MLG. wermen worm, L. verminosus full of worms. See WORM.] 1. Any noxious, mischievous, or disgusting, animal. Cf. sense 4, below. Obs.

2. Specif.: Such an animal, or esp. such animals collectively, when of small size, of common occurrence, and difficult to control. Various insects, as flies, lice, bedbugs, fleas, etc., various mammals, as rats, mice, weasels, etc., and sometimes such birds as hawks and owls, are classed as vermin.

Cruel hounds or some foul vermin. Chaucer.

3. Hence, in contempt, a noxious or offensive human being, or such persons collectively. "Base vermin." Hudibras.

4. Hunting. Birds and animals, collectively, which prey upon game; predacious birds and animals. Eng.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vermin-covered	vermin-footed	vermin-ridden vermin-destroying	vermin-haunted	vermin-spoiled vermin-eaten	vermin-infested	vermin-tenanted ver'min, v. t. To free from vermin. Obs.

ver'min·al (vûr'mĭ·năl), adj. Verminous.

ver'mi·nate (vûr'mĭ·nāt), v. i. [L. verminare to have worms, fr. vermis a worm.] To breed, or to become infested with, vermin.

ver'mi·na'tion (-nā'shŭn), n. [L. verminatio the worms, a disease of animals, a crawling, itching pain.] 1. Infestation with worms or vermin; also, Med., the diseased state due to this.

2. Growth of vermin; multiplication of vermin by breeding; — esp. of parasites.

ver'min·er (vûr'mĭn·ĕr), n. A dog that hunts vermin, as rats; specif., a terrier. Rare.

vermini-. A combining form for vermin, as in: verminicidal, verminicide, verminiferous.

ver'min·ly, adj. Like or characteristic of vermin. Rare.

ver'mi·no'sis (vûr'mĭ·nō'sĭs), n. [NL. See -OSIS.] Med. State of infestation with worms or vermin.

ver'min·ous (vûr'mĭ·nŭs), adj. [L. verminosus, fr. vermis a worm; cf. F. vermineux.] 1. Consisting of vermin; of the nature of vermin; noxious; as, a verminous brood.

2. Tending to breed vermin; also, infested by vermin; hence, filthy; offensive; as, verminous garbage; a dirty verminous cellar.

3. Caused by, or characterized by the presence of, vermin; as, verminous disease.

— ver'min·ous·ly, adv. — ver'min·ous·ness, n.

ver'min·y, adj. Abounding in or infested with, vermin.

ver·mip'a·rous (vûr·mĭp'ȧ·rŭs), adj. [vermi- + -parous.] Producing worms. — ver·mip'a·rous·ness, n.

ver'mis (vûr'mĭs), n. [L.] Anat. a The part of the median lobe of the cerebellum which appears on the upper or lower surface of the cerebellum. These parts are specifically distinguished as the superior and inferior vermis, the former slightly prominent, the latter sunk in the vallecula. b The median lobe or part of the cerebellum.

ver·miv'o·rous (vûr·mĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. [vermi- + -vorous.] Feeding on worms. — ver·miv'o·rous·ness, n.

ver'mix (vûr'mĭks), n. [NL., fr. *vermi*form + append*ix.*] The vermiform appendix.

Ver·mont' (vĕr·mŏnt'), n. A State of the United States.

Vermont cents. Copper issues of the State of Vermont, 1785–88.

Ver·mont'er (vĕr·mŏn'tĕr), n. A native or inhabitant of Vermont.

Ver'mont·ese' (vûr'mŏn·tēz'; -tēs'), n. sing. & pl. A resident or residents of Vermont. — adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, Vermont or of its residents.

Vermont snakeroot. = WILD GINGER b.

ver'mo'rel' (vĕr'mō'rĕl'), adj. [After V. Vermorel, French manufacturer.] Of, pertaining to, or designating, a spray nozzle for projecting liquid insecticides in a fine spray with considerable force.

‖ver'mou'lu' (vĕr'mōō'lü'), fem. ver'mou'lue' (-lü'), adj. [F.] Worm-eaten.

ver·mouth' (vĕr·mōōth'; vûr'mōōth), n. [F. vermout, fr. G. wermut(h). See WORMWOOD.] a A white wine highly flavored with aromatic herbs and sometimes sweetened. The vermouth made in France is the dryest and the Italian vermouth is the sweetest. b A drink of this wine.

‖ver·nac'cia (vĕr·nät'chä), n. [It.] A strong, sweet, white wine of Italy, esp. Sardinia.

ver'na·cle (vûr'nȧ·k'l), n. [L. vernaculus native.] A vernacular expression. Rare.

ver'na·cle. Var. of VERNICLE.

ver·nac'u·lar (vĕr·năk'ū·lĕr), adj. [L. vernaculus born in one's house, native, fr. verna a slave born in his master's house, a native, of uncert. origin.] 1. Belonging to, developed in, and spoken or used by, the people of a particular place, region, or country; native; indigenous; — now almost solely of language; as, English is our vernacular tongue; hence, of or pertaining to the native or indigenous speech of a place; written in the native, as opposed to the literary, language; as, the vernacular literature, poetry; vernacular expression, words, or forms.

Which in our vernacular idiom may be thus interpreted. Pope.

2. Characteristic of a locality; local; as, a house of vernacular construction. "A vernacular disease." Harvey.

3. Of persons, that use the native, as contrasted with the literary, language of a place; as, vernacular poets; vernacular interpreters.

— ver·nac'u·lar·ly, adv. — ver·nac'u·lar·ness, n.

ver·nac'u·lar, n. The vernacular language, esp. as a spoken language; one's mother tongue; often, the common mode of expression in a particular locality, or, by extension, in a particular trade, etc.; also, a vernacular word or term.

ver·nac'u·lar·ism (-ĭz'm), n. 1. A vernacular word or idiom.

2. Use of vernacular language.

— ver·nac'u·lar·ist (-ĭst), n.

ver·nac'u·lar·ize (-īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To make vernacular; to express in vernacular rather than in literary language. — ver·nac'u·lar·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

ver·nac'u·late (vĕr·năk'ū·lāt), v. t. & i. To express in, or to use, the vernacular idiom. Rare.

ver'nal (vûr'năl; -n'l), adj. [L. vernalis, fr. vernus vernal, fr. ver spring; akin to Gr. ear, Skr. vasanta, ON. vār, OSlav. vesna, Lith. vasara summer, and perh. to E. EAST.] 1. Of or pertaining to the spring; appearing or occurring in the spring; as, vernal bloom; the vernal migration of birds. "Vernal flowers." Milton

2. Resembling or suggesting the spring of the year, as in freshness, gentleness; springlike; hence, belonging to youth, the spring of life.

And seems it hard thy vernal years Few vernal joys can show? Keble.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vernal-bearded	vernal-flowering	vernal-seeming vernal-blooming	vernal-green	vernal-tinctured vernal equinox. Astron. See EQUINOX, 1 & 2. vernal grass. A slender European grass (Anthoxanthum odoratum) producing narrow spikelike panicles in early spring. It is often planted with other grasses for the delicate fragrance (due to coumarin) which it yields when dry. Called also sweet vernal grass.

Vernal Grass.

ver·nal'i·ty (vûr·năl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being vernal, or springlike. Rare.

ver'nal·ize (vûr'năl·īz; -n'l·īz), v. t. To impart vernal freshness to.

vernal point. The vernal equinox. See EQUINOX, 2.

vernal sedge. A Eurasian sedge (Carex caryophyllea) with stoloniferous habit and early-blooming spikes, naturalized in the eastern United States; — called also iron grass.

vernal signs. Astron. The signs Aries, Taurus, and Gemini, in which the sun appears between the vernal equinox and summer solstice.

vernal whitlow grass. = WHITLOW GRASS a.

ver'nant (vûr'nănt), adj. [OF., fr. L. vernans, pres. part. See VERNATION.] Flourishing, as in spring; vernal. Now Rare.

ver·na'tion (vûr·nā'shŭn), n. [NL. vernatio, fr. L. vernare to flourish, be verdant. See VERNAL.] 1. Spring growth, as of vegetation. Obs.

2. Bot. The disposition or method of arrangement of foliage leaves within the bud. The principal types of vernation are designated by the adjectives plicate, valvate, conduplicate, involute, revolute, convolute, reclinate, circinate. See these terms, and cf. ESTIVATION.

Ver'ner's law (vĕr'nĕrz). Philol. A statement, propounded by the Danish philologist Karl Verner in 1875, which explains certain apparent exceptions to Grimm's law by the original position of the accent. Germanic h, th, f, resulting by Grimm's law from Indo-European k, t, p, became voiced, except in certain combinations, and ultimately gave g, d, b, if the principal accent did not originally rest on the immediately preceding syllable. Under the same conditions original s became z, and later r. Hence the final d in dead (which becomes th in death), the r in hare (G. hase), or the b in Gothic sibun (Gr. heptá, Skr. saptá).

‖ver·neuk' (fĕr·nŭk'; vĕr·nōōk'), v. t. & i. [In South Africa, fr. Flem. & D. dial. verneuken to hinder, to cheat.] To humbug; cheat; swindle. — ver·neuk'er (-ĕr), n. — ver·neuk'er·y (-ĕr·ĭ), n. All Colloq., S. Africa.

ver'ni·cose (vûr'nĭ·kōs), adj. [NL. vernicosus. See VARNISH.] Bot. Brilliantly polished, as some leaves.

ver'ni·er (vûr'nĭ·ĕr), adj. Having or comprising a vernier; — said of various instruments, as a vernier telescope.

ver'ni·er, n. Also vernier scale. [After Pierre Vernier (1580–1637), French mathematician.] 1. A short scale made to slide along the divisions of a graduated instrument, as the limb of a sextant, or the scale of a barometer, for indicating parts of divisions. It is so graduated that a certain convenient number of its divisions are just equal to a certain number, either one less or one more, of the divisions of the instrument, so that parts of a division are determined by observing what line on the vernier coincides with a line on the instrument.

Vernier. A Regular Scale; B Vernier Scale, indicating measurement of 27.4.

2. Physics. A small auxiliary device used with a main device, to obtain fine adjustment, as a variable condenser of very small capacity in parallel with another condenser. Cant.

vernier caliper or calipers. Mech. A caliper rule with vernier attachment and adjusting screw, for very fine measurement.

vernier chronoscope. A chronoscope consisting essentially of two pendulums differing slightly in length. A small interval of time elapsing between the release of the first and that of the second is indicated by the number of swings necessary to bring them into (momentary) unison. The principle is that of the vernier, applied to time. See CHRONOSCOPE, Illust.

vernier compass. A surveyor's compass with a vernier by means of which a compensating adjustment may be made for magnetic variation to enable the reading of the correct bearings directly from the compass.

vernier gauge. Mach. An adjustable gauge, as a height or depth gauge, having a vernier scale on it.

vernier micrometer. Mach. A micrometer caliper having on its barrel a vernier scale in order to subdivide the smallest readings of the micrometer.

ver'nile (vûr'nĭl; see -ILE), adj. [L. vernilis servile. See VERNACULAR.] Suiting a slave; servile; obsequious. Rare.

— ver·nil'i·ty (vûr·nĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Rare.

‖ver'nis' Mar'tin' (vĕr'nē' mär'tăN'). [F. vernis varnish.] A preparation of green varnish with gold powder brought into use by the Martin family in France under Louis XV; also, furniture finished with it.

‖ver'nis'sage' (vĕr'nē'säzh'), n. [F. See VARNISH.] The opening, or varnishing, day of an exhibition of paintings. See VARNISHING DAY.

ver·ni'tion (vĕr·nĭsh'ŭn), n. [F. vernis varnish + -tion.] The application of a coat of varnish to a distemper.

‖ver'nix ca'se·o·'sa (vûr'nĭks kā'sē·ō'sȧ), n. [NL., cheesy varnish.] Med. A fatty substance covering the skin of the fetus.

Ver'non, Di or Di·an'a (dĭ or dī·ăn'ȧ vûr'nŭn). The heroine of Scott's Rob Roy. See OSBALDISTONE, FRANCIS.

Ver·no'ni·a (vûr·nō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after William Vernon, who sent plants to Petiver from Maryland.] Bot. A huge genus of chiefly tropical herbs or shrubs (family Carduaceae), the ironweeds, having alternate leaves and terminal cymose heads of perfect tubular flowers, mostly red or purple. There are about a dozen species in the United States, but hundreds in South America.

ver·no'ni·a'ceous (-ā'shŭs), adj. Pertaining to the genus Vernonia or the tribe, Ver·no'ni·e·ae (-nō'nĭ·ē·ē), which it typifies.

ver·no'ni·a pur'ple (vûr·nō'nĭ·ȧ). A color, bluish-red in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

ver'no·nin (vûr'nō·nĭn; vûr·nō'nĭn), n. Chem. A poisonous glucoside, $C_{19}H_{34}O_7$, extracted from batiator root (Vernonia nigritiana), as a deliquescent powder.

‖Ver·nunft' (fĕr·nōōnft'), n. [G.] Ger. Philos. Reason, conceived as the highest faculty of the mind, esp. as the faculty of framing general conceptions or of directly apprehending universals; — distinguished from Verstand.

Ve·ro'na (vĕ·rō'nȧ; It. vä·rō'nä), n. 1. A city of Italy.

2. See CONGRESS, Table.

Verona brown. = VANDYKE BROWN, 2.

Verona earth, Verona green. = TERRE-VERTE.

Ver'o·nal (vĕr'ō·năl), n. [G. trade name. Cf. VERNINE.] A trade-mark applied to the hypnotic barbital; hence [sometimes not cap.], this substance.

ver'o·nal·ism (-ĭz'm), n. [Veronal + -ism.] Med. Barbitalism.

Verona orris. Orrisroot from the German iris Iris germanica, grown in central and southern Europe, or from Iris pallida, indigenous to the eastern Mediterranean countries.

Verona serge. A thin twilled cloth of worsted and cotton.

Verona yellow. a A pigment. See LEAD OXYCHLORIDE. b The color lemon yellow.

Ver'o·nese' (vĕr'ō·nēz'; -nēs'), adj. [It.] Of or pertaining to Verona, in Italy. — n. sing. & pl. A native or inhabitant of Verona.

Veronese green. 1. a = VIRIDIAN, n., 2. b = EMERALD GREEN a.

2. = GUIGNET'S GREEN, 1.

Ve·ron'i·ca (vĕ·rŏn'ĭ·kȧ), n. [ML.; — from Veronica, in an old legend the name of a woman who, as Christ carried the cross, wiped his face with a cloth which received an ver'mi·for'mis (vûr'mĭ·fôr'mĭs), n. [NL.] = VERMIFORM APPENDIX.

---

ver'mil. Obs. variant of VERMEIL.

ver·mil'ion, ver·mil'ion·ette'. Vars. of VERMILION, VERMILIONETTE.

ver'mi·ly (vûr'mĭ·lĭ), n. Vermicelli. Obs.

ver'mine, adj. Also ver·min'e·ous. Verminous. Obs.

ver'min·like', adj. See -LIKE.

ver'min·proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

ver·nac'u·lar'i·ty (vĕr·năk'ū·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). = VERNACULARISM.

ver·nac'u·lar'y (vĕr·năk'ū·lĕr'ĭ; -lĕr·ĭ), adj. Vernacular. Obs.

vernacule, adj. Vernacular. Obs.

ver·nac'u·lous (vĕr·năk'ū·lŭs), adj. [L. vernaculus.] 1. Vernacular. Obs.

2. [L. vernaculi, pl., buffoons, jesters.] Scoffing; scurrilous. A Latinism. Obs.

ver'nage (vûr'nĭj), n. [OF., fr. It. vernaccia.] A kind of Italian wine; vernaccia. Obs.

ver'nal·ly, adv. of VERNAL.

ver'ni·cle (vûr'nĭ·k'l), n. [OF. vernicle, veronicle.] = 1st VERONICA, 4. Obs.

ver'nine (vûr'nēn; -nĭn; 157). n Also -nin. Chem. = GUANOBINE vernish. † VARNISH.

N O P Q R S T U V

imprint of his countenance; Veronica is perh. fr. Gr. Beronikē, Berenikē, Berenice, also the name of a town. Cf. VARNISH.] 1. The name of the woman who, according to legend, wiped the sweat from the face of Christ as he was on the way to Calvary. See Ety., above.
2. Feminine proper name.
3. [sometimes not cap.] A representation of the face of Christ on the alleged handkerchief of Saint Veronica, preserved at Rome; hence, a representation of this portrait, or a similar representation of Christ's face. Cf. SUDARIUM.
4. [sometimes not cap.] The handkerchief or cloth belonging to Saint Veronica (see def. 1, above).

Ve·ron'i·ca (vĕ·rŏn'ĭ·kȧ), n. [NL., fr. the name of the saint. See 1st VERONICA.] Bot. A large genus of herbs, and sometimes shrubs or trees (family Scrophulariaceae), of wide distribution; the speedwells. They have small pink, white, blue, or purple, flowers with a 4-lobed, rotate corolla, two stamens, and a compressed capsule. Several species, as V. officinalis and V. serpyllifolia, are almost cosmopolitan weeds; a few, esp. certain New Zealand shrubs, are cultivated.

Ve·ron'i·cel'la (vĕ·rŏn'ĭ·sĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., dim. of VERONICA.] Zool. A genus of sluglike, pulmonate gastropods having the body covered by a thick coriaceous mantle beneath which the head may be retracted. It constitutes a family, Ve·ron'i·cel'li·dae (-ĭ·dē).

Ver'pa (vûr'pȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. verpa penis.] Bot. A genus of sac fungi (family Helvellaceae) with a bell-shaped cap attached only at the top of the stipe. V. bohemica is a common edible species.

verre (F. vâr), n. [F.] Glass; a glass vessel. Obs. as Eng.

ver'rel (vĕr'ĕl), n. Also ver'rell. [See FERRULE.] A ferrule. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

ver·ric'u·late (vĕ·rĭk'ū·lāt), ver·ric'u·lat'ed (-lā'tĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [L. verriculum a net, seine.] Zool. Having verricules.

ver'ri·cule (vĕr'ĭ·kūl), n. [L. verriculum net.] Zool. A close tuft of nearly parallel upright hairs, bristles, or other slender filaments.

ver·ru'ca (vĕ·rōō'kȧ), n.; pl. -CAE (-sē). [L. Cf. VERRUGAS.] a Med. A wart. b Zool. A wartlike elevation on a surface; specif., a large tubercle bearing a tuft of bristles or spines in certain caterpillars.

‖ver·ru'ca a·cu'mi·na'ta (ȧ·kū'mĭ·nā'tȧ). [NL. Cf. ACUMINATE.] Med. A pointed, inflammatory, wartlike growth sometimes occurring around the external genital organs in gonorrhea.

ver'ru·ca'no (vĕr'ōō·kā'nō), n. [It., fr. Mt. Verruca near Pisa, Italy.] Geol. A stratified rock in the Alps, the age of which is not definitely known. The strata are Carboniferous in part, but the series appears to represent a peculiar local phase of deposition persisting through more than one period.

‖ver·ru'ca pe·ru'vi·a'na (vĕ·rōō'kȧ pĕ·rōō'vĭ·ā'nȧ). [NL.] = VERRUGA PERUANA.

Ver'ru·ca'ri·a (vĕr'ōō·kā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [L., a plant that drives away warts, fr. verruca wart.] Bot. A genus of chiefly rock-inhabiting crustaceous lichens, typifying the family Ver'ru·ca'ri·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē-ē), and having small immersed globular apothecia.

ver'ru·car'i·a'ceous (-kâr'ĭ·ā'shŭs), ver'ru·car'i·ine (-kâr'ĭ·ĭn; -īn), ver'ru·car'i·oid (-oid), adj. Bot. Pertaining to, or characteristic of, the genus Verrucaria, or the family of which it is the type.

ver'ru·cat'ed (vĕr'ōō·kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Zool. Having small wartlike protuberances.

verruci-. A combining form for verruca, as in ver'ru·cif'er·ous, ver·ru'ci·form.

ver'ru·cose (vĕr'ōō·kōs), adj. [L. verrucosus, fr. verruca wart.] Covered with wartlike elevations; warty; as, a verrucose capsule. — ver'ru·cose·ness, n.

ver'ru·co'sis (-kō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. L. verruca wart + -osis.] Plant Pathol. Citrus scab.

ver'ru·cos'i·ty (-kŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Med. Condition of being covered with warts; also, a wart.

ver'ru·cous (vĕr'ōō·kŭs), adj. Med. a Verrucose. b Of, pertaining to, characterized by, or like, a wart or warts.

ver·ru'cu·lose (vĕ·rōō'kū·lōs), adj. [NL. verruculosus, fr. L. verrucula, dim. of verruca wart.] Minutely verrucose.

ver·ru'ga (vĕ·rōō'gȧ), n. [Sp.] Med. a A wart. b Verruga peruana.

‖ver·ru'ga pe·rua'na (vĕr·rōō'gä pā·rwā'nä). [Sp., Peruvian wart.] Med. An infectious skin disease endemic in the Peruvian Andes, characterized by warty nodules tending to ulcerate and bleed, and believed to be caused by the same microbe as Oroya fever, of which it may be a phase.

ver·ru'gas (vĕ·rōō'gȧz), n. pl. [Sp., warts. Cf. VERRUCA.] Med. Verruga peruana.

ver'sa·ble (vûr'sȧ·b'l), adj. [L. versabilis. Cf. VERSATILE.] Capable of being turned. Rare. — ver'sa·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), ver'sa·ble·ness, n. Rare.

‖ver sa'crum (vûr sā'krŭm). [L.] Rom. Relig. Among the ancient Italian peoples, a special offering of the firstlings of the spring, usually to fulfill a vow made in distress. It sometimes involved the going forth as colonists (when they were grown) of all children born in the sacred season.

ver'sant (vûr'sȧnt), n. [F.] The slope of a side of a mountain chain; hence, general slope of a country; inclination.

ver'sant (vûr'sȧnt), adj. [L. versans, pres. part. of versari to dwell, be situated, be occupied, passive of versare to turn. See VERSATILE.] 1. Concerned as a matter of interest; mentally engaged or occupied.
2. Versed or skilled, as from practice or experience.
3. Conversant; acquainted.

ver'sate (-sāt), v. t. [L. versatus, past part. See VERSANT, adj.] To turn; revolve. Rare.

ver'sa·tile (-sȧ·tĭl; -tīl; see -ILE), adj. [F. or L.; F. versatile, fr. L. versatilis, fr. versare to turn around, v. freq. of vertere. See VERSION.] 1. Capable of being turned round. Now Rare.
2. Liable to be turned in opinion; changeable; variable; unsteady; inconstant; as, a versatile disposition. Now Rare.
3. Turning with ease from one thing to another; having aptitude for new tasks, or facility in various subjects; many-sided; as, versatile genius.
The quick and versatile [Charles] Montagu. Macaulay.

Versatile Anthers of Passionflower.

4. Bot. Attached at or near the middle, so as to swing freely; as, a versatile anther.
5. Zool. a Capable of turning forward or backward; reversible; as, a versatile toe of a bird. b Capable of moving laterally and up and down, as antennae.
— ver'sa·tile·ly, adv. — ver'sa·tile·ness, n.

ver'sa·til'i·ty (vûr'sȧ·tĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [Cf. F. versatilité.] Quality or state of being versatile; as: a Inconstancy; fickleness. b Ability along various lines of effort; many-sidedness. c Diversity of character.

ver·sa'tion (vûr·sā'shŭn), n. A turning; winding.

ver'sa·tive (vûr'sȧ·tĭv), adj. Adaptable; versatile.

‖vers' de so'cié'té' (vâr' dĕ sō'syā'tā'). [F.] Society verse.

verse (vûrs), n. [ME. vers, fers, fr. AS. fers, combined with F. vers (in OF. also, a division of a poem, a stanza); both fr. L. versus a furrow, a row, a line in writing, and, in poetry, a verse, fr. vertere, versum, to turn, to turn round. See VERSION.] 1. Pros. a A line of poetry whose length and inner structure are prescribed, usually, by a determined metrical or rhythmical pattern (as iambic pentameter), but in some cases, as in cadenced verse, by its rhythmical or metrical relation to other lines in the same poem, stanza, or the like; a rhythmical sequence of words having, commonly, a definite number of metrical feet, of syllables, or of stresses; as, a stanza of eight verses; to scan a verse; the hexameter verses of Evangeline. b Metrical writing; that which is composed in measured rhythms; hence, poetry; a poem; as, verse excels prose in emotional power; Lamb's verse is inferior to his essays. "This verse be thine." Pope. c Metrical structure or form; versification; type of meter; as, the history of English verse; heroic verse.
2. A short division of any composition; specif., a stanza; a stave; as, a hymn of four verses. See Syn., below.
3. Bib. One of the short divisions of the chapters in the Old and New Testaments. The author of the division of the Old Testament into verses is not known. The New Testament was first divided into verses by Robert Stephens [or Estienne], a French printer, in an edition printed at Geneva, in 1551.
4. Eccl. = VERSICLE a.
5. Music. A portion of an anthem or service to be performed by a single voice to each part.
Syn. — VERSE, STANZA. A VERSE is properly a single metrical line; a STANZA is a combination or arrangement (commonly recurrent) of verses. The popular use of verse in the sense of stanza is contrary to the best usage.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

verse-commemorated	versemaking	verse-prose, adj.
versecraft	versemongering	versesmith versemaker	versemongery verse, adj. Of, pertaining to, or written in, verse.

verse, v. t. To tell in verse, or poetry; to celebrate in poetry. — v. i. To make verse; to write poetry. verse, v. t. & i. [OF. verser, fr. L. versare.] 1. To turn; revolve; consider. Obs.
2 To familiarize, or to become familiar, by intimate association, study, reading, or the like; as, he versed himself thoroughly in the text.
3. [Perh. a different word.] To practice fraud (on); to cheat. Obs.

ver'sé' (vĕr'sā'), adj. [F., past part. of verser to turn.] = RENVERSE.

verse anthem. Eng. Ch. Music. An anthem for solo voices, as distinguished from a full anthem, for chorus. Also, an anthem including a verse or a passage for solo voices.

versed (vûrst), adj. [Cf. F. versé, L. versatus, past part. of versari, versare. See VERSANT, adj.] Acquainted or familiar, from experience, study, practice, etc.; skilled; practiced.
Deep versed in books and shallow in himself. Milton.
Syn. — See CONVERSANT.
Ant. — Unacquainted, unfamiliar.

versed, adj. [L. versus turned, past part. of vertere. See 1st VERSED.] Math. Turned.

versed cosine. Math. The versed sine of the complementary angle.

versed sine. Math. That part of the diameter of a unit circle between the foot of the sine and the arc; the remainder on subtracting the cosine of an angle from unity. See TRIGONOMETRIC FUNCTION. b Naval Arch. = CURVE OF VERSED SINES.

verse form. A fixed metrical pattern.

verse'man (vûrs'mȧn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A versemonger. — verse'man·ship, n.

verse'mon'ger (vûrs'mŭng'gĕr), n. A writer of verses; esp., a writer of commonplace poetry; a poetaster.

vers'er (vûr'sĕr), n. A versifier. Rare.

vers'er, n. [From 4th VERSE, 3.] A cheat; a swindler.

verse service. Eng. Ch. Music. A service sung by solo voices. Cf. VERSE ANTHEM.

vers'et (vûr'sĕt; -sĭt; vûr·sĕt'; 119), n. [F.] 1. A verse, esp. one from the Bible, the Koran, or some book regarded as holy; a versicle. Obs.
He sat . . . with an open Koran on his knees and chanted the versets. Joseph Conrad.
2. Music. A short interlude or prelude for the organ.

verse'wright' (vûrs'rīt'), n. A versifier; poet; poetaster; — used in depreciation. Rare.

ver'si·cle (vûr'sĭ·k'l), n. [L. versiculus, dim. of versus. See VERSE.] A little verse; specif.: a Liturgies (1) A short verse or sentence said or sung in public worship by the priest or minister, and followed by a response from the people; — indicated by the sign ℣. (2) Anglican Churches. A suffrage taken from the Psalms. b A line of poetry. c Slightingly, a short poem.

ver'si·cler (-klĕr), n. A writer of versicles; a poetaster. R.

ver'si·col'or, -col'our (-kŭl'ĕr), adj. [L. versicolor, fr. versare to change + color color.] 1. Having various colors; variegated; parti-colored; as, versicolor flowers.
2. Changeable in color; chameleonlike; iridescent; as, versicolor silk; antique versicolor glass.

ver·sic'u·lar (vûr·sĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. [See VERSICLE.] Of or pertaining to verses, esp. verses of a sacred book as the Bible; designating distinct divisions of a writing.

ver'si·cule (vûr'sĭ·kūl), n. [F.] A short poem; a versicle. R.

‖ver·si'cu·lus (vĕr·sĭk'ū·lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [L.] A versicle.

‖ver·sie'ra (vĕr·syā'rȧ), n. See 1st WITCH, 5.

ver'si·fi'a·ble (vûr'sĭ·fī'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being expressed in verse or poetry. Rare.

ver'si·fi·as'ter (vûr'sĭ·fĭ·ăs'tĕr), n. [See 2d -ASTER.] An inferior versifier.

ver'si·fi·ca'tion (vûr'sĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [L. versificatio; cf. F. versification.] 1. a The making of verses; the writing of poetry; the act, art, or practice, of metrical composition; as, a poet's new style in versification. b Rare. That which is made in verse; a set of verses.
2. a Metrical structure; methods of making verses; prosody; as, an authority on French versification. b Particular metrical structure or style; as, the fluidity of Pope's versification.

ver'si·fi·ca'tor (vûr'sĭ·fĭ·kā'tĕr), n. [L.] A versifier. Rare.

ver'si·fi·ca'to·ry (vûr'sĭ·fĭ·kā'tĕr·ĭ), adj. Pertaining to versifying. Rare.

ver'si·fi·ca'trix (vûr'sĭ·fĭ·kā'trĭks), n. A female versifier.

ver'si·fi'er (vûr'sĭ·fī'ĕr), n. 1. One who versifies, or makes verses; commonly, a poetaster; as, not every versifier is a poet.
2. One who converts into verse; esp., one who versifies prose; as, Dr. Watts was a versifier of the Psalms.

ver'si·form (vûr'sĭ·fôrm), adj. [LL. versiformis. Cf. VERSION.] Varied or varying in form.

ver'si·fy (-fī), v.; -FIED (-fĭd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [ME. versifien, fr. OF. versifier, fr. L. versificare, fr. versus a verse + -ficare to make. See VERSE; -FY.] Intransitive: To make verses; to write verse, or poetry.
I'll versify in spite, and do my best. Dryden.
—, Transitive: 1. To turn into verse; esp., to turn from prose form to verse form; to render into metrical form; as, to versify the Psalms. Chaucer.
2. To relate or describe in verse; to compose in verse.
I'll versify the truth, not poetize. Daniel.

ver·sil'o·quy (vĕr·sĭl'ō·kwĭ), n. [L. versus verse + loqui to speak.] An utterance or speaking in verse. Rare.

ver'sion (vûr'shŭn; in senses 3 & 5 commonly -zhŭn in U. S.), n. [F., fr. ML. versio, fr. L. vertere, versum, to turn, to change, to translate. See WORTH to become; cf. ADVERTISE, AVERSE, CONTROVERSY, CONVERT, DIVERS, INVERT, OBVERSE, PERVERT, PROSE, REVERT, SUBVERT, SUZERAIN, UNIVERSITY, VERSATILE, VERSE, VERTEBRA, VERTIGO, VORTEX.] 1. A change of form, direction, or the like; transformation; conversion; turning. Obs.
The version of air into water. Bacon.
2. Act of translating from one language into another; translation, as of a word, a passage, a book.
3. A translation; that which is rendered from another language; specif., a translation or rendering of the Bible or a part of it. The most important of modern versions of the Old and New Testaments are mentioned under BIBLE. Important ancient versions are: Alexandrian version. The Septuagint. — Aramaic versions, including the Targums, and others of minor importance. — Armenian version (whole Bible). The Old Testament from the Septuagint, the New Testament from the Syriac about 300 A.D., revised from the Greek about 400. — Coptic versions (whole Bible). The Old Testament from the Septuagint, the New Testament from the Greek. There are three forms, Sahidic, Bohairic, and Middle Egyptian, of which the Sahidic goes back to about 200 A.D. — Ethiopic, or Geez, version (whole Bible), from the 4th century. In its present form it is corrupted by the Arabic. There are traces of a Syriac basis. — Georgian version (whole Bible), based on the Syriac, revised from the Greek about the 10th century. — Gothic version (whole Bible), completed about 400 A.D., largely made by Bishop Ulfilas. Only fragments are extant. — Greek versions, including the Septuagint (see Septuagint, below) and others; as: Aquila's version (Old Testament), in Greek, done in the 2d century by one Aquila of Pontus. Symmachus's version (Old Testament), in Greek, probably done in the 2d century A.D. Who Symmachus was is uncertain. — Italic version (whole Bible). The Old Latin text or version revised by Jerome, and finally superseded by his new translation, the Vulgate. It is often called Itala, from a passage in Augustine (De Doct. Christ., II.15), where he mentions a text or translation under that name. But just what Augustine referred to is not agreed. See Latin versions, below. — Latin versions, including not only the Vulgate, but the previously existing versions, called Old Latin versions. These earlier ones have been divided into three groups, the African, European, and Italian, of which the African is supposed to be the earliest, and the European a later revision or a translation, and the Italian a revision of this — Peshitta. See PESHITTA, 1; cf. Syriac versions, below. — Samaritan Pentateuch. The Hebrew text as preserved by the Samaritans from the time when they accepted the Pentateuch, about 433 B.C. The Samaritan Targum is a translation of this into the Samaritan dialect made in the 2d century A.D. — Septuagint (Old Testament), in Greek, begun probably in the 3d century B.C., with the various versions that are based upon it. See SEPTUAGINT. — Serampore versions. Translations of the New Testament into various languages by William Carey and his associates at Serampore, India, in which the Greek words for baptize, baptism, etc., were rendered by words meaning immerse, immersion, etc. — Slavonic versions (whole Bible), begun about 864, found in both the Cyrillic and the Glagolitic alphabets. — Syriac versions, including: Tatian's Diatessaron (see DIATESSARON, 3), a harmony of the four gospels in the 2d century. The Old Syriac or Separated Gospels (sometimes called the Evangelion da Mepharreshe), that is, not a harmony, about 200 A.D. known in the Curetonian gospels and the Sinai palimpsest. The Peshitta (which see). Philoxenian version, or Versio Philoxeniana (New Testament, and parts of Old Testament), undertaken in 508 by Philoxenus, bishop of Mabbogh. Harclean version or Versio Harklensis (New Testament), a revision of the Philoxenian version made at Alexandria by Thomas of Harkel (Heraclea) about 616. Palestinian version (New Testament), a 6th-century version in the vernacular Aramaic of Palestine. — The Targums. See TARGUM. — Vulgate, or Latin Version, of the early part of the 5th century. See VULGATE, n., 1.
4. Specif., a translation into Latin prose. Scot.
5. An account or description from a particular point of view, esp. as contrasted with another account; as, he gave quite a different version of the affair.
6. a Med. A condition of the uterus in which its axis is deflected from its normal position without being bent upon itself. See ANTEVERSION, RETROVERSION, 2. b Obstet. Act of turning the fetus in the uterus to aid delivery.
Syn. — See PARAPHRASE.

ver'sion, v. t. To make a version, or translation, of.

ver'sion·al (-ŭl), adj. Of or pertaining to a version, or translation.

version book. An exercise book; a notebook. R. L. Stevenson.

ver'sion·ist (-ĭst), n. Also ver'sion·er (-ĕr). a One who makes a version; a translator. b One who favors some particular version, as of the Scriptures.

ver'sion·ize (-īz), v. t. To translate; paraphrase. Rare.

ve·ron'ique (vĕ·rŏn'ĭk), n. [F. véronique.] = 1st VERONICA, 4. Obs.

verquere, n. [D. verkeeren to turn, pervert, play at tables, verkeerspel a game of tables.] An old game of tables. Obs.

ver'ra (vĕr'ȧ). Scot. var. of VERY.

verray. † VERY.

ver'ry (vĕr'ĭ). Her. Var. of VAIRÉ.

Ver'sailles' (vĕr'sĭ'y'; Eng. vĕr·sālz'), n. See TREATY, Table.

ver'sal (vûr'sȧl), adj. Short for UNIVERSAL; also, single; as, not a versal thing. Colloq. Obs.

ver'sa·til. Versatile. Ref. Sp.

ver·sat'i·lous, adj. Versatile. Obs.

verse'-col'ored, -col'oured, adj. Versicolor. Obs.

verse'less, adj. See -LESS.

verse'let, n. See -LET, dim.

vers·ette' (vûr·sĕt'). Var. of VERSET, 2.

verse'ward (vûrs'wĕrd), adv. See -WARD.

ver'si·cl. Versicle. Ref. Sp.

ver'si·col'or·ate, adj., ver'si·col'ored, or -col'oured, adj., ver'si·col'or·ous, adj. = VERSICOLOR.

ver'sine (vûr'sĭn), n. Also ver'sin (-sĭn). Math. = VERSED SINE a.

ver·sine' (vĕr·zēn'), n. = VERZINO. Obs.

‖Ver'si·o Hark·len'sis (vûr'·bĭ ō härk·lĕn'sĭs). [ML.] See VERSION, 3.

ver'sio·ner, n. See VERSIONIST

‖Ver'si·o Phi'lox·e'ni·a'na (fĭl' ŏk·sē'nĭ·ā'nȧ). [LL.] See VERSION, 3.

ver'si·pel (vûr'sĭ·pĕl), n. [L. versipellis, lit., changing the skin.] A creature capable of changing from one form to another, as a werewolf.

vers' li'bre (vâr' lē'br'). [F.] Literally, free verse (see FREE, adj.); rhythmical, as distinguished from metrical, verse; specif., poetry written by members of a school of poets, both European and American, who unite in seeking freedom from metrical conventions and restrictions, the preservation of natural and varied speech rhythms in poetry, and the development of new forms of poetic expression or new kinds of rhythm, as cadence (see CADENCE 7).

vers' li'brist (vâr' lē'brĭst), or ‖vers' li'briste' (lē'brēst'). [F. vers-libriste.] A writer of vers libre.

ver'so (vûr'sō), n.; pl. -SOS (-sōz). [L., abl. of versus, past part. of vertere to turn; cf. F. verso.] 1. The reverse, or left-hand, page of a book or a folded sheet of paper; — opposed to recto.
2. The back cover of a book; — opposed to recto.
3. The reverse, as of a coin; — opposed to obverse.

ver'sor (vûr'sôr) n. [NL., fr. L. vertere, versum, to turn. See VERSION.] Geom. The turning factor of a quaternion; — denoted by U placed before the quaternion. The change of one vector into another is considered in quaternions as made up of two operations: 1st, the rotation of the first vector so that it shall be parallel to the second; 2d, the change of length so that the first vector shall equal the second. That which expresses in amount and direction the first operation is a versor, and is denoted geometrically by a line at right angles to the plane in which the rotation takes place, and proportioned in length to the amount of rotation. That which expresses the second operation is a tensor. Every quaternion, expressing such a total operation, is the product of one and only one such tensor by one and only one such versor and a versor is, therefore, a quaternion whose tensor is unity. See QUATERNION, 5.

verst (vûrst; vĕrst), n. Also ver·sta' (vĕr·stä'), verste (vûrst; vĕrst). [F., G., and Russ.; F. verste, G. werst, fr. Russ. versta verst, row, line, age of life; akin to OSlav. vrŭsta age of life, L. versus furrow, row, line. See VERSE.] A Russian measure of length. See MEASURE, Table.

‖Ver·stand' (fĕr·shtänt'), n. [G.] Ger. Philos. The understanding or faculty of concepts (see BEGRIFF); — distinguished from Vernunft. See UNDERSTANDING, n., 3.

ver'su·al (vûr'shoō·ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to, or of the nature of, a verse or verses, esp. of the Bible.

ver'sus (vûr'sŭs), prep. [L., toward, turned in the direction of, fr. vertere, versum, to turn. See VERSION.] Against; — used in legal or in sporting language; as, John Doe versus Richard Roe; hence, as considered in contrast to or as the alternative of; as, free trade versus protection. Abbr., v. or vs.

vert (vûrt), n. [OF., green, fr. L. viridis. See VERDANT; cf. VERD.] 1 Eng. Forest Law. a Everything that grows, and bears a green leaf, within the forest, esp. great and thick coverts. b The right or privilege of cutting growing wood, or, Rare, of pasturing animals in a forest. Over vert is great woods, and nether vert is the underwoods; special vert consisted of all trees growing in the king's own woods within the forest, and in other woods all trees that bore fruit on which deer fed.
2. Her. The color green. See TINCTURE, n., 5.

Vert, 2.

vert (vûrt), n. [From CONVERT, PERVERT.] One who changes his religious or political affiliation; — used esp. of Anglicans who become Roman Catholics. Colloq., Eng. — v. i. To be or become a "vert." Colloq., Eng.

vert, v. t. & i. [L. vertere. See VERSION.] To turn or bend from one direction to another.

vert, v. i. [See 1st VERT.] To go to harbor among fern or other vert; — said of a buck. Obs.

vertebr-. = VERTEBRO-, as in ver'te·brec'to·my.

ver'te·bra (vûr'tē·brä), n.; pl. -BRAE (-brē), -BRAS (-bräz). [L. vertebra, fr. vertere to turn, change. See VERSION.] 1. Anat. & Zool. One of the bony or (in primitive or young animals) more or less cartilaginous segments composing the spinal column or backbone. In some of the lower vertebrates each vertebra consists of several distinct elements or pieces which never become united. In the higher vertebrates a typical vertebra has a short, more or less cylindrical body or centrum, whose ends articulate by means of disks or pads of elastic fibrous or cartilaginous tissue with the centra of the adjacent vertebrae. From the dorsal surface of the centrum a bony arch (the neural arch) arises, and forms, when the vertebrae are in place, part of the spinal canal through which the spinal cord runs. Two anterior (in man often called superior) and two posterior (inferior in man) articular processes project from the neural arch and articulate with the articular processes of the adjacent vertebrae. A median dorsal spinous process, or neural spine, projects from the summit of the neural arch, and a transverse process (or diapophysis) from each side of it. See TRANSVERSE PROCESS. Various additional processes, also articular facets for the ribs, may be present. Other bony elements (esp. short or rudimentary ribs, or, in the caudal region, hemal arches or chevron bones) take part in the formation of some of the vertebrae of most animals. Cf. SPINAL COLUMN.

Vertebrae of Man.
A Sixth Dorsal Vertebra seen from above. B The same from the right side. C Third Lumbar Vertebra from above. D The same from the right side. a Centrum, or Body; b Pedicle forming the Side of the Neural Arch; c Lamina forming the Top of the Neural Arch; d Spinal Foramen; e Spinous Process; f Transverse Process; g Anterior Articular Process; g' Posterior Articular Process; h Facet for Head of Rib; i Facet for Tubercle of Rib; k Metapophysis; l Anapophysis.

2. Zool. One of the series of ossicles, resembling the centrum of a vertebra, which form the axis of the arm in most ophiurans.
3. pl. Loosely, the spinal column; the backbone.

ver'te·bral (vûr'tē·brăl), adj. [NL. vertebralis.] Anat. & Zool. a Of or pertaining to a vertebra, vertebrae, or the vertebral column; spinal. b Composed of, or having, vertebrae.

ver'te·bral, n. Anat. & Zool. a A vertebral artery or vein. b A vertebral element, plate, etc. c One of the median dorsal plates in the carapace of a turtle.

vertebral aponeurosis. Anat. A fascia of the back, separating the muscles which hold erect the spinal column and head from those which move the arm and shoulders. It extends from the spinous processes to the angles of the ribs.

vertebral artery. Anat. A large branch of the subclavian artery which ascends through the foramina in the transverse processes of each of the cervical vertebrae (except the last one or two), and, entering the cranium through the foramen magnum, unites with its fellow of the opposite side to form the basilar artery.

vertebral canal. Anat. & Zool. The spinal canal.

ver'te·bra·less, adj. Lacking a vertebra or vertebrae.

vertebral column. The spinal column; the backbone.

vertebral groove. a Anat. The wide furrow on either side of the spinous processes of the vertebrae. b Embryol. The neural groove. See NEURAL PLATE.

ver'te·bral·ly, adv. Anat. Toward, upon, or with, a vertebra or vertebrae; — disting. from intervertebrally.

vertebral plate. a Embryol. In most embryos of craniate vertebrates, the part of the mesoblast near the notochord. It forms the primitive segments. b Zool. A neural plate (of a turtle).

vertebral ribs. Anat. The floating ribs.

vertebral vein. Anat. A tributary of the innominate vein formed by the union of branches which originate in the occipital region and form a plexus about the vertebral artery in its passage through the foramina of the cervical vertebrae. It receives various branches, the largest being the anterior vertebral and posterior vertebral, which join it near its termination.

‖ver'te·bra pro'mi·nens (vûr'tē·brä prŏm'ĭ·nĕnz). [L., prominens jutting out.] Anat. The seventh cervical vertebra; — so called from its long spinous process.

Ver'te·bra'ri·a (vûr'tē·brā'rĭ·ä), n. [NL. See VERTEBRA.] Paleontol. A genus of plants, based upon rootlike fossil remains of Triassic age that resemble a vertebral column.

ver'te·brar·te'ri·al (-brär·tēr'ĭ·ăl), adj. Anat. Of or pert. to a vertebra or vertebrae and an artery; — said of the foramina in the transverse processes of cervical vertebrae and of the canal which they form for the vertebral vessels.

Ver'te·bra'ta (-brā'tä), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A comprehensive division of animals, containing all those with a backbone, or segmented spinal column (which is represented in the embryo by a notochord), together with a few obviously related but more primitive forms in which the backbone is represented by a notochord throughout life. It contains the mammals (including man), birds, reptiles, amphibians, fishes, elasmobranchs and cyclostomes, and, in some classifications, the lancelets, and, though formerly ranked as a phylum, or even contrasted with all other animals (Invertebrata) collectively, is now usually made a subphylum of the only slightly more comprehensive phylum Chordata. The body of a typical vertebrate is somewhat elongate and bilaterally symmetrical externally, but not with respect to all the internal organs. The head at the anterior end bears the mouth and chief sense organs. The framework of the body and limbs is an internal skeleton which consists of articulated bones and cartilages, of which the spinal column, or backbone, in the median dorsal part of the body, forms the main axis. The main nerve cord is peculiar in being tubular. It lies dorsal to the axis of the spinal column and is enlarged within the head to form the brain. The body cavity containing most of the viscera is ventrally situated. Respiration in strictly aquatic forms is by gills in the walls of the pharynx, which is pierced by clefts for the circulation of water. Terrestrial forms breathe by lungs communicating with the pharynx, but the embryos of all have vestiges of gill apparatus, indicating descent from aquatic forms. Never more than two pairs of limbs are present. These are variously developed as legs, wings, or fins, according to the habits of the animal. The Vertebrata include the most highly organized as well as the largest animals, and the average size of the members is comparatively large. The group originated very early, and was already well differentiated in the Ordovician, but its earliest members were doubtless wormlike animals without hard parts, and are not likely to be found fossilized. Also, in a broader sense, equiv. to Chordata.

ver'te·brate (vûr'tē·brāt; 88), adj. [L. vertebratus.] 1. Having a backbone, or spinal column; also, of or pertaining to the Vertebrata; characteristic of or found in an animal belonging to the Vertebrata.
2. Figuratively having a strong framework like or suggesting vertebrae; hence, strongly linked together; well-knit; as, a vertebrate piece of composition.

ver'te·brate, n. Zool. One of the Vertebrata.

ver'te·brate (-brāt), v. t. To give a backbone or firmness to; to link together in a manner suggesting vertebrae. Rare.

ver'te·brat'ed (-brāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. a Vertebrate. b Composed of, or having, vertebrae or segments resembling vertebrae.

ver'te·bra'tion (-brā'shŭn), n. 1. Segmentation into vertebrae or divisions like vertebrae.
2. Figuratively, strength as from a firm spinal column; firmness.

ver'te·bri·form' (vûr'tē·brĭ·fôrm'), adj. Formed or shaped like a vertebra. Rare.

ver'te·bro- (vûr'tē·brō-), vertebr-. A combining form of vertebra, denoting: a The vertebrae, as in ver'te·brod'y·mus. See -DYMUS. b Vertebral and; — in adjectives, as in:

vertebroarterial	vertebrocostal	vertebromammary
vertebrobasilar	vertebrofemoral	vertebrosacral vertebrochondral	vertebroiliac	vertebrosternal ver'tex (vûr'tĕks), n.; pl. VERTEXES (-tĕk·sĕz; -sĭz; 119), VERTICES (-tĭ·sēz). [L. vertex, -icis, a whirl, the pole of the heavens, top of the head, top, summit, fr. vertere to turn. See VERSION; cf. VERTICAL, VERTICIL, VORTEX.]

1. The principal or highest point; top; summit; apex.
2. Anat. & Zool. The top of the head; specif., in insects, the upper part of the head in front above the antennae and between the compound eyes.
3. Anthropom. The highest median point on the head in a natural position.
4. Astron. a The zenith. b That point on the limb of a celestial body nearest the zenith. c A point on the celestial sphere toward which star streaming is directed.
5. Craniom. The highest point on the skull.
6. Math. In any figure having a base, the point opposite to, and farthest from, the base; the top; the terminating point of some particular line or lines in a figure or a curve, as where the sides of an angle meet, or where a curve (or surface) meets its axis. The principal vertex of a conic section is, in the parabola, the vertex of the axis; in the ellipse, either end of either axis, usually the left-hand vertex of the transverse axis; in the hyperbola, either vertex, usually the right-hand vertex of the transverse axis. The vertex of a pencil of lines is the point through which every line of the pencil passes.
Syn. — See CULMINATION.

ver'ti·ble (vûr'tĭ·b'l), adj. [ML. vertibilis, fr. L. vertere to turn.] That can be turned. — ver'ti·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), ver'ti·ble·ness, n.

ver'ti·cal (vûr'tĭ·kăl), adj. [F. or ML.; F. vertical, fr. ML. verticalis, fr. vertex the pole, top. See VERTEX.]
1. Of or pertaining to the vertex; situated at the vertex, or highest point; directly overhead, or in the zenith.
2. Marking the time or place of highest eminence, excellence, or the like. Obs.
3. Perpendicular to the plane of the horizon; upright; plumb; as, a vertical line.
4. Anat. & Zool. a Pert. to, or on, the vertex of the head. b Directed upward or downward at a right angle to the plane of the body or part or the surface of the earth.
5. Bot. a Upright; perpendicular; at right angles to the plane of the supporting surface. b In the direction of the axis; lengthwise.
6. Econ. Relating to the co-ordination under a single business unit of industries along successive stages in the production of an article or articles. See VERTICAL COMBINATION.
Syn. — VERTICAL, PERPENDICULAR, PLUMB. Vertical and perpendicular agree in designating that which is situated at right angles to the plane of the horizon. A VERTICAL line is one on which, if produced, the zenith lies; a PERPENDICULAR line is one which, if produced, passes through the center of the earth; vertical often suggests direction upward, and is the more abstract term; perpendicular often suggests direction downward, and applies more frequently to concrete things; but the words are somewhat freely interchangeable. PLUMB is more familiar, or colloq., and denotes accordance with the direction of a plumb line.
Ant. — Horizontal, cross; oblique.

ver'ti·cal (vûr'tĭ·kăl), n. 1. A vertical line, plane, or circle; esp., a perpendicular.
2. The vertex; the height or summit; acme. Obs.
3. A vertical member in a truss.

ver'ti·cal, v. t.; VER'TI·CALED, -CALLED (-kăld); VER'TI·CAL·ING, -CAL·LING (-kăl·ĭng). To draw or trace in a vertical line or lines.

> Turrets verticaled on gold! Christopher Morley.

vertical angle. a Astron. & Geod. An angle measured on a vertical circle, called an angle of elevation, or altitude, when reckoned from the horizon upward, and of depression, when downward below the horizon. b Math. Either of two angles lying on the opposite sides of two intersecting lines or planes.

vertical anthers. Bot. Anthers which are basifixed at the apexes of the filaments.

vertical axis. See GYROSCOPE.

vertical boiler. A cylindrical boiler set on end, often like the Scotch marine boiler.

vertical circle. 1. Astron. a Any great circle of the celestial sphere whose plane is perpendicular to that of the horizon; an azimuth circle. b See CIRCLE, n., 12.
2. Geod. A theodolite having a finely divided circle on its horizontal axis, for measuring altitudes.

vertical combination. Also vertical amalgamation, consolidation, merger, or trust. Com. A combination, amalgamation, etc., of concerns engaged in different stages of manufacture or distribution of a product in its conversion from raw to finished material, as a consolidation of an iron ore mining company, an ore transport company, an iron and steel manufacturing concern, and a selling agency. Cf. HORIZONTAL COMBINATION; INTEGRATED TRUST.

vertical composition. Music. = VERTICAL STRUCTURE.

vertical danger angle. See DANGER ANGLE.

vertical diplopia. See DIPLOPIA.

vertical engine. An engine in which the piston moves vertically up and down, esp. one in which the crankshaft is below the cylinder.

vertical escapement. Horol. See ESCAPEMENT, 3.

vertical fault. Geol. See FAULT.

vertical file. A file the records of which are placed upright, or on edge.

vertical fins. Zool. The median fins of a fish; the dorsal, anal, and caudal fins., vertical fire. Gun. High-angle fire;—erroneously so called.

vertical gradient. Meteorol. The sign (±) and rate of change of any meteorological element, such as temperature, with increase of height.

vertical grain. Quarter-sawed lumber.

vertical index. Craniom. The ratio of the height of the cranium to its length, usually expressed in hundredths of the length.

vertical interval or distance. Topog. The distance in level, expressed in feet, between two adjacent contours on a map; — called also contour interval. See CONTOUR MAP.

ver'ti·cal·ism (vûr'tĭ·kăl·ĭz'm), n. Quality or condition of being vertical, or perpendicular; in music, having the nature of vertical structure (see VERTICAL STRUCTURE).

ver'ti·cal'i·ty (-kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being vertical; perpendicularity.

vertical keel. See FLAT KEEL, KEELSON b.

vertical leaves. Bot. Leaves which present their edges to the earth and the sky, and their faces to the horizon, as those of most Australian eucalypts.

vertical lift bridge. See LIFT BRIDGE; BRIDGE, Illust.

ver'ti·cal-lift' mow'er. Agric. Mach. A mowing machine so designed that the cutter bar can be lifted to nearly a vertical position, thus permitting the machine to pass close to an obstacle.

vertical limb. A graduated arc attached to an instrument, as a theodolite, for measuring vertical angles.

vertical line. A line perpendicular to a surface or other line considered as a base; as: a Dialing. A line perpendicular to the horizon. b Geom., Drawing, etc. A line parallel to the sides of a page or sheet, in distinction from a horizontal line, parallel to the top or bottom. c Surv. The direction of a plumb line; a line normal to the surface of still water.

---

versor of the quaternion q. See QUATERNION, 5. verst. Versed. Ref. Sp. ver'sus (vûr'sŭs), n. sing. & pl. [L.] See MEASURE, Table. ver·sute' (vĕr·sūt'), adj. [L. versutus, fr. vertere, versum, to turn.] Crafty; wily. Obs. — ver·sute'ly, adv. — ver·sute'ness, n. Both Obs. ver'su·til'o·quent (vûr'sū·tĭl'ō·kwĕnt), adj. [L. versutiloquus.] Speaking craftily. Obs. ver'su·til'o·quous (-kwĭs), adj. Talking craftily. Obs.
‖vert' an'tique' (vâr' äN'tēk'). [F.] = VERD ANTIQUE. ver'te·ber (vûr'tē·bĕr), n. [F. vertèbre.] A vertebra. Obs.
‖ver'te·bra den·ta'ta (dĕn·tā'tä). [NL. See DENTATE.] = 1st AXIS, 6 a. ver'te·brar'i·um (vûr'tē·brâr'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL. See VERTEBRA.] = SPINAL COLUMN. ver'te·bre (vûr'tē·bĕr), n. = VERTEBRA. [ON.] See NORN.
Ver'than·di (vĕr'thän·dē), n. ver'ti·cal·grained', adj. = QUARTER-SAWED.

ver'ti·cal·ly (vûr'tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. of VERTICAL.
vertical merger. A vertical combination. vertical milling machine. Mach. See MILLING MACHINE. vertical motor. Elec. See MOTOR, n., 4. vertical plane. a Projection. Any plane that passes through a vertical line. b Perspective. The plane passing through the point of sight, and perpendicular to the ground plane and to the picture.
vertical planer. Mach. = WALL PLANER. vertical plate. a See PALATINE BONE. b = FRONTAL (in reptiles). vertical sash. A sash sliding up and down. Cf. FRENCH SASH.
vertical saw. a A saw, as a muley saw, whose supporting frame moves in vertical guides. b A circular saw operating in a vertical plane.
vertical section. See SECTION, n., 3. vertical separation. See SEPARATION, n., 6. vertical shaper. Mach. See SHAPER, n., 3 a. vertical shift. Geol. In faulting, the vertical component of the shift. vertical slur. Music. The arpeggio sign; — loosely so called. See ARPEGGIO, Illust.
vertical south dial. A sundial in the vertical plane facing south, as one on the south wall of a building.
vertical structure. Music. Composition in which the successive chords are viewed vertically as to their harmonic structure; — distinguished from horizontal structure.
vertical trust. See VERTICAL COMBINATION. ver'ti·cil (vûr'tĭ·sĭl), n. [L. verticillus, dim. of vertex whirl; cf. F. verticille. See VERTEX.] 1. Bot. A circle of similar parts, as flowers or inflorescences, about the same point on the axis; a whorl.

Verticils, 1. a Verticillate Leaves of Woodruff. (¼) b Verticillate Flowers of Black Horehound.

2. Zool. A circle or whorl of hairs, spines, or other parts. R.
ver·tic'il·lar'y (vûr·tĭs'ĭ·lĕr'ĭ; -lĕr·ĭ; vûr'tĭ·sĭl'ä·rĭ), adj. [See VERTICIL.] Rotatory. Rare. ver'ti·cil·las'ter (vûr'tĭ·sĭ·lăs'·tĕr), n. [NL., fr. L. verticillus a whirl + 2d -aster.] Bot. A mixed inflorescence consisting of a pair of much-condensed, nearly sessile cymes, disposed around the axis like a true verticil. It is found in many mints (family Lamiaceae).
ver'ti·cil·las'trate (-trăt), adj. Bot. Arranged or disposed in verticillasters. ver·tic'il·late (vûr·tĭs'ĭ·lăt; vûr'tĭ·sĭl'ăt), adj. [See VERTICIL.] Bot. & Zool. Disposed in verticils; whorled; arranged in a transverse whorl or whorls like the spokes of a wheel; as, verticillate leaves; a verticillate shell. — ver·tic'il·late·ly, adv. — ver·tic'il·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n.
ver·tic'il·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Verticillate. ver'ti·cil'li·a'ceous (vûr'tĭ·sĭl'ĭ·ā'shŭs), adj. [Verticillium + -aceous.] Bot. Producing conidia on whorled conidiophores, as in fungi of the genus Verticillium. ver'ti·cil'li·ose (-sĭl'ĭ·ōs), n. [See 3d -OSE.] Plant Pathol. Any fungous disease caused by a species of Verticillium.
Ver'ti·cil'li·um (vûr'tĭ·sĭl'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. verticillus a whirl, whorl.] Bot. A genus of imperfect fungi (order Moniliales) having conidia borne singly at the apex of whorled branchlets. V. albo-atrum is a destructive parasite on various plants.
ver'ti·cil'lus (vûr'tĭ·sĭl'ŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-ī). [L., a whirl.] A verticil. ver·tic'i·ty (vûr·tĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [NL. verticitas; cf. F. verticité. See VERTEX.] 1. Quality or power of turning; revolution; rotation. Now Rare.
2. Specif., tendency to turn toward a magnetic pole, as shown by a magnetized needle.

The old window stanchions had become magnetic, proving, as he thinks, that iron acquires verticity. Walter Pater.

ver'ti·co·men'tal (vûr'tĭ·kō·mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. [See VERTEX; 1st MENTAL.] Anat. Of or pertaining to the vertex and the chin. ver'ti·cor'di·ous (-kôr'dĭ·ŭs), adj. [L. verticordia turner of hearts (epithet of Venus). See VERSION; HEART.] Turning the heart. Rare. ver·tig'i·nate (vûr·tĭj'ĭ·nāt), adj. Turned round; giddy. Rare. — v. i. (pron. -nāt). To whirl dizzily around; to twirl. Rare.
ver·tig'i·nous (vûr·tĭj'ĭ·nŭs), adj. [L. vertiginosus, fr. vertigo a whirling around, giddiness; cf. F. vertigineux. See VERTIGO.] 1. Turning round; rotary; revolving.

Some vertiginous whirl of fortune. De Quincey.

2. Affected with vertigo; giddy; dizzy; hence, vacillating; inconstant; unstable.

They [the angels] grew vertiginous, and fell. Jer. Taylor.

3. Like or of the nature of vertigo; causing, or tending to cause, dizziness.
ver'ti·go (vûr'tĭ·gō; formerly usually and still by some, as Lat., vĕr·tī'gō, or vĕr·tē'gō; 277), n.; pl. -GOES (-gōz), VERTIGINES (vĕr·tĭj'ĭ·nēz). [L., fr. vertere to turn. See VERSION.] 1. Med. Dizziness or swimming of the head; a disturbance in which objects, though stationary, appear to move in various directions, and the person affected finds it difficult to maintain an erect posture. It may result from changes in the blood supply of the brain or from disease of the blood, eyes, ears, stomach, or other organs.
2. Veter. A similar symptom in animals; disordered equilibration; hence, sometimes, staggers, or any disease characterized by this symptom, esp. gid.
3. Figuratively, a dizzy, confused condition of mind; a state in which all things seem to be whirling around; mental bewilderment or confusion.
4. [cap.] Zool. A genus of very small cylindrical land snails usually found under stones and dead wood. It is included in the family Pupillidae. ver'ti·lin'e·ar (vûr'tĭ·lĭn'ē·ĕr), adj. [vertical + linear.] Straight; rectilinear. Rare.
ver·tim'e·ter (vûr·tĭm'ē·tĕr), n. [vertical + -meter.] An instrument, usually a special form of statoscope, which indicates the rate of rise and fall of an aerostat. A rate-of-climb meter serves the same purpose, but is of a different form.
Ver·tum'nus (vĕr·tŭm'nŭs) or Vor·tum'nus (vôr-), n. [L., fr. vertere to turn.] Rom. Relig. A god (probably of Etruscan origin) of change, variously interpreted as god of the changing season, of developing vegetation, of trade, as the god capable of self-transformation, etc.

ver'ty (vĕr'tĭ), adj. [From averty, fr. OF. averti, past part. of avertir. See ADVERT.] Prudent; early. Obs. exc. Scot.
Ver'u·la'mi·an (vĕr'ōō·lā'mĭ·ăn), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Verulamium, an ancient town near the present St. Albans, England; hence, of or pertaining to St. Albans.
2. Of or pert. to Francis Bacon (1561–1626), Baron Verulam. ver'uled (vĕr'ōōld), adj. Viroled.
ver'u·mon·ta'num (vĕr'ōō·mŏn·tā'nŭm), n. [NL., fr. veru a spit + montanum, neut. adj., mountainous.] Anat. An elevation in the floor of the prostatic portion of the urethra where the seminal ducts enter.
‖ve·ru'tum (vē·rōō'tŭm), n.; pl. VERUTA (-tä) [L.] Rom. Antiq. A short spear or dart carried by the light infantry.
ver'vain (vûr'vān), n. [ME. verveyne, fr. OF. verveine, fr. L. verbena, pl. verbenae sacred boughs of laurel, olive, or myrtle, a class of plants (cf. L. verbenaca vervain); akin to L. verber rod, Lith. virbas rod, stick, stem, verba twig, branch, OSlav. vrŭba willow, Gr. rhabdos rod, rhamnos a prickly shrub, rhembein to turn, and to E. WARP. Cf. REVERBERATE, RHABDITE, RHAMNUS, RHOMBUS, URBAN, VERBENA.] 1. Any plant of the genus Verbena, esp. any species with small spicate flowers, as V. officinalis, the common vervain of Europe, or V. hastata, the common American vervain, etc.
2. The color verbena violet.
vervain family. The Verbenaceae. vervain hummingbird. A very small Jamaican hummingbird (Mellisuga minima). vervain mallow. A European mallow (Malva alcea) often cultivated for its rose-colored flowers. vervain sage. = WILD SAGE a. vervain thoroughwort. A rough-foliaged perennial herb (Eupatorium verbenaefolium) of the eastern United States, with opposite, mostly oblong leaves and an open cymose cluster of white flower heads.

Vervain Hummingbird. (⅔) verve (vûrv; vĕrv), n. [F., fr. L. verba, pl. of verbum word. See WORD.] 1. Marked aptitude; special ability or talent.

2. Vivacity of imagination, esp. such as animates a poet, artist, or musician, in composing or performing; enthusiasm; spirit.

Syn. — Animation, vivacity. Ant. — Listlessness, languor.

ver've·cine (vûr'vĕ·sĭn; -sīn; 156), adj. Also ver've·ce'an (-sē'ăn) [F. (Rabelais) vervecin, fr. LL. vervecinus of a wether.] Of, pertaining to, or resembling, a sheep or a sheepskin. Rare.
ver'vel (vûr'vĕl), n. [F. vervelle.] A ring, usually one of several, attached to a bird's leg, for securing the bird to its perch.
ver'veled, ver'velled (-vĕld), adj. Having one or more vervels on the foot; — said of a hawk or falcon.
ver·velle' (vĕr·vĕl'), n. [See VERVEL.] Med. Armor. A staple or small loop, esp. for lacing the camail to the headpiece. ver·ve'ni·a (vĕr·vē'nĭ·ä), n. Any of several plants of the genus Phacelia. Calif.
ver'vet (vûr'vĕt; -vĭt; 119), n. [F., fr. vert green + grivet (from its gray-green color; cf. F. gris gray, vert green), an earlier name for an African monkey; — because it has more green than that one.] A South and East African guenon monkey (Cercopithecus pygerythrus) allied to the grivet, but having the chin, hands, feet, etc., black.

Vervet.

ver'y (vĕr'ĭ), adj.; VER'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr), Rare; VER'I·EST. [ME. verai, veray, fr. OF. verai (F. vrai), fr. (assumed) VL. verarius, fr. verarius, fr. L. verus true; akin to OIr. fír, OS. & OHG. wār, G. wahr, D. waar, AS. wǣr true, wǣr a pledge. Cf. AVER, v., VERACIOUS, VERDICT, VERITY.] 1. True. Obs. "The verray god." Wars of Alex.
2. Truthful; veracious; as, very chronicles. Obs.
3. Actual; veritable; real; also, lawful; legitimate. Archaic.

Real and very justice. Burke.
Whether thou be my very son Esau or not. Gen. xxvii. 21.
Was not my lord the verier wag of the two? Shak.

It had become very part of that Roman Christian civilization which was being barbarized. H. Taylor.

4. Absolute; utter; also, precise; exact; as, he told them the very truth, no more and no less; the picture was a very copy from the photograph. "For very spite." Milton.

Turned into very beasts. Davies.

All this ought to have had the clearness of noonday even to the veriest idiot. Joseph Conrad.

5. Peculiar; especial. "His very tree." Hawthorne.

The very essence of truth is plainness and brightness. Milton.

6. Identical; same; as, he is the very man I am looking for.

That is the very thing that I was saying. Shelley.

7. Used intensively in a sense corresponding to even, even the. Piers Plowman.

The very rats instinctively have quit it. Shak.
Love's very pain is sweet. Shelley.
Yea even very they that avance themselves authours of lyke counsell. Robinson (More's Utopia).

ver'y (vĕr'ĭ), adv. 1. Genuinely; in fact or in truth. Obs.
2. Exactly; precisely. Obs.
3. In a high degree; to no small extent; exceedingly; extremely; as, a very great mountain; a very bright sun; a very cold day; very rapidly; very much hurt.

☞ Very qualifies adjectives, participles used adjectively, and adverbs, but not verbs directly or past participles used predicatively, although such locutions as "I am very pleased" are common, and are supported by some authority. "He had been very exposed to weather." Southey. "I'm very troubled." Galsworthy.

Ver'y light (vĕr'ĭ). Mil. & Nav. One of the flares, or light signals, used in the Very system of signaling. See VERY'S NIGHT SIGNALS, STAR SHELL.
Very pistol. Mil. A pistol designed to fire Very lights. very reverend. See REVEREND, 1.
Ver'y's, or Ver'y, night signals (vĕr'ĭz, vĕr'ĭ). [After Lieut. Edward W. Very, who invented it in 1877.] Naut. A system of signaling in which balls of red and green fire are fired from a pistol, the arrangement in groups denoting numbers having a code significance.
‖ver·zi'no (vĕr·dzē'nō), n.; pl. -NI (-nē). [It.] Brazilwood (Caesalpinia). Hist.

Ve·sa'li·an (vē·sā'lĭ·ăn), adj. Pertaining to, discovered by, or named after, Andreas Vesalius (1514–64), Italian anatomist born in Belgium, called the "Father of Anatomy."
ve·sa'ni·a (vē·sā'nĭ·ä), n. [L.] Med. Insanity. — ve·san'ic (-săn'ĭk), adj.
ves'bite (vĕz'bīt), n. [L. Vesbius Vesuvius.] Petrog. A melilite-bearing italite, light gray in color and rather coarse in texture, composed chiefly of leucite grains with interstitial melilite, and accessory pyroxene, magnetite, and apatite.
‖ve·si'ca (vē·sī'kä), n.; pl. -CAE (-sē). [L. See VENTER.]
1. Anat. A bladder.
2. A kind of large vessel for distilling liquor. Obs.
‖ve·si'ca fel'le·a (fĕl'ē·ä). [NL.] = GALL BLADDER. ves'i·cal (vĕs'ĭ·kăl), adj. [NL. vesicalis, fr. L. vesica bladder.] 1. Of or pertaining to a bladder, esp., Anat., the urinary bladder.
2. Of the shape of a bladder; oval.
vesical arteries. Anat. Arteries derived from the anterior trunk of the hypogastric artery and distributed to the urinary bladder and adjacent parts. They are distinguished as superior, middle, and inferior. The superior represents a part of the hypogastric artery of the fetus.
vesical neck. Anat. The part of the urinary bladder immediately surrounding the internal orifice of the urethra.
vesical plexus. Anat. a A plexus of nerves at the base of the bladder, comprising preganglionic fibers from the hypogastric plexus and the nervi erigentes on either side, and lodging postganglionic neurons whose fibers are distributed to the bladder. b A venous plexus between the muscular wall of the bladder and the overlying peritoneum, draining into the pudendal plexus.
vesical triangle or trigone. Anat. The trigone of the bladder. ves'i·cant (vĕs'ĭ·kănt), adj. [L. vesica blister; cf. F. vésicant.] Med. Tending to raise blisters; vesicatory. ves'i·cant, n. Med. A blistering application or plaster; a vesicatory; an epispastic.
‖ve·si'ca pis'cis (vē·sī'kä pĭs'ĭs). [L., fish bladder.] Eccl. Art. An aureole of pointed oval shape, typically of two arcs of circles and surrounding a sacred personage.
ves'i·cate (vĕs'ĭ·kāt), v. t. & i.; -CAT'ED (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT'ING (-kāt'ĭng). Med. To blister. ves'i·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n. [Cf. F. vésication.] Med. Process of blistering, as for counterirritation; a blister. ves'i·ca·to'ry (vĕs'ĭ·kä·tō'rĭ; 68; formerly, and still by some, vē·sĭk'ä·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [Cf. F. vésicatoire.] Vesicant; tending, or having the power, to blister. — n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). A vesicant.
‖ve·si'ca u'ri·na'ri·a (ū'rĭ·nä'rĭ·ä). [NL.] = URINARY BLADDER. ves'i·cle (vĕs'ĭ·k'l), n. [F, or L.; F. vésicule, fr. L. vesicula, dim. of vesica a bladder, blister. See VESICA.] 1. A bladderlike vessel; a membranous cavity; a cyst; a cell.
2. One of the particles of a cloud or fog, formerly supposed to be minute bubbles. Obs.
3. Anat. & Zool. A cavity or sac, esp. one filled with fluid.
4. Bot. A small bladderlike air cavity within the tissues.
5. Med. A small, and more or less circular, elevation of the cuticle, containing a clear watery fluid.
6. Geol. A small cavity in a mineral or rock, esp. in basaltic lavas, produced ordinarily by the expansion of vapor in the molten mass.
7. Zool. A small convex hollow prominence on the surface of a shell or a coral.
ves'i·co- (vĕs'ĭ·kō-). A combining form from vesica, denoting: a The bladder, as in ves'i·co·cele', ves'i·coc'ly·sis, ves'i·co·fix·a'tion, ves'i·cot'o·my. b Vesical and; — in adjectives, as in ves'i·co·ab·dom'i·nal, pertaining to the bladder and abdomen, and in the following words:

vesicocavernous	vesicorectal	vesico-ureteral vesicocervical	vesicosigmoid	vesico-urethral vesicointestinal	vesicospinal	vesico-uterine vesicoprostatic	vesico-umbilical	vesicovaginal vesicopubic	vesico-urachal vesicul-. = VESICULO-, as in ve·sic'u·li'tis.

‖ve·sic'u·la (vē·sĭk'ū·lä), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., dim. of vesica.] Anat. & Med. A vesicle.
ve·sic'u·lar (vē·sĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. [NL. vesicularis.] 1. Of or pertaining to a vesicle or vesicles; specif., Med., of or pertaining to the air cells (alveoli) of the lungs; as, vesicular breathing, or normal breathing, in which the air freely enters the alveoli of the lungs.
2. Having the form or structure of a vesicle.
3. Containing, composed of, or characterized by, vesicles or vesiclelike structures; covered with vesicles; vesiculate; as, vesicular lava; a vesicular leaf.
4. Petrog. A texture of igneous rocks produced by the inclusion of air bubbles in the magma during solidification; as, vesicular lava.
— ve·sic'u·lar·ly, adv.
vesicular column. Anat. = COLUMN OF CLARKE. vesicular emphysema. Med. Emphysema of the lungs, in which the alveoli are abnormally distended.
vesicular gland. Bot. A subepidermal gland containing essential oil, as those of orange peel, myrtle leaves, etc.
Ve·sic'u·la'ri·a (vē·sĭk'ū·lā'rĭ·ä; 79), n. [NL. See VESICLE.] Zool. A genus of marine bryozoans (suborder Ctenostomata) having delicate tubular cells clustered on slender flexible stems.
vesicular mole. Veter. A disease of the mucous membrane of the uterus of animals, the villi becoming hypertrophied and degenerate, causing formation of cysts containing fluid.
vesicular murmur. Med. The sound, audible on auscultation of the chest, made by the air entering and leaving the alveoli of the lungs in respiration.
vesicular stomatitis. An infectious disease of horses, mules, and cattle, caused by a filtrable virus and characterized by erosive blisters in and about the mouth, esp. on the tongue, which may prevent eating.
ve·sic'u·lase (vē·sĭk'ū·lās), n. Biochem. An enzyme from the prostate fluid of certain animals, said to effect coagulation of the contents of the seminal vesicles.
ve·sic'u·late (vē·sĭk'ū·lăt), adj. a Containing, or covered with, vesicles. b = VESICULAR, 2. ve·sic'u·late (-lāt), v. t.; -LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). To form vesicles in, as lava. — v. i. To become vesicular.
ve·sic'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. State of having, or process of forming, vesicles; the presence or formation of vesicles.
ves'i·cule (vĕs'ĭ·kūl), n. [F. vésicule.] A vesicle.
ve·sic'u·lec'to·my (vē·sĭk'ū·lĕk'tō·mĭ), n. [vesicul- + -ectomy.] The surgical removal of a seminal vesicle.

ver'ti·cal·ness, n. See -NESS. ver'ti·cel. Erroneous var. of VERTICIL. [VERTEX.] ver'ti·ces (vûr'tĭ·sēz), n. pl. of ver·tig'i·ne, n. Vertigo. Obs.
ver'tin·gale, n. Var. of FARTHINGALE.
‖vert' Paul' Vĕ'ro'nèse' (vâr' pōl' vĕ'rō'nĕz'). [F.] = EMERALD GREEN a. ver'ti·ces (vûr'tĭ·sēz), n. pl. of ver·tig'i·ne, n. Vertigo. Obs.
ver'tin·gale, n. Var. of FARTHINGALE.
vert' russe' (rūs'). = RUSSIAN GREEN. vertu. a † VIRTUE. b (pron. vûr·tōō'; vûr'tōō). Var. of VIRTU. vertugal. n. [OF. vertugale.] Farthingale. Obs. ver·tum'nal (vĕr·tŭm'năl), adj. [From L. Vertumnus, the god of the changing seasons, confused with L. ver spring.] Of or pert. to the spring. Obs.
ve·ru'gas. Var. of VERRUGAS.
Ver'u·la'me·an (vĕr'ōō·lā'mē·ăn). Var. of VERULAMIAN. very. Verve. Ref. Sp. ver'vain-like', adj. See -LIKE. ver'vine (vûr'vĭn). Var. of VERVAIN. vesicatory gas. See GAS, n., 3. ves'i·cl. Vesicle. Ref. Sp.
‖ve·si'cu·la pro·sta'ti·ca (vē·sĭk'ū·lä prō·stăt'ĭ·kä). [NL.] = UTRICULUS PROSTATICUS. ve·sic'u·lar'y (vē·sĭk'ū·lĕr'ĭ; -lĕr·ĭ), adj. = VESICULAR.
‖ve·si'cu·la se'mi·na'lis (vē·sĭk'ū·lä sĕm'ĭ·nā'lĭs). [NL.] = SEMINAL VESICLE.
Ve·sic'u·la'ta (vē·sĭk'ū·lā'tä).
Ve·sic'u·la'tae (-tē), n. pl. [NL.] See VESICLE.] Zool. Syn. of CALYPTOBLASTEA.

vesicul-. A combining form for vesicula, as in: vesiculiferous, vesiculiform, vesiculigerous.

Ve·sic'u·li'na (vĕ·sĭk'ū·lī'nȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. vesicula vesicle.] Bot. A small genus of submerged aquatic plants (family Lentibulariaceae) found in North and South America. They have finely dissected leaves, which are soon lost, and small insect-catching bladders. The flowers are solitary or racemose, emersed, very irregular, and 2-lipped, followed by a many-seeded capsule. V. purpurea, the purple bladderwort, is common in ponds of the eastern United States.

ve·sic'u·lo- (vĕ·sĭk'ū·lō-), vesicul-. A combining form from vesicula, denoting: a A vesicle, as in ve·sic'u·lot'o·my. b Vesicular and; — in adjectives, as in:

vesiculobronchial vesiculopustular vesiculotympanic vesiculocavernous vesiculotubular vesiculotympanitic ve·sic'u·lose (vĕ·sĭk'ū·lōs), adj. [LL. vesiculosus; cf. F. vésiculeux.] Vesiculate.

ve·sic'u·lous (-lŭs), adj. Vesiculose; vesiculate.

ve·sic'u·lus (-lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [NL.] A vesicle.

ve·sic'u·pap'u·lar (-păp'ū·lĕr), adj. Med. Of, pertaining to, or marked by, both vesicles and papules.

ves'pa·cide (vĕs'pȧ·sīd), n. [L. vespa wasp + -cide.] One who or that which kills wasps.

ves'pal (vĕs'păl; 91), adj. [L. vespa wasp.] Of or pertaining to wasps.

ves'per (vĕs'pĕr), n. [L., the evening, the evening star, the west; akin to Gr. hesperos, hespera; cf. OF. vespre, vêpre. See WEST; cf. HESPERIAN, VESPERS.] 1. [cap.] The evening star; Hesper; Venus, as evening star.
2. The evening; eventide.
3. A vesper prayer, hymn, or service; also, a vesper bell.

In vesper low or joyous orison. Shelley.

4. pl. See VESPERS.

ves'per (vĕs'pĕr), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to the evening or the service of vespers; as, a vesper hymn; vesper bells.
2. Vesperine, evening.

ves'per·al (-ăl), adj. Vesper; evening. Rare.

Blown round the slow blind by a vesperal gust. Robert Nichols.

ves'per·al, n. 1. A book containing the office and music for vespers.
2. An altar cover, generally colored, used to protect the white altar cloths between ceremonies.

vesper bird. = GRASS FINCH a.

ves·pe'ri·an (vĕs·pē'rĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to evening or the evening star.

ves'per·ing (vĕs'pĕr·ĭng), adj. Singing vesper songs.

A hush of vespering birds. Thomas Moult.

vesper mouse. A white-footed mouse.

ves'pers (vĕs'pĕrz), n. pl. [OF. vespres (F. vêpres), fr. ML. vesperae, fr. L. vespera evening. See VESPER.] 1. Eccl. [often cap.] a The sixth and next to the last of the canonical hours; the office or service for this time, formerly said or sung before nightfall. In the Roman Catholic Church the office is daily recited by the clergy, and on Sundays and holydays, now in the late afternoon or evening, is chanted publicly. The evening prayer, or evensong, of the churches of the Anglican Communion, compiled from the ancient offices of vespers and complin, is sometimes called vespers. b In some other churches and in some universities and colleges, a late afternoon or evening service, largely musical.
2. Eng. Univs. The ceremonies immediately preceding commencement; also, at Oxford, the day before commencement.

vesper sparrow. A common American sparrow (Pooecetes gramineus) having the outer tail feathers partly white; — so called from its habit of singing in the evening.

Vesper Sparrow. $\frac{1}{5}$ ves'per·tide' (vĕs'pĕr·tīd'), n. The time of vespers.

ves'per·til'i·an (-tĭl'ĭ·ăn), adj. [See VESPERTILIO.] Resembling or suggesting a bat, as in appearance, habits, etc.

Ves'per·til'i·o (-ō), n. [L., a bat. See VESPER.] Zool. a The typical genus of Vespertilionidae, formerly comprehensive, but now restricted to a single bicolored species (V. murinus) of Europe, or slightly extended to include the serotine and the American brown bats (Eptesicus). b [not cap.] A bat of this genus (in the inclusive sense).

Ves'per·til'i·o'nes (-ō'nēz), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A division of bats, variously limited, but nearly equivalent to the family Vespertilionidae.

Ves'per·til'i·on'i·dae (-ŏn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Vespertilio + -idae.] Zool. A very large family of bats (suborder Megachiroptera) found in most parts of the world and including the majority of the common bats of temperate regions. They have separate ears with well-developed tragal lobes, a simple nose without appendages, and a tail extending to the border of the interfemoral membrane. The typical subfamily is Ves'per·til'i·o·ni'nae (-ō·nĭ'nē). — ves'per·til'i·o·nid (-tĭl'ĭ·ō·nĭd), n. & adj. — ves'per·til'i·o·nine (-nĭn; -nīn; 156), adj.

ves'per·ti'nal (vĕs'pĕr·tī'năl; -n'l), adj. Vespertine.

F—— became purely vespertinal, never stirring abroad till after dark. J. R. Lowell.

ves'per·tine (vĕs'pĕr·tĭn; -tīn; 156), adj. [L. vespertinus. See VESPER.] 1. Of or pertaining to, or happening or being in, the evening; active at, or flourishing in, the evening.
2. Astrol. Setting with or just after the sun; — said of planets.
3. Bot. Blossoming in the evening.
4. Zool. Active or flying in early evening; crepuscular.

ves'pi·ar'y (vĕs'pĭ·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [From L. vespa wasp, after apiary.] A nest of any of the social wasps, or the colony of wasps inhabiting it.

Ves'pi·dae (vĕs'pĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. vespa wasp + -idae.] Zool. A widely distributed family of wasps (superfamily Vespoidea), containing the social wasps (including the hornets), which live in colonies like bees, and produce workers as well as perfect females and males. Their food is various, animal or vegetable, but most of them do not store up supplies, and the colony is destroyed by the cold season. Their nests generally consist of, or contain, one or more combs of paperlike material, usually horizontally placed, so that the cells are vertical, with the open end down. Vespa (vĕs'pȧ), containing the yellow jackets and hornets (see HORNET), and Polistes (which see), are the most important genera. — ves'pid (vĕs'pĭd), n. & adj. — ves'pi·form (-pĭ·fôrm), adj.

Ves·pi'na (vĕs·pī'nȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. Vespa + 2d -ina.] Zool. A group of wasps equivalent to Diploptera.

ves'pine (vĕs'pĭn; -pīn; 156), adj. Pertaining to or resembling a wasp or wasps.

ves'poid (-poid), adj. [Vespa + -oid.] Zool. Like, or pertaining to, the wasps, specif., the Vespoidea.

Ves·poi'de·a (vĕs·poi'dē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A superfamily of Hymenoptera, equivalent to the Diploptera together with the Pompilidae, Mutillidae, and other families.

ves'sel (vĕs''l), n. [OF. vessel, vessele (F. vaisseau, vaisselle), fr. L. vascellum, pl. vascella, dim. of vas vessel. See VASE; cf. VASCULAR.] 1. A hollow or concave utensil for holding anything; a hollow receptacle of any kind, often circular in form, as a hogshead, barrel, firkin, bottle, kettle, cup, bowl, etc.
2. Receptacles of this kind, collectively; esp., kitchen and household utensils; as, to wash up the vessel in the afternoon; hence, plate. Obs.
3. Any structure, esp. a hollow one, made to float upon the water for purposes of navigation; a craft for navigation of the water, usually, specif., one larger than a common rowboat; as, a war vessel; a passenger vessel; also, in modern use, any of various types of aircraft; a ship.
4. A person regarded as receiving or containing something; esp., in scriptural language, one into whom something is conceived as poured, or in whom something is stored for use; as, vessels of wrath or mercy. Acts ix. 15.

One of those marvelous women of ancient tragedy, who are vessels incandescent with divine light. Stuart P. Sherman.

5. Anat. & Zool. A tube or canal in which blood, lymph, or other fluid is contained and conveyed or circulated, as the arteries, veins, lymphatics, etc.
6. Bot. A tube or duct for water conduction; a trachea (which see). They are known as spiral, annular, scalariform, reticulated, or pitted, vessels, according to the markings on the thickened lignified walls.

ves'sel, v. t. To put into a vessel; esp., to bottle. Obs.

ves'seled, ves'selled (vĕs''ld), adj. Provided with vessels.

ves'sig·non (vĕs'ĭg·nŏn; -ĭ·nyŏn), ves'sic·non (-ĭk·nŏn), n. [F. vessignon, fr. It. vessigone, vessicone, fr. L. vesica bladder, blister. See VESICLE.] Veter. A soft swelling on a horse's leg; a windgall.

vest (vĕst), n. [F. veste, fr. It. veste, fr. L. vestis a garment, vesture; akin to Goth. wasti, Skr. vastra. See WEAR to carry on the person; cf. DIVEST, INVEST, REVEST, TRAVESTY, VESTMENT, VESTRY.] 1. An article of clothing covering the person; a robe; sometimes, an ecclesiastical vestment. Archaic.
2. Any outer covering; array; garb; dress.

Not seldom clothed in radiant vest Deceitfully goes forth the morn. Wordsworth.

3. A garment for men, varying in style at different times; specif.: a Obs. exc. Hist. A garment likened to a long cassock, worn in the time of Charles II. b A sleeveless body garment worn under the coat; — called in England a waistcoat.
4. A garment or part of a garment for women; specif.: a A kind of jacket. b An extra piece of facing or trimming to the front of a bodice or coat, somewhat resembling the front of a man's waistcoat. c A garment fashioned after a man's waistcoat.
5. A knitted or woven undershirt, esp. one for women.

vest (vĕst), v.; VEST'ED; VEST'ING. [OF. vestir (F. vêtir), fr. L. vestire, vestitum. See VEST, n., WEAR to carry on the person.] Transitive: 1. To clothe with or as with a vestment or garment; to dress; robe; esp., to garb or dress in ecclesiastical vestments.

Came vested all in white, pure as her mind. Milton.

2. To clothe (with authority, power, or the like); to put in possession so as to give an immediate and permanent right of present or future enjoyment; to invest; furnish; endow; — followed by with before the thing conferred; as, to vest a court with power to try cases of life and death.
3. To place or give into the possession or discretion of some person or authority; to commit to another; to give or grant, or cause to pass or take effect, an immediate fixed right of present or future enjoyment of; — often with in; as, an estate is vested in possession; power of life and death is vested in the courts.
4. To surround or encompass closely; to invest.
5. Early Feudal Law. To put (a person) into possession of land by the ceremony of investiture.
6. Magic. To conceal under the vest, or waistcoat.

—, Intransitive: 1. To put on vestments or garments.

A robing room so small that when Phillips Brooks vested there, the rector had to step outside and wait in the chancel. William Lawrence.

2. To become vested; to be fixed; to take effect or pass, as a title or right so that there is a present right of enjoyment or a present right of future enjoyment; — often followed by in; as, upon the death of the ancestor, the estate, or the right to the estate, vests in the heir at law.

Ves'ta (vĕs'tȧ), n. [L.; akin to Gr. Hestia Vesta, hestia the hearth of the house, and perh. to Skr. vasati he dwells, and E. WAS. Cf. HESTIA, VESTAL.] 1. Rom. Relig. The goddess or numen of the hearth and its fire, hence of the preparation of food. She was one of the few Roman divinities practically unaffected by Greek influence to the end of heathendom. Her temple was the oldest in Rome. It symbolized the hearth of the city, conceived as a larger household, and contained no image of the goddess, but a fire rekindled on the Roman New Year (March 1) by friction of wood and in charge of the vestal virgins. Only these and their representative, the Pontifex Maximus, had access to the temple except at Vesta's chief feast, the Ves·ta'li·a (vĕs·tā'lĭ·ȧ), June 9, when the Roman matrons were allowed to enter. In private worship Vesta was included among the penates. See DI; cf. HESTIA, 1.
2. Astron. See ASTEROID, Table.
3. [not cap.] A short match with a shank of thin wax taper; also, later, a kind of short wooden match.

A wax vesta scratched, blazed, lighted another cigar. De Morgan.

ves'tal (-tăl; -t'l), adj. [L. Vestalis belonging to Vesta, vestal. See VESTA.] 1. Of or pertaining to Vesta.
2. Pertaining to, characteristic of, or befitting, a vestal virgin or a nun; hence, chaste; pure.

ves'tal, n. Also vestal virgin. [L. Vestalis (sc. virgo); cf. F. vestale. See VESTAL, adj.] 1. Rom. Relig. A virgin consecrated to Vesta, and to the service of watching the sacred fire, which was to be perpetually kept burning upon her altar. See VESTA, 1. During the historical period, there were six, represented by one called the virgo Vestalis maxima. They prepared from the first fruits of the harvest in May the sacrificial meal for the Lupercalia and Vestalia, and were present at other festivals. The vestals were subjected to rigid discipline, including bodily chastisement for faults, and, in case of loss of chastity, burial alive.
2. A virgin; a woman pure and chaste; also, a nun.

ves'tal (vĕs'tăl, -t'l), n. A color, reddish blue-red in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Ves·ta'li·a (vĕs·tā'lĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [L.] Rom. Relig. The principal festival of Vesta, held on June 9. See VESTA, VESTAL.

Ves'tas (vĕs'tăz), n. pl. London Stock Exchange. Shares in the deferred stock of the Railway Investment Company. Cant, Brit.

vest'ed (vĕs'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), past tense & past part. of VEST. Hence: adj. 1. Clothed; robed; esp., wearing vestments or some ceremonial costume; — sometimes in combination; as, purple-vested. "The vested priest." Milton.
2. Law. That has become a complete and consummated right; that has taken effect as an immediate right to present or future enjoyment; as, vested interests; vested rights; a vested legacy.

A world of vested interests is not a world which welcomes the disruptive force of candor. Agnes Repplier.

vested remainder. Law. An estate settled to remain to a determined person after the particular estate is spent, importing a present title in the remainderman to the remainder.

vested school. In Ireland, a national school built by the aid of grants from the board of Commissioners of National Education and secured for educational purposes by leases.

vest'ee' (vĕs'tē'), n. [vest + -ee as in coatee, with dim force.] An ornamental adjunct of dress suggesting, or worn in place of, a vest, or waistcoat; as: a A garment of brightly colored broadcloth, or the like, resembling a waistcoat but having neither armholes nor back, worn as part of a riding habit. b A front, often white and made of satin, linen, or the like, showing between the open edges of a woman's jacket or dress waist.

vest'er (vĕs'tĕr), n. An investor. Rare.

ves'ter (vĕs'tĕr). Dial. Eng. var. of FESCUE.

ves'ti·ar'i·an (vĕs'tĭ·ȧr'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. Vestiary. Rare.

‖ves'ti·a'ri·um (-ā'rĭ·ŭm), n. [ML.] A vestry. Rare.

ves'ti·ar'y (vĕs'tĭ·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), adj. Pertaining to clothes, or vestments.

ves'ti·ar'y, n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [OF. vestiarie (F. vestiaire), fr. ML. vestiarium. See VESTRY.] 1. A robing room; a vestry. Rare.
2. Clothing; vestment. Rare.
3. A vestibule. Obs.
4. Any of various medieval officials or household officers; specif., in some cathedrals, an ecclesiastical dignitary charged with the robing of the canons.

ves·tib'u·lar (vĕs·tĭb'ū·lĕr), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a vestibule, in any sense; like, or of the nature of, a vestibule.
2. Pertaining to, designating, or affecting, the vestibular sense (see VESTIBULAR SENSE).

vestibular nerve. Anat. The branch of the eighth cranial nerve which supplies the vestibule of the inner ear and the ampullae of the semicircular canals.

vestibular nucleus. Anat. The nucleus in which the fibers of the vestibular nerve terminate. The upper part, continuous with Deiters' nucleus, is known as Bechterew's nucleus.

vestibular sense. a A sense, the end organs of which, lying in the vestibule of the internal ear, contain the otoliths and are stimulated by the pull of gravity and by the starting and stopping of rectilinear head movements. b By extension, the whole labyrinthine sense, of which the vestibular sense is properly a part.

ves·tib'u·late (vĕs·tĭb'ū·lăt), adj. Anat. & Zool. Having, or resembling, a vestibule.

ves'ti·bule (vĕs'tĭ·būl), n. [F. and L.; F. vestible, now vestibule fr. L. vestibulum, of uncert. origin.] 1. Originally, an entrance court; now, a passage, hall, or chamber between the outer door and the interior of a building; a porch, or entrance into a house; a lobby; hall; narthex.
2. On trains, the enclosed entrance to a passenger car, fitted with side doors for ingress to and egress from the train, and with a flexible side wall and roof attached to the end of the car. Cars with such vestibules (vestibule cars), when joined, form a vestibule train, in which there is free and protected passage from one end to the other.
3. Anat. & Zool. Any of various cavities or fossae; esp., one serving as, or resembling, an entrance to some other cavity or space; as: a The central cavity of the bony labyrinth of the ear; also, the parts of the membranous labyrinth (the utricle and saccule) contained in it. See 1st EAR, 1. b The space between the labia minora containing the orifice of the urethra. c The part of the left ventricle immediately below the aortic orifice. d The part of the mouth cavity outside the teeth and gums. e The part of the larynx above the false vocal cords. f In some infusorians, a more or less tubular depression leading to the mouth. In Vorticella the contractile and digestive vacuoles discharge into it. g In bryozoans, esp. those of the group Endoprocta, the space within the circle of tentacles.

ves'ti·bule (vĕs'tĭ·būl), v. t.; -BULED (-būld); -BUL'ING (-būl'ĭng). a To furnish with a vestibule or vestibules. b To join (railroad cars) by vestibules.

vestibule car. See VESTIBULE, n., 2.

ves'ti·buled (-būld), adj. Having a vestibule or vestibules.

vestibule latch. A lock actuated from outside by a key and from inside by a knob (the outside knob being controlled by a stop), and with no dead bolt.

vestibule school. A school organized in an industrial plant to introduce new workers into the industry by means of a few weeks of training along specific lines.

vestibule train. See VESTIBULE, n., 2.

ves·tib'u·lo-spi'nal (vĕs·tĭb'ū·lō·spī'năl; -n'l), adj. Anat. Designating a nerve tract passing from the nuclei of the vestibular nerve in the medulla down the spinal cord.

vestibulospinal tract. See SPINAL CORD, Illust.

ves·tib'u·lo-u·re'thral (-ū·rē'thrăl), adj. Anat. Of or pertaining to the vestibule of the vagina and the urethra.

ves·tib'u·lum (vĕs·tĭb'ū·lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lȧ). [L.] Vestibule.

ves'tige (vĕs'tĭj), n. [F., fr. L. vestigium footprint, trace, sign; of uncert. origin. Cf. INVESTIGATE.] 1. a Now Rare. The mark of the foot left on the earth; a track or footstep. b Hence, a trace, mark, or visible sign left by something which is lost, or has perished, or is no longer present; remains; as, the vestiges of ancient magnificence in Palmyra.

What vestiges of liberty or property have they left? Burke.

2. Biol Specif., a small, degenerate, or imperfectly developed part or organ which has been more fully developed in an earlier stage of the individual or in a past generation.

Syn. — See TRACE.

---

ves'kit. Dial. var. of WAISTCOAT. Dickens.

Ves'pa (vĕs'pȧ), n. [L., wasp.] See VESPIDAE.

ves'per·a'le (vĕs'pĕr·ā'lē). Var. of VESPERIES, fr. ML. vesperiae.] Evening exercises or disputations (among the Sorbonists). Obs.

ves'per·al (vĕs'pĕr·ăl). [of VESPERAL, n.

ves'per·ies (vĕs'pĕr·ĭz), n. pl. [F. -LOES (-ōz). [L.] Rom. Antiq. One who carried out corpses of the poor at night for burial. Obs.

ves'sel·ful, n. See -FUL.

ves'ses (vĕs'ĕz), ves'sets (-ĕts), n. pl. A kind of worsted; also, a worsted cloth. Obs.

Ves'sie (vĕs'ĭ), Vest (vĕst), Ves'ter (vĕs'tĕr), n. Dims. of SILVESTER.

ves'tal-ship, n. See -SHIP.

ves'ti·ble, n. A vestibule. Obs.

ves·tib'u·la (vĕs·tĭb'ū·lȧ), n., pl. of VESTIBULUM.

ves·tib'u·lar'y (-lĕr'ĭ; -lĕr·ĭ), adj. = VESTIBULAR. Rare.

vestibuled car, train. = VESTIBULE CAR, TRAIN. See VESTIBULE, n., 2.

ves'ti·gate (vĕs'tĭ·gāt), v. i. [L. vestigatus, past part. of vestigare. See VESTIGE.] To investigate. Obs. — ves'ti·ga'tion (-gā'shŭn), n. Obs. [VESTIGIUM.

ves·tig'i·a (vĕs·tĭj'ĭ·ȧ), n., pl. of ves·tig'i·al (vĕs·tĭj'ĭ·ăl), adj. Pertaining to a vestige or remnant; like, or of the nature of, a vestige. — ves·tig'i·al·ly, adv.

There are reasons for believing that vestigial structures are rarely, if ever, present in plants. New Int. Encyc.

Ves·tig'i·an (-ăn), n. One who accepts the theory of evolution as proposed by Robert Chambers in Vestiges of the Natural History of Creation (1844).—Ves·tig'i·an, adj.

ves·tig'i·ar'y (-ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ēr·ĭ), adj. Vestigial.

ves·tig'i·um (vĕs·tĭj'ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -IA (-ȧ). [L.] A vestige.

ves'ti·ment (vĕs'tĭ·mĕnt), n. A vestment, esp. an ecclesiastical vestment. Now Rare. — ves'ti·men'tal (-mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. Rare. — ves'ti·men'ta·ry (-tȧ·rĭ), adj.

vest'ing (vĕs'tĭng), n. Cloth for vests; esp., a heavy silk or mixed fabric used chiefly for evening waistcoats.

vest'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VEST.

vesting order. Law. An order of a court, passing the legal title in lieu of a legal conveyance.

Ves·ti'ni (vĕs·tē'nī), n. pl. [L.] An ancient Sabine people of central Italy allied with the Romans about 300 B.C.

Ves·tin'i·an (vĕs·tĭn'ĭ·ăn), n. A Sabellian dialect. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES.

‖ves·ti'ta ma'nus (vĕs·tī'tȧ mā'nŭs). [L.] Feudal Law. Vested hand, that is, the right hand used in the ceremony of investiture.

ves'ti·ture (vĕs'tĭ·tŭr), n. [ML. vestitura. See VESTURE.] 1. Investiture. Obs.

2. Clothing; garb; dress; also, figuratively, a covering like or suggesting clothing.

3. Zool. That which covers a surface, as the scales, hairs, etc., of an insect's body or wings.

vest'let (vĕst'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. [Dim. of vest.] Any actinian of the genus Cerianthus, whose members secrete a tough tube about the body. vest'ment (vĕst'mĕnt), n. [ME. vestement, vestiment, fr. OF. vestement, vestiment (F. vêtement), fr. L. vestimentum, fr. vestire to clothe, fr. vestis a garment, clothing. See VEST.] 1. A covering or garment; esp., a garment or robe of ceremony or office; also, clothing; garb; dress.

2. Some covering like or suggesting a garment; as, the vestment which spring spreads over the land.

3. Eccl. A liturgical garment; any article of the ceremonial attire and insignia worn by officiants and assistants during divine service as appropriate to the rite and indicative of their hierarchical rank. The vestments in the Eastern Church, though fewer, are similar to those in the Western Church. The surplice is worn by all ranks of the clergy. In addition to the amice, alb, cincture, and maniple, subdeacons use the tunicle, deacons the stole and dalmatic, and priests the stole, chasuble, and cope. To the priestly vestments bishops add sandals, gloves, and miter, with which in the case of archbishops also goes the pallium. The Pope alone uses the succinctorium and fanon. In the Anglican Church where there is difference in usage, some officiating clergymen wear similar vestments. Commonly, however, the attire of the officiating clergyman includes the cassock, surplice, hood, tippet or stole, sometimes the cap, and sometimes, for preaching, the black gown. Bishops wear the rochet, and the chimer instead of the surplice. These are rarely called vestments, however, that term usually designating liturgical robes similar to those in use in the Roman Catholic Church.—vest'ment·al (-mĕn·tăl; -t'l), adj.

Vestment, 3. Archbishop, 16th cent., wearing: 1 Alb; 2 Apparel on alb; 3 Stole; 4 Tunicle; 5 Dalmatic; 6 Chasuble; 7 Maniple; 8 Pallium; 9 Amice; 10 Miter; 11 Lappet; 12 Crosier, or Pastoral Staff.

vest'ment·ed (-mĕn·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Arrayed in vestments; also, of a ceremony or service, conducted by priests in vestments.

vest'-pock'et (66), adj. Adapted to fit into the vest, or waistcoat, pocket; hence, of very small size; as, a vest-pocket edition of a book.

vest-pocket camera. A camera taking pictures 1⅝ by 2½ inches in size.

ves'tral (vĕs'trăl), adj. Also ves'tri·cal (-trĭ·kăl). Of or pertaining to a vestry.

ves'tral·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. Organization by, or administration through, vestries.

ves'tri·fy (vĕs'trĭ·fī), v. t. To cause to resemble a vestry, or to make a vestry of. Rare. — ves'tri·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. Rare.

ves'try (vĕs'trĭ), n.; pl. -TRIES (-trĭz). [ME. vestrye, prob. for vestery, from (assumed) vester, fr. OF. vestier, fr. ML. vestiarium, in L. a clothespress, wardrobe, prop. neut. of vestiarius belonging to clothes, fr. vestis a garment. See VEST; cf. VESTIARY, VESTURE.] 1. A repository for clothes or vestments; a wardrobe; a robing room in a church; also, Rare, clothing. Obs. 2 Kings x. 22.

2. Eccl. a In liturgical churches, a room within or attached to a church building in which the vestments of the clergy, the altar linen and hangings, and the sacred vessels are kept; — often called a sacristy. b A room corresponding to this in a non-Christian temple. c A room within, or a building attached to, a church building, used as a chapel, Sunday-school room, prayer-meeting room, etc.

3. In the Church of England and in the Protestant Episcopal Church, a body of persons entrusted with the administration of the temporal affairs of a parish; — so called from the former custom of holding parish meetings in the vestry of the church; also, in England, a parish meeting or a meeting of a vestry. In England vestries anciently regulated all parochial affairs, ecclesiastical or civil, but now their duties are only to elect churchwardens, levy church rates, and receive accounts of church trustees. Their civil duties have been transferred to the parish councils, etc. Vestries are either general or common, composed of all ratepaying parishioners, or select, consisting of a representative committee, the number of which is fixed by custom or statute, chosen by the ratepayers. In the Protestant Episcopal Church the vestry is composed of the rector, two wardens, and a variable number of vestrymen elected annually by the parish meeting. They represent the parish in law, have care and charge of its property, collect and disburse its revenues and when the rectorship is vacant act for the parishioners in taking steps to choose and call a rector and to provide for his support. The rector is ex officio a member of the vestry and is entitled to preside, if present, at all of its meetings.

ves'try·man (vĕs'trĭ·măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One of a vestry. — ves'try·man·ly (-lĭ), adj.

ves'tu·ar'y (vĕs'tū·ĕr'ĭ; -ēr·ĭ), n. [ML. vestuarium. See VESTURE.] A wardrobe; dressing room. Archaic.

ves'tur·al (vĕs'tŭr·ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to vesture, or clothing.

ves'ture (vĕs'tŭr), n. [OF. vesture, vesteüre (F. vêture), fr. LL. vestitura, fr. L. vestire to clothe, dress. See VEST; cf. VESTITURE.] 1. That with which one is clothed; a garment or garments; a robe; dress; apparel; vestment.

Approach, and kiss her sacred vesture's hem. Milton.

2. That which invests or covers; a covering; an envelope.

3. Old Eng. Law. a The corn, grass, underwood, stubble, or other growth, except trees, with which land was covered; as, the vesture of an acre. b Investiture; seizin.

ves'ture (vĕs'tŭr), v. t.; VES'TURED (-tŭrd); VES'TUR·ING (-tŭr·ĭng). 1. To cover with vesture; to clothe; envelop; — usually in past part.

2. To dress in or as in vestments. Rare.

ves'tur·er (vĕs'tŭr·ĕr), n. A sexton, esp. one in charge of church vestments and ornaments. Rare.

Ve·su'vi·an (vē·sū'vĭ·ăn), adj. [L. Vesuvius, the volcano; cf. F. Vésuvien, It. Vesuviano.] Of, pertaining to, or resembling, Vesuvius, the volcano near Naples.

ve·su'vi·an, n. [See VESUVIAN, adj.] 1. Mineral. Vesuvianite.

2. A kind of match or fusee for lighting cigars, etc.

ve·su'vi·an·ite (-īt), n. [See VESUVIAN, n.] Mineral. A mineral occurring in tetragonal crystals, and also massive, of a brown to green color, rarely sulphur-yellow and blue. It is a basic silicate of aluminum and calcium with some iron and magnesium, and is common at Vesuvius. Also called idocrase. H., 6.5. Sp. gr., 3.35–3.45.

ve·su'vi·ate (-āt), v. i. To be in eruption; also, to burst forth in intense heat.

ve·su'vite (vē·sū'vĭt), n. [From Mt. Vesuvius.] Petrog. Leucite-tephrite rich in leucite.

ve·szel'y·ite (vĕ·zĕl'ĭ·īt), n. [After A. Veszelyi, Hungarian mining engineer.] Mineral. A hydrous copper zinc phospho-arsenate, occurring mostly in greenish-blue incrustations. H., 3.5–4. Sp. gr., 3.5.

vet (vĕt). Short for VETERAN, VETERINARIAN, VETERINARY. Colloq.

vet, v. t.; VET'TED; VET'TING. [From vet, n., abbr. of veterinary surgeon.] a Veter. To submit (an animal) to medical examination and treatment. b Jocose. To submit (a person) to medical examination and treatment. — v. i. To be or to act as a veterinary surgeon.

A real thing like vetting or farming. Rose Macaulay.

vet. Dial. Eng. var. of FET.

ve'ta (vā'tȧ; vē'-), n. Med. Mountain sickness.

ve·tan'da (vē·tăn'dȧ), n. pl. [L., neut. pl. gerundive of vetare to forbid.] Things prohibited.

vetch (vĕch), n. [Also fitch, fr. ME. ficche, feche, for veche, fr. OF. veche, var. of vece (F. vesce), fr. L. vicia; akin to L. vincire to bind, twine, Lett. vīkne tendril, vine, vīkt to bend, become pliant, AS. wicga worm, and to E. WEAK. Cf. EARWIG, 2d PERIWINKLE.] a Any plant of the genus Vicia, some species of which are valuable for fodder. The common vetch (V. sativa) of Europe, often called spring vetch, is naturalized in North America; the American vetch, or buffalo pea, is V. americana. See VICIA. b Any of numerous other plants of related genera, as the chickling vetch, horseshoe vetch, kidney vetch, etc.

vetch (vĕch). Dial. Eng. var. of FETCH.

vetch'ling (-lĭng), n. [vetch + 1st -ling.] Any small plant of the genus Lathyrus, esp. L. pratensis.

vetch'y (-ĭ), adj.; VETCH'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); VETCH'I·EST. a Consisting of vetches or of pea straw. b Abounding with vetches.

vet'er·an (vĕt'ĕr·ăn; 59), n. [Cf. F. vétéran. See VETERAN, adj.] 1. a One who has had long experience and practice in any service, profession, industry, or art, or originally and commonly, in military service; as, a veteran of the South Pacific, of the law, or the stage. The term has been used variously, as in interpreting military orders and provisions of statutes. The general and popular meaning, however, is one who has seen service, as distinguished from a recruit or a soldier in his first enlistment. b U. S. Statutes. An ex-member of the military or naval service who by length and type of service or degree of disablement, honorable discharge or release, and otherwise, meets statutory requirements precedent to the extension of benefits provided by law for ex-servicemen.

2. Forestry. Any tree over two feet in diameter, measured at the height of a man's breast.

vet'er·an, adj. [L. veteranus, fr. vetus, veteris, old; akin to Gr. etos year, Skr. vatsara. See WETHER.] 1. Grown old in experience; long exercised or practiced in anything, esp. in military life; as, a veteran officer.

Flattery of veteran diplomatists and courtiers. Macaulay.

2. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a veteran; as, veteran skill, steadiness, etc.

3. Extending over a great period; long; as, veteran service to the state.

Syn. — Practiced, seasoned, experienced.

Ant. — Untrained, unskilled.

vet'er·an·ize (vĕt'ĕr·ăn·īz), v. t. & i. To make, or to become, a veteran. Colloq.

Veterans' Bureau. U. S. An independent office (1921–1930) created by act of Congress to take charge, under the direction of the President, of matters relating to the veterans of the World War, esp., matters relating to war risk insurance, rehabilitation, hospital service, etc.

Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. A society, founded in 1899, of ex-service men who have taken part in the wars or campaigns conducted by the United States on foreign soil or in foreign waters. Abbr. V.F.W.

‖ve'te·ra sta·tu'ta (vĕt'ĕ·rȧ stȧ·tū'tȧ). [ML.] Literally, ancient statutes; — applied to the statutes from Magna Charta to those of the reign of Edward II, inclusive.

vet'er·i·nar'i·an (vĕt'ĕr·ĭ·nâr'ĭ·ăn; 79), n. [L. veterinarius. See VETERINARY.] One skilled in, or treating, diseases and injuries of animals; a veterinary surgeon. — vet'er·i·nar'i·an, adj.

vet'er·i·nar'y (vĕt'ĕr·ĭ·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nēr·ĭ; vĕt'r·nĕ·rĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). A veterinarian; a veterinary surgeon.

vet'er·i·nar'y, adj. [L. veterinarius of or pertaining to beasts of burden and draft, fr. veterinus, prob. fr. vetus, veteris, old (hence, good for nothing else); cf. F. vétérinaire. See WETHER.] Of or pertaining to veterinary medicine, the science and art dealing with the prevention, cure, or alleviation, of disease and injury in animals, esp. domestic animals, and including, in a broad sense, the anatomy, physiology, etc., of such animals.

veterinary ambulance. A strong low-built ambulance for carrying disabled animals, esp. horses.

Veterinary Corps. Mil. A component of the Medical Department which concerns itself with the care and health of the animals in the military establishment, and with the inspection and certification of food supplies of animal origin for the troops.

veterinary surgeon. = VETERINARIAN.

vet'i·tive (vĕt'ĭ·tĭv), adj. [L. vetare, vetitum, to forbid.] Prohibiting; having, or pertaining to, the power of vetoing.

vet'i·vene (vĕt'ĭ·vēn), n. [vetiver + -ene.] Chem. A colorless liquid sesquiterpene, $C_{15}H_{24}$, obtained from vetiver oil.

vet'i·ven·ol (-vēn·ōl; -ŏl), n. [vetivene + 1st -ol.] Chem. A pale-yellow liquid alcohol, $C_{15}H_{24}O$, obtained from vetiver oil.

vet'i·ver (vĕt'ĭ·vĕr), n. [F. vétiver, fr. Tamil vettivēru, lit., the root which is dug up, fr. vēr root.] An East Indian grass (Vetiveria zizanioides) cultivated in the tropics and in Louisiana; also, its fragrant roots, used for making mats and screens, and yielding an essential oil (vetiver oil) used for perfumes. See OIL, Table I. Called also khuskhus.

vetiver green. A color, greenish-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Vet'i·ve'ri·a (vĕt'ĭ·vē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See VETIVER.] Bot. a A genus of about seven species of perennial grasses found in the Old World tropics. They have narrow panicles of slender spikelike racemes, and some are cultivated for the aromatic roots or oil. Syn. Anatherum. b [not cap.] A plant or root of this genus; specif., vetiver.

vet'kou'sie (fĕt'kō'sē), n. [S.Afr.D., fr. D. vet fat, grease + kousje (wick (for a lamp).] A South African fig marigold (Mesembryanthemum pomeridianum). Its young foliage is used like spinach.

ve'to (vē'tō), n.; pl. -TOES (-tōz). [L., I forbid, inf. vetare, of uncert. origin.] 1. An authoritative prohibition or negative; interdiction.

This contemptuous veto of her husband's on any intimacy with her family. G. Eliot.

2. Specif.: A right or power (often called the veto power) possessed by one department or branch of a government to forbid or prohibit finally or provisionally the carrying out of projects attempted by another department; esp., a power vested in the chief executive to prevent permanently or temporarily the enactment of measures passed by the legislature. This executive power is called an absolute veto when it is conclusive on a magistrate or legislature, as in case of the tribune of the plebs in ancient Rome; a qualified, or limited, negative or veto, when conclusive except against the vote of an extraordinary majority of the legislature on a reconsideration, as in case of the President of the United States; a suspensive, or suspensory, veto, when the law is merely suspended until reconsidered by the legislature and becomes a law if repassed by an ordinary majority. An item veto is the power of a governor or mayor to strike out any item or items of a bill, esp. of an appropriation bill. (Also, see POCKET VETO.) The veto power of the President of the United States arises from the provision of the Constitution (Art. I, sec. 7, §§ 2 & 3), which, however, does not use the word veto, and extends to all bills and to every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of both branches of legislature may be necessary except an amendment to the constitution. The veto power of the British crown is one of the residuary powers of the crown, but has not been exercised since 1707, and is now practically nominal.

3. The exercise of such authority; an act of prohibition or prevention; as, a veto is probable if the bill passes; also, Chiefly U. S., a document or message (often veto message) communicating the reasons of the executive for not officially approving a proposed law.

ve'to (vē'tō), v. t.; VE'TOED (-tōd); VE'TO·ING. To prohibit; to refuse to admit or approve; to negative; also, to refuse assent to, as a legislative bill, so as to prevent its enactment or cause its reconsideration.

Vé'to', M. et Mme. (mĕ·syû', or m'·syû', ā mȧ'dȧm' vȧ'tō'). [F.] Louis XVI and his queen, Marie Antoinette; — so called opprobriously by the French Revolutionists. The expression originated in the indignation of the people at the veto allowed the king on the resolves of the National Assembly. The name occurs in the celebrated song La Carmagnole.

ve'to·er (vē'tō·ĕr), n. One who vetoes.

ve'to·ism (vē'tō·ĭz'm), n. Use or advocacy of the veto power, esp. for the chief executive. — ve'to·ist (-ĭst), n. — ve'to·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), ve'to·is'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj.

‖vet·tu'ra (vĕt·tōō'rȧ), n.; pl. -TURE (-rȧ). [It. vettura, fr. L. vectura conveyance. See VECTURE.] An Italian four-wheeled carriage; a hackney coach.

‖vet'tu·ri'no (vĕt'tōō·rē'nō), n.; pl. -RINI (-rē'nē). [It.] One who lets or drives a vettura; also, sometimes, a vettura.

ve·tust' (vē·tŭst'), adj. [L. vetustus. See WETHER.] Venerable from antiquity; ancient; old. Rare.

vet'us·ty (vĕt'ŭs·tĭ), n. [L. vetustas.] Old age. Rare.

veu'glaire' (vŭ'glâr'), n. [F.] A small 16th-century cannon having in its breech a movable chamber by which it was loaded.

veuve (vûv), n. [F., lit., widow.] 1. A widow.

2. Any whidah bird.

vex (vĕks), n. A vexation; annoyance; disturbance. Scot.

vex (vĕks), v.; VEXED (vĕkst) or, Chiefly Rare or Poetic, VEXT; VEX'ING. [OF. vexer, fr. L. vexare, vexatum, to vex, agitate; akin to L. vehere to carry, convexus convex. See WAY.] Transitive: 1. To shake or toss about; to disquiet; disturb; agitate.

White curl the waves, and the vexed ocean roars. Pope.

2. By extension, to agitate; discuss; dispute; moot; — chiefly in such phrases as, a vexed question, point, etc.

3. To annoy or anger, as by petty provocations; to irritate; plague; as, vexed by ridicule; by extension, to trouble grievously; to harass; afflict, as with disease.

Ten thousand torments vex my heart. Prior.

—, Intransitive: To be irritated; to fret; worry. Rare.

Syn. and Ant. — See HARASS.

vex·a'tion (vĕks·ā'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. vexatio.] 1. A state of being vexed; trouble; irritation.

Passions too violent . . . afford us nothing but vexation and pain. Sir W. Temple.

---

vestigie, n. A vestige. Obs. vest'less, adj. See -LESS. vest'mak'er, n. See MAKER. — vest'mak'ing, adj. & n.
vest'ment·mak'er, n. See MAKER.

Ves·to'ri·an blue (vĕs·tō'rĭ·ăn). [After Vestorius, a Roman pigment maker.] = EGYPTIAN BLUE.
ves'tri·man. Vestryman. R. S.
vestry board. = VESTRY, 3. ves'try·dom, n. See -DOM.

ves'try·hood, n. See -HOOD. ves'try·ish, adj. See -ISH. ves'try·ism, n. See -ISM. ves'try·ize, v. i. See -IZE. ves'try·man·ship', n. See -SHIP. vestry room. = VESTRY, 2 & c.

ve·su'vi·us (vē·sū'vĭ·ŭs), n. = VESUVIAN, 2. vetch'-leaved', adj. See LEAVED. vetch'like', adj. See -LIKE. [-CY.] vet'er·an·cy (vĕt'ĕr·ăn·sĭ), n. See vet'er·an·ess, n., fem. of VETERAN.

vet'er·ate, adj. [L. veteratus.] Established of old. Obs.
vet'er·i·nar'i·an·ism, n. See -ISM. vet'i·vert (vĕt'ĭ·vûrt), n. = VETvetivert oil. See OIL, Table I.

veto message. See VETO, n., 3. veto power. = VETO, n., 2. vet'ti·cost (vĕt'ĭ·kŏst). Var. of FETTICUS.
vew. Var. of VIEW. Dial. Eng. vex'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

---

2. Act of harassing, or vexing; troubling; esp., harassment by process of law.
3. Weariness; fatigue. Obs.
4. A cause of trouble or disquiet; affliction.

Your children were vexation to your youth. Shak.

Syn. — VEXATION, CHAGRIN, MORTIFICATION. VEXATION implies displeasure and irritation; CHAGRIN connotes acute annoyance, coupled with a sense of dissatisfaction or disappointment; MORTIFICATION often adds to chagrin the implication of shame or humiliation; as, "All is vanity and vexation of spirit" (Eccl. i. 14); "In disappointments, where the . . . expectations [have been] sanguine . . . sorrow may degenerate into vexation and chagrin" (Cogan); "I hid myself a fortnight in the country, that my chagrin might fume away without observation" (Johnson); "There was . . . some reason for your previous vanity, as well as your present mortification" (Stevenson); cf. "He did not wish, as it seemed, to mortify me by an absolute refusal" (De Quincey). Cf. HARASS, EMBARRASS.

Ant. — Peace, tranquillity, serenity; pleasure, satisfaction, gratification; mollification, propitiation, appeasement.

vex·a'tious (vĕks-ā'shŭs), adj. [See VEXATION.] 1. Causing vexation; annoying; also, troubling grievously; afflictive; as, a vexatious neighbor; sometimes, harassing by process of law; of actions, instituted chiefly to cause annoyance; as, a vexatious action. Cf. VEXATIOUS SUIT. "Continual vexatious wars." South.
2. Full of vexation, trouble, or disquiet; disturbed; as, he had a vexatious hour in court.

He leads a vexatious life. Sir K. Digby.

— vex·a'tious·ly, adv. — vex·a'tious·ness, n.

vexatious suit. Law. A suit instituted maliciously and without probable cause.

vex'a·to'ry (vĕk'sȧ-tō'rĭ; -tĕr-ĭ), adj. Vexatious.

vexed (vĕkst), past tense & past part. of VEX. Hence: adj. Harassed; afflicted; disturbed; agitated. — vex'ed·ly (vĕk'sĕd-lĭ; -sĭd-lĭ; 119), adv. — vex'ed·ness, n.

vex'er (vĕk'sĕr), n. One who or that which vexes.

vex'ful (vĕks'fo͝ol; -fĭ), adj. = Vexatious. Rare.

vex'il (vĕk'sĭl), n. [See VEXILLUM.] Bot. A vexillum.

Vex·il'la re'gis pro'de·unt (vĕk-sĭl'ȧ rē'jĭs prō'dē-ŭnt). [L., the banners of the king come forth.] A hymn on the Passion of Christ, written by Venantius Fortunatus, bishop of Poictiers (d. about 600) and assigned to Vespers during Passiontide. There are nearly fifty English translations.

vex·il·lar'i·ous (vĕk'sĭ-lâr'ĭ-ŭs), adj. = VEXILLARY.

vex'il·lar'y (vĕk'sĭ-lĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lēr-ĭ), n. [See VEXILLARY, adj.] In the Roman army, a veteran under a special standard; hence, a standard-bearer. Tennyson.

vex'il·lar'y, adj. [L. vexillarius a standard-bearer; cf. F. vexillaire. See VEXILLUM.] 1. Of or pertaining to an ensign or standard.
2. Bot. Pertaining to or designating the vexillum.

vexillary estivation. Bot. A mode of estivation in which one large upper petal folds over, and covers, the other smaller petals, as in most pea flowers.

vex'il·late (vĕk'sĭ-lāt), adj. Having a vexillum or vexilla.

vex'il·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [L. vexillatio.] Rom. Antiq. a A company of troops under one vexillum, detached for special service from a main body of soldiers. b Later, a regular troop of cavalry; also, a company of veterans of a legion.

vex·il'lum (vĕk-sĭl'ŭm), n.; pl. -LLA (-ȧ). [L., a standard, a flag. See VEIL.] 1. Rom. Antiq. a A square flag, hanging transversely from the end of a spear by a wooden crosspiece, used esp. by the cavalry. b A company of troops serving under one standard, esp. a company of privileged veterans connected with a legion.
2. The web or vane of a feather. See FEATHER, n., 1.
3. Bot. The large upper posterior petal in a pea flower; — in horticulture called also banner or standard.
4. Eccl. A processional standard, banner, or cross. Rare.

vf-, vg-. For words beginning with vf-, or vg-, see the forms in UF-, UG-.

V gear, or V'-gear', n. See V, adj. — V gearing, or V'-gear'ing, n.

V guideway, or V'-guide'way', n. See V, adj.

V hook, or V'-hook', n. See V, adj.

V'-hut', n. A primitive hut, a cross section of which is like an inverted letter V.

vi-. = VICE-, as in *vi*politic, *vi*president.

‖vi'a (vī'ȧ), n.; pl. VIAE (-ē). [L.; akin to Skr. vīthi row, road, way, Gr. oimos, Lith. vyti to drive, chase. See GAIN to acquire; cf. DEVIATE, FOY, VIADUCT, VOYAGE.] 1. A way. Specif.: a Anat. & Med. A passage; a vessel; — usually in pl.; as, viae naturales, the natural passages; viae chyliferae, the chyliferous vessels: primae viae (which see). b Roman Law. The servitude constituted by the right to pass over the land of another, including: iter, or the right to pass on foot; and actus, or the right to drive beasts or vehicles across.
2. Any one of a set of foreign drafts or bills of exchange drawn in duplicate or triplicate; — so called because each is commonly sent via a specified route.

vi'a (vī'ȧ; vē'ȧ), prep. [L., abl. of via way. See VIA, n.] By way of; by a route passing through; as, shipped to New York via the Panama Canal; also, Colloq., through the medium of; as, mirth evoked otherwise than via the ribs.

‖vi'a (vē'ä), interj. [It.] Away! Begone! Archaic.

‖vi'a a'mi·ca'bi·li (vī'ȧ ȧm'ĭ·kȧb'ĭ·lĭ). [L.] In a friendly way; amicably.

‖Vi'a Ap'pi·a (ăp'ĭ·ȧ). [L.] The Appian Way.

vi·a·bil'i·ty (vī'ȧ-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. viabilité.] Quality or state of being viable; ability to live, grow, and develop; as, the viability of certain grains under dry conditions.

vi'a·ble (vī'ȧ-b'l), adj. [F., fr. vie life, fr. L. vita. See VITAL.] 1. Capable of living; born alive and with such form and development of organs as to be normally capable of living; not born dead or with a necessarily mortal infirmity or malformation; — said of a newborn infant. Unless an infant is born viable, it is considered as if it had never been born, and acquires no rights, and can have no heirs at law.
2. Capable of growing or developing; as, viable seeds; viable eggs; viable ideas or theories.

‖Vi'a Cru'cis (krōō'sĭs). [L.] = WAY OF THE CROSS.

‖vi'a cru'cis, vi'a lu'cis (lū'sĭs). [L.] The way of the cross, the way of light.

Vi'a Dol'o·ro'sa (dŏl'ō-rō'sȧ). [LL. See VIA; DOLOROUS.] The Way of the Cross; the road at Jerusalem leading from Pilate's hall of judgment to Golgotha over which Jesus passed on his way to be crucified; — so called by Christians.

vi'a·duct (vī'ȧ-dŭkt), n. [L. via a way, road + -duct as in aqueduct; cf. F. viaduc after E. See VIA; AQUEDUCT.] A bridge, esp. one resting on a series of narrow reinforced concrete or masonry arches, having high supporting towers or piers, for carrying a road or railroad over a valley, gorge, road, or the like. Also, esp. in the United States, a steel structure made up of short spans carried on high steel towers.

Two Arches of a Reinforced Concrete Viaduct (Tunkhannock, Pa.).

‖vi'a fac'ti (făk'-tī). [ML., by way of deed.] In a forcible way.

vi·ag'gia·to'ry (vĭ·ăj'ȧ-tō'rĭ; -tĕr-ĭ), adj. [It. viaggiare to travel.] Traveling; restlessly journeying around. Rare.

vi'a·gram (vī'ȧ-grăm), n. [L. via road + -gram.] A diagram produced by a viagraph.

vi'a·graph (-grȧf), n. [L. via road + -graph.] An instrument mounted on wheels, used to determine the relative smoothness or roughness of pavement surfaces; — called also vialog or roughometer.

‖via·ja'ca (vyä·hä'kä; 162), n. [Sp. viajaca, biajaca, fr. Taino.] A small Cuban fresh-water food fish (Parapetenia tetracantha) of the family Cichlidae.

vi'al (vī'ȧl; 167), n. [ME. viole, var. of fiole. See PHIAL.] 1. A small vessel for liquids; now, usually, a small glass bottle, as for medicines or chemicals; a phial.

Take thou this vial, being then in bed,
And this distilled liquor drink thou off. Shak.

2. By extension, any container or receptacle like or suggesting in form, appearance, or function, a small bottle or phial.

— to pour out the vials of wrath on or upon. To visit vengeance or anger on. "Go your ways, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth" Rev. xvi. 1.

vi'al, v. t.; VI'ALED (-ȧld) or VI'ALLED; VI'AL·ING or VI'ALLING. To put into a vial or vials; to phial.

Vi'a Lac'te·a (lăk'tē-ȧ). [L.] Astron. The Milky Way.

‖vi'a la·sci'vi·a (lȧ-sĭv'ĭ-ȧ). See PALMISTRY, 1.

Vi'a La·ti'na (lȧ-tī'nȧ). [L., Latin way.] A great Roman highway, branching from the Appian Way and running southeast from Rome to Teanum and Beneventum.

‖vi'a me'di·a (mē'dĭ·ȧ). [L.] A middle way; a mean; a middle ground; a union of opposites; — often applied to the Anglican Church with reference to its relation to Catholicism and Protestantism.

vi'a·me'di·al·ism (vī'ȧ-mē'dĭ·ȧl-Ĭz'm), n. Adoption of the middle way; compromise. Rare. Cf. VIA MEDIA.

vi·am'e·ter (vĭ-ăm'ē-tĕr), n. [L. via a way + -meter.] Surv. A kind of perambulator or odometer to measure distance on roads.

‖vi'a mi'li·ta'ris (mĭl'ĭ·tā'rĭs; 79). [L.] A military road.

vi'and (vī'ȧnd), n. [OF. viande, fr. (assumed) VL. vivanda, for L. vivenda, neut. pl. gerundive of vivere to live. See VIVID; cf. VICTUAL.] An article of food; — chiefly in pl., provisions; food; fare.

vi'and·er (-ăn·dĕr), n. [OF. viandier.] Obs. a One who provides viands; one fond of good cheer; a host. b A vendor of foods. c = VIANDRY.

vi'and·ry (-drĭ), n. [viand + -ry.] Viands. Obs.

‖Vi'a Sa'cra (sā'krȧ). [L.] = SACRA VIA.

vi·at'ic (vĭ-ăt'ĭk), adj. Also vi·at'i·cal (-ĭ-kȧl). [L. viaticus, fr. via a way. See VOYAGE.] Of or pertaining to a road, or a journey or traveling.

vi·at'i·cals (-ĭ-kȧlz), n. pl. Baggage; impedimenta. Rare.

vi·at'i·cum (-ĭ-kŭm), n.; pl. VIATICA (-kȧ) VIATICUMS (-kŭmz). [L. fr. viaticus, adj. See VIATIC.] 1. Orig., at Rome, traveling money or supplies for a journey, esp. provision by the state for an official on a public mission; later, generally, an allowance, as of transportation or supplies money for traveling expenses.
2. Provisions for a journey.
3. Eccl. The Communion, or Eucharist, when given to one dying. Cf. EXTREME UNCTION.

vi·a'tor (vĭ-ā'tŏr), n.; pl. VIATORES (vī'ȧ-tō'rēz; 181). [L., fr. viare to journey, fr. via way. See VIATIC.] Traveler; wayfarer.

vi'a·to'ri·al (vī'ȧ-tō'rĭ·ȧl; 181), adj. Traveling; having to do with journeying. — vi'a·to'ri·al·ly, adv.

Vi'a Tri'um·pha'lis (trĭ'ŭm-fā'lĭs). [L.] Triumphal Way. See MEMORIAL ARCH.

vi·be'to·ite (vē-bā'tō-ĭt), n. [From Vibeto, Telemark, Norway.] Petrog. A melanocratic intrusive rock, consisting almost entirely of hornblende, pyroxene, and biotite with abundant apatite and calcite.

vi'bex (vī'bĕks), n.; pl. VIBICES (vĭ-bī'sēz). [L., the mark of a blow.] Med. A linear subcutaneous extravasation of blood.

vib'gyor (vĭb'gyôr; vĭb-gī'ŏr). A mnemonic word, the letters of which are the initials of the seven colors, in order, of the spectrum as described by Newton (violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange, red).

‖vi'bo·ra de la cruz' (vē'bō-rä dā lä krōōs'; 98; 267). [Sp., viper of the cross.] A venomous pit viper (Bothrops alternata) of South America.

Vi'borg Man'i·fes'to (vē'bôr-y'). Russ. Hist. A manifesto issued at Viborg (now Viipuri), Finland, July 23, 1906, by about 200 members of the first Russian Duma after its dissolution. It advocated nonpayment of taxes and refusal to enter the army.

vi·brac'u·lar'i·um (vĭ-brăk'ū-lâr'ĭ·ŭm; 79), n. [NL.] Zool. A vibraculum.

vi·brac'u·lum (vĭ-brăk'ū-lŭm), n.; pl. VIBRACULA (-lȧ). [NL. dim. fr. L. vibrare to vibrate.] Zool. One of the movable, slender, spinelike organs or parts with which certain bryozoans are furnished, regarded as specially modified zooids, of nearly the same nature as avicularia. See POLYZOA 1. — vi·brac'u·lar (-lĕr), adj. — vi·brac'u·loid (-loid), adj.

o, o, o Vibracula of Cellularia ternata; a, a Avicularia; o, o Oœcia; s, s Shields in front of Zooecia. (× 16) vi·bran'cy (vī'brăn-sĭ), n.; pl. -CIES (-sĭz). Quality or state of being vibrant; resonance; vibration.

vi'brant (vī'brănt), adj. [L. vibrans, -antis, pres. part.; cf. F. vibrant. See VIBRATE.] a Vibrating; pulsing; as, cities vibrant with life and energy. b Vigorous; as a vibrant personality, character. c Thrilling; tremulously agitated; as, vibrant feelings. d Sounding as a result of vibration; hence, resonant; sonorous; resounding; as, a vibrant drum or voice. — vi'brant·ly, adv.

vi'bra·phone (vī'brȧ-fōn), n. [See VIBRATE; -PHONE.] Music. A percussion instrument resembling the glockenspiel but having motor-driven resonators for sustaining the tone and producing a vibrato effect.

vi'brate (vī'brāt), v.; -BRAT·ED (-brāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -BRAT·ING (-brāt·ĭng). [L. vibratus past part. of vibrare to shake, brandish, vibrate; akin to Goth. weipan to crown, AS. wīpian to wipe, and to ON. veifa to wave, vibrate, Skr. vepate he trembles. Cf. GUIPURE, VIPER, WAIF, WHIP, WIPE.] Transitive: 1. To swing or move to and fro; to brandish; as, to vibrate a sword; also, to throw, cast, or launch, with or as with a vibratory motion; as, to vibrate threats; gods who vibrate thunderbolts.
2. To mark or measure by oscillation, or moving or swinging to and fro; as, a pendulum vibrating seconds.
3. To set in vibration; also, to send forth with or as with an oscillating movement. See VIBRATION, n., 3.
4. To treat by vibration; to compress or compact by vibration; as, to vibrate a freshly laid concrete pavement slab with motor-driven hammer.

—, Intransitive: 1. To move to and fro, or from side to side; esp., to swing like a pendulum; to oscillate.
2. To be in a state of vibration; to quiver. See VIBRATION, n., 3.
3. Hence: a To thrill; throb; as, his heart vibrates to the call. b To waver; fluctuate; as, to vibrate between two opinions.
4. To produce an oscillating or quivering effect or sound; as, a whisper vibrates on the ear.

Syn. — See FLUCTUATE.

vi'bra·tile (vī'brȧ-tĭl; -tīl; 155), adj. [Cf. F. vibratile.] Adapted to, or used in, vibratory motion; as, the vibratile organs of insects; characterized by vibration; vibratory; oscillating. — vi'bra·til'i·ty (-tĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.

vi'bra·tile, n. Something that vibrates or oscillates.

vi'brat·ing (vī'brāt-ĭng), adj. That vibrates. — vi'brat·ing·ly, adv.

vibrating screen. A device for screening, esp. fine dry material such as ore, coal, etc., in which the screening surface is vibrated mechanically at high speed.

vi·bra'tion (vī-brā'shŭn), n. [L. vibratio; cf. F. vibration.] 1. Act of vibrating, or state of being vibrated, or in vibratory motion; specif., oscillation, as of a pendulum; also, a quivering or trembling motion; quiver.
2. a Figuratively, vacillation; changeableness, as in opinion or doctrine. b A pulsing, throbbing, or thrilling, effect or appearance, as of a living body; as, this artist in his painting gained an effect of greater vibration and luminosity.
3. Physics. A periodic motion of the particles of an elastic body or medium in alternately opposite directions from the position of equilibrium, when that equilibrium has been disturbed, as when a stretched cord or other body produces musical tones, or particles of air transmit sounds to the ear. The path of the particle may be in a straight line, in a circular arc, or in any curve whatever. "One vibration" is commonly understood to mean the complete movement described by the particle during one period, or until the periodic motion begins to repeat itself, but sometimes one half of the periodic motion is so called. In transverse vibration the vibrations of the individual particles of the medium are perpendicular to the direction of advance of the wave. In longitudinal vibration, the vibrations are in the line of advance of the wave. Cf. FREE VIBRATION, FORCED VIBRATION, SYMPATHETIC VIBRATION.

vi·bra'tion·al (-ȧl; -'l), adj. Of or pertaining to vibration; having a periodic or harmonic motion.

vibrational number (of a tone). The number of vibrations per second.

vibrational quantum number. Physics. A scalar quantum number which determines the energy of a harmonic, or an approximately harmonic, vibrating atomic system.

vi·bra'tion·less (vĭ-brā'shŭn-lĕs; -lĭs, 119), adj. See -LESS.

vibration massage. Massage with a vibrating instrument or with the hands attached to a motor causing vibration.

vibration number. See 4th PITCH, 19.

vibration point. In internal-combustion engines, the speed of rotation at which vibration takes place.

vi·bra'tion-proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

vi·bra'ti·un'cle (vĭ-brā'shĭ-ŭng'k'l), n. [Dim. of vibration.] A slight vibration. Rare. — vi·bra'ti·un'cu·la'tion (-kū-lā'shŭn), n. Rare.

vi'bra·tive (vī'brȧ-tĭv), adj. Vibratory.

vi·bra'to (vē-brä'tō), n. [It., past part. of vibrare to vibrate.] a Music. A slightly tremulous or pulsating effect (but not a tremolo) for adding warmth and beauty to the tone or for expressing changes in emotional intensity. It consists in slight and rapid variations in the pitch of the tone being produced and is most effective in the case of comparatively long tones. In playing on stringed instruments it is produced by a rapid rocking of the finger upon the string. b In speech, esp. emotional speech, similar periodic fluctuations of sustained tones or tones of steadily changing pitch.

vi·bra·tor (vī'brȧ-tĕr), n. 1. One who or that which vibrates, or causes vibration or oscillation of any kind; as: a A vibrating electrical apparatus used in massage. b An ink-distributing roller in a printing machine, having an additional vibratory motion. c An attachment, usually pneumatic, in a molding machine to shake the pattern loose.
2. Elec. a A trembler, as of an electric bell. b A vibrating reed for transmitting or receiving pulsating currents in a harmonic telegraph system. c A device for vibrating the pen of a siphon recorder to diminish frictional resistance on the paper. d An oscillator.
3. Horol. A device consisting of a standard balance and standard balance spring used for determining the strength of balance springs by a comparison of the vibrations.
4. Music. Any vibrating object producing tone, as a violin string or a reed in an organ.
5. Weaving. Any of various vibrating devices, as one for slackening the warp as a shed opens.

vi'bra·to'ry (vī'brȧ-tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr-ĭ), adj. [Cf. F. vibratoire.] 1. Consisting in, capable of, or causing, vibration or oscillation; characterized by vibration; vibrant; vibrating.

---

vex'il·lar (vĕk'sĭ-lĕr), adj. = VEXILLARY. vex'il·la'tor (vĕk'sĭ-lā'tĕr), n. A vexillary. Obs. vex'ing·ly, adv. of vexing, pres. part.
vex'ing·ness, n. See -NESS. vext. Archaic, poetic, or ref. sp. of VEXED. veyn. ✝ FEIGN; VAIN; VEIN; WENE, weening. veyne. ✝ VEIN. veyne'blod', n. [See VEIN; BLOOD.] Bleeding at a vein. Obs. vey'or, n. [OF. veiour. See SURVEY.] Inspector. Obs. veze (vēz). Var. of FEEZE. Obs. exc. Dial. ve·zir', ve·zir'ate. Var. of VIZIER, VIZIERATE. viador. ✝ VEEDOR. viage. ✝ VOYAGE.
vi·ag'ge·to'ry. Var. of VIAGGIATORY. vi'al·ful, n.; pl. -FULS. See -FUL. vi'a·logue (vī'ȧ-lŏg; 185), n. Also -log. = VIAGRAPH. vi'al·mak'er, n. See -MAKER. — vi'al·mak'ing, n. & adj.
vi' ap'ple (vē). [Tahitian vi, the tree.] = OTAHEITE APPLE 2. vi'a·tom'e·ter (vī'ȧ-tŏm'ē-tĕr), n. = VIAMETER. [BEX.
vi·bi'ces (vĭ-bī'sēz), n., pl. of VI-vi'bix (vī'bĭks), n. [L.] = VI-BEX. [BRANCY. vi'brance (vī'brăns), n. = VI-

---

out, oil; cūbe, ŭnite, ûrn, ŭp, circŭs, menü; chair; go; sing; then, thin; nature, verdure (249); K = ch in G. ich, ach (109); BON; yet; zh = z in azure.

Numbers within pronunciation parentheses here and in vocabulary refer to §§ in Pron., preceding the Vocabulary.

2. Designating or affecting a sense responsive to vibrations and believed by some to be distinct from the sense of touch.

vibratory current. Elec. An oscillatory or pulsatory current.

vibratory massage. Vibration massage.

Vib'ri·o (vĭb'rĭ·ō), n. [NL., fr. L. vibrare to vibrate.] Bacteriol. a A genus of short, rigid, motile bacteria of the family Spirillaceae, having a polar flagellum (rarely two or three), and typically shaped like a comma or an S. They occur singly or united into spirals. Most species are saprophytic. The most important form, V. comma (syn. Spirillum cholerae asiaticae), causes Asiatic cholera. b [not cap.] Any bacterium of this genus. — vib'ri·oid (-oid), adj.

vib'ri·oid (-oid), n. A vibrioid body.

vibrioid body. Bot. One of certain slender cylindrical bodies found abundantly in the superficial layers of the cytoplasm of some fungi and algae. They resemble in appearance and size certain common bacilli.

vib'ri·on (vĭb'rĭ·ŏn), n. [NL.] Bacteriol. A bacterium; specif., ‖vi'bri'on' sep'tique' (vē'brē'ôn' sĕp'tēk'), the bacillus causing malignant edema (Clostridium oedematis-maligni). — vib'ri·on'ic (vĭb'rĭ·ŏn'ĭk), adj.

vi·bris'sa (vī·brĭs'ä), n.; pl. -SAE (-ē). [L. vibrissae, pl., fr. vibrare to vibrate.] 1. Anat. & Zool. One of the stiff hairs which grow about the nostrils, or on other parts of the face, in many animals, as the so-called whiskers of the cat, and the hairs of the nostrils of man. Though not themselves sensitive, they often serve as tactile organs. Also, a similar stiff tactile hair growing elsewhere on some animals, as in a small tuft at the wrist.

2. Zool. One of the bristlelike feathers near the mouth of many birds; — chiefly in pl. They occur chiefly in insectivorous birds and may help to prevent the escape of insects.

vi·bris'sal (-ăl; -'l), adj. Of or pertaining to a vibrissa.

vi'bro- (vī'brō-). A combining form, from Latin vibrare, to vibrate, denoting vibration, as in vi'bro·mas·sage', vi'bro·mo'tive, vi'bro·phone.

vi'bro·graph (vī'brō·grăf), n. [vibro- + -graph.] An instrument to observe and record vibrations.

vi·brom'e·ter (vī·brŏm'ĕ·tĕr), n. [See -METER.] 1. = VIBROGRAPH.

2. Med. A device for treating disease of the ear by causing vibrations of the drum membrane.

vi'bro·scope (vī'brō·skōp), n. [vibro- + -scope.] An instrument for observing or tracing vibrations; also, an instrument resembling the phenakistoscope. — vi'bro·scop'ic (-skŏp'ĭk), adj.

vi'bro·ther'a·peu'tics (-thĕr'ä·pū'tĭks), n. [vibro- + -therapeutics.] Med. The treatment of disease by mechanical vibration.

vi·bur'nin (vī·bûr'nĭn), n. A bitter glucoside occurring in the root bark of Viburnum prunifolium.

Vi·bur'num (vī·bûr'nŭm), n. [L., the wayfaring tree, of obscure origin. Cf. LIANA.] Bot. a A large genus of widely distributed shrubs or trees (family Caprifoliaceae), having simple leaves and white or rarely pink cymose flowers with a regular 5-lobed corolla, a 3-lobed style, and a 1–3-celled ovary, becoming in fruit a one-seeded drupe. There are numerous American species, as a black haw (V. prunifolium), sheepberry (V. lentago), withe rod (V. cassinoides and V. nudum), dockmackie (V. acerifolium), etc. The European species, V. tinus, the laurustine, V. opulus, the cranberry tree, and V. lantana, the wayfaring tree, certain American species, and V. tomentosum of China, are cultivated. See GUELDER-ROSE. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus. — vi·bur'nic (-nĭk), adj.

‖vi'caire' (vē'kâr'), n. [F.] R.C.Ch. A curate, or assistant to a rector; assistant pastor. France & Canada.

Vi'ca Po'ta (vī'kä pō'tä). [L., fr. vincere to conquer + potiri to gain power over.] Rom. Relig. A goddess of victory, one of the di indigetes (see DI).

vic'ar (vĭk'ĕr), n. [ME. vicar, viker, vicair, fr. OF. vicaire, fr. L. vicarius. See VICARIOUS.] 1. A substitute in office; a deputy or vicegerent, as the administrative officer of a diocese in the Roman Empire or of a district under a Frankish count.

2. Hence, broadly, a proxy; deputy; substitute; as, God's vicar; the vicar of Christ.

The Ram, which was to serve as the vicar of Isaac. Thackeray.

3. Eng. Eccl. Law. The incumbent of an impropriated (or formerly appropriated) benefice; the priest of a parish the owner of the tithes of which is a layman (or formerly a spiritual corporation); any incumbent of a parish not a rector, as one formerly called a perpetual curate. Vicars receive a salary or, if they have tithes, usually the small tithes. Cf. RECTOR, 3 a; PARSON, 1; CURATE, 1.

4. Prot. Episc. Ch. A clergyman in charge of a dependent chapel as the deputy of another clergyman.

5. R.C.Ch. An ecclesiastic who acts as substitute for, or representative of, another, ordinarily with jurisdiction in foro externo (see FORUM EXTERNUM); — used with a qualifying word, as in vicar-general.

vic'ar·age (vĭk'ĕr·ĭj), n. 1. The benefice of a vicar; also, Hist., tithes or dues paid to a vicar.

2. The house, residence, or household, of a vicar.

3. The office, function, or duty, of a vicar; vicarship. Rare.

vicarage tithes. See TITHE, n., 1.

vicar apostolic, or apostolic vicar. R.C.Ch. a Formerly, a bishop or archbishop to whom the Pope delegated a portion of his jurisdiction. b A prelate commissioned by the Holy See to administer a diocese which is vacant or in which the ordinary is incapacitated. c A titular bishop, acting as delegate of the Holy See in regions where the ordinary hierarchy has not been established.

vic'ar·ate (vĭk'ĕr·āt), n. A vicariate.

vicar capitular. R.C.Ch. One who is elected by the chapter, after a see is vacant, to govern the diocese until the election of a new bishop.

vicar choral. Ch. of Eng. In a cathedral, one of a number of clergy or laymen whose duty is to sing a portion of the music of the services. In some of the cathedrals of the Old Foundation they form a corporation often jointly with the priest vicars.

vic'ar·ess (vĭk'ĕr·ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. 1. A female vicar; also, a vicar's wife.

2. In a convent organization, the title of the sister ranking next below the abbess or mother superior.

vicar forane. [Cf. ML. foraneus situated outside of the episcopal city, rural; see FORANE, FOREIGN.] R.C.Ch. An ecclesiastic or parish priest appointed by a bishop to exercise a limited jurisdiction in a particular town or district of his diocese; — now called dean.

vic'ar–gen'er·al, n.; pl. VICARS-GENERAL. 1. Ch. of Eng. A lay legal officer who acts as deputy of the Archbishop of Canterbury or York in certain matters. In his court the bishops of the province are confirmed. He has jurisdiction over marriage licenses and institutions to benefices, etc. The chancellor of a bishop acts as his vicar-general and in some dioceses bears this title. See Forms of Address, in Appendix.

2. Eng. Hist. The king's ecclesiastical vicegerent. The only vicar-general was Thomas Cromwell.

3. R.C.Ch. a [sometimes cap.] A title of the pope as a substitute for Christ at the head of the church. b The deputy of a bishop in the discharge of his jurisdictional functions. He cannot exercise any functions which belong exclusively to the episcopal order.

vi·car'i·al (vī·kâr'ĭ·ăl; vĭ-; 79), adj. [Cf. F. vicarial.] 1. Of, pert. to, being, or acting as, a vicar; as, vicarial duties.

A child swinging on a gate would smile at him shyly as he waved a vicarial hand. Sheila Kaye-Smith.

2. Vicarious; delegated; substitutional; as, vicarial power.

vi·car'i·an (vī·kâr'ĭ·ăn; vĭ-), n. 1. A deputy. Obs.

2. A believer in the system by which one person can substitute for another in the performance of religious duties. — vi·car'i·an·ism (-Iz'm), n.

vi·car'i·ate (-āt), n. [ML. vicariatus; cf. F. vicariat.] 1. The office, authority, or jurisdiction, of a vicar; vicarship; specif.: a More fully vicariate apostolic. The office or jurisdiction of a vicar apostolic. b The period of a vicar's incumbency.

2. A governmental or administrative office held by a deputy; also, a district governed or administered by a deputy.

vi·car'i·ate (-āt), adj. Having delegated power, as a vicar; vicarious.

vi·car'i·ate (-āt), v. i. To serve as a deputy.

vi·car'i·ous (-ŭs), adj. [L. vicarius, fr. vicis change, alternation, the place or office of one person as assumed by another; prob. akin to G. wechsel a change, E. week, and perh. to Gr. eikein to yield, give, and E. weak. See WEEK; cf. VICAR, VICE, prep.] 1. Of or pertaining to a vicar, substitute, or deputy; deputed; delegated; as, vicarious power or authority.

2. Acting on behalf of or as representing another; substituted for another; as, a vicarious agent or officer; also, based on the principle of substitution of one for another.

3. Performed or suffered by one person with results accruing to the benefit or advantage of another; substituted; substitutional; as, a vicarious sacrifice, punishment; men who live by vicarious labor; sins expiated by the vicarious virtues and deeds of the saints; also, enjoyed by one person through his sympathetic participation in the experience of another person; as, vicarious pleasure; a vicarious thrill.

4. Med. Acting as or being a substitute; also, occurring in an abnormal situation; replacing a discharge from a usual part; as vicarious menstruation, a discharge of blood from some part or organ other than the uterus, with suppression of the menses.

5. Paleontol. Taking the place of; — said of closely related species or genera in strata of the same age but of separated regions.

— vi·car'i·ous·ly, adv. — vi·car'i·ous·ness, n.

‖vi·ca'ri·us (vī·kā'rĭ·ŭs; 79), n.; pl. -RII (-ī). [L.] A vicar.

vic'ar·ly (vĭk'ĕr·lĭ), adj. Like a vicar; of or belonging to a vicar; suggesting a vicar, as in garb or manner.

Vic'ar of Bray (brā). A vicar of the parish of Bray, Berkshire, England, who is said to have been twice a Roman Catholic and twice a Protestant, in four successive English reigns, between 1520 and 1560. His name is variously given as Symonds, Alleyn, or Pendleton, and some place him at a later period. Hence, now commonly, one who deserts his party; a turncoat.

Vicar of (Jesus) Christ. R.C.Ch. The Pope, regarded as head of the Church and representative on earth of Christ.

Vic'ar of Wake'field (wāk'fēld). The title and hero of a novel (1766) by Goldsmith. See PRIMROSE, CHARLES.

vicar parochial. A curate; a chaplain.

Vi'cat' ap'pa·ra'tus (vē'kä'). [After L. J. Vicat (1786–1861), French engineer.] A device for determining the normal consistency and time of setting of Portland cements. It consists of a rod weighing 300 grams, having a needle (Vicat needle) in each end and supported in a frame with a graduated scale to measure the distance to which the needle penetrates the cement.

vice (vīs), n. [OF., fr. L. vitium, of uncert. origin. Cf. VICIOUS, VITIATE, VITUPERATE.] 1. A moral fault or failing; esp., immoral conduct or habit, as in the indulgence of degrading appetites; as, the vice of gluttony.

I do confess the vices of my blood. Shak.

2. State of being given up to evil conduct or habit; depravity; wickedness; corruption.

When vice prevails, and impious men bear sway. Addison.

3. A physical defect, deformity, taint, or imperfection.

4. [cap.] The buffoon of old English moralities, often named from some particular vice; — called also Iniquity. Obs. exc. Hist.

5. A fault; blemish; defect; as, the vices of a political constitution; a vice of form or style.

Withouten vice of syllable or letter. Chaucer.

6. Viciousness; harmfulness. Rare.

7. In a horse, dog, etc., a failing, bad habit, or trick; as, timidity is a vice in a horse.

Syn. — Sin, iniquity. See CRIME.

Ant. — Virtue, righteousness. See GOODNESS.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vice-begotten	vice-guilty	vice-rebuking vice-bitten	vice-haunted	vice-sick vice-corrupted	vice-loathing	vice-squandered vice-created	vice-marred	vice-taming vice-detesting	vice-polluted	vice-upbraiding vice-freed	vice-punishing	vice-worn vice (vīs), n. [See VISE.] 1. a A vise. See VISE, 2 & 3. b Obs. A screw; also, a press operated by a screw. c Obs. A stopper, as for a cask, which screws into its opening.

2. A winding stairway; also, in a winding stairway, the central shaft. Obs.

3. A contrivance used in operating some apparatus; a device. Obs.

4. A grip, or grasp. Obs. Shak.

vice, v. t.; VICED (vīst); VIC'ING (vīs'ĭng). To hold, force, or squeeze, with or as if with a vice (vise). Rare.

vi'ce (vī'sē), n. Place; stead; also, Obs., turn. Chiefly Scot.

vi'ce (vī'sē), prep. [L., abl. of vicis change, turn. See VICARIOUS.] In the place of; in the stead of; succeeding; as, A. B. was appointed postmaster vice C. D. resigned.

vice (vīs), n. Colloq. a A proxy; substitute. b Short for VICE-ADMIRAL, VICE-CHAIRMAN, etc., according to context.

vice- (vīs-). [Cf. F. vice-. See VICE, prep.] A prefix used with nouns (and their derivatives) which designate persons, esp. by their title of office, meaning in general one who takes the place of; specif., denoting one who in certain cases may assume the office or duties of a superior having a (specified) title; also, denoting one delegated to act as deputy or substitute for another, as in viceroy, vice-chancellor, vice-presidency. Often officially written separately, as in Vice President.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

vice-abbot	vice-Godhead	vice-principalship vice-agent	vice-government	vice-prior vice-Apollo	vice-governor	vice-protector vice-apostle	vice-governorship	vice-provost vice-apostolical	vice-headmaster	vice-provostship vice-architect	vice-husband	vice-rector vice-bishop	vice-imperial	vice-rectorship vice-burgomaster	vice-kingdom	vice-regency vice-butler	vice-legateship	vice-reign vice-caliph	vice-librarian	vice-residency vice-cancellarian	vice-lieutenant	vice-resident vice-chair	vice-marshal	vice-secretary vice-chairman	vice-master	vice-sheriff vice-Christ	vice-ministerial	vice-stadtholder vice-collector	vice-nature	vice-steward vice-commodore	vice-palatine	vice-sultan vice-constable	vice-papacy	vice-throne vice-dean	vice-patron	vice-treasurer vice-deity	vice-patronage	vice-treasurership vice-dictator	vice-pope	vice-trustee vice-director	vice-porter	vice-verger vice-emperor	vice-postulator	vice-vicinity vice-favorite	vice-prefect	vice-warden vice-general	vice-priest	vice-wardenry vice-God	vice-principal	vice-wardenship vice'–ad'mi·ral, n. [Cf. F. vice-amiral.] a See ADMIRAL, 3; PRECEDENCE. b Obs. A ship of war under the command of a vice-admiral. c A civil officer, in Great Britain, its colonies and provinces, exercising admiralty jurisdiction within a particular district. See PRECEDENCE.

vice'–ad'mi·ral·ty, n. a The office of a vice-admiral. b The district under the jurisdiction of a vice-admiral (sense c) vice–admiralty court. Eng. Law. A branch of the High Court of Admiralty of the home government established in a colony beyond the seas, in which the governor of the colony, in his capacity as "vice-admiral of the same," exercises his judicial authority for the trial of maritime causes of a civil nature.

vice cap, chuck, etc. = VISE CAP, VISE CHUCK, etc.

vice'–cham'ber·lain, n. A deputy of a chamberlain; esp., the deputy of the Lord Chamberlain of England, officer of the royal household.

vice'–chan'cel·lor, n. A deputy for, or an officer next below in rank to, an official holding the title of chancellor; as, the vice-chancellor of a university. Specif.: a Law. A judge appointed to act for, or as the assistant of, the chancellor; as: (1) Formerly (prior to the Judicature Act of 1873), one appointed in the Chancery Court in England. (2) One appointed to assist the chancellor of the University of Oxford, Eng. (3) One in the chancery courts of New Jersey. b Before the reorganization of the Roman Curia by Pius XIII 1908, the Cardinal-head of the apostolic chancery; — now called chancellor. See PRECEDENCE; also Forms of Address, in Appendix.

vi'ce·co'mes (vī'sĕ·kō'mēz), n.; pl. -COMITES (-kŏm'ĭ·tēz). [ML.] 1. = VISCOUNT, 1. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. Formerly, in England, a sheriff.

vi'ce·com'i·tal (-kŏm'ĭ·tăl), adj. [ML. vicecomitalis.] Vicontiel.

vice'–con'sul, n. A consular officer subordinate to a consul general or to a consul. In the U. S. consular service, there are two classes: vice-consuls of career, who are members of the Foreign Service; and noncareer vice-consuls, appointed without examination. See CONSUL, 3; CAREER, n., 4; FOREIGN SERVICE, 2; also Forms of Address, in Appendix. — vice'–con'su·lar, adj. — vice'–con'su·late, n. — vice'–con'sul·ship, n.

vice'–coun'ty, n. 1. A viscounty. Obs.

2. A subdivision of a county.

vice'ge'ral (vīs'jĕr'ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to a vicegerent.

vice'ge'ren·cy (-jĕr'ĕn·sĭ), n. Also, Rare, vice'ge'rence (-ĕns). [ML. vicegerentia.] The office, authority, or administration, of a vicegerent; also, a district governed by a vicegerent.

vice'ge'rent (-jĕr'ĕnt), n. [ML. vicegerens, -entis; cf. F. vice-gérant. See VICE-; GERENT.] 1. An officer deputed by a superior, as a monarch, or by proper authority, to exercise the powers of another; a lieutenant; vicar.

2. Specif., a person conceived of as deputed by God to exercise His authority in government, religion, etc.; as, kings who considered themselves vicegerents in their dominions; the Pope as vicegerent of God.

vice'ge'rent, adj. Having or exercising delegated power; acting by substitution, or in the place of one delegating his power.

vice'–king', n. One who acts in the place of a king; a viceroy.

vice'–leg'ate, n. [Cf. F. vice-légat.] The deputy of a papal legate. See LEGATE, 1.

vic'e·nar'y (vĭs'ĕ·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. vicenarius, fr. viceni twenty each; akin to L. viginti twenty, Gr. eikosi, Skr. viṁśati. Cf. VIGESIMAL.] a Of or pertaining to twenty; consisting of twenty. b Using 20 as radix or base; — said of a system of notation.

vi·cen'ni·al (vī·sĕn'ĭ·ăl), adj. [L. vicennium a period of twenty years, fr. vicies twenty times + annus year.] a Lasting or comprising twenty years. b Happening once in twenty years; as, a vicennial celebration.

vice'–pres'i·den·cy, n. The office of vice-president.

vice'–pres'i·dent, n. Also vice president. [Cf. F. vice-président.] An officer next in rank below a president, acting as president in case of that officer's absence or disability. The Vice-President of the United States (who has no part in the executive function, but acts as president of the Senate) is elected at the same time and in the same way as the President. He becomes President in case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability, of that officer (Const. Art. II, sec. 1, § 5). See Forms of Address, in Appendix; PRECEDENCE. — vice'–pres·i·den'tial, adj.

vice'–queen', n. a A woman ruling as the deputy of a sovereign. b A viceroy's wife.

vice're'gal (vīs'rē'găl), adj. [See VICEROY; REGAL.] Of or pertaining to a viceroy or viceroyalty. — vice're'gal·ly, adv.

vice'–re'gent, n. A deputy regent. — vice'–re'gent, adj.

vice'reine (vīs'rān; F. vēs'rân'), n. [F. vice-reine, fr. vice- (see VICEROY) + reine queen.] a The wife of a viceroy. b = VICE-QUEEN a.

vice'roy (vīs'roi), n. [F. vice-roi, fr. vice- in the place of (fr. L. vice) + roi king, fr. L. rex. See VICE-; ROYAL.] 1. The governor of a country or province who rules as the representative of his king or sovereign and has power to vic'ar·cho'ral·ship, n. See -SHIP. vic'ar·gen'er·al·ship', n. See -SHIP. vicarial tithes. See TITHE, n., 1. vi·car'i·ate·ship', n. See -SHIP. vicarious atonement. See ATONEMENT, 3. vic'ar·ship, n. See -SHIP.

---

vic'a·ry, n. Obs. a = VICAR. b = VICARSHIP. vice'–ad'mi·ral·ship', n. See -SHIP.
vice'–chan'cel·lor·ship', n. See -SHIP. vice'–count', n. = VISCOUNT. Obs. viced (vīst), adj. Having vices; — used in composition. Obs. vice'ge'rent·ship, n. See -SHIP. vice'less, adj. See -LESS. vice'like', adj. See -LIKE.
vice'man. Var. of VISEMAN. vice'–pres'i·dent·ship', n. See -SHIP. vice'–re'gal·ize, v. t. See -IZE.

act generally in the name and behalf of his sovereign. Prior to Aug. 15, 1947 the Viceroy of India was the representative of the British crown. In the case of Musgrave v. Pulido (5 App. Cas. 102) it was held that a governor of a colony (in ordinary cases) cannot be regarded as a viceroy. See Forms of Address, in Appendix.

2. A handsome American butterfly (Basilarchia archippus), closely mimicking the monarch butterfly (Anosia plexippus) in coloration, but of smaller size. The larvæ feed on willow, poplar, and apple trees.

Viceroy Butterfly (Basilarchia archippus). r Wings reversed to show underside.

vice′roy′al (vīs′roi′ăl), adj. Viceregal.

vice′roy′al·ty (-tĭ), n. The dignity, office, or jurisdiction of a viceroy; also, the period occupied by the administration of a (specified) viceroy.

vi′ce·ty (vī′sē·tĭ), n. [From VICE fault.] Fault; defect. R.

vi′ce ver′sa (vī′sē vûr′sä). [L.] The alternation or order being changed; the relations being reversed; conversely.

vi′ce·ver′sal·ly (vī′sē·vûr′săl·ĭ), adv. Vice versa. Rare.

Vich′ I′an Vohr′ (vĭk′ ē′ăn vôr′), Literally, Son of John the Great; — Highlanders' name for Fergus MacIvor. See MACIVOR, FLORA.

‖vi′chy′ (vē′shē′), n. [F.] A cotton dress fabric, generally woven with two threads of different colors.

Vi′chy salt (vĭsh′ĭ; F. vē′shē′). A mixture of salts obtained on evaporating to dryness Vichy water; also, any similar mixture. See VICHY WATER.

Vichy water, or, [also not cap.] Colloq., Vi′chy, n. A mineral water at Vichy, France, which is essentially an effervescent solution of sodium, calcium, and magnesium carbonates, with sodium and potassium chlorides; also, by extension, any artificial or natural water resembling in composition this Vichy water.

Vi′ci·a (vĭsh′ĭ·ä; vĭs′ĭ·ä), n. [L., vetch. See VETCH.] Bot. A large widely distributed genus of often climbing herbs (family Fabaceæ), including the vetches and the broad bean (V. faba), having pinnate leaves and blue, purple, or yellow flowers either solitary or in axillary racemes, the style usually beaked or tufted, and the ovary containing numerous ovules. Syn. Faba. See VETCH a, HAIRY VETCH.

vi′ci·a·nin (vĭsh′ĭ·ä·nĭn), n. A crystalline glucoside, $C_{19}H_{28}NO_{10}$, found in the seeds of the vetch Vicia angustifolia. On hydrolysis it yields vicianose and mandelic nitrile.

vi′ci·a·nose (-nōs), n. [vicianin + 2d -ose a.] Chem. A crystalline sugar, $C_{11}H_{19}O_{10}$, obtained by hydrolysis of vicianin. It in turn yields on hydrolysis dextrose and arabinose.

vic′i·lin (vĭs′ĭ·lĭn), n. [See VICIA.] Biochem. A globulin associated with legumin in the pea, lentil, broad bean, etc.

vic′i·nage (vĭs′ĭ·nĭj), n. [ME., fr. OF. visenage, voisinage, fr. L. vicinus. See VICINITY.] 1. The place or places adjoining or near; neighborhood; vicinity; as, a jury must be of the vicinage; by extension, the people of a designated vicinity or neighborhood.

2. Early Eng. Law. A certain right of common arising to neighboring tenants of the same barony and fee.

vic′i·nal (-năl), adj. [L. vicinalis, fr. vicinus neighbor. See VICINAGE.] 1. Neighboring; neighborhood; adjacent; near-by.

2. Designating a local road as disting. from a highway.

3. Mineral. Designating subordinate forms or faces on a crystal, which sometimes take the place of the fundamental ones, approaching them very closely in angle. They have in general very complex symbols.

4. Org. Chem. Pertaining to or designating derivatives of benzene or other cyclic compounds in which three or four substituting groups are adjacent, in the positions 1, 2, 3, or 1, 2, 3, 4; — called also adjacent, neighboring, or consecutive. See BENZENE RING. Abbr. v.

vic′ine (vĭs′ĭn), adj. [L. vicinus.] Neighboring. Rare.

vic′ine (vĭs′ēn; -ĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [L. vicia vetch.] Chem. A white crystalline nucleoside, $C_{10}H_{16}N_4O_7$, obtained from seeds of vetches (genus Vicia), beets, etc.

vi·cin′i·ty (vĭ·sĭn′ĭ·tĭ; formerly, and still by some, esp. in British usage, also vī-), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. vicinitas, fr. vicinus neighboring, near, fr. vicus a group of houses, a village; akin to Gr. oikos a house, Skr. viś settlement, clan, folk, veśa a house, Goth. weihs village. Cf. DIOCESE, ECONOMY, PARISH, VICINAGE, VIKING, VILLAGE, WICK a village.] 1. Quality or state of being near, or not remote; nearness; propinquity; proximity; as, towns in close vicinity.

A vicinity of disposition and relative tempers. Jer. Taylor.

2. A region about, near, or adjacent; adjoining space or country; neighborhood; as, the vicinity of London.

3. Near relationship, as of blood; also, resemblance. Obs.

Syn. — See NEIGHBORHOOD.

vi′cious (vĭsh′ŭs), adj. [OF. (F. vicieux), fr. L. vitiosus, fr. vitium vice. See VICE fault.] 1. Addicted to vice, or immorality; corrupt in principles or conduct; depraved; wicked; as, vicious men or conduct; a vicious act.

2. Characterized by vice, or defect; defective; faulty; imperfect; incorrect; as, vicious reasoning, pronunciation.

Some vicious mole of nature in them. Shak.

3. Impure; foul; noxious; as, vicious air, water, etc.

4. Spiteful; malignant; as, a vicious slander. Colloq.

5. Not well tamed or broken; given to bad tricks; unruly; refractory; as, a vicious horse.

6. Exceedingly rough; mountainous; broken; — said of land, scenery, or the like.

The country we passed over between Bandar Abbas and Bushire was the most vicious we had seen. Lowell Thomas.

7. Diseased; ill; abnormal, as from sickness. Obs.

Syn. — Immoral, evil, profligate; ill-tempered, mean, ugly. Cf. BAD, CORRUPT, OBSTINATE.

Ant. — Virtuous, good; tractable. See GENTLE.

— vi′cious·ly, adv. — vi′cious·ness, n.

vicious circle. 1. A chain of circumstances constituting a situation in which the process of solving one difficulty creates a new problem involving increased difficulty in the original situation.

2. Logic. An argument or definition which is valueless because it assumes as true or as understood something which is to be proved or defined. See CIRCLE, n., 15.

3. Med. A chain of morbid processes in which a primary disorder leads to a second which in turn aggravates the first one.

vicious intromission. See INTROMISSION, 2.

vi·cis′si·tous (vĭ·sĭs′ĭ·tŭs), adj. Enduring or experiencing vicissitudes. Local, U. S.

vi·cis′si·tude (vĭ·sĭs′ĭ·tūd), n. [F., fr. L. vicissitudo; akin to L. vicissim in turn, vicis change, turn. See VICARIOUS.] 1. Regular change or succession from one thing to another; alternation; interchange; as, the vicissitude of night and day.

2. Irregular change; revolution; mutation.

This man had, after many vicissitudes of fortune, sunk at last into abject and hopeless poverty. Macaulay.

Hence, commonly, changes of fortune, condition, etc.; as, after many vicissitudes he enjoyed a prosperous old age.

Syn. — See CHANGE.

— vi·cis′si·tu′di·nar′y (-tū′dĭ·nĕr′ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ), adj.

vi·cis′si·tu′di·nous (-tū′dĭ·nŭs), adj. Characterized by vicissitudes; filled with, or experiencing, the changes or mutations of fortune, condition, etc. — vi·cis′si·tu′di·nousness, n.

Vick′ers–Max′im gun (vĭk′ĕrz·măk′sĭm). Also Vick′ers–Max′im, n. Ordn. One of a system of ordnance, including machine, quick-fire, coast, and field guns, of all calibers, manufactured by the combined firms of Vickers' Sons of Sheffield and Maxim of Birmingham and elsewhere, England.

Vickers-Maxim Automatic Machine Gun. Longitudinal Section of Muzzle. A, A Disk; B Muzzle of Barrel; C, C Gas Vents; D Opening for Bullets. Arrows show direction of gas pressure.

Vicks′burg (vĭks′bûrg), n. [From Vicksburg, Miss.] Geol. A formation of the Gulf States, sometimes classed as Upper Eocene, sometimes as Oligocene.

Vicks′burg. See BATTLE, Table.

vi′co·ite (vē′kō·ĭt), n. [From Lago di Vico, a crater lake north of Rome.] Petrog. An effusive rock with phenocrysts of leucite in a holocrystalline, light-gray groundmass of leucite, augite, magnetite, orthoclase, and a little andesine or labradorite.

Vi′comte′ de Bra′ge·lonne′, Le (lĕ vē′kôNt′ dĕ brȧ′zh′lôn′). [F.] The title and hero of a novel (1847) by Alexandre Dumas which forms the third and final part of the trilogy of which The Three Musketeers is the first.

vi·con′ti·el (vĭ·kŏn′tĭ·ĕl), adj. [AF.; cf. OF. viscontal. See VISCOUNT.] Of or pert. to the viscount or, later, the sheriff.

vicontiel rents. Early Eng. Law. Certain royal farm rents paid by the viscount, later by the sheriff.

vi·con′ti·els (vĭ·kŏn′tĭ·ĕlz), n. pl. [See VICONTIEL.] Early Eng. Law. Money payable by a viscount, or sheriff, to the crown; esp., vicontiel rents.

vicontiel writs. Early Eng. Law. Writs triable in the county court.

Vicq′ d′A′zyr′s′ fo·ra′men (vēk′ dȧ′zērz′). [After Félix Vicq d'Azyr (1748–94), French anatomist.] Anat. The foramen caecum of the medulla oblongata.

Vicq d′Azyr′s operation. Surg. Laryngotomy between the thyroid and cricoid cartilages.

vic′tim (vĭk′tĭm), n. [L. victima; akin to Goth. weihs holy, weihan to consecrate, G. weihen to consecrate, weihnachten Christmas, Skr. vinakti he separates, sets apart. Cf. WITCH.] 1. A living being sacrificed to some deity, or in the performance of a religious rite; a creature immolated, or made an offering of.

Led like a victim, to my death I'll go. Dryden.

2. A person or living creature injured, destroyed, or sacrificed, in the pursuit of an object, in the gratification of a passion, at the hands of another person, from disease, accident, or the like; as, a victim of ambition or jealous rage; a victim of a defaulter; a victim of the pestilence which raged throughout the city.

3. Hence, one who is duped, or cheated; a dupe; a gull; as, the victim of a gambler, of a jest. Colloq.

vic′tim, v. t. To sacrifice. Rare.

vic′tim·ize (-īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ′ING (-īz′ĭng). To make a victim of; to sacrifice; esp., to make a victim of by deception; to deceive; to dupe; cheat. — vic′tim·iz′a·ble (-īz′ȧ·b'l), adj. — vic′tim·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ī·zā′-shŭn), n.

vic′tim·iz′er (-īz′ĕr), n. One who victimizes, as a swindler.

vic′tor (vĭk′tĕr), n. [L., fr. vincere, victum, to vanquish; akin to AS. wīg war, battle, wīgend a warrior, wīgan to fight, OHG. wīgant a warrior, wīgan to fight, ON. vīg battle, Goth. weihan to fight, OIr. fichim I fight. Cf. CONVINCE, EVICT, INVINCIBLE, VANQUISH, WIGHT brave.] 1. The winner in a contest or in any struggle; esp., one who defeats an enemy in battle; a vanquisher; conqueror.

2. A destroyer. Rare & Poetic. Pope.

3. Victory. Obs. Scot.

4. [cap.] Masculine proper name.

Syn. — VICTOR, CONQUEROR. A VICTOR is a winner in a test of skill or strength; a CONQUEROR has subdued or subjugated whatever has opposed him; as, "[He] marched a victor from the verdant field" (Pope); "ever . . . victor at the tilt and tournament" (Tennyson); "In all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us" (Rom. viii. 37); "a savage conqueror stained in kindred blood" (Shelley). Cf. CONQUER, VICTORY.

vic′tor, adj. Victorious; triumphant; conquering. "The victor Greeks." Pope.

vic′tor, v. i. To act as victor. Rare. — v. t. To conquer; overcome. Obs.

vic′tor·dom (vĭk′tĕr·dŭm), n. [See -DOM.] Victoriousness.

vic′tor·ess (-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. = VICTRESS. Obs.

vic′tor·fish′ (-fĭsh′), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh′ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. An oceanic bonito; specif., Katsuwonus vagans, the aku, abundant in the northern Pacific, or the closely related K. pelamis, occurring in the open Atlantic. See OCEANIC BONITO.

Vic·to′ri·a (vĭk·tō′rĭ·ä; 181), n. [L., prop., victory. See VICTORY.] 1. Feminine proper name. F. Victoire (vēk′-twȧr′); It. Vittoria (vēt·tō′rē·ä); G. Victoria (vēk·tō′rĭ·ä).

2. [not cap.] A kind of low four-wheeled pleasure carriage, with a calash top, designed for two passengers, with a raised seat in front for the driver.

Victoria, 2.

3. An American breed of medium-sized white hogs.

4. A representation, as a statue, of the goddess Victory.

5. See SHIP, Table.

6. Astron. See ASTEROID, Table.

7. [not cap.] Automobiles. An open passenger car equipped with a calash top that usually extends over the rear seat only.

8. [NL.] Bot. a A genus of remarkable South America aquatic plants (family Nymphaeaceae). They have large spreading leaves often over 5 feet in diameter, with a rim from 3 to 8 inches high, and immense rose-white flowers opening for several successive evenings. The roasted seeds are edible. Of the three known species V. regia, the Amazon, giant, or royal, water lily, is the largest, while V. cruziana of northern Paraguay is the species commonly cultivated in Europe and America. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus; — called also vic·to′ri·a re′gi·a (rē′jĭ·ä), although most plants so called by gardeners are V. cruziana.

Victoria (V. regia).

9. Hort. A large-fruited dark-red European plum.

Victoria and Albert, Royal Order of. An order for ladies instituted by Queen Victoria (1862) in memory of the Prince Consort. The membership comprises the queen, and other ladies of royalty and nobility. Abbr. V. A.

Victoria Cross. A bronze Maltese cross, awarded for remarkable valor to members of the British Army or Navy. The color of its ribbon is crimson for the army, dark blue for the navy. A bar is attached to its ribbon for each act that would secure the cross if not already possessed. It is the most highly prized decoration of Great Britain. It was first bestowed in 1857, at the close of the Crimean War. Abbr. V. C. See MEDAL, Plate.

Victoria Day. See HOLIDAY, 3.

Victoria Embankment. See EMBANKMENT, 3.

Victoria lawn. = BISHOP'S LAWN.

Victoria lily. = VICTORIA REGIA (see VICTORIA, 8 b).

Vic·to′ri·an (vĭk·tō′rĭ·ăn; 181), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Victoria or Victorius.

2. Of or pertaining to the reign of Queen Victoria of England (1837–1901); as, the Victorian poets; pertaining to English life and sentiment during the reign of Queen Victoria; esp., fastidious, prudish, or narrow in opinion or expression, particularly regarding conduct; as, the strict conventionality of Victorian society.

That long set of sentimental hypocrisies known in England as Victorian. Amy Lowell.

3. Of or pertaining to Victoria, Australia, named for Queen Victoria (1851).

Vic·to′ri·an, n. 1. One who lived in the Victorian era; esp., an author who reached prominence in this era, and whose works are taken as reflecting the characteristics of the period.

2. Anything identified with the Victorian age, as a habit, article of dress, piece of furniture, etc.

Victorian bird cherry. An Australian shrub (Pimelea drupacea) with terminal heads of small flowers, and black fleshy drupes.

Victorian bottle tree. One of the kurrajongs (Sterculia diversifolia).

Victorian bower spinach. An Australian climbing plant (Tetragonia implexicoma).

Victorian box. = NATIVE LAUREL a (1).

Victorian cabbage tree. = AUSTRALIAN CABBAGE TREE.

Victorian cheesewood. A small erect tree (Pittosporum bicolor) of Tasmania and Australia, with scattered reddish flowers.

Victorian dogwood. An Australian shrub (Prostanthera lasianthos), family Lamiaceae, with bluish-white or pinkish-white racemose flowers.

Victorian Gothic. Arch. A style of building belonging to the later Gothic revival of Victoria's reign; specif., that combining French, Italian, and English elements, with a free use of parti-colored materials.

Victorian hazel. Any shrub of the genus Pomaderris.

Victorian hedge hyssop. Any plant of the genus Pittosporum.

Victorian hemp. The fiber of the hempbush. Australia.

Vic·to′ri·an·ism (vĭk·tō′rĭ·ăn·ĭz′m; 181), n. Quality of being Victorian, as in habit, expression of thought, style, etc.; also, an instance or example of Victorian habit, expression, style; a characteristic of the Victorian era, or of Victorians generally.

Victorian laurel. = NATIVE LAUREL a (1).

Victorian lilac. = AUSTRALIAN SARSAPARILLA.

Victorian Order. The Royal Victorian Order. See ORDER, n., 1.

Victorian parsnip. A coarse, biennial, Australian herb (Trachymene australis), family Ammiaceae, with white flowers and rough fruit.

Victorian period. The period occupied by the reign of Queen Victoria of England. Cf. VICTORIAN, adj., 2.

Victorian period or cycle. [After Victorius, of Aquitaine, an ecclesiastic of the 5th century A.D.] = DIONYSIAN PERIOD.

Victorian rosemary. An Australian shrub (Westringia rosmariniformis), family Lamiaceae, with silvery-white fragrant foliage, and small axillary flowers.

Victorian whortleberry. An Australian prostrate shrub (Wittsteinia vacciniacea), family Vacciniaceae, with axillary, solitary flowers and red berries.

Victoria pigeon. A crowned pigeon (Goura victoria).

vic·to′ri·a′tus (vĭk·tō′rĭ·ā′tŭs; 181), n. [L.] Also, Anglicized, vic·to′ri·ate (-tō′rĭ·āt). A silver coin of the Roman Republic, struck for foreign commerce and valued originally at ¾ denarius, but later at ½; — so called from the reverse type, Victory crowning a trophy. — vic·to′ri·ate, adj.

vic·to·rine′ (vĭk′tō·rēn′; vĭk′tō·rēn), n. [Cf. F. Victorine, fem. name.] 1. A woman's fur tippet with long ends.

2. [cap.] A canon regular of the Order of St. Victor, founded in Paris in 1110 by William of Champeaux. It spread widely during the Middle Ages and was famous for its learning. It became extinct during the French Revolution. The monks were named from their chief house, the Abbey of St. Victor in Paris.

vic·to′ri·ous (vĭk·tō′rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. [L. victoriosus; cf. F. victorieux. See VICTORY.] 1. Having gained victory; being a victor; conquering; as, a victorious general or army.

2. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, victory; as, this victorious field; his victorious mien.

3. Effective in causing or bringing about victory; as, a victorious move; victorious strategy; also, signifying victory; as, victorious banners; a victorious reception.

Syn. — Winning, triumphant. Ant. — Beaten, defeated.

— vic·to′ri·ous·ly, adv. — vic·to′ri·ous·ness, n.

vic·to′ri·um (-ŭm), n. [NL., after Queen Victoria.] Chem. A supposed chemical element, shown to be a mixture.

---

vice′roy·dom, n. See -DOM. vice′roy·ship, n. See -SHIP.
vice′-ten′ace, n. Whist. See TENACE.

vi′ci·o′si·ty (vĭsh′ĭ·ŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n. = VITIOSITY. Now Rare.
Vi·col′ (vē·kōl′; 98). Var. of BIKOL.

vic′tim·ate, n. A victim. Obs. vic′tim·hood, n. See -HOOD. vict′less, adj. [L. victus food + -less.] = FOODLESS. Rare.

vic′tor·er, n. = VICTOR. Obs.
Victoria blue. See DYE, Table.
Victoria green. See MALACHITE GREEN, 1 b.

vic·to′ri·al (vĭk·tō′rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. Of or pert. to victory. Obs.
Victoria lake. See PUCE.
Vic·to′ri·an·ize, v. t. See -IZE.

Vic·to′ri·an·ly, adv. of VICTORIAN.
vic·to′ri·a re′gi·a. Bot. See VICTORIA, 8 b.
Victoria violet. See DYE, Table.

vic'to·ry (vĭk'tō·rĭ; 59), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [ME. victorie, fr. OF. victorie (F. victoire), fr. L. victoria. See VICTOR.] 1. The overcoming of an enemy in battle, or of an antagonist in any contest; a gaining of the superiority in any struggle; conquest; triumph; — the opposite of defeat.

Death is swallowed up in victory. 1 Cor. xv. 54.

Victory may be honorable to the arms, but shameful to the counsels, of a nation. Bolingbroke.

2. [cap.] Rom. Relig. The goddess of victory, a personification in imitation of the Greek Nike, often represented on coins.

3. [cap.] See SHIP, Table.

Syn. — VICTORY, CONQUEST, TRIUMPH. VICTORY implies the defeat of one's opponents, CONQUEST, their subjugation; TRIUMPH, as here compared, denotes a brilliant or overwhelming victory or success; as, "that dishonest victory at Chaeronea" (Milton); "stretch thy conquests over half the kind" (Pope); "'Victory,' said Nelson, 'is not a name strong enough for such a scene'; he called it a conquest" (Southey); "His [Wellington's] triumph will be sung . . . far on in summers that we shall not see" (Tennyson); a personal triumph, a triumph of art. Cf. VICTOR, CONQUER.

Ant. — Defeat, overthrow, frustration, failure, vanquishment.

Victory button. Mil. In the United States, a button worn in the coat lapel to indicate that the wearer has received the Victory Medal. See SERVICE MEDAL.

Victory Day. = ARMISTICE DAY; — so called in Hawaii. See HOLIDAY, 3.

Victory loan. 1. In the United States, the Fifth Liberty Loan (see LIBERTY BOND).

2. In Canada, any one of three government loans. Dates and quotas were: Nov. 1917, $150,000,000; Nov. 1918, $300,000,000; Nov. 1919, $300,000,000. Each was much oversubscribed.

3. In Great Britain, a government loan in June, 1919, with a total subscription of £216,900,000 (about $1,074,500,000).

victory medal. Mil. A medal awarded by a government in honor of victory to those participating in a war; specif., [caps.] a medal of bronze struck by the United States government for distribution in 1920 to about 4,265,000 soldiers, sailors, nurses, and others, in the military service during the World War. With the medal is to be worn the Victory Ribbon, having a rainbow blending of the six basic colors of the spectrum, issued by the Allied and Associated Powers (see ALLY, n., 4).

Victory of Samothrace. = NIKE OF SAMOTHRACE.

vic'tress (vĭk'trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. [victor + -ess.] A female victor.

vic'trix (-trĭks), n. [L.] A victress. Rare.

Vic·tro'la (vĭk·trō'lȧ), n. [From Victor Talking Machine Co., fr. victor.] A trade-mark applied to a kind of phonograph; hence [often not cap.], a phonograph bearing this trade-mark.

vict'ual (vĭt'l), n. [ME. vitaille, fr. OF. vitaille, F. victuaille, pl. victuailles, fr. L. victualia, neut. pl. of victualis belonging to living or nourishment, fr. victus nourishment, fr. vivere, victum, to live; akin to L. vivus living. See VIVID; cf. CONVIVIAL, VIAND.] 1. Food; specif., chiefly in pl., food for human beings, esp. when prepared for eating; viands. "Then had we plenty of victuals." Jer. xliv. 17. "Lack of victual." Knolles.

☞ This word is common in dialect, but in the standard language is now seldom used, except depreciatively or jocosely.

2. Loosely, provisions of any kind; supplies. Obs.

3. Grain of any kind. Scot.

Syn. — See FOOD.

vict'ual, v. t.; -UALED (-'ld) or -UALLED; -UAL·ING or -UALLING (vĭt'l·ĭng; vĭt'lĭng). [OF. vitaillier. See VICTUAL, n.] To supply with provisions for subsistence; to provide or store with food; as, to victual an army, a ship. — v. i. a To eat; feed. "A devilish adventure to victual in cellars." H. L. Mencken. b To supply or take in stores of provisions.

vict'ual·age (vĭt'l·ĭj), n. Victuals; food; provisions.

The rate of the victualage in general was running down. Haldane Macfall.

vict'ual·er, vict'ual·ler (vĭt'l·ẽr; yĭt'lẽr), n. [OF. vitaillier, vitailleur (F. victuailleur).] 1. One who furnishes victuals or provisions; specif.: a One who supplies an army with provisions; a sutler. b One who keeps a house of entertainment; a tavern keeper; innkeeper.

2. A vessel employed to carry provisions, usually for military or naval use; a provision ship.

vict'ual·ing, vict'ual·ling (vĭt'l·ĭng; vĭt'lĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of VICTUAL. Hence; adj. That victuals, or provides with food; that is used in victualing.

victualing bill. A list, given to the customs department, of bonded or drawback goods shipped for use as stores on a voyage. Eng.

victualing house. An eating house.

victualing note. Nav. In the British Navy, a paymaster's order authorizing the ship's steward to give a seaman food.

victualing office. a Eng. An office supplying stores and provisions to the navy. b Boxing Slang. The stomach. Smollett.

victualing ship. = VICTUALER, n., 2.

victualing station. A depot for provisioning, as established by a commander along the line of advance of his troops.

victualing yard. A yard for the storage and supply of naval stores. Eng.

victual rent. Scots Law. A rent in grain, or its equivalent in money as ascertained by the fiars prices.

vi·cu'ña (vĭ·kōōn'yȧ; vĭ·kū'nȧ), n.; pl. VICUÑAS (-yȧz; -nȧz), sometimes VICUÑA. See PLURAL, Note. [Sp., fr. Quechua huik' uña. Cf. VIGONIA.]

1. A wild ruminant (Lama vicugna) of the Andes from Ecuador to Bolivia, allied to the domesticated llama and alpaca. Its color is light brown, paler on the under parts and with light markings on legs and head. It is smaller than the guanaco, but, like it, lives in herds and is fleet-footed. It has been much hunted for its wool and fur and is becoming scarce.

30

Vicuña.

2. Short for vicuña cloth, a very soft woolen fabric, usually twilled and napped, made from the wool of the vicuña, or an imitation of it made from fine merino wool.

vic'tor·ize (vĭk'tō·rīz), v. t. & i. To make victorious; to be victorious. Obs.

vic'to·ry·less, adj. See -LESS.

vic'trice (vĭk'trĭs), n. [OF.] A victress. Obs.

vict'ual. Victualed. Ref. Sp.

vict'ual·ler·ship, n. See -SHIP.

vict'ual·less, adj. See -LESS.

vict'ual·ry, n. See -RY.

vi·cu'gna (vĭ·kōōn'yȧ). Var. of VICUÑA.

‖vi·da'na (vē·dä'nȧ), n. Also vi·dan' (vē·dän'). [Singhalese vidāna.] A village headman. Ceylon. Obs.

‖vi'cus (vī'kŭs), n.; pl. VI'CI (-sī). [L.] a Ward or district (of a city). b Village; hamlet.

Vi'da (vē'dȧ; vīd'-), n. Fem. of DAVID; — fem. proper name.

vid'a finch (vĭd'ȧ). [See VIDUA, WIDOW BIRD.] A whidah bird.

‖vi'dame' (vē'dȧm'), n. [F., fr. ML. vice-dominus, fr. L. vice + dominus master, lord.] Fr. Feud. Law. One of a class of temporal officers or advocates who originally represented the abbeys or bishops, but later erected their offices into fiefs. It became a hereditary title of nobility which was recognized to the end of the ancien regime.

Vid·dhal' (vĭ·dăl'), n. sing. & pl. One of a Turkoman tribe on the east shore of the Caspian Sea.

vid·du'i, vid·du'y (vĭ·dōō'ĭ), n. [Heb. viddūy, wĭddūy, confession of sin, prayer for pardon.] Jewish Relig. Either of two liturgical poems, alphabetically arranged, containing a confession of sin, appended to the Shemoneh Esreh, or Eighteen Benedictions, on Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

‖vi'de (vī'dē), imperative sing. of L. videre, to see; — used to direct attention or refer; as, vi'de an'te (ăn'tē), see before. Hence, loosely, for example; as an illustration; for instance; as, mere numbers will not win, vide the coalition.

‖vide (vēd), adj. [F.] Music. a Open; — of strings. b Cut, or omitted; — used as a direction in scores, the vi indicating the beginning of the passage to be cut and the de its close.

‖vi'de et cre'de (vī'dē ĕt krē'dē). [L.] See and believe.

‖vi'de in'fra (ĭn'frȧ). [L.] See herein; see below. Cf. 1st VIDE.

‖vi·de'li·cet (vĭ·dē'lĭ·sĕt; 277), adv. [L., contr. fr. videre licet, lit., it is easy to see, one may or can see.] To wit; namely; — often abbreviated to viz.

‖vi·de'li·cet, n. The word videlicet used to mark an explanation; as, to use or insert a videlicet at this point.

vi·den'dum (vī·dĕn'dŭm), n.; pl. -DA (-dȧ). [L., neut. gerundive of videre to see.] Something that should be seen. Rare.

‖vi'de post' (vī'dē pōst'). [L.] See after this; see the following. Cf. 1st VIDE.

vide'ruff' (vīd'rŭf'), n. An old game at cards. Obs.

‖vi'de su'pra (vī'dē sū'prȧ). [L.] See hereinbefore; see above. Cf. 1st VIDE.

‖vi·de'tur (vī·dē'tẽr). [L.] It appears; it seems.

‖vi'de ut su'pra (vī'dē ŭt sū'prȧ). [L.] See as or what is stated or given above. Cf. 1st VIDE.

Vid'i·an (vĭd'ĭ·ăn), adj. Pertaining to, or named from, the Italian anatomist Guidi Guido, Latinized Vidius (?1500–69).

Vidian artery. Anat. A branch of the internal maxillary artery passing through the pterygoid canal in the sphenoid bone.

Vidian canal. = PTERYGOID CANAL.

Vidian nerve. Anat. A nerve formed by the union of the greater superficial petrosal and the deep petrosal nerves. It passes forward through the pterygoid canal in the sphenoid bone, and joins the sphenopalatine ganglion.

‖vi'di·mus (vĭd'ĭ·mŭs; vī'dĭ-), n. [L., we have seen.] An inspection, as of documents; hence, an abstract, syllabus, or summary; also, an attested copy of a document.

vi·do'ni·a (vĭ·dō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [Pg. vidonho a vine branch or shoot.] A kind of wine. See CANARY, n., 2.

Vid'u·a (vĭd'ū·ȧ), n. [NL. See WIDOW BIRD.] Zool. The genus consisting of the typical whidah birds. It is the type of a subfamily, Vid'u·i'nae (-ī'nē), of weaverbirds. — vid'u·ine (-ĭn; -īn; 156), adj.

vid'u·age (-ĭj), n. [See VIDUAL.] Widowhood; also, widows.

vid'u·al (-ăl), adj. [LL. vidualis, fr. vidua a widow. See WIDOW.] Of or pertaining to viduage; widowed. Rare. — vid'u·al·ly, adv. Rare.

vid'u·ate (vĭd'ū·āt), n. [LL. viduatus widowhood.] Eccl. The class or order of widows (see WIDOW) in the early church.

vid'u·ate (-āt), vid'u·at'ed (-āt'ĕd), adj. [L. viduatus, past part. of viduare, fr. viduus bereft. See VIDUAL.] Widowed; also, destitute. Obs.

vid'u·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. State of being widowed; bereavement. Rare.

vi·du'i·ty (vĭ·dū'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. viduité, fr. L. viduitas.] Widowhood. Rare.

vid'u·ous (vĭd'ū·ŭs), adj. [L. viduus. See VIDUAL.] Widowed; bereaved. Rare.

vid'ya (vĭd'yȧ), n. [Skr. vidyā knowledge.] Knowledge. See AVIDYA a.

vie (vī), v.; VIED (vīd); VY'ING (vī'ĭng). [ME. vien, shortened fr. envien, fr. OF. envier to invite, to challenge, a word used in gambling, fr. L. invitare to invite, of uncert. origin. Cf. INVITE, ENVY to vie.] Intransitive: 1. To stake a sum on a hand of cards, as in the old game of gleek. See VIE, n.; REVIE. Obs.

2. To strive for superiority; to contend; to use emulous effort, as in a race, contest, or competition.

While Waterloo with Cannae's carnage vies. Byron.

—, Transitive: 1. To stake; wager; as, to vie money on the turn of a card; also, to back up (one's cards or one's hand) with a wager. Obs.

2. To do or produce in emulation or competition; to bandy; to match in rivalry. Now Rare.

To vie wisdom with his Parliament. Milton.

3. To multiply; to produce in increasing numbers or amounts. Obs.

Syn. — See EMULATE.

vie, n. Obs. 1. A challenge; a wager, esp. at cards.

2. A contest for superiority; competition; rivalry.

‖vie (vē), n. [F., fr. L. vita.] Life.

‖vie'ja (vyā'hä; 162), n. [Amer. Sp. (in Cuba), fr. Sp. vieja mujer old woman.] Any of various tropical American and West Indian parrot fishes.

vielle (vyĕl), n. [F. See VIOL.] Music. 1. A large and early form of the medieval viol.

2. = HURDY-GURDY, 1 a.

Vi·en'na (vē·ĕn'ȧ), n. a The chief city and capital of Austria. b Figuratively, the government of Austria. c See CONGRESS, Table; TREATY, Table.

Vienna Blue. A breed of medium-sized blue rabbits, originating in Vienna.

Vienna blue. A variety of cobalt blue.

Vienna bread. Orig., a kind of light, crusty bread, usually in the form of rolls, made in Vienna, with well-seasoned Hungarian flour and plenty of yeast, baked quickly in a hot oven containing steam; by extension, bread made elsewhere in a similar way.

Vienna brown. The color gold bronze.

Vienna caustic. Vienna paste.

Vienna Code, Vienna Rules. Bot. See INTERNATIONAL CODE OF BOTANICAL NOMENCLATURE.

Vienna green. a = PARIS GREEN. b = EMERALD GREEN a.

Vienna International. See INTERNATIONAL, n., 2 k.

Vienna lake. a = CARMINE. b A crimson lake prepared from brazilwood.

Vienna lime. = VIENNA WHITE.

Vienna opening. See 1st CHESS, 1.

Vienna paste. Pharm. A caustic application made up of equal parts of caustic potash and quicklime; — called also Vienna caustic.

Vienna red. The color vermilion or one like it.

Vienna roll. See VIENNA BREAD.

Vienna sandstone. Geol. = FLYSCH.

Vienna sausage. = WIENERWURST.

Vienna smoke. The color smoke brown.

Vienna Union. = VIENNA INTERNATIONAL. See INTERNATIONAL, n., 2 k.

Vienna white. Calcium carbonate obtained by exposing slaked lime to the air and used chiefly in polishing metals.

Vi'en·nese' (vē'ĕ·nēz'; -nēs'), adj. Of or pertaining to Vienna or its people. — n. a sing. & pl. An inhabitant of Vienna. b The dialect of German spoken in Vienna.

vi'er (vī'ẽr), n. One who or that which vies, as for supremacy or advantage.

Vie'ren·deel truss or gir'der (vē'rĕn·dāl). Civ. Engin. An open-web truss with vertical members but without diagonals, the joints being made rigid; — invented by M. Vierendeel in 1896.

‖vier'kleur' (fēr'klûr'; vēr'-), n. [D., fr. vier four + kleur color, fr. F. couleur.] The four-colored (red, white, blue, and green) flag of the former South African Republic, or Transvaal.

‖vi' et ar'mis (vī' ĕt är'mĭs). [L.] Law. Literally, with force and arms; — said of a trespass to person or property which is the immediate cause of damage.

‖vieux' jeu' (vyû' zhŭ'). [F.] Literally, an old game or joke; hence, a subject that has lost interest.

He learnt that Lamartine and Victor Hugo were vieux jeu. Amy Lowell.

view (vū), n. [OF. veüe (F. vue), fr. veoir to see, past part. veü (F. voir, past part. vu), fr. L. videre to see. See VISION; cf. INTERVIEW, PURVIEW, REVIEW, VISTA.] 1. Act of seeing or beholding; inspection by the eye; sight; look; survey.

Thenceforth I thought thee worth my nearer view. Milton.

2. Mental survey; intellectual perception or examination; as, a just view of the arguments or facts in a case.

3. Power of seeing, either physically or mentally; reach or range of sight; extent of prospect.

Still out of reach but never out of view. Pope.

4. That which is seen or beheld; sight presented to the natural or intellectual eye; scene; prospect.

'T is distance lends enchantment to the view. Campbell.

5. The pictorial representation of a scene; a sketch, either drawn or painted; as, a fine view of Lake George.

6. Mode of looking at anything; esp., manner of regarding any subject of thought; conception; opinion; judgment; as, to state one's views of a debated policy.

7. That which is looked towards, or kept in sight, as an object; aim; end; as, he did it with a view of escaping; hence, prospect; expectation.

No man sets himself about anything but upon some view or other which serves him for a reason. Locke.

8. Appearance; show; aspect. Obs. exc. Dial.

If you're an ugly man to be looking at, I'm thinking your tongue's worse than your view. Synge.

9. The projection of an object upon a plane obtained by finding the intersections (with the plane) of parallel lines drawn through the points of the object.

10. A survey or formal measurement; also, an inspection, examination, or review. Obs.

11. Law. An inspection by the jury of the place where a litigated transaction, as a crime or tort, occurred, or of premises or some object, as a corpse, involved in a litigation. — at the view. Hunting. By sight; — said of the pursuit of game by dogs. — in view of. In regard to; in consideration of. — on view. On exhibition; open to public inspection. — with a view to. With the purpose or aim of.

view (vū), v.; VIEWED (vūd); VIEW'ING. Transitive: 1. To see; behold; as, such things are curious to view; esp., to look at with attention; to scrutinize with the eye; to inspect; examine; as, to view records; to view property prior to renting or leasing it.

2. To survey or examine mentally; to consider; as, to view the subject in all its aspects.

3. To make a survey of; to determine and represent the form, extent, and position, of (a stretch of land, a coast, a harbor, etc.); also, to explore, as a new country, coast, etc. Obs.

—, Intransitive: To look; glance; examine. Rare.

view, n. = YEW, n., 1 b. Dial. Eng.

view angle. Photog. The angle included by a lens as determined from the ratio of the focal length to the diameter of the field; angle of view.

view'er (vū'ẽr), n. One who views; specif.: a One who beholds; a spectator. b One who examines or inspects; an inspector; as, Law, a person appointed to inspect highways, fences, or the like, and to report on the same. c Dial. Eng. The superintendent of a coal mine.

view finder. Photog. A finder (sense 5).

view halloo. Hunting. Also view hallo, view halloa. The shout uttered by a hunter on seeing the fox break cover.

view'less, adj. a Affording no view. b Expressing no views, or opinions. c Not perceivable by the eye; invisible; unseen. "Viewless winds." Shak. — view'less·ly, adv.

view'ly (vū'lĭ), adj. Sightly. Now Dial. Eng.

view of frankpledge. O. Eng. Law. See FRANKPLEDGE.

view'point' (vū'point'), n. Point of view; standpoint.

view'y (vū'ĭ), adj. Colloq. 1. Having peculiar views; fanciful; visionary; unpractical; as, a viewy person.

2. Spectacular; pleasing to the eye or the imagination; sometimes, Slang, speciously attractive; showy.

A government intent on showy absurdities and viewy enterprises rather than solid work. London Spectator.

‖vif (vēf), fem. vive (vēv), adj. [F.] Alive; lively; animated.

vif'da (vĭf'dȧ), viv'da (vĭv'dȧ), n. [Cf. Dan. vifte to fan (a fire), Sw. vifta.] Beef or mutton hung and dried, but not salted. Orkney & Shetland I.

Vi'dar (vē'där), n. = VITHARR.

‖vi'de·o me'li·o'ra, pro·bo'que; de·te'ri·o'ra se'quor (vĭd'ē·ō). [L.] I see and approve of the better things; I follow the worse. Ovid (Metamorphoses, VII. 20).

vi·det'. Videtur. Ref. Sp.

vi·dette' (vĭ·dĕt'), n. = VEDETTE.

Vi'dharr (vē'thär). Var. of VITHARR.

Vi·dor'i·cum (vĭ·dōr'ĭ·kŭm), n. [NL.] Bot. Syn. of ILLIPE.

vid'ry, n. = BIDRI.

Vienne (vyĕn). See COUNCIL, Table.

vier'ling (fēr'lĭng), n.; pl. -LINGE (-ē). [G.] See MEASURE, Table; WEIGHT, Table.

vier'tel (fēr'tĕl), n. sing. & pl. [G., a quarter.] See MEASURE, Table.

vier'tel·ein' (-īn'), n. sing. & pl. [G.] See MEASURE, Table.

view'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

viewably, adv.

viewed. Viewed. Ref. Sp.

view'i·ness (vū'ĭ·nĕs; 119), n. See -NESS. Colloq. [VIEWLY. Dial.] view'some (vū'sŭm), adj. = view'ster (-stẽr), n. See -STER.

view'wor'thy (-wûr'thĭ), adj. See -WORTHY.

vi'ga (vē'gȧ), n.; pl. VIGAS (-gȧz). [Sp.] One of the heavy rafters, often a log, supporting the roof in the native Indian and Spanish colonial architecture of the American Southwest.

vi'gen·ten'ni·al (vī'jĕn·tĕn'ĭ·ȧl), adj. [L. vigeni, viceni, twenty + -tennial as in centennial.] Lasting for or recurring in twenty years. — n. A twentieth anniversary.

vi·ges'i·mal (vī·jĕs'ĭ·mȧl), adj. [L. vigesimus, var. of vicesimus, fr. viceni twenty. See VICENARY.] 1. Twentieth; divided into, or consisting of, twenties or twenty parts; proceeding by twenties.
2. Math. = VICENARY b.

vi·ges'i·ma'tion (vī·jĕs'ĭ·mā'shŭn), n. Act of putting to death every twentieth man. Rare. Cf. DECIMATION.

vi·gi'a (vĭ·jē'ȧ; Sp. vē·hē'ä; 142), n. [Sp. vigía a watching, a lookout.] Navig. A mark on a chart indicating that a dangerous rock or shoal is thought to be near the spot indicated; — now used chiefly of Spanish charts.

vig'il (vĭj'ĭl), n. [ME. vigile, fr. OF. vigile, fr. L. vigilia, fr. vigil awake, watchful; akin to L. vigere to be vigorous, vegere to rouse, excite, to be active, and to E. wake. See WAKE, v.; cf. REVEILLE, SURVEILLANCE, VEDETTE, VEGETABLE, VIGOR.] 1. Eccl. a Orig., the watch kept on the night before a feast, spent in prayer or other devotions. This exercise having degenerated, the custom was abandoned about the twelfth century (cf. 3d WAKE, 3). b Later, the eve of a feast; esp., an eve which is a fast. If the eve of a feast is Sunday, the vigil or fast day is kept on the prior Saturday. c A religious service on the eve of a feast.
2. Devotional watching; hence, pl., evening or nocturnal devotions, prayers, etc. "Their odes and vigils tuned." Milton.
3. Act of keeping awake, or state of being awake, at times when sleep is customary or needed; wakefulness; sleeplessness; as, sick-room vigils.
4. Hence, a watching; watch; wakeful attention.
Be sober and keep vigil. Neale (Rhythm of St. Bernard).
5. A wake. See 3d WAKE, 3. Obs. Chaucer.
6. A watchman. Rare.

vig'il, v. i. To keep vigil; to be on watch.

vig'i·lance (vĭj'ĭ·lȧns), n. [F. or L.; F. vigilance, fr. L. vigilantia.] 1. Wakefulness; sleeplessness; insomnia.
2. Quality or state of being vigilant; watchfulness in respect of danger or hazard; caution; circumspection; as, constant vigilance against danger and disease.
3. A guard; watch. Obs.
4. The readiness of any organ, as of the brain or spinal cord, for its highest type of activity; physiological vitality and efficiency.

vigilance committee. A volunteer committee of citizens for the oversight and protection of any interest, esp. one organized to suppress and punish crime summarily, as when the processes of law appear inadequate. A member of such a committee was frequently called a vigilante. U. S.

vig'i·lan·cy (vĭj'ĭ·lȧn·sĭ), n. Vigilance. Now Rare.

vig'i·lant (-lȧnt), adj. [F. or L.; F. vigilant, fr. L. vigilans, -antis, pres. part. of vigilare to watch, fr. vigil awake. See VIGIL.] Alertly watchful as one keeping vigil; circumspect; alert; attentive to discover and avoid danger, or to provide for safety; as, a vigilant treasurer; a vigilant sentinel.
Syn. — Wakeful, attentive, observant, cautious, wary. — VIGILANT, WATCHFUL, ALERT, AGOG. WATCHFUL is the general word; VIGILANT implies keen, often wary, watchfulness; as, "the five watchful senses" (Milton); "like a lion that unheeded lay, dissembling sleep, and watchful to betray" (Dryden); "Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the Devil . . . walketh about, seeking whom he may devour" (1 Pet. v. 8); "As through dreams . . . some mystic hint accosts the vigilant" (Emerson); cf. "Nelson's . . perpetual and all-observing vigilance" (Southey). ALERT implies wide-awake and active watchfulness or attention; AGOG (a familiar and humorous word) suggests eager readiness; as, "not only watchful in the night, but alert in the drowsy afternoon" (W. Pater); "I am as alert at thinking and deciding as I ever was" (Scott); "[Herbert's] poems are . . . vivid with alertness of eye" (Athenaeum); "Are you ready? . . . More than ready, alert" (Landor); "all agog to dash through thick and thin" (Cowper). Cf. PROMPT, CAREFUL, EAGERNESS.
Ant. — Listless, indifferent, lethargic, sluggish. See SLEEPY. — vig'i·lant·ly, adv. — vig'i·lant·ness, n.

vig'i·lan'te (vĭj'ĭ·lȧn'tē), n. [Sp., prop., vigilant.] A member of a vigilance committee (which see). U. S.

vig'i·late (vĭj'ĭ·lāt), v. i. [L. vigilatus, past part. See VIGILANT.] To remain awake. — vig'i·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Both Rare.

vi·gin'ti- (vĭ·jĭn'tĭ-). A combining form, Latin viginti-, from viginti, meaning twenty, as in vi·gin'ti·an'gu·lar.

Vig'na (vĭg'nȧ), n. [NL., after Domenico Vigna, It. botanist.] Bot. A genus of vines or erect herbs (family Fabaceae) found in warm or tropical regions, having trifoliolate leaves and yellowish or purplish flowers with an auricled vexillum. The pod is linear and two-valved. V. sinensis is the cowpea.

vi'gne·ron' (vē'nyĕ·rôn'), n.; pl. -RONS (-rôn'). [F.] A winegrower; a viticulturist.

vi·gnette' (vĭn·yĕt'; 277), n. [F., fr. vigne a vine. See VINE.] 1. Orig., a running ornament of vine leaves, tendrils, etc., as used in decoration.
2. Hence, now: a A relatively small decorative design or illustration of any kind put on or just before the title page, at the beginning or end of a chapter, etc., of a manuscript or book. b Hence, as such pictures are often without a definite bounding line, any picture, as an engraving, a photograph, or the like, which shades off gradually into the surrounding ground or the unprinted paper.
3. In general, a picture, illustration, or depiction in words, esp. one of a small or dainty kind.

vi·gnette', v. t.; VI·GNETT'ED (-yĕt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VI·GNETT'ING (-yĕt'ĭng). To finish, as a photograph, in the manner of a vignette; to make a vignette of; to represent in small, delicate form, as in literary composition, artistic sketches, etc.

vi·gnett'er (vĭn·yĕt'ĕr), n. 1. A maker of vignettes.
2. Photog. A device for vignetting, as a screen with an aperture the edges of which insensibly become opaque.

vi·gnett'ist (-ĭst), n. One who makes vignettes; an artist, engraver, or author, who produces vignettes.
But he has been left to the haphazard vignettist of Grub Street. Tarkington.

vig'nin (vĭg'nĭn), n. [See VIGNA.] Biochem. A globulin characteristic of the cowpea.

Vi·gnoles' rail (vĭn·yōlz'). [After C. B. Vignoles, Eng. engineer.] The T, or flange, rail. Hence, Vignoles section, track, type, etc.

Vi'go coin'age (vē'gō). Coins struck from bullion captured in 1702 from the galleons of the Spanish plate fleet at Vigo, Spain. They bore the word Vigo under the bust of Queen Anne.

vi'gogne' yarn (vē'gôn'y'). Yarn of cotton with an admixture of up to about twenty per cent of wool or wool waste.

vi·go'ni·a (vĭ·gō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [F. vigogne vicuña, fr. Sp. See VICUÑA.] The vicuña.

vig'or, vig'our (vĭg'ĕr), n. [ME. vigour, vigor, fr. OF. vigor (F. vigueur), fr. L. vigor, fr. vigere to be lively or strong. See VIGIL.] 1. Active strength or force of body or mind; capacity for exertion, physical, intellectual, or moral; effective energy or power; strength; potency.
The vigor of this arm was never vain. Dryden.
2. Strength or force in animal or vegetable nature or action; as, a plant grows with vigor.
3. Intensity of action or effect; force; energy; as, carried away by the vigor of his argument; he governed his little group with vigor; a drug that acts with vigor.
4. Effective legal status; validity; as, laws that are still in vigor.
Syn. — See POWER. Ant. — See WEAKNESS, LASSITUDE.

vig'or, vig'our, v. t. To invigorate. Obs.

vig'or·ist (-ĭst), n. A vigorous, energetic, or effective agent; also, one who advocates vigor in action or policy.

‖vi'go·ro'so (vē'gō·rō'sō), adj. [It.] Music. Vigorous; energetic in style; — a direction.

vig'or·ous (vĭg'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [OF. (F. vigoureux); cf. ML. vigorosus. See VIGOR.] 1. Possessing vigor; full of physical or mental strength or active force; strong; lusty; robust; as, a vigorous youth; a vigorous plant.
2. Exhibiting strength, either of body or mind; powerful; strong; forcible; energetic; as vigorous exertions; a vigorous prosecution of a war; a vigorous protest.
3. Done with vigor; carried out forcefully and energetically; enforced strictly; as, he took vigorous measures to stop this practice; vigorous enforcement of the country's laws.
Syn. — Forceful, potent, effective, efficacious; zealous, vehement, eager. — VIGOROUS, ENERGETIC, STRENUOUS. VIGOROUS implies fullness of active strength or force; ENERGETIC connotes less reserve force than vigorous, and often suggests a somewhat bustling activity; STRENUOUS implies zealous, often urgent and pushing, activity; as, "The remainder [of the poem] is vigorous, direct, and enthusiastic" (Landor); "to be counted among the strong, and not the merely energetic" (Lowell); "to love bondage more than liberty — bondage with ease than strenuous liberty" (Milton). Cf. POWER, POWERFUL, EAGERNESS.
Ant. — Weak, feeble, impotent, ineffectual, languorous.
— vig'or·ous·ly, adv. — vig'or·ous·ness, n.

Vi'go's pow'der (vē'gōz). Red oxide of mercury (see MERCURY OXIDE).

vi·ha'ra (vĭ·hä'rȧ), n. [Skr. vihāra.] In ancient India, a pleasure garden, esp. the precincts and grounds of temples and monasteries devoted to the Buddhist and Jain religions; hence, a monastery; in modern Ceylonese usage, a Buddhist temple.

vi·hue'la (vē·wā'lȧ), n. [Sp.] Music. The Spanish lute.

vi·ja'o (vē·hä'ō; 162), n. [Sp. vijao, bihao. See BIHAI.] The plant Renealmia exaltata, the seeds of which yield a black coloring matter. Puerto Rico.

vi'king (vī'kĭng; 277), n. [ON. vīkingr; akin to OFris. wīking, wītsing, AS. wīcing; prob. fr. AS. wīc camp, fr. L. vicus village. See VICINITY.] One belonging to the pirate crews from among the Northmen who plundered the coasts of Europe in the 8th to 10th centuries; a sea rover. Viking is sometimes confounded with sea king.

vi'king·ism (-Ĭz'm), n. The practices or characteristics of vikings.

Vik'ra·ma'dit·ya (vĭk'rȧ·mä'dĭt·yȧ), n. Also Vik'ra·ma (vĭk'rȧ·mȧ). [Skr. Vikramāditya.] A legendary Hindu emperor famous for the Nine Gems (literary and scientific men, including Kalidasa, see Biog.) of his court. He is partially identifiable with Chandragupta II, styled Vikramaditya, the Gupta emperor, A.D. 383–413.

Vikramaditya, Era of. See ERA, Table.

Vik'ram and the Vam'pire (vĭk'rȧm). The familiar English title of the Twenty-five Tales of the Vetala (Sanskrit Vetālapañcaviṁśatikā), a medieval Indian book of fairy tales.

vi'la (vē'lȧ), n.; pl. VILY (-lē). [Serbo-Croatian.] One of a class of fairies, sometimes thought to be the souls of girls who have died unbaptized, or who have lived wicked lives.

vi'la·yet' (vē'lä·yĕt'), n. [Turk. vilāyet, fr. Ar. wilāyat, fr. Ar. wālī governor. Cf. BLIGHTY, VALI, WALI.] One of the chief administrative divisions or provinces of Turkey, each under a vali representing the government and assisted by an elective council. It is subdivided into cazas. Formerly, under the Ottoman Empire, called eyalet.

vild (vĭld), adj. [As if past part. of a verb to vile. See VILE, adj.] Vile. — adv. Vilely. — vild'ly, adv. — vild'ness, n. All Archaic & Dial.

vile (vīl), adj.; VIL'ER (vī'lĕr); VIL'EST (vī'lĕst; -ĭst; 119). [ME. vil, fr. OF. vil, fr. L. vilis cheap, worthless, vile, base, of uncert. origin. Cf. REVILE, VILIFY.] 1. Of small account; low; mean; worthless; base.
The inhabitants account gold but as a vile thing. Abp. Abbot.
2. Morally contaminated; befouled by or as if by sin; morally base or impure; wicked; evil; sinful; as, vile acts and gestures.
Behold, I am vile: what shall I answer thee? Job. xl. 4.
3. Hence, unclean; filthy; repulsive; odious; — often used interjectionally to express abhorrence, disgust, etc.
4. Loosely, highly objectionable for any reason; bad; of poor quality; as, vile weather; vile playing lost the game.
His voice would have sounded exactly like a coffee mill but for a vile nasal twang. Borrow.
5. Great; exceeding; — used intensively with words of evil or hurtful meaning. Now Colloq.
Divided the viser with a vile dynt. Destr. of Troy.
Syn. — Cheap (despicable), debased; depraved; corrupt, sordid, vicious; disgusting, loathsome, foul. See BASE; cf. BAD, CORRUPT, HATEFUL.
Ant. — Precious, noble; pure, wholesome, unpolluted, clean; splendid, ennobled, exalted. See GOOD.
— vile'ly, adv. — vile'ness, n.

vile, n. One who or that which is vile. Obs.

vile (vīl), adv. Vilely; — chiefly in combination.

vile, v. t. = VILIFY. Obs.

vile-. Combining form of vile, adj. & adv., as in:

vile-born	vilehearted	vile-smelling, adj vile-bred	vile-looking, adj.	vile-spirited vile-concluded	vile-natured	vile-spoken vile-fashioned	vile-proportioned	vile-tasting, adj.

Vi·le'la (vē·lā'lȧ), n. An Indian of a group of thirteen closely related tribes, formerly ranging widely over the western part of the Argentine Chaco, now settled along the headwaters of the Salado River.

Vi'li (vē'lē), n. Norse Myth. One of the brothers of Odin, the other being Ve, who helped him slay the giant Ymir, from whose body and blood they created heaven, earth, and sea.

Vi'li (vē'lē), n. sing. & pl. One of a Bantu-speaking tribe near the coast of Gabon on the Nyanga River.

vil'i·fi·ca'tion (vĭl'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. Act of vilifying, or defaming; abuse; also, an instance of vilifying; defamatory utterance.

vil'i·fi'er (vĭl'ĭ·fī'ĕr), n. One who or that which vilifies or defames.

vil'i·fy (vĭl'ĭ·fī), v.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [LL. vilificare. See VILE; -FY.] Transitive: 1. To make vile; debase; degrade; also, to cheapen; to render less valuable; to hold in lower esteem.
When themselves they vilified
To serve ungoverned appetite. Milton.
2. To degrade or debase by report; to defame; traduce.
Many passions dispose us to depress and vilify the merit of one rising in the esteem of mankind. Addison.
3. To disgrace; dishonor. Obs.
4. To treat as vile or despicable; to despise. Obs.
I do vilify your censure. Beau. & Fl.
—, Intransitive: To utter or publish slander.
Syn. — Calumniate, malign, abuse. — VILIFY, REVILE. To VILIFY is to defame or traduce, to REVILE, to reproach or abuse, with opprobrious or scurrilous language; as, "With a malignant insanity, we oppose the measures, and ungratefully vilify the persons, of those whose sole object is our own peace and prosperity" (Burke); "They that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads" (Matt. xxvii. 39). See ASPERSE.
Ant. — Extol, praise, laud, flatter, commend.

vil'i·pend (vĭl'ĭ·pĕnd), v. t.; VIL'I·PEND'ED; VIL'I·PEND'ING. [F. vilipender, fr. L. vilipendere, fr. vilis vile, cheap + pendere to weigh, to value.] To hold or express a low opinion of; to depreciate, either by word or by act; to treat slightingly or to speak of slightingly; to slight; despise.
— v. i. To be disparaging or depreciatory.
Syn. — Belittle, disparage. Ant. — Magnify, exalt.

vil'i·pend (vĭl'ĭ·pĕnd), adj. Slanderous; calumniatory. Rare exc. Scot.

vil'i·pend'er (-pĕn'dĕr), n. One who vilipends.

vil'i·pen'di·ous (-pĕn'dĭ·ŭs), adj. Abusive; also, despicable.
— vil'i·pen'di·ous·ly, adv. Both Obs.

vil'i·pen'di·to'ry (-dĭ·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Disparaging; vilifying.

vil'i·ty (vĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. vilité, fr. L. vilitas.] a Archaic. Vileness; baseness. b Obs. Lowness of estate or value.

vill (vĭl), n. [OF. ville, vile, a village, town, fr. L. villa. See VILLA.] O. Eng. Law. a A township, or division of a hundred; a unit under the feudal system often taken as the equivalent of a manor (sense 2). Cf. 1st HAMLET a, Cit. b Hence, a village. c Obs. A villa.

vil'la (vĭl'ȧ), n. [L. and It.; It. villa, fr. L. villa, LL. also village, dim. fr. L. vicus a village. See VICINITY; cf. VILL, VILLAGE, VILLAIN.] Originally, a country property; as, Cicero had a villa at Baiae; hence, a somewhat pretentious rural or suburban residence, often placed in extensive grounds.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
villa-dotted, villa-dwelling, adj., villa-haunted.

vil'la·dom (-dŭm), n. The world constituted by villas and their occupants; hence, the world of smug, financially independent mediocrity.
There is something suggestive of smug villadom in the idea of going to die at Highgate. W. J. Locke.

vil'la·ette' (-ĕt'), n. [See -ETTE.] A little villa.

vil'lage (vĭl'ĭj), n. [ME., fr. OF. village, fr. L. villaticus belonging to a country house or villa. See VILLA; cf. VILLATIC.] 1. Any small aggregation of houses in the country, being in general less in number than in a town or city and more than in a hamlet.
2. Specif.: a In England, a tract of land with some houses, forming a unit for purposes of national police and taxation, and corresponding to the present civil parish (see PARISH, 1). b In the United States, such a collection incorporated as a municipality and governed by a board of three or more trustees and a president, locally elected, and having a treasurer, clerk, and a police official. c Any of various territorial divisions incorporated as "villages" under statutory authority, as under various civil codes in the United States, in some Provinces of Canada, etc., or officially or conventionally called "villages."
3. An aggregation of nests, burrows, etc., considered as suggesting a village (sense 1); as, a squirrel village; a prairie-dog village.
4. The residents, collectively, of a village; the villagers; as, the village voted for prohibition.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
village-born, village-dwelling, village-lit.

vil'lage, adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a village; as, the village parson; village customs.
Neville's father was a rector, very simple and village. Rose Macaulay.

vil'lage, v. i. To settle in a village; also, to make one's home in a villa.

Village Blacksmith, The. A poem (1840) by Longfellow.

village cart. = CART, n., 4.

village community. A primitive organized agricultural community. The term village community varies with the historical theories of the writers using it. About the middle of the 19th century it was used to designate the free, autonomous, communistic group unit which in the mark system was considered to be the political unit at the base of modern states, and which was believed by the followers of that theory to be represented in the early self-dependent agricultural communities of England, Germany (the mark), India, Russia (the mir), etc. Later writers vary in holding to a modified form of this theory or in rejecting it altogether, varying in the interpretation of the established facts. Cf. THREE-FIELD SYSTEM; 2d MARK, 17.

vi·ges'i·mo-quar'to (vĭ·jĕs'ĭ·mō·kwôr'tō), adj. & n. [L., abl. of vigesimus quartus twenty-fourth. Cf. DUODECIMO.] = TWENTY-FOURMO. [Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.] vig'gle (vĭg'ĕl). Var. of FIGGLE.

vig'ily, n. [L. vigilia.] Vigil. Obs.

vi'gin·tiv'i·rate (vĭ'jĭn·tĭv'ĭ·rāt), n. [L. vigintiviratus, the office of the vigintiviri (fr. viginti twenty + vir a man).] A body of officers of government consisting of twenty men; also, their office. Obs.

vi·gnet'. Vignette. Ref. Sp.

‖vi'gogne' (vē'gôn'y'), n. [F.] = VICUÑA.

vi·gone' (vē·gōn'), n. [F. vigogne.] Vicuña; also, a hat made of it. Obs.

Vi·go'ni·an (vĭ·gō'nĭ·ăn), adj. [After Joanne de Vigo.] Designating a certain salve for treating pox. Obs.

vi'gor·less, adj. See -LESS.

vi·gu'na (vĭ·gōō'nȧ; -gū'nȧ). Var. of VICUÑA.

vi'king·like', adj. See -LIKE.

vi'king·ship, n. See -SHIP.

Vi·lan' (vē·län'). Var. of BILAAN.

vile'ty (vīl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. vilité. See VILITY.] = VILENESS. Obs.

vil'eyns, adj. [See VILLAIN.] Villainous. Obs. — vil'eyns·ly, adv. Obs.

vil'i·a'co (vĭl'ĭ·ä'kō; vĭl·yä'kō), n. [It. viliacco.] Scoundrel; villain. Obs.

vil'i·cate (vĭl'ĭ·kāt), v. t. To vilify. Rare. [pres. part.] vil'i·fy·ing·ly, adv. of vilifying, vil'i·pen'den·cy (vĭl'ĭ·pĕn'dĕn·sĭ), n. Disparagement; slight. Obs.

vil'i·pen'sion (-shŭn), n. Vilification. Obs. — vil'i·pen'sive (-sĭv), adj. Obs.

villache. ✝ VILLAGE.

Vil'la·fran'ca (vēl'lä·frȧng'kä). See TREATY, Table.

village economy. In economic history, a stage following that in which agriculture was the principal pursuit, and having for its characteristic features the village, barter trading, and little division of labor.

vil'lage·let (vĭl'ĭj·lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. A little village.

vil'lage·ous (-ŭs), adj. Of or pertaining to a village or villagers; village.

vil'lag·er (-ĭj·ĕr), n. An inhabitant or resident of a village.

village reserve. Crown lands reserved as a site for a village or villages. Australia.

vil'lage·ry (vĭl'ĭj·rĭ), n. Villages collectively.

vil'lag·et (vĭl'ĭj·ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. A small village.

vil'lage·y (-ĭj·ĭ), adj. Resembling or suggesting a village, as in size, appearance, habits, etc.

vil'lag·ism (-ĭj·ĭz'm), n. A word, form, or expression, characteristic of village or rural speech, as contrasted with urban.

vil'lain (vĭl'ĭn), n. [ME. vilaine, vylayn, fr. OF. vilain, fr. LL. villanus, fr. villa village, fr. L. villa a farm, country house. See VILLA.] 1. = VILLEIN.

2. A baseborn or clownish person; a boor. Obs.

Pour the blood of the villain in one basin, and the blood of the gentleman in another, what difference shall there be proved? Becon.

3. a One capable or guilty of great crimes; a deliberate scoundrel; a knave; rascal; — often used playfully without evil implication; as, the little villain has stolen my hat.

Calm, thinking villains, whom no faith could fix. Pope.

b Hence, a character drawn to represent such a person, as in a novel or play; specif., Theat., an actor regularly cast in such a role; also, an actor cast in a role opposed to that of the hero. c Theat. The role of the villain (sense 3 b).

vil'lain, adj. [OF. vilain. See VILLAIN, n.] Rare. a = VILLEIN. b Of low or common birth or origin; common; vulgar. c Befitting a villain; villainous; as: (1) Clownish; loutish; boorish. (2) Wicked; scoundrelly; dastardly.

vil'lain, v. t. To debase; degrade; slight; abuse. Obs.

vil'lain·ess (vĭl'ĭn·ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female villain.

vil'lain·ist (-ĭst), n. Utter villain. Rare.

vil'lain·ous (-ŭs), adj. [Cf. OF. vileneus.] 1. Befitting a villain, or scoundrel; as: a Obs. Boorish. b Vile; proceeding from, or revealing, great depravity; evil; as, a villainous assault. c Base; vulgar; low.

2. Highly objectionable; mean; bad; wretched; vile; detestable; as, villainous weather; a villainous jargon.

Syn. — Rascally, knavish, scoundrelly, iniquitous.

Ant. — Kind, estimable, commendable.

— vil'lain·ous·ly, adv. — vil'lain·ous·ness, n.

vil'lain·ous, adv. Villainously. Rare. Shak.

vil'lain·y (vĭl'ĭn·ĭ), n.; pl. -LAINIES (-ĭz). [ME. vilanie, vileinye, vilenie, fr. OF. vilanie, vileinie (F. vilenie). See VILLAIN, n.] 1. A villainous act, or villainous action or conduct; a deed of deep depravity; a crime.

2. Ill-usage; abuse. Obs.

3. Quality or state of being villainous, or evil; extreme depravity or wickedness; as, the villainy of a seducer.

4. Abusive, discourteous, or foul speech. Obs.

He never yet no vileinye ne said. Chaucer.

5. Discourteous conduct; boorishness. Obs.

6. Dishonor; disgrace. Obs.

7. Obs. a = VILLENAGE. b Humble or miserable condition. c Bondage.

vil'la·kin (vĭl'ä·kĭn), n. Rare. a A little villa. b A little village.

vil'lan·age (vĭl'ăn·ĭj), n. 1. Var. of VILLENAGE.

2. Villainy; villainy. Obs.

‖vil'lan·ci'co (vēl'yän·thē'kō; 103; 170), n. [Sp., fr. villano rustic.] Music. Originally, a Spanish part song resembling the madrigal; later, a kind of cantata or anthem sung in the churches, esp. at Christmas.

vil'la·nel'la (vĭl'ä·nĕl'ä), n.; pl. -NELLE (-ē). [It., prop. fem. dim. See VILLAIN.] Music. a An old rustic dance, and the accompanying song. b An Italian rustic part song, unaccompanied and in free form, an early type of the stricter canzonet and madrigal.

vil'la·nelle' (vĭl'ä·nĕl'), n. [F., fr. It. villanella.] A fixed form of verse, chiefly French, having normally five tercets and a quatrain, the second lines of which have one rhyme, and the remaining lines another. The first and third verses of stanza one are repeated in alternation as the last line of the succeeding tercets, and together form the closing couplet of the quatrain. Cf. VIRELAY.

vil'la·nette' (-nĕt'), n. [Irreg. dim. of villa.] A small villa; a villaette. Rare.

Vil'la·no'van (vĭl'ä·nō'văn), adj. Archaeol. Designating, pertaining to, or characteristic of, an early Iron Age culture (Vil'la·no'va (vĕl'lä·nō'vä), n., or Villanova culture), following the terramara, in northern Italy; — so called from an ancient cemetery at Villanova near Bologna, of about 1000 B.C. — n. One of the Iron Age people of Villanova.

vil'lar (vĭl'ĕr), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a vill. — n. A villein.

vil'late (vĭl'ăt), n. [ML. villata.] O. Eng. Law. Under the feudal system, a district containing a number of vills.

vil·lat'ic (vĭ·lăt'ĭk), adj. [L. villaticus of a country house. See VILLAGE.] Of or pert. to a villa or a village; rural.

Like tame villatic fowl in the presence of that awful eagle. Lytton Strachey.

ville (vĭl), n. [F.] City; town; — often used as a suffix in place and family names; as, Yorkvi*lle;* Nashvi*lle;* Sackvi*lle.*

Ville' d'Is' (vēl' dēs'), [F., after Bret. Ker-is, prop., low city.] A city near Quimper, on the coast of Brittany, capital of King Gradlon, fabled to have been submerged in the 5th century A.D. through the wickedness of his daughter.

‖vil·leg'gia·tu'ra (vĕl·lĕd'jä·tōō'rä), n. [It.] Stay or sojourn at a villa; rarely, a countryseat, or villa.

‖vil'lé'gia'ture' (vē'lā'zhä'tür'), n. [F.] Villeggiatura.

vil'lein (vĭl'ĭn), n. [AF. See VILLAIN, n.] Originally, apparently, any free common villager or village peasant of any of the classes lower in rank than the thegn, as enumerated in the Domesday Book; a churl; specif., in a restricted sense, a free peasant of a class lower than a sokeman and higher in rank than the cotters and bordars (and colliberts). These peasant freemen appear to have had a wergild of 200 Saxon shillings (£4) and a manbot of 30 shillings, to have had property rights in both real and personal property, and not to have been ascript to the soil. Later, by about the 13th century, the term villein was applied to a class of unfree peasants, or serfs, who as regards their lord were slaves, but were free in their legal relations with respect to all others. They appear to have had no rights against their lords, except that of protection from being maimed or killed, and were subject to be sold by their lords or removed from their lands at will. From this status they gradually improved in condition, becoming the free peasantry of later days, their precarious tenure of land generally developing into the customary copyhold tenures (see COPYHOLD). It was formerly erroneously supposed that villein regardant to a manor designated a peasant adscript to the soil, and villein in gross an absolute slave (see REGARDANT, adj., 1).

vil'lein (vĭl'ĭn), adj. Born to a villein's status; of low or servile birth. Obs.

vil'lein·hold' (-hōld'), n. A tenement held by villein tenure.

vil'len·age (vĭl'ĕn·ĭj), n. Also vil'lein·age. [OF. villenage, vilenage. See VILLAIN.] Feudal Law. a Tenure on the terms by which a villein held of his lord; tenure at the will of the lord by villein services. b The status of a villein.

vil'liaum'ite (vē'yōm'ĭt), n. [After Villiaume (fl. 1905), French explorer in Africa.] Mineral. A sodium fluoride, occurring in small carmine tetragonal crystals. Sp. gr., 2.8.

vil'li·form (vĭl'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [villus + -form.] Having the form or appearance of villi; like the pile of velvet, either hard or soft; as, the teeth of perch are villiform.

Vil'li·plac'en·ta'li·a (vĭl'ĭ·plăs'ĕn·tā'lĭ·ä), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A division of mammals having a nondeciduate villous placenta, and including ungulates, sirenians, and cetaceans. — vil'li·pla·cen'tal (-plä·sĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj.

vil·li'tis (vĭ·lī'tĭs), n. [NL. See VILLUS; -ITIS.] Veter. Inflammation of the soft part of the wall of a horse's hoof.

vil'loid (vĭl'oid), adj. [villus + -oid.] Bot. Pertaining to, or consisting of, villi.

vil'lose (vĭl'ōs; vĭ·lōs'; see -OSE), adj. Villous.

vil·los'i·ty (vĭ·lŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. State of being villous.

2. Anat. A villus; also, a villous patch or area.

3. Bot. A coating of long, slender hairs.

‖vil·lo'ta (vĕl·lō'tä), n.; pl. -TE (-tā). [It. villotta.] Music. A Venetian villanella.

vil'lous (vĭl'ŭs), adj. [L. villosus. See VILLUS.] 1. Covered with fine hairs, or a woolly substance; shaggy with soft hairs; nappy; specif., Bot., pubescent, with soft and not matted hairs.

2. Anat. Furnished, or clothed, with villi.

— vil'lous·ly, adv.

vil'lus (-ŭs), n.; pl. VILLI (-ī). [L., shaggy hair, a tuft of hair. See VELVET.] 1. Anat. & Embryol. A small slender vascular process; esp.: a One of the minute finger-like processes which more or less thickly cover and give a velvety appearance to the surface of the mucous membrane of the small intestine (including that of the plicae circulares) and serve in the absorption of nutriment. Each has a central, blindly ending, lacteal surrounded by blood capillaries, and is covered with epithelium. b One of the branching processes of the surface of the chorion of the developing egg or blastodermic vesicle of most mammals. Over parts of the surface these villi become vascular and help to form the placenta.

2. Any of the fine, straight, soft hair on villous plants.

3. Zool. In elasmobranchs, a trophonema (which see).

vim (vĭm), n. [L., acc. of vis strength, force, pl. vires; akin to Gr. is, inos, a muscle, strength, Skr. vayas vigor. See WER; cf. VIOLENT.] Energetic or active power; force; energy; spirit; vigor.

vi·ma'na (vĭ·mä'nä), n. [Skr. vimāna.] Indian Arch. A pyramidal tower, roofing the central shrine of a Hindu, Jain, Buddhist, or Brahmanic, temple. Cf. GOPURA, SIKHARA.

vi'men (vī'mĕn), n.; pl. VIMINA (vĭm'ĭ·nä). [L., a twig.] Bot. A long, slender, flexible shoot or branch.

vim'i·nal (vĭm'ĭ·năl), adj. [L. viminalis pertaining to osiers, fr. vimen a pliant twig, osier.] Pertaining to, consisting of, or producing, twigs. Rare.

Vim'i·nal, n. [L. Viminalis.] One of the seven hills of Rome. See SEVEN HILLS. — Vim'i·nal, adj.

Vim'i·na'ri·a (vĭm'ĭ·nā'rĭ·ä; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. vimen a withe; — from its slender stalks and leaves.] Bot. A genus of Australian leafless broomlike shrubs (family Fabaceae), having as the only known species V. denudata, called swamp oak. It has small orange-yellow flowers with a broad vexillum, and connate keel petals; the pod is one-seeded.

vi·min'e·ous (vĭ·mĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. [L. vimineus, fr. vimen pliant twig.] 1. Of or pertaining to twigs; woven of pliant twigs. "In the hive's vimineous dome." Prior.

2. Bot. Of or producing long slender twigs or shoots.

‖vin (văN), n. [F.] Wine.

vi'na (vē'nä), n. [Skr. vīṇā, of uncert. origin.] Music. An ancient Hindu instrument, originally a seven-stringed harp; later, after about 700 A.D., an instrument of the guitar type, still used in India. It has a long bamboo finger board with movable frets and a gourd resonator at each end.

Vina.

‖vi'na (vī'nä), n., pl. of VINUM.

vi·na'ceous (vĭ·nā'shŭs), adj. [L. vinaceus. See VINE.] 1. Pertaining to, or like, wine or grapes.

2. Of the color wine; esp., of the color wine red.

vin'a·con'ic ac'id (vĭn'ä·kŏn'ĭk). [G. vinaconsäure, fr. vinylmalonsäure, its older name + itaconsäure, with which it is isomeric. See VINYL; ITACONIC.] Chem. A white crystalline diacid, $C_3H_4(CO_2H)_2$, prepared indirectly from ethylene bromide and malonic acid; 1,1-cyclopropanedicarboxylic acid.

vin'age (vĭn'ĭj), n. 1. [OF.] An old indirect tax on wine.

2. [F.] Fortifying of wine.

vi'na·gron' (vē'nä·grōn'), n. The vinegarroon.

‖vi'nai'gre (vē'nâ'gr'), n. [F.] Vinegar.

vin'ai·grette' (vĭn'ā·grĕt'), n. [F., fr. vinaigre vinegar.] 1. Vinaigrette sauce.

2. A small box or, now usually, a bottle, of ornamental design, having a perforated top or cover, for holding aromatic vinegar, smelling salts, or the like.

3. A small two-wheeled vehicle, like a Bath chair, made to be drawn or pushed. Obs. exc. Hist.

— vin'ai·grett'ed (-grĕt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj.

vinaigrette sauce. A sauce made of vinegar, oil, shallots, parsley, etc., used esp. on cold meats, as calf's head.

vi·nai'gri·er (vĭ·nā'grĭ·ĕr; F. vē'nĕ'gryā'), n. [F., prop., a vinegar maker or seller.] A vinegarroon. West Indies.

vi·nai'grous (vĭ·nā'grŭs), adj. [F. vinaigre vinegar.] Resembling vinegar; sour; hence, sour-tempered; crabbed.

vi'nal (vī'năl; -n'l), adj. [L. vinalis.] Of or from wine; vinous.

Vi·na'li·a (vĭ·nā'lĭ·ä), n. pl. [L.] A Roman vintage festival.

Vi·na'li·a pri·o'ra (prĭ·ō'rä). [L.] A Roman festival, celebrated on April 23, at which the vintage of the preceding year was first tasted. See JUPITER.

Vi·na'li·a rus'ti·ca (rŭs'tĭ·kä). [L.] A Roman festival at the beginning of the vintage, on August 19.

vi·nasse' (vĭ·năs'), n. [F.] The residual liquid from the distillation of alcoholic liquors; specif., that remaining from the fermentation and distillation of beet-sugar molasses, valuable as yielding potassium salts, ammonia, etc.

vi·na'ta (vē·nä'tä), n. An Italian vintage song.

Vin'ca (vĭng'kä), n. [NL., fr. L. pervinca, vinca pervinca. See 2d PERIWINKLE.] Bot. A small genus of woody, often prostrate herbs (family Apocynaceae), the periwinkles, natives of the Old World. They have solitary axillary flowers, usually of handsome colors. The stigma is plumose.

vin'cent (vĭn'sĕnt; -s'nt), adj. [L. vincens, -entis, conquering.] Victorious. Rare.

Vin'cent (vĭn'sĕnt), n. [L. vincens, pres. part. of vincere to conquer; cf. F. Vincent, perh. for earlier Vincenz, indicating a L. Vincentius. See VICTOR, a conqueror.] Literally, conquering; — masculine proper name. L. Vincens (vĭn'sĕnz); F. Vincent (văN'săN'); It. Vincenzo (vēn·chĕnt'sō); Sp. Vicente (vē·thĕn'tā; 103); Pg. Vicente (vē·sĕn'tĕ); G. Vincenz (vĭn'tsĕnts). — Vin·cen'tian (vĭn·sĕn'shăn), adj.

Vin·cen'tian (vĭn·sĕn'shăn), n. R.C.Ch. a One of the "Congregation of the Priests of the Mission," founded by St. Vincent de Paul in 1625 and devoted to conducting missions and clerical seminaries; — called also Lazarist, from the college of St. Lazare in Paris which was occupied by the order from 1632 until the French Revolution. b A member of a sisterhood, founded by St. Vincent de Paul in 1634, for nursing the sick; a Sister of Charity; a Sister of St. Vincent. c A member of a lay society for poor relief, founded at Paris in 1833 and having St. Vincent de Paul for its patron saint. — adj. Of or pertaining to Vincent de Paul, esp. founded by him, or having him as patron saint.

Vin·cen'ti·o (vĭn·sĕn'shĭ·ō), n. The Duke of Vienna in Shakespeare's Measure for Measure. Under pretext of a distant journey, and disguised in a monk's hood, he observes his people and his deputy's administration. See ANGELO.

Vin'cent's an·gi'na (vĭn'sĕnts; văn'sănz'). [After H. Vincent (b. 1862), French physician.] Med. A painful ulceromembranous disease of the tonsils and pharynx held to be caused by bacteria of two species, Fusiformis dentium, called Vincent's bacillus, and Borrelia vincenti, called Vincent's spirochete. These bacteria in the mouth produce Vincent's infection, or Vincent's stomatitis, commonly known as trench mouth.

Vin'ce·tox'i·cum (vĭn'sē·tŏk'sĭ·kŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. vincere to conquer + toxicum poison. See TOXIC.] 1. Bot. A large genus of chiefly tropical American vines (family Asclepiadaceae), having cordate leaves and large purple or greenish cymose flowers, the corolla rotate and 5-parted, with an entire or lobed crown. V. hirsutum is the negro vine.

2. [not cap.] Pharm. The root of the swallowwort Cynanchum vincetoxicum, formerly esteemed as a counterpoison.

vin'ce·tox'in (-sĭn), n. [See VINCETOXICUM.] Chem. A yellow amorphous glucoside found in the swallowwort Cynanchum vincetoxicum.

vin'ci·ble (vĭn'sĭ·b'l), adj. [L. vincibilis, fr. vincere to vanquish, conquer. See VICTOR.] Capable of being overcome or subdued; conquerable; surmountable. — vin'ci·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — vin'ci·ble·ness, n. — vin'ci·bly, adv.

vincible ignorance. Theol. Ignorance within one's control, and for which, therefore, one is responsible before God.

vin'cu·lar (vĭng'kŭ·lĕr), adj. [See VINCULUM.] Connective vin'cu·late (-lăt), v. t. [LL. vinculatus, past part. of vinculare.] To bind. Rare. — vin'cu·la'tion (-lā'shăn), n. Rare.

vin'cu·lum (-lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lä). [L., fr. vincire, vinctum, to bind. See VETCH.] 1. A bond of union; a tie.

2. Anat. A uniting band or bundle of fibers; frenum; esp., in birds, a commissure uniting the two main tendons of the foot.

3. Math. A straight, horizontal mark placed over two or more members of a compound quantity, equiv. to parentheses or brackets about them, as $a-b-c = a-(b-c)$.

Vin·del'i·ci (vĭn·dĕl'ĭ·sī), n. pl. [L.] A Teutonic people dwelling in the mountainous region (Vindelicia) about the sources of the Rhine, Rhone, and Danube.

vin·de'mi·al (vĭn·dē'mĭ·ăl), adj. [LL. vindemialis, fr. vindemia a vintage. See VINTAGE.] Of or pertaining to a vintage. Rare.

vin·de'mi·ate (-ăt), v. i. [L. vindemiare. See VINDEMIAL.] To gather the vintage; to harvest fruit. — vin·de'mi·a'tion (-ā'shăn) n. — vin·de'mi·a·to'ry (-dē'mĭ·ä·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj.

vin'dex (vĭn'dĕks), n.; pl. VINDICES (-dĭ·sēz). [L.] A vindicator.

Vind'hyan sys'tem (vĭnd'yăn). [From Vindhya Hills, India.] Geol. A supposedly Pre-Cambrian series of sandstones, shales, and limestones, over 14,000 feet thick, extensively exposed in the highlands of central India.

vin'di·ca·ble (vĭn'dĭ·kä·b'l), adj. Capable of being vindicated; justifiable. — vin'di·ca·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — vin'di·ca·ble·ness, n. — vin'di·ca·bly, adv.

---

vil'lage·ful, n. See -FUL. vil'lage·hood, n. See -HOOD. vil'lage·less, adj. See -LESS. vil'lage·like', adj. See -LIKE. vil'lag·er·ess, n., fem. of VILLAGER. village soviet. See SOVIET.
vil'lage·ward, adv. See -WARD. vil'lain·age, n. = VILLENAGE. vil'lain·dom, n. See -DOM. vil'lain·ize, v. i. = VILIFY. Obs.
— vil'lain·iz'er, n. Obs. vil'lain·ly, adv. Wickedly. Obs. vil'lain·ous·look'ing, adj. See -LOOKING.
vil'lain·proof' (66), adj. See [-PROOF.] vil'lains, adj. = VILLAINOUS. Obs. [-PROOF.] vil'lain·y·proof' (66), adj. See vil'la·less, adj. See -LESS. vil'la·like', adj. See -LIKE. [LEIN.] vil'lan. Var. of VILLAIN, VILvil'lan·ous, vil'lan·ous·ly, etc. Vars. of VILLAINOUS, etc. vil'lan·y. Villainy. Ref. Sp. vil'la·yet'. Var. of VILAYET. vil'lein·age, n. = VILLENAGE. vil'lein·ess, n., fem. of VILLEIN. villein socage. See SOCAGE. vil'li, n., pl. of VILLUS. vil·lif'er·ous (vĭ·lĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [See VILLUS; -FEROUS.] = VILLOUS, 2. vil'li·fy. Var. of VILIFY. vil·lo'so- (vĭ·lō'sō-). A combining form for villose.
vil'ly (vĭl'ĭ), n., pl. of VILA. vily. ✝ VILELY. vim'ful, adj. See -FUL. vin'ai·gret'. Vinaigrette. Ref. Sp.
vi·nat'i·co (vĭ·năt'ĭ·kō), n. [Pg. vinhatico.] = VINHATICO b.
Vin'a·ya·pit'a·ka (vĭn'ä·yä·pĭt'ä·kä), n. See TRIPITAKA.
Vin'cent Crum'mles (krŭm'-'lz). See INFANT PHENOMENON.
‖vin'cet a'mor pa'tri·æ. [L.] Love of country will prevail.
Vergil (Aeneid, VI. 823).
‖vin'cit om'ni·a ve'ri·tas (vĕr'ĭ·tăs). [L.] Truth conquers all things.
‖vin'cit qui pa'ti·tur (pā'tĭ·tĕr). [L.] He conquers who endures.
‖vin'cit qui se'vin'cit. [L.] He conquers who conquers himself.
‖vin'cu·lum ma'tri·mo'ni·i (măt'rĭ·mō'nĭ·ĭ). [L.] The bond of marriage.
Vin·de'mi·a'trix (vĭn·dē'mĭ·ä'trĭks), n. [NL., fem. of L. vindemiator a star in the constellation Virgo, lit., a grape gatherer.] See STAR, Table. [avenger of injury.]
‖vin'dex in·ju'ri·æ. [L.] An

---

vin′di·cate (vĭn′dĭ·kāt), v.; -CAT′ED (-kāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT′ING (-kāt′ĭng). [L. vindicatus, past part. of vindicare to lay claim to, defend, avenge. See VENGEANCE.] Transitive: 1. To support or maintain as true or correct, against denial, censure, or objections; to free from all suspicion of wrong, dishonor, invalidity, or the like; to sustain; justify; as, to vindicate one's honor; to vindicate a claim, right, or title; to vindicate an official or an official act.
2. To defend or secure against assault or encroachment; to maintain; defend.

[He] that vindicates his country from a tyrant. Massinger.

3. To lay claim to; to assert a right to; to claim, esp. for oneself.

The youth would vindicate the vacant throne. Pope.

4. To serve as or provide justification for; as, conduct which vindicates resentment.
5. Obs. a To set free; deliver. b To avenge. c To punish.
6. Roman & Civil Law. To assert one's legal right to (a thing); to recover by legal process.
—, Intransitive: To claim or provide vindication.
Syn. — Acquit, absolve, clear. — VINDICATE, JUSTIFY. To JUSTIFY, as here compared (cf. JUSTIFY), is esp. to maintain the right, justice, or propriety of something, and may or may not suggest an attitude of defense or apology; VINDICATE commonly carries more definitely the implication of successful defense, as against some charge, denial, or censure; as, "Her thought was trying to justify her delight in the colors by merging them in her mystic religious joy" (G. Eliot); "So does he vindicate Pompilia's fame" (R. Browning); "that . . . I may assert eternal Providence, and justify the ways of God to men" (Milton); "Laugh where we must, be candid where we can; but vindicate the ways of God to man" (Pope). See ASSERT; cf. EXCULPATE, EXCUSE.
Ant. — Accuse, charge, convict.

vin′di·cate (-kāt), adj. Vindicated. Obs.

vin·di·ca′tion (-kā′shŭn), n. [L. vindicatio a laying claim, defense, vindication.] 1. Act of vindicating, or state of being vindicated; specif., defense; justification against denial or censure; as, the vindication of one's honor.
2. A means of justifying.

vin·dic′a·tive (vĭn·dĭk′ə·tĭv; vĭn′dĭ·kā′tĭv), adj. [ML. vindicativus; cf. F. vindicatif. Cf. VINDICTIVE.] 1. Tending to, or intended to, vindicate; vindicating; as, a vindicative policy.
2. Obs. a Revengeful; vindictive. b Punitive.
— vin·dic′a·tive·ly, adv. — vin·dic′a·tive·ness, n.

vin′di·ca·tor (vĭn′dĭ·kā′tĕr), n. [LL.] One who or that which vindicates.

vin′di·ca·to′ry (vĭn′dĭ·kə·tō′rĭ or, esp. Brit., -kā′tĕr·ĭ, -kə·tĕr·ĭ), adj. 1. Tending or serving to vindicate; of or pertaining to the act of vindicating; specif., justificatory.
2. Inflicting punishment; avenging; punitive.
— vin′di·ca·to′ri·ly, adv.

vin′di·ca′tress (-kā′trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. Fem. of VINDICATOR.

‖vin·dic′ta (vĭn·dĭk′tä), interj. [L., revenge.] Vengeance; — used in Elizabethan drama as a cry of ghosts. Hist.

vin·dic′tive (vĭn·dĭk′tĭv), adj. [For vindicative, confused with L. vindicta revenge, punishment, fr. vindicare to vindicate. See VINDICATE; cf. VINDICATIVE.] 1. Disposed to revenge; prompted or characterized by revenge; retaliatory; as, a vindictive spirit, punishment, man.
2. Punitive; retributive. Archaic.
Syn. — VINDICTIVE, REVENGEFUL are often interchangeable; but REVENGEFUL is commonly the stronger term; as, "There was nothing vindictive in his nature; but, if revenge came his way, it might as well be good" (Stevenson); "Read the cardinal's malice and his potency together . . . You know his nature, that he's revengeful, and I know his sword hath a sharp edge" (Shak.). Cf. AVENGE, REQUITAL.
Ant. — Placable, forgiving, magnanimous, generous.
— vin·dic′tive·ly, adv. — vin·dic′tive·ness, n.

vin·dic′tive, n. Act of vengeance. Rare.

vin′dic·tiv′o·lence (vĭn′dĭk·tĭv′ō·lĕns), n. [From L. vindicta revenge, after malevolence.] Disposition to revenge.

‖vin′ du pa′ys′ (văn′ dü pā′ē′). [F.] Wine of the country; a local vintage.

vine (vīn), n. [OF. (F. vigne), fr. L. vinea a vineyard, vine, fr. vineus of or belonging to wine, fr. vinum wine, grapes. See WINE; cf. VIGNETTE.] 1. A grapevine.
2. Any plant whose stem requires support, and which climbs by tendrils or other means, or which trails or creeps along the ground; as, a squash vine; a honeysuckle vine. Also, the stem of such plant. Cf. CLIMBER, 2 a.
3. A person symbolized by or a representation of a grapevine. Cf. John xv. 1, 5.
4. A rope of straw. Dial.
5. Obs. a A vineyard. b A grape.
6. Rom. Antiq. A vinea.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vine-bearing	vine-fed	vine-mantled vine-bordered	vine-garlanded	vine-planted vine-clad	vine-growing	vine-producing vine-covered	vine-hung	vine-robed vine-crowned	vine-laced	vine-shadowed vine-decked	vine-leafed	vine-sheltered vine-encircled	vine-leaved	vine-wreathed vine, adj. Of, pertaining to, or used for, vines.

vine, v. t.; VINED (vīnd); VIN′ING (vīn′ĭng). To graft into a vine. — v. i. To form a vine; to grow after the manner of a vine.

vin′e·a (vĭn′ē·ə), n.; pl. VINEAE (-ē). Also vin′i·a (vĭn′ĭ·ə). [L. vinea.] Rom. Antiq. A shedlike structure serving as protection to besiegers.

vin′e·al (vĭn′ē·əl), adj. [L. vinealis.] Of vines or wines. R.

vin′e·at′ic (-ăt′ĭk), adj. [L. vineaticus.] Pert. to vines.

vine bamboo. A tropical American climbing grass (Lasiacis divaricata) related to Panicum, found in southern Florida.

vine bark louse. a A vine scale. b A small round scale (Aspidiotus uvae).

vine beetle. Any of several beetles injurious to the leaves or branches of the grapevine. Among the more important are the grape rootworm, spotted pelidnota, grapevine flea beetle (Haltica chalybea), rose beetle, vine borer, and several species of Colaspis and Anomala.

Vine Borer (Xylobiops basilaris). a Larva; b Pupa; c Imago.

vine black. A bluish-black pigment of charred vine shoots.

vine borer. a Any of several beetles whose larvae bore in the wood or pith of the grapevine, especially Xylobiops basilaris, a small species the larva of which bores in the stems, and Ampeloglypter sesostris, a small reddish-brown weevil (called also vine weevil), which produces knotlike galls on the branches. See WOUND GALL. b A clearwing moth (Memythrus polistiformis), whose larva bores in the roots of the grapevine and is often destructive.

vine bower. A Eurasian virgin's-bower (Clematis viticella) having showy rose-purple or violet flowers.

vine cactus. = OCOTILLO a.

vine chafer. a A rose chafer. b Spotted pelidnota.

vined (vīnd), adj. 1. Having vinelike ornamentation.
2. Shelled; as, vined peas.

vine′dress′er (vīn′drĕs′ĕr), n. One who cultivates, prunes, or cares for, grapevines. Is. lxi. 5.

vine forester. Any of several moths belonging to Alupia, whose larvae feed on the leaves of the grapevine.

vine fretter. A plant louse, esp. the phylloxera (P. vastatrix), that injures the grapevine.

vin′e·gar (vĭn′ē·gĕr), n. [ME. vinegre, fr. OF. vinaigre, fr. vin wine (fr. L. vinum) + aigre sour. See WINE; EAGER.] 1. A sour liquid used as a condiment, or as a preservative, and obtained by the acetic fermentation of dilute alcoholic liquids. Cider and malt are very common sources, but it may be made from the fermented juice of nearly any fruit, and under favorable conditions any watery solution of a fermentable sugar may be transformed into vinegar. According to the source, cider, malt, beer, wine, or spirit, vinegars, etc., are distinguished. Cider and most other fruit vinegars are usually made by keeping the liquid in a warm place in contact with air, often with the addition of "mother." The Orleans process is continuous, the juice being added in installments to vinegar in a large oak cask, and vinegar drawn off from time to time. In the quick vinegar process the liquid, which is allowed to trickle slowly over shavings or other porous material placed in a tall vat and impregnated with an acetifier, collects at the bottom as vinegar. This process is usually employed for malt, beer, and spirit vinegar. The characteristic sourness of vinegar is due to acetic acid, of which it ordinarily contains three to nine per cent, though the so-called vinegar essence, or double vinegar, made from spirits, contains as high as fourteen per cent. Wine vinegar is pale-yellow to red, contains also tartaric acid, and has a highly valued aroma. Cider vinegar is brownish, contains malic acid, and has an odor of apples. Malt and beer vinegars are brown, and contain various dissolved substances. Spirit vinegars, which naturally have little color or aroma, are often colored and flavored, and imitation vinegar is made from pyroligneous acid.
2. Acidulous speech.
3. Pharm. A solution of the active principles of drugs in vinegar or dilute acetic acid, usually prepared by maceration; as, vinegar of squill; vinegar of opium.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

vinegar-faced	vinegar-generating	vinegar-making vinegar-flavored	vinegar-hearted	vinegar-tart vin′e·gar, v. t. 1. To make into or like vinegar. Obs.

2. To treat with vinegar; to apply vinegar to. Colloq.

Vinegar Bible. See BIBLE, 2.

vinegar eel. A minute nematode worm (Anguillula aceti), often found in great numbers in vinegar, sour paste, and other fermenting vegetable substances; also, sometimes, one of other species of the family Anguillulidae.

Vinegar Eel, Female, much enlarged. m Mouth; o Eggs; g Genital Opening; x Anus.

vin′e·gar·er (vĭn′ē·gĕr·ĕr), n. One who makes or deals in vinegar.

vinegar essence. See VINEGAR.

vinegar fly. Any of several fruit flies, esp. Drosophila melanogaster, which breed in imperfectly sealed preserves and in pickles. See DROSOPHILA.

vin′e·gar·ist (vĭn′ē·gĕr·ĭst), n. A vinegar maker.

vinegar lamp. An apparatus for oxidizing alcohol to acetic acid by means of platinum black.

vinegar maker. 1. One who makes vinegar.
2. A vinegarroon.

vinegar making. The act or process of making vinegar.

vinegar mother. = VINEGAR PLANT a.

vinegar of lead. Pharm. Goulard's extract.

vinegar of opium. Pharm. A solution of opium in diluted acetic acid; — called also black drop.

vinegar of squill. See VINEGAR, 3.

vinegar plant. a Mother of vinegar. See 1st MOTHER, n., 2. b The vinegar tree.

vin′e·gar·roon′ (vĭn′ē·gə·rōōn′), n. [Sp. vinagre vinegar. See VINAIGRIER.] A whip scorpion, esp. a large species (Mastigoproctus giganteus) of Mexico and the southwestern United States, which is popularly supposed to be very venomous; — so called from the odor that it emits when alarmed.

vinegar rot. Plant Pathol. A soft rot, or leak, of sweet potatoes caused by species of Rhizopus.

vinegar tree. The staghorn sumac, whose acid berries have been used to intensify the sourness of vinegar.

vin′e·gar·weed′ (vĭn′ē·gĕr·wēd′), n. A Californian mint (Trichostema lanceolatum), one of the favorite bee plants of California. It has light-blue flowers.

vinegar worm. The vinegar eel.

vin′e·gar·y (vĭn′ē·gĕr·ĭ), adj. Of the nature of vinegar; hence, sour; unamiable; crabbed.

vine′grow′er (vīn′grō′ĕr), n. See -GROWER.

vine hawk moth. Any of several hawk moths whose larvae feed on grapevine leaves, esp. Pholus achmeon and Ampelophaga myron. See HOG CATERPILLAR.

vine hopper. A grape leaf hopper.

vi·ne′ĭ·ty (vĭ·nē′ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. vineus pert. to wine.] Vinous quality.

vine′land′ (vīn′lănd′), n. 1. Land on which vines are grown.
2. [cap.] Vinland.

vine leaf. A leaf of a vine, esp. the grapevine. — vine′-leaf′, adj.

vine leaf folder, vine leaf roller. = GRAPE LEAF FOLDER.

vine lek. A Eurasian species of Allium (A. ampeloprasum) and the ancestor of the leek. See LEEK a.

vine′let (vīn′lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. [See -LET.] A young or little vine.

vine louse. The vine fretter.

vine maple. a A maple (Acer circinatum) of northwestern North America, whose stems are often prostrate, rooting freely and forming dense thickets. b The Canada moonseed.

vine mesquite. Range grass.

vine mildew. Grape mildew.

vine moth. The cochylis moth.

vine of Sodom. A plant mentioned in the Bible (Deut. xxxii. 32), now thought identical with the apple of Sodom.

vine peach. The mango melon.

vine pest. The vine fretter.

vin′er (vīn′ĕr), n. 1. A vinedresser; also, a vineyard. Obs.
2. [cap.] A member of the Vintners. See VINTNER, n., 2. Hist.

vin′er, n. a A machine in which fresh peas are separated from the pods and vines by means of beaters. b A mechanical pea picker.

vin′er·y (vīn′ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -ERIES (-ĭz). 1. [OF. vignerie.] A vineyard. Obs.
2. A structure, usually inclosed with glass, for rearing and protecting vines; a grapery.
3. Vines in a mass or dense growth.

vine sawfly. A small black sawfly (Erythraspides pygmaea) whose larva feeds on the leaves of the grapevine.

vine scale. The scale insect Pulvinaria vitis.

vine slug. The black larva of the vine sawfly.

vine sorrel. A fleshy, tropical American vine (Cissus trifoliata). It has acid, compound leaves.

vine sphinx. The vine hawk moth.

vine′stalk′ (vīn′stôk′), n. See -STALK.

vine tie. A soil-binding grass (Ampelodesmos tenax) of the Mediterranean region.

‖vi·net′ta (vē·nĕt′tä), n. A vintage ditty.

vine turner. Agric. Mach. A potato-planter attachment which separates the vines from the potatoes and soil and turns them to one side.

vine webworm. See WEBWORM.

vine weevil. See VINE BORER a.

vine wilt. Plant Pathol. A stem rot of sweet potatoes caused by Fusarium batatatis and F. hyperoxysporum.

vine′yard (vĭn′yĕrd), n. [From vine + yard, after earlier wineyard, fr. AS. wīngeard. See VINE, WINE; YARD an enclosure.] 1. A plantation of grapevines.
2. Hence, figuratively, a field of labor, esp. of spiritual endeavor.

vine′yard, v. t. To cover with or as with vineyards. — v. i. To cultivate vineyards.

Vine′yard·er (-ĕr), n. A native of Martha's Vineyard.

vine′yard·ing, n. Cultivation of a vineyard. Rare.

vine′yard·ist, n. One who cultivates a vineyard.

vineyard plow. Agric. Mach. A moldboard plow (see PLOW) with a relatively small bottom, usually with a width of cut of about eight inches, used for plowing in orchards and vineyards.

Vin′golf (vĭn′gŏlf), n. [ON. Vīngolf, lit., wine hall.] Norse Myth. A great hall in Asgard.

‖vingt′–et–un′ (văn′-tā-ŭn′), n. [F., twenty and one.] A game at cards, played by two or more persons with the entire pack. The aim of each player is to obtain from the dealer such cards that the sum of their pips, or spots, is as near as possible to twenty-one, without exceeding it.

‖ving′tième′ (văn′tyĕm′), n. [F.] A twentieth; specif., in France before the Revolution, a direct tax upon the peasants.

vin·ha′ti·co (vĕN·yä′tĭ·kōō), n. [Pg.] a Any of several South American timber trees of the genera Plathymenia and Pithecolobium; also, their generally yellowish wood. b An ornamental tree (Persea indica) of the Azores and Canary Islands; also, its coarse dark-colored wood.

vini-. A combining form, Latin vini-, from vinum, meaning vine, as in vin′i·cul′tur·al, vin′i·cul′ture, vin′i·cul′tur·ist, vi·nif′er·ous.

vi′nic (vī′nĭk; vĭn′ĭk), adj. [L. vinum wine.] Of, pertaining to, or derived from, wine or alcohol; as, vinic alcohol; vinic ether (= ETHER, 3 a).

vi·nif′er·a (vī·nĭf′ĕr·ə), adj. [NL. See VINI-; -FER.] Of, pertaining to, or derived from, the European wine grape (Vitis vinifera); as, of vinifera blood. — n. Any variety or vine of this species.

vin′i·fi·ca′tion (vĭn′ĭ·fĭ·kā′shŭn), n. [L. vinum wine + -fication.] The conversion of a fruit juice or other saccharine solution into alcohol by fermentation.

vin′i·fi·ca′tor (vĭn′ĭ·fĭ·kā′tĕr), n. An apparatus for condensing escaping alcohol vapors in vinous fermentation.

Vin′land (vĭn′lănd), n. Also Wine′land (wīn′-), Vine′land (vīn′-). [ON. Vīnland, lit., wine land.] A portion of the coast of North America visited, and so called by Norse voyagers, about the year 1000. It was well wooded, and produced agreeable fruits, esp. grapes. It has been variously located from Labrador to New Jersey.

vin′ny (vĭn′ĭ), adj. [AS. fynig. See FINEW.] Moldy. Dial. Eng.

vin′ny. Dial. var. of FENNY, FINNY, VENY.

vi′no (vē′nō), n. [Sp. vino wine. Cf. BENO.] A strong liquor distilled from a fermented mixture of nipa-palm sap and sugar-cane juice. Phil. I.

vino-. A combining form from Latin vinum, wine, denoting: a Wine, as in vinometer. b Vinic and, as in vi′no·a·ce′tous, vi′no·me·thyl′ic, vi′no·sul·phu′re·ous.

vin′o·lent (vĭn′ō·lĕnt), adj. [L. vinolentus, fr. vinum wine.] Given to wine; drunken. — vin′o·lence (-lĕns), n. Both Now Rare.

vin·ol′o·gy (vĭn·ŏl′ō·jĭ; vī·nŏl′-), n. [vino- + -logy.] The scientific study of vines, specif. of grapevines. — vin·ol′o·gist (-jĭst), n.

vin·om′e·ter (vĭn·ŏm′ē·tĕr; vī·nŏm′-), n. [vino- + -meter; cf. F. vinomètre.] A hydrometer for determining the strength or purity of wine; an oenometer, or alcoholometer.

‖vin′ or′di′naire′ (văn′ ôr′dē′nâr′). [F., lit., common wine.] Wine for ordinary use, as at the table d'hôte; commonly, a cheap claret.

vi′nose (vī′nōs; vī·nōs′; cf. -OSE), adj. Vinous. Rare.

vi·nos′i·ty (vī·nŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n. [LL. vinositas; cf. F. vinosité.] Quality or state of being vinous; addiction to wine.

vi′nous (vī′nŭs), adj. [L. vinosus, fr. vinum wine; cf. F. vineux. See WINE.] 1. Of or pertaining to wine; having the qualities of wine; made of or containing wine.
2. Producing or produced by wine.
3. Habitually given to wine; also, affected by wine.
4. Of the color wine; vinaceous.
— vi′nous·ly, adv. — vi′nous·ness, n.

‖vin′ ro′sé′ (văn′ rō′zā′). [F., rose-colored wine.] A color, bluish-red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance; — called also wild cherry. Cf. WINE RED; COLOR.

vint (vĭnt), n. A card game resembling auction bridge, except that the suits rank hearts, diamonds, clubs, spades, vin′di·ca′tor·ship, n. See -SHIP. vin·dict′, n. [L. vindicta revenge.] Vengeance. Obs. vin·dic′tiv. Vindictive. Ref. Sp.

---

vindictive damages. See EXEMPLARY DAMAGES.

vin′e·gar·ette′ (vĭn′ē·gĕr·ĕt′), n. = VINAIGRETTE, n., 2. vin′e·gar·ish, adj. See -ISH. vin′e·ge·rone′ (vĭn′ē·gē′rōn′). Var. of VINEGARROON. vine′less, adj. See -LESS.

vine′like′, adj. See -LIKE. vine′man, n. Vinedresser. Obs. vine′press′, n. A wine press. Obs. vi·net′, n. = VIGNETTE, 1 & 2. Obs.

vin′ew (vĭn′ū), vin′ewed (-ūd). † FINEW, FINEWED. vine′wise′, adv. See -WISE. ving′er·hoed′ (ĭng′ĕr·hōōt′), n.; pl. -EN (-ĕn). [D., lit., thimble.] See MEASURE, Table.

vingt′un′ (văn′tŭn′), n. Short for VINGT-ET-UN. vin′i·a, n. Var. of VINEA.
vin′i·tor, n. [L.] A vinegrower. Obs. vin·net′. † VINET, vignette.

vin′newed (vĭn′ūd). † FINEWED. — vin′newed·ness, n. Obs. vin′quish (vĭng′kwĭsh), n. See VANQUISH, n.
vint (vĭnt), n. & v. [Prob. back formation fr. vintage.] = VINTAGE.

in the bidding and in scoring are equal. Every trick taken by either side is scored, 10 each if the bid is one, and 10 more for every further trick bid, so that five diamonds bid would make each trick worth 50. If the bid fails, the declarer scores as usual, but adversaries score 100 times the value for their tricks. The scores for slams, honors, and coronets, run into the thousands.

vin'ta (vēn'tä), n. [Sp.] Among the Moros, a baroto. Phil. I.

vin'tage (vĭn'tĭj), n. [Corrupt. by influence of vintner, vintry, fr. ME. vindage, vendage, for vendange, fr. OF. vendenge (F. vendange), fr. L. vindemia, fr. vinum wine, grapes + demere to take off, fr. de + emere, orig., to take. See WINE; REDEEM. Cf. VINDEMIAL, VINTNER.] 1. The produce of the vine for one season, in grapes or, now usually, in wine; as, the vintage is abundant; the vintage of France; wine of the vintage of 1840.
2. Act or time of gathering the crop of grapes, or of making the wine for a season.
3. Wine, esp. of excellent quality.
4. A wine of a particular type or district in a certain year, esp. one prized for distinctive qualities; hence, humorously, any similar distinctive product in a series; as, a society drama of a prewar vintage.

vin'tage, v. t. To strip or gather as in a vintage; now, to produce a vintage of.

vintage port. See 1st PORT, 1.

vin'tag·er (vĭn'tĭj·ĕr), n. [From VINTAGE; cf. F. vendangeur.] One who gathers the vintage.

vintage wine. A fine wine made from selected grapes of a good year, kept separate and sold as wine of that year.

vintage year. A year in which vintage wine is made.

vin'tag·ing (vĭn'tĭj·ĭng), n. Act of gathering the vintage.

vin·tem' (vēn·tān'), n. [Pg. vintêm, fr. vinte twenty.] An obsolete Portuguese coin of 20 reis, originally of silver but later, owing to depreciation, of bronze.

vin'te·ner (vĭn'tē·nĕr), n. [OF. vintenier.] The commander of a section of twenty soldiers. Obs. exc. Hist.

vint'lite (vĭnt'lĭt), n. [From Unter-Vintl, Tirol.] Petrog. Augite-bearing quartz-hornblende-diorite-porphyry.

vint'ner (vĭnt'nĕr), n. [ME. vintener, viniter, OF. vinetier, vinotier; cf. OF. vinet, vinot, dim. of vin wine, ML. vinetarius a vintner; all ult. fr. L. vinum wine. See WINE.] 1. One who deals in wine; a wine seller, or wine merchant, esp. at wholesale.
2. pl. [cap.] One of the great companies of London, England, incorporated in 1365. See COMPANY, n., 3.

vint'ner·ess (-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A woman vintner.

vint'ner·y (-ĭ), n. The trade of a vintner. Rare.

vint'ress (vĭn'trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. A woman vintner. Rare.

vint'ry (-trĭ), n. [ME. viniterie, fr. OF. vinotier, vinetier. See VINTNER.] A place where wine is sold or stored; specif. [cap.], a former storehouse for wines in London; also, the adjacent district. Archaic.

‖vi'num (vī'nŭm), n.; pl. VINA (-nä). [L. See WINE.] Wine; — chiefly used in Pharmacy in the names of solutions of medicinal substances in wine; as: vi'num me'di·ca'tum, medicated wine; vi'num o'pi·i, wine of opium.

vin'y (vĭn'ĭ), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, vines; consisting of vines; producing, or abounding in, vines.
2. Entwining. "Viny embracements." Sidney.
3. Having rather long, vigorous, prostrate stems (vines), as some kinds of sweet potatoes.

vi'nyl (vī'nĭl; vīn'ĭl), n. [L. vinum wine + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical, CH_2:CH-, of which ethylene is the hydride. Cf. ETHENYL. — vi·nyl'ic (vī·nĭl'ĭk), adj.

vi'nyl·ene (vī'nĭ·lēn; vīn'ĭ-), n. [vinyl + -ene.] Chem. The bivalent radical -CH:CH-.

vi·nyl'i·dene (vī·nĭl'ĭ·dēn), n. [vinyl + -idene.] Chem. The bivalent radical CH_2:C=.

vi'ol (vī'ŭl), n. [ME. vyell, fr. OF. vielle (in Pr., viola), of Teut. origin and ult. fr. L. vitula. See FIDDLE; cf. VIELLE, 1st VIOLA, VIOLIN.] Music. a A stringed instrument, typically made up of a hollow resonance box, or body, with one or two sound holes in its belly, a neck, with finger board, terminating in a head which holds pegs by which are controlled the tension and pitch of the strings, these being stretched from the bottom of the body over a bridge and along the finger board, and sounded by means of a bow. Specif., a medieval variety of this type, having a flat tapering back, a broad neck (originally fretted), low-arched bridge, and, usually, six strings. It was made in four sizes, treble (descant viol), alto or tenor (viola da braccio), bass (viola da gamba), and contrabass (violone), the predecessors respectively of the modern violin, viola, violoncello, and contrabass. The chest of viols used in the old English School of chamber music consisted of a set of carefully matched viols fitted into a chest or trunk. They usually included two trebles, two tenors, and two basses. b A string-toned labial organ stop.

vi'ol, v. i. To play the viol.

vi'ol (vī'ŭl), n. Also voy'al, voy'ol. [Origin uncert.] Naut. A large rope sometimes used in weighing anchor.

vi·o'la (vē·ō'lä; vī-; It. vyō'lä; 277), n. [It. See 1st VIOL.] 1. a A viol instrument, intermediate in size and compass between the violin and violoncello, tuned a fifth lower than the former, thus: c, g, d', a' (see 4th PITCH, 19). Its strings are rather thick, the lower two being wire-wound, and it has a somber elegiac quality of tone. It is a permanent member of the string quartet and the orchestra. Often called tenor violin. b A string-toned labial organ stop of 8-foot or 4-foot pitch.
2. A player of the viola.

Vi'o·la (vī'ō·lä; vē·ō'lä; vī·ō'-; vē'ō-; the first and last follow the L. accent, the others the It.), n. [L. viola a violet. See VIOLET.] 1. Feminine proper name. L. Viola (vī'ō·lä); F. Violette (vyō'lĕt'); It. Viola (vyō'lä); Sp. & Pg. Violante (vē'ō·län'tä); G. Viola (vē·ō'lä), Viole (vē·ō'lē).
2. In Shakespeare's Twelfth Night, a shipwrecked lady who disguises herself as a page and enters the service of Duke Orsino, with whom she falls in love. He employs her to carry love messages to the Lady Olivia, but finally marries Viola. See OLIVIA, 2 a.
3. (pron. vī'ō·lä) [NL.] Bot. a A very large genus of low herbs or rarely undershrubs, the violets, typifying the family Violaceae. They are either acaulescent or leafy-stemmed with alternate stipulate leaves and solitary axillary purple, yellow, or white flowers, often (as in the pansy) marked or variegated with some other color. The corolla is irregular and often spurred; the sepals are auricled at the base. The pansy (V. tricolor hortensis) and the wild pansy (V. tricolor) are familiar as old garden favorites. V. odorata of Europe is the common sweet violet of the florist. The species are widely distributed in temperate regions. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus; — applied esp. to garden hybrid plants derived from the horned violet (V. cornuta) and V. lutea.

vi·o'la al'ta (It. vyō'lä äl'tä; cf. VIOLA, n.). [It.] A large orchestral viola.

vi·o'la bas·tar'da (bäs·tär'dä). [It., bastard viola.] Music. A viola da gamba, or bass viol, provided with strings for sympathetic vibration as in the viola d'amore.

vi'o·la·ble (vī'ō·lä·b'l), adj. [L. violabilis; cf. F. violable. See VIOLATE.] That may be violated. — vi'o·la·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — vi'o·la·ble·ness, n. — vi'o·la·bly, adv.

Vi'o·la'ce·ae (-lā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See VIOLA.] Bot. A family of herbs, shrubs, and trees (order Hypericales), the violet family, having pentamerous mostly irregular flowers and a one-celled ovary containing three parietal placentae. There are 15 genera and about 300 species, of wide distribution, Viola being much the largest genus.

vi'o·la'ceous (vī'ō·lā'shŭs), adj. [L. violaceus, fr. viola a violet.] 1. Of the color violet.
2. Bot. Of or pertaining to the family Violaceae.
— vi'o·la'ceous·ly, adv.

vi·o'la da brac'cio (dä brät'chō). [It., viol for the arm.] The tenor viol, the predecessor of the viola. See VIOL a.

vi·o'la da gam'ba (dä gäm'bä). [It., viol for the leg.] a The bass viol, the predecessor of the violoncello. See VIOL a. b A string-toned organ stop of 8-foot pitch.

vi·o'la d'a·mo're (dä·mō'rä). [It., viol of love; whence F. viole d'amour.] 1. A tenor viol, having, usually, seven gut strings, with seven or more wire strings passing under the finger board and sounding sympathetically as the first are played. Its tone is peculiarly sweet and tender.
2. A soft string-toned organ stop of 8-foot or 4-foot pitch.

vi·o'la da spal'la (dä späl'lä). [It., viol for the shoulder.] A larger viola da braccio.

vi·o'la di bor·do'ne (dē bôr·dō'nā). [It., bass viol.] The viola bastarda.

vi·o'la di fa·got'to (dē fä·gōt'tō). [It.] The viola bastarda.

Vi'o·la'les (vī'ō·lā'lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A Lindleyan alliance comprising the violets, passionflowers, stonecrops, and many other families. — vi'o·lal (vī'ō·lăl), adj.

vi·o·lan'in (vī'ō·lăn'ĭn), n. [Viola + anthocy*anin*.] Biochem. An anthocyanin obtained from the pansy.

vi·o'la pom·po'sa (pōm·pō'sä). [It.] Music. An obsolete large viola with five strings, invented by J. S. Bach for playing quick, high cello passages.

vi'o·late (vī'ō·lāt), adj. Violated. Archaic.

vi'o·late (vī'ō·lāt), v. t.; VI'O·LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VI'O·LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [L. violatus, past part. of violare to violate. See VIOLENT.] 1. To trench or infringe on; also, to break or disregard, as a promise. "Violated vows." Shak.
2. To commit rape on; to ravish; outrage.
3. To do violence to (anything that should be held sacred or respected); to profane; desecrate.

Oft have they violated
The temple, oft the law, with foul affronts. Milton.

4. To interfere with by interruption or disturbance.

To violate sleep. Milton.

5. To injure, as one's feelings, by lack of considerateness.

Violating the public credit. Addison.

6. Obs. a To corrupt or spoil. b To injure by violence. c To treat roughly or harshly; to abuse.

Syn. — Mistreat; transgress; dishonor, defile, pollute; debauch.

Ant. — Honor; preserve, guard, maintain; cherish, respect.

vi'o·lat'er (-lāt'ĕr), n. A violator.

vi'o·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [OF. or L.; OF. violacion (F. violation), fr. L. violatio.] Act or instance of violating, or state of being violated; specif.: a Infringement; transgression; nonobservance; as, the violation of law, covenants, promises, etc. b An act of irreverence or desecration; profanation; as, the violation of a church. c Interruption; disturbance. d Ravishment; rape. e Obs. Handling with violence. — vi'o·la'tion·al, adj.

vi'o·la'tive (vī'ō·lā'tĭv), adj. Violating, or tending to violate.

vi'o·la'tor (-lā'tĕr), n. [L.] One who or that which violates.

vi'o·la·ture (vī'ō·lä·tûr), n. Violation. Rare.

viol block. Naut. A block with swallow large enough to admit a hawser, or viol.

vi'ol da brac'cio, vi'ol d'a·mo're (vē'ŏl dä brät'chō, dä·mō'rä), etc. Music. = VIOLA DA BRACCIO, VIOLA D'AMORE, etc.

vi'ole' d'a'mour' (vē'ōl' dä'mōōr'). [F.] The viola d'amore.

‖vi'ole' d'or'ches'tre (dôr'kĕs'tr'). [F., viola of the orchestra.] An imitative string-toned organ stop of small scale and incisive quality.

vi'o·lence (vī'ō·lĕns), n. [OF., fr. L. violentia. See VIOLENT.] 1. a Broadly, exertion of any physical force considered with reference to its effect on another than the agent, as in warfare or in effecting an entrance into a house in burglary. Sometimes, in law, the overcoming or prevention of resistance by threats of violence is held to be constructive violence. b An instance of violent treatment or procedure.

Arbitrary violences in time of peace. Milton.

2. Injury done to that which is entitled to respect, reverence, or observance; profanation; infringement; unjust force; outrage; assault.

Do violence to no man. Luke iii. 14.

3. Strength or energy actively displayed or exerted, esp. when destructive; vehement or forcible action; force; impetuosity; vehemence; highly excited or animated force or energy; intensity; severity; as, the violence of an attack or storm or of a fever.
4. Vehemence in feeling, behavior, or language; passion; ardor; fury; fervor.

The violence of party spirit. Coleridge.

5. Undue alteration of wording or sense, as in editing or interpreting a text.

Syn. — See FORCE. Ant. — Softness, gentleness, weakness.

vi'o·lence, v. t. To assault; violate; also, to bring by violence; to compel. Obs.

vi'o·lent (-lĕnt), adj. [ME., fr. OF. violent, fr. L. violentus; akin to L. violare to violate, vis strength, force. See VIM; cf. VIOLATE.] 1. Moving, acting, or characterized, by physical force, esp. by extreme and sudden or by unjust or improper force; furious; severe; vehement; as, a violent storm; a violent attack.

Some violent hands were laid on Humphrey's life. Shak.

2. That commits, or is characterized or accompanied by, violence (sense 1); as, to lay violent hands on one.

Violent thefts. Shak.

3. Great; extreme; intense; vivid; loud; as, a violent contrast in colors; violent pain, passion, noise, etc.
4. Acting with or exerting great force on the mind, or as evidence; nearly conclusive, as in the phrase, often used in legal contention, violent presumption.
5. Produced or effected by force; not spontaneous or natural; unnatural; abnormal; as, a violent death; he came to a violent end.

These violent delights have violent ends. Shak.

6. Evincing, or due to, strong mental excitement; vehement; passionate; as, violent speech; violent reproaches for his perfidy.
7. That wrests meaning unduly; as, a violent assumption or interpretation.

Syn. — Fierce, savage; turbulent, tempestuous, stormy; sharp, acute.

Ant. — Mild; subdued, soft; feeble, faint, weak. See GENTLE, MILD.

— vi'o·lent·ly, adv. — vi'o·lent·ness, n.

vi'o·lent (vī'ō·lĕnt), n. One who or that which displays violence; with the, violent persons collectively.

vi'o·lent, v. i. To be violent; to act violently. — v. t. To constrain by or as by violence. Both Obs.

vi'o·lent, adv. Violently. Obs.

Vi'o·len'ta (vī'ō·lĕn'tä), n. A character in Shakespeare's All's Well that Ends Well.

violent profits. Scots Law. Rents or profits of an estate obtained by a tenant wrongfully holding over after warning They are recoverable in a process of removing.

vi'ol·er (vī'ŭl·ĕr), n. A player on the viol; also, a fiddler. Archaic.

vi'o·les'cent (vī'ō·lĕs'ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [L. viola a violet + -escent.] Tending to a violet color.

‖vi'ole' sor'dine' (vē'ōl' sôr'dēn'). [F., muted viol.] A soft string-toned organ stop imitating a muted violin.

vi'ol·et (vī'ŭl·ĕt), n. [It. violetta.] Music. Dim. of VIOL; specif., a viola d'amore.

vi'o·let (vī'ō·lĕt; -lĭt; 119; 190), n. [ME. violett, vyalette, fr. OF. violete (F. violette) a violet, dim. of viole a violet, fr. L. viola, fr. same unknown source as Gr. ion. Cf. IODINE.] 1. a Any plant, flower, or species, of the genus Viola. The common purple, or hooded, violet of eastern North America is V. cucullata. The violet is the State flower of Illinois, Wisconsin, New Jersey, and Rhode Island. b With a qualifying word, any similar plant; as, dogtooth violet.
2. The plant or its flowers as used in pharmacy and confections; as, syrup of violet; — now chiefly pl.; as, candied violets.
3. Any of the colors resembling those of certain violets, averaging bluish blue-red in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. They vary in hue from reddish-blue to blue-red, in saturation from medium to high, and in brilliance from low to medium. It is emblematic of gravity and chastity. Cf. COLOR.
4. Any pigment or dye which imparts the above color.
5. Violet-colored cloth or attire.
6. Any of numerous small violet-colored butterflies of Cyaniris, Rusticus, and allied genera of the family Lycaenidae.

Violet (Cyaniris argiolus). a Male Imago; b Side View.

7. [caps.] Used as feminine proper name.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

violet-crowned	violet-garlanded	violet-scented violet-embroidered	violet-inwoven	violet-sweet vi'o·let, adj. [OF. See VIOLET, n.] Of the color violet.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

violet-black	violet-gray	violet-red violet-blue	violet-green	violet-ringed violet-brown	violet-headed	violet-shrouded violet-colored	violet-hooded	violet-stoled violet-crimson	violet-horned	violet-striped violet-dyed	violet-hued	violet-tailed violet-eared	violet-purple	violet-throated violet-flowered	violet-rayed vi'o·let, v. t. To make violet-hued. — v. i. To gather violets.

vi'o·let–blind', adj. Color-blind to violet. — vi'o·let–blind'ness, n.

vi'o·let–bloom', n. a The matrimony vine (Lycium halimifolium). b. = BITTERSWEET, 3 a.

violet carmine. A color, reddish blue-red in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

violet cress. An annual herb (Ionopsidium acaule), family Brassicaceae, native to Spain and Portugal, having pink or purple flowers.

vi'o·let–ear', n. Any tropical hummingbird of the genus Colibri (syn. Petasophora), having violet or bluish-purple ear tufts.

violet family. The Violaceae.

vi'o·let–green' swal'low. A common swallow (Tachycineta thalassina lepida), of western North America, violet green above, with white ear coverts, rump patches, and lower side.

violet prairie clover. The purple prairie clover. See PURPLE PRAIRIE CLOVER.

violet ray. a The shortest ray of the visible spectrum, producing violet color. See SPECTRUM. b Erroneously, the invisible ultraviolet ray having certain therapeutic qualities. Cf. ULTRAVIOLET, ACTINIC RAY.

violet root. Orrisroot; — a trade name.

violet root rot. Plant Pathol. A fungous root rot of alfalfa, asparagus, potato, etc. caused by Rhizoctonia crocorum (syn. violacea).

violet shell or snail. Any species of the genus Janthina.

vi'ol·ette' (vī'ŭl·ĕt'), n. [It. violetta.] A small viol.

violet tip. A handsome American butterfly (Polygonia interrogationis). Its wings are mottled with various shades of red and brown and have violet tips.

Violet Tip.

violet water. A toilet water scented with violet.

violet wood. Any of several hard purplish or reddish woods, as kingwood or myall wood (Acacia pendula); also, a tree yielding such wood.

violet wood sorrel. A perennial herb (Ionoxalis violacea) of the eastern United States, with palmately compound, usually sensitive leaves, and rose-purple or rarely white flowers.

vi'o·let·y (vī'ō·lĕt·ĭ), adj. Suggestive of violets or violet; resembling violets, as in color or scent.

---

vintener. † VINTNER. vint'ner·ship, n. See -SHIP. vin'yard. Vineyard. Ref. Sp.

vi'nyl·ben'zene (vī'nĭl·bĕn'zēn; vīn'ĭl-; -bĕn·zēn'), n. = STYRENE a. vi'ol. † VIAL.

vi'o·la'cean, adj. = VIOLACEOUS. violand, n. A violin. Obs. vi'o·la·quer'cit·rin (vī'ō·lä-kwûr'sĭt·rĭn), n. Chem. = RUTIN. vi'o·la'tiv. Violative. Ref. Sp.

vi'o·la·to'ry, adj. = VIOLATIVE. vi'ole, v. t. To violate. Obs. vi'o·len·cy, n. Violence. Obs.

vi'o·let·ish, adj. See -ISH. vi'o·let·like', adj. See -LIKE. vi'o·let·wise', adj. See -WISE.

vi'o·lin' (vī'ō·lĭn'; attributive often vī'ō·lĭn'; 66), n. [It. violino, dim. of viola. See 1st VIOL; cf. VIOLONCELLO.] 1. Music. a The modern treble instrument of the viol class, distinguished in its developed form from the typical viol (which see) by having the back scooped out and slightly rounded like the belly, a low bridge, ʃ-shaped sound holes, thick but narrow handle, acute corners, four strings tuned to g, d′, a′, and e″ and a range of g–c′″′ (see PITCH, n., 19); — called also, colloquially, fiddle. It is made of carefully chosen maple and pine, and in superior instruments every detail, as of the adjustment between bridge, sound post, and sound holes, and of the model, jointing, and varnish, is studied to bring about the utmost sonority and refinement of tone. Violinmaking was brought to its highest perfection by the masters of Cremona, in northern Italy, esp. by Nicola Amati, Stradivari, and Guarneri. The violin is unique for varied, rich, and expressive tone quality, and has the first place in the orchestra. b An 8-foot labial organ stop of similar quality.

Violin. 1 Scroll; 2 Pegbox; 3, 3 Pegs; 4 Nut; 5 Finger Board; 6 Neck Plate; 7, 7 Bouts; 8, 8 Sound Holes; 9 Bridge; 10 Tailpiece; 11 Button.

2. A violin player; as, the first violin.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

violin bow	violinmaker	violin-shaped violin case	violinmaking	violin string vi'o·lin', v. t.; -LINED' (-lĭnd'); -LIN'ING (-lĭn'ĭng). To influence or effect by violin playing. Rare. — v. i. To play the violin.

vi'o·li'na (vē'ō·lē'nä), n. [From VIOLIN] Music. A string-toned organ stop of 4-foot pitch.

violin clef. Music. The G clef. See CLEF.

violin diapason. Music. A metal labial organ stop of 8-foot pitch with a combination of diapason and string-toned quality.

vi'o·line (vī'ō·lēn; -lĭn; 157), n. Also -lin. [See VIOLET.] 1. Chem. An alkaloid extracted from the root and foliage of the violet (Viola).

2. A color, bluish blue-red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

vi'o·lin·ette' (vī'ō·lĭn·ĕt'), n. [Dim. of violin.] Music. A violino piccolo or a kit.

vi'o·lin'ist (-lĭn'ĭst), n. [It. violinista.] A player on the violin. — vi'o·lin·is'tic (-lĭn·ĭs'tĭk), adj.

‖vio·li'no (vyō·lē'nō), n. [It.] Music. A violin.

vio·li'no pic'co·lo (pĕk'kō·lō). [It. piccolo small.] Music. A small violin having the same proportions as the ordinary violin, and usually tuned a fourth higher.

violin piano. A harmonichord.

vi'ol·ist (vī'ŭl·ĭst), n. [Cf. F. violiste.] A player on the viol.

Violle's standard (vyōlz), or Violle (vyōl), n. [After Jules Violle, French physicist.] A photometric unit, being the light emitted by a square centimeter of platinum at the temperature of solidification about equal to 18.5 British standard candles.

vi'o·lon·cel'list (vē'ō·lŏn·chĕl'ĭst; vī'ō·lŏn·sĕl'ĭst), n. [Cf. It. violoncellista.] A player on the violoncello; — often shortened to cellist.

vi'o·lon·cel'lo (-chĕl'ō; -sĕl'ō; 277), n.; pl. -LOS (-ōz). [It., dim. of violone contrabass. See VIOLONE; cf. CELLO.] Music. a A bass violin, the modern form of the viola da gamba, with its four strings tuned an octave lower than the modern viola and with a compass C to e″ (see PITCH, n., 19); — commonly shortened to cello. In playing, the performer rests it vertically on the floor between his knees. Its tone combines the sonority and expressiveness of the violin with a deeper, masculine quality. b A labial organ stop of similar quality.

Violoncello.

vi'o·lon·cel'lo, v. i. To play the violoncello.

violoncello piccolo. A miniature violoncello of the same shape and tuning.

vio·lo'ne (vyō·lō'nā), n. [It., aug. of viola a viol. See 1st VIOL.] Music. 1. The double-bass viol, now superseded by the modern contrabass. See 1st VIOL a.

2. An open, labial, string-toned stop of 16-foot pitch, usually in the pedal organ. See ORGAN, 1 c.

vio·lot'ta (-lŏt'ä), n. [Quasi It., fr. It. viola + -otta, aug. suff.] Music. A tenor violin intermediate between the viola and the violoncello. Its strings are tuned G, d, a, e′ (see PITCH, n., 19).

vi'o·lu'ric (vī'ō·lū'rĭk), adj. [violet + barbi*turic.*] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a white crystalline monoacid, $C_5H_2N_2O_4$, obtained by the action of hydroxylamine on alloxan, and in other ways; 5-isonitroso-barbituric acid. It gives a violet solution in water, and forms characteristic yellow, blue, violet, etc., salts.

Vi·or'na (vī·ôr'nä), n. [NL., fr. F. viorne a clematislike plant, fr. L. viburnum. See VIBURNUM.] Bot. A genus of about 20 species of vines or erect herbs of the crowfoot family (Ranunculaceae) differing from the closely related genus Clematis in having mostly solitary flowers with erect sepals and stamens. V. urnigera, the leatherflower, is common in the southeastern United States. All but a few are North American.

vi·os'ter·ol (vī·ŏs'tĕr·ōl; -ōl), n. [ultra violet + ergo*sterol.*] Pharm. A preparation of irradiated ergosterol dissolved in neutral oil.

vi'per (vī'pĕr), n. [OF. or L.; OF. vipre, vipere (F. vipère), fr. L. vipera; prob. akin to Skr. vepate he trembles. See VIBRATE; cf. WEEVER, WIVER, n., WIVERN.] 1. A common European snake (Vipera, syn. Pelias, berus) attaining a length of two feet and varying in color from red, brown, or gray, with dark markings, to black, which is found from England (where it was formerly abundant) across Europe and Asia to Sakhalin; hence, any of the closely related species of the genus Vipera, some of which occur in southern Europe; an adder. Also, any of certain other Old World poisonous snakes (genera Bitis, Cerastes, etc.) of the family Viperidae, in the narrow sense, or, broadly, of the Viperidae taken as inclusive of the Crotalidae (see PIT VIPER). The bite of many species is dangerous, often fatal, but that of V. berus, while often severe, is rarely fatal to man. Loosely or popularly, various venomous or supposedly venomous snakes are called vipers.

Common European Viper.

2. A dangerous, treacherous, or malignant, person.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

viper-bit	viper-haunted	viper-mouthed
viper-curled	viper-headed	viper-nourished

Vi'per·a (vī'pĕr·ä), n. [L., a viper.] Zool. The type genus of the family Viperidae, including the common European viper. See VIPER.

viper broth. Broth made from a viper, formerly believed to have invigorating properties.

vi'per·ess (vī'pĕr·ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female viper.

vi'per·fish' (-fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. A small, slender, phosphorescent, deep-sea fish (Chauliodus sloani). It has long ventral and dorsal fins, a large mouth, and very long, sharp teeth. Also, any of various other related fishes.

viper gourd. The snake gourd Trichosanthes anguina; — so called from its reputed ugliness.

viper grass. Viper's-grass.

Vi·per'i·dae (vī·pĕr'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A widely distributed family of venomous, chiefly viviparous snakes, characterized by large, perforated, poison fangs, which when the snake strikes, become erected by rotating on their base, the movable premaxillary bone. The family is commonly restricted to those forms which lack the external sensory pit (see PIT VIPER), but in some classifications is made to include also the pit vipers as a subfamily (Crotalinae), the typical vipers then forming a subfamily, Vi'per·i'nae (vī'pĕr·ĭ'nē), both together being world-wide (except for Madagascar and Australia) in occurrence. — vi'per·id (vī'pĕr·ĭd), n. & adj.

vi'per·i·form' (vī'pĕr·ĭ·fôrm'; vī·pĕr'-), adj. [viper + -form.] Like a viper.

vi'per·ine (vī'pĕr·ĭn; -īn; 156), adj. [L. viperinus.] Of, pertaining to, or like, a viper or vipers; venomous.

vi'per·ine, n. = VIPERINE SNAKE a.

viperine snake. a Any viper or snake of the family Viperidae or subfamily Viperinae. b A small harmless snake (Natrix viperinus) colored much like the viper, found in southern Europe and northern Africa.

viper lozenge. Old Pharm. A lozenge prepared from dried, powdered viper's flesh mixed with mucilage of tragacanth and white wine, formerly regarded as an antidote for poisons and a remedy for plague.

Vi'per·oi'de·a (vī'pĕr·oi'dē·ä), n. pl. [NL. See VIPER; -OID.] Zool. A division of snakes equivalent to Viperidae in its broad sense. — vi'per·oid (vī'pĕr·oid), adj.

vi'per·ous (vī'pĕr·ŭs), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or composed of, vipers.

2. Having the qualities of a viper; malignant; venomous; as, a viperous tongue. "This viperous slander." Shak. — vi'per·ous·ly, adv. — vi'per·ous·ness, n.

vi'per's bu'gloss (vī'pĕrz). = BLUEWEED a.

vi'per's–grass', n. A perennial herb (Scorzonera hispanica) with narrow, entire leaves, and solitary heads of yellow flowers. The long, white, carrot-shaped roots are eaten in Spain and elsewhere.

viper wine. A medicated wine containing a decoction from vipers, formerly believed to restore vital powers.

vi'per·y (vī'pĕr·ĭ), adj. Viperous.

vir (vĭr; vûr), n. Vigor; activity. Scot.

Vi'ra (vē'rä), n. sing. & pl. Also Wa·vi'ra (wä·vē'rä). One of a Bantu tribe in Uvira on the northwestern shore of Lake Tanganyika.

vir'a·gin (vĭr'ä·jĭn), n. [OF. viragine, fr. L. virago, -ginis.] A virago. — vir'a·gin'i·an (-jĭn'ĭ·ăn), adj. — vi'ra·gin'i·ty (-jĭn'ĭ·tĭ), n. — vi·rag'i·nous (vĭ·răj'ĭ·nŭs), adj. All Rare.

vi·ra'go (vĭ·rā'gō; vī-; 277), n.; pl. -GOES, -GOS (-gōz). [L., fr. vir man. See VIRILE.] 1. A woman. Obs.

2. A woman of great stature, strength, and courage; a woman with masculine qualities of body and mind. Archaic.

3. Hence, a turbulent woman; a termagant; vixen.

vi'ra·son' (vē'rä·sōn'), n. [Sp. virazón.] A sea breeze. Obs.

Vir'bi·us (vûr'bĭ·ŭs), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. A primitive deity of childbirth, associated with Diana. He eventually became a mythological figure.

vire (vēr), n. [OF., fr. virer to turn. See VEER.] An arrow feathered so as to acquire a rotary motion, formerly used with a crossbow.

vire (vīr). Var. of FIRE. Obs. exc. Dial.

‖vire'lai' (vēr'lā'), n. [OF. & F.] A virelay.

vir'e·lay (vĭr'ē·lā), n. [OF. virelai (influenced by lai lay), fr. earlier vireli, orig. a mere refrain.] a An old French verse form having a refrain and composed wholly in two rhymes; also, one composed of stanzas indeterminate in length and number, but usually repeating one of the two rhymes of the first stanza in the second, the new rhyme of the second stanza in the third, and so on, until the last stanza, where the unrepeated rhymes of the first stanza takes the place of a new rhyme. b An old song or poem, esp. one with a refrain or an intricate or monotonous rhyme scheme; — a vague or loose use.

vi'rent (vī'rĕnt), adj. [L. virens, pres. part. of virere to be green.] Green; not withered. Rare.

vir'e·o (vĭr'ē·ō), n.; pl. -OS (-ōz). [L., a species of bird.] a Any of certain small insectivorous oscine American birds belonging to a family Vir'e·on'i·dae (vĭr'ē·ŏn'ĭ·dē). They are plainly but delicately colored, chiefly in olivaceous and grayish shades. In many species the bill is hooked. They are sweet singers and usually build pensile nests of much beauty. Common species are the red-eyed, warbling, solitary (or blue-headed), white-eyed, and yellow-throated vireos (see these terms). They are also called greenlet. b [cap.] The typical genus of vireos. — vir'e·o·nine (vĭr'ē·ō·nĭn; -nīn; 156), adj. & n.

Red-eyed Vireo (Vireo olivaceus).

vi·res'cence (vī·rĕs'ĕns; -ns), n. State or condition of becoming green, specif., Bot., through the development of chloroplasts in organs normally white or colored, as petals.

vi·res'cent (-ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [L. virescens, pres. part. of virescere to grow green, verb incho. fr. virere to be green. See VERDANT.] Beginning to be green; slightly green; greenish.

‖vir et ux'or (vĭr ĕt ŭk'sôr). [L.] Husband and wife.

vir'ga (vûr'gä), n. [L.] 1. A twig; wand. Cf. VERGE.

2. Medieval Music. See NEUME.

vir'gal (-găl), adj. [L. virga twig.] Made of twigs.

vir'gate (vûr'gāt), n. [ML. virgata, virgata terræ, so much land as virga terræ, a land measure, contains, fr. L. virga a twig, rod. See VERGE a rod.] Early Eng. Law. A measure of land equal to one quarter of an acre or, as more commonly used, one quarter of a hide; a yard or yardland. As equal to one quarter of a hide, a virgate was normally equal to 30 acres, but varied with the variation in the extent of the hide.

vir'gate (vûr'gāt), adj. [L. virgatus made of twigs, fr. virga a twig, rod. See VERGE a rod.] 1. Rodlike.

2. Bot. a Having the form of a rod; wand-shaped. b Bearing many small twigs.

3. Zool. Slender and slightly toothed; — said of the trophi of certain rotifers.

vir'gate (vûr'gāt), v. i. Geol. To branch in diverging lines. — vir·ga'tion (vûr·gā'shŭn), n.

vir'gat·er (-gāt·ĕr), n. Early Eng. Law. A holder of a virgate.

Vir·gil'i·a (vûr·jĭl'ĭ·ä), n. [NL., after P. Virgilius (or Vergilius) Maro, the Roman poet (Vergil).] 1. A genus of South African trees (family Fabaceae) having as the only known species V. capensis, which furnishes a useful timber. It has pinnate leaves and rose-purple flowers succeeded by a coriaceous 2-valved pod.

2. [not cap.] Any of several trees belonging to other genera, as the yellowwood (Cladrastis), the Kentucky coffee tree (Gymnocladus), etc.

Vir·gil'i·a, n. 1. Feminine proper name.

2. In Shakespeare's Coriolanus, the wife of Coriolanus.

vir'gin (vûr'jĭn), n. [ME. virgine, fr. OF. virgine, virgene, virge (F. vierge), fr. L. virgo, -inis; prob. akin to L. virga twig, rod. See WHISK.] 1. In early Christian communities, before the rise of monasticism, an unmarried woman devoted to religion and asceticism; — now found chiefly in designations of saints; as, Saint Lucy, virgin and martyr.

2. A young unmarried woman.

3. A person, esp. a woman, who has not had sexual intercourse; a maid. Cf. MAID, 2. Rev. xiv. 4.

4. [cap., usually with the.] The Virgin Mary.

5. Any female animal that has not copulated.

6. In art, a Madonna.

7. State of being a virgin; virginity. Rare.

8. An elderly spinster.

9 [cap.] Astron. Virgo. See ZODIAC; SIGN, n., 12.

10. Zool. A female which reproduces parthenogenetically.

vir'gin (vûr'jĭn), adj. 1. Being a virgin; chaste; of, pertaining to, or befitting, a virgin; maidenly; modest; indicating modesty; as, a virgin blush, snood. "Virgin modesty." Milton.

2. Pure; undefiled; unsullied. "Virgin snow." Shak.

3. Consisting of a virgin or virgins; as, a virgin train.

The virgin tribute. Shak.

4. Undisturbed; fresh; new; unadulterated; unalloyed; as, virgin soil, gold, business. "Virgin Dutch." G. W. Cable.

5. Hitherto unused; as, his virgin sword; initial; first; as, a virgin cruise.

6. Uncaptured; unsubdued; as, a virgin city, fortress, land.

7. a Of elements, naturally uncombined; native; as, virgin sulphur. b Of oils, obtained from the first light pressing (of olives, walnuts, etc.) in the cold. c Produced directly from ore, or by primary smelting; — said of metal to distinguish it from scrap or from metal obtained by remelting used material.

8. As yet without contact; as, rivers virgin of keels; a team virgin to harness; virgin toward such experience.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

virgin-eyed, virgin-minded, virgin-vested.

vir'gin, v. i. To live a virgin; — with it. — v. t. To name as virgin.

vir'gin·al (vûr'jĭ·nĕl; -n'l), adj. [OF., fr. L. virginalis.] 1. Of, pert. to, or befitting, a virgin or virginity; maidenly; pure. "Honor virginal." Spenser.

2. Remaining virgin; untouched; unsullied.

— vir'gin·al·ly, adv.

vir'gin·al, n. [Cf. F. virginale; — prob. so called from being used by young girls, or virgins.] A small rectangular spinet, without legs, having only one wire to a note. It was popular in the 16th and 17th centuries. Also pl., and sometimes called a pair of virginals.

vir'gin·al, v. i. To tap with the fingers, as if on a virginal.

Vir'gin·al, n. [ML. Virginale.] The book of the offices of the Virgin Mary.

virginal generation. Biol. Parthenogenesis.

vir'gin·al·ist, n. One who plays a virginal.

vir'gi·nal'i·ty (vûr'jĭ·năl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Maidenliness. Rare.

virginal membrane. The hymen.

virgin birth. a Birth from a virgin; parthenogenesis. b Theol. The doctrine, founded on Matthew i. 25 and Luke i. 35, that Jesus was miraculously begotten of God and born of a virgin mother.

vir'gin–born' (66), adj. 1. Born of a virgin; — said of Jesus.

2. Zool. Parthenogenetic.

virgin bower. A virgin's-bower.

virgin dip. See DIP, n., 13.

vir·gin'e·ous (vûr·jĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. [L. virgineus.] Virginal. Rare.

virgin forest. A forest hitherto untouched by human activity; — called also old growth.

vir'gin·head (vûr'jĭn·hĕd), n. [virgin + -head.] Virginity. Rare.

virgin honey. Honey that flows freely from the uncapped comb at ordinary temperature.

Vir·gin'ia (vĕr·jĭn'yä; -jĭn'ĭ·ä), n. [L. Virginia, Verginia, fem. of Verginius, Virginius.] 1. Feminine proper name. F. Virginie (vĕr'zhē'nē'); It. Virginia (vēr·jē'nyä); G. Virginia (vēr·gē'nyä).

2. In Roman legend, the innocent daughter of the centu-vi'o·lin·iste' n. Music. Fem. of VIOLINIST. vi'o·lin'like', adj. See -LIKE. vi'ol·mak'er, n. See MAKER. — vi'ol·mak'ing, n. & adj.

---

vi'o·lon, n. [F. violon, It. violone. See VIOLONCELLO.] Music. = VIOLIN vi'o·lous (vī'ō·lŭs), adj. Violent. Obs. vi'per·an, adj. = VIPERINE. vi·pe'ri·an, adj. = VIPERINE.
Vi'per·i'na (vī'pĕr·ĭ'nä), n. pl. [NL.] = VIPERIDAE.
Vi'per·i'nae (-nē), n. pl. [NL.] See VIPERIDAE. vi'per·ish, adj. See -ISH. — vi'per·ish·ly, adv. [-LIKE.] vi'per·like', adj. & adv. See vi'per·ling, n. See -LING. vi·pol'i·tic, n., vi·pres'i·dent, n., vi·queen', n. See VI-. Rare.
Vi'ra·co'cha (vē'rä·kō'chä). Var. of UIRACOCHA. vi·ra'go·ish, adj. See -ISH.
vi·ra'go·like', adj. See -LIKE.
vi·ra'go·ship, n. See -SHIP.
vi·ran'da. Var. of VERANDA. virbiasses, n. pl. [ML. virbius being twice a man, raised from the dead.] Revivals of persons buried alive. Obs.
‖vi'res (vī'rēz), n., pl. of VIS.
‖vi'res ac·qui'rit e·un'do [L.] It gains strength by going, i. e., in its course; — said of Fame or of Rumor. Adapted from Vergil (Aeneid, IV. 175). [Archaic.] virestot. Var. of VIRIFOOT. vir'gat·ed (vûr'gāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [L. virgatus striped.] = VIRGATE. virge, virger. ✝ VERGE, VERGER.
Vir'gil (vûr'jĭl), Vir·gil'i·an (vûr·jĭl'ĭ·ăn). Vars. of VERGIL, etc.
Vir'gil·ism, n. = VERGILIANISM.
Vir·gi·na'le (vûr'jĭ·nā'lē), n. = 4th VIRGINAL.

---

rion Lucius Virginius. Her beauty having excited the lust of the decemvir Appius Claudius, he instigated one of his clients to seize her and claim her as his slave. When, however, Appius was about to give judgment in his client's favor, Virginius, seizing a butcher's knife, slew his daughter. This so aroused the city and camp that the decemvirs were deprived of their power. Virginius, being made tribune, put Appius in prison, where he took his own life.
3. See PAUL AND VIRGINIA.
4. A state of the United States formerly including West Virginia; — named, when an English colony, in honor of the Virgin Queen.
5. See SHIP, Table.
6. Virginia tobacco.

Virginia beard grass. a = BROOM SEDGE a. b Brome grass.
Virginia bluebell. Virginia cowslip.
Virginia broomrape. = BEECHDROPS a.
Virginia cedar. The red cedar Juniperus virginiana.
Virginia chain fern. Chain fern.
Virginia cowslip. A smooth erect herb (Mertensia virginica) of eastern North America, having entire leaves and showy blue flowers, pink in bud. See MERTENSIA; WILD FLOWERS, Plate.
Virginia creeper. A common North American tendril-climbing vine (Parthenocissus quinquefolia), having palmately 5-foliolate or 7-foliolate leaves and bluish-black berries. Called also woodbine and American ivy. U. S.

Virginia Creeper.

Virginia crescent. The peppergrass Lepidium virginicum.
Virginia crownbeard. A tall perennial herb (Verbesina virginica), family Carduaceae, of the eastern United States, with alternate leaves and paniculate heads of white flowers.
Virginia date plum. The persimmon.
Virginia deer. The white-tailed deer; in a more specific sense, the typical form of it (Odocoileus virginianus) which inhabits the eastern United States from Florida and Louisiana to New York.
Virginia dogwood. The flowering dogwood.
Virginia false gromwell. The false gromwell Onosmodium virginianum.
Virginia fence. A worm fence.
Virginia goatsbeard. A small pale-green herb (Cynthia virginica), family Cichoriaceae, with yellow flower heads.
Virginia goat's–rue. The catgut (Tephrosia virginiana).
Virginia grape fern. A common woodland fern (Botrychium virginianum) of North America, Europe, and Asia, with a ternate, twice-pinnate sterile frond and an erect, pinnate, fertile frond.
Virginia ham. A ham from a razorback hog. It has a distinctive flavor from the food given the hog and the method of curing and aging the ham.
Virginia juniper. The red cedar.
Virginia knotweed. An erect herb (Tovara virginiana), family Polygonaceae, of eastern North America, with ovate, pointed leaves and spikes of small, greenish or rose-colored flowers.
Virginia lungwort. The Virginia cowslip.
Virginia lyme grass. Terrell grass.
Virginia mallow. A perennial herb (Sida hermaphrodita), a native of the southeastern United States, having white flowers and maplelike leaves.
Virginia mountain mint. A fragrant perennial herb (Pycnanthemum virginianum) of eastern North America, with opposite, linear-lanceolate leaves, and tiny, close heads of flowers in a terminal corymb.
Virginia mouse–ear. The Virginia stickseed. vir·gin'i·an (vĕr·jĭn'ĭ·ăn), adj. Virginal. Obs.
Vir·gin'i·an (vĕr·jĭn'ĭ·ăn; -jĭn'yăn), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Virginia.
2. Pertaining to or designating the language of the Powhatan, and other Algonquian Indians, formerly of eastern Virginia, North Carolina, and Maryland.
Vir·gin'i·an, n. A native or inhabitant of Virginia.
Vir·gin'i·an, The. The title, and sobriquet of the hero, of a series of short stories by Owen Wister (collected in book form in 1902) dealing with frontier life in Wyoming, the hero being a cowboy originally from Virginia.
Virginian hemp. = WATER HEMP a.
Virginian hound. See BLOODHOUND.
Virginia nightingale. The cardinal bird.
Vir·gin'i·ans, The. A novel (1857–59) by Thackeray, a sequel to Henry Esmond, dealing with life in early 18th-century Virginia. See ESMOND, BEATRIX.
Virginia pine. a The Georgia pine. b The loblolly Pinus taeda. c The scrub pine Pinus virginiana.
Virginia plan. U. S. Hist. A plan of government proposed at the Constitutional Convention of 1787 by Edmund Randolph of Virginia. It provided for three separate branches of government, a legislature of two houses, with proportional representation in each, and a single executive and national judiciary to be chosen by the legislature. See NEW JERSEY PLAN.
Virginia poke. a The pokeweed (Phytolacca americana). b The American hellebore.
Virginia quail. The bobwhite.
Virginia rail. An American long-billed rail (Rallus virginianus), resembling in color the king rail, but scarcely larger than the sora.
Virginia rail fence. A worm fence.
Virginia raspberry. The purple-flowering raspberry. Eng.
Virginia red cedar. The red cedar Juniperus virginiana.
Virginia reel. A country-dance for an indefinite number of participants; — called in England Sir Roger de Coverley. See SIR ROGER DE COVERLEY.
Virginia Resolutions. U. S. Hist. Resolutions drawn by Madison and passed by the Virginia Legislature in 1798, similar to the Kentucky Resolutions (which see).
Virginia sappine. In the trade, the loblolly Pinus taeda; also, its wood. Eastern U. S.
Virginia sarsaparilla. The wild sarsaparilla.
Virginia serpentaria or serpentary. The Virginia snakeroot.
Virginia silk. The common milkweed (Asclepias syriaca) of eastern North America.
Virginia snakeroot. A birthwort (Aristolochia serpentaria) of the eastern United States, with oblong leaves, cordate at the base, and a solitary, basal, very irregular flower.
Virginia stickseed. A biennial, North American herb (Lappula virginiana) with broad oval leaves and prickly-barbed fruit; — called also dysentery root from its astringent root.
Virginia stock. Mahon stock.
Virginia stonecrop. The ditch stonecrop.
Vir·gin'ia–stone'crop' fam'i·ly. The Penthoraceae.
Virginia strawberry. A North American herb (Fragaria virginiana) with white flowers and sweet, scarlet fruit. It is one of the plants used in developing the garden strawberry. See STRAWBERRY, 1 b.
Virginia sumac. The staghorn sumac.
Virginia tea. The Virginia willow. See ITEA.
Virginia thorn. The Washington thorn.
Virginia thyme. The Virginia mountain mint.
Virginia tobacco. Any of the several types of tobacco produced in Virginia, also the tobacco itself; — in Europe, often applied to all American-grown tobaccos.
Virginia trumpet flower. The trumpet creeper.
Virginia wake–robin. The green arrow arum.
Virginia waterleaf. A showy perennial herb (Hydrophyllum virginianum) with white flowers. See SHAWNEE SALAD.
Virginia willow. See ITEA.
Virginia winterberry. The winterberry Ilex verticillata.
Virginia yellow pine. = SHORTLEAF PINE a.
Vir·gin'i·bus Pu'er·is'que (vĕr·jĭn'ĭ·bŭs pū'ĕr·ĭs'kwē). [L., for boys and girls.] A collection of essays (1881) by Robert Louis Stevenson.
Vir'gi·nid (vûr'jĭ·nĭd), n. [See VIRGO; 1st -ID.] Any of a shower of meteors whose radiant is in the constellation Virgo. vir·gin'i·ty (vĕr·jĭn'ĭ·tĭ), n. [ME. virginitee, fr. OF. virginité, fr. L. virginitas.] 1. Quality or state of being a virgin; maidenhood.
2. The unmarried life; celibacy; spinsterhood.
3. State of being virgin, or fresh, new, or the like.
vir·gin'i·um (vĕr·jĭn'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. the State Virginia. See VIRGINIA, 4.] Chem. Element 87, of the alkali-metal family, supposedly detected in pollucite, sea water, etc. (but its presence has not been confirmed); — a proposed name. Symbol, Vi (no period). Cf. FRANCIUM.
Vir·gin'i·us (vĕr·jĭn'ĭ·ŭs), n. [L.] 1. Masculine proper name.
2. See VIRGINIA, 2.
3. A tragedy (1820) by J. Sheridan Knowles. The part of Virginius was a favorite role of the tragedian Macready.
Virginius Case. U. S. Hist. The seizure (1873) by Spain of a filibustering vessel, the Virginius, which was illegally flying the American flag, and the execution of its crew, among whom were eight Americans. The incident nearly brought about war, but later Spain made amends.
Virgin Knight. See BRADAMANTE. virgin knot. Virginity; — alluding to the Greek and Roman virgin's girdle, which was unloosed at marriage. Shak.
vir'gin·ly, adj. Befitting a virgin; maidenly; chaste; pure.
Virgin Mary. The mother of Jesus, represented in the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches as the highest of created beings, perpetually virgin though a mother, to whom alone hyperdulia (which see) may be paid, and whose intercession is sought. Called also the Blessed Virgin or the Blessed Virgin Mary (B. V. M.), St. Mary, Our Lady, Mother of God, etc. See also ANNUNCIATION, 2; ASSUMPTION, 1 a; IMMACULATE CONCEPTION; MATER DOLOROSA; THEOTOKOS.
Vir'gin–Mar'y's–cow'slip', -hon'ey·suck'le, or -milk'·drops', n. The common lungwort of Europe. Dial. Eng.
Vir'gin–Mar'y's–this'tle, n. Dial. Eng. a The milk thistle Silybum marianum. b = BLESSED THISTLE a. virgin moth. = WHITE MILLER b.
Virgin Mother. The Virgin Mary.
virgin of the sun. Under the Inca Empire, one of the maidens dedicated to the service of the sun god. They were maintained in numerous convents.
virgin parchment. Fine parchment made from the skins of newborn lambs and kids.
Virgin Queen, the. Elizabeth, queen (1558–1603) of England; — popularly so called, perh. from a passage in a speech delivered Feb. 10, 1559, when answering an official deputation requesting her in the name of the nation to marry. She said that for herself it would be enough "that a marble stone should declare that a queen, having reigned such a time, died a virgin."
virgin rosin. Pale-yellow rosin made from the first turpentine that exudes after the tree is boxed.
vir'gin's–bow'er (vûr'jĭnz·bou'ĕr), n. Any climbing species of Clematis or Viorna, as C. vitalba in Europe, C. virginiana and related species in the United States, and C. dioica and C. bahamica in the West Indies.
virgin scammony. Scammony resin obtained by incision from the living root of the plant in distinction from the resin prepared by extracting the dried root with alcohol.
vir'gin's milk. An old cosmetic consisting either of the tincture of benzoin or some balsam, or of lead subacetate, precipitated by addition of water. virgin soil. Soil which has never been cultivated.
Virgin Soil. Title of a novel (1876) by Turgenev, analyzing the "new generation" of Russia of the seventies. virgin spawn. Mushroom spawn made by mixing the fresh spores directly with the nutritive material of which the bricks are made.
virgin tree. A Chinese species of sassafras (Sassafras tzumu). virgin widow. One widowed before the consummation of her marriage. virgin wool. Wool not used before in manufacture. Cf. SHODDY, 1.
Vir'go (vûr'gō), n.; genitive VIRGINIS (-jĭ'nĭs). [L. virgo a virgin, the constellation Virgo in the zodiac. See VIRGIN.] Astron. a A zodiacal constellation, containing the bright star Spica, situated on the celestial equator, due south of the handle of the Dipper; the Virgin. It is represented pictorially by the figure of a woman holding in her left hand a spike of grain (cf. SPICA). b The sixth sign of the zodiac which in Astrol. is a feminine, nocturnal, southern sign, melancholy, earthy, and cold; the house and exaltation of Mercury. See SIGN, n., 12.
Vir'go Cae·les'tis (sē·lĕs'tĭs), n. [L., lit., celestial virgin.] See TANITH. vir'gu·la (vûr'gū·lá), n. [L., a small rod, dim. of virga rod.] A rod or rodlike mark; as: a = VIRGULE, 1. b A neume; also, the stem of a note. c Paleontol. The axial rod of graptolites of the suborder Axonophora. — vir'gu·lar (-lĕr), adj. vir'gu·la di·vi'na (vûr'gū·lá dĭ·vī'nà). [L. See VIRGULE; DIVINING.] A divining rod. Obs.
Vir'gu·la'ri·a (vûr'gū·lā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. virgula a small rod.] Zool. A genus of pennatulaceans having a long rodlike rachis enclosing a slender, round or square, calcareous axis. The polyps are arranged in transverse rows or clusters on short fleshy transverse processes borne on each side of the rachis for nearly its whole length. It is the type of a family, Vir'gu·la·ri'i·dae (-là·rī'ĭ·dē). — vir'gu·lar'i·an (-lār'ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

Virgularia (V. mirabilis). a Lower Part of Stem, nat. size. b A portion enlarged.

vir'gu·late (vûr'gū·lāt), adj. Rod-shaped. vir'gule (vûr'gūl), n. [F., fr. L. virgula, dim. of virga. See VERGE a rod.] 1. A short slanting stroke or mark, used in Paleog, to indicate: a A pause; the earliest form of the comma. b The division of a word at the end of a line, now indicated by a hyphen.
2. In modern printing and writing, a short slanting stroke drawn between two words, usually and and or (thus, and/or), and indicating that either may be used by the reader to interpret the sense.
3. Horol. A form of escapement somewhat like the horizontal and the verge. Obs. See ESCAPEMENT, 3. vir·gul'tum (vĕr·gŭl'tŭm), n. [L.] A twig, shoot, or sprout. viri-. A combining form, Latin viri-, from vir, viris, man, husband, as in vir'i·cide. See -CIDE. vir'i·al (vĭr'ĭ·ăl), n. [G., fr. L. vis, pl. vires, strength.] Physics. Half the product of the stress due to the attraction or repulsion between two particles in space times the distance between them, or in the case of more than two, half the sum of such products taken for the entire system. The term was introduced by Clausius in discussing the kinetic theory of gases.
‖vi·ri·dar'i·um (vĭr'ĭ·dâr'ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. VIRIDARIA (-ȧ). [L., fr. viridis green.] Rom. Antiq. A pleasure garden forming part of a villa.
vir'i·des'cent (vĭr'ĭ·dĕs'ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [LL. viridescens, pres. part. of viridescere to grow green.] Slightly green; greenish. — vir'i·des'cence (-ĕns; -'ns), n.
vi·rid'i·an (vĭ·rĭd'ĭ·ăn), n. [L. viridis. See VERDANT.] 1. Guignet's green.
2. A color, yellowish green in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Called also chrome green, emeraude, Veronese green. Cf. COLOR. — vi·rid'i·an, adj.
vir'i·dig'e·nous (vĭr'ĭ·dĭj'ē·nŭs), adj. [L. viridis green + -genous.] Producing greenness.
vir'i·dine (vĭr'ĭ·dēn; -dĭn; 157), n. Also -din. [L. viridis green.] Chem. a A greenish-yellow nitrogenous oil, $C_{12}H_{19}N$, found in coal tar. b Jervine. c Either of two closely related green dyes of the triphenylmethane class. viridine green. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR. viridine yellow. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of high saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.
vir'i·dite (vĭr'ĭ·dīt), n. [See VIRID; 1st -ITE, 4.] Petrog. Any of the indeterminable green alteration products of ferromagnesian minerals in rocks.
vi·rid'i·ty (vĭ·rĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. viridité, fr. L. viriditas, fr. viridis green. See VERDANT.] Greenness; verdure; the color of grass or foliage; hence, quality of being fresh or sound; freshness. vi·rif'ic (vĭ·rĭf'ĭk), adj. [See VIRUS; -FIC.] Virulent. vir'i·fy (vĭr'ĭ·fī), v. t. [L. vir, viri, man + -fy.] To make masculine.
vir'ile (vĭr'ĭl; vī'rĭl; or, esp. Brit., vĭr'īl, vī'rīl; 155; 277), adj. [F. viril, fr. L. virilis, fr. vir man. See WER; cf. VIRAGO, VIRTUE.] 1. Having the nature, properties, or qualities, of an adult man; characteristic of developed manhood; specif., capable of procreation; — opposed to womanly, feminine, and puerile; as, virile age; virile power; virile organs.
2. Hence, masterful; forceful; as, a virile monarch.
3. Masculine; male.
Syn. — Manly, masculine. See MALE.
Ant. — Effeminate; womanly, feminine; weak, impotent. — vir'ile·ly, adv. — vir'ile·ness, n.
vir'ile, n. A virile person. virile member. The penis. vir'i·les'cence (vĭr'ĭ·lĕs'ĕns; -'ns), n. Zool. The acquiring of characters more or less like those of the male, often observed in barren or old females. — vir'i·les'cent (-ĕnt; -'nt), adj.
‖vi·ri'li·a (vī·rĭl'ĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] The male genitals.
vi·ril'i·fy (vĭ·rĭl'ĭ·fī), v. t. To make virile.
vi·ril'i·ous·ly (vĭ·rĭl'ĭ·ŭs·lĭ), adv. [L. virilis virile.] Manfully. Rare.
vir'i·lism (vĭr'ĭ·lĭz'm), n. [virile + -ism.] 1. Med. An abnormality in a woman marked by male secondary sexual characters, as hair distribution, skeletal form, etc.
2. Devotion to or development of virile traits. — vir'i·list (-lĭst), n. & adj.
vi·ril'i·ty (vĭ·rĭl'ĭ·tĭ; vī-), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. virilité, fr. L. virilitas.] Quality or state of being virile; as: a Period or state of developed manhood. b The power of procreation. c Manly vigor, power, or force; as, virility of action or speech. d Masculinity.
vi·rip'o·tent (vĭ·rĭp'ō·tĕnt; vī-), adj. [L. vir man + potens fit for.] Marriageable; sexually mature.
vir'i·trate (vĭr'ĭ·trāt), n. [Origin uncert.] An old hag. Rare. Chaucer. viri (vûrl), n. & v. [F. virole, n., viroler, v.] Ferrule; ring. Obs. exc. Scot. vir'o·la tal'low (vĭr'ō·lȧ). Ocuba wax.
vi·role' (vĭ·rōl'), n. [F. See FERRULE.] A ferrule; specif., Her., a ring surrounding a bugle or hunting horn. Cf. VIRE. vi·roled' (-rōld'), adj. Her. Having a virole or viroles. vi'rose (vī'rōs; vĭ·rōs'; see -OSE), adj. [L. virosus. See VIRUS.] a Virulent; poisonous. b Malodorous; fetid. vi'rose, n. Plant Pathol. = VIROSIS, 2.
vi·ro'sis (vĭ·rō'sĭs), n.; pl. VIROSES (-sēz). [NL., fr virus + -osis.] 1. Med. Disease due to a virus, specif. a filtrable virus, as smallpox.
2. Plant Pathol. Any virus disease of plants.

Vir'gi'nie' (vĕr'zhĕ'nē'), n. [F.] See PAUL AND VIRGINIA.
Vir'gi·nis (vûr'jĭ·nĭs). Genitive of VIRGO. vir'gin·i'tis, n. See -ITIS b. vir·gin'i·ty-ship', n. See -SHIP. vir'gin·like', adj. & adv. See -LIKE. vir'gin·ly, adv. of VIRGIN. vir'gin·ship, n. See -SHIP.
‖vir'go Ves·ta'lis max'i·ma (vûr'gō vĕs·tā'lĭs mĭk'sĭ·mȧ). [L.] See 2d VESTAL, 4. vir·gult', n. Virgultum. Obs. vir'id (vĭr'ĭd), adj. = VERDANT. — vir'id·ly, adv. — vir'id·ness, n. vir'i·date (vĭr'ĭ·dāt), v. i. & t. [L. viridare.] To make or become green. Obs.
vir'i·dene, n. = VIRIDIAN. vir'il. Virile. Ref. Sp. vir'i·coot, n. An obscure word in Chaucer, connoting briskness or enterprise. Obs. [of VERMILION.] vir·mil'ion (vĕr·mĭl'yŭn). Var. vir'on, n. [OF. See ENVIRON.] Circuit. — v. t. To environ. Both Obs. vi'rous (vī'rŭs), adj. = VIROSE. virr. Var. of VIR.

vir·tu' (vûr·tōō'; vûr'tōō; 277), n. [It. virtù virtue, excellence, fr. L. virtus. See VIRTUE.] 1. A love of, or a taste for, curios or objets d'art.
2. Productions of art, esp. curios or antiques, collectively; as, an article or piece of virtu; hence: a Artistic quality. b Study of the fine arts.
3. Virtue; excellence. Literary.

vir'tu·al (vûr'tū·ăl), adj. [MLL. virtualis. See VIRTUE.] 1. Of or relating to a real force or virtue (see VIRTUE, n., 2); having the power of invisible efficacy without the agency of the material element; potential; energizing. Archaic.
2. Being in essence or effect, but not in fact; as, the virtual presence of a man in his agent or substitute.
Suddenly . . . they [the Romans] became the actual or virtual rulers of the entire circuit of the Mediterranean. J. A. Froude.
3. Obs. a Virtuous. b Effective.
Syn. — See CONSTRUCTIVE. Ant. — Actual, real.

virtual axis or center. Kinematics. The instantaneous axis or center.

virtual displacement. Mech. Such an infinitesimal displacement of any point of a mechanical system as is, at any instant, compatible with the constraints of the system. The displacement need not actually take place.

virtual eccentric. An equivalent eccentric.

virtual focus. See FOCUS, n., 6.

virtual image. Optics. See IMAGE, n., 10 a. vir'tu·al·ism (vûr'tū·ăl·ĭz'ĭm), n. Eccl. Hist. Calvin's doctrine of the Eucharist, considered as holding that Christ is "virtually" present therein; — a disparaging term. See VIRTUAL, 2. — vir'tu·al·ist (-ĭst), n. & adj.

vir'tu·al'i·ty (vûr'tū·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [Cf. F. virtualité.] 1. Quality or state of being virtual; also, anything virtual; a potentiality.
2. Potentiality; efficacy; potential existence. Obs.

virtual mass. Physics. In the case of a solid moving in a straight line in a fluid, the ratio of the whole kinetic energy of the motion to $\frac{1}{2}V^2$, where V is the velocity of the solid.

virtual pitch. See PITCH, n., 10.

virtual radius. Kinematics. The radius from a point to the virtual (instantaneous) axis.

virtual tautomerism. Chem. See TAUTOMERISM.

virtual velocity. Mech. The velocity which may be associated with a virtual displacement. It is the ratio of the virtual displacement to time.

virtual volts, amperes, value. See EFFECTIVE VOLTS or AMPERES. Cf. ROOT-MEAN-SQUARE.

virtual work. Mech. The work associated with a virtual displacement. If a point at which a force, F, is acting could have a displacement, in the line of F, of δx, then $F\delta x$ is the virtual work.

vir'tue (vûr'tū), n. [ME. vertu, fr. OF. vertu, fr. L. virtus strength, courage, excellence, virtue, fr. vir a man. See VIRILE; cf. VIRTU.] 1. a Archaic. Supernatural power or influence exerted by a divine being. b An embodiment of it. c pl. One of the celestial orders. See CELESTIAL HIERARCHY.
2. Moral practice or action; conformity to the standard of right; moral excellence; integrity of character; uprightness of conduct; rectitude; morality. Also, a particular moral excellence; as, the virtue of temperance, of charity, etc. "The very virtue of compassion." Shak. Socrates identified virtue with wisdom, which he conceived to be knowledge of the good, holding it to be incredible that any man could know and yet not act in accordance with the good. Plato distinguished four cardinal virtues, wisdom or prudence, courage or fortitude, temperance, and justice or righteousness. Aristotle regarded virtue as a habit implying the choice of excellence in conduct, the excellence being realized in a mean between excess and defect. He divided the virtues into the moral, having to do with practical life, and the intellectual, the virtues of wisdom and insight; and in this he was followed by the medieval writers. St. Augustine conceived charity as the source of all virtue, and he distinguished as cardinal virtues (following Plato), prudence, fortitude, temperance, and justice. Christian moralists considered these the natural virtues, and further distinguished from them the supernatural, theological, or Christian virtues of faith, hope, and charity, these being infused by God into human nature. Patience and humility are sometimes added to the cardinal virtues by Christian writers.
Virtue is not to be considered in the light of mere innocence, or abstaining from harm, but as the exertion of our faculties in doing good. Bp. Butler.
3. Active quality or power, whether of physical or of moral nature; capacity or power adequate to the production of a given effect; energy; strength; potency; efficacy.
Jesus, immediately knowing in himself that virtue had gone out of him, turned him about. Mark v. 30.
A man was driven to depend for his security against misunderstanding, upon the pure virtue of his syntax. De Quincey.
4. Specif.: a Manly strength or courage; valor. b A particular beneficial quality or efficacy in something, as a plant or precious stone.
5. Excellence of any kind; merit; worth; value; as, to make virtue, or a virtue, of necessity, i. e., to make a merit of what cannot be helped, to yield to necessity. "I can sing, weave, sew, and dance, with other virtues." Shak.
6. The virtues (sense 2) collectively; as, virtue is its own reward; — often [cap.] personified.
So Virtue dies, the spouse of Liberty. Campbell.
7. Specif., chastity; purity; esp., the chastity of women.
8. Thrift; industry. Scot.
9. = VIRTU, 2.
10. Obs. a Miraculous or occult power; also, a work of great power or efficacy, as a miracle. b Physical force or energy. c Operation; — of laws. d An ability or accomplishment.
Syn. — See GOODNESS.
Ant. — Weakness, ineffectiveness, impotence; evil, sin. See CRIME.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

virtue-armed	virtue-loving	virtue-tempting virtue-binding	virtueproof	virtue-wise

— in, or by, virtue of. Through the force of; by authority of. "This they shall attain, partly in virtue of the promise made by God, and partly in virtue of piety." Atterbury. — to make a virtue of necessity. To do what one must as if so doing were a meritorious choice.

vir'tue, v. t. To discipline. Obs.

vir'tued (vûr'tūd), adj. Endued with virtue. Rare.

vir'tue·fy (-tū·fī), v. t. [virtue + -fy.] To endue with virtue. Rare.

vir'tu·o'sa (vûr'tū·ō'sä; vĭr'tōō·ō'sä), n.; pl. -SE (-sā). [It.] A female virtuoso.

vir'tu·ose' (-ōs'), adj. Virtuosic. Rare.

vir'tu·ose' (vûr'tū·ōs'; see -OSE), adj. Virtuous. Obs.

vir'tu·o'sic (vûr'tū·ō'sĭk; vĭr'tōō·ō'sĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a virtuoso.

vir'tu·os'i·ty (vûr'tū·ŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). 1. Taste for or interest in virtu, esp. when dilettantish; a pursuit or study toward which this is directed, as great technical skill in the practice of the fine arts, esp. in music; as, he strove for virtuosity in performance on the piano.
2. Virtuosos collectively.
3. An art or study affected by virtuosos.

vir'tu·o'so (vûr'tū·ō'sō; vĭr'tōō·ō'sō), n.; pl. -SOS (-sōz), -SI (-sē). [It. (in senses 2 & 3). See VIRTUOUS.] 1. Obs. a An empiricist; an experimental philosopher. b A savant.
2. One devoted to virtu; one skilled in, or having a taste for, the fine arts, antiquities, curios, and the like; a collector or ardent admirer of curios or objects of art.
Being in correspondence with most virtuosi of his time. Scott.
3. One who excels in the technique of an art, esp., Music, such a performer, as on the violin or the piano.

vir'tu·ous (vûr'tū·ŭs), adj. [ME. vertuous, OF. vertuos, vertueux (F. vertueux), fr. LL. virtuosus. See VIRTUE; cf. VIRTUOSO.] 1. Having or exhibiting virtue. Specif.: a Morally excellent; righteous; as, a virtuous action. b Archaic. Having potent, esp. magical and beneficial, qualities; — esp. of herbs, drugs, and precious stones. c Chaste; pure; — now applied esp. to women. d Scot. Industrious; thrifty.
2. Efficacious; potent.
It is a wine of virtuous powers. Coleridge.
3. Obs. a Valorous; valiant; brave. b Of great worth or value.
— vir'tu·ous·ly, adv. — vir'tu·ous·ness, n.

‖vir'tus (vûr'tŭs), n. [L.] Manliness; vigor; strength and integrity of character; courage.

‖vir'tus a·ri'e·te for'ti·or (ä·rĭ'ĕ·tē fôr'tĭ·ôr). [L.] Courage (is) stronger than a battering-ram.

‖vir'tus in ac'ti·o'ne con·sis'tit (ĭn äk'shĭ·ō'nē kŏn·sĭs'tĭt). [L.] Valor consists in action.

‖vir'tus in ar'du·is (är'dū·ĭs). [L.] Steadfastness in difficulties.

‖vir'tus in·cen'dit vi'res (ĭn·sĕn'dĭt vī'rēz). [L.] Courage kindles strength.

‖vir'tus lau·da'tur, et al'get (lô·dā'tĕr, ĕt äl'jĕt). [L.] Integrity is praised, and starves.

‖vir'tus mil'ĭ·a scu'ta (mĭl'ĭ·ä skū'tä). [L.] Courage (is) a thousand shields.

‖vir'tus sem'per vi'rĭ·dis (sĕm'pĕr vĭr'ĭ·dĭs). [L.] Manliness (is) ever flourishing.

‖vir'tus so'la no·bĭ'lĭ·tat (sō'lä nō·bĭl'ĭ·tät). [L.] Character alone ennobles.

‖vir'tus vin'cit in·vi'dĭ·am (vĭn'sĭt ĭn·vĭd'ĭ·ăm). [L.] Worth overcomes ill will.

vir·tu'te (vûr·tū'tē), ablative of L. VIRTUS.

vir·tu'te et ar'mis (ĕt är'mĭs). [L.] By valor and arms; — motto of Mississippi.

‖vir·tu'te et fi'de (fī'dē). [L.] By or with courage and faith.

‖vir·tu'te et la·bo're (lä·bō'rē). [L.] By or with courage and labor.

‖vir·tu'te non as·tu'ti·a (nŏn äs·tū'shĭ·ä). [L.] By character not by craft.

‖vir·tu'te non ver'bis (vûr'bĭs). [L.] By worth not by words.

‖vir·tu'te non vi'ris (vī'rĭs). [L.] By worth not by men.

‖vir·tu'te of·fi'ci·i (ō·fĭsh'ĭ·ī). [L.] By virtue of office.

‖vir'tu·te qui'es (kwī'ēz). [L.] Rest in or from character.

‖vir·tu'te se·cu'rus (sē·kū'rŭs). [L.] Secure through character.

‖vir·tu'tī (vûr·tū'tī), dative of L. VIRTUS.

‖Vir·tu'tī et Me'ri·to (ĕt mĕr'ĭ·tō). [L.] For virtue and merit. See Pius IX, under ORDER, n.

‖vir·tu'tī, non ar'mis, fī'do (nŏn är'mĭs, fī'dō). [L.] I trust to courage, not to arms.

‖vir·tu'tis (vûr·tū'tĭs), genitive of L. VIRTUS.

‖vir·tu'tis a·mo're (ä·mō'rē). [L.] From love of worth.

‖vir·tu'tis for·tu'na co'mes (fôr·tū'nä kō'mēz). [L.] Good fortune (is) the companion of courage.

viru-. A combining form for virus, as in vir'u·cid'al, vir'u·cide. See -CIDE.

vir'u·e'la (vĭr'ū·ē'lä), n. [Sp., lit., smallpox. See VARIOLA.] Plant Pathol. The coffee disease caused by Omphalia flavida. See COFFEE DISEASE.

vir'u·lence (vĭr'ū·lĕns; vĭr'ōō-; 249), n. [LL. virulentia an offensive odor, a stench.] 1. Extreme bitterness or malignity of temper; rancor.
2. Quality or property of being virulent; venomousness; acridity, as of disease.
3. Bacteriol. The relative infectiousness of a microorganism, or its ability to overcome the body defenses of the host.

vir'u·len·cy (-lĕn·sĭ), n. Virulence.

vir'u·lent (-lĕnt; 249), adj. [L. virulentus, fr. virus poison. See VIRUS.] 1. Extremely poisonous or venomous; noxious; deadly; as, a virulent disease.
2. Bitter in enmity; malignant; as, a virulent invective; virulent fanatics, malice, antipathies.
3. Obs. a Containing corrupt matter. b Potent.
4. Bacteriol. Infectious; able to overcome or break down the defensive mechanism of the host; — distinguished from toxic and from pathogenic.
5. Med. Characterized by rapid course and malignancy; — said of diseases, infections, etc.
Syn. — See POISONOUS.
— vir'u·lent·ly, adv. — vir'u·lent·ness, n. Rare.

vir'u·lent·ed (-lĕn·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Made virulent. Rare.

vir'u·lif'er·ous (vĭr'ū·lĭf'ĕr·ŭs; vĭr'ōō-), adj. [See VIRULENT, VIRUS; -FEROUS.] Med. Containing or producing a virus.

vi'rus (vī'rŭs), n. [L., slimy liquid, poison; akin to MIr. fi, Gr. ἰός, Skr. viṣa. See OOZE mud; cf. WEASEL.] 1. Venom emitted by a poisonous animal.
2. The infective principle of a disease; hence: a Any of a large group of submicroscopic infective agents, held by some to be living organisms, and by others to be complex proteins containing nucleic acids and capable of autocatalytic growth and multiplication in living tissues; a filtrable virus (which see) or a bacteriophage. Viruses include serious pathogens of man, animals, and plants, as the agents of smallpox, mumps, rabies, and tobacco mosaic. Many virus strains vary greatly in virulence, hence for the Pasteur treatment of rabies street virus as obtained from a natural case of rabies is passed through a series of rabbits until maximum virulence is attained (fixed virus) before attempting attenuation. b Vaccine lymph. c Loosely, any obscure or unidentified pathogen or a fluid containing such a pathogen.
3. Any morbid corrupting quality in intellectual or moral conditions; something that poisons the mind or the soul.
4. Malignity; malice; virulence. Now Rare.

virus disease. Any disease caused by a filtrable virus, as mosaic, leaf roll, curly top, etc.

‖vis (vĭs), n.; pl. VIRES (vī'rēz). [L. See VIM.] Force; vigor.

vis (vĭz), n. [From visit.] A brief visit. — vis, v. t. Both Obs.

vis, n. = VIS-À-VIS, 2. Rare.

vis, viss (vĭs), n. sing. & pl. [Telugu vīse.] See WEIGHT, Table.

vi'sa (vē'zä), vi'sé (vē'zā; vē·zā'), n. [F., fr. L. visa, fem. sing. or neut. pl. of visus, past part. of videre to see. See VISION.] 1. An endorsement made on a passport by the proper authorities, denoting that it has been examined, and that the bearer is permitted to proceed.
2. A signature of formal approval by any superior upon a document requiring approval as to form, contents, or the like; as, all telegrams had to bear the visa of the general.
☞ The original form visé is widely used. The United States Department of State prefers visa.

vi'sa, vi'sé, v. t.; VI'SAED (vē'zäd), VI'SÉED (vē'zād; vē·zād'); VI'SA·ING, VI'SÉ·ING. To examine and endorse (a passport or other document); to give a visa to. Cf. VISA, n.

‖vis' a fron'te (vĭs' ä frŏn'tē). [L.] A propelling force from before.

vis'age (vĭz'ĭj; vĭs'-), n. [OF., fr. vis face, fr. L. visus a seeing, a look, fr. videre, visum, to see. See VISION.] 1. The face, countenance, or look, of a person or an animal; — chiefly applied to the human face; hence, aspect; appearance.
His visage was so marred more than any man. Is. lii. 14.
2. Visible surface, as of the sun or moon.
3. Obs. a Image; portrait. b Outer show; semblance.
Syn. — See FACE.

vis'age, v. t. 1. To face; confront. Obs.
2. To regard or treat (a matter) under a certain aspect.

vis'aged (-ĭjd), adj. Having a visage.

-vis'aged. A combining form from visage, n., denoting having (such) a visage, as in:

black-visaged	hard-visaged	sharp-visaged close-visaged	humble-visaged	small-visaged fair-visaged	long-visaged	stern-visaged flat-visaged	pale-visaged	ugly-visaged gammon-visaged	round-visaged grim-visaged	sallow-visaged

vis'a·graph (vĭz'ä·grăf), n. [See VISA; -GRAPH.] An electrical device which uses light-sensitive cells for interpreting printed characters, so that the blind can read them through the touch system.

vis'ard (vĭz'ĕrd). Var. of VIZARD.

vi·sar'ga (vē·sär'gä; vē·sûr'-), n. [Skr.] Phonet. In Sanskrit, a final breath sound, as h in manaḥ, uttered with the vocal organs in the same articulative position as for the preceding vowel; also, the sign representing it.

‖vis' a ter'go (vĭs' ä tûr'gō). [L.] A force from behind.

vis'-à-vis' (vē'-zä-vē'), n. sing. & pl. [F., opposite, face to face.] 1. One who or that which is face to face with another; esp., one who faces another in dancing; hence, an encounter.
2. Formerly, a carriage in which persons sit face to face.
3. = TÊTE-À-TÊTE, n., 2.

vis'-à-vis', prep. Face to face with; in comparison with.

vis'-à-vis', adv. & adj. Face to face; opposite. — vis'-à-vis'ness, n.

vis'-à-vis', v. t. & i. To confront vis-à-vis.

Vi·sa'ya (vē·sä'yä), n. a Var. of VISAYAN. b Also Bi·sa'ya (bē-). The alphabet of the Visayans. See MALAYAN ALPHABETS.

Vi·sa'yan (-yăn), Bi·sa'yan, n. [Cf. Sp. Bisayo a Visayan.] 1. A member of the most numerous of the native races of the Philippines, numbering about 4,000,000, occupying the Visayan Islands and the northern coast of Mindanao, and possessing a native culture and alphabet.
2. Their language, with many dialects. See AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table.
— Vi·sa'yan, adj.

Vis·cac'ci·a (vĭs·kăk'shĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. VISCACHA.] Zool. The genus formerly constituted by the viscacha; — now synonym of Lagostomus.

vis·ca'cha, viz·ca'cha (vĭs·kä'chä; 267), n. [Sp., fr. Quechua uiscacha, huiscacha.] A burrowing South American rodent (Lagostomus maximus) allied to the chinchillas, but much larger. Its fur is soft and rather long, mottled gray above, white or yellowish-white beneath, with a white band across the muzzle and a dark one on each cheek. It inhabits grassy plains in colonies called ‖vis'ca·che'ras (vĕs'kä·chā'räs).

Vis·ca'ri·a (vĭs·kā'rĭ·ä; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. viscum mistletoe, birdlime; — so named from its viscous stem.] Bot. A small genus of boreal or alpine herbs (family Caryophyllaceae), often called rock lychnis. They have erect stems, narrow leaves, and terminal cymose flowers with the calyx not inflated and the petals appendaged. V. alpina is the alpine campion.

viscer-. = VISCERO-, as in vis'cer·al'gi·a. See -ALGIA.

vis'cer·a (vĭs'ĕr·ä), n. pl.; sing. (rarely used) VISCUS (-kŭs). [L. viscus, pl. viscera; akin to Skr. veṣka noose, ON. visk wisp; basic idea: to turn, wind. See WHISK.] 1. The internal organs, esp. those of the cavities of the body or trunk, as the heart, liver, intestines, etc.
2. Figuratively, bowels; the inside parts; the vitals.

viscera itch. The swine itch.

vis'cer·al (vĭs'ĕr·ăl), adj. [ML. visceralis.] 1. Affecting the viscera; as, a visceral affection or feeling.
2. Shown by the viscera; as, visceral augury.
3. Anat. & Zool. Of or pertaining to, or located on or among, the viscera; splanchnic; as, the visceral layer of a serous membrane, that part reflected over the organs contained in the cavity it lines. Cf. PARIETAL, 1.

visceral arch. Zool. & Embryol. a In the skeleton of vertebrates, one of a series of bony or cartilaginous inverted arches developed in the walls of the mouth cavity and pharynx. In typical cases a visceral arch consists of a curved segmented bar or rod on each side, meeting its fellow of the opposite side (either directly or with the intervention of a median piece) at the ventral end. The first, anterior, or mandibular, arch, is greatly modified, to form or take part in the formation of the skeleton of the jaws; the second or hyoid arch is also modified for particular functions (see HYOID). The succeeding ones are collectively termed branchial arches, as their chief function is to support the gills of water-breathing vertebrates, and are best developed in fishes, but vestiges of one or more are present even in all land vertebrates. b In a looser sense, designating one of the above skeletal elements together with the structures surrounding and supported by each.

visceral bar. Zool. & Embryol. One of various cartilaginous rods forming the skeletal frame of the visceral, or branchial, arches in rays and sharks, and in the embryos of higher vertebrates.

vir'tu·al·ize (vûr'tū·ăl·īz), v. t. See -IZE.

vir'tu·al·ly, adv. of VIRTUAL. vir'tu·ate, v. t. To give virtue or efficacy to. Obs. vir'tu·less, adj. See -LESS. — vir'tue·less·ness, n. vir'tu·o'sal, n., pl. OF VIRTUOSO. vir'tu·o'so·ship, n. See -SHIP. vir'tu·ous·like', adj. See -LIKE. vi'rus·cide, n. See -CIDE. — vi'rus·cid'al, adj.

visceral behavior. Psychol. Internal bodily processes; specif., those in emotion, consisting largely in the activities of unstriped muscles and of glands.

visceral clefts. Zool. & Embryol. Furrows or clefts (which may or may not extend through from the exterior to the cavity of the mouth and pharynx) on each side of the neck region between successive visceral arches. That between the mandibular and hyoid arches is usually entirely closed and obliterated in the adult, though persisting as the spiracle in certain primitive fishes. The remaining ones are the branchial clefts.

visceral ganglion, n.; pl. VISCERAL GANGLIA. Zool. In most mollusks, either of a pair of ganglia which in some cases lie close to, or are fused with, the pleural ganglia, in other cases lie much farther back, but connected with the pleural ganglia by pleurovisceral connectives. They are also connected with each other by a commissure, thus forming with the pleurovisceral connectives a loop, known as the visceral loop. This loop is twisted like a figure eight in the streptoneurous gastropods. It gives off branches to the gill or gills, osphradium, parts of the mantle, and various viscera.

visceral layer. See VISCERAL, adj., 3.

visceral nerve. Zool. A nerve supplying viscera; specif., in mollusks, any of the nerves forming the visceral loop.

visceral nervous system. See AUTONOMIC NERVOUS SYSTEM.

vis'cer·ate (vĭs'ĕr·āt), v. t.; -AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). To eviscerate. — vis'cer·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n.

visceri-. = VISCERO-.

vis'cer·i·per'i·car'di·al (-ĭ·pĕr'ĭ·kär'dĭ·ăl), adj. [viscera + pericardial.] Zool. Designating the body cavity of a cephalopod mollusk, which is incompletely divided into an upper cavity containing the heart and a lower one containing the viscera.

vis'cer·o- (vĭs'ĕr·ō-). A combining form for viscera, denoting: a The viscera, as in visceroptosis. b A viscus, as in visceromotor. c Visceral and, as in:

visceroperitoneal	visceresensory	viscerosomatic
visceropleural	visceroskeletal	viscerotrophic vis'cer·o·in·hib'i·to'ry (-ĭn·hĭb'ĭ·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Physiol. Inhibiting the action of the viscera, as certain nerves.

vis'cer·o·mo'tor (vĭs'ĕr·ō·mō'tĕr), adj. [viscero- + -motor.] Physiol. Causing or concerned in the activity of the viscera, as certain nerves.

vis'cer·o·pa·ri'e·tal (-pă·rī'ĕ·tăl; -t'l), adj. Zool. Designating, or pertaining to, the visceral ganglia of bivalve mollusks, generally situated in contact with the posterior adductor muscles.

vis'cer·op·to'sis (-ŏp·tō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. viscero- + -ptosis.] Med. Downward displacement of the abdominal viscera. — vis'cer·op·tot'ic (-tŏt'ĭk), adj.

vis'cer·ous (vĭs'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Visceral.

vis'cid (vĭs'ĭd), adj. [LL. viscidus, fr. L. viscum the mistletoe, birdlime made from its berries; akin to Gr. ixos.] 1. Sticking or adhering, and having a ropy or glutinous consistency; viscous; glutinous; sticky; as, tar, gums, etc., are more or less viscid.
2. Overlaid with a sticky layer; — said esp. of leaves.
— vis'cid·ly, adv. — vis'cid·ness, n.

vis·cid'i·ty (vĭ·sĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being viscid; stickiness; also, viscid matter; glutinous concretion.

vis'ci·dize (vĭs'ĭ·dīz), v. t. & i. To make or become viscid.

vis·cid'u·lous (vĭ·sĭd'ū·lŭs), adj. [viscid + -ulous, as in acid*ulous.*] Slightly viscid.

vis'cin (vĭs'ĭn), n. A clear, viscous, tasteless substance from the mucilaginous sap of the mistletoe Viscum album, holly, etc. Cf. BIRDLIME.

vis·coi'dal (vĭs·koi'dăl), adj. Also vis'coid (vĭs'koid). [See VISCOUS; -OID.] Somewhat viscous. Cf. MOBILE, adj., 2.

vis·com'e·ter (vĭs·kŏm'ĕ·tĕr), n. A viscosimeter. — vis'co·met'ri·cal (vĭs'kō·mĕt'rĭ·kăl), adj. — vis'co·met'ri·cal·ly, adv. — vis·com'e·try (vĭs·kŏm'ĕ·trĭ), n.

‖vis co'mi·ca (vĭs kŏm'ĭ·kä). [L.] The comic spirit; ability to evoke mirth.

vis·con'tal (vĭ·kŏn'tăl), adj. Also vis·con'ti·al (-tĭ·ăl). Of or pertaining to a viscount.

vis'co·scope (vĭs'kō·skōp), n. [See VISCOUS; -SCOPE.] An instrument for estimating viscosity.

vis'cose (vĭs'kōs; vĭs·kōs'; see -OSE), adj. [LL. viscosus.] a Viscous; as, a viscose solution. b Of, pertaining to, or made from, viscose; as, viscose rayon, yarn.

vis'cose (vĭs'kōs), n. [LL. viscosus viscous.] A viscous orange solution made by treating cellulose, as wood pulp or cotton linters, with caustic alkali solution and carbon disulphide, and much used in making rayon and transparent paper, artificial horsehair and straw, in sizing, as sausage casings, etc. Chemically, it is a caustic alkali solution chiefly of alkali cellulose xanthate (often called simply cellulose xanthate), a colorless amorphous compound. On standing a long time or on treatment with acids, certain salts, or the like (carried out after the spinning in the viscose process of manufacturing rayon), it decomposes to form insoluble hydrated cellulose (regenerated, or reverted, cellulose).

vis'co·sim'e·ter (vĭs'kō·sĭm'ĕ·tĕr), n. [viscosity + -meter.] A device to measure viscosity.

vis'co·sim'e·try (-trĭ), n. [viscosity + -metry.] The science and art of measuring viscosity.

vis·cos'i·ty (vĭs·kŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. viscosité, or ML. viscositas.] 1. Quality, state, or degree, of being viscous.
2. A viscous substance or mass.
3. Physics. a That property of a body in virtue of which, when flow occurs inside it, forces arise in such a direction as to oppose the flow. It is a measure of the combined effects of adhesion and cohesion. Cf. COEFFICIENT OF VISCOSITY, COEFFICIENT OF KINEMATIC VISCOSITY. b = COEFFICIENT OF VISCOSITY. c Capability possessed by a solid of yielding continually under stress.

vis'count' (vī'kount'), n. [ME. vicounte, fr. OF, visconte, vesconte (F. vicomte), fr. ML. vicecomes, fr. L. vice (see VICE, adj.) + comes a companion, ML., a count. See COUNT nobleman.] 1. An officer who formerly acted in place of the count, or earl. In England his duties were later mostly transferred to the sheriff (who represented the king); hence, a sheriff. Hist.
2. A nobleman next below an earl or count and next above a baron. The title became hereditary, with tenure of land, under the feudal system, but now carries simply noble rank. As such it was first conferred in England by Henry VI. See Forms of Address, in Appendix.
3. In certain countries of continental Europe, a son or younger brother of a count.

vis'count'cy (vī'kount'sĭ), n. The dignity or rank of a viscount.

vis'count'ess (vī'koun'tĕs; -tĭs; 119), n. [Cf. F. vicomtesse, ML. vicecomitissa.] A viscount's wife; also, a lady holding corresponding rank in her own right. See PRECEDENCE; also, Forms of Address, in Appendix.

vis'count'y (vī'koun'tĭ), n. [Cf. F. viscomté, OF. visconté.] Orig., a viscount; later, the territory or jurisdiction of a viscount; now, viscountcy.

vis'cous (vĭs'kŭs), adj. [LL. viscosus. See VISCID.] 1. Viscid.
2. Physics. Possessing, or characterized by, viscosity.
— vis'cous·ly, adv. — vis'cous·ness, n.

viscous fermentation. Fermentation resulting in a viscous or gummy product.

viscous hysteresis. Physics. A slight slow increase of magnetism under a constant magnetizing force. Cf. STATIC HYSTERESIS.

Vis'cum (vĭs'kŭm), n. [L., mistletoe. See VISCID.]
1. Bot. A genus of Old World, semiparasitic plants, the typical mistletoes, family Loranthaceae, distinguished by the clustered axillary bracted flowers with adnate anthers. V. album is the common European mistletoe.
2. [not cap.] Birdlime, which is often made from the berries of the European mistletoe. Cf. VISCIN.

vise, vice (vĭs), n. [ME. vis, vice, vyce, a winding stair, fr. OF. vis, viz (F. vis), a screw, winding stair, fr. (assumed) VL. vitium, fr. L. vitis a vine, pl. vites. See WITHY.]
1. A screw. Obs.
2. Any of various tools or devices having two jaws, closing by a screw, lever, cam, or the like, for holding work, as in filing. Cf. SWIVEL VISE, UNIVERSAL VISE.
3. A tool for drawing lead into cames for casements.

1 Carpenter's Wooden Vise; 2 Parallel Swivel Bench Vise.

vise, vice, v. t.; VISED or VICED (vĭst); VIS'ING or VIC'ING (vĭs'ĭng). To hold, force, or squeeze, with or as if with a vise. vise (vīz), v. t. [See ADVISE.] To advise. Obs.

vise, v. i. [F. aviser. See VISE to advise.] To behold; heed; consider. Obs.

vi'sé (vē'zā; vē·zā'), n. [F., past part. of viser to put a visa to. See VISA.] A visa (which see). See VISA, n., Note.

vi'sé, v. t. To visa.

vise cap. Either of a pair of guards of soft material, as of copper, fitting over the jaws of a metalworker's vise.

vise chuck. See 6th CHUCK, 5.

vise coupling. A wedge coupling.

vise'man, vice'man (vĭs'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A man who works at a vise.

Vish'nu (vĭsh'nōō), n. [Skr. Viṣṇu.] Hindu Relig. The second god of the Hindu Trimurti (which see). He is regarded by the Vaishnavas as the supreme deity, typically the object of religious devotion (bhakti). Vishnu has many avatars, or incarnations. The most important avatars are as Rama and Krishna, under which forms he has millions of worshipers. Cf. AVATAR, BHAKTI.

Vishnu.

Vish'nu·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Vaishnavism.
— Vish'nu·ite (-īt), n. & adj.

Vish'va·kar'ma (vĭsh'vä·kŭr'mä), n. [Skr. Viśvakarman, lit., all-doer, creator.] Vedic Myth. A supreme god, the creator, identified with Prajapati. In later Hindu mythology, the architect of the gods; hence, patron deity of arts and crafts.

vis'i·bil'i·ty (vĭz'ĭ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [LL. visibilitas.] 1. Quality, state, or degree, of being visible.
2. A thing visible.
3. The range of vision for an object such as a ship under the conditions of light, atmosphere, etc., existing at a particular time. High visibility is visibility to the theoretical horizon for any height of eye, or beyond; low visibility is very much reduced visibility.
4. The relative efficiency of radiant energy in evoking brilliance. The visibility of the wave length of maximal brilliance (555 millimicrons) is taken as unity, and that of all other wave lengths is expressed as a fraction of it.
5. Obs. a Vision. b Aspect. c A notable sight.
6. Meteorol. The degree of clearness of the atmosphere. International symbol for exceptional visibility, 0.

visibility curve. Colorimetry & Photom. A curve expressing the values of visibility as a function of wave length, relative to that at wave length 555 millimicrons.

vis'i·bi·lize (vĭz'ĭ·bĭ·līz), v. t. To make visible.

vis'i·ble (vĭz'ĭ·b'l), adj. [OF. or L.; OF. visible, fr. L. visibilis, fr. videre, visum, to see. See VISION.] 1. Perceivable by the eye; capable of being seen; perceptible to sight; as, a visible star.
2. So placed or circumstanced as to be seen; as, visible actions, churches; exposed to view; as, the visible horizon.
3. Mentally perceptible; manifest; as, visible difficulties; apparent; discoverable; as, no visible means of support.
4. Accessible to those who wish to see; — of persons; esp., at home to callers.
5. Constructed so that some particular part, or a record made, is readily visible to the operator or observer; as, a visible typewriter.
Syn. — Perceivable, discernible; obvious, manifest.
Ant. — Hidden, imperceptible, invisible.
— vis'i·ble·ness, n. — vis'i·bly, adv.

vis'i·ble, n. That which may be seen; a visible thing.

visible church. Theol. The church visible.

visible horizon. The apparent horizon.

visible spectrum. See SPECTRUM, 2.

visible speech. Phonet. A system of characters invented by Professor Alexander Melville Bell to represent all sounds that may be uttered by the vocal organs, and intended to be suggestive of the position of the organs in uttering them.

visible supply. Com. The total of what is known to be available, as of stocks of grain in elevators and shipped for marketing.

vis'ie (vĭz'ĭ; vē'zĭ), v. t. & i. [Cf. OF. viser to look at.] To look at closely; to view; visit; also, to aim. Scot.

vis'ie (vĭz'ĭ; vē'zĭ), n. [F. visée direction of sight, aim, fr. viser to aim.] Scot. a A careful look or sight, as of aim. b A front sight of a gun.

Vis'i·goth (vĭz'ĭ·gŏth), n. [LL. Visigothi, pl., of Teut. origin; lit., the good, or noble, Goths (cf. Skr. vasu good), taken later as, the western Goths. See GOTH; cf. OSTROGOTH.] 1. One of the West Goths. See GOTH, 1.
2. An uncivilized person.

Vis'i·goth'ic (vĭz'ĭ·gŏth'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, the Visigoths or Visigothic; as, the Visigothic Kingdom.

Vis'i·goth'ic, n. A script developed from the Roman cursive, from about the 7th to the 11th century, in Spain, and used until supplanted by the Carolingian minuscule.

vis'ile (vĭz'l; 155), adj. [From L. videre, visum, to see, after E. audile.] Of or pertaining to vision; readily recalling visual impressions. — n. A visile person; a visualizer.

‖vis im·pres'sa (vĭs ĭm·prĕs'ä). [L.] Impressed force.

vis in·er'ti·ae (ĭn·ûr'shĭ·ē). Physics. = INERTIA, 1 a. Hence, tendency to remain inactive or unprogressive.

vi'sion (vĭzh'ŭn), n. [ME. visioun, fr. OF. vision, fr. L. visio, fr. videre, visum, to see; akin to Gr. idein to see, oida I know, E. wit. See WIT; cf. ADVICE, CLAIRVOYANT, ENVY, EVIDENT, PROVIDE, REVISE, SURVEY, VIEW, VISAGE, VISIT, VISOR.] 1. That which is seen otherwise than by the ordinary sight; an imaginary, supernatural, or prophetic sight beheld in sleep or ecstasy, esp. one conveying a revelation; as, the visions of Isaiah.

Your young men shall see visions. Joel ii. 28.

2. Hence: a A writing, esp. a poem, purporting to represent something beheld in a revelatory dream, trance, or ecstasy. Cf. DIVINA COMMEDIA. b A vivid concept or object of imaginative contemplation; as, visions of wealth, of success. c The apparition of a person, as in a dream. "And thus the vision spoke." Dryden. d A visual image without corporeal presence; esp., a manifestation to the senses of something immaterial, as a spiritual being or state.
3. Act or power of perceiving mental images, as those formed by the imagination; as, a poet's vision.

The vision and the faculty divine. Wordsworth.

4. Hence: a A mode or way of seeing; as, my particular vision; esp., unusual discernment or foresight; as, a man of vision. b Among mystics, direct awareness of the supernatural, usually in visible form.
5. Act of seeing external objects; actual sight; perception.

Faith here is turned into vision there. Hammond.

6. a That which is seen; an object of sight; as, she was a vision of delight; a hideous vision. b Something seen of such charm as to seem imaginary.
7. The sense by which light and color are apprehended. The organ of vision is the eye (which see), which is so constructed as to serve as a camera obscura for the projection of images upon the retina, thus enabling perception of form, while the action upon the retina of light of different wave lengths gives rise to color discriminations (see COLOR, n., 2; LIGHT; cf. AFTERIMAGE, COLOR BLINDNESS). Vision is either monocular or binocular, the latter being especially adapted to the perception of three-dimensional space. The cerebral center of visual sensation is in the occipital region of the brain, and excitation of this area produces visual sensation even when the eye is not stimulated. See DUPLICITY THEORY.

Vision, 7.

8. A look; a glance; as, their visions met; a glimpse; as, to catch a vision of one.
9. Motion Pictures. A small scene photographed by double exposure within a larger one, and generally used to indicate the thought of an actor at a particular moment.
10. Rhet. A figure of speech by which a past or imagined event, scene, etc., is represented as present or in view. Cf. 1st APOSTROPHE, 1.
Syn. — See DREAM.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

vision-directed	vision-haunted	vision-seeing, adj.
vision-filled	visionmonger	vision-struck vi'sion (vĭzh'ŭn), v. t. & i.; VI'SIONED (-ŭnd); VI'SION·ING.

1. To see in or as if in a vision; to dream, fancy, imagine, or the like.

For them no visioned terrors daunt. Scott.

2. To manifest to the sight, esp. as if in a vision.

So think the anger of God apparently visioned or shown unto thee in the knitting of my brows. Nash vi'sion·al (-ăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of a vision; based upon or seen in a vision or visions; hence unreal; imaginary. — vi'sion·al·ly, adv.

vi'sion·ar'y (vĭzh'ŭn·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), adj. [Cf. F. visionnaire.] 1. a Capable of beholding visions; as, the visionary prophets. "That visionary seer." Scott. b Disposed to see visions; given to reverie, fancy, or the like; dreamy; imaginative; hence, apt to accept and act on fancies as if realities; impractical.

Or lull to rest the visionary maid. Pope.

2. Of the nature of a vision; beheld in a vision; as, a visionary scene or emblem; existing in imagination only; fanciful; hence, having no solid foundation; impracticable; chimerical; as, a visionary scheme or project.
3. Of or pertaining to a vision or visions; characterized by, or favorable for, visions. "The visionary hour." Thomson.
Syn. — Fantastic, unreal, wild, delusive; ideal, romantic. — VISIONARY, CHIMERICAL, UTOPIAN, QUIXOTIC. VISIONARY, as here compared, applies to that which is merely fanciful, or which can never be realized in fact; that is CHIMERICAL which is wildly or fantastically visionary or unreal; as, "Goldsmith had long a visionary project, that . . . he would go to Aleppo, in order to acquire a knowledge . . . of any arts peculiar to the East, and introduce them into Britain" (Boswell); "This was a visionary scheme, . . . a project far above his skill" (Swift); "This is all mere Utopia . . . the chimerical system of Plato's commonwealth" (Fielding); "They have annexed to every species of knowledge some chimerical character of terror and inhibition" (Johnson). That is UTOPIAN which is visionary or chimerical in its assumption of an ideal perfection; QUIXOTIC implies extravagantly chivalrous devotion to visionary ideals; as, "a danger . . . lest . . . we should unwarily conclude friendship a false ideal good, a mere utopian pleasure" (Cowper); "to play adroitly either on her affectionate ardor or her quixotic enthusiasm" (G. Eliot); "His moral attitude to his fellow creatures was that of one who was . . . quixotically high-minded" (J. M. Robertson). Cf. FANCIFUL, ENTHUSIAST, IMAGINARY, FABULOUS.
Ant. — Actual, matter-of-fact, realistic, pragmatical.
— vi'sion·ar'i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — vi'sion·ar'i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

---

vis'cer·al·ly, adv. of VISCERAL. vis'cer·ot'o·my, n. See -TOMY. vis'col·ize, v. t. = HOMOGENIZE. vis'count'ship, n. See -SHIP. vis'cu·ous (vĭs'kŭ·ŭs), adj. Viscous. Obs. vis'cus (-kŭs), n., sing. of VISCERA. vise'ment, n. [See ADVISEMENT.] Deliberation. Obs. visenomy. † PHYSIOGNOMY. viser. † VISOR.
vi'ser, v. t. [F.] = VISA. vis'ern, n. & v. = VISOR. Obs.
Vish'nū·vite (vĭsh'nōō·vīt), n. Also Vish'na·vite (vĭsh'nä-). = VISHNUITE. vis'ī·bl. Visible. Ref. Sp.
vi·sier'. Var. of VIZIER.

vi'sion·ar'y (vĭzh'ŭn·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ēr·ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). 1. One who sees visions.
2. One who relies, or tends to rely, on visions, or impractical ideas, projects, or the like; an impractical person.

vi'sioned (vĭzh'ŭnd), adj. 1. Seen in a vision or visions.
2. Produced by or occasioning visions; as, visioned agony, moods, sleep.
3. Having the power of seeing visions; inspired; having vision; as, the visioned worker.

vi'sion·ize (vĭzh'ŭn·īz), v. t. To envision.

Vision of Isaiah. See PSEUDEPIGRAPHA.

Vision of Piers Plowman. See PIERS PLOWMAN.

Vision of Sir Launfal, The. A poem (1848) by James Russell Lowell. See LAUNFAL, SIR.

vis'it (vĭz'ĭt), v.; VIS'IT·ED; VIS'IT·ING. [ME. visiten, fr. OF. visiter, fr. L. visitare, fr. visere to go to see, to visit, fr. videre, visum, to see. See VISION.] Transitive: 1. To go or come to see in order to comfort or help.

Visit the speechless sick. Shak.

2. Hence: a To pay a call upon as an act of friendship or courtesy. "Gone secretly to visit a familiar friend." Hall. b To go or come to see in an official capacity for examining, correcting abuses, etc.; to inspect; as, a bishop visits his diocese. c To dwell with temporarily as a guest.
3. To come to or upon with some special purpose or action specified or understood; specif.: a To come to or upon with reward or comfort; hence, to benefit; bless.

[God] hath visited and redeemed his people. Luke i. 68.

b To come to or upon with trouble, or affliction; to afflict; as, visited by disease, pestilence, etc. c To come to or upon in order to punish; as, visited by a fine.

Now will he . . . visit their sins. Hosea viii. 13.

d To come to in hostility or revenge.

My ghost shall visit her. Marston.

4. To travel to in order to worship, discharge an errand, or behold; as, to visit the Holy Sepulcher, Rome, Niagara Falls.
5. To go to see professionally as a physician; to attend; as, to visit one's patient.
6. To present itself to or in for a time; as, visited by a notion.

The light that visits these sad eyes. Gray.

7. To frequent temporarily or seasonally, as birds.
8. Obs. a To examine; scrutinize. b To cohabit with.

——, Intransitive: 1. To inflict punishment or vengeance.
2. To make a visit or visits; to be a guest; to call or sojourn as a guest for a short time; as, to visit with one's friends.
3. To frequent a place temporarily or seasonally.
4. To chat as when calling; as, to visit over the telephone. Colloq.

vis'it, n. [Cf. F. visite. See VISIT, v.; cf. VISITE.] 1. Act of visiting a person or thing; a short stay of business, friendship, ceremony, sightseeing, or the like, usually longer than a call, sometimes involving brief residence; as, a visit of civility; a visit to a friend, to Alaska.
2. Act of going to view, inspect, or attend; an official, professional, or formal call or inspection; as, the visit of a trustee or inspector; a visit from or to a physician.
3. A place which one visits. Cowper.
4. A chat; as, a visit over the telephone. Colloq.
5. A period of menstruation. Obs.
6. Marine Law. The act of a naval officer of one state in boarding a neutral merchant vessel of another state in the exercise of the right of search (which see).

Syn. — VISIT, VISITATION. VISIT is the general word; VISITATION denotes the act of visiting, or a formal or official visit, and often suggests a special dispensation, esp. of an afflictive character; in the latter sense it frequently has a humorous connotation; as, "who gave the ball or paid the visit last" (Pope); "I . . . return visit for visit punctually every week" (Tatler); "Ye gentle visitations of calm thought" (Shelley); "They neglected his commandments . . . till at the length he published to hold a visitation, and them cited thither" (Spenser); "In the time of their visitation they shall be cast down" (Jer. viii. 12); "That going to see people may have different effects is shown in our use of the words 'visit' and 'visitation.' Whether a visit shall seem like a visitation depends a good deal on the visitor" (S. M. Crothers). Cf. VISITOR.

vis'it·a·ble (-ă·b'l), adj. 1. Subject to, or allowing, visitation or inspection; as, visitable institutions in a city.
2. Accessible to visits; also, worth visiting.
3. Socially eligible to receive visits.
4. Suitable for reception of visitors.

‖vi'si·ta·dor' (vē'zē·tä·thôr'), n. [Sp. & Pg.] One who visits officially.

Vis'i·tan'dine (vĭz'ĭ·tăn'dĭn; -dēn), n. R.C.Ch. A nun of the Order of the Visitation of Our Lady; — the French name.

vis'it·ant (vĭz'ĭ·tănt; 91), n. [L. visitans, -antis, pres. part.; cf. F. visitant.] 1. One who visits; a guest; visitor.
2. A thing which visits one.
3. Ornith. A bird not resident in a given region at any season, but which appears there at regular or irregular intervals for a limited period; as, a winter visitant.
4. [cap.] R.C.Ch. A nun of the Order of the Visitation of Our Lady.

Syn. — See VISITOR.

vis'it·ant, adj. Visiting; that is a visitor; that belongs to or is associated with a visitor.

vis'it·a'tion (vĭz'ĭ·tā'shŭn), n. [ME. visitacioun, fr. OF. visitation, fr. L. visitatio.] 1. Act or instance of visiting.

To give thee nightly visitation. Shak.

2. Specif.: Act or instance of a superior or superintending officer who officially visits a corporation, college, church, or the like, to inspect the manner in which it is conducted, and see that its laws and regulations are observed and executed; as, the visitation of a diocese by a bishop.
3. a Special dispensation of divine favor and goodness, or, more usually, of divine wrath; retributive calamity; divine judgment; hence, any unusual event, either pleasurable or painful, likened to such a special dispensation; esp., a severe trial or affliction. Is. x. 3. b Similar action by other supernatural or immaterial power; as, a visitation of Satan.

Ye gentle visitations of calm thought. Shelley.

4. An official personal inquiry made by an officer-at-arms at different times to examine the rights of the people within his heraldic province to bear arms, etc.; also, a document containing a record of such an inquiry. Gr. Brit.
5. The object of a visit. Rare. Milton.
6. [cap.] Eccl. The visit of the Virgin Mary to Elisabeth, mother of John the Baptist; the festival and day (the 2d of July) on which it is celebrated; also, a representation of it in art.
7. Marine Law. = VISIT, n., 6.
8. Zool. Resort to a place by birds, mammals, or other animals, at an unusual time or in unusual numbers.

Syn. — See VISIT.

— Order of the Visitation of Our Lady, or of the Blessed Virgin Mary. R.C.Ch. A religious order for women (Nuns of the Visitation of our Lady, or of the Blessed Virgin Mary), founded by St. Jane Frances de Chantal under the direction of St. Francis de Sales in 1610, at Annecy, Savoy, for visiting the poor and the sick. It spread in Europe, and was introduced into the United States in 1808. It is now chiefly devoted to the education of girls.

vis'it·a'tion·al (vĭz'ĭ·tā'shŭn·ăl; -'l), adj. Of or pertaining to visitation.

visitation evangelism. See EVANGELISM.

Visitation of the Sick. The office prescribed in the Book of Common Prayer for use by the clergy visiting the sick.

vis'i·ta'tive (vĭz'ĭ·tā'tĭv), adj. Of or pertaining to visitation.

vis'i·ta'tor (-tā'tĕr), n. [LL.] R.C.Ch. An official visitor.

vis'it·a·to'ri·al (-ĭ·tō·rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. Also vis'i·to'ri·al (vĭz'ĭ·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181). [Cf. LL. visitator a visitor.] Of or pertaining to visitation, or a judicial visitor or superintendent; as, visitatorial power.

vi·site' (vē·zēt'), n. [F. See VISIT, n.] A cape or short cloak of silk or lace formerly worn by women in summer.

vis'it·ing, n. = VISITATION, n., 1 & 3.

vis'it·ing, adj. That visits; specif., that gives professional or technical service or advice in the home and for short periods, rather than by the day or week; as, a visiting nurse or housekeeper.

visiting book. A book containing a record of visits received, made, and to be made.

visiting card. A small card bearing the name, and sometimes the address of a person or married couple for presentation, as when visiting or calling.

visiting day. A day for receiving callers.

visiting list. A list of persons whom one visits, esp. socially.

visiting nurse. A nurse maintained by a hospital or social-service agency to visit the sick, esp. the sick poor, of a community or district.

visiting patrol. Mil. A patrol which, in order to keep up liaison, visits elements of its own command and those of adjacent units, as in an outpost.

visiting ticket. Formerly, a visiting card.

vis'i·tor (vĭz'ĭ·tĕr), n. [AF. visitour (F. visiteur).] 1. One who makes a visit; one who comes or goes to see a person or place, as for friendship, charity, sightseeing, etc.
2. Specif., a superior, or a person lawfully appointed for the purpose, who makes formal visits of inspection or supervision; one charged with such supervision of an institution.
3. Zool. A visitant.

Syn. — VISITOR, VISITANT, GUEST. VISITOR is the general word; a VISITANT is esp. one who, or that which, visits one as if from without one's own sphere; as, to entertain visitors, a frequent visitor at his friend's house; a supernatural visitant; "At the sound of this the visitant returned. . . . Markheim . . . thought he bore a likeness to himself: and always, like a lump of living terror, there lay in his bosom the conviction that this thing was not of the earth" (Stevenson); "The cottagers . . . beheld with wondering awe their fleeting visitant" (Shelley). As compared with visitor, GUEST emphasizes the idea of hospitable entertainment; as, "For now her father's chimney glows in expectation of a guest" (Tennyson). Cf. VISIT.

vis'i·tor·gen'er·al, n. Span. Hist. A direct personal representative of the king, granted extraordinary powers to investigate civil and military affairs. Such officers were employed esp. in the 17th and 18th centuries in Spanish America.

vis'i·to'ri·al (vĭz'ĭ·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. Visitatorial.

vis'i·tress (vĭz'ĭ·trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. A female visitor, esp. one who makes visits for inspection, social-service work, or the like.

visit to the Blessed Sacrament. R.C.Ch. A visit to a church or chapel to pray silently before the Sacrament; also, the office for this.

vi'sive (vī'sĭv), adj. [ML. visivus.] Now Rare. a Pertaining to or serving for vision. b That can see or be seen.

‖vis ma'jor (vĭs mā'jôr). [L. major greater.] Law. A superior force which under certain circumstances is held to exempt from contract obligations; inevitable accident; — a civil-law term used as nearly equivalent to, but broader than, the common-law term act of God (which see). Cf. FORCE MAJEURE.

‖vis me'di·ca'trix na·tu'rae (mĕd'ĭ·kā'trĭks nā·tū'rē). [NL.] The healing power of nature.

visne (vēn; vē'nē), n. [OF. visné neighborhood, fr. visin, fr. L. vicinus neighboring, a neighbor. See VICINITY.] Law. Vicinage; venue. See VENUE, 4 a. Now Rare.

vi'son (vĭ'sŭn), n. Also vison weasel. [F. & NL. vison, of unknown origin.] The American mink.

vi'sor, vi'zor (vī'zĕr; vĭz'ĕr; 277; cf. VIZARD), n. [ME. viser, fr. AF. viser (F. visière), fr. vis face. See VISAGE.]
1. A mask for the face; hence, a disguise or mask.

My very visor began to assume life. Shak.

2. The front piece of a helmet, esp. an upper piece, arranged so as to lift or open, and so show the face. The openings for seeing and breathing are generally in it.
3. The projecting forepiece of a cap, to protect the eyes.
4. The visage; face; aspect. Obs.

vi'sor, vi'zor, v. t.; VI'SORED, VI'ZORED (vī'zĕrd; vĭz'ĕrd); VI'SOR·ING, VI'ZOR·ING. To cover with a visor; to mask.

Visored falsehood and base forgery. Milton.

vi'sor (vī'zĕr), n. [LL.] A messenger sent to view or spy. Obs.

Vis'pe·red (vēs'pĕ·rĕd), Vis'pa·rad (-pä·răd), n. [Av. vīspē ratavō, lit., all the lords.] See AVESTA.

vis'ta (vĭs'tä), n. [It., sight, view, fr. vedere, past part. visto, veduto, to see, fr. L. videre, visum. See VIEW, VISION.]
1. A view, or prospect, commonly more or less distant and through or along an avenue, as between rows of trees; also, the trees or other objects forming the avenue.

The finished garden to the view Its vistas opens. Thomson.

2. A mental view, or prospect, extending over a series of events, thoughts, or the like; as, the news opened up a long vista of hopes; vistas of memory or of future years.
3. Arch. A corridor or interior space affording an extended view; as, extended into vistas by mirrors.

vis'ta, v. t.; VIS'TAED (-tăd); VIS'TA·ING. To make into or see in a vista.

vis'taed (vĭs'tăd), adj. Having or made to form a vista; also, seen in, or contemplated as in, a vista.

The vistaed shadows of the fir trees. Charles G. D. Roberts.

vis'tal (vĭs'tăl), adj. Of or pertaining to a vista.

‖vi'sto (vē'stō), adj. [It., properly vispo.] Very quick; — chiefly a musical direction equal to presto. — vi'sta·men'te (vē'stä·mĕn'tä), adv.

vis'to (vĭs'tō), n. [See VISTA.] A vista.

Vis·tu'li·an (vĭs·tū'lĭ·ăn), adj. [From the river Vistula.] Ethnol. In Deniker's classification, designating a fair, mesocephalic, short race including many of the Poles and Kashubes.

vis'u·al (vĭzh'ū·ăl; 249; 277), adj. [LL. visualis, fr. L. visus a seeing, sight; cf. F. visuel, OF. also visual. See VISION.] 1. Of or pertaining to sight; used in sight; serving as the instrument of seeing; as, the visual nerve.
2. Attained or performed by, or as by, vision; as, visual impressions, knowledge, tests.
3. Optic; as, the visual focus of a lens.
4. That can be seen; visible; as, visual objects.
5. Produced as, or conveying, a mental vision; as, a visual image or epithet.

Syn. — Optic, ocular; perceptible.

vis'u·al, n. a A visual ray. b A visualizer.

visual acuity. Sharpness of vision in respect to the ability to resolve detail. It is usually expressed as the reciprocal of the minimum angular separation, in minutes, of two lines of detail which can be separately seen. For the average person it is roughly an angle of one minute.

visual angle. The angle formed by two rays of light, or two straight lines drawn from the extreme points of an object to the center of the eye.

visual aphasia. Med. A form of aphasia in which the sufferer is unable to comprehend written words previously understood.

visual area. See AREA, n., 7.

visual axis; pl. VISUAL AXES. The line of vision.

visual beam. Formerly, a beam conceived of as proceeding or directed from the eyes.

visual binary; pl. VISUAL BINARIES. See BINARY STAR.

visual brightness. = BRILLIANCE, 2.

visual cone. Persp. A cone formed by lines joining the points in the field of vision with the point of sight.

visual control. Elec. A form of remote supervisory control in which code signals in the form of electric impulses are sent out by a dispatcher and return signals are received through the medium of colored lights. By means of the code signals, the dispatcher operates switches and relays at the distant point, which in turn start, stop, and otherwise control, the apparatus, at the same time sending signals to inform the dispatcher of all conditions.

visual field. a The entire expanse of space visible at a given instant without moving the eyes. b The visual content of one's mind at a given instant.

vis'u·al·ist (vĭzh'ū·ăl·ĭst), n. A visualizer.

vis'u·al'i·ty (-ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). 1. Quality or state of being visual, or visible; visibility.
2 A mental image or picture; a view; glimpse.

vis'u·al·i·za'tion (-ăl·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. 1. The act or power of forming visual images of objects not present to the eye.
2. A mental image or representation formed by visualizing.

vis'u·al·ize (vĭzh'ū·ăl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To make visual, or visible; esp., to see a mental image (something not before the eye); to image or picture mentally; as, to visualize the face of one absent; also, to conceive definitely (something abstract); as, to visualize a scheme. — v. i. To form a visual mental image of something not present before the eye at the time; also, Med., to become visible; as, the gall bladder may visualize after intravenous administration of certain substances opaque to X rays and their subsequent secretion in the bile.

Syn. — Imagine, picture, envisage.

vis'u·al·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n. One who or that which visualizes; esp., one whose mental imagery is prevailingly visual. Cf. AUDILE, n.; MOTILE, n.

visual line. The line of vision.

visual plane. Any plane passing through the point of sight; in binocular vision, the plane in which lie the visual axes of the two eyes.

visual point. The point at which the visual rays unite; the position of the eye.

visual purple or red. Biochem. A purple-red pigment contained in the retinal rods of human eyes and those of most animals. It is quickly bleached by light. It is said to function in nocturnal vision, and is abundant in animals that see well at night. Called also rhodopsin. See OPTOGRAM.

visual ray. A line or ray from an object to the eye, or point of sight. See VISION, n., 7.

visual sensitometry. See SENSITOMETRY.

visual signaling. Mil. Any system of signaling in which the signals are received by the eye, as by lamps, wigwag, semaphore, pyrotechnics, panels, etc.

visual white. Physiol. The final product of the action of light on visual purple. It is thought to be reconverted to visual purple by the regenerative action of the epithelium lying between the rods of the retina and the choroid coat.

visual yellow. Physiol. An intermediate product between visual purple and visual white, recognized as formed in the photochemical action of light on visual purple.

visuo-. A combining form from Latin visus, vision, denoting: a Vision, as in vis'u·om'e·ter, an instrument for measuring vision. b Visual and; — in adjectives, as in vis'u·o·au'di·to'ry, visual and auditory, vis'u·o·kin'es·thet'ic, vis'u·o·psy'chic, vis'u·o·sen'so·ry. See KINESTHETIC, etc.

‖vis vi'tae (vĭs vī'tē), or ‖vis vi·ta'lis (vī·tā'lĭs). [L.] Vital force.

‖vis vi'va (vī'vä). [L. viva living.] Mech. Kinetic energy. See ENERGY, n., 5.

vi'ta (vī'tä), n. [L.] Literally, life; specif., a brief autobiographical sketch, as in a thesis for the doctorate.

vita-. A combining form from Latin vita, life, as in vi'ta·path, vi·tap'a·thy, vi'ta·phone.

Vi·ta'ce·ae (vī·tā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See VITIS.] Bot. A family of woody or herbaceous vines (order Rhamnales), having simple, palmate, or pinnate leaves, the stems usually tendril-bearing, and small, greenish, clustered flowers succeeded by a several-seeded berry. There are 11 genera (including Vitis, the grape, Parthenocissus, the Virginia creeper, and Cissus) and about 500 species. — vi·ta'ceous (vī·tā'shŭs), adj.

---

vi'siond. Visioned. Ref. Sp. vi'sion·er, n. = VISIONARY. vi'si·on'ic (vĭzh'ĭ·ŏn'ĭk), adj. = VISIONAL. vi'sion·ist, n. = VISIONARY, n., 1. vi'sion·less, adj. See -LESS. vi'sion·like', adj. & adv. See -LIKE. vi'sion·proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.
vi·si'ta (vē·sē'tä), n. [Sp., visit.] = MISSION, n., 11 b. vis'i·tate, v. i. To make a visitation to. Obs.
vis'it·ee', n. See -EE. vis'it·er, n. = VISITOR.
vis'it·ment, n. See -MENT. vis'i·tor·ess, n. = VISITRESS. R. vis'i·tor·ship', n. See -SHIP. vis'i·trix, n. [NL.] Fem. of VISITOR. vis·na'ga (vĭs·nä'gä). Var. of BISNAGA. vis'ney, n. [Russ. vishnya cherry, of Turk. origin.] A kind of cherry brandy containing tent wine. Obs. vis'no·my (vĭz'nŏ·mĭ). Var. of PHYSIOGNOMY. Obs. exc. Dial. vi'sor·less, vi'zor·less, adj. See -LESS. vi'sor·like', vi'zor·like', adj. See -LIKE. vi'so·ry (vī'zō·rĭ), adj. [L. videre, visum, to see.] Visual. Obs. viss, n. Var. of VIS. See WEIGHT, Table. viss. † WISH.
visse. † VICE.
vis'ta·less, adj. See -LESS.
vis'u·al·ly, adv. of VISUAL.
vi'suel' (vē'zwĕl'), n. [F. type visuel visual type.] Psychol. = VISCALIZER. vis'ure, n. Visor; mask. Obs. — vis'ured, adj. Obs. vit-. = VITO-.
‖vi'ta bre'vis, ars' lon'ga. = ARS LONGA, VITA BREVIS.

Vī′ta·glass′ (vī′tȧ·glȧs′), n. A trade-mark for a kind of glass which does not obstruct ultraviolet rays; also [sometimes not cap.], glass bearing this trade-mark.

vi′tal (vī′tȧl; -tᵊl), adj. [OF., fr. L. vitalis, fr. vita life; akin to L. vivere to live. See VIVID; cf. VIABLE.] 1. Existent as a manifestation of life; as, vital force, energy, power.
The vital strength is lost. Chaucer.
2. a Being the seat of life; being that on which life depends; as, the wound was in a vital part. b Contributing or necessary to life; as, vital blood.
The vital spirit issued at the wound. Pope.
3. a Containing life; living; animate; also, animated. "Spirits that live throughout, vital in every part." Milton. b Full of life and vigor; energetic; also, flourishing.
4. Belonging to or characteristic of life, either animal or vegetable; inhering in that which is living or organic; as, vital actions, energies, functions.
5. Importing or renewing life; invigorating; as, vital food, heat.
6. Fundamentally affecting, esp. destructive of, life; fatal; mortal; as, a vital wound.
7. Hence, fundamentally affecting the continuation, value, efficiency, or the like, of anything; fundamental; as, a vital error in reasoning; loosely, highly important; essential; supreme; as, of vital interest.
A competence is vital to content. Young.
8. Capable of living; viable. Obs.
9. Designating or pertaining to the staining of living tissues by injecting a dye into a living animal, as by injecting lithium carmine into a vein of a rabbit. Commonly the staining by this method is selective for certain tissues.
10. Recording the chief data relating to lives; as, vital statistics (which see).
Syn. — Necessary, indispensable, requisite; live, animate; basic; imperative, exigent.
— vi′tal·ly, adv. — vi′tal·ness, n.

vi′tal, n., sing. of VITALS.

vital air. Oxygen gas; — so called because essential to animal life. Obs.

vital capacity. Physiol. The breathing capacity of the lungs, expressed by the number of cubic inches or cubic centimeters of air which can be forcibly exhaled after a full inspiration.

vital force. Energy manifested in the phenomena of life, esp. when regarded as distinct from other forces of nature (mechanical, chemical, etc.). Cf. LIFE, 2; VITALISM a.

vital functions. Physiol. Those functions of the body on which life is directly dependent, as the circulation of the blood, respiration, digestion, etc.

vital index. An index formed from or based on vital statistics.

vi′tal·ism (vī′tȧl·ĭz′m), n. Philos. & Biol. a Orig., the doctrine that the functions of a living organism are due to a vital principle or force distinct from physical forces. b The doctrine that the processes of life are not explicable by the laws of physics and chemistry alone and that life is in some part self-determining instead of mechanistically determined; — opposed to mechanism. Cf. ORGANICISM b.

vi′tal·ist (-ĭst), n. A believer in vitalism. Cf. PHYSICIST, 3. — adj. Vitalistic.

vi′tal·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj. Pertaining to or characteristic of vitalism or vitalists. — vi′tal·is′ti·cȧl·ly (-tĭ·kȧl·ĭ), adv.

vi·tal′i·ty (vī·tȧl′ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. vitalitas; cf. F. vitalité.] 1. State or quality of being vital; specif.: a Vital force or animation; the principle of life; as, the vitality of eggs; germinating power. b Power of enduring or continuing; as, the vitality of slang. c Animation; vigor; liveliness.
There is in the streets of the poorer quarters of Paris a thronging vitality which excites the blood. William Somerset Maugham.
2. A manifestation or embodiment of vital force.

vi′tal·ize (vī′tȧl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZING (-īz′ĭng). [Cf. F. vitaliser.] To endow with life, or vitality; to give life to; to make alive; animate; as, vitalized blood; to vitalize the patriotism of a people; also, esp. of painting and writing, to portray with lifelike effect. — vi′tal·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′-), n. — vi′tal·iz′er (vī′tȧl·īz′ẽr), n.

vi′tal·iz′ing (-īz′ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of VITALIZE. Hence: adj. That imparts life, vigor, energy. — vi′tal·iz′ing·ly, adv.

vital principle. An immaterial force, to which when present in organized matter the functions peculiar to living beings have been ascribed.

vi′tals (vī′tȧlz; -t′lz), n. pl. 1. Organs that are most necessary for life; esp., the heart, liver, lungs, and brain.
2. Hence: The parts essential to the life, health, or soundness of anything; as, the vitals of a state.

vital spirit. See SPIRIT, 1 (2).

vital statistics. Statistics relating to births, deaths, marriages, health, and disease; demography.

vital tripod. The tripod of life.

vi′ta·min (vī′tȧ·mĭn; vĭt′ȧ·mĭn), n. Also vi′ta·mine (vī′tȧ·mĭn; -mēn; vĭt′ȧ-). [L. vita life + E. amine.] Biochem. Any of a group of constituents of most foods in their natural state, of which very small quantities are essential for the normal nutrition of animals, and possibly of plants. The vitamins are recognized by the effect produced on animals when their diets are deficient in these substances. The vitamins are named provisionally with letters, the earliest known being called: (1) fat-soluble A, (2) water-soluble B, (3) water-soluble C, (4) fat-soluble D, and (5) fat-soluble E. Vitamin A is a colorless alicyclic alcohol, $C_{20}H_{29}OH$, occurring in animal products such as fish-liver oils, butter, and eggs. It is made by the animal from carotene and certain other carotenoids, which are usually present in leafy green and yellow vegetables and in fruits. Lack of these carotenoids or of vitamin A in the diet causes keratinization of epithelial tissues, as in the eye, the failure of young animals to grow, and finally death. Vitamin B is now known to be a whole group (called the vitamin-B complex), which has not yet been completely explored. Some of its members are: (1) vitamin B_1, or thiamine chloride, $C_{12}H_{17}ClN_4OS$, a crystalline heterocyclic compound also called aneurin, oryzanin, torulin, and vitamin F. It is the antineuritic or antiberiberi vitamin. Its best sources are the coatings and germs of cereals, nuts, yeast, and animal food products. (2) Vitamin B_2, or D-(+)riboflavin, a yellow nitrogenous compound, $C_{17}H_{20}N_4O_6$, derived from D-ribose and found in whey, eggs, green leaves, and other organic products; — called also lactoflavin, ovoflavin, hepatoflavin (according to the nature of its source), and vitamin G. It is considered the growth-promoting factor of the vitamin-B group. (3) Niacin, or nicotinic acid (or its amide), preventing pellagra and the blacktongue of dogs and found in meats, milk, leafy green vegetables, and green or dried peas and beans; — called also the "P.P. (pellagra-preventive) factor." (4) Vitamin B_6, pyridoxine, adermin, or the "rat antidermatitis factor," $C_8H_{11}NO_3$; it is a pyridine derivative. Other members are p-aminobenzoic acid, biotin, choline, folic acid, inositol, and pantothenic acid. Vitamin C, or (L-)ascorbic acid, $C_6H_8O_6$, a lactone closely related to gulose, has also been called cevitamic acid. It is the antiscorbutic vitamin and is abundant in fresh fruits, esp. citrus fruits, tomatoes, and vegetables, and to some extent in animal products. Of vitamin D, the antirachitic vitamin, there are several varieties occurring in fish-liver oils, egg yolk, etc., or produced by irradiation of different foodstuffs or sterols, and distinguished as D_1, D_2, etc. Vitamin D regulates the phosphorus-calcium metabolism, and lack of it causes rickets. Vitamin D_2, or calciferol, $C_{28}H_{43}OH$, is a colorless crystalline alicyclic alcohol formed by irradiating ergosterol. Vitamin E, the so-called antisterility or reproductive vitamin (formerly called vitamin X by some), is abundant in the leaves of many plants and in oils from seeds. Lack of it causes infertility in both males and females, and muscular atrophy. It includes at least three varieties, α-tocopherol, $C_{29}H_{50}O_2$, β-tocopherol, $C_{28}H_{48}O_2$, and γ-tocopherol, $C_{28}H_{48}O_2$. Vitamin K is the antihemorrhagic vitamin. The natural vitamin K_1, $C_{31}H_{46}O_2$, occurs in the leaves of alfalfa and other plants, vegetables, fish meal, etc. Vitamin K_2 is similar to vitamin K_1. Vitamin L_1, which is found in beef liver, and vitamin L_2, which is found in yeast, are held to promote normal lactation. The terms vitamin P and citrin have been applied to a substance (now believed to be a mixture of flavones) isolated from lemons and paprika and thought to promote the resistance of the capillaries to hemorrhage. — vi′ta·min, adj. — vi′ta·min′ic (-mĭn′ĭk), adj.

vi′ta·min·ize (vī′tȧ·mĭ·nīz; vĭt′ȧ-), v. t. [See -IZE.] To introduce vitamin into (food), as by irradiating with ultraviolet light.

vi′ta·min·ol′o·gy (-nŏl′ŏ·jĭ), n. [See -LOGY.] The branch of knowledge dealing with vitamins, their nature, etc.

‖vi′ta nuo′va (vē′tȧ nwô′vȧ). [It.] New life; regeneration; [caps.] the title of Dante's autobiographical narrative in prose and verse, recording his love for Beatrice.

vi′ta·scope (vī′tȧ·skōp), n. [L. vita life + -scope.] A motion-picture projector. — vi′ta·scop′ic (-skŏp′ĭk), adj.

vi′ta·tive·ness (vī′tȧ·tĭv·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Phrenol. Love of life.

‖vite (vĕt), adv. [F.] Music. Quickly; lively; — a direction.

vit′el·lar′i·um (vĭt′ĕ·lâr′ĭ·ŭm; 79), n.; pl. -IA (-ȧ). [NL. See VITELLUS.] Zool. In many flatworms and rotifers, a modified part of the ovary which produces yolk-filled cells serving to nourish the true eggs; — disting. from germarium. — vit′el·lar′i·an (-ăn), adj.

vit′el·lar′y (vĭt′ĕ·lĕr′ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭ), adj. [See VITELLUS.] Biol. Vitelline.

vitelli-. A combining form from Latin vitellus, the yolk of an egg, as in vit′el·lif′er·ous, vit′el·lig′er·ous. See -FEROUS, etc.

vit′el·lig′e·nous (vĭt′ĕ·lĭj′ĕ·nŭs), adj. [vitelli- + -genous.] Zool. Producing yolk; — designating, specif., certain cells formed in the ovaries of many insects, which supply nutriment to the developing ova.

vi·tel′lin (vĭ·tĕl′ĭn; vī-), n. [Cf. F. vitelline. See VITELLUS.] Biochem. a A protein in the yolk of egg, formerly regarded as a globulin, now as a nucleoprotein; — called specif. ovovitellin. As ordinarily prepared it contains lecithin. b Rare. Any of several related substances in the seeds of plants, in the crystalline lens, etc.

vi·tel′line (-ĭn), adj. [L. vitellus the yolk of an egg.] Of, pertaining to, or like, the yolk of an egg; esp., yellow in color like the yolk of an egg. — n. The yolk of an egg.

vitelline artery. Embryol. In vertebrate embryos, an artery arising from the aorta, or one of the aortic trunks of the embryo, and distributed by numerous branches over the yolk sac. There are usually two main vitelline arteries. Cf. VITELLINE VEINS.

vitelline duct. Embryol. The duct by which the yolk sac or umbilical vesicle remains connected with the alimentary tract.

vitelline gland. Zool. A vitellarium.

vitelline membrane. Embryol. A membrane enclosing the egg proper and corresponding to the cell wall of an ordinary cell; — so called because in the hen's egg it is represented by the membrane enclosing the ball of yolk. In many invertebrates it is not present until the egg is fertilized, but is then immediately secreted by the egg, thus preventing other spermatozoa from entering.

vitelline veins. Embryol. In vertebrate embryos, the veins which return the blood from the yolk sac or umbilical vesicle to the heart, or later to the portal vein, of the embryo. In mammals their function of bringing nutriment to the embryo is soon superseded by that of the umbilical veins or vein.

vi·tel′lo- (vĭ·tĕl′ō-; vī-). A combining form for vitellus, denoting: a A vitellus, as in vitellogene. b Vitelline and, as in vitello-intestinal.

vi·tel′lo–in·tes′ti·nal, adj. Embryol. Pertaining to the intestine and yolk sac; — designating the vitelline duct.

vi·tel′lose (vĭ·tĕl′ōs; vĭt′ĕ·lōs), n. [vitellin + -ose.] Biochem. A proteose formed in digestion and hydrolysis of vitellin.

vi·tel′lus (vĭ·tĕl′ŭs; vī-), n. [L., the yolk of an egg, orig., a little calf. See VEAL.] Embryol. The yolk of an egg. Also, in older usage, when yolk and protoplasm were not clearly distinguished, the entire cell contents of an egg cell. See YOLK.
2. Bot. An oily substance clinging to the spores of certain species of Lycopodium.

vi·ter′bite (vĭ·tûr′bĭt), n. [From Viterbo, Italy.] Petrog. A leucite-trachyte with many large leucite phenocrysts.

Vī′tex (vī′tĕks), n. [L., the chaste tree. See WITHY.] Bot. A large genus of chiefly tropical shrubs and trees (family Verbenaceae), having divided leaves and forking cymes of small flowers with a short tube and bilabiate limb. Several, as V. agnus-castus, the chaste tree, are cultivated. Many yield valuable timber.

Vī′tharr, Vī′thar (vē′thär), n. [ON. Vitharr.] Norse Myth. One of the Aesir, a son of Odin, who avenges his parent by slaying Fenrir at Ragnarok.

Vī′thi (-thĭ), n. [ON.] Norse Myth. The home of Vitharr. See ASGARD.

Vī′ti (vē′tē), n. sing. & pl. One of a Negro people in East Africa, originally Zulu marauders, who settled southwest of Lake Nyasa and later mixed with other tribes.

vīti- (vĭt′ĭ-). A combining form from Latin vitis, vine, as in viticulture.

vi′ti·a·ble (vĭsh′ĭ·ȧ·b′l), adj. That can be vitiated.

vi′ti·al (vĭsh′ĭ·ȧl), adj. [L. vitium fault.] Vicious. Obs.

vi′ti·ate (vĭsh′ĭ·āt), adj. Vitiated. Obs.

vi′ti·ate (vĭsh′ĭ·āt), v.; VI′TI·AT′ED (-āt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VI′TI·AT′ING (-āt′ĭng). [L. vitiatus, past part. of vitiare to vitiate, fr. vitium a fault, vice. See VICE a fault.] Transitive: 1. To make incomplete, faulty, or defective; to injure the substance or quality of; impair; contaminate; spoil; corrupt; as, exaggeration vitiates a style of writing; sewer gas vitiates the air.
2. To debase in moral or aesthetic standards; deprave; pervert; as, vitiated by luxury; vitiating the public taste.
3. To render ineffective, either wholly or in part; to destroy the validity or force of, as of an instrument or transaction; to invalidate; as, fraud vitiates a contract.
4. To make (air) impure, as by the accumulation of the products of respiration.
5. Obs. a To violate the chastity of. b To adulterate.
—, Intrans.: To become vitiated; also, to cause vitiation.

vi′ti·at′ed (-āt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Made vicious, defective, ineffective, etc.; contaminated; invalidated.
Syn. — See CORRUPT. Ant. — Purified; substantiated.

vi′ti·a′tion (-ā′shŭn), n. [L. vitiatio.] Act of vitiating, or state of being vitiated; as: a Depravation; corruption; as, the vitiation of the blood. "The vitiation that breeds evil acts." G. Eliot. b Invalidation, as of a contract.

vi′ti·a′tor (vĭsh′ĭ·ā′tẽr), n. [L.] One who or that which vitiates.

vīti′i·ce′tum (vīt′ĭ·sē′tŭm), n. [NL., irreg. fr. L. vitis vine.] A growth or plantation of vines.

vit′i·cul′ture (vĭt′ĭ·kŭl′tûr; vī′tĭ-), n. [L. vitis vine + E. culture.] The cultivation of the vine; grape growing. — vit′i·cul′tur·al (-kŭl′tûr·ȧl), adj. — vit′i·cul′tur·er (-ẽr), n. — vit′i·cul′tur·ist (-ĭst), n.

vi·tif′er·ous (vī·tĭf′ẽr·ŭs), adj. [L. vitifer.] Bearing vines.

vit′i·li′go (vĭt′ĭ·lī′gō), n. [L., a kind of tetter.] Med. A skin disease consisting in the development on various parts of the body of smooth, milk-white spots, due to disappearance of the natural pigment. — vit′i·lig′i·nous (-lĭj′ĭ·nŭs), adj.

vit′i·lit′i·gate (-lĭt′ĭ·gāt), v. i. [L. vitilitigare to quarrel disgracefully, fr. vitium vice + litigare to quarrel.] To wrangle cavilingly or vexatiously. Obs. — vit′i·lit′i·ga′tion (-gā′shŭn), n. Obs.

vi′ti·os′i·ty (vĭsh′ĭ·ŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -ITIES (-tĭz). [L. vitiositas. See VICIOUS.] 1. Viciousness; depravity.
The perverseness and vitiosity of man's will. South.
2. Obs. a A defect. b A vice. c Defectiveness.

Vī′tis (vī′tĭs), n. [L., a vine. See VISE.] Bot. A large genus of woody vines, the grapevines, typifying the family Vitaceae. They have simple, often lobed leaves and small polygamously dioecious flowers, the petals united in a cap that falls away entire from the hypogynous disk. See GRAPE, 1.

vi′ti·um (vĭsh′ĭ·ŭm), n. [L.] Fault; defect of any kind.

vi′to- (vī′tō-), vit-. A combining form from Latin vita, life, denoting vital, organic, bio-, as in vitamin, vi′to·chem′ic, vi′to·chem′i·cal.

vit′rage (vĭt′rĭj; F. vē′trȧzh′), n. [F., prop., glazing, glass window.] A curtain designed especially for casement windows and glazed doors.

vit′rail (vĭt′rāl; F. vē′trȧ′y′), n.; pl. VITRAUX (vē′trō′). [F.] Stained glass, esp. in windows. — vit′railed (-rāld), adj.

vit′rail·list, n. A maker or designer of vitrail.

vit′rain (vĭt′rān), n. [vitro- + -ain as in fusain.] Geol. One of the bright constituents of banded bituminous coals, the other being clarain. Both are included under anthraxylon. Vitrain is probably wood tissue in which the cellular structure has been nearly or quite obliterated.

vit′re·al (vĭt′rē·ȧl), adj. Also vit′re·an (-ăn). Vitreous.

vi·trel′la (vĭ·trĕl′ȧ), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. vitrum glass.] Zool. A retinophore.

vit′re·my′te (vĭt′rē·mē′tē), n. Prob., a woman's scap. Chaucer.

vit′re·o- (vĭt′rē·ō-). A combining form for vitreous.

vit′re·o·den′tine (vĭt′rē·ō·dĕn′tēn; -tĭn), n. [vitreo- + dentine.] Anat. A form of dentine characterized by its extreme hardness. — vit′re·o·den′ti·nal (-tē·nȧl), adj.

vit′re·o·e·lec′tric (-ē·lĕk′trĭk), adj. [See VITREOUS; ELECTRIC.] Physics. Electrically positive. See ELECTRICITY, 2.

vit′re·os′i·ty (-ŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n. State or quality of being vitreous.

vit′re·ous (vĭt′rē·ŭs; 129), adj. [L. vitreus, fr. vitrum glass, orig., woad. See WOAD; cf. VITRIOL.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or derived from, glass.
2. Like glass, as in color, composition, brittleness, luster, etc.; glassy; as, vitreous rocks.
3. Of the color glass green.
4. Of, pertaining to, or designating, the vitreous humor of the eye; as, the vitreous chamber.
— vit′re·ous·ly, adv. — vit′re·ous·ness, n.

vit′re·ous, n. Vitreous humor.

vitreous body. Anat. The vitreous humor of the eye.

vitreous china. Ceramics. A ware with a dense or vitrified body.

vitreous copper. Torbernite.

vitreous electricity. Electricity of the kind excited by rubbing glass with silk; positive electricity. See ELECTRICITY, 2.

vitreous fusion. Gradual fusion not showing a sharp melting point.

vitreous humor. Anat. The clear colorless transparent jelly which fills the posterior chamber of the eyeball (see EYE, 1). It is enclosed by a delicate membrane, the hyaloid membrane. In the adult it is nearly homogeneous, but in the fetus is pervaded by fibers with minute nuclei at their points of junction.

vitreous selenium. Chem. See SELENIUM.

vitreous silver. Mineral. Argentite.

vitreous sponge. A glass sponge.

vitreous table. Anat. The hard, brittle inner table of the skull.

vi·tres′cent (vĭ·trĕs′ĕnt; -ənt), adj. [See VITREOUS; -ESCENT.] Capable of being formed into glass; tending to become glass. — vi·tres′cence (-ĕns; -ns), n. — vi·tres′cency (-ĕn·sĭ; -ən·sĭ), n.

vi·tres′ci·ble (-ĭ·b′l), adj. [Cf. F. vitrescible.] Vitrifiable. — vi·tres′ci·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n.

vit′re·um (vĭt′rē·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. vitreus glassy.] Anat. The vitreous humor.

vit′ri·al (vĭt′rĭ·ȧl), adj. = VITREOUS. Obs.

vit′ric (vĭt′rĭk), adj. [L. vitrum glass.] Of the nature and quality of glass; glasslike; — disting. from ceramic.

vit′rics (vĭt′rĭks), n. [See VITRIC.] 1. The art or study of the manufacture and decoration of glassware. See -ICS.
2. pl. Articles of glassware; glassware in general.

vit′ri·fac′tion (vĭt′rĭ·făk′shŭn), n. [Cf. VITRIFICATION.] Vitrification.

vitail, vitaille, vitaill, vitaille. † VICTUAL.

vi·tal′ic (vī·tȧl′ĭk), adj. = VITAL.

vi′tal·ness, n. See -NESS.

vi′ta·men. Var. of VITAMIN.

vi′ta·min-free′, adj. See -FREE.

vi′tas·ti (vī′tȧs·tĭ), n. sing. & pl. [Skr.] See MEASURE, Table.

vitel. † VICTUAL.

vi·tel′li·cle (vĭ·tĕl′ĭ·k'l; vī-), n. [NL. vitelliculus, dim. fr. L. vitellus yolk.] = YOLK SAC. vi·tel′lo·gene (vĭ·tĕl′ŏ·jēn; vī-), n. [Cf. F. cellule vitellogène. See VITELLUS; -GEN.] Zool. = VITELLARIUM.

vit′el·log′e·nous (vĭt′ĕ·lŏj′ĕ·nŭs), adj. = VITELLIGENOUS.

Vī′ti·an (vē′tĭ·ăn). Var. of FIJIAN.

vi·tic′u·lose (vĭ·tĭk′ū·lōs), adj. [L. vitilula, dim. of vitis vine.] Bot. = SARMENTOSE.

vit′i·li·goi′de·a (vĭt′ĭ·lĭ·goi′dē·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. vitiligo a kind of tetter + -oidea.] Med. = XANTHOMA.

vi′ti·oso′ (vĭsh′ĭ·ōs′; see -OSE), adj. [L. vitiosus.] Vicious. Obs.

vi′tious. Archaic var. of VICIOUS.

vit′i·vert (vĭt′ĭ·vûrt). Var. of VETIVER. [BATTLE, Table.]

Vi·to′ri·a (vē·tō′rē·ȧ), n. See vi′tre, n. [F., fr. L. vitrum.] Glass. Obs.

vit′re·ous·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

vit′ri·fac′ture (vĭt′rĭ·făk′tŭr), n. [L. vitrum glass + facere, factum, to make.] Manufacture of glass and glassware.

vit′ri·fi′a·ble (vĭt′rĭ·fī′ə·b'l), adj. That can be vitrified. — vit′ri·fi′a·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n.

vi·trif′i·cate (vĭ·trĭf′ĭ·kāt; vĭt′rĭ·fĭ·kāt), v. t. To vitrify. Obs.

vit′ri·fi·ca′tion (vĭt′rĭ·fĭ·kā′shŭn), n. [Cf. F. vitrification. See VITRIFY.] Act, instance, art, or process, of vitrifying; state of being vitrified; also, a vitrified body.

vit′ri·fied fort or wall (vĭt′rĭ·fĭd). Archaeol. Ancient masonry remains, apparently of defensive works, found esp. in Scotland, Ireland, France, and Germany, the siliceous stones of which have been converted into a hard glasslike material by the action of fire.

vit′ri·form (vĭt′rĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. vitrum glass + -form.] Having the form or appearance of glass; glasslike.

vit′ri·fy (-fī), v. t. & i.; VIT′RI·FIED (-fĭd); VIT′RI·FY′ING (-fī′ĭng). [F. vitrifier, fr. L. vitrum glass + -ficare to make. See VITREOUS; -FY.] To change into glass or a glassy substance, by heat and fusion; to make or become vitreous.

Vi·tri′na (vĭ·trī′nə), n. [NL., fr. L. vitrum glass.] 1. Zool. A genus of land snails (order Pulmonata) having a very thin translucent spiral shell with a large aperture. — vit′ri·noid (vĭt′rĭ·noid), adj.

Vitrina (V. limpida). × 2

2. The vitreous humor.

vit′rine (vĭt′rĭn), n. [F.] A glass showcase for displaying fine wares, specimens, etc.

vit′ri·ol (vĭt′rĭ·ŭl), n. [ME. vitriole, fr. OF. vitriol, fr. ML. vitriolum, fr. vitreus vitreous. See VITREOUS.] 1. Chem. a A sulphate of any of various metals, as copper (blue, or Roman, vitriol), iron (green vitriol), zinc (white vitriol), etc.; — so called on account of the glassy appearance or luster of many of these salts. b Oil of vitriol. See SULPHURIC ACID b. c Obs. Any of certain salts not sulphates; as, vitriol de luna (silver nitrate).

2. Hence, anything likened to vitriol as caustic; figuratively, virulence of feeling or of speech.

He bears the vitriol of solitude well. Emerson.

vit′ri·ol (vĭt′rĭ·ŭl), v. t.; -OLED (-ŭld) or -OLLED; -OL·ING or -OL·LING. [From VITRIOL, n.] 1. Metal. To dip in dilute sulphuric acid; to pickle.

2. = VITRIOLIZE, v. t., 2. Colloq.

vit′ri·o·late (-ō·lāt), v. t.; VIT′RI·O·LAT′ED (-lāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VIT′RI·O·LAT′ING (-lāt′ĭng). To make vitriolic; specif., Old Chem.: a To convert into a vitriol; to make into sulphuric acid or a sulphate. b To subject to the action of, or impregnate with, vitriol. — vit′ri·o·la′tion (-lā′shŭn), n.

vit′ri·o·late, adj. Vitriolated. Rare.

vit′ri·o·late, n. Old Chem. A sulphate.

vit′ri·o·lat′ed tar′tar (-lāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119). Potassium sulphate.

vitriol chamber. A lead chamber used in the chamber process of making sulphuric acid. See SULPHURIC ACID.

vit′ri·ol′ic (vĭt′rĭ·ŏl′ĭk), adj. [F. vitriolique.] Of or pertaining to vitriol; derived from, or resembling, vitriol; hence, caustic; biting; virulent; as, a vitriolic temper, pen, retort.

Syn. — Scathing. Cf. MORDANT.

vitriolic acid. Old Chem. Sulphuric acid.

vit′ri·o·line (vĭt′rĭ·ō·lĭn; -lĭn), adj. Vitriolic.

vit′ri·ol·ize (vĭt′rĭ·ŭl·īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ′ING (-īz′ĭng). [Cf. F. vitrioliser.] Transitive: 1. To vitriolate.

2. To injure (a person) with vitriol, or sulphuric acid, as by throwing it upon the face to disfigure it.

—, Intransitive: To become vitriolated.

— vit′ri·ol·iz′a·ble (-īz′ə·b'l), adj. — vit′ri·ol·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ī·zā′shŭn), n. — vit′ri·ol·iz′er (vĭt′rĭ·ŭl·īz′ĕr), n.

vit′ri·ol·ized bone (-īzd). Dissolved bone.

vitriol of Mars. [See MARS, 2.] Old Chem. A basic iron sulphate.

vitriol stone. A hard crystalline mass consisting chiefly of ferric sulphate and aluminum sulphate, obtained by exposing pyritic schist to the atmosphere for some years, lixiviating the mass, and evaporating. It was formerly used in manufacturing fuming sulphuric acid.

vit′rite (vĭt′rĭt), n. [L. vitrum glass.] A difficultly fusible glass used as an electric insulator.

‖vi′tro (vĭt′rō), abl. of L. VITRUM, glass. See IN VITRO.

vit′ro- (vĭt′rō-). A combining form from Latin vitrum, glass, as in *vitro*phyre.

vit′ro·ba·salt′ (-bā·sôlt′; -băs′ôlt), n. Basalt glass.

vit′ro–clar·ain′ (-klăr·ān′), n. Geol. Anthraxylon.

vit′ro–di–tri′na (vĭt′rō-dē-trē′nə), n. [It. vetro di trina glass of lace.] A kind of Venetian glass or glassware in which white threads are embedded in transparent glass with a lacelike or netlike effect.

vit′ro·phyre (vĭt′rō-fīr), n. [vitro- + -phyre.] Petrog. Porphyritic glassy rock. — vit′ro·phy′ric (-fĭr′ĭk), adj.

vit′ro·type (vĭt′rō-tīp), n. [vitro- + -type.] A photograph on glass or ceramic ware produced originally (about 1860) by a collodion process and burned into the surface.

Vi·tru′vi·an (vĭ·trōō′vĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Marcus Vitruvius Pollio, a Roman architect of the age of Augustus, whose writings had great influence in the Renaissance. Cf. PALLADIAN. — Vi·tru′vi·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n.

Vitruvian scroll. Arch. A scroll of convolved undulations, esp. in friezes of the composite order.

Vitruvian Scroll.

vit′ta (vĭt′ə), n.; pl. -TAE (-ē). [L., ribbon, fillet.] 1. Class. Antiq. A headband or fillet.

2. Bot. a One of the oil tubes in the fruits of plants of the carrot family. They occur commonly in the grooves between the ridges, their number and position affording important diagnostic characters. b One of the internal ribs, or septa, in certain diatoms, as of the genus Tabellaria.

3. Zool. & Bot. A stripe of color.

Vit·ta′ri·a (vĭ·tā′rĭ·ə; 79), n. [NL.] Bot. A genus of tropical epiphytic ferns (family Polypodiaceae) known as ribbon ferns from their narrow grasslike fronds. They have the linear marginal sori in continuous lines. V. lineata, the grass fern, is common throughout tropical America.

vit′tate (vĭt′āt), adj. [L. vittatus bound with a fillet, fr. vitta fillet.] 1. Bot. Bearing or containing vittae.

2. Bot. & Zool. Striped longitudinally.

vit′u·lar (vĭt′ū·lĕr), adj. Also vit′u·lar′y (-lĕr′ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭ). [L. vitulus a calf.] Veter. Pertaining to a calf or to calving; vituline.

vitular apoplexy. Apoplexy of cows occurring at calving.

vit′u·line (vĭt′ū·lĭn; -līn), adj. [L. vitulinus, fr. vitulus a calf. See VEAL.] Of, pertaining to, or like, a calf or veal.

vi·tu′per (vĭ·tū′pĕr), v. t. [F. vituperer.] To vituperate; objurgate. Obs. — n. Vituperation. Obs.

vi·tu′per·a·ble (vĭ·tū′pĕr·ə·b'l), adj. [OF., fr. L. vituperabilis.] Liable to or deserving vituperation.

vi·tu′per·ate (vĭ·tū′pĕr·āt; vī-), v. t. & i.; -AT′ED (-āt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT′ING (-āt′ĭng). [L. vituperatus, past part. of vituperare to blame, vituperate, prob. fr. vitium a fault + parare to prepare. See VICE a fault; PARE, v. t.] To abuse in words; to censure severely or abusively; berate; use abusive words.

vi·tu′per·a′tion (-ā′shŭn), n. [L. vituperatio; cf. OF. vituperation. See VITUPERATE.] Act or instance of vituperating; wordy abuse; severe censure; railing.

Syn. — See ABUSE. Ant. — See PRAISE, ENCOMIUM.

vi·tu′per·a′tive (-tū′pĕr·ə′tĭv; 277), adj. Uttering or given to censure; containing, or characterized by, wordy abuse; scolding; abusive; railing. — vi·tu′per·a′tive·ly, adv.

Syn. — Reviling, opprobrious, scurrilous.

Ant. — Commendatory, laudatory, flattering.

vi·tu′per·a′tor (-ā′tĕr), n. [L.] One who vituperates or reviles.

vi·tu′per·a·to′ry (-ə·tō′rĭ or, esp. Brit. -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Vituperative.

vi·u′va (vē·ōō′vä), n. [Pg., widow.] A California rockfish (Acutomentum ovale) of a reddish olivaceous color with small black spots on the dorsal fins.

‖vi′va (vē′vä), interj. [It.] Literally, (long) live; — an exclamation expressing good will, well-wishing, etc. — n. The word viva as a shout or salute.

vi′va (vī′vä). Short for VIVA-VOCE, adj., n., & v. t. Colloq.

‖vi·va′ce (vē·vä′chā), adj. [It.] Music. Brisk; vivacious; spirited; — a direction.

vi·va′cious (vĭ·vā′shŭs; vī-; 277), adj. [L. vivax, -acis, fr. vivere to live. See VIVID.] 1. Having vigorous powers of life; tenacious of life; long-lived. Archaic.

2. Lively in temper or conduct; sprightly; as, a vivacious poet. "Vivacious nonsense." V. Knox.

Syn. — Spirited, active, animated, sportive, gay, merry, lighthearted. See LIVELY.

Ant. — Dull, spiritless, languid, sleepy, drowsy, sluggish.

— vi·va′cious·ly, adv. — vi·va′cious·ness, n.

‖vi′va·cis′si·mo (vē′vä·chēs′sē·mō), adj. [It.] Music. Very lively or vivacious; — a direction.

vi·vac′i·ty (vĭ·văs′ĭ·tĭ; vī-), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. vivacitas; cf. F. vivacité. See VIVACIOUS.] 1. Quality or state of being vivacious; specif.: a Obs. Vital force; natural vigor; also, tenacity of life; longevity. b Rare. Vigor or energy of action. c Animation; liveliness; sprightliness; as, the vivacity of a discourse; a lady of great vivacity. d Of colors, brilliance.

2. A vivacious act or expression.

‖vi′va·men′te (vē′vä·mĕn′tā), adv. See 2d VIVO.

‖vi′van′dier′ (vē′văn′dyā′), n. [F. See VIAND.] In Continental armies, esp. the French, a sutler.

‖vi′van′dière′ (vē′văn′dyâr′), n. [F., fem. of vivandier. See VIVANDIER.] Formerly, in Continental armies, esp. in the French army, a woman accompanying troops, who sold provisions and liquor to the soldiers; a female sutler.

‖vi′vant′ (vē′văn′), n. [F., pres. part., living.] a In mort and similar games, the partner of dummy. b In bridge, the declarer.

vi·var′i·um (vī·vâr′ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -IUMS (-ŭmz), -IA (-ə). [L., fr. vivarius belonging to living creatures fr. vivus alive, living. See VIVID.] An enclosure, usually a box of limited size with glass sides, arranged for keeping or raising animals or plants indoors, more usually one for terrestrial or partly terrestrial animals, as distinguished from an aquarium. Cf. WARDIAN CASE.

vi′va·ry (vĭ′vä·rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). A vivarium.

‖vi′vat (vī′văt; F. vē′vät′, -vä′), interj. [L. & F.] Lit., may he or she live; hurrah. — n. A viva.

vi′va vo′ce (vī′vä vō′sē). [L.] By word of mouth; orally; as, an examination conducted viva voce.

vi′va–vo′ce, adj. Expressed or conducted by word of mouth; oral; as, viva-voce voting; a viva-voce examination. — n. A viva-voce examination, report, or the like. — v. t. To examine viva voce.

‖vive (vēv). [F., subjunctive sing. pres. fr. vivre to live, fr. L. vivere.] Long live, that is, success to; as in vive le roi.

vive (vīv), adj. [F. vif, vive, fr. L. vivus. See VIVID.] Now Chiefly Scot. a Lively; brisk; hence, forcible; also, Obs., living. b Lifelike. c Vivid; also, distinctly perceived. — vive′ly, adv.

vi′ven·cy (vī′vĕn·sĭ), n. [L. vivens, pres. part. of vivere to live.] State of being alive; being; also, vitality. Obs.

vi′ver (vē′vĕr), n. Early English Law. A fishpond.

vi′ver (vĭ′vĕr). Dial. var. of FIBER.

Vi·ver′ra (vī·vĕr′ə; vĭ-), n. [L., a ferret.] Zool. The typical genus of Viverridae, or civets, formerly extensive, but now restricted to the common Indian civet (V. zibetha) and closely allied species. See CIVET CAT.

Vi·ver′ri·dae (-ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A large family of small or medium-sized catlike carnivores of Asia and Africa, including the civets in a broad sense. They are mostly long-bodied and short-legged and provided with glands secreting civet or a similar scent. Besides the true civets (subfamily Viv′er·ri′nae [vĭv′ĕr·ĭ′nē]), the genets, linsangs, foussa, binturong, palm civets, and mongooses are included. — vi·ver′ri·form (vī·vĕr′ĭ·fôrm; vĭ-), adj.

vi·ver′rine (-īn; -ĭn; 156), adj. Of or pert. to the Viverridae, or civet family. — n. A civet; one of the Viverridae.

viverrine cat. The fishing cat.

viverrine otter. A fish-eating mammal (Cynogale bennetti) of Sumatra, Borneo, and the Malay Peninsula, resembling an otter, but of the Viverridae.

vi′vers (vē′vĕrz), n. pl. [F. vivres, pl. of vivre, orig., to live.] Victuals; food. Chiefly Scot.

vives (vīvz), n. [F., fr. avives, fr. Sp. avivas, adivas, fr. Ar. al-dhibāh, lit., the she-wolf. Cf. AVIVES.] Veter. Inflammatory swelling of the submaxillary glands of a horse.

‖vi′veur′ (vē′vûr′), n. [F.] Literally, one who lives; one who indulges freely or with habitual excess in the pleasures of life.

vivi-. A combining form, Latin vivi-, from vivus, meaning alive, living, as in:

vivicremation, vividissection, vivisepulture.

vi′tu·ol·ous (vĭt′rĭ·ŭl·ŭs; vĭ′rĭ·ŏl′ŭs), adj. [Cf. OF. vitrioleux.] Vitriolic. Obs.

vit′ri·ous. Var. of VITREOUS.

vit′rous, adj. = VITREOUS. [Obs.] vit′rum (vĭt′rŭm), n. [L.] Glass.

vit′ry, n. [F. Vitré, town in Brittany.] A light, durable canvas. Obs. [Obs. exc. Dial.] vit′tle (vĭt′'l). Var. of VICTUAL.

Vit·to′ri·a (vĕt·tō′rē·ə), n. [It.] = VICTORIA, 1.

Vit·to′ri·a Co′rom·bo′na. See COROMBONA, VITTORIA.

vit′ty (vĭt′ĭ). Var. of FITTY. Dial. Eng.

vi·tu′per·a′tive. Vituperative. Ref. Sp.

vi′tu·pe′ri·ous (vĭ′tū·pē′rĭ·ŭs), adj. Vituperative; shameful. — vi′tu·pe′ri·ous·ly, adv. Both Obs.

vi·tu′per·ize, v. t. = VITUPERATE.

vi·tu′per·ous, adj. Vituperative. — vi·tu′per·ous·ly, adv. Both Obs.

vi·tu′per·y (vĭ·tū′pĕr·ĭ), n. Vituperation; shame. Obs.

‖vi′vat re·gi′na (vī′văt rē·jī′nə). [L.] Long live the queen.

‖vi′vat res·pu′bli·ca (rĕz·pŭb′lĭ·kə). [L.] Long live the republic.

‖vi′vat rex. [L.] Long live the king.

viv′da (vīv′də). Var. of VIVDA.

‖vive′ la ba′ga′telle′ (vēv′ lä bä′gä′tĕl′). [F.] Long live trifles or frivolity.

‖vive′ la reine′ (rän′). [F.] Long live the queen.

‖vive′ la ré′pu′blique′ (rā′pü′blēk′). [F.] Long live the republic.

‖vive′ l'em′pe·reur′ (läN′pûr′). [F.] Long live the emperor.

‖vive′ le roi′ (lē rwä′). [F.] Long live the king.

‖vive′ l'im′pé′ra′trice′ (läN′pā′-rä′trēs′). [F.] Long live the empress.

‖vive′ ut vi′vas. [L.] Live that you may live.

‖vi′ve·re sat vin′ce·re. [L.] To conquer is to live enough.

‖vi′ve ut vi′vas. [L.] Live that you may live.

‖vi′vi·da vis (vĭv′ĭ·dä). [L.] Lively or living force; — from the phrase vires vis animi (lively force of soul), Lucretius (I. 72).

viv′i·sect′i·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

Viv′i·an (vĭv′ĭ·ăn), Viv′i·en (-ĕn), n. [OF. Vivienne, Viviane, perh. orig. a mistake for Ninniane, of Celt. origin.] 1. Feminine proper name. F. Vivienne (vē′vyĕn′); It. Viviana (vē·vyä′nä).

2. In Arthurian legend, the mistress of Merlin; — called also Lady of the Lake.

Viv′i·an (vĭv′ĭ·ăn), n. [F. Vivien.] Masculine proper name. F. Vivien (vē′vyăN′); G. Vivian (vē′vĭ·än).

viv′i·an·ite (vĭv′ĭ·ăn·īt), n. [After J. G. Vivian, Eng. mineralogist.] Mineral. A hydrous ferrous phosphate, $Fe_3(PO_4)_2.8H_2O$, colorless when unaltered, or blue to green, growing darker on exposure. It occurs in monoclinic crystals, also fibrous, massive, and earthy. H., 1.5–2. Sp. gr., 2.58–2.68.

viv′id (vĭv′ĭd), adj.; VIV′ID·ER (-ĕr); VIV′ID·EST. [L. vividus, fr. vivere to live; akin to L. vivus living. See QUICK; cf. REVIVE, SURVIVE, USQUEBAUGH, VIAND, VICTUAL, VITAL, VIVACITY.] 1. Having the appearance of vigorous life or freshness; animated; spirited; clear; fresh; lively; as, a vivid sketch or portrait.

2. Of colors: brilliant; intense; bright; technically, having a very high saturation.

3. a Producing a strong or clear impression on the senses; sharp; keen; intense; as, a vivid sensation of pain; the first vivid notes of the bugle. b Producing, or tending to produce, distinct and lifelike mental images; as, a vivid description or phrase.

4. Acting with distinctness and force; lively; active; — said esp. of a mental faculty; as, a vivid imagination.

Syn. — Striking, colorful, rich, glowing; distinct, strong, vigorous. See GRAPHIC.

Ant. — Dull, drab, colorless; vague; hazy, obscure.

— viv′id·ly, adv. — viv′id·ness, n.

viv′i·di·al′y·sis (vĭv′ĭ·dĭ·ăl′ĭ·sĭs), n. [NL. See VIVI-.] Physiol. Dialysis of the fluids in a living organism through a nonliving membrane intercalated in its blood vessels.

viv′i·dif·fu′sion (-dĭ·fū′zhŭn), n. [vivi- + diffusion.] Vividialysis.

vi·vid′i·ty (vĭ·vĭd′ĭ·tĭ), n. a Vividness. b Obs Vitality.

vi·vif′ic (vĭ·vĭf′ĭk), vi·vif′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Also, Obs., vi·vif′i·cant (-kănt). [F. or L.; F vivifique, fr. L. vivificus. See VIVIFY.] Vivifying; reviving; enlivening. Rare.

viv′i·fi·cate (vĭv′ĭ·fĭ·kāt), v. t.; -CAT′ED (-kāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT′ING (-kāt′ĭng). [LL. vivificatus, past. part. of vivificare. See VIVIFY.] 1. To give life to; to animate; revive; vivify. Rare.

God vivificates and actuates the whole world. Dr. H. More.

2. Chem. To bring back to the metallic form, as from an oxide or solution; to reduce. Obs.

viv′i·fi·ca′tion (vĭv′ĭ·fĭ·kā′shŭn), n. [LL. vivificatio.] 1. Act of vivifying, or state of being vivified; restoration of life; revival.

2. Physiol. The conversion of the lifeless matter of food, in the process of assimilation, into living protoplasms.

3. Chem. Act or process of vivificating. Obs.

vi·vif′i·ca′tive (vĭ·vĭf′ĭ·kā′tĭv; vĭv′ĭ·fĭ·kā′tĭv), adj. Able or tending to vivify; vivifying. Rare.

vi·vif′i·ca′tor (-kā′tĕr), n. One who vivificates. Rare.

viv′i·fi′er (vĭv′ĭ·fī′ĕr), n. One who or that which vivifies.

viv′i·fy (vĭv′ĭ·fī), v.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY′ING (-fī′ĭng). [F. vivifier, fr. LL. vivificare. See VIVID, -FY. Cf. VIVIFICATE.] Transitive: 1. To endue with life; to quicken; animate.

2. To make vivid; to make sharper, clearer, or brighter.

3. Physiol. To convert into living substance.

—, Intransitive: To impart life; to quicken. Rare.

Vi·vip′a·ra (vĭ·vĭp′ə·rə), n. pl. [NL.] 1. The mammals. Obs.

2. Zool. Syn. of VIVIPARUS.

vi·vip′a·rism (-rĭz′m), n. Viviparous reproduction.

viv′i·par′i·ty (vĭv′ĭ·păr′ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Biol. State or quality of being viviparous.

2. Bot. Vivipary.

vi·vip′a·rous (vĭ·vĭp′ə·rŭs), adj. [L. viviparus, fr. vivus alive + parere to bear, bring forth. See VIVID; -PAROUS.] 1. Producing living young (instead of eggs) from within the body, as nearly all mammals, many reptiles, and a few fishes; — opposed to oviparous. The distinction is not fundamental, as viviparous animals also produce eggs, but these develop (and, if provided with a shell or membrane, hatch) within the parent's body, instead of after being laid. Cf. OVOVIVIPAROUS.

2. Bot. a Germinating while still attached to the parent plant, as the seed of the mangrove. b Proliferous.

— vi·vip′a·rous·ly, adv. — vi·vip′a·rous·ness, n.

Vi·vip′a·rus (vĭ·vĭp′ə·rŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. viviparus viviparous.] Zool. A widely distributed genus of fresh-water snails having a turbinate operculate shell, which is usually greenish and more or less banded with brown. The young are born alive and with a well-developed shell. The genus is the type of a family, Viv′i·par′i·dae (vĭv′ĭ·păr′ĭ·dē), of the suborder Taenioglossa.

vi·vip′a·ry (-rĭ), n. Bot. a The development of separable vegetative shoots upon or among the reproductive organs of a plant, as in the proliferous flower clusters of some agaves, the growth of bulblets in the flower cluster of an onion, etc. b The germination of an embryo before the fall of the seed.

viv′i·per·fuse′ (vĭv′ĭ·pĕr·fūz′), v. t. [See VIVI-.] Physiol. To perfuse, as an organ of the body, during life.

viv′i·sect (vĭv′ĭ·sĕkt; vĭv′ĭ·sĕkt′), v. t.; VIV′I·SECT′ED; VIV′I·SECT′ING. To perform vivisection on; to dissect alive. — v. i. To practice vivisection.

viv′i·sec′tion (-sĕk′shŭn), n. [L. vivus alive + E. section; cf. F. vivisection. See VIVID; SECTION.] 1. The cutting of, or operation on, a living animal, esp. for physiological or pathological investigation; also, an instance of this.

2. Figuratively, subjection to minute or pitiless examination, criticism, or the like.

— viv′i·sec′tion·al (-ăl), adj. — viv′i·sec′tion·al·ly, adv.

viv′i·sec′tion·ist, n. One who practices or advocates vivisection; a vivisector. — viv′i·sec′tion·ist, adj.

viv′i·sec′tive (-sĕk′tĭv), adj. Performing vivisection.

viv′i·sec′tor (vĭv′ĭ·sĕk′tĕr; vĭv′ĭ·sĕk′tĕr), n. One who practices vivisection.

viv′i·sec·to′ri·um (-sĕk·tō′rĭ·ŭm; 181), n. [NL.] A place for performance of vivisections.

viv′i·sep′ul·ture (vĭv′ĭ·sĕp′ŭl·tûr; -sē·pŭl′tûr), n. [L. vivus alive + E. sepulture.] Act or practice of burying alive.

N O P Q R S T U V

‖vi′vo (vī′vō), ablative of Latin vivus, alive; — used in the phrase in vivo (which see).

‖vi′vo (vē′vō), adj. [It., alive, lively.] Music. = VIVACE. — ‖ vi′va·men′te (vē′vä·mĕn′tā), adv.

vi·vre′ (vē·vrä′), n. [F. vivré.] Her. A barrulet or cotise dancetté. Obs.

‖vi′vres (vē′vr′; Eng. vē′vĕrz), n. pl. [F.] Foodstuff; provisions. Cf. VIVERS.

‖vix (vĭks), adv. [L.] Scarcely.

vix′en (vĭk′s'n), n. [Dial. form of fixen, fr. AS. fyxen, fem. of fox. See FOX.] 1. A she-fox.

2. A shrewish, ill-tempered person; — formerly used of either sex, now only of a woman.

She was a vixen when she went to school. Shak.

Syn. — Shrew, termagant, scold.

vix′en, adj. Vixenish.

vix′en·ish, adj. Of or pertaining to a vixen; resembling a vixen; ill-tempered; shrewish. — vix′en·ish·ly, adv. — vix′en·ish·ness, n.

vix′en·ly, adj. Like a vixen; vixenish. — vix′en·ly, adv.

viz. (usually read "namely"). Abbrev. of VIDELICET.

viz′ard (vĭz′ĕrd), n. [See VISOR.] Mask; visor.

To mislead and betray them under the vizard of law. Milton.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

vizard-faced vizard maker vizardmonger vizard-bid vizard making vizard-wearing, adj.

viz′ard, v. t.; VIZ′ARD·ED; VIZ′ARD·ING. To visor; mask.

viz′ard·ed, adj. Wearing a vizard; masked.

vizard mask. Archaic. a A mask for the face. b A person wearing such a mask; specif., a prostitute.

vi·zier′ (vĭ·zēr′; vĭz′yĕr; -ĭ·ĕr; 277), n. Also vi·zir′ (vĭ·zēr′). [Turk. vezīr, fr. Ar. wazīr, prop., a bearer of burdens, porter, fr. wazara to bear a burden; cf. F. vizir, visir. Cf. ALGUAZIL.] A high executive officer of various Mohammedan countries, esp. of the former Turkish empire; a minister or councilor of state. Cf. GRAND VIZIER.

vi·zier′ate (-āt), n. Also vi·zir′ate. [Cf. F. vizirat.] The office, dignity, or authority of a vizier.

‖vi·zier′-a·zem′, vi·zir′-a·zem′ (vĭ·zēr′ä·zĕm′), n. [Turk. vezīr-i a'zam greatest vizier.] A grand vizier.

vi·zier′i·al (vĭ·zēr′ĭ·ăl), vi·zir′i·al, adj. [Cf. F. vizirial.] Of, pertaining to, or issued by, a vizier.

vl-. For various forms beginning vl-, see forms in FL- or -UL-.

Vlach (vläk), n. [Bulg. & Serb. (OSlav. Vlachŭ). See WALACHIAN.] One of a people in southeastern Europe, of Latin speech and of Roman provincial origin (Dacia and Moesia), but greatly influenced by the surrounding Slavs; a Walachian. See RUMANIAN, n.; WALACHIAN, n. — Vlach, adj.

vlei (flā; flĭ), n. [D., dial. fr. D. vallei valley. See VALLEY.] 1. Also vley. Low-lying land where water collects in the wet season; a temporary lake. S. Africa.

2. (pron. vlī; flī). a Local, U. S. A marsh or swamp b N. Y. State. A creek.

Vlem′inckx′ so·lu′tion (vlĕm′ĭngks). [After J. F. Vleminckx (1800–76), Belgian physician.] Pharm. Essentially a solution of calcium sulphide prepared by dissolving a mixture of slaked lime and sublimed sulphur in water. It is applied externally in the treatment of certain skin diseases.

vm-, vn-. For forms beginning vm- or vn-, see forms in UM-, UN-.

V neck. A V-shaped neck, as of a dress. — V′-necked′, adj Vo′and·ze′ia (vō′ănd·zē′yä), n. [NL., fr. Malagasy voandzou.] Bot. A genus of tropical creeping herbs (family Fabaceae) with trifoliolate leaves and small axillary flowers, and having as the only known species V. subterranea, the Bambara groundnut.

voar (vōr), n. [Cf. ON. vār.] Spring (of the year). Scot. & Ir.

vo′a van′ga (vō′ä văng′gä). [Malagasy.] A tree (Vangueria madagascariensis) of Madagascar; also, its edible drupaceous fruit.

vo′ca·ble (vō′kȧ·b'l), n. [F., fr. L. vocabulum an appellation, designation, name, fr. vocare to call. See VOICE.] A word; term; name; specif., a word regarded as composed of certain sounds or letters, without regard to its meaning; also, an individual sound.

Swamped . . . in a tide of ingenious vocables. Carlyle.

vo′ca·ble, adj. That may be voiced or uttered aloud; also, capable of utterance. — vo′ca·bil′i·ty (-bĭl′ĭ·tĭ), n. — vo′ca·bly, adv.

vo·cab′u·lar (vō·kăb′ū·lĕr), adj. Of or relating to words or phraseology; verbal.

vo·cab′u·lar′i·an (-lâr′ĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to a, or one's, vocabulary; concerned, esp. unduly concerned, with words. — vo·cab′u·lar′i·an, n.

vo·cab′u·lar′ied (vō·kăb′ū·lĕr′ĭd or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭd), adj. Having a vocabulary; esp., having an exceptionally large vocabulary.

vo·cab′u·lar′y (-ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [ML. vocabularium, vocabularius. See VOCABLE.] 1. A list or collection of words or, often, of words and phrases, usually alphabetically arranged and explained or defined; a dictionary or lexicon, either of a whole language, or of a work or an author, a branch of science, or the like; a wordbook.

2. A sum or stock of words employed by a language, people, class, or individual, or in a field of knowledge or study, or the like; scope of language; as, his limited vocabulary; the vocabulary of science.

Syn. — See DICTION.

vo·cab′u·lar′y, adj. Vocabular.

vocabulary entry. An entry of a word or term in a vocabulary. In dictionary usage in general, the term vocabulary entry is applied to any term (word or entry) listed, alphabetically or as part of a related or associated group of terms, for the purpose of definition or identification. Such terms are printed usually in type that is readily distinguishable from that of the definitions or explanations. They comprise: terms accompanied by definitions; variants of such terms; run-in entries, such as particularizing terms most readily defined or explained within the definition of a more general term; derivatives run on to the entries of defined terms; combinations or phrases involving defined terms but not requiring separate definition; and various inflectional forms.

vocabulary test. Psychol. A sampling test for acquaintance with words, often used as part of an intelligence test.

vo·cab′u·la′tion (vō·kăb′ū·lā′shŭn), n. Selection or use of words. Rare.

vo·cab′u·list (vō·kăb′ū·lĭst), n. [Cf. F. vocabuliste.] 1. The writer or maker of a vocabulary; a lexicographer.

2. A lexicon; vocabulary. Obs.

vo′cal (vō′kăl), adj. [L. vocalis, fr. vox, vocis, voice. See VOICE; cf. VOWEL.] 1. Of or pertaining to the voice or speech; having voice; endowed with utterance; full of voice, or voices; as, vocal expression.

To hill or valley, fountain, or fresh shade.
Made vocal by my song. Milton.

2. Uttered or modulated by the voice; voiced: also, oral, whether voiced or voiceless; as, vocal melody; vocal prayer (opp. to mental prayer). "Vocal worship." Milton.

3. Expressing, or given to expressing, oneself freely and readily in speech; hence, expressing oneself insistently; clamorous.

4. Figuratively, giving expression as if by means of the voice or speech; eloquent; as, vocal sorrows.

5. Anat. & Med. Concerned with the production of the voice; as, the vocal cords.

6. Music. Made or rendered by, or composed or arranged for, the human voice, with or without musical accompaniment; as, vocal music, parts; a vocal score. Cf. INSTRUMENTAL, adj., 2.

7. Phonet. a Consisting of, or characterized by, voice, or tone produced in the larynx; voiced; sonant; intonated. Cf. VOICE, v. t., 4. b Of or pertaining to a vowel; having the character of a vowel; vowel.

— vo′cal·ly, adv. — vo′cal·ness, n.

vo′cal (vō′kăl), n. [See VOCAL, adj.] A vocal sound.

vocal bands. = VOCAL CORDS.

vocal cavities. The cavities formed by the mouth and upper part of the throat, and serving to aid in imparting a quality of tone to vocal utterance.

vocal chink. The glottis.

vocal cords. Anat. Either of two pairs of folds of mucous membrane which project into the cavity of the larynx. Their free edges are toward the middle line and extend dorsoventrally. The upper pair (superior, or false*, vocal cords or ventricular folds) are thick and are not directly concerned in the production of voice. The lower pair (inferior, or true, *vocal cords) enclose the conus elasticus, and extend from the inside surface of the thyroid cartilage near the median line to the vocal processes of the arytenoid cartilages. The passage of the breath between the edges of these folds when drawn tense and approximated together produces the voice. See Pron., §§ 13–16, 24–25.

vocal folds. Anat. The true vocal cords.

vocal fremitus. Med. The perceptible vibration of the chest wall produced by transmission of the sonorous vibrations in vocalization. vo·cal′ic (vō·kăl′ĭk), adj. [See VOCAL, n. & adj.] Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, vowel sounds; also, containing, esp. rich in, vowel sounds.

The vocalic nature of r. J. Peile.

The Gaelic language being uncommonly vocalic. Scott.

vo·ca′li·on (vō·kā′lĭ·ŏn), n. [vocal + -ion as in accordion.] Music. A developed kind of harmonium, with broad reeds, an organlike tone, and sometimes, with two or three manuals and pedals.

vo′cal·ise (vō′kăl·īz). Var. of VOCALIZE. — vo′cal·i·sa′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′-), n.

vo′ca′lise′ (vō′kȧ′lēz′), n. [F., fr. vocaliser to vocalize. See VOCAL.] Music. An exercise for singers, commonly using vowels or Italian syllables, and designed to develop vocal beauty or agility.

vo′cal·ism (vō′kăl·Ĭz′m), n. 1. Exercise of the vocal organs in song or speech; vocalization.

2. Singing, esp. with regard to its technique or art.

3. Phonet. a A vocalic sound. b A system of vowels.

The subject of my book is the vocalism and consonantism of Old English, or Anglo-Saxon. A. L. Mayhew.

vo′cal·ist (-ĭst), n. [Cf. F. vocaliste.] A singer, or vocal musician; — distinguished from instrumentalist. — vo′cal·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj.

vo′cal·i·ty (vō·kăl′ĭ·tĭ), n. [Cf. L. vocalitas euphony.]

1. Possession or exercise of, or as of, vocal powers.

2. Quality or state of being vocal; specif., Phonet., the state or quality of being voiced, vocal, or vocalic; vowel sound or sounds.

vo′cal·i·za′tion (vō′kăl·ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′shŭn), n. Act of vocalizing, or state of being vocalized.

vo′cal·ize (vō′kăl·īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ′ING (-īz′ĭng). Transitive: 1. To form into voice; sometimes, specif., to sing.

2. To change into, or use as, a vowel; as, to vocalize w.

3. To furnish with vowels or vowel points, as in Arabic.

4. To give utterance or expression to; to provide with the means of utterance or expression.

5. Phonet. To make vocal, or sonant; to voice; to change from voiceless to voiced. Cf. VOICE, v. t., 4.

—, Intransitive: 1. To utter vocal sounds, as in singing.

2. Music. To sing; specif., to practice singing upon vowel sounds.

vo′cal·iz′er (vō′kăl·īz′ĕr), n. One who vocalizes.

vocal lips. = VOCAL CORDS.

vocal Memnon. See MEMNON, n., 2.

vocal processes. See VOCAL CORDS.

vocal resonance. Med. The sound transmitted to the ear when auscultation is made while the patient is speaking.

vocal sac. One of a pair of resonating sacs in the mouth of certain frogs, or the unpaired sac in the true toads of the genus Bufo.

vocal score. See SCORE, n., 14.

vo′cate (vō′kāt), v. t. [L. vocatus, past part. of vocare to call.] To summon. Rare.

vo·ca′tion (vō·kā′shŭn), n. [L. vocatio a bidding, a calling, invitation, fr. vocare to call; cf. F. vocation. See VOCAL.] 1. A calling; a summons; a call; specif.: a Obs. Convocation, as of an assembly. b A calling to a particular state, business, or profession.

Not having the vocation of poverty to scribble. Dryden.

2. Regular or appropriate employment; calling; occupation; profession; as, to change one's vocation.

3. The members of a particular calling or profession, collectively. Rare.

4. Theol. a A calling to the service of God in a particular station or state of life, esp. in the priesthood or religious life, as shown by one's fitness, natural inclinations, and, often, by conviction of a Divine invitation. b The station or state of life to which one receives such a calling. c An official invitation to a particular ecclesiastical office, as a pastorate.

Syn. — VOCATION, AVOCATION, HOBBY. VOCATION denotes one's regular calling or profession; an AVOCATION is something which calls one away from one's ordinary pursuits; the word commonly suggests a subsidiary or minor occupation, and its employment in the sense of vocation is contrary to good usage; as, "men not contented with their own vocations" (Hooker); "as if his whole vocation were endless imitation" (Wordsworth); "interrupted eternally with these petty avocations" (Scott); "A comparatively small part of the book has to do with the work for which the writer will be remembered. Much of it is a record rather of his avocations and secondary enthusiasms" (Atlantic Monthly). A HOBBY is a favorite avocation; the word often connotes a mildly indulgent attitude towards what is regarded as extreme; as, "Yet John was not without his hobby. The fiddle relieved his vacant hours" (Lamb); to ride one's hobby too hard. See OCCUPATION.

vo·ca′tion·al (vō·kā′shŭn·ăl; -ĭ), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or concerned with, vocation; also, pursued as a vocation.

2. Educ. Guiding in the choice or training for the pursuit of a vocation; also, concerned with or skilled in such guidance or training.

☞ PHRASES are:

vocational advisor vocational education vocational school vocational council vocational expert vocational teacher vocational counselor vocational guidance vocational training vocational director vocational psychology vocational work

— vo·ca′tion·al·ly, adv.

vo·ca′tion·al·ism (-Ĭz′m), n. Emphasis on vocational training in education.

vo·ca′tion·al·ize (vō·kā′shŭn·ăl·īz), v. t. To render vocational. — vo·ca′tion·al·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′-), n.

vocation case. Gram. The vocative case. Obs.

voc′a·tive (vŏk′ȧ·tĭv), adj. [F. or L.; F. vocatif, fr. L. vocativus, fr. vocare to call.] Of or pertaining to calling; used in calling; specif., Gram., designating, or pertaining to, the case denoting that which is addressed (Domine, O Lord); also, designating the relation of object of address, or words other than nouns standing in that relation (Be assured, my beloved, that I will come). Cf. NOMINATIVE OF ADDRESS. — voc′a·tive·ly, adv.

voc′a·tive, n. Gram. The vocative case, or a word in that case. Also, the relation of object of address denoted by that case.

‖vo′ce (vō′chā), n.; pl. VOCI (-chē). [It.] Voice; also, voice part. Cf. SOTTO VOCE.

‖vo′ce di pet′to (dē pĕt′tō). [It.] Chest voice or tone.

‖vo′ce di tes′ta (tĕs′tä). [It.] Head voice or tone.

‖vo′ce pie′na (pyā′nä). [It.] See PIENO.

‖vo′ce ve·la′ta (vā·lā′tä). [It.] See 1st VEIL, 8.

Vo·chy′si·a (vō·kĭsh′ĭ·ȧ; -kĭs′ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Galibi vochy, name of one species.] Bot. A genus of tropical American trees and shrubs typifying the family Vochysiaceae. They have handsome fragrant flowers with a single stamen; the wood is valuable. See COPAIYÉ WOOD.

Vo·chy′si·a′ce·ae (-ā′sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See VOCHY.] Bot. A family of tropical American trees and shrubs (order Geraniales), having large irregular flowers, often with a single petal or stamen, and a 3-angled capsular fruit. Many species are resinous. There are 7 genera and about 130 species. — vo·chy′si·a′ceous (-shŭs), adj.

vo′ci·cul′tur·al (vō′sĭ·kŭl′tûr·ăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or used in, voice training.

vo·cif′er·ant (vō·sĭf′ĕr·ănt), adj. [L. vociferans, pres. part.] Crying out noisily; clamorous. — vo·cif′er·ance (-ăns), n.

vo·cif′er·ant, n. One who is vociferant.

vo·cif′er·ate (-āt), v. i.; -AT′ED (-āt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT′ING (-āt′ĭng). [L. vociferatus, past part. of vociferari to vociferate, fr. vox, vocis, voice + a derivative of ferre to bear. See VOICE; BEAR to carry.] To cry out loudly or violently; to bawl; clamor. — v. t. To utter with a loud voice; to shout out.

An atmosphere of shrieks and moans; prayers vociferated like blasphemies and whispered curses. J. Conrad.

vo·cif′er·a′tion (-ā′shŭn), n. [L. vociferatio; cf. F. vocifération.] Act of vociferating; outcry; clamor.

vo·cif′er·a′tive (vō·sĭf′ĕr·ā′tĭv), adj. Vociferous. Rare.

vo·cif′er·a′tor (vō·sĭf′ĕr·ā′tĕr), n. One who vociferates.

vo·cif′er·ize (-īz), v. t. & i. To vociferate. Rare vo·cif′er·os′i·ty (-ŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n. Vociferousness.

vo·cif′er·ous (vō·sĭf′ĕr·ŭs), adj. [Cf. F. vocifère.] Making a loud outcry; clamorous; noisy; as, vociferous heralds. — vo·cif′er·ous·ly, adv. — vo·cif′er·ous·ness, n.

Syn. — Bawling, brawling, turbulent. — VOCIFEROUS, CLAMOROUS, OBSTREPEROUS, BLATANT. VOCIFEROUS implies a loud outcry; CLAMOROUS suggests urgent or persistent vociferousness; OBSTREPEROUS commonly adds the implication of turbulence or unruliness; that is BLATANT which is offensively loud or clamorous; as, "watermen, fishwomen, oysterwomen, and . . . all the vociferous inhabitants of both shores" (Fielding); "I will be . . . more clamorous than a parrot against rain" (Shak.); "the mingled roar of obstreperous merriment" (Johnson); "They were heretics of the blatant sort, loud-mouthed and shallow-minded" (Expositor). Cf. TALKATIVE.

Ant. — Silent, dumb; quiet, calm, tranquil, sedate, subdued.

vo·cif′i·ca′tion (vō·sĭf′ĭ·kā′shŭn), n. [L. vox, vocis, voice + -fication.] Voicing. Rare.

vo′ci·mo′tor (vō′sĭ·mō′tĕr), adj. [L. vox, vocis, voice + motor.] Of, pert. to, or designating, speech movements voc′u·lar (vŏk′ū·lĕr), adj. a Of or pertaining to a vocule. b Rare. Vocal. c Rare. Vocalic.

voc′ule (vŏk′ūl), n. [L. vocula, dim. of vox, vocis, voice.] Phonet. The off-glide of certain consonants, as of m, g. Rush.

Vod (vŏd), n. sing. & pl. One of a division of the Baltic Finns.

vod′ka (vŏd′kȧ), n. [Russ., lit., little water. See WATER.] A Russian distilled alcoholic liquor commonly made from rye, sometimes from potatoes, and rarely from barley. Sometimes, in Russia, any kind of whisky, brandy, etc.

voe (vō), n. [Cf. ON. vāgr.] An inlet, bay, or creek. Orkney & Shetland Is.

‖voet′gang′er (fōōt′gäng′ĕr), n. [D., lit., walker, fr. voet foot + gang gait, walk.] One of the immature wingless young of a South African species of locusts (Locustana pardalina) which unite in vast swarms and move about, of necessity on foot, devastating the country as they go.

Vo·ē′tian (vō·ē′shŭn), adj. Eccl. Hist. Of or pertaining to Gysbertus Voëtius (1588–1676), professor of theology at Utrecht, a Calvinistic opponent of Arminianism, Cocceianism, and Cartesianism. — n. A follower of Voëtius.

‖voet′sak (fōōt′săk), interj. [S. Afr. D. voetsek, fr. D. voort zeg ik away! I say.] Be off! get out! S. Africa.

vog (vŏg), n.; pl. VOGER (-ĕr). [Dan. & Nor.] See WEIGHT, Table.

vo′ge·site (vō′gē·sīt), n. [G. vogesit, fr. Vogesen the Vosges mountains.] Petrog. A melanocratic lamprophyric dike rock, composed of orthoclase and hornblende and (or) augite.

‖vi′vit post fu′ne·ra vir′tus. [L.] Worth survives death.

‖vi′vum va′di·um. [ML.] Law. = LIVING PLEDGE.

vix′en·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

viz′a·ment (vĭz′ȧ·mĕnt). Obs. corrupt. of ADVISEMENT. Shak.

viz′ard·less, adj. See -LESS.

viz′ard·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

viz′-a-viz′, † VIS-À-VIS.

viz·ca′cha. Var. of VISCACHA.

vi·zier′craft′, vi·zir′craft′, n. See -CRAFT.

vi·zier′ship, vi·zir′ship, n. See -SHIP.

viz·na′ga. Var. of BISNAGA.

viz′no·my. Var. of VISNOMY.

viz′or, viz′or·less, etc. Vars. of VISOR, etc.

viz′y, viz′zy. Vars. of VISIE, n. & v.

vlaie. = VLEI.

vlo′ka. Var. of WLOKA (see MEASURE, Table.

vly. Var. of VLEI.

vo′cal·ler, n. = VOCALIST. Rare.

voc′a·tiv Vocative. Ref. Sp.

voce. + VOICE.

voet (fōōt), n.; pl. VOETEN (-ĕn). [D. See FOOT.] See MEASURE, Table.

voe·vo′da. Var. of VOIVODE.

vo'gie (vō'gĭ; vŏg'ĭ), adj. Proud; vain; also, elated; merry. Scot.

vo'glite (vō'glīt), n. [After J. F. Vogl, Ger. mineralogist.] A green hydrous carbonate of uranium, calcium, and copper.

‖Vogt (fōkt), n. [G., fr. ML. vocatus. See ADVOCATE.] In medieval Germany and Switzerland, an advocate or steward, esp. a judicial officer under a bishop.

vogue (vōg), n. [F. vogue a rowing, vogue, fashion, fr. voguer to row, fr. It. vogare to row, to sail, of uncert. origin.] 1. With the, the way or fashion of people at any period; temporary mode, custom, or practice, having general acceptance and commendation; as, to carry or bear the vogue.

These are the men that now have the vogue. Howell.

2. Popular repute, acceptation, or favor; popularity; as, to acquire vogue; also, a period of popularity; as, the custom had a great vogue; a short-lived vogue.

Writers whom you suppose in vogue. W. Irving.

3. That which is in fashion at a particular time; as, checks and stripes were the vogue that season.

4. Obs. a Approval or favor of a particular group, or the like. b Common report or opinion; rumor. Swift. c The general trend or current; also, general condition.

Syn. — See FASHION.

— of vogue. Fashionable; in vogue.

vogue, adj. In vogue; fashionable; as, a vogue word.

vogue, v. t. To give repute or vogue to.

Vo'gul (vō'gōōl), n. One of a Finno-Ugrian tribe of the northern Ural mountains, short of stature and often with blond traits. They are hunters and herdsmen. Also, their language or any dialect of it. — adj. Designating, or pertaining to, a group of Ugric languages. See FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES, Table.

voice (vois), n. [ME. voice, vois, voys, fr. OF. vois, voiz (F. voix), fr. L. vox, vocis; akin to L. vocare to call, Gr. epos a word, Skr. vakti he says, speaks, vāc speech, voice, sound, G. erwähnen to mention. Cf. ADVOCATE, ADVOWSON, AVOUCH, CONVOKE, EPIC, EQUIVOCATE, INVOKE, PROVOKE, REVOKE, VOCAL, VOCATION, VOUCH, VOWEL.] 1. Sound uttered by living beings, esp. by human beings in speech or song, crying, shouting, etc.; sound thus uttered considered as possessing some special quality or character; as, the human voice; a pleasant or a harsh voice; a manly voice. Voice is possessed by all the animals in which the lungs and larynx (or syrinx in the case of birds) exist, but is disting. from mechanical noises, as stridulation, etc., sometimes called voice. Fishes are dumb, as far as true vocal utterance is concerned, though they sometimes emit various noises from their throats (see DRUMFISH; GRUNT, n., 3; etc.). The general name for the voice of animals is cry, and such cries are given many distinctive names, according to their quality; as, bark, bleat, bray, gobble, squeal, trumpet, etc. In animals other than man, the voice reaches its highest development in certain birds, as the singing birds, the parrot, raven, etc.

Her voice was ever soft, Gentle, and low; an excellent thing in woman. Shak.

2. The faculty or power of utterance; speech; utterance; as, anger gave him voice; also, the organic means for producing sound.

3. Any sound regarded as, or likened to, vocal utterance.

The floods have lifted their voice. Ps. xciii. 3.

4. Anything likened to human speech as an instrument or medium of expression; also, signification of feeling or opinion through a medium conceived of as like human speech; as, the voice of the people; the voice of nature.

My voice is in my sword. Shak.
I, now the voice of the recorded law, Pronounce a sentence on your brother's life. Shak.

5. Wish, choice, or opinion, more or less formally expressed; as, his voice was for war; also, the right to express a wish, choice, or opinion; suffrage; vote; as, to have no voice in the matter.

6. Unverified report; rumor; also, fame; reputation. Obs.

Whereof the common voice arose. Gower.

7. One who speaks; a speaker. Rare. Tennyson.

8. Gram. Distinction of form in a verb, or a particular system of verbal inflections, to indicate the relation of the subject of the verb to the action which the verb expresses (amo, I love; amor, I am loved); also, the relation of acting or acted upon so indicated. The Latin verb has two voices, the active and the passive; the Greek verb has three voices, active, middle, and passive, the two latter having identical forms in some tenses. English verbs are inflected only for the active, the passive being wholly made up of verb phrases.

9. Music. a Musical sound produced by the vocal cords and resonated by the various cavities of head and throat; tones delivered in singing. Voice in singing differs chiefly from voice in speaking in the greater prolongation of vowel sounds on definite pitches. The compass of tones sung by the human voice is about four octaves, C–c''' (see 4th PITCH, 19 a, Illust.), but an individual voice usually has a compass of about two octaves. Men's voices are divided into tenor, baritone, and bass; women's voices into soprano, mezzo-soprano, and contralto. Children's voices until puberty correspond with the woman's soprano and mezzo-soprano. The man's voice is, roughly, an octave lower than the woman's. See TENOR; BARITONE; CONTRALTO; SOPRANO; MEZZO-SOPRANO; 2d REGISTER, 12 a. b The power to produce musical tones; the ability to sing; as, to have a voice; an undeveloped voice. c The vocal organs regarded as the instrument or medium of tone production; as, to train, build, or place, the voice. d A singer; one singing; as, the great voices of an age; a chorus of 100 voices. e Also voice part. One of the parts in a vocal or instrumental composition; as the bass voice of a fugue. See PART, n., 11 a. f Condition of the vocal organs with respect to the production of sound, esp. musical tones; as, to be in good voice. g The use of the voice, as in singing; as, to study voice; classes in voice.

10. Phonet. Vocal sound of the kind heard in the vowels and in such consonants as l, v, n; sonant or intonated utterance; tone; — distinguished from mere breath sound as heard in f, s, sh, etc., and also from whisper. See BREATH, 10; WHISPER. Voice, in this latter sense, is the principal sound heard in speech, being made articulate chiefly by speech organs above the glottis. It is produced by periodic vibrations of the vocal cords, not like the strings of a stringed instrument, but as a pair of membranous lips which, being continually forced apart by the expired breath, and alternately brought together again by their own elasticity and muscular tension, break the breath current into a series of puffs, or pulses, sufficiently rapid to cause the sensation of tone. The intensity of such a tone, which gives the sensation of loudness, depends jointly on the amplitude and the frequency of the separate pulses, and these two are determined by the pressure of the expired air together with the tension and shape of the vocal cords. The pitch of the tone depends upon the rapidity of the pulses, or frequency of vibration. Cf. 4th PITCH, 19. Its quality, or timbre, depends chiefly on the number and character of the partials, or overtones, combined with the fundamental tone. See TONE, n., 11 a; Pron., §§ 13–16, 25, 29, 41.

Syn. — Articulation, expression, tongue; wish, choice, opinion.

— in voice. Having the voice in good condition, as for singing. — with one voice. Unanimously. Acts xix. 34.

voice (vois), v. t. VOICED (voist); VOIC'ING (vois'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To give utterance or expression to; to utter; also, to announce; divulge; rumor; as, to voice the sentiments of the nation.

It was voiced that the king purposed to put to death Edward Plantagenet. Bacon.

2. To appoint by or as by voting; to elect. Obs. Shak.

3. Music. a To fit for producing the proper sounds; to regulate the tone of; as, to voice the pipes of an organ. b To write the voice parts of.

4. Phonet. To utter with sonant or vocal tone, produced by vibration of the vocal cords; to vocalize; to pronounce with voice; as, the vowels and such consonants as b, v, j, are voiced, in contrast with p, f, ch; to change from voiceless to sonant; as, the English have voiced the ch in Greenwich (-ĭj). See VOICE, n., 10; Pron., §§ 24–25.

——, Intransitive: To speak; esp., to give one's opinion or vote. Rare.

voice box. Phonet. The larynx.

voiced (voist), adj. 1. a Furnished with a voice. b Expressed by the voice.

2. Phonet. Uttered with voice. See VOICE, v. t., 4; Pron., §§ 24, 25, 41.

-voiced (-voist). A combining form of voiced, as in:

big-voiced	feeble-voiced	sad-voiced clarion-voiced	gentle-voiced	shrill-voiced clear-voiced	harsh-voiced	silver-voiced double-voiced	hollow-voiced	soft-voiced dreamy-voiced	loud-voiced	sweet-voiced dull-voiced	low-voiced	trumpet-voiced empty-voiced	rough-voiced	weak-voiced faint-voiced voiced breath. Phonet. Breath that has set the vocal cords in vibration; breath accompanied with voice.

voice'ful (vois'fōōl; -f'l), adj. Having a voice or vocal quality; having a loud voice or many voices; vocal sounding.

Beheld the Iliad and the Odyssey Rise to the swelling of the voiceful sea. Coleridge.

— voice'ful·ness, n.

voice glide. Phonet. See GLIDE, n., 8 a.

voice glottis. Phonet. The opening between the vocal cords proper, as distinguished from that between the adjusting cartilages, called cartilage (or whisper) glottis. See Pron., § 16.

voice key. Psychol. An electric key arranged to be opened or closed by speaking against it, used for measuring speech reaction time.

voice leading. Music. The progression of the individual parts or voices in a vocal or instrumental composition.

voice'less, adj. 1. Having no voice, utterance, or vote; not uttered or expressed; silent; mute; dumb.

A most voiceless thought. Byron.

2. Phonet. Sounded without voice or whisper; not voiced; as, a voiceless consonant, a voiceless glide; surd. See Pron., §§ 24, 25, 41; cf. VOICE, v. t., 4.

— voice'less·ly, adv. — voice'less·ness, n.

voice part. Music. See VOICE, n., 9 e.

voice placing. Music. The adjustment and use of the vocal apparatus, including the resonance cavities, in such fashion as to produce effective tone. Cf. PLACE, v. t., 7.

voic'er (vois'ĕr), n. One who voices; specif., Music, one who voices organ pipes.

voice stop. Phonet. A voiced stop.

voice tube or pipe. A speaking tube.

voic'ing (vois'ĭng), n. Act of one who voices; specif., Music, regulation of the tone of organ pipes to secure proper power, pitch, and quality; also, the resultant tone of such regulation.

void (void), adj. [ME. void, voide, fr. OF. voit, voide, dial. form of vuit, vuide (F. vide), fr. (assumed) VL. vocitus, fr. vocitare to empty, fr. vocuus empty, for L. vacuus; cf. L. vocare, vocivus, vocatio, beside classical vacare, vacivus, vacatio. See VACANT; cf. AVOID, DEVOID.] 1. Containing nothing; empty; vacant.

The earth was without form, and void. Gen. i. 2.

2. Having no incumbent, tenant, holder, or the like; unoccupied; vacant; — said of offices, etc. See REDD, adj.

3. Unoccupied with business, work, or the like; unemployed; idle; leisure; as, void hours. Now Rare.

4. Of a person, empty-headed; foolish. Obs.

5. Being without; destitute; wanting; devoid; as, void of learning, or of common sense; also, free (from).

A conscience void of offense toward God. Acts xxiv. 16.

6. Not producing any effect; ineffectual; vain; useless.

I will make void the counsel of Judah. Jer. xix. 7.

7. Law. a Properly, of no legal force or effect (and hence incapable of confirmation or ratification); null. b Improperly, voidable. Cf. VOIDABLE, 2.

Syn. — See DEVOID. Ant. — See FULL.

— void'ly, adv. — void'ness, n.

void, n. 1. That which is void; an empty or unfilled space; an opening; a vacuum; specif., with the, the unfilled expanse of space.

2. Quality of being void; emptiness.

3. Void state or condition; want; lack.

4. Figuratively, a feeling of want or emptiness, as because of an unsatisfied desire; as, an aching void.

5. Arch. Any opening or unfilled space, as distinguished from a solid.

6. Skat. A card having no counting value. The sevens, eights, and nines are voids.

void, v.; VOID'ED; VOID'ING. [OF. voider, voidier, vuidier (F. vider). See AVOID, VOID, adj.] Transitive: 1. To make or leave void, vacant, or empty; to clear; also, to vacate; leave; as, to void a table. "Void anon her place." Chaucer.

2. To throw or send out; to evacuate; to emit; to discharge; as, to void excrements.

3. To send, drive, or chase, away; to dismiss; to get rid of; to do away with; to remove; scatter; destroy. Obs.

4. a To render void; to make to be of no validity or effect; to vacate; annul; nullify. "They had voided the obligation of the oath." Bp. Burnet. b Obs. To refute.

5. To avoid; shun. Archaic.

The vengeance of this victor to void. Wars of Alexander.

——, Intrans.: 1. To go away or out; to depart. Archaic.

2. To have an evacuation; also, to be evacuated. Rare.

3. To become void or vacant. Obs.

void (void), n. A voidee. Obs. exc. Hist void'a·ble (void'ȧ·b'l), adj. 1. Capable of being voided.

2. Specif.: Law. Capable of being avoided, or of being adjudged void, invalid, and of no force; capable of being either avoided or confirmed. A voidable contract may be ratified and confirmed; to render it null, it must be avoided.

— void'a·ble·ness, n.

void'ance (-ăns), n. [AF. voidaunce (OF. voidance, vuidance, separation, departure, emptying).] 1. Act of voiding, or of emptying, ejecting, evacuating, casting away, or removing.

2. Eccl. Of a benefice, the condition of being without an incumbent.

3. Obs. a Deliverance. b Evasion; subterfuge.

void'ed, adj. a Made void, empty, vacant, invalid, etc. b Having a void or opening; specif., Her., having the inner part cut away, or left vacant, a narrow border being left at the sides, the tincture of the field being seen in the vacant space; — said of a charge. c Discharged by evacuation.

Cross Voided.

void'ee (void'ē), n. [OF. voidé (e), past part. of voider. See VOID, v.] A light repast at parting, as from table or for the night. Obs. exc. Hist.

void end. Bowls. An end in which neither side scores a cast.

void'er (void'ĕr), n. [Cf. OF. voideor, vuideor.] 1. One who or that which voids, or empties, vacates, or annuls.

2. Now Dial. a A tray or basket for that which is voided, or cleared away, esp. one for receiving or carrying off the remains of a meal; sometimes, a basket for household articles, as clothes, etc. b A servant whose business is to void, or clear away, a table after a meal.

3. That by which something is avoided; hence: a Obs. A screen or arbor. b Mediæval Armor. A contrivance, commonly of chain mail, for covering any part of the body not protected by the plate armor.

void'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of VOID. Specif.: n.

1. Act of one who voids.

2. That which is voided; specif.: chiefly pl. a Excrement. b Scraps of food from a table.

voiding knife. A knife used in gathering fragments of food to put them into a voider. Obs.

voiding lobby. A lobby for receiving those who are voided, or sent out, from within; anteroom. Obs.

void of course. Astrol. Of a planet, separated from another planet in a sign, and not making other applications either by conjunction or aspect while in the same sign.

void space. Physics. A vacuum.

‖voi'là' (vwȧ'lȧ'). [F.] Literally, see there; behold! there! — often equivalent to an emphatic demonstrative pronoun.

‖voi'là' tout' (tōō'). [F.] That's all.

voile (voil; F. vwȧl), n. [F., a veil. See VEIL.] A thin dress material of silk, cotton, or wool, similar to etamine.

‖voir dire (vwȧr dēr). [OF., to say the truth, fr. L. verus true + dicere to say. See VERDICT.] Law. An oath administered, to a witness, usually before being sworn in chief, requiring him to speak the truth, or make true answers, in reference to matters inquired of to ascertain whether he is rendered incompetent to give evidence by reason of having an interest in the cause. It is sometimes used in the United States of the oath administered to persons drawn as jurors to make true answer to questions as to their qualification to serve.

voi'si·nage (voi'sĭ·nĭj), n. [F.] Neighborhood. Obs.

‖voi'ture' (vwȧ'tür'), n. [F., fr. L. vectura a carrying, conveying. See VETTURA.] A carriage.

voi'tu'rette' (vwȧ'tü'rĕt'), n. [voiture + -ette.] A small carriage; by extension, a small motor vehicle.

‖voi'tu'rier' ((vwȧ'tü'ryā'), n. [F.] One who lets carriages; also, a carrier; driver.

voi'vode (voi'vōd), n. Also voi'vod. [Russ. voevoda, Pol. woiewoda, prop., a leader of an army, a leader in war.] Orig., the title of a military commander in various Slavonic countries; later, the title of governors of towns or provinces. It was assumed for a time by the rulers or princes of Moldavia and Walachia, later called hospodars, and has been given to some inferior Turkish administrative officers. — voi'vode·ship, voi'vod·ship, n.

voix cé'leste' (vwȧ sȧ'lĕst'). [F. voix céleste.] Organ Building. A labial stop of 8-foot pitch with a soft tremulous tone. The characteristic tone is produced either by the stop being used with another stop of slightly different pitch or by its being composed of two or three ranks of pipes tuned sharp or flat with each other.

vol (vŏl), n. [F., flight.] Her. A charge consisting of two wings displayed and conjoined.

vol (vŏl), n. The iron block into which fits the shoe of a stamp in a stamp battery.

‖vo'la (vō'lȧ), n. [L.] Anat. The palm of the hand or sole of the foot.

vol'a·ble (vŏl'ȧ·b'l), adj. [Cf. OF. volable flying, winged, fr. L. volare to fly.] Nimble-witted; — an affected word. Shak.

vo·la'cious (vō·lā'shŭs), adj. [L. volare to fly.] Apt or fit to fly. Obs.

‖vo'la·dor' (vō'lȧ·thôr'; 112), n. [Sp.] a Any of various flying fishes, as Cypselurus californicus of California, and Exocoetus mesogaster and C. bahaiensis of the West Indies. b The Atlantic flying gurnard (Dactylopterus volitans). c Any of various sailfishes, as Istiophorus volador of Florida and I. americanus of the Gulf Stream.

vo'lage' (F. vō'lazh'), adj. [F.] Flighty; light; giddy; fickle; volatile; fleeting.

‖vo'laille' (vō'lȧ'y'), n. [F.] Poultry; fowl.

Vo'lans (vō'lănz), n. [L.] The constellation Piscis Volans.

vo'lant (vō'lănt), adj. [F. or L.; F. volant, fr. L. volans, -antis, pres. part. of volare to fly.] 1. Passing through the air upon, or as if upon, wings; flying; hence, Obs., passing from place to place; current. "Gold volant." Fuller.

2. Nimble; light and quick. "His volant touch." Milton.

3. Capable of flying; volitant.

4. Her. Represented as if flying, as a bird.

— vo'lant·ly, adv.

vo'lant, n. Obs. a A shuttlecock; hence, a trimmer. b A flounce.

‖vo·lan'te (vō·län'tā), adj. [It.] Music. Flying; moving with light rapidity; — a direction.

‖vo·lan'te (vō·län'tā), n. [Sp., prop., flying.] A two-wheeled carriage formerly much used in Cuba. The body is in front of the axle, and the driver rides on the horse.

volant piece. In medieval armor, an adjustable piece fo. guarding the throat, etc., in a boar.

---

vogue'ish, vogu'ish, adj. See -ISH.

‖vogue' la ga'lère'! (vōg' lȧ gȧ'-lâr'). [F.] Lit., row the galley; let us pursue our point, or keep on, whatever may happen.

vogue'y, vogu'y, adj. See -Y. voiceless glide. Phonet. See GLIDE, n., 8 a.

voice'let, n. See -LET.

voice'like', adj. See -LIKE.

void'less, adj. See -LESS.

‖voi'lier' (vwȧ'lyā'), n. [F., prop., a sailmaker, a sailor.] = SAILFISH a.

vois. † VOICE.

vo'kie (vō'kĭ). Var. of VOGIE.

vol. † FULL, VOLE, WOOL.

Vo'la·pük' (vō'lä·pük'), n. Also Vol'a·puk (vŏl'ȧ·pōōk). Literally, world's speech; a language, intended to be international, once used somewhat, based largely on English, and invented by Johann Martin Schleyer (d. 1911), of Konstanz, Baden, about 1879 A more interlingual development of Volapük is Idiom Neutral, devised by a Russian engineer, W. Rosenberger, and others. See INTERNATIONAL AUXILIARY LANGUAGE. — Vo'la·pük'er (-ēr), n. — Vo'la·pük'ism (-ĭz'm), n. — Vo'la·pük'ist (-ĭst), n.

vo'lar (vō'lẽr), adj. [L. vola palm of the hand, sole of the foot.] Anat. Pertaining to the palm of the hand or sole of the foot.

vo'lar, adj. [L. volare to fly.] Pertaining to or used in flight.

volar accessory ligament. Anat. The anterior ligament between a metacarpal bone and the first phalanx of any finger.

volar carpal ligament. A strengthening band of transverse fibers in the fascia at the wrist.

vo·la'ta (vō·lä'tȧ), n. [It.] Music. A run, roulade, or other rapid series of notes.

vo·lat'ic (vŏ·lăt'ĭk), adj. [L. volaticus.] Flying; also, fleeting; transitory. — vo·lat'ic, n. Both Now Rare.

vol'a·tile (vŏl'ȧ·tĭl; -tīl; 155), adj. [OF. volatil, fr. L. volatilis, fr. volare to fly, of uncert. origin. Cf. VOLLEY.] 1. Passing through the air on wings, or by the buoyant force of the atmosphere; flying; having the power to fly; volant; also, moving about as if by flight. Now Rare.

2. Easily passing away by evaporation; readily vaporizable; as, volatile oils or liquids; — often disting. from fixed.

3. Lighthearted; airy; lively; hence, changeable; fickle.

As giddy and volatile as ever. Swift.

4. Transitory; fleeting.

Syn. — Gaseous, vaporous; buoyant, lively, capricious.

Ant. — Fixed, nonvolatile; heavy, dull, serious, somber.

— vol'a·tile·ly, adv. — vol'a·tile·ness, n.

vol'a·tile, n. [OF. volatille (F. volatile).] 1. A winged animal; a bird; a wild fowl; — formerly also used collectively.

2. A volatile substance.

volatile alkali. Old Chem. a Ammonium carbonate. b Ammonia.

volatile liniment. A liniment composed of ammonia water and a fixed oil, as sesame, olive, or sweet-almond, oil; — so called from the readiness with which the ammonia evaporates.

volatile oil. An oil that is volatile; specif., an essential oil. See ESSENTIAL OIL volatile salt. = SAL VOLATILE.

vol'a·til'i·ty (vŏl'ȧ·tĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [Cf. F. volatilité.] Quality or state of being volatile; also, an instance of this.

Syn. — See LIGHTNESS. Ant. — Heaviness, solemnity.

vol'a·til·i·za'tion (-tĭl·ĭ·zā'shŭn); -ī·zā'shŭn), n. [Cf. F. volatilisation.] Act or process of volatilizing, or state of being volatilized.

vol'a·til·ize (vŏl'ȧ·tĭl·īz), v. t. & i.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [Cf. F. volatiliser.] To render or become volatile; to exhale or evaporate; to cause to pass off in vapor. — vol'a·til·iz'er (-īz'ẽr), n.

vo·la'tion (vō·lā'shŭn), n. [L. volare, volatum, fly.] Act or power of flying; flight; volitation. — vo·la'tion·al (-ăl), adj.

‖vol'-au'-vent' (vŏ'-lō'văn'), n. [F.] A large case of light puff paste with a raised border, filled, after baking, with a ragout of meat, fowl, game, fish, or the like.

vol'borth·ite (vŏl'bôr·thīt), n. [After Alexander von Volborth, Russ. scientist.] Mineral. A hydrous vanadate of copper, barium, and calcium, occurring in small, green or yellow, six-sided tabular crystals or in globular forms.

Vol'cae (vŏl'sē), n. pl. [L.] A Celtic people of Gaul, neighbors of the Helvetii, divided into two chief tribes, the Arecomici and the Tectosages. Their territory corresponded, roughly, to Languedoc.

vol·ca'ni·an (vŏl·kā'nĭ·ăn), adj. Volcanic. Rare.

vol·can'ic (vŏl·kăn'ĭk), adj. [F. volcanique, fr. It. vulcanico.] 1. Of, pert. to, like, or characteristic of, a volcano.

A drinker of black, strong, volcanic wines. Tennyson.

2. Characterized by or composed of volcanoes; as, a volcanic region; a volcanic chain or range.

3. Produced, influenced, or changed, by a volcano or by volcanic agencies; made of materials from volcanoes; as, a volcanic mountain.

— vol·can'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

vol·can'ic, n. A volcanic rock; — chiefly in pl. Rare.

volcanic ash or ashes. Geol. See ASHES, 3. volcanic bomb. Geol. = BOMB, n., 6.

volcanic cloud. Geol. A convoluted, rolling mass of partly condensed water vapor and dust, generally highly charged with electricity, which overhangs a volcano during eruption.

volcanic cone. Geol. A conical hill or mountain built up of cinders, tuff, breccia, lava, etc., by volcanic eruptions.

volcanic dust. Geol. Fine particles of rock powder blown out from a volcano. They may remain suspended in the atmosphere for long periods, producing red sunsets and climatic modifications thousands of miles away.

volcanic foci. Geol. The subterranean centers of volcanic action.

volcanic glass. Petrog. Natural glass produced by the cooling of molten lava too rapidly to permit of crystallization. See OBSIDIAN, PITCHSTONE, PUMICE.

vol·can·ic'i·ty (vŏl'kăn·ĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. volcanicité.] Quality or state of being volcanic; volcanism.

volcanic mud. Geol. Mud formed by the mixture with water of volcanic ash or with other fragmental products of volcanic explosions. Volcanic muds are often initially hot and may flow much like lava streams.

volcanic neck. Geol. A column of igneous rock formed by congelation of lava or the consolidation of volcanic breccia, etc., in the conduit of a volcano. The neck may later be left standing above the adjacent country by the removal of surrounding rocks by erosion.

volcanic rocks. Geol. Igneous rocks solidified on or near the surface, as basalt and obsidian. See IGNEOUS ROCKS; EFFUSIVE, adj., 3.

volcanic vapors. Geol. Substances which, liquid or solid at ordinary pressures and temperatures, are given off in gaseous condition from a volcano. These include steam, sulphur, ammonium salts, metallic chlorides and fluorides, and boron compounds.

volcanic water. Geol. Water of volcanic origin or deriving its heat and chemical activity from volcanic sources or volcanism.

volcanic wind. Meteorol. A wind associated with a volcanic outburst and due to the eruption or to convection currents over hot lava.

vol'can·ism (vŏl'kăn·ĭz'm), n. Volcanic power or action; volcanicity. As used in physical geography and geology, the term ordinarily includes all natural processes resulting in forming volcanoes, lava fields, laccoliths, dikes, etc.

vol'can·ist, n. [F. volcaniste, vulcaniste.] One versed in the study of volcanic phenomena; also, a plutonist. — vol'can·ist, adj.

vol'can·ite (-īt), n. [From Volcano, or Vulcano, Lipari Islands.] Petrog. A rare rock, occurring as volcanic bombs in the eruption of Vulcano, in April, 1889, composed essentially of anorthoclase, augite, and glass, and having the chemical composition of dacite.

vol·can'i·ty (vŏl·kăn'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being volcanic. Rare.

vol'can·ize (vŏl'kăn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [See VOLCANIC; cf. VULCANIZE.] To subject to, or cause to undergo and be affected by, volcanic heat. — vol'can·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn); -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

vol·ca'no (vŏl·kā'nō), n.; pl. -NOES or -NOS (-nōz). [It. volcano, vulcano, fr. L. Vulcanus Vulcan, the god of fire. See VULCAN.] 1. A vent in the earth's crust from which molten or hot rock, steam, etc., issue; also, a hill or mountain composed wholly or in part of the ejected material. Such a mountain is more or less conical in form, and often has a depression or crater at its top. A volcano is called active while it is in eruption, dormant during a long cessation of activity, and extinct after eruptions have altogether ceased. Most volcanoes are in the sea or near it, and many are in groups or linear series. Volcanoes include many of the most conspicuous and lofty mountain peaks of the earth, as Vesuvius in Italy (4,267 ft.), Mauna Loa in Hawaii (13,671 ft.), and Cotopaxi in South America (19,693 ft.), which are still active; and Popocatepetl in Mexico (17,883 ft.), Shasta in California (14,380 ft.), and Rainier in Washington (14,363 ft.), which are either dormant or extinct. The character of volcanic eruptions varies from the quiet outpouring of fluid lava, as in Hawaii, to violent explosions, accompanied by showers of volcanic ash, like that of Krakatao in 1883.

2. Figuratively, something suggestive of a volcano, as esp. in suppressed force or violence of outbursts; as, living on the edge of a moral volcano.

A very volcano of silence. J. Stephens.

vol·ca'no, v. i. & t. To emit a violent outburst (at). Rare.

volcano fish. A small South American catfish (Eremophilus mutisi), erroneously reported to issue in streams of hot water from volcanoes during eruptions.

vol'can·ol'o·gize (vŏl'kăn·ŏl'ō·jīz), v. i. To study or investigate volcanic phenomena.

vol'can·ol'o·gy (vŏl'kăn·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [volcano + -logy.] The branch of science treating of volcanic phenomena. — vol'can·o·log'i·cal (-ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — vol'can·ol'o·gist (-ŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

vole (vōl), n. [From dial. volemouse, of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. dial. voll field. Cf. WOLD.] Any of numerous mouselike or ratlike rodents constituting the genus Microtus, typical of the subfamily Microtinae of the family Cricetidae, and various allied genera, as Arvicola, Evotomys, and Synaptomys (see LEMMING MOUSE). The typical voles (genus Microtus), the smaller kinds of which are called also meadow mice and field mice, have a stout body, rather blunt nose, short tail, and short ears. They inhabit both moist meadows and dry uplands and often do much damage to crops. Well-known British species are the water rat Arvicola amphibius, frequenting wet places, and the field vole, or common field mouse (M. agrestis), a small species common in grainfields, etc. In eastern North America M. pennsylvanicus, with many subspecies, is the common meadow mouse.

American Vole, or Meadow Mouse.

vole (vōl), n. [F.] Card Playing. A winning of all the tricks in a deal; a slam; as, to win the vole; hence, figuratively, to go the vole, to hazard all for great gains; also, to attempt everything.

Who is he? — why, he has gone the vole — has been soldier, ballad singer, traveling tinker, and is now a beggar. Scott.

vole, v. i. Card Playing. To make a slam.

‖vol·lée' (vŏ'lā'), n. [F.] Volley; flight.

vo·lem'i·tol (vō·lĕm'ĭ·tōl; -tŏl), vol'e·mite (vŏl'ĕ·mīt), n. A slightly sweet, colorless, crystalline heptahydroxy alcohol, $C_7H_9(OH)_7$, in the mushroom Lactarius volemus.

vo'lent (vō'lĕnt), adj. [L. volens, -entis, pres. part.] Exercising volition. — vo'lent·ly, adv.

‖vo·len'ti non fit in·ju'ri·a (vō·lĕn'tī nŏn fĭt ĭn·jōō'rĭ·ȧ). [L.] Law. Literally, no injury is done to one who consents; — referring to the same principle on which is based the defense of leave and license.

vol'er·y (vŏl'ẽr·ĭ), n.; pl. -ERIES (-īz). [F. volerie a flying (cf. volière a large bird cage), fr. voler to fly, fr. L. volare. See VOLATILE.] 1. A large bird cage; an aviary.

2. The birds in an aviary; a flight or flock of birds. Rare.

3. A place adapted to the requirements of aircraft, for launching, repairs, etc.

vo·let' (vō·lĕt'), n. 1. [OF.] A short flowing veil worn by women in the Middle Ages.

2. (pron. vō'lĕ') [F.] Paint. Either of the folding side compartments or wings of a triptych.

Vol'ga–Bal·ta'ic (vŏl'gȧ·bôl·tā'ĭk), adj. Designating, or pertaining to, a group of Finnic languages. See FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES.

volge (vŏlj), n. [L. volgus, vulgus.] The crowd; mob. Obs.

Vol'hard meth'od or proc'ess (fōl'härt). [After Jakob Volhard (1834–1910), Ger. chemist.] Anal. Chem. a A method for the determination of chlorine, bromine, and iodine in the form of halides, by precipitating them with excess silver nitrate and titrating the excess with a thiocyanate solution. b A method for the determination of bivalent manganese by titration with permanganate solution in the presence of a zinc salt.

Vo·lhyn'i·a fe'ver (vō·lĭn'ĭ·ȧ). [From Volhynia, Poland and Russia.] Med. A relapsing fever resembling trench fever.

vo·lhyn'ite (-īt), n. [See VOLHYNIA FEVER.] Petrog. A mica-diorite-porphyrite composed of phenocrysts of plagioclase, hornblende, and biotite in a holocrystalline groundmass of plagioclase and chlorite and sometimes quartz.

vol'i·tant (vŏl'ĭ·tănt), adj. [L. volitans, -antis, pres. part. of volitare to flit.] Flying; able to fly; also, moving about.

vol'i·tate (-tāt), v. i. [See VOLITATION.] To flutter or fly hither and thither.

vol'i·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n. [ML. volitatio, fr. L. volitare, volitatum, to fly to and fro, v. freq. fr. volare to fly.] Act or power of flying; flight; volation. — vol'i·ta'tion·al (-ăl), adj.

vo·li'tient (vō·lĭsh'ĭnt), adj. [From VOLITION.] Exercising the will; acting from choice; willing, or having power to will. Mrs. Browning. — vo·li'tien·cy (-ĕn·sĭ), n.

vo·li'tion (-ŭn), n. [F., fr. ML. volitio, fr. L. volo I will, velle to will, be willing. See VOLUNTARY.] 1. Act of willing or choosing; act of deciding, as on a course of action or an end to be striven for; exercise of the will.

2. The termination of an act or exercise of choosing or willing; a state of decision or choice. This is the more exact sense of volition, as distinguished from will.

3. The power of willing or determining; will.

She marshaled her volition, all her self-control and strength. Arnold Bennett.

Syn. — Choice, determination. See WILL.

vo·li'tion·al, adj. a Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, volition. b Possessing or exercising volition. c Rare. Motive; impelling; as, volitional forces. — vo·li'tion·al·ly, adv.

vo·li'tion·al'i·ty (vŏ·lĭsh'ŭn·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being volitional.

volitional tremor. Med. A trembling of the entire body during voluntary effort, occurring esp. in multiple sclerosis.

vo·li'tion·ar'y (vŏ·lĭsh'ŭn·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ẽr·ĭ), adj. Volitional.

vo·li'tion·ate (-āt), v. t. & i. To exercise volition; to will.

vol'i·tive (vŏl'ĭ·tĭv), adj. [See VOLITION.] 1. Of or pert. to the will; originating in the will; having the power to will.

Not only the intellectual faculty, but the volitive. Sir M. Hale.

2. Gram. Used in expressing a wish or permission; as, the volitive future (see FUTURE, n., 7).

vol'i·tive, n. Gram. A volitive verb, mood, or the like.

vol'i·to'ri·al (-tō'rĭ·ăl), adj. [NL. volitores birds able to fly.] Flying; able to fly.

volk (vōk). Var. of FOLK. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

‖volk (fŏlk), n. [D., folk.] Workmen; servants. S. Africa.

‖Volk (fŏlk), n. [G.] People; nation.

Völ'ker·wan'der·ung (fŭl'kĕr·vän'dĕr·ŏŏng), n. [G. See FOLK; WANDER.] The migration of nations; esp., the movement into southern and western Europe of the Teutonic peoples (see esp. GOTH, 1; TEUTONIC RACE; VANDAL, 1), Huns, Slavs, etc., from the 2d century A.D. to about the 11th century, reaching the peak in the 5th and 6th centuries and closing with the settling of Northmen in England and France. These migrations caused the fall of the Roman Empire and were the chief feature of the transition between the ancient and medieval periods of history.

Volk'mann's ca·nal' (fŏlk'mănz). [After A. W. Volkmann (1800–77), Ger. physiologist.] Anat. One of many nutrient canals transmitting blood vessels from the periosteum into the bone, but not forming the center of a Haversian system.

‖Volks'lied' (fŏlks'lēt'), n.; pl. VOLKSLIEDER (-lē'dĕr). [G.] A folk song. Cf. LIED.

‖volks'raad' (fŏlks'rät'), n. [D. See FOLK; RAAD.] A legislative assembly or parliament; esp.: [cap.] a That of the former South African Republic (the Transvaal) or of the former Orange Free State. b The advisory and legislative council of the Dutch East Indies, established in 1917.

‖Volks'schu'le (fŏlks'shōō'lĕ), n.; pl. -SCHULEN (-lĕn). [G. See FOLK; 3d SCHOOL.] In Germany, a public elementary school, for pupils from six to fourteen years of age.

‖Volks'spra'che (fŏlks'shprä'kĕ), n. [G.] The speech of the people; the vernacular or vulgar tongue; popular, as distinguished from a learned, language.

‖Volks'tag' (-täk'), n. [G. See FOLK; DAY.] The legislative assembly of the diet of the Free City of Danzig.

vol'ley (vŏl'ĭ), n.; pl. -LEYS (-īz). [F. volée a flight, volley, fr. voler to fly, fr. L. volare. See VOLATILE; cf. VOLERY.] 1. a A flight of missiles, as arrows, bullets, or the like; the simultaneous, or nearly simultaneous, discharge of a number of missile weapons. b Mil. In modern artillery fire, one round per gun in a battery, fired without regard to the order of firing or to the interval between shots. c Mining. A blast consisting of a number of holes fired simultaneously.

2. Hence: A burst or emission of many things at once; as, a volley of words or oaths.

3. Obs. a A flight (of birds, etc.). b A company; crowd.

4. Sports. a Tennis. The flight of the ball, or its course before striking the ground; as, a ball hit on the volley; hence, a return of the ball before it touches the ground. b Cricket. A full pitch. c Association Football. A kick of the ball before it rebounds.

— at, or on the, volley. a Obs. At random; in passing.

What we spake on the volley begins to work. Massinger.

b Sports. Of a ball, in flight. See sense 4, above.

vol'ley, v.; VOL'LEYED (-ĭd); VOL'LEY·ING. Transitive: 1. To discharge in or as in a volley.

2. Sports. a Tennis. To hit (the ball) on the volley. b Cricket. To bowl (a ball) full pitch. c Association Football. To kick (the ball) before it rebounds.

—, Intransitive: 1. To be discharged in, or as if in, a volley; also, to make a volley or volleys.

2. To make a loud simultaneous sound or noise; to sound loudly and continuously or repeatedly, as thunder.

Still the huge wind volleyed. Robert Nichols.

3. Sports. a Tennis. To return the ball before it has touched the ground; to make a volley. b Cricket. To bowl a full pitch.

vol'ley·ball' (vŏl'ĭ·bôl'), n. A game played on a rectangular court, not exceeding 60 feet in length by 30 feet in width, usually by teams having six players to a side, by volleying a large inflated ball, with the hands, over a net 8 feet high.

vol'ley·er (-ẽr), n. One who volleys, as in tennis.

volley fire. Mil. a Artillery fire in which the pieces included in the command fire the specified number of rounds as rapidly as is consistent with accuracy, and without regard to the other pieces. b Infantry fire in which the unit fires simultaneously at the word of command.

vol'ley·ing, adj. That volleys. — vol'ley·ing·ly, adv.

vo'lost (vō'lŏst), n. [Russ. volost'.] In Russia: a Formerly, a division for local government consisting of a group of mirs, or village communities; a canton. b A rural soviet (see SOVIET).

vol'a·ry. Var. of VOLERY.

vol'a·til. Volatile. Rej. Sp.

vol'a·til·iz'a·ble (vŏl'ȧ·tĭl·īz'ȧ·b'l), adj. See -ABLE.

vo·lat'i·lous (vō·lăt'ĭ·lŭs), adj. Volatile. Obs.

vol'a·tize, v. t. & i. = VOLATILIZE. — vol'a·ti·za'tion, n. Both Obs.

vol'can (vŏl'kăn), n. = VOLCANO.

Vol'ca·na'li·a (vŏl'kȧ·nā'lĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [L.] See VULCAN, 1.

vol·ca'no ism, n. See -ISM.

Vol·ca'nus (vŏl·kā'nŭs). = VULCAN.

Volce, n. = VOLSCIAN. Obs.

volee. † VOLLEY.

vo'len·cy, n. [L. volentia.] = VOLITION, 3. Rare.

‖vo'lens et po'tens. [L.] Willing and able. [VOLENTE.]

‖vo·len'te De'o. [L.] = DEO volente. † VOLLEY.

vol'i·ble, adj. [See VOLUBLE.] Capable of revolving. Obs.

vol'i·pres'ence, n. = MULTIPRESENCE. — vol'i·pres'ent, adj.

vo·lit'ion·al·ist, n. See -IST.

vo·lit'ion·less, adj. See -LESS.

‖Volks'tüm'li·ches Lied. [G.] = FOLK SONG b.

vollenge. Corrupt. of VALANCHE.

vol'lied, vol'lies. Vars. of VOLLEYED, VOLLEYS.

Vo'lof. Var. of WOLOF.

‖vo'lo, non va'le·o. [L.] I am willing, (but) I am unable.

vol'ow (vŏl'ō), v. t. [Var. of ME. folewen, folwen, fulwen, fr. AS. fulwian. See FULL to baptize.] To baptize; — used in contempt by the Reformers. Obs.

vol'plane' (vŏl'plān'), v. i. [F. vol plané, fr. vol flight (fr. voler to fly) + plané, past part. of planer to glide, soar, fr. plan a plane, fr. L. planum. See VOLERY; 3d PLANE.] Aviation. To glide in an airplane. — n. A glide in an airplane. — vol'plan'ist (-plān'ĭst), n.

Vol·po'ne (vŏl·pō'nē), n. [It., old fox.] The short title and hero of a play (1607) by Ben Jonson. He is a crafty, hypocritical old Venetian nobleman.

Vol'sci (vŏl'sĭ), n. pl. [L.] A people of ancient Italy dwelling between the Latins and Samnites. They and their territory became part of the Roman republic about 373 B.C.

Vol'scian (vŏl'shăn), adj. [L. Volsci the Volscians.] Of or pertaining to the Volsci or their language. — n. a One of the Volsci. b The language of the Volsci, closely akin to Umbrian (which see).

Vol'stead Act (vŏl'stĕd). [After Andrew J. Volstead, former representative from Minnesota.] An act of Congress, passed October 28, 1919, to enforce prohibition under the war act of November 21, 1918, and the 18th Amendment to the Constitution (ratified January 16, 1919), declaring all liquors with more than half of one per cent alcohol to be intoxicating, and consequently their manufacture, sale, and transportation, prohibited; — called also National Prohibition Act and Prohibition Enforcement Act. See TWENTY-FIRST AMENDMENT.

Vol'stead·ism (vŏl'stĕd·ĭz'm), n. [See VOLSTEAD ACT.] The doctrine of, or adherence to, prohibition. Colloq.

Vol'sung (vŏl'sōŏng), n. [ON. Völsungr.] Norse Legend. A king in the Volsunga Saga, great-grandson of Odin, father of Sigmund. The more correct form is Anglo-Saxon Wæls in Beowulf, possibly corresponding to a lost Scandinavian Volsi. Volsung, more correctly, is applied to any descendant of Wæls, or Volsi.

Vol'sun·ga Sa'ga (vŏl'sōŏng·gȧ sä'gȧ). [ON. Völsunga saga.] An Icelandic saga, probably of Norwegian origin, which preserves in a variant form the legend embodied in the Nibelungenlied. See BRYNHILD, SIGURD.

volt (vōlt), n. [F. volte, fr. It. volta a turn. See VAULT a leap.] 1. Manège. a A tread or gait in which a horse going sideways makes a turn round a center. b A circle traced by a horse in this movement. c The ground marked for the first turn, or volt.

2. Fencing. A leaping movement to avoid a thrust.

volt, v. i. [F. voltier, fr. volte a turn. See 1st VOLT.] Fencing. To make a volt. Now Rare.

volt, n. [After Alessandro Volta, It. physicist.] Elec. The unit of electromotive force; — defined by the International Electrical Congress in 1893 and by United States statute as: that electromotive force which steadily applied to a conductor whose resistance is one ohm will produce a current of one ampere. It is practically equiv. to 10^8 C. G. S. electromagnetic units. Cf. STANDARD CELL.

☞ By the above definition, the volt is dependent upon the ohm and the ampere, as confirmed, after much discussion, by the International Conference on Electrical Units and Standards, 1908.

‖volt'a (vŏl'tȧ; vōl'tȧ), n.; pl. -TE (-tē). [It., a turn, turning, time. See VOLT a tread.] 1. = The LAVOLTA.

2. Manège. = 1st VOLT, 1.

3. Music. A turning; a time; — chiefly used in directions relating to the repetition of a part; as, una volta, once. Seconda volta, second time, points to certain modifications in a repeated strain.

Vol'ta (vŏl'tȧ), n. sing. & pl. One of a group of Negro peoples, numbering about two million, along the bend of the Niger and in the adjacent Sudan. Most of them are still warlike, and primitive in culture.

volta-. Elec. A combining form from the name Volta, used for voltaic (which see), as in voltaism, voltameter.

Vol'ta ef·fect' (vŏl'tȧ). [See 3d VOLT.] Elec. Difference of potential observable between two dissimilar metals joined on an open circuit. One metal becomes positive, the other negative.

vol'ta·e·lec'tric·i·ty (vŏl'tȧ·ē·lĕk'trĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Voltaic electricity. See ELECTRICITY, 2. — vol'ta·e·lec'tric (-ē·lĕk'trĭk), adj.

vol'ta·e·lec'trom'e·ter (-ē·lĕk'trŏm'ē·tĕr), n. An instrument to measure electric currents; a voltameter. — vol'ta·e·lec'tro·met'ric (-ē·lĕk'trō·mĕt'rĭk), adj.

volt'age (vōl'tĭj), n. Elec. Electric potential or potential difference expressed in volts; as, the voltage of a current.

voltage amplification. Elec. The ratio of the alternating voltage produced at the output terminals of an amplifier or electron tube to the alternating voltage impressed at the input terminals.

voltage changer. Elec. A device to alter the voltage of a circuit.

voltage coil. Elec. = POTENTIAL COIL.

voltage divider. Elec. A source of adjustable voltage, consisting of a resistor through which current is flowing, provision being made to connect to any desired point along the resistor.

voltage gradient. Elec. The voltage drop per unit length or distance, measured usually in volts per centimeter.

voltage ratio. Elec. See TRANSFORMER, 3. voltage regulator. Elec. A form of transformer having its primary winding in shunt and its secondary winding in series with an alternating-current circuit the voltage of which may be regulated by varying the voltage ratio of transformation. Cf. INDUCTION VOLTAGE REGULATOR.

voltage relay. Elec. See RELAY, n., 3. voltage transformer. Elec. See TRANSFORMER, 3.

vol·tag'ra·phy (vŏl·tăg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [voltaic + -graphy.] Art of copying forms or patterns by electrodeposition of metal. Rare.

vol·ta'ic (vŏl·tā'ĭk), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to, or discovered by, Alessandro Volta, who first devised apparatus for chemically developing electric currents, and established this branch of electric science.

2. Of or pertaining to voltaism, or voltaic electricity; galvanic; as, voltaic induction; the voltaic arc.

voltaic battery. Elec. = BATTERY, 8 a.

voltaic cell. Elec. = CELL, n., 12 a.

voltaic circuit or circle. Elec. = CIRCUIT, n., 6.

voltaic couple. Elec. A pair of substances, usually but not necessarily metals, capable of acting together as an electric source when dipped in an electrolyte.

voltaic current. Elec. A current resulting from chemical action.

voltaic electricity. Dynamical electricity. See ELECTRICITY, 2.

voltaic pile. Elec. See 2d PILE, 4 a. voltaic protection of metals. The protection of a metal from corrosion by associating it with a metal which is positive to it, as when iron is galvanized.

Vol·taire' chair (vŏl·târ'). A kind of armchair with a low seat and a high back.

Vol·tair'i·an (vŏl·târ'ĭ·ăn), adj. Also Vol·tair'e·an (-ē·ăn). Of, pertaining to, like, or characteristic of, Voltaire. — n. An advocate of Voltaire's theories or practices.

Vol·tair'ism (-ĭz'm), n. Also Vol·tair'i·an·ism (-ĭ·ăn·ĭz'm), n. The doctrines, or a characteristic, of Voltaire; hence, the practice or views of one who rationalizes or ridicules, esp. religious tenets.

vol'ta·ism (vŏl'tȧ·ĭz'm). n. [See 3d VOLT.] Voltaic or current electricity; also, the branch of electrical science dealing with this. See ELECTRICITY, 2; cf. GALVANISM, 1.

vol'ta·ite (vŏl'tȧ·īt), n. A hydrous sulphate of iron, potassium, and aluminum, in dark-green, brown, or black crystals.

vol·tam'e·ter (vŏl·tăm'ē·tĕr), n. [voltaic + -meter.] Physics. An instrument for measuring the quantity of electricity passed through a conductor by the amount of electrolysis produced, as by measuring the gases generated from a acidulated water, or by weighing the copper deposited from a solution of copper sulphate. — vol'ta·met'ric (vŏl'tȧ·mĕt'rĭk), adj.

Gas Voltameter. a, a Glass Tubes to collect the gases produced by electrolysis; b, b Binding Screws; c, c Electrodes; d, d Conducting Wires.

volt'am'me·ter (vŏlt'ăm'mē·tĕr), n. [3d volt + ammeter.] Physics. A combined voltmeter and ammeter.

volt'-am'pere, n. [3d volt + ampere.] Elec. A unit of electric measurement equal to the product of a volt and an ampere. For direct current it is a measure of power and is the same as a watt; for alternating current it is a measure of apparent power. See WATT.

vol'ta·plast (vŏl'tȧ·plăst), n. [voltaic + Gr. plastos molded.] A voltaic battery suitable for use in electrotyping.

Vol'ta's law (vŏl'tȧz). Elec. The law that when a number of metals are in contact in series, the total electromotive force of the extremes of the series is equal to the algebraic sum of the electromotive forces at the several junctions.

Volta's pile. = 2d PILE, 4 a. vol'ta·type (vŏl'tȧ·tīp), n. [voltaic + type.] Electrotype. Rare.

volt box. Elec. A resistance box, provided with taps, commonly used with a potentiometer for measuring potentials beyond the range of that instrument. By means of the taps a definite fraction, usually 1/10 or 1/100, of the potential applied to the volt box is made available for potentiometer measurement.

volt'-cou·lomb' (vŏlt'kōō·lŏm'), n. Elec. A unit of electrical energy equal to 1×10^7 ergs or one joule.

‖vol'te·a·dor' (vŏl'tē·ȧ·ᵗʰôr'; 112), n.; pl. -DORES (-ᵗʰôr'·rās). [Sp.] An acrobat.

‖volte'-face' (vŏlt'fȧs'; vŏlt'fäs'), n. [F.] A change of front; a facing about; a reversal, as of one's opinion, attitude, or policy.

volte'-face', v. i. To perform a volte-face; to face about.

‖vol'ti (vŏl'tē), imperative. [It., prop. pres. subj., fr. voltare to turn. See VOLT a tread.] Turn; specif., Music, in directions, turn over the leaf. — ‖vol'ti su'bi·to (sōō'·bē·tō). Turn over quickly. Abbr. v.s.

‖vol'ti'geur' (vŏl'tē'zhûr'), n. [F., fr. voltiger to vault, fr. It. volteggiare. See VOLT a tread.] 1. A tumbler; a leaper or vaulter.

2. Mil. A member of any of various French organizations of light infantry, often sharpshooters. Obs. exc. Hist.

Vol'ti·mand (vŏl'tĭ·mănd), n. A courtier in Shakespeare's Hamlet.

vol'tin·ism (vŏl'tĭn·ĭz'm), n. [It. volta turn, time.] Zool. In silkworms, the frequency or number of annual broods. See MONOVOLTINE, POLYVOLTINE.

vol·tiv'i·ty (vŏl·tĭv'ĭ·tĭ), n. [From 3d VOLT.] Electric force.

vol'tize (vŏl'tīz), v. i. To dance the volta, or lavolta. Rare.

volt'me'ter (vŏlt'mē'tĕr), n. [3d volt + -meter.] Elec. Any instrument for measuring in volts the differences of potential between different points of an electrical circuit. Voltmeters are always connected in parallel with the circuit the voltage of which is to be measured. The common type is a galvanometer, having a high-resistance coil.

‖vol'to (vŏl'tō), n. [It. volta.] A vault.

volt'-sec'ond, n. Elec. A unit of magnetic flux equal to one weber; — so called because one volt is induced in a single turn of conductor when it links or unlinks uniformly in one second with a magnetic flux of one weber.

voltz'ite (vŏlts'īt), n. Also voltz'ine (-ĭn). [After P. L. Voltz (1785–1840), French mining engineer.] Mineral. A zinc oxysulphide, Zn_4OS_4, occurring in implanted spherical globules of a yellowish or reddish color. H., 4–4.5. Sp. gr., 3.66–3.80.

vol'u·bil'i·ty (vŏl'ū·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. or L.; F. volubilité; fr. L. volubilitas.] Quality or state of being voluble.

vol'u·ble (vŏl'ū·b'l), adj. [F. or L.; F. voluble, fr. L. volubilis, fr. volvere, volutum, to roll, to turn round; akin to Gr. eilyein to infold, to enwrap, elyein to roll, G. welle a wave, OSlav. valiti to roll, trundle, Skr. valati he turns. Cf. CONVOLVULUS, DEVOLVE, ELYTRON, EVOLUTION, INVOLUCRE, INVOLVE, REVOLT, VALLEY, VALVE, VAULT, VOLUME, VOLUTE, VULVA, WALK, WALL, WALLOW, WELL of water, WELTER, 1st WHELK, WILLOW.] 1. Easily rolling or turning; easily set in motion; apt to roll; rotating; revolving; as, voluble particles of matter.

2. Moving with ease and smoothness in utterance; of ready or rapid speech; glib; as, a voluble tongue; — formerly used without any derogatory suggestion.

A grave and voluble eloquence. Bp. Hacket.

3. Changeable; unstable; fickle. Now Rare.

4. Bot. Having the power or habit of twining.

Syn. — See TALKATIVE. Ant. — Taciturn. See SILENT. — vol'u·ble·ness, n. — vol'u·bly, adv.

vol'u·crine (vŏl'ū·krĭn; -krīn), adj. [L. volucris a bird.] Of or pertaining to birds.

vol'ume (vŏl'ūm; 249), n. [OF., fr. L. volumen a roll of writing, a book, volume, fr. volvere, volutum, to roll. See VOLUBLE.] 1. A roll; a scroll; a written document rolled up for keeping or use, in the manner of the ancients. Hist.

The papyrus, and afterward the parchment, was joined together [by the ancients] to form one sheet, and then rolled upon a staff into a volume (volumen). Encyc. Brit.

2. a A collection of printed sheets bound together, whether a single work, a part of a work, or more than one work; a book; esp., that part of an extended work bound up together in one cover. See TOME; cf. PAMPHLET, BROCHURE. "An odd volume of a set of books." Franklin.

Volume, a book distinguished from other books or other volumes of the same work by having its own title, paging and register. This is the bibliographic use of the word, sanctioned by the British Museum rules. That is, it is in this sense only that it applies to all the copies of an edition as it comes from the printer. But there is also a bibliopegic and bibliopolic use, to denote a number of pages bound together, which pages may be several volumes in the other sense, or a part of a volume or parts of several volumes. C. A. Cutter

b Figuratively, anything that may be studied and interpreted like a volume, or book; as, the volume of nature. c Sufficient matter of discourse to fill a volume or volumes; as, to speak volumes (see also below).

3. Anything of a rounded or swelling form suggesting a roll, or scroll; a turn; convolution; coil. Now Rare.

Undulating billows rolling their silver volumes. Irving.

4. Space occupied, as measured by cubic units, that is, cubic inches, feet, etc.; compass; as, the volume of a container.

☞ Formulas for computing the volume of figures may be found under the name of the figure, as SPHERE, CYLINDER, CONE, etc.

5. Hence, loosely, a mass; bulk; aggregate; often, a considerable quantity; as, a volume of gas; to increase the total volume of sales.

6. Music. Fullness or quantity of tone.

7. Psychol. A characteristic of auditory sensations, such that high tones seem small and sharp while low tones appear to fill much space.

Syn. — See BULK.

— to speak volumes. See sense 2 c, above; figuratively, to be very significant, expressive, or full of meaning.

vol'ume (vŏl'ūm; 249), v. i. To roll or rise in volume or volumes. — v. t. a To collect or gather in or as in a volume. b To send or give out in volume.

volume color. = BULKY COLOR.

vol'umed (vŏl'ūmd), adj. 1. Having the form of a volume, or roll; in rounded masses; as, volumed mist.

2. Having volume, or bulk; massive; great.

3. Having (such or so many) volumes; — in combination.

volume density. See ELECTRIC DENSITY.

volume displacement. Physics. Displacement of a gas expressed in terms of volume as distinguished from displacement expressed in terms of mass.

volume integral. See INTEGRALS OF FIRST KIND.

‖vo·lu'men (vō·lū'mĕn), n.; pl. VOLUMINA (-mĭ·nȧ). [L.] A volume (sense 1).

vol'u·me·nom'e·ter (vŏl'ū·mē·nŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [L. volumen volume + -meter.] Physics. An instrument for measuring the volume (and hence, indirectly, the specific gravity) of a body, especially a solid, by means of the difference in tension caused by its presence and absence in a closed air space. — vol'u·me·nom'e·try (vŏl'ū·mē·nŏm'ē·trĭ), n.

volume resistance. Elec. The electrical resistance of a material when it has no surface layer on it or when the resistance of any surface layer on it is so high that no appreciable part of the current flows through the layer.

vo·lu'me·scope (vō·lū'mē·skōp), n. [volume + -scope.] Physics. An instrument, consisting essentially of a glass tube provided with a graduated scale, for exhibiting to the eye the changes of volume of a gas or gaseous mixture resulting from chemical action, and the like.

volume table. Forestry. A tabulated statement of the board-foot yield of trees upon the basis of various measurements of diameter and height.

vo·lu'me·ter (vō·lū'mē·tĕr), n. [Cf. F. volumètre. See VOLUMETRIC.] Physics. a An instrument for measuring volumes, as of gases or liquids directly, or of solids by displacement of a liquid. b A form of hydrometer.

vol'u·met'ric (vŏl'ū·mĕt'rĭk), adj. Also vol'u·met'ri·cal (-rĭ·kȧl). [volume + metric.] Of or pertaining to the measurement of volume. — vol'u·met'ri·cal·ly, adv.

volumetric analysis. Chem. a Quantitative analysis by the use of definite volumes of standard solutions of reagents. b Analysis of gases by volume, as by the eudiometer.

volumetric flask. Chem. A graduated flask for use in volumetric analysis. See FLASK, Illust.

volumetric solution. Anal. Chem. A standard solution for use in volumetric analysis.

volumetric strain. Mech. See 4th STRAIN, 6.

vo·lu'me·try (vō·lū'mē·trĭ), n. [volume + -metry.] Determination of volume.

vo·lu'mi·nal (vō·lū'mĭ·nȧl), adj. Of or pert. to volume.

vo·lu'mi·nos'i·ty (vō·lū'mĭ·nŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being voluminous; also, an instance of this.

vo·lu'mi·nous (vō·lū'mĭ·nŭs), adj. [LL. voluminosus full of folds.] 1. Of or pertaining to volume or volumes.

2. Winding or full of windings; consisting of many folds, coils, or convolutions.

Many a scaly fold, Voluminous and vast. Milton.

3. a Of great volume, or bulk; large; swelling. b Specif., of large volume in proportion to weight; of low density; as, a voluminous powder. c Of full tone or quantity.

4. a Filling, or capable of filling, a large volume or several volumes; as, a voluminous treatise; voluminous remarks; also, consisting of or containing many volumes; as, voluminous collections. b Writing or, figuratively, speaking much or at great length; as, a voluminous essayist.

5. Obs. a Numerous. b Large in area or extent.

— vo·lu'mi·nous·ly, adv. — vo·lu'mi·nous·ness, n.

vol'um·ist (vŏl'ū·mĭst), n. One who writes a volume. R.

Vo·lum'ni·a (vō·lŭm'nĭ·ȧ), n. In Shakespeare's Coriolanus, the mother of Coriolanus.

vol'u·mom'e·ter (vŏl'ū·mŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [See VOLUME; -METER.] a A volumenometer. b An instrument for measuring increment of growth in plants and animals. — vo·lu'mo·met'ri·cal (vō·lū'mō·mĕt'rĭ·kȧl), adj. — vol'u·mom'e·try (vŏl'ū·mŏm'ē·trĭ), n.

Vō'lund (vū'lōōnd), n. [ON. Völundr. See WAYLAND.] Norse Myth. A wonderful smith in Teutonic legends and in French romance. King Nithothr, who had been robbed of his treasures, cut the sinews of Völund's knees and confined him in a forge on an island, but Völund killed the king's two sons, violated the king's daughter, and escaped by flying. His adventures are told in the Song of Völund in the Elder Edda. See WAYLAND.

vol'un·tar'i·ate (vŏl'ŭn·târ'ĭ·ăt), n. [F. volontariat.] Voluntary service, or a period of such service. Rare.

vol'un·tar'i·ous (-ŭs), adj. [L. voluntarius.] Voluntary; free. Obs. — vol'un·tar'i·ous·ly, adv. Obs.

vol'un·ta·rism (vŏl'ŭn·tȧ·rĭz'm), n. 1. Voluntaryism. R.

2. Philos. Any theory which conceives will to be the dominant factor in experience or in the constitution of the world; — contrasted with intellectualism. Schopenhauer and Fichte are typical expounders of the two types of metaphysical voluntarism, Schopenhauer teaching that the evolution of the universe is the activity of a blind and irrational will, Fichte holding that the intelligent activity of the ego is the fundamental fact of reality.

— vol'un·ta·rist (-rĭst), n. & adj. — vol'un·ta·ris'tic (-rĭs'tĭk), adj.

vol'un·tar'i·ty (vŏl'ŭn·tăr'ĭ·tĭ), n. Voluntariness. Rare.

vol'un·tar'y (vŏl'ŭn·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ, -trĭ), adj. [L. voluntarius, fr. voluntas will, choice, fr. the root of velle to will, pres. part. volens. See WILL; cf. BENEVOLENT, VOLITION, VOLUNTEER.] 1. Proceeding from the will, or from one's own choice or full consent; produced in or by an act of choice; as, voluntary action.
2. Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another's influence; spontaneous; acting of oneself or itself; free.
"Our voluntary service he requires." Milton.
3. a Done by design or intention; intentional; purposed; intended; not accidental; as, voluntary manslaughter. b Made or given of one's own free will; as, voluntary contributions.
4. Of or pertaining to the will; subject to, or regulated by, the will; as, the voluntary motions or muscles.
5. Able to will; free; as, man is a voluntary agent.
6. Provided or supported by voluntary action, support, or the like, as; a voluntary church, in distinction from an established or state church; also, of or pertaining to voluntaryism.
7. Obs. a Ready; willing. b Growing spontaneously.
8. Law. Acting, or done, of one's own free will without valuable consideration; acting, or done, without any present legal obligation to do the thing done, or any such obligation that can accrue from the existing state of affairs.
Syn. — VOLUNTARY, INTENTIONAL, DELIBERATE are here compared in their ordinary uses. VOLUNTARY (for legal uses see defs.) emphasizes the idea of freedom from constraint, and is often opposed to accidental; INTENTIONAL heightens the implication of design; that is DELIBERATE which is done advisedly or after consideration; as, voluntary confession or manslaughter; an intentional insult; a deliberate falsehood. See SPONTANEOUS; cf. WILL, INTENTION.
Ant. — Involuntary; unwilling, reluctant, forced.

vol'un·tar'i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ; emphat. also -tăr'ĭ·lĭ), adv. — vol'un·tar'i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

vol'un·tar'y, n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). 1. One who engages in any affair of his own free will; a volunteer. Now Rare.
2. One who advocates voluntaryism.
3. Something done, made, or given, voluntarily; a voluntary action or piece of work; a voluntary contribution.
4. Music. a Now Rare. A piece of music performed extempore and often improvised, serving usually as a prelude to a set performance. b An organ solo, sometimes extemporized, played before, during, or after, a religious service.

vol'un·tar'y, adv. Voluntarily.

voluntary affidavit or oath. Law. An affidavit or oath made in an extrajudicial matter.

voluntary association. An unincorporated group associated for some specific purpose; — used chiefly of commercial or financial associations.

voluntary bankruptcy. A bankruptcy declared upon petition of the bankrupt. See BANKRUPT, n., 6.

voluntary conveyance. Law. A conveyance without valuable consideration.

voluntary escape. Law. See 3d ESCAPE, 9.

voluntary improvement. See IMPROVEMENT, 4.

vol'un·tar'y·ism, n. The principle or system of supporting or doing anything by or relying upon voluntary action; specif.: a In education, the system of voluntary schools or the system under which schools are supported by voluntary subscriptions. b Eccl. The principle of supporting a religious system and its institutions by voluntary association and effort, rather than by state aid or patronage; insistence upon this principle as alone consistent with true religious freedom. — vol'un·tar'y·ist, n.

voluntary jurisdiction. Eng. Eccl. Law. Jurisdiction in cases not admitting of contentious litigation.

voluntary manslaughter. Law. See MANSLAUGHTER.

voluntary muscle. Anat. A muscle under the control of the will; specif., a striated muscle. See 2d MUSCLE, 1.

voluntary oath. See VOLUNTARY AFFIDAVIT.

voluntary school. A church, national, or British, school provided for and maintained largely by voluntary subscriptions instead of wholly by government grants, and with certain rights of control vested in a board of managers. A voluntary school partly maintained out of the rates is called a nonprovided school. See COUNCIL SCHOOL. Eng.

voluntary waste. See WASTE, n., 12.

vol'un·ta'tive (vŏl'ŭn·tā'tĭv), adj. Voluntary.

vol'un·teer' (vŏl'ŭn·tĕr'), n. [F. volontaire, now volontaire, orig. adj., fr. L. voluntarius. See VOLUNTARY.]
1. One who enters into, or offers himself for, any service of his own free will.
2. A volunteer plant, tree, or the like.
3. A voluntary deed, offer, remark, or the like. Rare.
4. Law. a A voluntary actor, performer, or agent, in any transaction (see VOLUNTARY, adj., 8). b The grantee in a voluntary conveyance; one to whom a conveyance is made without valuable consideration.
5. Mil. One who enters into service voluntarily, but who is then subject to discipline and regulations like other soldiers; — opposed to conscript.

vol'un·teer', adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a volunteer or volunteers; consisting of volunteers; voluntary; as, volunteer companies; volunteer advice.
2. Growing spontaneously; springing from self-sown seed; as, a volunteer crop, plant, or tree; volunteer growth in a forest before reproduction measures are begun.

vol'un·teer', v. i.; VOL'UN·TEERED' (-tĕrd'); VOL'UN·TEER'·ING. To offer or bestow voluntarily, or without solicitation or compulsion; as, to volunteer one's services. — v. t. To enter into, or offer oneself for, any service of one's own free will, without solicitation or compulsion; to offer; as, to volunteer in an undertaking, for the army, to do something.
Syn. — Proffer, offer. Ant. — Withdraw; refuse; begrudge.

vol'un·teer'ly, adv. As a volunteer.

volunteer militia. In Massachusetts, the organized militia of the Commonwealth under the immediate supervision and direction of the Adjutant General.

volunteer navy. A navy of vessels fitted out and manned by volunteers who sail under the flag of the regular navy and are subject to naval discipline. Prussia in 1870, in the Franco-Prussian war, organized such a navy, which was commanded by merchant seamen with temporary commissions, with the claim (in which England acquiesced) that such a vessel did not come within the meaning of privateer.

Volunteers of America. A religious and philanthropic organization, similar to the Salvation Army, founded in 1896 by Commander and Mrs. Ballington Booth.

Volunteer State. Tennessee; — a nickname. vol'un·ty (vŏl'ŭn·tĭ), n. [OF. volonté, fr. L. voluntas.] One's desire; also, volition. Obs.

vol'u·per (vŏl'ū·pĕr), n. [OF., to wrap up. See ENVELOPE.] A woman's cap or hood. Obs.

vo·lupt' (vō·lŭpt'), n. [OF. volupté.] Pleasure. Obs.

vo·lupt', v. i. To act the voluptuary. Rare.

vo·lup'tas (vō·lŭp'tăs), n. [L.] Pleasure; specif., sexual pleasure.

vo·lup'tu·ar'y (vō·lŭp'tū·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [L. voluptuarius for voluptarius, fr. voluptas pleasure.] A voluptuous person; one who makes luxury and the gratification of sensual appetites his chief care; a sensualist.
A good-humored, but hardhearted, voluptuary. Scott.

vo·lup'tu·ar'y, adj. Voluptuous; luxurious. Now Rare.

vo·lup'tu·ate (vō·lŭp'tū·āt), v. t. To make voluptuous. Obs. — v. i. To luxuriate. Rare.

vo·lup'tu·os'i·ty (-ŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Voluptuousness.

vo·lup'tu·ous (vō·lŭp'tū·ŭs), adj. [OF. voluptueux, fr. L. voluptuosus, fr. voluptas pleasure; akin to Gr. elpesthai to hope, elpis hope, and to L. velle to wish. See VOLUNTARY.] 1. Full of delight or pleasure, esp. that of the senses; ministering to, pertaining to, inclining to, or arising from, sensuous or sensual gratification; luxurious; sensuous; as, voluptuous charms.
Music arose with its voluptuous swell. Byron.
Sink back into your voluptuous repose. De Quincey.
2. Given to, or spent in, enjoyments of luxury, pleasure, or sensual gratifications. "Voluptuous livers." Atterbury.
Softened with pleasure and voluptuous life. Milton.
Syn. — See SENSUOUS.
Ant. — Ascetic, austere. See STRICT.
— vo·lup'tu·ous·ly, adv. — vo·lup'tu·ous·ness, n.

vo'lup·ty (vō'lŭp·tĭ), n. [OF. volupté pleasure.] Pleasure; now, usually, sexual pleasure.

Vō'lu·spa (vūl'ōō·spä), n. [ON. Völuspá.] 1. Literally, the song of the prophetess, or sibyl; — one of the Eddaic poems, treating of the origin of the world, the meetings of the gods, the war of the Aesir and Vanir, the final struggle and catastrophe, and the restoration and return of the gods in a new existence.
2. [not cap.] Erroneously, in the form voluspa, a Norse prophetess or sibyl. Scott.

vo·lu'ta (vō·lū'tä), n.; pl. VOLUTAE (-tē). [L.] 1. = VOLUTE.
2. [cap.] Zool. A genus of marine gastropods. See VOLUTE, n., 3.

vol'u·tate (vŏl'ū·tāt), v. i. [L. volutare to roll, wallow, verb freq. fr. volvere, volutum, to roll.] To roll; to wallow. — vol'u·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n.

vo·lute' (vō·lūt'), n. [F., fr. It. voluta, fr. L. voluta, fr. volvere, volutum, to roll. See VOLUME.] 1. A spiral or scroll-like conformation; also, an object or part of spiral or scroll-like form.
The bright, overturning volute of a wave. Atlantic Monthly.
2. Arch. A spiral scroll-shaped ornament, esp. that which forms the chief feature of the Ionic capital, and which, on a much smaller scale, is a feature in the Corinthian and Composite capitals. See CAPITAL and ORDER, Illusts.
3. Mach. The spiral casing surrounding the impeller of a volute pump; also, the pump itself.
4. Zool. A turn, or whorl, of a spiral shell.
5. Zool. Any of numerous marine univalves of Voluta and allied genera of the family Volutidae. Their shell is usually rather thick, has a short spire, wide aperture, conspicuous columellar folds, and commonly is inoperculate. They occur in all seas, but esp. in the Indian and South Pacific oceans. Many of the species are ornamented with plaits, spines, ridges, etc., or are handsomely colored. Cf. MUSIC SHELL.

Volute, 5 (Voluta imperialis).

vo·lute', adj. [L. volutus, past part. See VOLUTE, n.] Having a spiral or scroll-like form; voluted; rolled up; as, a volute ornament, coil, or casing; also, Mach., having a part of spiral form or operating with a rotary action.

volute centrifugal pump, volute pump. A centrifugal pump with a spiral casing. See 2d PUMP, 1.

volute compass. See COMPASS, n., 7.

vo·lut'ed (vō·lūt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having a volute, or spiral scroll.

Vo'lu·tel'la (vŏl'ū·tĕl'ä), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. voluta. See VOLUTE.] Bot. A genus of imperfect fungi (family Tuberculariaceae), characterized by setose sporodochia and unicellular ovoid to oblong conidia. V. fructi causes a dry rot of apples.

volute spring. A spring formed of a conically spiral coil of plate, rod, or wire, extended or extensible in the direction of the axis of the coil, in which direction its elastic force is exerted. See SPRING, Illust.

Vo·lu'ti·dae (vō·lū'tĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family of Rachiglossa comprising the volutes. See VOLUTE, n., 5. — vol'u·toid (vŏl'ū·toid), adj. & n.

vo·lu'ti·form (-fôrm), adj. Of volute form, or shape.

vol'u·tin (vŏl'ū·tĭn), n. [First found in the bacterium Spirillum volutans. See VOLUTATE.] Biol. A chromatoid substance, occurring as metachromatic granules (volutin granules) in the cytoplasm of various cells, regarded by some as a reserve material for the formation of chromatin.

vo·lu'tion (vō·lū'shŭn), n. [Cf. ML. volutio an arch, vault. See VOLUTE.] 1. A rolling; revolving; a twist; a spiral turn or wreath; a convolution.
2. Zool. A whorl of a spiral shell; a volute.

vol'va (vŏl'vä), n. [L. See VULVA.] Bot. A membranous bulbous sac surrounding the base of the stipe in many gill fungi, as of the genus Amanita. It is formed by the rupture of the velum universale. Its presence or absence is often an important distinguishing character. Cf. VELUM, 2 a; see DEATH CUP, Illust.

vol'va (vŏl'vä), n. [ON. völva.] Norse Myth. A wise woman; seeress. Völuspa, the song of the volva, is the most famous poem of the Poetic Edda (see EDDA).

Vol·va'ri·a (vŏl·vā'rĭ·ä; 79), n. [NL. See 1st VOLVA.] Bot. A genus of agarics characterized by pink spores and a distinct volva. V. bombycina is parasitic on various trees.

vol'vate (vŏl'vāt), adj. Bot. Provided with, or characterized by, a volva.

volve (vŏlv), v. t. & i. [L. volvere to turn.] To turn over; to consider. Obs.

vol'velle (vŏl'vĕl; vŏl·vĕl'), n. Also vol'vell. [ML. vollella, volvellum, fr. L. volvere to turn. See REVOLVE.] An old contrivance for ascertaining the time of the rising and setting of the moon and sun, the time of high and low tide, etc.; — called also lunary. It consists of one or more movable circles with pointers and figures of the moon and sun, etc., which are placed upon several graduated and figured circles drawn on the leaf of a book. b Any similar contrivance for showing variations.

vol'vent (vŏl'vĕnt), adj. [L. volvens, -entis, pres. part. of volvere. See VOLUBLE.] Turning or turning about. Rare.

Vol'vo·ca'ce·ae (vŏl'vō·kā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Volvox + -aceae.] Bot. A family of unicellular or colonial, biflagellate, free-swimming flagellates, typified by the genus Volvox and commonly regarded as green algae of the class Chlorophyceae. The family typifies an order, Vol'vo·ca'les (-lēz). — vol'vo·ca'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Vol·voc'i·dae (vŏl·vŏs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A family of flagellates (order Phytomonadina) more or less equiv. to the Volvocaceae.

Vol'vox (vŏl'vŏks), n. [NL., fr. L. volvere to roll.] Biol. A genus of minute, pale-green flagellates, occurring in spherical colonies (coenobia) about one fiftieth of an inch in diameter and often found traveling through water, rotating about an axis so that one end is constantly anterior, propelled by their minute colorless flagella. They are commonly treated as green algae typifying the botanical family Volvocaceae, but are sometimes regarded as protozoans typifying the zoological family Volvocidae. The commonest is V. perglobator, often called globe animalcule and rolling alga.

Volvox (V. globator). A colony enclosing daughter colonies. (× 30) vol'vu·lus (-vū·lŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. volvere to turn about, to roll.] Med. Any twisting of the intestines causing obstruction. See ILEUS.

vo'mer (vō'mĕr), n. [L., a plowshare. See WEDGE.] Anat. & Zool. 1. A bone of the skull of most vertebrates, situated below the ethmoidal region. It develops from lateral halves which remain separate in some animals. In man it forms a vertical plate, pointed in front and expanding at the upper back part into lateral alae, or wings, whence the name plowshare bone. It forms part of the nasal septum. The vomer of teleost fishes forms the front part of the roof of the mouth and often bears teeth.
2. The pygostyle.

vo'mer·ine (vō'mĕr·ĭn; vŏm'ĕr-), adj. Pert. to the vomer.

vom'er·o- (vŏm'ĕr·ō-). A combining form for vomer, denoting vomerine and, as in vom'er·o·bas'i·lar.

vom'er·o·na'sal (vŏm'ĕr·ō·nā'zăl; -z'l), adj. Anat. Pertaining to the vomer and the nasal region; designating, or pertaining to, Jacobson's organ, Jacobson's cartilage, etc.; as, the vomeronasal nerve, a special branch from the olfactory bulb on either side, distributed to Jacobson's organ. In the frog there is an accessory olfactory bulb for this nerve.

vom'er·o·pal'a·tine (-păl'ä·tĭn; -tīn), adj. Zool. Designating a bone in the roof of the mouth of ganoid fishes and some amphibians, formed by the fusion of the vomer and the palatine bones. — n. A vomeropalatine bone.

vom'i·ca (vŏm'ĭ·kä), n. [L., an abscess, fr. vomere to discharge, vomit.] Med. a A cavity in the lungs, as from suppuration or tuberculosis. b An abscess in any other parenchymatous organ.

vom'i·cine (vŏm'ĭ·sēn; -sĭn), n. Also -cin. [From nux vomica.] Chem. a Brucine. b A crystalline alkaloid, $C_{23}H_{26}N_2O_4$, occurring with brucine.

vom'it (-ĭt), n. [L. vomitus, fr. vomere, vomitum, to vomit; akin to Gr. emein, Lith. vemti, Skr. vamati he vomits. Cf. EMETIC.] 1. a Act or instance of vomiting. b That which is vomited; esp., matter ejected from the stomach through the mouth.
2. That which excites vomiting; an emetic.
3. A sickness characterized by vomiting; as, the black vomit (which see).
4. Paper Mfg. The hood or cover of a rag boiler by which the liquid forced up by the steam from the central steam pipe is distributed over the boiler.

vom'it, v.; VOM'IT·ED; VOM'IT·ING. [From L. vomere, vomitum, or v. freq. vomitare. See VOMIT, n.] Intransitive: 1. To eject the contents of the stomach by the mouth; to spew.
2. To be ejected or emitted; to come forth violently.
3. To cause vomiting; — of emetics.
—, Transitive: 1. To throw up; to eject from the stomach through the mouth; to spew; — often with up or out.
The fish . . . vomited out Jonah. Jonah ii. 10.
2. To eject, give forth, or discharge, as if by vomiting; to eject violently or copiously; to belch forth; as, volcanoes vomit lava; also, to cast off or get rid of with repugnance, or the like.
3. To cause (one) to vomit.
— vom'it·er, n.

vom'it·ing, n. Spasmodic ejection of matter from the stomach through the mouth; also, matter vomited; vomit.

vom'it·ing, adj. That vomits or causes vomiting. — vom'it·ing·ly, adv.

vomiting center. Physiol. A nerve center in the medulla oblongata concerned in the act of vomiting.

vomiting gas. See CHLOROPICRIN.

vomiting nut. Nux vomica. Obs.

vo·mi'tion (vō·mĭsh'ŭn), n. [L. vomitio.] Act of vomiting.

vom'i·tive (vŏm'ĭ·tĭv), adj. [Cf. F. vomitif.] Of, pertaining to, or causing, vomiting; emetic. — vom'i·tive, n. — vom'i·tive·ness, n.

vomit nut. Nux vomica.

vom'i·to (vŏm'ĭ·tō; Sp. vō'mē·tō), n. Also vom'i·to ne'gro. [Sp. vómito, fr. L. vomitus. See VOMIT, n.] Med. Black vomit.

vom'i·to·ry (vŏm'ĭ·tō·rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. vomitorius.] Causing vomiting; emetic; vomitive.

vom'i·to·ry, n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). 1. An emetic.
2. A means, as an opening or vent, or an agency, for the discharge or emission of something.
3. [LL. vomitorium.] Arch. An entrance piercing the banks of seats of a theater or amphitheater.

vom'i·ture (vŏm'ĭ·tūr), n. [See -URE.] Vomited matter. R.

vom'i·tu·ri'tion (-tū·rĭsh'ŭn), n. [Cf. F. vomituition.] Med. a Repeated ineffectual attempts at vomiting; retching. b The vomiting of but little matter; also, that vomiting which is effected with little effort.

vom'i·tus (vŏm'ĭ·tŭs), n. [L.] a Vomiting. b That which is vomited.

‖von (fŏn), prep. [G.] Of, from. In German and Austrian personal names, von, originally prefixed to a place name and formerly and still often the sign of nobility of birth, is now often used, prefixed to the family name, as a title of individual distinction. In foreign usage the von is written with a small "v"; in American and British usage the style of the individual owner of the name is generally followed. For the alphabetization in this Dictionary of names with von, see the notes preceding the Biographical Dictionary.

von Baer's law (fŏn bârz′). [After K. E. von Baer, Ger embryologist.] Biol. The principle that the development of an organism is a progress from the general to the special, and that the embryos belonging to various classes closely resemble one another in their earlier stages, but diverge more and more as development proceeds.

von Behr trout (fŏn bâr′). The European brown trout (Salmo fario).

von Graefe sign (fŏn grā′fĕ). [After A. von Graefe (1828–70), Ger. ophthalmologist.] Med. Failure of the upper eyelid to follow promptly and smoothly the downward movement of the eyeball, a sign occurring in exophthalmic goiter.

von Jaksch's a·ne′mi·a or dis·ease′ (yäk′shĭz). [After R. von Jaksch (b. 1855), Prague physician.] Med. A form of anemia occurring in infants, characterized by enlargement of the spleen and lymph glands without increase of the lymphocytes in the blood stream.

von Mo′na·kow's tract (mō′nä·kŏfs). [After C. von Monakow (b. 1853), Russ. histologist.] = RUBROSPINAL TRACT.

von Pir·quet's test (pĕr·kāz′; pēr′kĕz′). = PIRQUET TEST.

von Reck′ling·hau′sen's dis·ease′ (rĕk′lĭng·hou′zĕnz). Med. Recklinghausen's disease.

von′sen·ite (vŏn′sĕn·ĭt), n. [After M. Vonsen, Am. mineralogist.] Mineral. An iron and magnesium borate, $3(Fe,Mg)O.B_2O_3.FeO.Fe_2O_3$, occurring in coal-black crystalline masses.

voo′doo (vōō′dōō; vōō·dōō′), n. [Creole F. voudou, fr. Ewe vodu. Cf. HOODOO.] 1. Voodooism.
2. One who practices voodooism; a negro sorcerer.
3. Voodoo magic; as, to work voodoo; also, a voodoo charm, fetish, or the like.

voo′doo, adj. Of or pertaining to voodooism or to the spell, magic, charm, fetish, etc., of a sorcerer of voodooistic cult.

voo′doo (vōō′dōō; vōō·dōō′), v. t.; VOO′DOOED (-dōōd; -dōōd′); VOO′DOO·ING. To affect by voodoo sorcery.

voo′doo·ism (-ĭz′m), n. [From VOODOO.] 1. [often cap.] A negro religion, originating in Africa as a form of ophiolatry, now found chiefly among the negroes of Haiti, and, to some extent, of other West Indian islands and the United States; also, belief in or practice of this religion. In practice, voodooism consists largely of sorcery. It formerly, in some rites, included human sacrifice and cannibalism. Cf. OBEAH.
2. In loose usage: a Any form of magic or ritualism peculiar to negro peoples. b Any form of magic working.
— voo′doo·ist (-ĭst), n. — voo′doo·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj.

‖voor′huis′ (fōr′hŭs′), n. [D., hall. See FORE; HOUSE.] A living room or sitting room immediately within the front entrance of a house. S. Africa.

‖voor′trek′ker (fōr′trĕk′ĕr), n. [D. See FORE-, FOR; TREK.] An advanced pioneer; esp. [cap.], a Boer who took part in the trek from Cape Colony to the Transvaal in 1834–37. S. Africa.

vo·ra′cious (vō·rā′shŭs), adj. [L. vorax, -acis, fr. vorare to devour; akin to Gr. bora meat, food, βιβρώσκειν to devour, L. vorago, gurges, abyss, whirlpool, Lith. gerti to drink, Skr. girati he swallows, devours. Cf. CARNIVOROUS, DEVOUR, GARGLE, GORGE, OMNIVOROUS, REGURGITATE.] a Greedy in eating; very hungry; ravenous; gluttonous; rapacious; as, a voracious man or appetite; a voracious gulf or whirlpool. b Excessively eager; immoderate; insatiable; as, a voracious reader.
Syn. — See GREEDY.
Ant. — Abstemious, temperate. See MODERATE.
— vo·ra′cious·ly, adv. — vo·ra′cious·ness, n.

vo·rac′i·ty (vō·răs′ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. voracité, fr. L. voracitas.] Quality of being voracious; voraciousness.

vo·rag′i·nous (vō·răj′ĭ·nŭs), adj. [L. voraginosus, fr. vorago an abyss. See VORACIOUS.] Pertaining to a gulf; full of gulfs; hence, devouring. Rare.

vo·ra′go (vō·rā′gō), n. [L.] A gulf; an abyss.

vo′rant (vō′rănt; 181), adj. [L. vorans, -antis, pres. part.] Devouring; — now only in Her.

vor′hand′ (fōr′hănt′), n. [G., lit., fore hand.] Skat. The player or position on the left of the dealer; the age. On the vorhand's left is mittelhand.

vo′ron·dre′o (vō′rŏn·drā′ō), n. [Malagasy.] The kirombo.

-vorous. A combining form, Latin -vorus, from vorare, to devour, signifying eating, feeding on, consuming, as in herbi*vorous*. Cf. -PHAGOUS. Corresponding nouns in -vora denote orders and genera, and in -vore denote an individual member, as in Carni*vora*, Herbi*vora*, herbi*vore*.

aurivorous	herbivorous	ossivorous baccivorous	insectivorous	ovivorous calcivorous	larvivorous	piscivorous carnivorous	lignivorous	radicivorous crucivorous	mellivorous	ranivorous frugivorous	mucivorous	reptilivorous gallivorous	nucivorous	sanguivorous graminivorous	omnivorous	vermivorous granivorous

vor′pal (vôr′păl), adj. A word coined by Lewis Carroll (in his "Jabberwocky" poem) in the phrase vorpal blade, and now often used with about the sense of "keen-edged."

‖Vor′schu′le (fōr′shōō′lĕ), n. [Gr., fr. vor fore + schule school.] The first three years of a German Gymnasium.

‖Vor′spiel′ (fōr′shpēl′), n. [G.] Music. A prelude; an overture.

‖Vor′stel′lung (fōr′shtĕl′ŏŏng), n.; pl. -LUNGEN (-ĕn). [G., fr. vor before + stellen to place.] A representation; a mental presentation, esp. of sensuous image or idea.

vor′tex (vôr′tĕks), n.; pl. -TEXES (-tĕk·sĕz; -sĭz; 119), VORTICES (-tĭ·sēz). [L. vortex, var. of vertex, -tĭcis. See VERTEX.] 1. A mass of fluid, esp. of a liquid, having a whirling or circular motion tending to form a cavity or vacuum in the center of the circle, and to draw toward this bodies subject to its action; the form assumed by a fluid in such motion; a whirlpool; eddy.
2. A supposed collection of particles of very subtle matter, endowed with a rapid rotary motion around an axis which was also the axis of a sun or a planet. Descartes attempted to account for the formation of the universe, and the movements of the bodies composing it, by a theory of vortexes.
3. Something resembling a vortex (sense 1) as in form or action; as, a vortex of flame; specif., a column of whirling wind, as a dust whirl, a waterspout, or a tornado; a whirlwind.
4. Hence, figuratively: a A state of affairs characterized by rapidity of change, constant excitement, or the like; sometimes, a rapid round of activities. b Something that draws or tends to draw one with compelling or irresistible force.
5. [cap.] Zool. A genus of small Turbellaria (order Rhabdocoelida). They have the mouth ventral and near the anterior end of the body, the pharynx cask-shaped, and the generative opening single.

vortex atom. See VORTEX THEORY.

vortex filament. A vortex tube of infinitesimal cross section. See FILAMENT, 5.

vortex fringe. The region immediately surrounding a disk moving flatwise through air; — so called because the air has a cyclic motion as in a vortex ring.

vortex line. Hydrodyn. A line in a fluid whose tangent at every point has the direction of the curl of the velocity vector at that point.

vortex of the heart. Anat. The spiral arrangement of the muscular fibers at the apex of the heart.

vortex plate. A thin plate of metal or other elastic material for the illustration of the modes of vibration of sounding bodies, as in sonorous figures (which see).

vortex ring. Physics. A vortex filament in the shape of a ring. It is more or less distinctly separated from the surrounding medium and has many of the properties of a solid.

vortex sheet. An imaginary surface or layer within a rotating fluid, made by drawing the vortex lines through every point of any given line within the fluid.

vortex theory. Chem. & Physics. The theory, advanced by Thomson (Lord Kelvin) on the basis of investigations by Helmholtz, that the atoms are vortically moving ring-shaped masses (or masses of other forms having a similar internal motion) of a homogeneous, incompressible, frictionless fluid. Various properties of such atoms (vortex atoms) can be mathematically deduced.

vortex tube. Physics. An imaginary tube within a rotating fluid, formed by drawing the vortex lines through all points of a closed curve.

vortex wheel. A kind of water turbine.

vor′ti·cal (vôr′tĭ·kăl), adj. Of or pertaining to a vortex or vortexes; resembling a vortex in form or motion; whirling; as, a vortical motion. — vor′ti·cal·ly, adv.

vortical motion. Motion of a fluid in which infinitesimal rectilinear elements rotate about an axis.

vor′ti·cel (vôr′tĭ·sĕl), n. [Cf. F. vorticelle. See VORTEX.] Zool. A vorticella.

Vor′ti·cel′la (-sĕl′ȧ), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. vortex. See VORTEX.] 1. Zool. A genus of Infusoria having a more or less bell-shaped body with a circle of vibrating cilia around the oral disc, supported on a slender, contractile stem. They occur both in salt and fresh water, usually on a submerged object. Vorticella, a solitary genus, and Epistylis and other closely related colonial genera, constitute a family, Vor′ti·cel′li·dae (-sĕl′ĭ·dē). — vor′ti·cel′lid (-lĭd), n. & adj.

Vorticella. Much enlarged.

2. [not cap.] pl. -LAE (-ē). Any species of Vorticella or, loosely, of the family Vorticellidae.

Vor·tic′i·dae (vôr·tĭs′ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family of which Vortex is the type.

vor·tic′i·form (-fôrm), adj. Having the form of a vortex.

vor′ti·cism (vôr′tĭ·sĭz′m), n. [See VORTEX.] Art. The theory of certain English painters (1913–22), under cubistic influence, that art should reflect the complexity of the machine and modern industrial civilization, — a phase of post-impressionism. — vor′ti·cist (-sĭst), n.

vor·tic′i·ty (vôr·tĭs′ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [See VORTEX.] The state of a fluid which is in vortical motion; specif., ½ curl q, where q is the velocity at a point.

vor′ti·cose (vôr′tĭ·kōs), adj. [L. vorticosus.] Vortical; whirling; as, a vorticose motion. — vor′ti·cose·ly, adv.

vor·tic′u·lar (vôr·tĭk′ū·lĕr), adj. Vorticose. — vor·tic′u·lar·ly, adv.

Vor′ti·gern (vôr′tĭ·gĕrn), n. A legendary prince of one of the British tribes. He is said to have invited the Jutes to Britain to aid him against the Picts and to have married Hengist's daughter Rowena.

vor·tig′i·nous (vôr·tĭj′ĭ·nŭs), adj. [See VERTIGINOUS.] Moving rapidly round a center; vortical; whirling.

vory-, vorz-. For words in vory-, vorz-, see FORY-, FORS-.

Vos′gi·an (vŏz′hĭ·ăn), adj. Also Vos′ge·an (-zhē·ăn). Of or pertaining to the Vosges Mountains, eastern France.

vo′ta (vō′tȧ), n. pl. [L.] Rom. Relig. Festivals marked by public vows in behalf of the state (Jan. 1) or of the emperor (Jan. 3).

vot′a·ble, vote′a·ble (vōt′ȧ·b'l), adj. a Capable, or having the right, of voting. b Capable of being submitted to a vote.

vo′tal (vō′tăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, of the nature of, or involving, a vow or promise; also, votive. — vo′tal·ly, adv.

Vo·tan′ (vō·tän′), n. A deified culture hero of the Tzentales, similar to Quetzalcoatl (which see).

vo′ta·ress (vō′tȧ·rĕs; -rĭs; 119), n. [See VOTARY.] A woman votary.

vo′ta·rist (-rĭst), n. A votary.

vo′ta·ry (-rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [L. vovere, votum, to vow. See VOTE, VOW.] One devoted, consecrated, or engaged, by a vow or promise; hence, esp., one devoted, given, or addicted, as to some particular service, pursuit, or state of life; a devoted adherent; as, a votary of science.
Syn. — Devotee, zealot, adherent, enthusiast.
Ant. — Enemy, foe, antagonist.

vo′ta·ry (-rĭ), adj. Consecrated by a vow or promise; consequent on a vow; devoted; promised. "Votary resolution." Bacon.

vo·ta′tion (vō·tā′shŭn), n. Act of voting; casting of votes.

vote (vōt), n. [L. votum a vow, wish, will. See VOW, n.] 1. Obs. a A vow. b A prayer. c An ardent wish or desire.
2. A wish, choice, or opinion, of a person or a body of persons, expressed in some received and authorized way, as by a ballot or viva voce; the formal expression of a wish, will, or choice, in regard to any measure proposed, esp. where the person voting has an interest in common with others, either in electing a person to office, or in passing laws, rules, regulations, etc.; a suffrage.
3. Expression of judgment or will by a majority; legal decision by some expression of the minds of a number; as, the vote was unanimous; a vote of confidence.
4. Votes collectively; the collective opinion of a group, party, or assembly; as, the prohibition vote.
5. The right to exercise a wish, choice, or expression of will; the right of suffrage; as, to have the vote.
6. A person considered as having the right to vote; a voter.
7. That by means of which will or preference is expressed in elections, or in deciding propositions, as the voice, a ball, a ballot, a ticket, a voting paper; as, a written vote.
8. Opinion, esp. stated opinion; a statement. Obs.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

vote-bringing, adj.	vote counting	vote hunting vote buying	vote-earning, adj.	vote-hunting, adj.
vote-buying, adj.	vote-gaining, adj.	vote-losing, adj.
vote-casting, adj.	vote getter	votemonger vote-catching, adj.	vote getting	vote-recording, adj.
vote checking	vote-getting, adj.	vote-seeking, adj.
vote counter	vote hunter	vote-winning, adj.

vote (vōt), v.; VOT′ED (vōt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); VOT′ING (vōt′ĭng). Intransitive: 1. To vow; to assign or dedicate, as with a vow. Rare.
2. To express or signify the mind, will, or preference, either viva voce or by ballot, etc., as a means of deciding on any proposition in which one has an interest with others; to cast or give a vote; as, the right to vote; — used often with an adjective complement or with a noun in the adverbial accusative; as, to vote Republican; to vote dry.
—, Transitive: 1. To enact, establish, determine, bring about, effect, etc., by a formal vote; as, to vote a candidate into office.
2. To grant or confer by a vote; as, the legislature voted the appropriation.
3. To declare by general opinion or common consent, as if by a vote; as, he was voted a bore. Colloq.
4. To propose or suggest; as, I vote that we stay. Colloq.
5. To induce to vote, esp. in a particular way; also, to influence or to control the vote of. Colloq.
6. To cast a vote or ballot for.

vote down. To put down or defeat by voting; to give a general decision against.

vote in. To put in, or choose, by voting; to elect.

vote plump. Formerly, to vote a straight ticket. U. S.

Vo′te (vō′tā), n. One of a Finnic tribe in Ingria; also, their language, now almost extinct. See FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES.

vo·teen′ (vō·tēn′), n. [Cf. DEVOTEE.] A religious devotee. Ir.

vote of no confidence. Parliamentary Practice. The legal formal method by which a legislative body, by a majority vote, forces the resignation of a ministry (cabinet) in those states in which responsible (parliamentary) government exists.

vot′er (vōt′ĕr), n. One who votes; one who has a legal right to vote, or give his suffrage; an elector.

vot′ing (vōt′ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. Specif.: part. adj. That votes or records a vote or votes; used in voting; also, carrying or conferring the right to vote; as, the voting stock of a company.

voting machine. A mechanical device for recording and counting the votes of the electorate; a votometer.

voting trust. A trust created by a transfer of shares in a corporation by shareholders to trustees, to hold and vote on them for a specified period, in order to secure a certain line of corporate actions.

‖vo′ti re′us (vō′tĭ rē′ŭs). [L.] One who is bound by a vow; one who is pledged. See GUILTY OF A VOW.

Vo′tish (vō′tĭsh), n. The language of the Votes.

vo′tist (vō′tĭst), n. One who makes a vow. Obs.

vo′tive (vō′tĭv), adj. [L. votivus, fr. votum a vow. See VOW.] 1. Given by vow, or in fulfillment of a vow or promise, or in devotion; consecrated by a vow; devoted; as, votive offerings.
Embellishments of flowers and votive garlands. Motley.
2. Done or observed in fulfillment of a vow. Rare.
3. Of the nature of or expressing a vow, or a wish or desire.
— vo′tive·ly, adv. — vo′tive·ness, n.

votive Mass. R.C.Ch. a A Mass not corresponding to the Divine Office for the day on which it is celebrated and offered for a special intention or through a particular devotion. b Any of a number of Masses, included in the missal and called votive Masses, such as the votive Mass of the Holy Trinity, for Peace, etc.

votive medal. A medal struck in grateful commemoration of some auspicious event.

votive offering. a An offering in fulfillment of a religious vow. b See PEACE OFFERING.

votive office. R.C.Ch. An office or service undertaken and fulfilled as a matter of special devotion or in accordance with a special vow.

Vo′to (vō′tō), n. See RAMA.

vo·tom′e·ter (vō·tŏm′ĕ·tĕr), n. [vote + -meter.] A voting machine.

vo′tress (vō′trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. a A votaress. b Rare. A woman voter.

Vo′ty·ak (vō′tĭ·ăk), n. One of a Finno-Ugrian people living in Russia between the upper Kama and its tributary the Vyatka, chiefly in the Votyak autonomous area; also, their language. See FINNO-UGRIAN LANGUAGES.

Vou′a·ca·pou′a (vōō′ȧ·kȧ pōō′ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Galibi wakápu.] Syn. of ANDIRA.

vouch (vouch), v.; VOUCHED (voucht); VOUCH′ING. [OF. voucher, vochier, fr. L. vocare to call. The E. word is in part a shortening of avouch. See VOICE; cf. AVOUCH.] Transitive: 1. a Archaic. To call; summon; esp., to call to witness. b To appeal to or cite as authority or by way of support. "Vouch the silent stars." Dryden.
2. To vow. Obs.
3. a Now Rare. To declare; allege b To affirm or attest, as a statement or its truth or accuracy; to maintain by affirmation; to warrant; to bear witness to; also, to answer or stand sponsor for.
4. To back; support; confirm; second. Rare.
Such bold words vouched with a deed so bold. Milton.
5. = VOUCHSAFE, v. t., 2. Archaic.
6. Law. a Formerly, to call into court to warrant and defend, or to make good a warranty of title, as in a fine and recovery. b To support or maintain, as a claim, by producing witnesses or vouchers. Obs., exc. specif.: To authenticate, as a claim, by vouchers.
—, Intransitive: 1. To make invocations; to pray. Obs.
2. To make a vow; to resolve. Obs.

---

vom′it·wort′ (vŏm′ĭt·wûrt′), n. = INDIAN TOBACCO 2. U. S. vond·si′ra (vŏnd·sĭ′rȧ), n. = VANSIRE. voog. Var. of VUG.
‖voor′loop′er (fōr′lōp′ĕr), n. [D. See FORELOOPER.] = FORELOOPER. S. Africa.
Voph′si (vŏf′sĭ). Bib. [Dial.] vor (vôr). Var. of FORE. Obs. exc. -vora. See -VOROUS. vorage, n. [OF.] = VORAGO. Obs. vorŏ-. For words formerly spelled vorb-, see FORB-. vore. Var. of VOAR, [exc. Dial.] vore (vôr). Var. of FORE. Obs.
-vore. See -VOROUS.
Vor′lăn·der rule (fôr′lĕn·dĕr). [After D. Vorländer (b. 1867), Ger. chemist.] Chem. See CRUM BROWN-GIBSON RULE. vor′loop′er (fôr′lōp′ĕr), n. = FORELOOPER. [LESS.] vorlore. Obs. past part. of FORLOSE. vorth-. For words formerly spelled vorth-, see FORTH. vor·tĭ′cial, adj. = VORTICAL.
Vor·tum′nus (vôr·tŭm′nŭs), n. See VERTUMNUS.
Vot. Var. of VOTE. vote′less, adj. See -LESS.
Voth. Var. of VOTE. [VOTYAK.] Vo′ti·ak (vō′tĭ·ăk). Var. of vo′tiv. Votive. Ref. Sp.
‖vo′tum cas′ti·ta′tis. [L.] A vow of chastity.

3. To bear witness; to give testimony or full attestation.
He will not believe her until the elector of Hanover shall vouch for the truth of what she has . . . affirmed. Swift.
4. To make assertion; to affirm. Shak.
5. = VOUCHSAFE, v. i., 1 & 2. Obs. R. Greene.
Syn. — VOUCH, ATTEST are often used with little distinction. But in ordinary usage to VOUCH (often for) is esp. to guarantee or stand surety for; to ATTEST is to affirm or certify to; as, "I . . . will vouch the truth of it" (Shak.); to vouch for one's honesty; "The pleader . . . had witness ready to attest . . . that every article was true" (Swift); "My diligence and accuracy were attested by my own conscience" (Gibbon). Cf. AFFIRM. vouch over. Law. Formerly, to cite (another) into court in one's stead; — used also absolutely.
vouch (vouch), n. Assertion; attestation. vouch'a·ble (vouch'ȧ·b'l), adj. Citable as support. Obs.
vouch'ee' (vouch'ē'), n. a Early English Law. The person vouched into court, as in a fine and recovery. b A person cited as authority or by way of support.
vouch'er (vouch'ẽr), n. [AF. inf. as n. See VOUCH, n.] Early English Law. Act of vouching a person to make good his warranty of title, as in a fine and recovery.
vouch'er, n. 1. One who vouches, or gives witness or full attestation, to anything, or acts as a surety.
The great writers of that age stand up together as vouchers for one another's reputation. Spectator.
2. A book, paper, or other thing, which serves to vouch the truth of accounts, or to confirm and establish facts of any kind; specif., any receipt or the like showing payment of a debt; as, paid checks are his vouchers. In accounting, more specifically, a paper which certifies the correctness of, and authorizes detailed entry for, a transaction.
3. [Cf. AF. vocheur.] Early English Law. One who vouches another to establish his warranty of title, as in a fine and recovery; the tenant in a writ of right.
vouch'er (vouch'ẽr), v. t. To act or serve as a voucher for; to attest; certify; also, to prepare a voucher or vouchers for (a bill, account, etc.).
voucher check. Accounting. A check bearing upon it, or upon a detachable stub, notation of the invoices or items covered by the check.
voucher register. Accounting. A columnar record book for vouchers payable.
vouchers payable. Accounting. a Vouchers authorizing cash disbursements. b A control account on a general ledger, the balance of which should agree with the total of unpaid vouchers payable as shown in the voucher register and in the unpaid voucher file; — often called accounts payable.
voucher system. Accounting. A system in which purchases, expenses, and items to be paid, are approved and entry authorized on vouchers which are recorded in a voucher register. The register and the vouchers take the place of a creditors' or accounts payable ledger. vouch'ment, n. A solemn assertion. Rare. vouch-safe' (vouch-sāf'), v.; VOUCH-SAFED' (-sāft'); VOUCHSAF'ING (-sāf'ĭng). [vouch + safe, i. e., to vouch or answer for as safe; orig. two words.] Transitive: 1. To guarantee as safe; to assure; guarantee. Obs.
2. To condescend to grant; to concede; bestow.
Shall I vouchsafe your worship a word or two? Shak.
3. To receive or accept in condescension. Obs. Shak.
—, Intransitive: 1. To condescend; to deign; yield.
Vouchsafe, O Lord, to keep us this day without sin. Bk. of Com. Prayer.
2. To deign to accept; — followed by of. Obs. R. Greene.
Syn. — See CONDESCEND.
vouch-safe'ment (-mĕnt), n. Act of vouchsafing, or that which is vouchsafed; a gift or grant in condescension.
vouge (vōōzh), n. [F., fr. OF. vouge, of Celt. origin.] A long-handled halberdlike weapon of the later Middle Ages.
vous'soir' (vōō'swär'), n. [F., akin to voûte an arch, a vault. See 1st VAULT.] Arch. Any of the tapering or wedge-shaped pieces of which an arch or vault is composed. The middle one is usually specifically called the keystone. See ARCH, Illust. (3). vous'soir', v. t. To construct or supply with voussoirs.
voust (vōōst), n. & v. Boast; vaunt. — voust'er, n. — voust'y (vōōs'tĭ), adj. All Scot.
vow (vou), n. [ME. vou, fr. OF. vou (F. vœu), fr. L. votum, orig. past part. neut. of vovere, votum, to vow; akin to Gr. euchomai I profess, vow, pray, Skr. vāghat supplicant, sacrificer. Cf. AVOW, DEVOUT, VOTE, WOO.] 1. A solemn promise, esp. one made to God or to some deity; an act by which one consecrates or devotes himself, absolutely or conditionally, wholly or in part, for a longer or shorter time, to some act, service, or condition; a devotion of oneself or one's possessions; as, a baptismal vow; a vow of poverty. The canon law in the R.C.Ch. recognizes solemn vows and simple vows, a solemn vow being one which makes an absolute and irrevocable surrender and has been accepted by lawful authority, all other vows being simple vows. Under the canon law a simple vow of religious life makes marriage unlawful and deprives the person who has made it of the right to use his property; a solemn vow of such life makes marriage invalid and takes away all dominion over property.
2. A promise of fidelity or constancy; a pledge of love or affection; as, the marriage vow.
3. A solemn assertion; an asseveration.
4. An earnest wish; also, a supplication.
5. A votive offering. Obs.
Syn. — Promise, pledge, oath.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

vow-bound	vow-keeping, adj.	vowmaking vow-breaking, adj.	vowmaker	vow-pledged vow (vou), v.; VOWED (voud); VOW'ING. [ME. vowen, fr. OF. vouer, vower (F. vouer), fr. (assumed) VL. votare. See VOW, n.] Transitive: 1. To bind oneself to do, give, or the like, by a solemn promise to God or to some deity; to promise solemnly; to dedicate; consecrate; devote.

[Men] that vow a long and weary pilgrimage. Shak.
My mother had vowed me to the service of Holy Church. Sabatini.
2. To assert solemnly; to asseverate; swear.
—, Intransitive: To make a vow; to asseverate.
Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay. Eccl. v. 5. vow (vou), interj. An exclamation expressing, variously, admiration, surprise, sorrow. Scot. & Ir. vowed (voud), adj. Bound by or as by vows; pledged; sometimes, specif., betrothed. See VOW, v.

vow'el (vou'ĕl), n. [OF. vouel (F. voyelle), fr. L. vocalis (sc. littera), fr. vocalis sounding, fr. vox, vocis, a voice, sound. See VOCAL.] A speech sound uttered with voice or whisper and characterized by the resonance form of the vocal cavities (ē, ä, ô); also, a letter representing such a sound. The vowel letters in English are a, e, i, o, u. See CONSONANT; also Pron., §§ 27–29, 40.
vow'el, adj. Of or pertaining to a vowel; vocal.
vow'el, v. t. 1. To vowelize.
2. To pay with an IOU. Humorous.
vowel flame. A sensitive gas flame which falls lower according as vowels pronounced near it contain notes of higher pitch; — so called by Tyndall, who devised it.
vowel gradation. Philol. Ablaut. vowel harmony. Philol. A principle, seen in the Ural-Altaic languages, in accordance with which the vowel of the suffix is made to belong to the same class of vowels as that of the root, the vowels being divided into two classes, heavy or strong (as a, o, u) and light or weak (as e, i, ü), or guttural (back) and palatal (front).
vow'el·ism (vou'ĕl·ĭz'm), n. Use of vowels. Rare.
vow'el·ist (-ĭst), n. One given to using vowels. vow'el·ize (-īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To change into or use as a vowel; to change or effect by vowels; to furnish with vowel signs or points; as, to vowelize a Hebrew text. Cf. VOCALIZE. — vow'el·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n. vow'el·like' (-līk'), adj. Phonet. Partaking of the nature of a vowel; — said of certain consonants, as l, n, r. vow'el·like', n. Phonet. A consonant sound resembling a vowel in sonority and freedom from obstruction in utterance (l, m, n, ng, r, w, y). vowel mutation. Umlaut. vowel point. In Hebrew and certain other Eastern languages, a mark placed above or below a consonant, or attached to it as in Ethiopic, representing the vowel sound which precedes or follows the consonant sound. The form of punctuation in which the vowel points are placed above the consonants is called supralinear, or Babylonian, punctuation (see PUNCTUATION, 2, Cit.).
vowel system. The system of vowels or vowel sounds of a language or of a group of related languages.
vow'el·y, vow'el·ly, adj. Full of, or marked by, vowels.
vow'er (vou'ẽr), n. One who makes or takes a vow. vow'ess (-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A woman who has taken a vow, esp. a vow of perpetual widowhood; also, a nun. Hist.
vox (vŏks). Var. of FOX. Obs. exc. Dial.
vox. Obs. past tense of WAX.
‖vox (vŏks), n.; pl. VOCES (vō'sēz). [L. See VOICE.] Voice.
‖vox' an·ge'lĭ·ca (vŏks' ăn·jĕl'ĭ·kȧ). [L., angelic voice.] Organ Building. a = VOIX CÉLESTE. b Any one of various labial and lingual stops having a notably refined quality of tone.
‖vox' an'te·ce'dens (ăn'tē·sē'dĕnz). [L. antecedens antecedent.] Music. In canon and fugue, the subject or theme.
‖vox' cae·les'tis (sē·lĕs'tĭs). [L.] Music. = VOIX CÉLESTE.
‖vox' clan·des·ti'na (klăn'dĕs·tī'nȧ). [L.] Whisper.
‖vox' con'se·quens (kŏn'sē·kwĕnz). [L. consequens following.] Music. In canon and fugue, the answer or consequent.
‖vox' De'i (dē'ĭ). [L.] Voice of God; — chiefly as part of or in allusion to the phrase vox populi, vox Dei.
‖vox', et prae·te're·a ni'hil (ĕt prē·tē'rē·ȧ nī'hĭl). [L.] A voice and nothing more; that is, sound without sense.
‖vox' fau'ci·bus hae'sit (fôs'ĭ·bŭs hē'sĭt). [L.] The voice (or words) stuck in the throat. Vergil (Aeneid, II. 774).
‖vox' hu·ma'na (hū·mā'nȧ). [L., human voice.] Music. An organ reed stop of 8-foot pitch made to give a sound imitative of the human voice. It usually implies the use of a tremolant.
‖vox' po'pu·li, vox' De'i (pŏp'ū·lī). [L.] The voice of the people (is) the voice of God; — often shortened to vox populi (abbr. vox pop.).
‖vox' quin'ta (kwĭn'tȧ). [L.] Medieval Music. The quintus, or fifth voice part, independent of the others, though either corresponding in compass with one of them or reinforcing different ones successively (vox vagans).
‖vox' va'gans (vā'gănz), n. [ML. vox vagans, lit., roaming voice; — so called because it may be at pleasure an alto, soprano, tenor, or bass.] Music. See VOX QUINTA. voy'age (voi'ĭj; obs. or dial. vī'ĭj), n. [ME. veage, viage, fr. OF. veage, viage, veiage, voiage (F. voyage), fr. L. viaticum traveling money, provision for a journey, fr. viaticus belonging to a road or journey, fr. via way. See VIA, n.; cf. CONVEY, DEVIOUS, ENVOY, IMPERVIOUS, OBVIATE, PREVIOUS, TRIVIAL, VIATICUM.] 1. a Formerly, a passage either by sea or land; a journey, in general. b Now, restrictedly, a passing or journey by sea or water from one place, port, or country, to another; esp., a passing or journey by water to a distant place or country; also, a round trip by water. The time of beginning and end of a voyage vary legally according to the circumstances or purposes contemplated; thus it may, as in case of a voyage policy, be held to include the time of preparation at a home port, or it may be held to begin with the time of sailing; the terminating may be at the time of anchoring safely in the port of destination or may be at the time of completing the discharge of cargo. c A journey by air, as in a balloon or an airship; also, a journey or a course through space.
2. Specif., an expedition undertaken for the collection at sea of a commercial cargo to be disposed of, usually, on the return to the original starting place; as, a whaling, sealing, or sponging, voyage.
3. The proceeds of a ship's voyage, as of a whaling, sealing, or sponging, voyage; as, to share a voyage; also, the share of each of the officers and crew in the proceeds.
4. Figuratively, a course or progression comparable to a journey; as, the voyage of life, of matrimony.
5. An account of, or a work dealing with, a voyage or voyaging; as, several volumes of voyages.
6. Obs. a A pilgrimage. b A military expedition. c An undertaking; enterprise. d Act or practice of traveling; travel. Bacon. e A course or route to be navigated.
voy'age, v. i.; -AGED (-ĭjd); -AG·ING (-ĭj·ĭng). [F. voyager.] To take, make, or traverse by, a voyage; to travel.
A mind forever
Voyaging through strange seas of thought alone. Wordsworth.
— v. t. To travel over or through; to traverse.
voy'ag·er (voi'ĭj·ẽr), n. [Cf. F. voyageur.] One who voyages; esp., one who sails or passes by sea or water.
Voy'ag·es (voi'ĭj·ĕz; -ĭz; 119), n. pl. Substitute title for The Book of Marco Polo (1299), an account of Marco Polo's travels in Asia, esp. in China. See Biog.
‖vo'ya'geur' (vwȧ'yȧ'zhûr'), n.; pl. -GEURS (F. pron. -zhûr'). [F., fr. voyager to travel. See VOYAGE.] A traveler; in Canada, specif., a man employed by the fur companies in transporting goods and men by the streams and across the land between streams, to and from the remote stations in the Northwest; also, by extension, any boatman and trapper of those regions.
vo'yeur' (vwȧ'yûr'), n. [F., one who sees.] One affected with undue visual curiosity; esp., one whose sexual desire is concentrated upon seeing sex organs, etc.; a peeper. — vo'yeur'ism (-ĭz'm), n.
‖vo'yeuse' (vwȧ'yûz'), n. [F.] A kind of chair resembling a tête-à-tête. vp-. For words beginning vp-, see the forms in UP-.
V point, or V'-point', n. See V, adj. vr-. For various words beginning vr-, see forms in FR-, UR-.
‖vrai (vrĕ), adj. [F.] True; genuine; real. vraic (vrāk), n. [F. dial. See VAREC.] Seaweed; orig. and specif., a seaweed found in the Channel Islands, where its collection and burning for manure is an important industry; also, the fertilizer obtained by burning it. The gathering, or vraick'ing, became a ceremonial occasion, regulated by the government and attended with popular festivities. — vraick'er, n.
vrai' ré'seau' (vrĕ' rā'zō'). [F.] Lacemaking. True network ground; net ground made with the needle or with bobbins.
‖vrai'sem'bla'ble (vrĕ'sȧN'blȧ'blˈ), adj. [F.] Verisimilar; plausible.
‖vrai'sem'blance' (vrĕ'sȧN'blȧNs'), n. [F.] The appearance of truth; exact appearance; verisimilitude.
vr'ba·ite (vûr'bȧ·īt), n. [After K. Vrba, of Prague.] Mineral. A thallium sulpho salt, $TlAs_2SbS_6$, occurring in small gray-black to dark-red orthorhombic crystals.
vrid'dhi (vrĭd'hĭ; 113). [Skr. vṛddhi, lit., increase.] Skr. Gram. Strengthening of the guna forms a, e (earlier ai), o (earlier au), ar, to ā, āi (now often written ai), āu (au), ār, by the further prefixion of an a element, as in dāiva (daiva), divine, from deva, god; pāutra (pautra), grandchild, from putra, son. See GUNA, 2.
‖vrille (vrē'y'; vrĭl), n. [F.] Aviation. A feat in which an airplane is made to descend with a spinning motion; a spin. — v. i. To perform a vrille.
Vrit'ra (vrĭt'rȧ), n. [Skr. Vṛtra.] Vedic Myth. An atmospheric dragon or demon slain by Indra, who thus releases the waters (rain and rivers). vroth'er (vrŏth'ẽr), v. t. [Cf. WROTH.] To provoke to anger. Dial. Eng. Kaye-Smith.
‖vrouw (vrou; S. Afr. pron. frou), n. [D. See 1st FROW.] A woman; a housewife; a frow. vs-. For words beginning vs-, see the forms in US-.
V scraper. = 2d CROWDER c.
V section. A section having the shape of the letter V. See V, adj.
V'-shaped' (vē'shāpt'), adj. Having the general shape of the letter V or resembling a V in cross section.
V-shaped comb. See 1st COMB, 3. vt-. For words beginning vt-, see the forms in UT-.
V thread. Mach. A form of screw thread having a thread angle of 60°, the bisector of the angle being perpendicular to the axis of the thread, and the crests and roots of the threads being lines formed by the intersections of the sides; — written also V'-thread'. See SCREW THREAD, Table.
V tool, V tooth, V type. See V, adj.
V'-type' en'gine. Mach. An internal-combustion engine in which two sets of cylinders are arranged side by side in two planes making an angle with each other so that a cross section perpendicular to the shaft would be V-shaped.
vu-. For words beginning in vu-, see the forms in UV-.
Vü (vü), n. = WA.
Vuel'ta to·bac'co (vwĕl'tȧ). Tobacco grown in the Vuelta Abajo, Cuba, generally considered to be the finest cigar leaf.
vug, vugg, vugh (vŭg; vōōg), n. Also voog. [Corn. vooga a cavern.] Petrog. A small unfilled cavity in a lode or in the rock, usually lined with a crystalline layer of different composition from the surrounding rock. — vug'gy (-ĭ), adj.
Vul'can (vŭl'kăn), n. [L. Vulcanus, Volcanus, of obscure origin. Cf. VOLCANO.] 1. Rom. Relig. The god of the fiery element, esp. in its fearful aspects, whose cult, according to tradition, was brought to Rome by the Sabine king Titus Tatius. Later he was identified with the Greek Hephaestus and was hence represented as consort of Venus and god of metalworking. His earlier consort was Maia or Majesta, to whom an offering was made on May first. The feast of Vulcan was the Volcanalia, Aug. 23, celebrated in imperial times with games at the Circus. See DI.
2. [often not cap.] A person resembling Vulcan in some way; specif.: a A worker in metals; esp., a blacksmith. b Rare. A lame person. c Obs. A cuckold.
3. [not cap.] A volcano. Obs.
4. Fire or a fire. Chiefly Poetic.
5. Astron. A hypothetical intramercurial planet the existence of which has not been established by observation. See INTRAMERCURIAL.
Vul'ca·na'li·a (vŭl'kȧ·nā'lĭ·ȧ). The Volcanalia (see VULCAN, 1.) — Vul'ca·na'li·al (-ăl), Vul'ca·na'li·an (-ăn), adj.
Vul·ca'ni·an (vŭl·kā'nĭ·ăn), adj. Also Vul·ca'ne·an (-nē·ăn). [L. Vulcanius.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or made by, Vulcan; hence, of or pertaining to works in iron or other metals.
2. [not cap.] a Volcanic. b Pertaining to a type of volcanic eruption in which highly viscous or solid lava is blown into fragments and dust.
3. [not cap.] Of or pertaining to plutonism; plutonic.
Vul·can'ic (vŭl·kăn'ĭk), adj. Vulcanian. vul'can·ic'i·ty (vŭl'kăn·ĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Volcanicity.
vul'can·ism (vŭl'kăn·ĭz'm), n. Volcanism; also, plutonism. vul'can·ist (-ĭst), n. 1. A worker in metals, like Vulcan. Obs.
2. a = VOLCANIST. b A plutonist. vul'can·ite (vŭl'kăn·īt), n. A variety of hard rubber. See HARD RUBBER, EBONITE. — vul'can·ite, adj.
vulcanite grinding wheel. Mach. A grinding wheel made by bonding with rubber, and suitable for thin wheels, because of its elasticity and strength. vulcanite pavement. A pavement with a wearing surface of asphalt and coal tar mixed with aggregate. vul'can·i·zate (vŭl'kăn·ĭ·zāt), n. [See 1st -ATE, 2.] A vulcanized product, esp. rubber.

vouch'er-ess, n. See -ESS. vouch'or (vouch'ẽr), n. = 2d VOUCHER, 3. vou'doo, vou'dou, vōu'doux. Vars. of VOODOO. Hence, vou'doo·ism, vou'dou·ism, etc.
Vou'geot' (vōō'zhō'), n. See BURGUNDY, 2.
Vou'lit' (vōō'lē'), n. [F.] = 1st BOULE, 2. [exc. Dial.] vour (vōr). Var. of FOUR. Obs. vour (vour), v. t. [From DEVOUR.] Devour. Obs. vour'er, n. = DEVOURER. Obs. vous'soir'-shaped', adj. See -SHAPED. vout (vout), n. [OF. voute. See 1st VAULT.] Var. of VAULT. Obs. exc. Scot. vowd. Vowed. Ref. Sp. vow'fel. Voweled. Ref. Sp.
vow'el·ish, vow'el·lish, adj. See -ISH. vow'el·less, adj. See -LESS. — vow'el·less·ness, n.
vow'less, adj. See -LESS.
vowly. † POULLY. voy'age·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
voyage charter party. See CHARTER PARTY. voyage policy. See POLICY. voy'al, voy'ol. Vars. of 1st VIOL. voy'ance (voi'ăns), n. = CLAIRVOYANCE.
Voy'a·vai. Var. of WOYAWAY. voy'vod·ship. Var. of VOIVODESHIP. vrack (vrăk), vreck (vrĕk). Scot. & Ir. vars. of WRACK, wreck: WRACK, to torment. vricht (vrĭxt). Scot. var. of WRIGHT. [WROUGHT. vrocht (vrŏxt). Scot. var. of ‖vuide (vĕd), n. [OF., empty. See VOID.] A void; a gap. Obs.
vu-keel'. Var. of VAKIL. vul'can·iz'a·ble (vŭl'kăn·īz'ȧ·b'l), adj. See -ABLE.

vul'can·i·za'tion (vŭl'kăn·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'shŭn), n. [See VULCAN.] 1. Act or process of treating crude rubber, rubber latex, gutta-percha, etc. by chemical means to improve its useful physical properties, as its strength, hardness, elasticity, etc. This improvement is brought about by combination (probably chemical) with some element or compound, esp. sulphur or a compound of sulphur. There are two chief processes: hot vulcanization, the more important one, discovered by Goodyear in 1839 (Goodyear process), in which the rubber is heated with sulphur, or less often with sulphides, sometimes in steam (open or steam cure), sometimes in dry air (dry-heat cure); and cold vulcanization (cold cure), discovered by Alexander Parkes, an Englishman, in which the rubber is treated at ordinary temperature with a solution or vapors of a sulphur compound, esp. sulphur monochloride. Certain substances materially shorten the time of vulcanization. See ACCELERATOR.
2. Hence, act or process of treating various materials in any of certain ways, as for hardening. Cf. VULCANIZED FIBER.

vul'can·ize (vŭl'kăn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'-ĭng). To subject to the process of vulcanization. — v. i. To undergo vulcanization.

Vul'can·ized Fi'ber (-īzd). A trade-mark applied to a tough substance made by passing cellulose (esp. paper from rags) through a solution of zinc chloride or other salt and compressing; hence [sometimes not cap.], the substance denoted by this trade-mark. It has the consistency of horn and can be worked like wood.

vul'can·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n. One who or that which vulcanizes; specif., an apparatus in which rubber is subjected to vulcanization.

vul'can·ol'o·gy (vŭl'kăn·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [See VULCAN; -LOGY.] Volcanology. — vul'can·o·log'i·cal (-ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — vul'can·ol'o·gist (-ŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

vul'gar (vŭl'gĕr), adj.; VUL'GARER (-ĕr); VUL'GAR·EST. [L. vulgaris, fr. vulgus, volgus, the multitude, the common people; akin to Skr. varga group, body of men, W. gwala sufficiency, Bret. gwalc'h satiety. Cf. DIVULGE, PROMULGATE, VULGATE.] 1. Of or pertaining to the common people, or general public; common; general; ordinary; public; popular. Specif.: a Customary; in general use or acceptance; as, the vulgar reckoning of time. "By the vulgar measure." Henry James. b Commonly or generally current or prevalent; as, a vulgar superstition, belief, or prejudice. c Of the usual or ordinary kind; hence, commonplace; as, one of the vulgarest of petty luxuries. d Vernacular; also, written in or translated into the vernacular.
2. Belonging or relating to the common people as distinguished from the cultivated or educated; pertaining to common life; plebeian. "Like the vulgar sort of marketmen." Shak. "Low and vulgar life." Addison.
3. Hence, lacking cultivation or refinement; unrefined; boorish; also, offensive to good taste or refined feelings; low; coarse; as, vulgar language; vulgar ostentation; a vulgar display of wealth.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar. Shak.
4. Of a word or expression, coarse, profane, obscene, or the like.
Syn. — See COMMON, COARSE.
Ant. — Noble, aristocratic; refined, cultured.
— vul'gar·ly, adv. — vul'gar·ness, n.

vul'gar, n. 1. One of the vulgar, or common, people. Obs.
These vile vulgars are extremely proud. Chapman.
2. a Archaic. The vernacular, or common, language. b Obs. A vernacular expression, sentence, passage, etc.
3. [cap.] = VULGATE, 1. Obs.
— the vulgar. The common people as a body or class.

vul·ga're (vŭl·gā'rē), adj. [NL., from specific name.] Of or pertaining to common wheat (Triticum vulgare).

Vulgar Era. The Christian Era. See ERA, Table.

vulgar establishment. See ESTABLISHMENT, 4. vulgar fraction. = COMMON FRACTION.

vul·gar'i·an (vŭl·gâr'ĭ·ăn; 79), n. A vulgar, or coarse, unrefined person; esp., a rich or pretentious person of vulgar ideas and standards.

vul'gar·ism (vŭl'gĕr·ĭz'm), n. [Cf. F. vulgarisme.]
1. Grossness; rudeness; vulgarity.
2. A vulgar phrase or expression, or one used only in colloquial, or, esp., in unrefined or low, speech.
Syn. — VULGARISM, VULGARITY. A VULGARISM (see CANT) is a phrase or expression which is in common, but not in good, use; the word does not necessarily connote coarseness; VULGARITY denotes coarseness or lack of refinement in manners or speech; as, "The use of 'aggravating' for 'provoking,' in my boyhood a vulgarism of the nursery, has crept into . . . many books" (J. S. Mill); "Vulgarisms are often only poetry in the egg" (Lowell); "that artless simplicity which once obtained the name of coarseness and vulgarity" (V. Knox); "the reprobate vulgarity of the frequenters of Bartholomew Fair" (Gifford).

vul'gar·ist (-ĭst), n. A user, or an advocate of the use, of vulgarisms.

vul·gar'i·ty (vŭl·găr'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. vulgaritas the multitude; cf. F. vulgarité.] 1. Quality or state of being vulgar; mean condition of life; the state of the lower classes of society; commonness.
2. Absence of refinement; grossness or clownishness of manners or language; coarseness; also, an instance of this; as, shocked by the vulgarities of his clothes, his behavior, and his language.
3. The common people; the vulgar. Obs.
Syn. — See VULGARISM.
Ant. — Refinement, culture, fineness; nobility, breeding. See CIVILIZATION.

vul'gar·i·za'tion (vŭl'gĕr·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'shŭn), n. A vulgarizing, or making vulgar; specif.: a A making commonly or widely known or familiar; popularization. b A making coarse or common, or a product of such an act.

vul'gar·ize (vŭl'gĕr·īz), v. t.; VUL'GAR·IZED (-īzd); VUL'GAR·IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [Cf. F. vulgariser, ML. vulgarizare.] To make vulgar (in any sense).
Exhortation vulgarized by low wit. V. Knox.
— v. i. a Rare. To produce vulgarity. b Obs. To act vulgarly.

vul'gar·iz'er (vŭl'gĕr·īz'ĕr), n. One who vulgarizes.

Vulgar Latin. See LATIN, n., 1.

vulgar purgation. See PURGATION, 5. vulgar substitution. Roman Law. See SUBSTITUTION, 3 a (1).

Vul'gate (vŭl'găt; 88), n. [ML. vulgata editio, fr. L. vulgatus usual, common, past part. of vulgare to make general, or common, to publish, fr. vulgus the multitude. See VULGAR.] 1. a A Latin version of the Scriptures, in the main the work of St. Jerome in the 4th century. The name was taken from that of the earlier Latin translations of the Septuagint, and was first used in the modern sense by Roger Bacon in the 13th century. In the New Testament Jerome thoroughly revised the Old Latin of the Gospels, but elsewhere his work was more superficial. There is a difference of opinion as to whether he took as a basis the Italian or European type of the Old Latin (see VERSION, n., 3). The Old Testament was translated directly from the Hebrew with the aid of the Septuagint and other Greek and Latin versions. The Vulgate was declared by the Council of Trent in 1546 to be the standard for the services of the Roman Catholic Church. The standard text of the Vulgate is that of Pope Clement VIII of 1592. It is being superseded by a new revision ordered by Pius X in 1908. See DOUAY BIBLE, SISTINE a. b Also, an edition or a copy of the Vulgate.
2. [not cap.] Any vulgate, or commonly accepted, text or reading in a text.
He worked upon a vulgate, or textus receptus [of Homer], which nearly all our MSS. represent. James Gow.
3. [not cap.] Vulgar speech or language; as: a The vernacular. b Colloquial or, usually, unrefined, speech.

vul'gate, adj. 1. [cap.] Of or pertaining to the Vulgate, or the old Latin version of the Scriptures.
2. Commonly accepted; ordinary; as, a vulgate text.

‖vul'go (vŭl'gō), adv. [L., prop. abl. See VULGAR.] Commonly.

vul'gus (vŭl'gŭs), n.; pl. VULGUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [L. See VULGAR.] 1. The common people; the vulgar.
2. In some English public schools, a short composition in Latin verse on a given subject.

vuln (vŭln), v. t. [L. vulnerare.] Her. To wound; — said of the pelican vulning herself (depicted as picking her breast so that the blood drips).

vul'ner·a·bil'i·ty (vŭl'nĕr·ă·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being vulnerable; vulnerableness.

vul'ner·a·ble (vŭl'nĕr·ă·b'l), adj. [LL. vulnerabilis wounding, injurious, fr. vulnerare to wound, vulnus a wound; akin to Gr. oulē scar, and to L. vellere to tear. See VULTURE.] 1. Wounding; capable of inflicting wounds. Obs.
2. Capable of being wounded; susceptible of wounds; as, the vulnerable heel of Achilles.
3. Liable to attack or injury; subject to be affected injuriously; assailable; as, a vulnerable reputation; specif., assailable by force of arms; as, a vulnerable fortress. "Vulnerable to flattery." T. L. Peacock.
4. Contract Bridge. Liable to doubled penalties as well as increased bonuses; — said of a side that has won a game.
Syn. — Defenseless, exposed.
Ant. — Invulnerable, impregnable.
— vul'ner·a·bly, adv. — vul'ner·a·ble·ness, n. vul'ner·al (vŭl'nĕr·ăl), adj. Pertaining to wounds. Obs.

vul'ner·ar'y (-ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. vulnerarius.] 1. Wound-inflicting; productive of a wound. Rare.
2. Used for or useful in healing wounds; as, vulnerary plants, remedies.

vul'ner·ar'y, n. A vulnerary remedy.

vul'ner·ate (-āt), v. t. [L. vulneratus, past part. of vulnerare to wound.] To wound; hurt. Rare. — vul'ner·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. Rare.

vul'ner·a'tive (vŭl'nĕr·ā'tĭv), adj. Vulnific. Rare.

vul'ner·ose (-ōs; see -OSE), adj. Full of wounds; wounded.

vul·nif'ic (vŭl·nĭf'ĭk), vul·nif'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [L. vulnificus, fr. vulnus a wound. See -FIC.] Causing wounds.

vul'nose (vŭl'nōs; vŭl·nōs'; see -OSE), adj. Vulnerose.

Vul·pec'u·la (vŭl·pĕk'ū·lă), n.; gen. VULPECULAE (-lē). [L., dim. of vulpes fox.] 1. Astron. A small constellation between Sagitta and Cygnus; the Little Fox; — called also Vul·pec'u·la cum An'ser·e (kŭm ăn'sĕr·ē), the Little Fox with the Goose.
2. Zool. Syn. of ALOPIAS.

vul·pec'u·lar (vŭl·pĕk'ū·lĕr), adj. Of or pertaining to a fox, esp. a young one; vulpine.

Vul·pec'u·lid (-lĭd), n. [Vulpecula + 1st -id.] Astron. Any of the meteors whose radiant is in the constellation Vulpecula.

Vul'pes (vŭl'pēz), n. [L., a fox.] Zool. The genus including the common red fox and closely allied species (see FOX, 1; cf. FENNEC, GRAY FOX), typical of a subfamily, Vul·pi'nae (vŭl·pī'nē), including the foxes generally.

vul'pic (vŭl'pĭk), or vul·pin'ic (vŭl·pĭn'ĭk), ac'id. Chem. A yellow crystalline compound, $C_{12}H_{14}O_8$, occurring in Cetraria vulpina and other lichens; — erroneously so called, as it is a lactone, not an acid. It is the methyl ester of pulvic acid.

vul'pi·cide (vŭl'pĭ·sīd), n. [L. vulpes a fox + -cide.] In England, one who kills a fox, except in hunting; also, the act of so killing a fox. — vul'pi·cid'al (-sīd'ăl; -l), adj. — vul'pi·cid·ism (vŭl'pĭ·sīd·ĭz'm), n.

vul'pine (vŭl'pĭn; -pīn; 156; 277), adj. [L. vulpinus, fr. vulpes a fox.] Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a fox or foxes; resembling, or characteristic of, a fox; foxy; cunning; crafty; artful; as, vulpine slyness.

vulpine opossum, phalanger, phalangist. An Australian somewhat foxlike phalanger (Trichosurus vulpecula). It is gray with yellowish under parts and a blackish prehensile tail.

vul'pin·ism (vŭl'pĭ·nĭz'm), n. Quality of being cunning like the fox; craft; artfulness. Rare.
He was without guile, and had no vulpinism at all. Carlyle.

vul'pi·nite (-pĭ·nīt), n. [From Vulpino, Italy.] Mineral. A scaly granular grayish-white variety of anhydrite.

vul·sel'la (vŭl·sĕl'ă), n. pl. [L. volsella, vulsella, a kind of pincers.] Surg. A vulsellum.

vul·sel'lum (-ŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. vulsella.] Surg. A kind of forceps with serrated, clawlike, or hooked, blades; also, a hook with a clawlike end.

vul'si·nite (vŭl'sĭ·nīt), n. [From L. Vulsinii, Volsinii (see BOLSENA, in Gaz.).] Petrog. A trachyandesite composed of phenocrysts of sanidine basic anclesine, diopside, and rare olivine in a groundmass of trachytic habit and containing sanidine, diopside, magnetite, a little oligoclase, and occasionally sodalite and leucite.

vult (vŭlt), n. [OF. vout, volt, vult, fr. L. vultus.] Aspect; countenance; mien; expression. Obs.

Vul'tur (vŭl'tûr), n. [L., vulture.] Zool. A Linnaean genus of vultures, orig. comprehensive, but now restricted to certain Old World species.

vul'ture (vŭl'tûr), n. [ME., fr. OF. voltour, voutour (F. vautour), fr. L. vulturius, fr. vultur; akin to L. vellere to tear, to pluck, Goth. wilwan to take by force. See VULNERABLE; cf. HELOT.] 1. Any of certain large raptorial birds of temperate and tropical regions, allied to the hawks, eagles, and falcons, but having weaker claws, and the head usually naked. They subsist chiefly or entirely on carrion. They constitute two families, the Vulturidae, or Old World vultures, which are only slightly distinguished from the hawks, and the Cathartidae (which see). Among them are some of the largest birds of flight, and nearly all are very graceful on the wing. See BLACK VULTURE, CONDOR, EGYPTIAN VULTURE, KING VULTURE, LAMMERGEIER, TURKEY BUZZARD.
2. Figuratively, something or someone resembling or suggesting a vulture; specif.: a Something that preys, as upon the mind or the emotions; a consuming fear, desire, etc. b A meanly or unscrupulously rapacious person.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
vulture-beaked vulture-rent vulture-tortured vulture-gnawn vulture-torn vulture-winged vul'ture, adj. Of, or like that of, a vulture.

vul'ture, v. i. To prey upon like a vulture.

vulture hock. In fancy poultry, a cluster of stiff feathers growing on the thighs and projecting backward, considered a defect in cochins and similar breeds. — vul'ture-hocked', adj.

vulture raven. Either of two large African ravens of the genus Corvultur; — so called on account of the thick arched bill.

Vul·tu'ri·dae (vŭl·tū'rĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family consisting of the Old World vultures, sometimes ranked as a subfamily, Vul'tu·ri'nae (vŭl'tū·rī'nē), of the Falconidae. See VULTURE, n., 1.

vul'tur·ine (vŭl'tūr·ĭn; -īn; 156), adj. [L. vulturinus.] Of, pertaining to, like, or characteristic of, a vulture.
The vulturine nose, which smells nothing but corruption, is no credit to its possessor. C. Kingsley.

vulturine eagle. A South African eagle (Aquila verreauxi), having the lower back and rump white and the rest of the plumage black.

vulturine guinea fowl. A large long-tailed East African guinea fowl (Acryllium vulturinum) having a naked head and lanceolate blue, black, and white feathers on the neck, breast, and shoulders. The back is mostly black, spotted with white, the abdomen bluish, becoming purple on the sides.

vulturine sea eagle. An African fish-eating eagle (Gypohierax angolensis) with a bare space round the eyes, and plumage mostly white except black wings and tail.

vul'tur·ish (vŭl'tūr·ĭsh), adj. Vulturous.

vul'tur·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Quality or state of being like a vulture; rapaciousness.

vul'turn (vŭl'tûrn), n. [Cf. VULTURE.] The Australian brush turkey (Alectura lathami).

vul'tur·ous (vŭl'tūr·ŭs), adj. Characteristic of or resembling a vulture; rapacious. vul'va (vŭl'vă), n. [L. vulva, volva, covering, integument, womb; akin to Skr. ulva, ulba, vulva, womb, placenta; orig., fetal sac, decidua, placenta, and akin further to L. volvere to roll, turn, wind. See VOLUBLE; cf. VOLVA.] a Anat. The external parts of the female genital organs; sometimes, the opening between the projecting parts of the external organs. b Zool. The orifice of the oviduct of an insect or other invertebrate.

vul'val (-văl), adj. Vulvar.

vul'var (-vĕr), adj. Of or pertaining to the vulva.

vul'vate (-vāt), adj. Vulvar; vulviform.

vul'vi·form (vŭl'vĭ·fôrm), adj. [vulva + -form.] Of the shape of the vulva; specif.: a Zool. Oval, with a middle cleft and projecting lips. b Bot. Like a cleft with projecting edges.

vul·vi'tis (vŭl·vī'tĭs), n. [NL. See VULVA; -ITIS.] Med. Inflammation of the vulva.

vul'vo- (vŭl'vō-), vulv-. A combining form from Latin vulva, denoting: a The vulva, as in *vulv*itis. b Vulvar and; — in adjectives, as in vul'vo·cru'ral, vul'vo·u'terine, vul'vo·vag'i·nal. See CRURAL, etc.

vul'vo·vag'i·ni'tis (-văj'ĭ·nī'tĭs), n. [NL.] Med. Inflammation of the vulva and vagina.

vum (vŭm), v. i. To vow; swear. Dial. — vum, n. Dial.

V vat, or V'-vat', n. See V, adj.

V weld. See V, adj.

V winding. Elec. V connection.

vy'ing (vī'ĭng), adj. That vies. — vy'ing·ly, adv.

---

vul·ca'no. ✝ VOLCANO.
Vul·ca'nus (vŭl·kā'nŭs), n. [L.] = VULCAN.

vul'gar·ish, adj. See -ISH. vul'gar·like', adj. See -LIKE. vul'gar·wise', adv. See -WISE.

Vul'pe·cu'li·dae (vŭl'pē·kū'lĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. Syn. of ALOPIIDAE.

vul'pin. Vulpine. Ref. Sp. vul'ture-like', adj. See -LIKE. vul'ture-wise', adv. See -WISE.

vulv-. = VULVO-.
vyn. ✝ WIN.
vyse. Var. of VISE, a screw.

vyse, vyss. ✝ USE, VICE, VISS, WISE.
vyt. ✝ WIT.

W

W, w (dŭb″l-ū), n.; pl. W's, w's, Ws, ws (-ūz). 1. The twenty-third letter of the English alphabet. In form and origin W is a ligatured combination, VV or UU, called "double U," which was introduced into English by French scribes in the 11th century to replace the Anglo-Saxon runic wen (see V, n., 1; 2d WEN). The sound of w is usually a consonant as in we, a voiced bilabial sound formed by raising the back of the tongue as for ōō while rounding the lips as for this vowel. In English the letter w represents a vowel only in diphthongs, as in few, how. W appears also in the frequent consonantal group wh, as in what, white. Written w is silent in some words, as wrist, answer. See Pron., §§ 44 (8), 45, 255–258. Words in w are almost wholly of Teutonic origin, either by inheritance through Anglo-Saxon, or by borrowing from Old Norse or from Old North French, where Teutonic loan words appear with w instead of with the gu or g that prevails in central Old French and in Modern French (cf. WAR, WAGE). In cognate words, English w corresponds to German w, Latin v, u, the Greek digamma (which later disappeared), Sanskrit v, as in widow, (AS. widuwe), G. witwe, L. vidua, Skr. vidhavā, Gr. ē(f)ithe(f)os (unmarried youth). English wh corresponds to German w, Latin qu, as in while (AS. hwīl), G. weile, L. quies (rest). See ALPHABET.
2. a An instance of the letter W, w, printed, written, painted, etc. b A printer's type, a stamp, etc., for the letter W, w. c The sound, or any sound, of the letter W.
3. Anything having the shape of the letter W.
4. As a symbol, used to denote or indicate anyone or anything arbitrarily or conveniently so designated, esp. as the twenty-second or (cf. K, n., 4) twenty-third in order or class.
5. As an abbreviation: see Abbreviations, in Appendix.

W, w, adj. 1. Twenty-second or (cf. K, adj., 1) twenty-third in order or class.
2. [cap.] Having the form of capital W.

Wa (wä), n. One of a native people in northeastern Burma; also, their language. See AUSTROASIATIC.

Wa-, wa- (wä-). See BANTU, 2d M-. wa (wä). Var. of WAH. See MEASURE, Table.

wa (wä). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of WAY, WE, WOE.

wa (wä; wă). Var. of WHA, interj.

wa' (wô; wă). Scot. var. of WALL.

waa-. For words beginning waa-, see forms in WA-.

Waac (wăk), n. [An acrostic formed from the title.] A member of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, an organization formed in England in 1917 to enable women to enlist in the army for service as waitresses, clerks, chauffeurs, stenographers, etc. Cf. WRAF; WREN.

waag (wäg), n. [Tigré wāg, woāg.] An African monkey, the grivet.

wa·a'pa (wä·ä′pä), n. [Hawaiian, fr. waa canoe + pa board.] A short, broad canoe made of boards. Hawaii.

wab'ber (wŏb′ĕr), n. [Ar. wabr.] The daman.

wab'ble (-′l), n. Var. of WARBLE tumor. Hence, the larva of a botfly (Bogeria emasculator) which infests squirrels, and destroys their testicles.

wab'ble (wŏb″l), v. i. To wobble. See WOBBLE.

wab'bly (-lĭ), adv. Wobbly; waveringly.

wab'by (wŏb′ĭ), n. [Cf. WABBLE, WOBBLE.] The red-throated loon. See LOON.

wa'be (wä′bē), n. Also wa'bi. The huisache.

Wa·be'na (wä·bā′nä), n. sing. & pl. One of an African Bantu-speaking tribe north of Lake Nyasa. wa·be'no (wô·bē′nō), n. [Ojibway wâbanow, lit., I am a sorcerer.] Amer. Indian. A magician; specif., one of a class of shamans, among the Ojibway Indians.

wa'bron (wā′brŭn), n. Also wa'bron-leaf'. [Cf. WAYBREAD.] The common plantain. Scot.

Wa·bu'ma (wä·bōō′mä), n. sing. & pl. One of an important Bantu-speaking tribe in the Congo region on the Kasai River. Called also Babuma.

Wa·bun'ga (wä·bŭng′gȯ), n. sing. & pl. One of a Bantu-speaking people in the Tanganyika Territory. They claim Zulu relationship.

wa'ca·dash (wä′kȧ·dăsh), n. [Jap. wakizashi.] A Japanese short sword. Obs. Oxf. E. D.

wa'ca·pou' (wä′kä·pōō′). Var. of ACAPÓ.

Wa·cha'ga (wä·chä′gä), n. sing. & pl. Also Wa·ca'go (-kä′gō). One of an important Bantu people inhabiting the southern slopes of Kilimanjaro.

Wa'chen·hei'mer (vä′kĕn·hī′mĕr), n. [From Wachenheim, Palatinate, Bavaria.] A Palatinate white wine. See RHINE WINE.

wach'na (wäk′nä), n. Also wachna cod. [Russ. vakhnya.] A codfish (Eleginus nawaga) of Kamchatka and Alaska.

‖Wacht am Rhein, Die (dē väkt′ äm rīn′). [G., the Watch on the Rhine.] One of Germany's national anthems. Written in 1840 by Max Schneckenburger, it was set to music (1854) by Karl Wilhelm. It became popular during the Franco-Prussian War, 1870, but was displaced in favor before the World War by Deutschland, Deutschland über Alles.

wack (wăk), adj. [Cf. ON. vökr, D. wak.] Damp; clammy. Scot.

wack'e (wăk′ĕ), n. [G. wacke, fr. MHG. wacke a large stone, fr. OHG. waggo a pebble.] Petrog. Rock similar to sandstone in texture, but derived from disintegrated, though but partially decomposed, basic rocks.

Wack'en·ro'der so·lu'tion (väk′ĕn·rō′dĕr). Chem. A solution containing colloidal sulphur and polythionic acids, obtained by passing hydrogen sulphide into a saturated aqueous solution of sulphur dioxide.

wack'or (wăk′ĕr), adj. [AS. wacor.] Watchful; alert; wakeful. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

Wa'co (wā′kō; wä′-), n. An Indian of a small Caddoan tribe of the Wichita confederacy in Texas.

wad (wŏd), n. [Like Sw. vadd, G. watte, It. ovate, fr. F. ouate, houatte, prop. the cotton or silk obtained from the Syrian swallowwort, formerly cultivated in Egypt and imported to Europe, esp. through Marseille, prob. fr. Ar. hiyāṭah anything surrounding.] 1. A little mass, tuft, or bundle, as of hay or tow; also, loosely, a lump; a small, compact heap; as, throwing paper wads at his companions; men often long for little, hard wads of definite information in connection with their problems.
2. Specif.: A relatively soft plug or stopper, to retain a charge of powder, to keep the powder and shot close, or to avoid windage, in a muzzle-loading cannon or gun or in a shot cartridge. In old-fashioned muzzle-loading cannon the wad was usually a small mass of flexible material such as hemp or tow rammed down upon the charge. In shot cartridges it is usually a disk of felt or paper.
3. A soft mass, esp. of some loose fibrous substance, variously used, as to stop an aperture, pad a garment, hold grease around an axle, etc.
4. A considerable amount; a mass; as, we have a considerable wad of that material on hand. Dial.
5. A roll or personal supply of paper money; hence, wealth in general; money. Slang, U. S.
6. Ceramics. A piece of clay used for various purposes, as a strip of moist clay laid around the rim of a sagger to form a bed for a superimposed sagger in the kiln.

wad (wŏd), v. t.; WAD'DED (wŏd′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); WAD'DING. [From 1st WAD.] 1. To form into a wad, or mass, or into wadding; to bundle; as, to wad tow; esp., U. S., to roll into a tight wad, as a piece of paper.
2. To insert or crowd a wad into; as, to wad a gun; to hold in by a wad; as, to wad a bullet in a gun.
3. To stuff or line with some soft substance, or wadding, as cotton; to pad, as a cloak.

wad, wadd (wŏd), n. [Origin uncert.] 1. Graphite; black lead; also, a lead pencil. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
2. An amorphous dull-brown or black mineral substance occurring usually in low places and consisting chiefly of oxides of manganese, with varying amounts of copper oxide, cobalt oxide, silica, etc., and water. It is commonly very soft, but sometimes hard and compact. It is used in making chlorine and as a pigment. Called also black ocher.

wad (wŏd), n. [ML. vadium. See VADIUM.] Scots Law. A pledge. Hence, in wad, pledged. Cf. VADIUM, n.

wad (wŏd), n. [Cf. ON. vathr measuring line, fishline.] A line, esp. one marked in land surveying; hence, a track; trace; line of direction. Dial. Eng.

wad (wŏd), v. i. To stake out a line, as in a land survey. Dial. Eng.

wad (wäd). Var. of WADI.

wad (wȧd). Var. of WOAD. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

wad (wäd; wȧd). Scot. & dial. var. of WED, WOULD.

wad'der (wŏd′ĕr), n. One who or that which wads.

wad'ding (wŏd′ĭng), n. [From WAD, v. t.] 1. Wads collectively, or material for making wads.
2. Any soft stuff of loose texture used for stuffing or padding garments, esp. prepared sheets of carded cotton.

wad'ding (wȧd′ĭn). Scot. var. of WEDDING.

wad'dle (wŏd″l), v.; WAD'DLED (-′ld); WAD'DLING (-lĭng). [Freq. of WADE.] Intransitive: 1. To walk with short steps, swaying from one side to the other, like a duck; to move clumsily and totteringly along, as a baby; to toddle; hence, to proceed with a clumsy motion suggesting a waddle. "The tub took two days and a night to waddle from Ushant to Finisterre." J. Buchan.
She drawls her words, and waddles in her pace. Young.
2. London Stock Exchange. To become a defaulter. Slang.
——, Transitive: To trample or tread down, as high grass, by walking through it. Rare.

wad'dle, n. Act of waddling; a toddle; an awkward, clumsy, swaying gait.

wad'dle (wŏd″l; wȧd′-). Dial. Eng. of WATTLE.

wad'dler (wŏd′lĕr), n. One who or that which waddles.

wad'dle·some (wŏd″l·sŭm), adj. Having a waddle or waddling gait.

wad'dling (-lĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of WADDLE. Hence: adj. That waddles. — wad'dling·ly, adv.

wad'dly (-lĭ), adj. Like or suggesting a waddle. "Watching the small form disappear with its curious waddly walk." Dos Passos.

wad'dy (wŏd′ĭ), n.; pl. -DIES (-ĭz). [Perh. a corrupt. of E. wood.] 1. Australia. a An aboriginal war club. b A piece of wood; a stick; a peg; also, a walking stick. Vogan.
2. Also wad'die. A cowboy. Australia & Western U. S.

wad'dy, v. t.; WAD'DIED (-ĭd); WAD'DY·ING. To attack or beat with a waddy. Australia.

wad'dy (wŏd′ĭ), adj. Resembling a wad or tuft; wadlike.

wad'dy (wȧd′ĭ). Var. of WADI.

wad'dy·wood' (wŏd′ĭ·wŏŏd′), n. An Australian tree (Pittosporum bicolor); also, its wood, used in making waddies.

wade (wād), v.; WAD'ED (wād′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); WAD'ING (wād′ĭng). [ME. waden to wade, go, fr. AS. wadan go, proceed, wade; akin to OFris. wada, D. waden, G. waten, OHG. watan, ON. vatha, Sw. vada, Dan. vade, L. vadere to go, walk, vadum a ford. Cf. EVADE, INVADE, PERVADE, WADDLE.] Intransitive: 1. To go; pass; also, to penetrate. Obs.
Alas, too deep will the venom wade. Chaucer.
2. To move by stepping in or through a medium, as water, mud, sand, that offers more resistance than air.

Waddies.

3. Hence, to move, pass, go, or get forward, with difficulty or labor; to proceed slowly among things that constantly hinder or embarrass; as to wade through a dull book.
And wades through fumes, and gropes his way. Dryden.
4. To set to work or attack with determination or vigor; — with in or into; as, to wade into the morning's mail or into the food before one; the pugilist, seeing his opening, waded right in. Slang.
5. Of the sun or moon, to appear as if passing through clouds or mist by which it is intermittently obscured.
——, Transitive: To pass or cross by wading; as, he waded the rivers and swamps.

wade into. a To begin (any designated action) vigorously and energetically; as, he waded into the morning's mail b To attack violently; as, in the fourth round the pugilist waded into his opponent.

wade (wȧd), n. Act of wading; also, a place to be passed by wading; a ford. Collog.

Wa'de (wä′dĕ), n. Teut. Myth. A giant, regarded as a storm or sea demon. In one saga, he is made the father of Wayland Smith.

wade. Var. of WOAD.

wad'er (wād′ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which wades.
2. Any of many long-legged birds that wade in water in search of food, including the shore birds, as sandpipers and snipe, and the inland water birds, as cranes, herons, etc.
3. pl. High waterproof boots for wading.

Wade system (wād). The system of transliterating the Chinese (Mandarin) language introduced by Sir Thomas Francis Wade (1818–95); — still the most widely used system.

wadge (wäj), v. t. To wager; to wage. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

wadge (wȧj). Dial. Eng. var. of WEDGE.

wad hook. Ordnance. A wormer. Obs. exc. Hist.

wa'di, wa'dy (wä′dĭ), n.; pl. WADIES (-dĭz). [Ar. wādi.] In the Near East, and northern Africa, a valley; a river; a ravine through which a stream flows; the channel or bed of a watercourse which is dry except in the rainy season; also, an oasis.

wad'ing (wād′ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of WADE. Hence: adj. That wades. — wad'ing·ly, adv.

wading bird. = WADER, 2.

Wa'djak skull (wä′jäk). Anthropol. Either of two fossil skulls found at Wadjak, Java, of very primitive proto-Australoid type.

wad'mak'er (wŏd′māk′ĕr), n. A maker of wads for cartridges. — wad'mak'ing, n.

wad'mal (wŏd′măl), n. Also wad'maal, wad'mol, wad'moll. [ON. vathmāl a woolen stuff, for vāthmāl, fr. vāth stuff + māl measure (Dan. vadmel); akin to E. WEED garment; MEAL measure.] A coarse, often hairy, woolen fabric, used in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Scandinavia, for stout warm clothing, protective coverings, etc. Chiefly Hist.

Wad'man, Wid'ow (wŏd′măn). A lady in Sterne's Tristram Shandy, with whom Uncle Toby is in love.

wad'na (wȧd′nȧ). Would not. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wad'set' (wŏd′sĕt′), n. [From WADSET, v.] Scots Law. A mortgage; also, a pledge or pawn.

wad'set', v. t. [Scot. var. of wedset, fr. wed a pledge + set, v.] Scots Law. To mortgage; to pledge. — wad'set'ter (-ĕr), n.

waeg (wāg), n. The kittiwake. Shetland I.

wae'ness (wā′nĕs), n. [Dial. wae woe + -ness.] Sadness. Scot.

wae'suck (wā′sŭk), wae'sucks (-sŭks), interj. [Dial. wae woe + a slurred form of sake, sakes.] An exclamation expressing grief or pity; alas! Scot. & N. of Eng.

Wafd (wôft), n. Also Wafd party. [Ar. wafd deputation.] In Egypt, the Nationalist party formed in 1918 by Saad Zaghlul. — Wafd'ist (wôf′dĭst), n.

wa'fer (wā′fĕr), n. [ME. wafre, fr. ONF. waufre (F. gaufre), of Teut. origin; cf. LG. & D. wafel; akin to G. wabe honeycomb, OHG. waba, and to E. weave. See WEAVE; cf. 1st WAFFLE, GOFFER.] 1. A thin, crisp cake or biscuit, apparently formerly identical with or similar to the modern waffle.
2. Hence, anything resembling or suggesting a wafer (sense 1), as in thinness, size, shape, etc.; as, a sticker for attaching cards to windows in advertising is sometimes known as a wafer; a lozenge of cement used in repairing broken belts is sometimes called a wafer.
3. An adhesive disk of dried paste, made of flour, gelatin, isinglass, or the like, and coloring matter, used as a seal.
4. Eccl. A thin cake or piece of bread (commonly unleavened, circular, and stamped with a crucifix or with the sacred monogram — see XP) used in the Eucharist, as in the Roman Catholic Church. See ALTAR BREAD.
5. Mach. A thin disk or ring resembling a wafer, often used as a valve, diaphragm, or the like.
6. Ordnance. A kind of old-time primer. Obs. exc. Hist.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

wafer cake	wafermaking	wafer tong wafer cutter	wafer-sealed	wafer-torn wafermaker	wafer stamp wa'fer, v. t.; WA'FERED (-fĕrd); WA'FER·ING. To seal, close, or fasten, with a wafer.

wafer ash. The hop tree (Ptelea trifoliata), in allusion to its thin samaras.

wafer bread. Eccl. Eucharistic bread in the form of wafers.

wafer capsule. = CACHET, 3.

wa'fer·er (wā′fĕr·ĕr), n. A maker of or dealer in wafers. Obs. exc. Hist.

wafer irons or tongs. Cookery. = GAUFRE IRON.

wafer paper. A paste in waferlike sheets.

wafer sheet. Pharm. A very thin sheet of baked dough, used in making small envelopes or cachets. See CACHET, 3. wa'fer·wom'an (wā′fĕr·wŏŏm′ăn), n.; pl. -WOMEN (-wĭm′ĕn; -ĭn; 119). A woman "waferer." Obs.

wa'fer·work' (-wûrk′), n. Waferlike ornamental work.

wa'fer·y (-ĭ), adj. Resembling a wafer, as in thinness. — n. [AF. wafrie. See WAFER.] a Obs. Wafers, collectively. b Obs. exc. Hist. A department of the royal household occupied with the making of wafers. Oxf. E. D.

W

waa-hoo'. Var. of 2d WAHOO a.

Waalsch (välsk), n. [D.] = 1st WALLOON.

waar. Var. of WARE, seaweed. Obs. exc. Dial.

Wa'a·si (wä′ȧ·sē), n. = WANDOROBO.

waast. † WAIST, WASTE.

wab (wȧb). Scot. & Dial. Eng. var. of WEB.

wa·ba'io, wa·ba'yo (wä·bä′yō). Vars. of OUABAIO.

Wa'ba·na'ki (wä′bȧ·nä″kĭ). Var. of ABNAKI.

wab'bid. Wabbled. Rej. Sp.

wab'bler. Var. of WOBBLER.

wab'bles. Var. of WOBBLES.

wabble saw. Var. of WOBBLE SAW, a drunken saw.

wab'bli·ness. Var. of WOBBLINESS.

wab'bling. Var. of WOBBLING. — wab'bling·ly, adv.

wa'ber·an·leaf' (wä′bĕr·ăn·lēf′), n. = WABRON.

wa'bert·leaf' (wä′bĕrt·lēf′), n. = WABRON.

Wa'bi (wä′bē). Var. of HIAVE.

wab'ster (wȧb′stĕr; wŏb′-). Scot. N. of Eng., & Ir. of WEBSTER.

wa·ca'go. Var. of WACHAGA.

wace. Scot. & N. of Eng var. of WAX.

wach. Obs. var. & ref. sp. of would not. Dial.

wache. † WATCH; WAUGH, wave wach'et. † WATCHET.

wacht. Watched. Ref. Sp.

Wa·chu'set (wō·chōō′ĕt), n. See PENNACOOK.

wack'en (wăk′ĕn). Var. of WAKEN. Obs. exc. Dial.

wack'y (wăk′ĭ). Var. of WACKE.

wad'a·ble, wade'a·ble (wād′ȧ·bĕl), adj. See -ABLE.

wad'meal (wŏd′mēl). Var. of WADMAL.

wa'dy (wä′dĭ). Var. of WADI. wae (wā). Var. of WOE. Obs. exc. Dial.

wae'fu', wae'ful (wā′fŭl). Scot. var. of WOEFUL.

Waels, n. See VOLSUNG.

waer. Var. of WEIR.

wae'some (wā′sŭm). Scot. var. of WOESOME.

waf. Var. of WAFF.

waf. Obs. pas. tense of WEAVE. wa'fer·ish, adj. See -ISH.

---

waff (wăf), n. [See WAVE to waver; cf. WAFT.] Scot. & N. of Eng. a A waving motion; a flapping; a signal, as from a boat. b A puff; gust; whiff; an odor. c A slight attack or affection. d A glimpse. e A wraith.

waff, v. i. & i. To wave; flutter; wag; flap. Scot. & N. of Eng.

waff, v. t. & i. = WAFT. Obs.

waff, waf (wăf), adj. [Var. of WAIF.] Scot. 1. Stray. Obs. 2. Solitary; woebegone. 3. Worthless; disreputable; lowborn; paltry; inferior.

waff, n. [See WAFF, adj.] A vagrant; a low, worthless fellow. Scot.

waff (wăf), n. & v. [Imitative.] Bark; yelp; snarl. Now Dial. Eng.

‖Waf'fen-rock' (wăf'ĕn-rŏk'), n. [G., fr. waffe weapon + rock coat.] Armor. A jupon or tabard.

waff'le (wăf'l), n. [From WAFF vagrant.] A vagrant; vagabond. Scot.

waf'fle (wŏf''l), n. [D. wafel. See WAFER.] A soft but crisped indented battercake cooked in a waffle iron.

waf'fle (wăf''l), v. t. & i. [Freq. of waff to wave.] To flutter; to flap. Scot. & N. of Eng.

waf'fle, n. & v. i. [Freq. of waff to bark.] Bark; yap. Now Dial. Eng.

waf'fle in'got (wŏf''l). An ingot of aluminum about three inches square and a quarter of an inch thick.

waffle iron. A utensil for cooking waffles, having two metal parts hinged together and shutting upon each other, with projecting studs on the insides.

waff'like' (wăf'lĭk'), adj. Shabby; also, suspicious in appearance. Chiefly Dial.

waf'fly (wăf'lĭ), adj. Easily blown about; unsteady; vacillating. Scot. & N. of Eng.

waff'ness (wăf'nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. [From WAFF, adj.] Shabbiness. Scot.

waft (wăft; see Pron., § 83; 277), v.; WAFT'ED; WAFT'ING. [From wafter a convoy, fr. D. & LG. wachter a guard. See WATCH, WAKE, v.] Transitive: 1. To cause to move or go by or as by the impulse of waves, as of water or air; to bear along on or as on, or send or convey through or as through, a buoyant medium; as, a balloon was wafted over the channel.

Waft a sigh from Indus to the pole. Pope.

2. To act as convoy to; to sail in company with, as for protection; to convoy; also, to cause to float or to keep floating; to buoy. Obs.

3. [From confusion with waff to wave.] To signal to, or summon, as by waving the hand; to beckon. Obs. "Who wafts us yonder?" Shak.

4. To turn; direct; as, to waft the eyes. Obs. Shak.

—, Intransitive: To be moved, or to pass, on or as on a buoyant medium; to float.

He did not waft about with any wind. D. H. Lawrence.

waft, n. 1. Act of wafting; a signal made by waving something, as a flag, in the air; a beckoning.

2. A floating; waving; a wave or current, as of wind; a puff; gust. "Every waft of the air." Longfellow.

3. A fleeting odor or taste; a whiff. Chiefly Scot. & Dial.

The air came with a waft of sweetness upon his face. Masefield.

4. Cf. WAFF. a Scot. A glimpse or gleam. b Dial. Eng. A wraith.

5. Naut. Also weft and more often wheft. A pennant or a flag, usually stopped or knotted, used, now rarely, in signaling or sometimes to show the direction of the wind to the steersman; also, the knot in such a flag.

waft (wăft). Scot. var. of WEFT.

waft (wăft). Archaic past tense & past part. of WAVE.

waft'age (wăf'tĭj), n. 1. Act of wafting, or state of being wafted; passage or conveyance on or through a buoyant medium; hence, in general, conveyance; carriage.

Boats prepared for waftage to and fro. Drayton.

I have walked London streets for twelve and fifteen hours together without ever a thought of saving my legs, or my time, by paying for waftage. Gissing.

2. Obs. a Convoy, as of trading vessels by warships. b Vessels, collectively, for freight or passenger traffic.

3. Pay or fare for being wafted or conveyed; ferriage. R.

Of him no waftage greedy Charon got. Drummond.

waft'er (wăf'tĕr), n. 1. One who or that which wafts; specif., Mach., a kind of revolving disk or fan for a blower.

2. A transport, or passenger, boat or its master; also, a warship serving as a convoy to such a boat or boats. Obs.

3. A blunt sword, as used by sword dancers. N. of Eng.

waf'ture (wăf'tûr), n. Act of wafting or waving; a wave-like motion; a waft; a beckoning; also, something wafted or conveyed by or as by a breeze, the waves of the sea, etc.

waft'y (wăf'tĭ), adj. Wafting; conveying by or as by the wind.

wag (wăg), v.; WAGGED (wăgd); WAG'GING (wăg'ĭng). [ME. waggen; akin to AS. wagian to move, wax, ON. vagga a cradle, Sw. vagga to rock a cradle, MHG. wacken to totter, shake, G. & D. bewegen to move. See WAY; cf. WAGGLE.] Transitive: 1. To sway or swing shortly to and fro, esp. from side to side, with jerky or quick turns, as a small body attached to a larger body; as, a dog wags its tail. To wag the head, finger, etc., is often expressive of buffoonery or derision; to wag the tongue implies rapid and continuous talking.

They . . . reviled him, wagging their heads. Matt. xxvii. 39.

No discerner durst wag his tongue in censure. Shak.

2. To shake; to cause to tremble or quiver; also, to brandish, as a weapon; to flourish (a banner or the like) as a signal. Obs.

3. To nudge. Obs.

4. To beckon; — usually with of or on. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

—, Intransitive: 1. To move one way and the other; to be shaken to and fro; to vibrate; oscillate; sway.

The resty sieve wagged ne'er the more. Dryden.

2. To be in action or motion; to move; stir.

"Thus we may see," quoth he, "how the world wags." Shak.

But life wags on, all the same, and compasses its ends. W. James.

3. Of the tongue, to keep moving in chatter or gossip; as, his tongue wags incessantly. Colloq.

4. To move with a swaying, wabbling, or waddling, motion; to waddle.

5. To wander or roam from place to place; to tramp about; travel. Obs.

6. To go; depart; to pack off. Colloq. Shak.

7. To play truant from school. School Slang, Eng.

My friend was the champion bad boy of the school we both attended — when not wagging it. Sydney Bulletin.

8. To give a signal; to signal.

I saw Cousin Judd wag at my mother. Mary Auslin.

wag (wăg), n. [From WAG, v.] 1. Act of wagging; a shake; as, a wag of the head or hand. Colloq.

2. [Perh. shortened fr. wag-halter a rogue, joker.] One full of sport and humor; a wit; a joker.

We wink at wags when they offend. Dryden.

3. A fellow; — used somewhat derogatorily or playfully. — to play the wag. To play truant. School Slang, Eng.

wa'gang' (wā'găng'), n. Also wa''gang', wa'-gang'. Departure; leave-taking; death. Scot.

wag at, or by, the wall. A hanging clock with pendulum and weights exposed. Oxf. E. D. Chiefly Scot. & N. of Eng.

wag'beard' (wăg'bērd'), n. One who wags his beard, as in gossip, criticism, derision, etc. — wag'beard', adj.

wage (wāj), v.; WAGED (wājd); WAG'ING (wāj'ĭng). [ME. wagen, fr. ONF. wagier (OF. gagier, F. gager); cf. ML. vadium a pledge. See 2d & 3d GAGE.] Transitive: 1. To pledge; gage; to put down as a security; hence, to hazard on the event of a contest or undertaking; to stake; bet; lay; wager. Archaic, Dial., or Hist.

My life I never held but as a pawn To wage against thy enemies. Shak.

2. To bind oneself to; to engage to abide the event of; as, to wage battle or trial by battle; to wage one's law (see WAGER OF LAW). Obs. exc. Hist.

3. To expose oneself to, as a risk; to incur, as a danger; to venture; hazard; attempt. Obs.

To wake and wage a danger profitless. Shak.

4. To engage in, as a contest, as if by previous gage or pledge; to carry on, as a war.

I wage not any feud with death. Tennyson.

5. To adventure, or let out, for hire or reward; to hire out. Obs. "Wage thy works for wealth." Spenser.

6. To put upon wages; to engage; hire; employ; to pay wages to. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

You won't be able to wage them, like you wage hands, at sixteen shillings a month. Masefield.

7. To influence by bribery; to bribe. Obs.

8. Ceramics. = WEDGE, v. t., 5.

—, Intransitive: 1. To put oneself under pledge; to serve as a pledge; to engage. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. To engage in, or carry on, war; to contend. Rare.

3. To come to an agreement in the matter of wages. Obs.

4. To be equivalent as a stake. Obs.

The commodity wages not with the danger. Shak.

wage (wāj), n. [ME., fr. ONF. wage (OF. gage) guarantee, engagement. See WAGE, v., 2d GAGE.] 1. A gage; pledge; a pledge or security that one will do something or will abide by the result of something, as a duel or combat. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. State of being pledged; pledge; pawn; as, to lay one's life in wage. Obs.

3. In general, that which is given as a recompense or requital; usually, a reward. Obs.

I shall thee give to thy wage
A mantle white so [as] milk. Sir Beues of Hamtoun.
For with the hook he wounded is so sore,
That he his wages hath for evermore. Chaucer.

4. That which is pledged or paid for work or other services; hire; pay; — now chiefly in the pl. See WAGES.

Churchmen, in whose esteem their blessed employ Is odious, and their wages all their joy. Cowper.

Pay them a wage in advance, and guarantee them a share in the future profits. J. Morley.

5. Figuratively, produce; yield.

Till harvest come in with his greater wage. Palladius.
The niggard wages of the earth. Shelley.

6. Money paid for use of something, as property; hire; rent. Obs.

☞ The plural form wages was formerly often, and is still sometimes, construed as a singular; as, "The wages of sin is death." Rom. vi. 23.

☞ PHRASES are:

wage earning	wage labor	wage slave
wage fixing	wage paying	wage slavery wage board. a A board established by law to investigate wage rates. b A board created by the joint action of employer and employees to adjust wage rates and fix new rates from time to time.

wage capital. Econ. Food to support labor, as distinct from tools to assist it (auxiliary capital).

waged (wājd), adj. Receiving wages; hired; also, Obs., bribed.

I see very decent cottages everywhere, with large plots of ground at economic rents, and decently waged people paying them. Galsworthy.

wage earner. One who works for wages, particularly in industry.

wage, or wages, fund. That part of the capital of the community which is destined for the support of laborers.

wage'–fund', or wag'es–fund', the'o-ry. A theory generally held by economists from 1830 to 1870, that the rate of wages depended on the ratio between the amount of capital available and the number of laborers. It has been abandoned because an amount of capital divided by a number of laborers cannot, in the nature of things, give a rate of wages.

wage level. The approximate position of wages at any given time in any occupation or trade, or more frequently, in industry at large.

wa'gen-boom' (vä'gĕn-bōōm'), n. [D., lit., wagon tree.] A South African tree (Protea grandiflora); also, its tough wood, used for making wagon wheels.

Wag'en-er (wăg'ĕn-ĕr), n. [After Abraham Wagener, of Yates Co., N. Y., who planted seedlings from Dutchess Co. in 1796.] Hort. A late variety of apple with reddish-yellow fruit.

wa'ger (wā'jĕr), n. [ME. wager, wajour, fr. ONF. wageüre (F. gageure), fr. wagier, v. See WAGE, v.] 1. A gage, or pledge. Obs.

2. That which is risked on an uncertain event; a stake; prize; bet; also, Rare, a contest or competition for a stake or prize.

3. Act of wagering, or betting; a bet. At common law a wager was not invalid as such, but was rendered invalid by any circumstance connected with it rendering its enforcement contrary to public policy, as where it was as to the sex of a person, or in restraint of marriage, or upon the outcome of a trial in court. A wager may take the form of a contract, called a wagering, or gambling, contract. Contracts of this nature include various common forms of valid commercial contracts, as contracts of insurance, contracts dealing in futures, options, etc. Other wagering contracts and bets are now generally made illegal by statute against betting and gambling, and wagering has in many cases been made a criminal offense.

4. That on which bets are laid; the subject of a bet.

5. [ONF. wagier (OF. gagier), inf. as n. See WAGER a bet.] Act of gaging, or giving a pledge, to do something or to abide the event of something; as, wager of battle (see TRIAL BY BATTLE); wager of law (see WAGER OF LAW). Obs. exc. Hist.

wa'ger (wā'jĕr), v. t.; WA'GERED (-jĕrd); WA'GER-ING. To hazard on the issue of a contest, or on some question that is to be decided, or on some casualty; to risk; venture; also, to stake; bet; to lay as a gamble.

And wagered with him
Pieces of gold 'gainst this which then he wore. Shak.

— v. i. To make a bet; to lay a wager.

wag'er (wāj'ĕr), n. One who or that which wages, or engages in a contest or competition; competitor.

The great numbers of these fish show that they are successful wagers of life. William Beebe.

wage rate. The amount of wages paid per unit of time for a particular job or class of jobs.

wa'ger-er (wā'jĕr-ĕr), n. One who wagers.

wa'ger-ing (-ĭng), adj. Hazarding; pertaining to the act of one who wagers; betting.

wager of battle. Law. Trial by battle. Hist.

wager of law. Early Eng. Law. The act of a party having the negative, usually the defendant, in an action in giving a pledge, or in binding himself, to resort to and abide the event of an attempt to prove his case by the oath of himself and the required number of oath helpers, or compurgators. In early times various causes civil and criminal were so settled, and the required number of oath helpers varied both with the rank of the parties and the nature of the offense or default. The procedure survived into modern times as a peculiarity of the actions of detinue and debt. It was abolished in England by 3 & 4 Wm. IV, c. 42, § 13, having already been long practically obsolete.

wager policy. See 3d POLICY, 1.

wag'es (wāj'ĕz; -ĭz; 119), n., pl. of WAGE, n. (see WAGE, n., Note). 1. Pay given for labor, usually manual or mechanical, at short stated intervals, as distinguished from salaries or fees.

2. Theoretical Econ. The share of the annual product or national dividend which goes as a reward to labor, as distinct from the remuneration received by capital in its various forms. This economic or technical sense of the word wages is broader than the current sense, and includes not only amounts actually paid to laborers, but the remuneration obtained by those who sell the products of their own work, and the wages of management, or superintendence (called also earnings of management), which are earned by skill in directing the work of others. See REAL WAGES, 1st EARNING, 2.

Syn. — WAGES, HIRE, SALARY, STIPEND, PAY, EMOLUMENT. WAGES and HIRE (the latter somewhat archaic in this sense) denote the price paid for labor, esp. by the day or week; as, a day laborer's, carpenter's, cook's wages; "The laborer is worthy of his hire" (Luke x. 7). SALARY and STIPEND denote a fixed compensation, commonly paid at longer intervals than wages, for services (often professional) which require training or ability; as, the salary of a minister, a teacher, a bank president, a consul. PAY, which is often general in its sense, may be equivalent esp. to wages (as in payday, payroll, etc.); more specifically, it is used with reference to soldiers; as, an officer on half pay. EMOLUMENT applies to whatever profits arise from office or employment; as, "the emoluments of a profession" (Gibbon); "A worthier successor wears his dignity and pockets his emoluments" (Hawthorne). Cf. PAY.

wage scale. 1. A series of rates of wages paid for related tasks.

2. The level of wages paid by an individual employer.

wages fund. = WAGE FUND.

wag'es–man' (wāj'ĕz-măn'; -ĭz-; 119), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn'). A wageworker. Rare.

wage system. Econ. An industrial system in which free laborers are hired by capitalists to do a large part of the productive work of society; — contrasted with slavery or serfdom on the one hand, and small proprietorship on the other.

wage'work' (wāj'wûrk'), n. Work done for wages.

wage'work'er (-wûr'kĕr), n. One who works for wages. — wage'work'ing, adj. & n.

wag'gel (wăg'ĕl), n., or waggel gull. A black-backed gull in immature plumage. Local, Eng.

wag'ger (wăg'ĕr), n. One who or that which wags.

wag'ger-y (wăg'ĕr-ĭ), n.; pl. WAGGERIES (-ĭz). [From WAG.] 1. The manner or action of a wag; mischievous merriment; pleasantry; jocularity; waggishness.

2. A bit of foolery; a jest, esp. a practical joke.

wag'gle, wag'gy (wăg'l), n. [See WAG, v.] A wagtail; esp., the pied wagtail. Local, Brit.

wag'gish (-ĭsh), adj. 1. Like, or characteristic of, a wag; sportively or good-humoredly mischievous or roguish; frolicsome. "A company of waggish boys." L'Estrange.

2. Done, made, or laid, in waggery or for sport; sportive; humorous; as, a waggish trick.

Syn. — Roguish, jesting, sportive.

Ant. — Serious, earnest, solemn.

— wag'gish-ly, adv. — wag'gish-ness, n.

wag'gle (wăg''l), v.; WAG'GLED (-'ld); WAG'GLING (-lĭng). [Freq. of wag; cf. D. waggelen, G. wackeln, Nor. dial. vagla. See WAG; cf. WIGGLE.] Intransitive: 1. To reel, sway, or move, from side to side; to wag.

The fascination of watching his short stubby beard as it waggled with every motion of his jaw. Edna Ferber.

2. To move jerkily backwards and forwards or from side to side; to wabble.

—, Transitive: 1. To move frequently one way and the other; to wag; as, a bird waggles his tail; to wave backwards and forwards or from side to side; as, he waggled his forefinger in the air.

2. To get the better of; to beat; defeat. Slang.

3. Golf. To impart a waggle to (the club).

wag'gle, n. A waggling or wagging; specif., Golf, the preliminary swinging of the club head back and forth over the ball in preparing to start the stroke.

wag'gling (wăg'lĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of WAGGLE. Hence: adj. That waggles, or wabbles.—wag'gling-ly, adv.

wag'gly (-lĭ), adj. Having a course like the path of a person who walks waveringly; unsteady; wabbly.

Wag'gum-bu'ra (wăg'ŭm-bōō'rä), n. sing. & pl. One of a tribe of aboriginal blacks in southeastern Queensland.

wag'gy (wăg'ĭ), adj. Having a tendency to wag; given to wagging; as, hounds with waggy tails.

wag'gy. Var. of WAGGLE, n.

wag'ing board or ta'ble (wāj'ĭng). Ceramics. The shelf or table on which clay is tempered; a wedging board.

Wa-gan'da (wä-gän'dä), n. Var. of BAGANDA.

wa'gang'ing (wä'gäng'ĭn; -gäng'-ĭn), wa'gaun' (-gôn'). Vars. of WAYGOING.

wagd. Waged. Ref. Sp.

wage'a-ble, adj. = HIRABLE. Obs.

wage'dom (wāj'dŭm), n. See -DOM.

wage'el (wăg'ĕl). Var. of WAGGLE.

wage'less, adj. See -LESS.

wage'less-ness, n. [GULL.

wagel gull. Var. of WAGGEL.

wage'ling, n. [wage + 1st -ling.] A hireling; a mercenary. Obs.

wa'gerd. Wagered. Ref. Sp.

wagering contract. See WAGER, n., 3.

waget. + WATCHET.

wagh. Var. of WAUGH, interj.

-ABLE. — wag'ga-bly, adv.

wag'gon, wag'gon-er, wag'gon-way', etc. Vars. of WAGON, etc. Chiefly Brit.

wag'hal'ter, n. [wag + halter.] A rogue; a rascal; one likely to be hanged. Obs.

wag'like', adj. See -LIKE.

wag'ling, n. See -LING.

Wag'ner (văg'nĕr), n. Faust's pedantic famulus in Goethe's Faust and Marlowe's Doctor Faustus.

Wag'ner-esque' (-ĕsk'), adj. Resembling or suggesting in style and treatment the work of Richard Wagner (1813–1883), German composer of opera and music drama.

Wag-ne'ri-an (văg-nĕr'ĭ-ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, characterized by, or resembling the theories or style of, Richard Wagner. — n. An admirer of the musical theories and style of Wagner.

Wag'ner-ism (văg'nĕr-ĭz'm), n. 1. Richard Wagner's theory and practice in the composition of opera, or, esp., music drama, his chief aim being to free opera from the conventions of the Italian school, and make dramatic fitness dominate the ensemble of text, music, action, and scene. 2. The influence of the work of Wagner in the world of music.

Wag'ner-ist (-ĭst), n. Music. A Wagnerite.

wag'ner-ite (văg'nĕr-ĭt; wăg'nĕr-), n. [After F. M. von Wagner (1768–1851), Ger. mining engineer.] Mineral. A magnesium fluophosphate, $(MgF)_2MgPO_4$, occurring in yellow monoclinic crystals, and also in massive forms.

Wag'ner-ite (văg'nĕr-ĭt), n. An adherent of Wagnerism; also, an admirer of Wagner's work; a Wagnerian.

Wag'ner tu'ba (văg'nĕr). Music. A brass-wind instrument between a French horn and a modern tuba in construction and timbre, designed by Richard Wagner and called for in his scores.

Wa-go'go (wä-gō'gō), n. pl. A widespread Bantu nation of the Unyamwezi highlands, Tanganyika Territory, somewhat similar to the Masai in manners and customs.

Wa-go'ma (wä-gō'mä), n. sing. & pl. One of an important Bantu-speaking tribe west of Lake Tanganyika; — called also Goma.

wag'on, or, chiefly British, wag'gon (wăg'ŭn), n. [D. wagen, MD. waghen. See WAIN.] 1. A kind of four-wheeled vehicle, esp. one used for carrying freight or merchandise. Wagons are of various types according to their uses, as farm wagons for various uses on the farm, a wagon for transporting grain, a circus wagon, a covered wagon or prairie schooner. In the United States light wagons are used for the conveyance of persons; as, a beach wagon in which to travel back and forth from a cottage to a bathing beach.
2. A four-wheeled vehicle for transporting goods on a railway; — corresponding in general to the American freight car, but usually of much smaller capacity. Open wagons correspond to gondolas, and covered or box wagons to box cars. Brit.
3. A chariot. Obs.
4. a Colloq. A perambulator; baby carriage. b A police carryall; as, they took us to the station in the wagon.
5. A car used in a mine for carrying ore, etc. Eng.
6. Short for WATER WAGON. Slang.
7. A small serving table, usually on casters and having two or more shelves, for use in serving food.
8. = BAND WAGON, 2.
9. A tool used by goldbeaters and others to cut and trim gold leaf. It is formed like a miniature sledge with runners of Malacca reed which form the cutting edges.
10. [cap.] Astron. The Dipper, or Ursa Major.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

wagon filler	wagon road	wagon trail wagon greaser	wagon-shaped	wagon wheel
wagonmaker	wagon shed	wagonwork wagonmaking	wagon track	wagon yard wagonman

— on the wagon. On the water wagon; pledged to abstinence from intoxicating liquor. Slang.

wag'on, wag'gon, v. t.; WAG'ONED, WAG'GONED (wăg'ŭnd); WAG'ON·ING, WAG'GON·ING. To transport in a wagon or wagons; as, goods are wagoned from city to city. — v. i. To wagon goods as a business; also, to travel in a wagon.

wa-gon' (vä-gôn'), n. sing. & pl. [Slovenian vagon, lit., freight car, fr. F. wagon, fr. E. wagon. See WAGON.] See WEIGHT, Table.

wag'on-a-ble, wag'gon-a-ble (wăg'ŭn-ȧ-b'l), adj. Passable by wagons.

wag'on-age, wag'gon-age (-ĭj), n. 1. Transportation by wagon or wagons; also, money paid for carriage or conveyance in a wagon.
2. A collection of wagons; wagons, collectively.
Wagonage, provender, and a piece or two of cannon. Carlyle.

wagon bed. Wagon box.

wagon boiler. Also wag'on-top', or wag'gon-top', boil'er. An early form of steam boiler; — so called from its shape, which resembled that of a covered wagon.

wagon box. Body of a wagon. — wag'on-box', adj.

wagon breast. Coal Mining. A breast, or room, into which wagons can be taken.

wagon ceiling. Arch. A ceiling formed by a wagon vault.

wag'on-er, wag'gon-er (wăg'ŭn-ĕr), n. [Cf. D. wagenaar.]
1. One who conducts or drives a wagon, esp. as a business.
2. A charioteer. Obs.
3. [cap.] Astron. a Auriga. b Charles's Wain.

wag'on-er, n. [After Lucas Janszen Waghenaer, Dutch cartographer of the 16th century.] A book of charts. Obs. exc. Hist.

wag'on-ette', wag'gon-ette' (wăg'ŭn-ĕt'), n. [wagon + -ette.] A kind of wagon, with two facing seats along the sides back of a transverse seat in front. It is designed to carry six or more.

Wagonette.

wagon gun. A monitor nozzle mounted on fire apparatus.

wagon hammer. The bolt to attach the doubletree to the tongue of a vehicle.

wag'on-head'ed, wag'gon-head'ed, adj. Having a top, or head, shaped like the top of a covered wagon, or in section or outline like an inverted U; as, a wagon-headed ceiling.

‖wa'gon'-lit' (vä'gôn'lē'), n. [F., fr. wagon railway coach (fr. E. wagon) + lit bed.] Railway sleeping car.

wag'on-load', wag'gon-load' (wăg'ŭn-lōd'), n. A wagonful.

wagon lock. Any device, as a chain or a shoe, for locking a wagon wheel.

wagon master. An officer or person in charge of one or more wagons, esp. of those used for transporting freight, as the supplies of an army, and the like.

wagon roof. Arch. A roof formed by, or consisting of, a wagon vault.

wag'on-roofed', wag'gon-roofed' (wăg'ŭn-rōōft'), adj. Having a roof, or top, shaped like an inverted U.

wag'on-ry, wag'gon-ry (wăg'ŭn-rĭ), n. Conveyance in wagons. Rare.

wagon seat. A seat on a wagon; also, Furniture, a double chair with slat back and turned posts, etc., used both in the house and in the market wagon.

wagon shoe. A skid, or shoe, for retarding the motion of a wagon wheel; a drag.

wag'on-smith', wag'gon-smith' (-smĭth'), n. A wagonmaker.

wagon table. = WAGON, n., 7.

wagon tent. A tent, such as used by the Scythians, which without being taken to pieces could be transported from place to place by wagon.
In South Russia, such wagon tents date from the oldest times and were already in use among the Scythians. Camb. Med. Hist.

wag'-on-the-wall', adj. Designating a type of shelf clock, with pull weights; — so called because set high on a wall.

wagon tongue. = TONGUE, n., 10 d.

wagon top. 1. A top, esp. a permanent covering, for a wagon.
2. Mach. The enlarged rear part of the shell of a locomotive boiler, over the furnace.
— wag'on-top', wag'gon-top', adj.

wag'on-top', or wag'gon-top', boil'er. See WAGON BOILER.

wagon train. A train of wagons; esp., Mil., a train of provision or service wagons.

wagon tree. = WAGENBOOM.

wagon vault. = BARREL VAULT. — wag'on-vault'ed, wag'gon-vault'ed, adj.

wag'on-way', wag'gon-way' (-wā'), n. A way or road for wagons; as: a In a colliery, an artificial track of rails for coal wagons. b A road suitable for traffic by wagon. c A wagon track.

wag'on-way'man, wag'gon-way'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). Mining. A roadman. Brit.

wag'on-wright', wag'gon-wright' (-rīt'), n. A maker and repairer of wagons; a wainwright.

wag'some (wăg'sŭm), adj. Waggish. Rare.

wag'tail' (wăg'tāl'), n. 1. a Any of numerous mostly Old World birds (subfamily Motacillinae) allied to the pipits. They have a trim slender body and a very long tail which they habitually jerk up and down. Well-known species are the pied wagtail, the white wagtail, and the yellow wagtail, the last of which is represented by a variety in Alaska. b Any bird resembling a wagtail, as an American water thrush or an Australian fantail [see FANTAIL, 2 a (2)], esp. the wagtail flycatcher.
2. In contempt, a person; esp., a harlot. Obs.

wag'tail', v. i. To flutter. Obs.

wagtail flycatcher. An Australian black-and-white flycatcher (Leucocirca tricolor). Cf. FANTAIL, 2 a (2).

wag'-tongue' (wăg'tŭng'), n. A gossip; a chatterbox.

Wa-gu'ha (wä-gōō'hä), n. sing. & pl. One of an important Bantu-speaking tribe on the Lukuga River, regarded as closely related to the Wagoma; — called also Guha.

wag'wag' (wăg'wăg'), n. A polishing device used by watchmakers and clockmakers, in which the polisher has a to-and-fro motion. Cant.

wag'wants' (wăg'wŏnts'), n. pl. = QUAKING GRASS a. Dial. Eng. & Scot.

Wa-gwe'no (wä-gwā'nō), n. sing. & pl. One of a Bantu-speaking tribe southeast of Kilimanjaro, subject to the Masai.

wag'wit' (wăg'wĭt'), n. A wag (sense 2).

wah (wä), n. [Perh. fr. Tibetan wa fox.] The panda.

wah (wä), n. sing. & pl. [Siamese wā.] See MEASURE, Table.

Wa-ha'bi, Wa-ha'bee, Wah-ha'bi (wä-hä'bē), n. [Ar. wahhābī.] A follower of Mohammed ibn' Abdu'l-Wahhab (1691–1787), Mohammedan reformer. The Wahabis were a sect of purists that arose in Arabia, who objected to all innovations in Islam and preached a return to its original purity as set forth by the Koran and the example of Mohammed. They are a warlike people and under ibn Saud have by a revival of power since 1910 enlarged their state from Nejd to nearly all of Arabia (Saudian Arabia). — Wa-ha'bi-ism (-bē-ĭz'm), Wa-ha'bism (-bĭz'm), n., Wa-ha'bite (-bīt), adj.

Wa-ha'bit (wä-hä'bĭt), Wa-ha'bite (-bīt), n. A Wahabi. — Wa-ha'bit-ism (-bĭt-ĭz'm; -bīt-), n.

wa-ha'he (wä-hä'hä), n. [Maori.] A New Zealand tree (Dysoxylum spectabile), family Meliaceae, the leaves of which are used by the natives medicinally.

Wa'ha Lake trout (wä'hä). [From Waha Lake, Idaho, of Shahaptian origin, prob. fr. hahau willow.] A small black-spotted trout (Salmo bouvieri) of Waha Lake, Idaho.

Wa-he'he (wä-hā'hā), n. sing. & pl. One of an important Negro tribe northeast of Lake Nyasa. wa-hi'ne (wä-hē'nā), n. [Maori & Hawaiian.] New Zealand and Hawaii. a A woman. b A wife. c A mistress.

Wah'len-ber'gi-a (wä'lĕn-bûr'jĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., after Göran Wahlenberg (1780–1851), Sw. botanist.] Bot. A small genus of perennial herbs (family Campanulaceae), chiefly of the Southern Hemisphere, differing from the closely related genus Campanula in the loculicidal capsule. Several, as W. gracilis, are cultivated for ornament. W. saxicola is the New Zealand bluebell.

wa-hoo' (wä-hōō'; wä'hōō), n. [Dakota wanhu (wăhu), lit., arrowwood.] A shrub (Evonymus atropurpureus) having purple capsules which in dehiscence expose the scarlet-ariled seeds; — called also burning bush. The dried bark of the root is used as a cathartic.

wa-hoo', n. [Creek ûhawhu cork elm.] Any of various American trees or shrubs; specif.: a The rock elm Ulmus racemosa; also, the wing elm. b The cascara buckthorn. c The basswood (Tilia). d W. Va. = UMBRELLA TREE a.

wa-hoo', n. [Origin unknown.] A dark-blue food fish (Acanthocybium petus), family Scombridae, of Florida and the West Indies; the peto.

wa'hoo (wä'hōō), n. Nonsense; tommyrot. Slang.

‖Wahr'heit und Dich'tung (vär'hīt ŏŏnt dĭk'tōōng). [G.] Erroneous form of the subtitle of Goethe's autobiography, introduced by his secretary Riemer, and now become a household word. See DICHTUNG UND WAHRHEIT.

wai'a-ta (wī'ä-tä), n. [Maori.] A song usually commemorative of some important event. New Zealand.

Wai'-chiao' pu' (wī'jyou' bōō'). [Chin. (Pek.) wai[4] foreign + chiao[1] intercourse + pu[4] office.] The Ministry of Foreign Affairs in China. It succeeded the Wai-wu pu (which see).

Wa'i-cu'ri (wä'ē-kōō'rē), n. An Indian tribe of southern Lower California. See WAÏCURIAN.

Wa'i-cu'ri-an (-rĭ-ăn), adj. Pertaining to or designating a linguistic family of southern Lower California, comprising the Waïcuri and the extinct Pericu.

waif (wāf), n. [ME., fr. ONF. waif, OF. guaif, gaif, adj., lost, unclaimed, chose gaive a waif; cf. Anglo-Lat. wayvium; prob. of Scand. origin; cf. ON. veif anything flapping or waving. See WAIVE, v.] 1. a Eng. Law. Stolen goods thrown away by a thief in his flight. They belong to the king, or to the lord of the manor if the king has granted to him the franchise of waif, unless the owner makes fresh suit. If the owner prosecutes the thief to conviction he has a right to receive back his goods. b Early English Law. A woman who is waived. See WAIVE, v. t., 5 b.
2. Hence, anything found, or without an owner; that which is blown in by wind or driven in by water or which comes along, as it were, by chance; a stray thing or article.
Rolling in his mind old waifs of rhyme. Tennyson.
3. A wanderer; castaway; a stray person or beast, as a homeless child or a lost sheep.
4. A small flag or other device set to mark the position and establish prior right to the floating body of a harpooned whale, or also, to mark a passage through fish traps.
5. Naut. = WAFT, n., 5.

waif, adj. Stray; vagrant; homeless; also, current in speech; as, a waif word or expression. Chiefly Scot.

waif, v. t. To throw up or cast away as a waif.
He hath right of life and death over all stranded and waifed on his coast. Ld. Lytton.

Wai'i-lat'pu-an (wī'ē-lăt'pōō-ăn), Wai-lat'pu-an (wī-lăt'-), adj. Pertaining to or designating an American Indian linguistic family, consisting of two tribes, the Cayuse and the Molala, now nearly extinct, formerly inhabiting two areas in northern Oregon.

waik (wāk), adj. Weak. — waik'ly, adv. — waik'ness, n. All Obs. exc. Dial.

wail (wāl), v. t.; WAILED (wāld); WAIL'ING. [ME. wailen, weilen, fr. ON. vǣla, vāla; akin to E. WOE.] To lament; bewail; to grieve over; as, to wail one's death. — v. i. To express sorrow audibly; to make mournful outcry; to lament; weep.
Therefore I will wail and howl. Micah i. 8.
Syn. — Moan, lament, mourn. Ant. — Rejoice, delight.

wail, n. Act of wailing; loud lamentation; also, a mournful, usually prolonged, cry or sound arising from grief, or pain; as, the wail of the mourner; a child's wail when he is hungry. "The wail of the forest." Longfellow.

wail. Var. of WALE, choice, choose.

Wai'la-ki (wī'lȧ-kĭ), n. An Indian of an Athapascan tribe of the Eel River Valley, California. The survivors are on Round River Reservation.

wail'er (wāl'ĕr), n. One who wails, or laments.

wail'er. Var. of WALER (mining).

wail'ful (wāl'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. 1. Sorrowful; expressing grief or pain; mournful; wailing. "Wailful widows." Spenser. "Wailful sonnets." Shak.
2. Giving utterance to wailing, mournful sounds; as, the wailful sough of the wind through the trees.
3. = WAILSOME. Obs.
— wail'ful-ly, adv.

Wail'ing Place of the Jews, or Wail'ing Wall. An enclosed area in Jerusalem, near the Moslem Mosque of Omar, one wall of which is 59 feet high and supposed to contain some of the stones of Solomon's temple. In front of this wall Jews gather on Fridays to lament and pray.

wail'some (wāl'sŭm), adj. Deplorable; productive of grief and lamentation; also, lamenting; plaintive.

wail'y (wāl'ĭ), adj. Having the character or sound of a wail.

wain (wān), n. [ME. wain, fr. AS. wæn, wægn, wægen; akin to D. & G. wagen, OHG. wagan, ON. vagn, OIr. fēn, L. vehiculum, Gr. ochos, Lith. vežimas, Skr. vāhana a vehicle. See WAY; cf. VEHICLE, WAGON, WAINSCOT.] 1. A four-wheeled vehicle for the transportation of goods, produce, etc.; a wagon or cart. "A great wagon or wain, piled high with hay." Jeffery Farnol.
All the rest of the year we are the plodding Percheron of commerce, patiently tugging our wain. C. Morley.
2. A chariot. Obs.
3. [cap., with the.] Astron. Charles's Wain.

wain, v. t. [From WAIN, n.] To convey; fetch. Obs.

wain. Var. of WANE. Obs. exc. Dial.

wain'age (wān'ĭj), n. [ONF. waignage.] a Early Feudal Law. Implements of husbandry. See GAINAGE, n. b Obs. exc. Hist. Cultivated land.

Wai'na-moi'nen (wä'ē-nä-mō'ē-nĕn), n. Hero of the epic Kalevala (which see). He was a great bard and the inventor of a harp.

wain'bote' (wān'bōt'), n. Early Law. Bote of wood for repair of wagons.

wain'er (-ĕr), n. A driver of a wain; a wagon driver.

wain'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). a Obs. exc. Hist. A wagoner. b [cap.] Obs. Boötes.

wain'rope' (-rōp'), n. A cart rope; a trace. Rare.
The wainrope was wet 1' my hands. Quiller-Couch.

wain'scot (wān'skŭt; -skŏt; formerly commonly, still often in British usage, wĕn'skŭt), n. [MLG. wagenscot, appar. fr. wagen wagon + schot wooden partition, crossbar; akin to E. WAIN; SHUT, SHOOT.] 1. a In British usage, a fine grade of oak imported for woodwork; also, a piece of such wood. b Hence, a wooden lining of an interior wall, usually paneled; also, by extension, any lining of an interior wall, irrespective of material; as, a tile wainscot. c The lower three or four feet of an interior wall when finished differently from the remainder of the wall, as with wood panels, tile, or marble slabs.
2. Any of various European and American noctuid moths belonging to the genera Leucania and Cirphis. They are reddish or yellowish, streaked or lined with black and white. The larvae are known as army worms.

☞ COMBINATIONS (in sense 1) are:
wainscot-faced, wainscot-joined, wainscot-paneled.

wain'scot, adj. Of, provided with, or lined with, wainscot, the oak, or with a wainscot, the paneling; also, like or suggesting wainscot or a wainscot.

wain'scot, v. t.; WAIN'SCOT·ED or WAIN'SCOT·TED; WAIN'SCOT·ING or WAIN'SCOT·TING. To line with or as with boards or panelwork; as, to wainscot a hall.
The other is wainscoted with looking glass. Addison.

wainscot chair. A kind of heavy oak chair with solid panels in back and seat and, sometimes, turned posts and carved backs, brought from England very early in the Colonial period.

wain'scot·ing, wain'scot·ting, pres. part. & verbal n. of WAINSCOT. Hence: n. The material used to wainscot a house, or the wainscot as a whole; panelwork.

wainscot oak. The Turkey oak (Quercus cerris).

wain'wright' (wān'rīt'), n. [wain a wagon + wright.] A wagonwright.

wai·pi'ro (wī·pē'rō), n. [Maori wai-piro, fr. wai water + piro stinking.] Spirituous liquor; spirits; alcoholic beverages in general. New Zealand.

wair (wâr), n. Carp. A plank 6 ft. by 1 ft. Obs.

wair (wār). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of WARE, to spend.

wa'i·re'po (wä'ē·rā'pō), n. [Maori.] A New Zealand sting ray (Dasybatis brevicaudatus).

waise (wāz), n. [ON. veisa. See OOZE mud.] Mud. Scot.

waist (wāst), n. [ME. wast; orig., growth, akin to AS. weaxan to grow, wæstm growth, ON. vöxtr growth, stature, Sw. växt, Goth. wahstus. See WAX to grow.] 1. That part of the human body which is immediately below the ribs or thorax; the small part of the body between the thorax and hips. Chaucer.

I am in the waist two yards about. Shak.

2. That part of anything which corresponds in position to, or resembles in some way, the human waist; the middle or central part, esp. when narrower or less thick than the ends; as, the waist of a boiler, saddle, violin, etc.

3. A girdle or belt for the waist. Obs. Shak.

4. A garment, or that part of a garment, which covers the body from the neck or shoulders to, or about to, the waistline. Specif.: a The bodice, or upper part, of a woman's dress. b An undergarment for children, worn similarly, to which other clothing may be buttoned.

5. Naut. That part of a vessel's deck between the quarter-deck and forecastle; the middle part of the ship.

6. Shoemaking. The smallest part of a boot or shoe between the ball and instep.

7. Zool. The greatly constricted basal part of the abdomen of certain wasps, flies, and other insects.

☞ COMBINATIONS are: waist'-deep', waist'-press'ing, adj.

waist, adj. For wear at or around the waist.

waist anchor. Naut. A sheet anchor. See ANCHOR, n., 1.

waist'band' (wāst'bănd'; -bənd), n. A band, sash, or the like, which encompasses the waist; specif., one on the upper part of breeches, trousers, skirts, or the like, serving often as an inner belt.

waist belt. A belt for the waist, — sometimes, esp. in military garb, disting. from a belt over the shoulder.

waist board. Naut. Temporary planking in the waist, esp. in the gangway to protect against seas.

waist boat. Naut. A boat carried in a vessel's waist; specif., Whaling, that on the port side, usually commanded by the second mate.

waist boater. Whaling. The officer commanding the waist boat, usually the second mate.

waist'cloth' (wāst'klŏth'; 185), n. 1. A cloth or wrapper worn about the waist; esp., such a garment worn about the hips and passing between the thighs; a loincloth.

2. Naut. a Now Rare. A covering for the hammocks, stowed in the nettings in the waist; — called hammock cloth in the United States Navy. b Obs. pl. Cloths hung about a ship's waist as adornment, or to screen the men when in action.

waist'coat' (wās(t)'kōt'; wĕs'kŭt; 231; 277: wĕs'kŭt is the phonetically regular traditional pron. (see Pron., §§ 1, 2, 70); wās(t)'kōt' is a recent spelling pron. (3), mentioned but not preferred by Walker (1791), and now widely used), n. a A man's garment of ornamental character, formerly worn under the doublet. b A sleeveless garment for men, worn under the coat, now extending a little below the waist; — in U. S. commonly called vest. It is now usually of the same material as the coat, though often of white for formal evening dress (see EVENING DRESS) and of white or colored material for informal wear. c A similar garment or a front resembling a man's waistcoat, worn by women; also, Obs., an underwaist.

It was only when the waistcoat was worn without a gown or upper dress that it was considered the mark of a mad or profligate woman. Nares.

waist'coat'ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having or wearing a waistcoat.

waist'coat·eer' (-ēr'), n. One wearing a waistcoat; formerly, a woman wearing one, esp. without a gown or upper dress; hence, a strumpet; a harlot.

waist'coat·hole' (-hōl'), n. An armhole in a waistcoat.

His thumbs now in his waistcoatholes, he measured his idea. Henry James.

waist'coat'ing, n. A fabric designed for waistcoats, esp. one in which there is a pattern in differently colored yarns.

waist'ed (wās'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Having a waist.

-waist'ed. A combining form of waisted, denoting having (such) a waist, as in:

big-waisted	low-waisted	slender-waisted
deep-waisted	narrow-waisted	slim-waisted
high-waisted	shallow-waisted	tight-waisted long-waisted	short-waisted	wasp-waisted waist'er (wās'tĕr), n. Naut. A seaman, usually a "green hand" or a broken-down man, stationed in the waist of a whaler or, formerly, of a vessel of war; — hence sometimes used as an opprobrious epithet. Now Rare.

waist'-high', adj. & adv. High as the waist.

waist'ing (wās'tĭng), n. Material for waists; esp., fabric suitable for making into shirtwaists.

waist'less (wāst'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Without waist; unshapely.

waist'line' (wāst'līn'), n. A line surrounding, or thought of as surrounding, the waist where it is most contracted; also, in dressmaking, the line at which the waist and skirt of a dress meet. When this line is at the waist of the wearer, it is known as the natural waistline; otherwise it is a high or a low waistline.

waist strap. Belt; girdle.

waist tree. Naut. Formerly, a rough spar placed on the rail in the waist of a ship.

wait (wāt), v.; WAIT'ED; WAIT'ING. [ME. waiten to watch, wait, fr. ONF. waitier (OF. guaitier, gaitier, to watch, attend, F. guetter to watch, to wait for), of Teut. origin; cf. OHG. wahta a guard, watch, G. wacht, OHG. wahhên to watch, be awake. See WAKE, v.] Intransitive: 1. To watch, esp. with hostile intent; to lie in wait. Obs.

2. In general, to look; to watch; to observe; to be on one's guard; to be alert or watchful. Obs.

3. To look (mentally); to be in expectation; — usually with for, equivalent to expect or look forward to.

Joseph of Arimathea, . . . which also waited for the kingdom of God. Mark xv. 43.

4. To stay or rest in expectation; to stop or remain in readiness, stationary or inactive, as till the arrival of some person or event or of the proper or favorable time for action; to rest in patience; to stay; not to depart.

All the days of my appointed time will I wait. Job xiv. 14.
They also serve who only stand and wait. Milton.

5. To be or remain ready to serve or execute orders; to be in waiting; to act as attendant or servant; esp., to attend or wait upon persons at table; to serve.

—, Transitive: 1. To watch, esp. with intent to attack or injure; also, to lie in wait in order to deliver (an attack, injury, etc.). Obs.

2. In general, to watch; observe; look for; also, to await; expect; to look forward to, as with hope or fear. Obs.

3. To search or look for; to seek after or out; also, to guard; to keep a watch over, as for protection. Obs.

4. To stay for; to rest or remain stationary in expectation of; to await; as, to wait orders; to wait a guide.

5. To attend on; accompany; escort; esp., to attend with ceremony or respect; as, to wait a funeral. Obs.

6. To serve as a waiter or attendant upon; to wait upon.

I'll do anything but wait table. I won't do that. Willa Cather.

7. To attend as a consequence; to follow upon. Obs.

8. To cause to wait; to defer; postpone; — said of a meal; as, to wait dinner. Colloq.

wait after. To wait for; to expect; also, to seek for, as to satisfy one's hopes. Obs. Caxton.

wait at table. To be a waiter or waitress.

wait attendance. To remain in attendance; to be ready to serve or execute orders. Obs.

wait off. To lie back in a race or competition until the other competitors are exhausted, with the expectation of being able to win in the final stretch.

wait on or upon. a To attend as a servant; to perform services for; to supply the wants of; to serve; as, to wait on a gentleman; to wait on the table. "Authority and reason on her wait." Milton. b To attend; to go and see; to visit on business or for ceremony. c To follow as a consequence; to be connected or associated with; to attend. "That ruin that waits on such a supine temper." Dr. H. More. d Obs. To watch; guard; to look watchfully at; to observe. "It is a point of cunning to wait upon him with whom you speak with your eye." Bacon. e Obs. To attend to; to perform. "Aaron and his sons . . . shall wait on their priest's office." Num. iii. 10. f Obs. To look for; to expect. g Colloq. To escort or accompany; to act as bridesmaid or groomsman to; to court. h Falconry. To circle above its master, waiting till game is sprung; — said of a hawk. i Colloq. To wait, await, or stay for. j Scot. & Ir. To expect to die. k Scot. To continue to wait; to linger.

wait one's chance, hour, moment, opportunity, time, etc. To hold oneself in readiness to act promptly when the chance, etc., is favorable.

wait out the market. To delay buying or selling until the market prices reach a desired level. Com. Cant.

wait up. a Obs. To serve at the top or head of the table at a meal. b To stay awake, or out of bed, pending the arrival of someone; — usually with for.

wait upon. = WAIT ON.

wait (wāt), n. [ME. waite watchman, fr. ONF. waite (OF. guaite, gaite), watchman, orig. a watching (cf. also OF. wait, guait, gait, F. guet, a watching, fr. the v.), fr. OHG. wahta watch, or fr. the F. v. See WAIT, v.] 1. One who watches; a watchman; sentinel; guard; also, a spy. Obs.

2. a One of a band of public, usually municipal, musicians who, in England, were once employed to play for processions or at official or public entertainments. Hist.

The waits of the city have a pension of him, not to come near that ward. B. Jonson.

b One of a group of street or rustic serenaders who play or sing at night for small gratuities, esp. around the Christmas season; also, a piece of music provided by these.

Till the beginning of the year 1800, the London waits used to have a special livery — blue gowns with red caps and sleeves. Now they have come down to certain unrecognized old men. W. C. Meller.

3. The old form of hautboy, or oboe, played by town musicians; — chiefly in the pl. Obs.

4. Watchfulness; also, expectation. Obs.

5. A position from which a person in concealment can watch, usually with hostile intent; an ambush; trap; snare. Obs., except in to lie in wait.

6. Act of waiting; a delay; halt; also, time or interval of waiting, as between acts of a play.

7. A period during which one is serving as an attendant; specif., such a period of a lord in waiting or of a lady in waiting.

8. Theater. a The time between acts. b A pause because of some failure in the acting.

wait (wāt), v. t. To show or do (one) (unkindness). Obs.

wait (wāt). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of WOT, know.

wait'-a-bit', n. [Trans. of S. Afr. D. wacht-en-beetje, -bitje, hackthorn, etc.] Any of several plants bearing thorns or stiff hooked appendages, which catch and tear the clothing; as: a A New Zealand bramble (Rubus australis). b The greenbrier. c Any of various species of hawthorn. d In South Africa, one of numerous acacias and mimosas. e The grapple plant. f The prickly ash. g W. Ind. = COCKSPUR, 2 b.

wait'-a-while', n. a One of the Australian wattle trees (Acacia colletioides); — so called from the impenetrability of the thicket which it makes. b = WAIT-A-BIT.

wait'er (wāt'ĕr), n. [ME. waitere; cf. OF. waiteor, guaiteor, nom. waitiere, guaitiere, a watcher, F. guetteur. See WAIT, v.] 1. A watcher; watchman; also, a spy; waylayer. Obs. exc. in composition, as in tide*waiter.*

2. One who waits; as: a One who waits for or awaits something. b One who pays his respects to another in a formal call, or by formal attendance upon him. c Obs. A lord in waiting or a lady in waiting. d An attendant; a servant in attendance, as, formerly, a man who did household work, or a waiting woman; now, specif., a man who waits at table, esp. a public table, as at an inn, restaurant, etc.

3. An attendant of the bride or groom at a wedding. Obs. exc. Dial.

4. A vessel or tray on which something is carried, as dishes, etc.; a salver.

5. London Stock Exchange. A uniformed official attendant on the exchange.

6. Mining. = WAITER-ON. Brit.

wait'er·age (-ĭj), n. Service of a waiter; attendance.

wait'er·ing, n. Service or employment as a waiter.

wait'er-on', n. Mining. An onsetter's helper. Brit.

wait fee. Early Feudal Law. A commutation paid in lieu of wait service, or watching at the lord's castle.

wait'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of WAIT. Hence: n. A period during which one waits (in various senses). — adj. That waits (in various senses). — wait'ing·ly, adv. — in waiting. a Eng. In attendance; as, lords in waiting. See LORD IN WAITING, LADY IN WAITING. b Brit. Mil. & Nav. Next in turn for a service, tour of duty, etc.

waiting game. A game, and by extension any situation or state of affairs, in which one or more participants withhold action for the time being in the hope of having a favorable and unforeseen opportunity for more effective action at a later period.

waiting gentlewoman. A woman who waits on a person of rank.

waiting list. a A list or roster of those waiting, as for a professional or business opportunity, for election to a club, etc. b Brit. Nav. A list or roster of persons detached from active duty and awaiting orders.

waiting maid, waiting woman. A maid or woman who waits on another as a personal servant.

waiting man. A man who waits on another as a personal servant; esp., a valet.

waiting move. Chess. = COUP DE REPOS.

waiting part. A role in which a person awaits events in order to decide his course of action.

His cue was now for a waiting part; he could not guess the role he would be expected to play. O. Henry waiting period. Insurance. In certain forms of insurance, as accident and health and workmen's compensation insurance, a stated period after the beginning of disability during which no benefits are paid.

waiting room. A room for the use of persons waiting, as at a railroad station or other public place.

waiting table. A serving table.

waiting vassal. An attendant. Obs.

waiting woman. See WAITING MAID.

wait'ress (wāt'rĕs; -rĭs; 119), n. A female waiter or attendant at table; a maidservant who waits on table.

wai'va·tu'a (wī'vä·tōō'ä), n. [Maori waiwatua.] A New Zealand shrub (Rhabdothamnus solandri), family Gesneriaceae, having very showy, solitary, orange flowers, with red stripes.

waive (wāv), v.; WAIVED (wāvd); WAIV'ING (wāv'ĭng). [ME. waiven, weiven, to set aside, remove, fr. AF. weyver, fr. ONF. var. of OF. gaiver, guever, to abandon, prob. of Scand. origin; cf. ON. veifa to wave, to vibrate; akin to Goth. biwaibjan to wind about, AS. wæfan to wrap up. See VIBRATE; cf. WAIF.] Transitive: 1. To put, turn, swing, cast, or set, aside; remove; cast off; abandon; reject; relinquish; leave; vacate; desert. Obs.

The night com, and the chamber is weyved. Gower.

2. To put away, or give up, a claim to; to forbear; refrain from; forsake; forgo.

He waiveth milk, and flesh, and all. Chaucer.

3. To refrain from taking advantage of; to neglect; disregard; as, he waived the chance which was offered to him; he waived his scruples and acted promptly.

4. To postpone; defer; to put aside from immediate discussion or consideration; as, let's waive this question until later in the meeting.

5. Law. a To throw away; to relinquish voluntarily, as a right which one may enforce if he chooses. b Early Eng. Law. To abandon or forsake. In very early times a woman could not be outlawed, because she was never in law, that is, she could not take legal proceedings of herself; but later, in Bracton's day, essentially the same result was accomplished by waiving her.

—, Intransitive: 1. To turn aside; to twist away; deviate. Obs.

2. To leave off; to cease; also, to refuse. Obs.

Syn. — See RELINQUISH. Ant. — Claim, demand.

waive, v. t. & i. To wave; also, to pass or cause to pass; to banish; wander. Now Rare.

Merival said "No," and waived them off. Edgar Lee Masters.

waiv'er (wāv'ĕr), n. [AF. weyver, inf. as n. See WAIVE, v.] 1. Law. Act of waiving something; act of waiving, or intentionally relinquishing or abandoning, some known right, claim, or privilege; also, the instrument evidencing such an act. Cf. ACQUIESCENCE.

2. Hence, dismissal from thought or discussion; omission from further consideration.

waiv'er·y (-ĭ), n. Early Eng. Law. The act of depriving a woman of the protection of the law by waiving her.

Wai'-wu' pu' (wī'wōō' bōō'). [Chin. (Pek.) wai[4] foreign + wu[4] affairs + pu[4] office.] The Department of Foreign Affairs in the Chinese government from 1901 to 1912. It succeeded the Tsung-li Yamen and was itself superseded by the Wai-chiao pu.

wa'jang (wä'yäng), n. Also wa'yang. [Jav. wayaṅ, lit., shadow.] A puppet show in which silhouettes of the figures are thrown on a screen. Java.

wa'ka (wä'kä), n. [Maori.] 1. A canoe; — applied to all kinds of seagoing craft of the Maori.

2. A receptacle for trinkets made in the form of a canoe. New Zealand.

Wa·kam'ba (wä·käm'bä), n. sing. & pl. One of a Bantu people of British East Africa, somewhat assimilated to the Hamites in customs, especially in nomadic and pastoral habits. Called also Kamba.

wa·kan' (wä·kän'), wa·kan'da (-dä), n. [Sioux wakan, wakanda, Omaha wakonda.] American Ind. Religion. The impersonal power or force that makes the world real. Cf. MANA, ORENDA, MANITO. — wa·kan', adj.

Wa·kash'an (wä·käsh'ăn), adj. Pertaining to or designating an American Indian linguistic family consisting of two major divisions, the Nootka and the Kwakiutl, of British Columbia. About 4,500 Indians of this stock still live in their former territories. — Wa·kash'an, n.

wake (wāk), n. [Of Scand. origin; cf. ON. vök open (wet) place in the ice, Sw. vak, Dan. vaage; akin to ON. vökr moist. See HUMOR.] 1. An open space of water surrounded by ice. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

2. The passage cut through ice for a vessel. Obs.

3. The track left by a vessel in the water; by extension, any track; as, the wake of an army; the wake of a meteor.

When the turmoil which followed in her wake destroyed the peace of the community, Governor Winthrop banished her from Boston. Agnes Repplier.

4. A line or roll of hay in the field. Dial. Eng.

— in the wake of. In the track of, and usually keeping close to (something in motion); hence, figuratively, in pursuit, or in close sequence, of.

---

wain'y. Var. of WANY. wairch (wĕrch; wârch). Var. of WEARISH. waird. Var. of WARD, WEIRD. wairsh (wĕrsh; wârsh). Var. of WEARISH. waist. ✝ WASTE.
waist'coat-less, adj. See -LESS. wait. ✝ WEIGHT.
wait'er-dom, n. See -DOM. wait'er-hood, n. See -HOOD. wait'er-like', adj. See -LIKE. wait'er-ship, n. See -SHIP. wait service. See WAIT FEE. waits'men, n. pl. [See WAIT, n.] Musicians. Obs. wai'ver. ✝ WAVER.
wai'vod, wai'vode (wā'vōd). Vars. of VOIVODE.
Wai'wai (wī'wī). Var. of WOY-AWAY. wai'wode (wā'wōd). wai'wode-ship, etc. Vars. of VOIVODE, etc.
wak. Var. of WACK, damp. wak. ✝ WAKE, WEAK.

---

wake (wāk), v.; past tense WAKED (wākt) or WOKE (wōk); past part. WAKED or, sometimes, WOK'EN (wōk'ĕn); pres. part. & verbal n. WAK'ING (wāk'ĭng). [ME. waken (pret. wok, wook, past part. waken), fr. AS. wacan to wake, be born (pret. wōc, past part. wacen), combined with the kindred ME. waken (pret. & past part. waked) to watch, be awake, fr. AS. wacian (pret. wacode), var. of wæccan to watch, be awake; akin to OFris. waka, OS. wakōn, D. waken, G. wachen, OHG. wahhēn, ON. vaka, Sw. vaka, Dan. vaage, Goth. wakan, v. i., uswakjan, v. t., AS. weccan, v. t., D. wekken, G. wecken, ON. vekja, Skr. vāja strength, vigor, speed, contest, prize. See VIGIL; cf. BIVOUAC, WAFT, WAIT, v., WATCH, v.] Intransitive: 1. To be or to continue awake; not to sleep; specif., to watch; to keep watch or vigil, as over a corpse; to hold a wake.

The father waketh for the daughter. Eccles. xlii. 9.
Though wisdom wake, suspicion sleeps. Milton.

2. To sit up late for festivities or revel. Obs.

The king doth wake tonight, and takes his rouse. Shak.

3. To be roused from sleep; to awake; — often with up.

Woke up at the sound of the concluding doxology. G. Eliot.
The gods have woken and have sent him to save us. Lord Dunsany.

4. To be excited or roused up; to be stirred up from a dormant, torpid, or inactive state; to awake; also, figuratively, to be watchful and alert; to be diligent, energetic, animated, lively.

Then wake, my soul, to high desires. Keble.

5. To become alive again; to undergo resurrection.

—, Transitive: 1. To rouse from sleep; to awake.

The angel . . . came again and waked me. Zech. iv. 1.

2. To put in motion or action; to arouse; excite.

Lest fierce remembrance wake my sudden rage. Milton.

3. To bring to life again, as if from the sleep of death; to reanimate; revive; as, to wake sad memories.

4. To watch as a measure of protection; to guard; specif., to watch, or sit up with, at night, as a dead body; to hold a wake over.

Syn. — Awaken, waken; rouse, stir.
Ant. — Slumber; quiet calm.

wake, n. 1. Act of waking or being awaked; also, state of being awake; a condition or a period of sleeplessness. Obs. exc. Poetic.

Making such difference 'twixt wake and sleep. Shak.

2. State of forbearing sleep, especially for solemn or festive purposes; a vigil together with the attendant ceremonies.

3. Ch. of Eng. An annual parish festival formerly held in commemoration of the dedication of a church; also, the ceremonies, collectively, attending such a festival. Orig., prayers were said on the evening before, and hymns sung during the night, in the church; later, these vigils were discontinued, and the festival degenerated into a fair or market, often lasting several days, and marked by excess and riot.

4. The sitting up of persons with a dead body, often attended with a degree of festivity, chiefly among the Irish.

Blithe as shepherd at a wake. Cowper.

wake, adj. = AWAKE. Obs. exc. Dial.

wake. Var. of WAIK, weak.

Wa·ke'a (wä·kā'ä), n. [Hawaiian.] A god said to have been the progenitor of man; — known elsewhere in Polynesia as Ateo. Hawaii.

wa·ke'a (wä·kā'ä), n. sing. & pl. [Amharic waqēt ounce, fr. Ethiopic waqēt, fr. Ar. wuqīyah.] See WEIGHT, Table.

wake current. Naut. A current caused by, and moving in the same direction with, a vessel, due to friction.

wake dirge. A dirge sung at or befitting a wake.

wake'ful (wāk'fo͝ol; -fl), adj. 1. Not sleeping; sleepless; indisposed to sleep; affected with insomnia; hence, watchful; vigilant.

Dissembling sleep, but wakeful with the fright. Dryden.

2. That wakes; awakening. Now Rare. "The wakeful trump of doom." Milton.

Syn. — Sleepless, restless; wide-awake, alert Ant. — Sleepy, drowsy, somnolent.

— wake'ful·ly, adv. — wake'ful·ness, n.

Wake knot (wāk). See HERALDIC KNOT.

wake'less (wāk'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Of sleep, sound; unbroken.

wake'man (-mĕn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A watchman. Archaic.

wak'en (wāk'ĕn), v.; WAK'ENED (-ĕnd); WAK'EN·ING. [ME. waknen, fr. AS. wæcnan, wæcnian; akin to Goth. gawaknan. See WAKE, v.] Intransitive: To wake: a To become awake; to cease to sleep; to be awakened.

Early, Turnus wakening with the light. Dryden.

b Obs. To continue awake; to keep watch or vigil; to watch.
c To become active or animated.

—, Transitive: 1. To excite or rouse from sleep; to wake.

2. To excite; rouse; to move to action; to awaken.

Venus now wakes, and wakens love. Milton.

3. To watch as a protection; to guard. Scot.

wak'en·er (-ĕr), n. One who or that which wakens.

wak'en·ing, n. 1. Act of one who wakens; an awakening.

2. Scots Law. Revival of an action, or the process for it.

wak'er (wāk'ĕr), n. One who wakes; specif.: a One who rouses from sleep. b Obs. One who keeps watch or vigil; a watcher. c One who takes part in a wake.

wake'rife (wāk'rĭf), adj. [See WAKE, v.; RIFE, adj.] Wakeful; watchful; alert.—wake'rife·ness, n. Both Chiefly Scot.

wake'-rob'in, n. a In England, any species of Arum; esp., the cuckoopint; also, the spotted orchis Orchis maculata. b In the United States, any of various species of Trillium; also, the arrow arum Peltandra virginica and species of Arisaema (esp. the jack-in-the-pulpit). c In tropical America, any of several plants of the genera Anthurium and Philodendron. wakes (wāks), n. pl. Often construed as sing. A period of festivity and merrymaking, usually associated with a fair. Cf. 3d WAKE, 2 & 3.

The wakes is an annual event of very ancient origin which lingers on in many villages. Aloysius Horn wake'time' (wāk'tīm'), n. Time during which one is awake. Rare.

wake'-up' (wāk'ŭp'), n. The flicker; — from its note. Local, U. S.

wakf (wŭkf), n. [Ar. waqf.] Moham. Law. The granting or dedication of property in trust for a pious purpose, that is, to some object that tends to the good of mankind, as to support a mosque or caravansary, to provide for support of one's family, kin, or neighbors, to benefit some particular person or persons and afterward the poor, etc.; also, the trust so created, or the property in trust.

Wak·hi' (wäk·hē'), n. sing. & pl. One of an Indo-European tribe of Alpine type on the northern slope of the Hindu Kush.

wa'kif (wä'kĭf), n. [Ar. wāqif.] Moham. Law. The person creating a wakf.

wa'ki·ki (wä'kē·kē), n. [Melanesian.] Shell money. South Sea Islands.

wak'ing (wāk'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of WAKE. Hence: n. 1. Act of one that wakes; state, fact, or period of being awake.

2. A watch; also, a watching; a vigil, as over a sheepfold, a corpse, etc. Wycliffe.

wak'ing, adj. That wakes; as: a Alert; watchful. b Awakening; rousing from sleep. c Galvanizing into activity. — wak'ing·ly, adv.

Wa·kwa'fi (wä·kwä'fē), n. pl. Also Wa·kwa'vi (-vē). [Swahili, fr. the pl. sign wa + a Masai word designating a country.] Masai who have abandoned nomadic life and established agricultural communities, in British East Africa.

wak'y (wāk'ĭ), adj. Wakeful.

Wal'ach (wŏl'ăk), n. sing. & pl. A Vlach or Walachian.

Wa·la'chi·an (wŏ·lā'kĭ·ăn), adj. [G. Wallache, Walache, a Walachian, through Slav. fr. OHG. Walah, Walh, a speaker of a Romance language, orig. a Celt. See WELSH.] Of or pertaining to Walachia, a former principality, now part of the kingdom, of Rumania.

Wa·la'chi·an, n. One of the people whose original home was Walachia, though many settled in Transylvania, formerly part of Hungary, and throughout the Balkans; also, their language, the original alphabet of which, a modified form of Cyrillic, is now generally replaced by Roman characters. Their Slavonic name is Vlach. See RUMANIAN.

Walachian embroidery. A kind of solid embroidery done in buttonhole stitch.

Walachian sheep. One of a breed of domestic sheep, of southeastern Europe and western Asia, having very long upright spirally twisted horns.

wa'la·hee' (wä'lä·hē'), n. [Hawaiian.] A tree (Plectronia odorata), common in Hawaii and other islands of the Pacific, yielding an extraordinarily heavy hard wood, formerly used by the natives as a substitute for stone in making implements.

Wa'lam O'lum (wä'läm ō'lŭm). [Lenape, fr. walam painted + olum tally.] Amer. Indian. The tribal chronicle of the Lenape Indians. It is the most elaborate document discovered among the Indians of the eastern United States.

Wa'la·pai, Wa'la·pi (wä'lä·pī), n. One of a tribe of Yuman Indians dwelling on the Colorado River in northwestern Arizona, on the Hualpai Reservation. They are now chiefly engaged in stock raising.

Wal·bur'ga, Saint (väl·bo͝or'gä). An English saint (?710–777), said to have aided Saint Boniface in converting the Germans to Christianity. She died abbess of Heidenheim. Her body, preserved at Eichstadt, and the oil which flows from it, are reputed to have miraculous powers. See WALPURGIS NIGHT.

Wal'cher·en Ex'pe·di'tion (väl'kĕr·ĕn). Eng. Hist. The dispatch (1809) of a large British force to cause a diversion of the French campaign in Austria. It landed on Walcheren island, captured Flushing, but, failing to take Antwerp, finally retired after great losses, esp. by disease.

Wal'chi·a (wäl'kĭ·ä; wŏl'-), n. [NL., after Johann E. I. Walch, Ger. mineralogist.] Paleontol. A genus of pinaceous fossil trees having short, triangular, spirally arranged, falcate leaves, and ovate cones with persistent ovate scales. It is characteristic of the Permian, but ranges through the Trias, and is closely related to the genus Araucaria.

Wal'den (wŏl'dĕn), n. The familiar title of a collection of descriptive and autobiographical essays, Walden, or Life in the Woods (1854), by Henry David Thoreau. See WALDEN POND, in Geo.

Wal'den in·ver'sion (väl'dĕn). [After P. Walden (b. 1863), Russ. chemist.] Chem. A type of optical inversion (see INVERSION, 3 a) produced by the action of any of various reagents and involving the formation of a stereoisomer or of a compound closely related to the original one but having an opposite rotation. Thus, levo malic acid with phosphorus pentachloride forms dextro-chloro-succinic acid, which with moist silver oxide yields dextro malic acid.

Wal·den'ses (wŏl·dĕn'sēz), n. pl. [ML. Waldenses, Valdenses, after Peter Waldo, or Valdo.] Eccl. A sect of dissenters from the system of the Roman Catholic Church, founded about 1179 by Petrus Waldus, or Peter Waldo, a merchant of Lyon. Waldo and his followers were devoted to Bible reading and public preaching, and sought to revive primitive pureness of living. They desired to remain in the Roman Catholic Church, but were forced to become a separate body. From the beginning of the 13th century at the latest they laid special stress on the prohibition of oaths, of falsehood, and of the shedding of blood even in a righteous war or in capital punishment. This stand has not been consistently maintained throughout their history. Subject to fierce persecution they scattered into Germany and Bohemia. Here in the 14th century they had friendly relations with the Bohemian Brethren. In the 16th century the French Waldenses became Calvinist, but those in Calabria and Apulia were exterminated in 1560. Cromwell prevented their extermination in France in 1655. In Piedmont they obtained toleration in 1848, though not freedom from petty restrictions. They have many churches today in Italy, and in South and North America, where they tend to become identified with Protestant bodies.

Wal·den'si·an (-sĭ·ăn; -shăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the Waldenses. — n. One of the Waldenses.

Wal'den's rule (väl'dĕnz). Physical Chem. The rule that the molar conductance at infinite dilution multiplied by the viscosity is equal to a constant.

Wal'dey·er's plas'ma cell (väl'dī·ĕrz). [After H. W. G. v. Waldeyer-Hartz (1836–1921), Ger. anatomist.] Anat. Any of certain coarsely granular connective tissue cells, found esp. in the neighborhood of blood vessels.

Waldeyer's tonsillar ring. Anat. The partial ring of tonsillar or adenoid tissue formed by the two palatine tonsils, the pharyngeal tonsil, and the lingual tonsil.

Waldeyer's vascular layer. Anat. The vascular layer of the ovary.

Waldeyer's zonal layer. = LISSAUER'S TRACT.

wald'flute' (wŏld'flo͝ot'; vält'-), n. [After G. waldflöte.] Organ Building. A soft flute stop of 8-foot and 4-foot pitch.

wald'grave (wôld'grāv), n. [G. waldgraf. See WOLD; MARGRAVE.] In the old German empire, the head forest keeper; also, formerly, in the Rhine districts, a noble of a certain rank; a kind of count.

wald'gra·vine (wôld'grä·vēn), n. [Fem. of waldgrave. Cf. LANDGRAVINE.] The wife of a waldgrave.

Wald·hei'mi·a (wôld·hĭ'mĭ·ä), n. [NL., after G. F. v. Waldheim (1771–1853), Ger. entomologist and paleontologist.] Zool. A genus of brachiopods closely resembling Terebratula but having longer brachial loops. Many species are found as fossils, and a few still exist in the deep sea.

Waldheimia. a W. flavescens. Interior showing Loop. b W. cranium.

wald'horn' (wôld'hôrn'; vält'-), n. [G., lit., forest horn.] Music. a The natural horn; the old valveless hunting horn. Cf. FRENCH HORN. b An organ reed stop of similar quality.

wald'meis'ter (wôld'mīs'tĕr; vält'-), n. [G., lit., forest master, woodward.] The woodruff.

Wal'do (wôl'dō; 86), n. [OHG.; akin to E. WIELD.] Masculine proper name.

Wal'dorf sal'ad (wôl'dôrf). [From the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, N. Y. City.] A salad made commonly of diced apples, celery, and nuts, and dressed with mayonnaise.

Wald·stein'i·a (wôld·stīn'ĭ·ä), n. [NL., after Count Franz Adam von Waldstein (1759–1823), Austrian botanist.] Bot. A small genus of perennial herbs (family Rosaceae) of the North Temperate Zone, resembling strawberries (Fragaria), but having yellow flowers, with terminal styles and few carpels, seated on a short hairy receptacle. They are known as barren strawberries.

wale (wāl), n. [ME., fr. ON. val choice; akin to G. wahl choice, Goth. waljan to choose, and E. WILL.] A choosing; a choice; a field for choice; also, the choicest or best; the pick. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

wale, v. [ME. walen. See WALE choice.] Transitive: 1. To choose; select for oneself. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

2. To pick out the refuse of (coal) by hand. Eng.

—, Intransitive: To make choice. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wale (wāl), n. [ME. wale a wale or weal, a gunwale, fr. AS. walu a ridge, a mark of stripes or blows; akin to ON. völr a round stick, Goth. walus a rod, staff, and to L. vallus a stake. See WALL; cf. GUNWALE, WEAL a wale, 3d WHEAL.] 1. A streak or mark made on the skin by a rod or whip; a stripe; a wheal; by extension, any ridge, or narrow raised surface.

Ploughing the stubble into wales. Masefield.

2. A ridge or streak rising above the surface, as of cloth; esp., a rib or heavy twill in a fabric; hence, texture, as of cloth; grain.

Thou 'rt rougher far,
And of a coarser wale, fuller of pride. Beau. & Fl.

3. A horizontal member, usually of timber, used for bracing the sheeting of a trench, cofferdam, or the like.

4. One of the two ridges on the outside of a horse's collar, between which the hame lies.

5. Basketwork. A finishing-off course of weaving consisting of three or four rods worked alternately one after and over the other to form a binding. See BASKET, Illust.

6. Naut. a Obs. The side of a ship or boat. b pl. Shipbuilding. Certain strakes of the outside planking of a vessel; the bends; as, channel wales, or strakes along the spar deck, etc. Cf. STREAK, 3, Note. c = WALL KNOT. Rare.

wale, v. t.; WALED (wāld); WAL'ING (wāl'ĭng). 1. To mark with wales, or stripes; to manufacture, as a fabric, with a rib or a heavy twill.

2. To fasten, secure, or protect with a wale or walepiece.

3. Basketwork. To furnish with a wale or wales.

4. Chiefly Fort. To weave the web of, as a gabion, esp. with more than two rods at once.

wale, adj. [Cf. AS. weallan to well up, E. WELL, v.] Eddying; surging. Obs.

waled (wāld), adj. [See WALE a streak.] Striped; bearing wheals; esp., of fabric, made with a rib or heavy twill.

wale knot. Naut. = WALL KNOT. Now Rare.

wale'piece' (wāl'pēs'), n. Any piece, as a beam, timber, etc., intended to ward off dangerous impact from masonry or the like, as the stringpiece of a pier where shipping is received.

wal'er (wäl'ĕr), n. Coal Mining. One who picks out refuse from coal in the cars. Local, Eng.

wal'er, n. 1. One who wales, or produces wales on the skin. Colloq.

2. In weaving, a man engaged to inspect and keep uniform the number of picks in a piece. Cf. 6th PICK, 3 b. Obs.

wal'er, n. = 3d WALE, 3.

Wal'er (wäl'ĕr), n. [From Wales, i. e., New South Wales.] A horse, esp. for cavalry, imported from New South Wales; also, any Australian horse. Colloq.

☞ The term originated in India, whither many horses are exported from Australia (esp. New South Wales).

wale shore. Naut. A shore used nearly horizontally to steady a vessel in dry dock, one end being against the ship in the vicinity of the wales, and the other against an altar of the dock.

wa'li (wä'lē), n. [Ar. wālī. Cf. VILAYET.] A governor or prefect, as of a Turkish province; a vali. See 3d VALI a. wal'ing (wāl'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of WALE. Hence: n. a A wale, as for piles, or wales collectively; material for wales. b Obs. The making of a gabion; also, a gabion.

walk (wôk), v.; WALKED (wôkt); WALK'ING. [ME. walken, pret. welk, walkien, pret. walkede, to walk, to full, as cloth, fr. AS. wealcan, wealcian, to roll, turn, revolve; akin to D. walken to felt hats, to work a hat, G. walken to full, OHG. walchan to beat, to full, ON. valka to toss, drag, wallow, Sw. valka to full, to roll, Dan. valke to full, L. volpus bowlegged, and ult. to L. volvere to roll. See VOLUBLE; cf. VAGRANT.] Intransitive: 1. To roll, as billows; to toss to and fro. Obs.

2. To roll by; pass; also, to circulate around; to be or to become prevalent; to spread. Obs.

An hundred winter welken. Genesis & Exodus.

3. To be or to keep in motion; to make headway; hence, of the tongue, to move incessantly; wag; roll. Obs.

4. To go forth or about; to roam; ramble; wander. Obs.

To walken in the wodes wilde. Chaucer

5. Specif.: To go restlessly about contrary to the normal course of nature, as a somnambulist or a specter.

I have heard, but not believed, the spirits of the dead May walk again. Shak.

wake'-day', n. The day of a festival. Obs.

wa·keel'. Var. of VAKIL.

Wake'field, Vic'ar of (wāk'fēld). See VICAR OF WAKEFIELD.

Wakefield Plays. = TOWNELEY MYSTERIES.

wak'end. Wakened. Ref. Sp.

wake'ness, n. State or period of being awake. Obs.

wak'er. † WACKER.

wa·kil'. Var. of VAKIL.

wak'i·up. Var. of WICKIUP.

wak'ken (wäk'ĕn). Var. of WAKEN. Obs. exc. Dial.

Wak'ker's hy'a·cinth germ. See HYACINTH BACTERIOSIS.

wa·kon' (wä·kŏn'). Var. of WAKAN.

wa·kon'da (-dä), n. = WAKAN.

Wa·kore' (wä·kōr'), n. [Songhai.] = SARAKOLLE, [ter; carnage. Obs.] wal (wäl), n. [AS. weal.] Slaughwal † WELL.

wald, n. [AS. weald, geweald.] Power; sway; rule. Obs.

wald. † WEALD, WELD, WIELD, WOLD, WOULD.

‖Wald'flö'te (vält'flö'tĕ), n. [G., shepherd's flute, fr. wald forest.] Organ Building. = WALDFLUTE.

wale'wort' (wāl'wŭrt'). Var. of WALLWORT.

Wal·hal'la (wäl·häl'ä; wŏl·hăl'ä), n. [Cf. G. Walhalla.] = VALHALLA.

wal'ie (wäl'ĭ). Var. of 1st & 2d WALLY.

wa·lise' (wa·lēs'). Var. of VALISE.

walk, adj. = WALE, choice Obs. Scot.

6. To move along on foot; to advance by steps; to go at a moderate pace; specif., of two-legged creatures, to proceed without running, or lifting one foot entirely before the other touches the ground; of four-legged creatures, to proceed with a gait in which at least two feet are always on the ground (see GAIT, 3); sometimes, specif., to move or go on foot for exercise or amusement.

Now riden this folk and walken on fote
To seche that seint in selcouth londis. Piers Plowman.

7. To move slowly; to make slow progress, as at a walk instead of a run.
8. To move off; to depart; to stray. Obs. exc. Colloq.
9. To behave; to pursue a course of life; to conduct oneself. "We walk perversely with God." Jer. Taylor.
10. To be or to act in association; to continue in union (with someone); to remain united or associated. Obs.
11. To move in a manner likened to walking, as a chimney or other masonry swaying through the action of winds, alternate expansion and contraction, or the like.
12. Baseball. To go to first base as the result of a base on balls. Slang.
13. Oxford Univ. To move about in the performance of one's duty as proctor; specif.: Obs. a To go the rounds at night. b To march up and down with each candidate for a degree.

—, Transitive: 1. To pass through, over, or upon; to tramp over on foot; traverse; to perambulate; as, to walk the streets; the watchman walked his nightly round.

As we walk our earthly round. Keble.

2. To bring to a (specified) state by walking; as, to walk one's companion to exhaustion.

Hugh walked the entire afternoon away. Sherwood Anderson.

3. To follow on foot for the purpose of measuring, surveying, or the like; as, to walk a boundary.
4. To cause to walk; to lead, drive, or ride with a slow pace; as, to walk one's horses.
5. To take for a walk; to guide in a walk; also, to force to keep moving on foot; as, he walked the poisoned man to and fro to drive away that fatal somnolence.
6. To be present at; to attend; as, to walk the exchange daily. Obs.
7. To move in a manner likened to walking. Colloq.

She walked a spinning wheel into the house, making it use first one and then the other of its own spindling legs to achieve progression rather than lifting it by main force. C. E. Craddock.

The airship was then walked across the station and into the shed. Manchester Guardian.

8. To pass around; to circulate (cups, goblet, liquor). Obs.
9. To full, as cloth or yarn. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
10. To thrash; beat soundly. Obs.
11. Baseball. To give a base on balls to. Slang.
12. Naut. To haul (an anchor, cable, or other line) by walking round the capstan.
13. Sporting. To put or keep (a puppy) in a walk; to train (puppies) in a walk. Cant.

walk about. Mil. An expression used by British officers to notify a sentry that they waive salutes. walk around. To dance. Slang, U. S. walk away from. To outrun with ease, as if in a walk. walk back. To ease back a tackle or fall; as, walk back the cat; hence, Colloq., to withdraw from a stand taken.
walk down. To wear down in walking; to walk longer or further than.
walk in golden, or silver, slippers. To be rolling in riches; to be prosperous.
walk into. To attack; to give a thrashing or verbal lashing to; also, to eat greedily of; to devour. Colloq.

He walks into us all as if it were our faults. T. Hughes.

walk off. To free oneself from by walking; as, to walk off the effects of too much liquor.
walk on air. To be lighthearted, as because of some success, purpose fulfilled, end achieved, etc. walk one's chalks. To make off; to take French leave. Slang.
walk out. a To leave; go out. b Colloq. To take a walk, esp. with one of the opposite sex; hence, to go courting. c Labor. To strike.
walk out on. To leave; as, to walk out on an actor in the middle of a performance.
walk over. a In racing, to go over a course at a walk; — said of a horse when there is no other starter; hence, Colloq., to gain an easy victory in any contest. b Colloq. To trample over; hence, to treat badly; to disregard the wishes or feelings of.
walk Spanish. a Colloq., U. S. To walk on tiptoe involuntarily through another's lifting one by the seat of the trousers, etc., as in boy's sport; hence, to walk gingerly; to be forced by another to act or proceed; also, to get discharged.

If in his presence we had dared talk Greek we should certainly have walked Spanish. J. Jefferson.

b Colloq., U. S. To force (a person) to walk Spanish. walk the chalk, walk the chalk mark or line. To act always with strict propriety; to keep "straight"; — from the testing of a man's sobriety by making him try to walk on a straight line chalked on the floor. Colloq.
walk the floor. To pace back and forth in a room, as in worry. walk the hospital, walk the wards. To make the rounds of the wards in the study or practice of medicine or surgery in a hospital. Cf. WARD-WALK, n.
walk the pegs. In cheating at cribbage, to move pegs forward or back.
walk the plank. To walk along a plank laid across the bulwark of a ship, until one overbalances it and falls into the sea, — a method of disposing of captives practiced by pirates; hence, to vacate an office or position under compulsion. walk the ties. To walk along the railroad track. Slang.
walk through one's part. Theater. To perform one's part without expression or with indifference.
walk up Hunting. To force (game) to rise or break cover by walking toward it. walk with. Literally, to take a walk in company with; hence, to go courting. Dial. Eng.

walk (wôk), n. [Cf. AS. geweale a rolling, motion. See WALK, v.] 1. Act of walking, or moving on the feet at a slow pace or without running.
2. Act of walking for recreation or exercise; as, a morning walk; an evening walk; hence, in general, peregrination; travel; wandering; as, in his walks through the world.
3. Manner of walking; gait; as, to know one at a distance by his walk. In the walk of quadrupeds there are always at least two feet on the ground. See GAIT, n., 3.
4. Distance as measured in time required by a walker to cover; as, the house is only ten minutes' walk to the station.
5. Conduct; course of action; behavior; manner of living.
6. Habitual or proper place, range, or sphere of action; province; as, the walk of the historian; also, social or economic status; — esp. in the phrase walk of life; as, persons in that walk of life are used to hard physical labor.

He opened a boundless walk for his imagination. Pope.

7. That in or through which one walks, or a place designed for walking; specif.: a One's accustomed place or course for walking; hence, a haunt. b A path specially arranged or paved for walking; as, a graveled walk in a garden; sometimes, a sidewalk; also, in a public building, church, etc., a portico, aisle, or the like, for walking; an ambulatory. c An avenue for promenading; a promenade; esp., an avenue in a park or woods; hence, Obs., pl., a park; pleasure grounds. d = ROPEWALK.
8. A plantation of coffee, coconut, or other trees, arranged in rows with wide spaces between them.

The Spaniards left behind them well-established cacao walks in Jamaica. Algernon Aspinall.

9. A place or region in which animals may graze or exercise; place of wandering or pasture; range; pasture land; — now only in the combination sheep*walk.*

He had walk for a hundred sheep. Latimer.

10. The route or district regularly served by a vendor; hence, in general, a beat; a round; as, a milkman's walk; a patrolman's walk.
11. A hunting district in a park or forest, under charge of a ranger who patrols it. Obs.
12. A ceremonial procession. Obs. exc. Local.
13. A village fair. Dial. Eng.
14. Athletics. A trial of speed in walking over a given course; a walking race. Cf. HEEL-AND-TOE.
15. Baseball. A base on balls. Slang.
16. Sporting. a A place for keeping and training puppies. b An enclosed area of some extent to which a gamecock is confined to prepare him for fighting. Hence, cock of the walk (which see, in Vocab.).

walk (wôk). Scot. var. of WAKE.

-walk. A combining form of the noun walk, as in:

boardwalk	catwalk	ropewalk bywalk	crosswalk	sheepwalk oakewalk	footwalk	sidewalk

walk′-a-round′, n. 1. A dance, or a part of a dance, in which the dancers walk around in a large circle or the like, as among negroes; also, the music for such a dance.

"Dixie" was composed in 1859 . . . as a walk-around for Bryant's minstrels. Brander Matthews.

2. Theater. A procession or march about the stage; also, the music for it.

walk′a-way′ (wôk′ə-wā′), n. An easily won contest, esp. a race in which the winner finishes at a slow pace because he has outdistanced all other competitors. Cf. WALKOVER.

walk clerk. British Banking. A bank messenger or clerk, esp. one who presents bills and checks to other banks for collection. Colloq.

walk′er (wôk′ĕr), n. 1. One who walks (in any sense); specif., a pedestrian.

A very close and gracious walker he has been. C. Kingsley.

2. a A competitor in a walking race. b Brit. One who patrols or supervises by walking about. c In hunting, one who walks up game.
3. That with which one walks; foot or leg; — chiefly in pl. Obs. exc. Dial.
4. A form of child's gocart designed to accustom the child to walking.
5. In Obs. senses: a One who wanders about, as by night; a prowler. b A forester or gamekeeper. c A peddler; as, "Hawkers and Walkers in early America," the title of a book by R. L. Wright. d [AS. wealcere. See WALK, v. t., 9.] A fuller of cloth.
6. A stick insect or similar orthopteron.

-walk′er. A combining form of walker, as in:

floorwalker	nightwalker	sleepwalker jaywalker	ropewalker	streetwalker walk′er, or hook′ey walk′er (hŏŏk′ĭ wôk′ĕr), interj. [often cap.] An exclamation of incredulity or the like. Slang, Brit.

When he pretends that he can coerce the mercantile marine, the inevitable remark is "Walker." The Australasian.

walk′er-on′, n. Theat. One who plays walk-ons.

walk′ing (wôk′ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of WALK. Hence: adj. That walks, is operated by a walker, or is used for or in walking; as, a walking boot; he is a regular walking encyclopedia. Specif.: a Agric. Mach. Drawn by animal power and guided or operated by a man on foot; as, a walking plow; a walking cultivator. b That swings or oscillates to and fro; as, a walking beam (see WALKING BEAM). c That moves itself forward in the manner of, or suggesting that of, a walker; as, a walking crane, engine.

walk′ing, n. 1. Act of one who walks; also, manner of walking; gait.
2. A journey covered on foot.
3. Condition of the track, sidewalk, or road for one who is proceeding on foot; as, the walking is slippery.

walking beam. Mach. Any oscillating lever or beam (see BEAM, n., 11) for transmitting power, as in a beam engine, one form of oil derrick, or the like; a working beam.

walking boat or scow. Engin. A scow moved by "walking" it on spuds which are lowered and lifted as required for this purpose, used esp. for laying pipe, etc., in swift rivers.

walking crane. Mach. A light crane traveling on an overhead channel iron and a single rail vertically beneath this in the floor.

walking delegate. A business representative of a union, appointed to visit members and their places of employment, to secure the enforcement of union rules and agreements, and, at times, to represent the union in dealing with employers. Cf. SHOP DEPUTY.

walking engine. A small tractor to which cultivating and other tools are attached and which is controlled by an operator who walks behind the assembly.

walking fan. A large fan used to protect the face from the sun when walking out of doors.

walking fern. = WALKING LEAF a. walking fish. a Any of various mostly Asiatic fishes of the family Ophiocephalidae which are able to leave the water and travel about on land, as the snakehead mullets and climbing fishes. b In South America, any catfish of the genera Doras or Callichthys; in Palestine and Africa, a catfish of the genus Clarias.

walking foot. One of the legs of a crustacean, or other arthropod, fitted for walking.

walking gentleman or lady. Theat. An actor or actress engaged for parts of little importance where impressive appearance is desired.

walking leaf. a Any fern of the genus Camptosorus, esp. C. rhizophyllus. See CAMPTOSORUS. b A leaf insect.

walking line. In stair building, the imaginary line upon which the widths of the treads are set out, used esp. where there are winders. It is generally taken at about 18 inches from the inside of the handrail. walking mort. A vagrant woman who travels on foot. Old Thieves' Cant.

walking orders. = WALKING PAPERS. Colloq.

walk′ing-out′, adj. Tending or inclined to walk out, esp. with a person of the opposite sex at one stage in courtship.

"It's the walking-out instinct." H. G. Wells.

walking papers, walking ticket. An order to leave; dismissal, as from office, employment, etc. Colloq.

walking part. Theater. A part requiring little more than walking about the stage.

walking pipe. A pipe for supplying water under pressure to portable hydraulic machines, esp. riveting machines.

walking scow. = WALKING BOAT.

walking staff. A staff or stout stick carried by a person on a walk.

Walking Stewart (stū′ĕrt). John Stewart (1749–1822), an English traveler, who walked through India, Persia, Nubia, Abyssinia, the Arabian Desert, Europe, and the United States.

walking stick. a A stick or staff carried in the hand habitually when walking; a cane. b A stick insect, as Aplopus mayeri, common in America. c A very common arborescent prickly pear (Opuntia imbricata) of the southwestern United States and adjacent Mexico, the woody framework of which is used for making walking sticks.

walk′ing-sticked′ (wôk′ĭng-stĭkt′), adj. Having or carrying a walking stick, or cane.

Down the aisle came a tall, slim, distinguished-looking, walking-sticked Fifth Avenue person. Edna Ferber.

walk′ing-stick′ palm. A slender Australian pinnate-leaved palm (Bacularia monostachya), family Arecaceae. Its stems are used for canes.

walking straw. A stick insect, esp. a large Australian species (Palophus titan) which reaches a length of six or eight inches.

walking sword. A very light sword formerly worn as a part of a gentleman's civil costume.

walking ticket. = WALKING PAPERS. Colloq.

walking toad. The natterjack.

walking twig. A stick insect.

walking typhoid fever. Med. A form of typhoid fever of insidious onset and without severe constitutional symptoms, in which the patient does not take to bed, and may even continue at his usual duties.

walking tyrant. A stout-legged, crested tyrant flycatcher (Machetornis rixosa) of South America.

walking wheel. Mach. A prime mover consisting of a wheel driven by the weight of men or animals walking either in it or on it; a treadwheel. — walk′ing-wheel′, adj.

walking wood fern. See FERN, Table.

walk′ist (wôk′ĭst), n. A walker; esp., a competitor in a walking race.

walk′mill′ (wôk′mĭl′), n. 1. A fulling mill. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
2. A mill the power for which is furnished by men or animals walking, as in a treadmill, or in a mill with a wheel or wheels turned by such agency.
— walk′mill′er (-ĕr), n.

walk′-on′, n. Theat. = WALKING PART.

walk′out′ (wôk′out′), n. Act of walking out, or leaving; specif., Colloq., U. S., a labor strike.

walk′o′ver (-ō′vĕr), n. 1. In racing, the going over a course by a horse which is the only starter; any race in which all but one of those entered fail to appear; hence, Colloq., a one-sided contest; an uncontested, or an easy, victory.
2. A race in which the horses competing all belong to the same interests or individuals.

walks′man (wôks′măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A walker who patrols waterworks or waterways. Brit.

walk′-up′ (wôk′ŭp′), n. An apartment house without an elevator. — walk′-up′, adj. Both Colloq., U. S.

‖ Wal·ki′re, Die (dē väl-kü′rə). [G., the Valkyrie.] The second part (1869) of Wagner's tetralogy of music dramas Der Ring des Nibelungen. See RING OF THE NIBELUNG; RHEINGOLD; SIEGMUND; SIEGLINDE; cf. VALKYRIE.

walk′way′ (wôk′wā′), n. 1. A broad path for pedestrians, esp. in a garden or park. U. S.

Box hedges mark the walkways. James Branch Cabell.

2. A passageway for pedestrians in manufacturing plants and similar locations.

Accident prevention by making floors and walkways safe. R. H. Lansburgh.

3. Naut. A narrow walking space connecting parts of a ship, esp. in the engine and fire rooms.

wal·kyr′ie (wôl-kĭr′ĭ), n. [AS. wælcyrie.] 1. [cap.] = VALKYRIE.
2. A witch; a sorceress. Obs.

wall (wôl), n. A wall knot.

wall, v. t. To make a wall knot on the end of (a rope).

wall (wôl), n. [AS. weall, fr. L. vallum a wall set with palisades, fr. vallus a stake, pale, palisade; akin to Gr. hōlos a nail, and to L. volvere to roll. See VOLUBLE; cf. INTERVAL, WALE stripe.] 1. A work or structure of stone, brick, or other materials, raised to some height, and intended for defense or security, or for an enclosure; esp.: a A solid and permanent enclosing fence, as around a field, a park, a town, etc. b One of the upright enclosing parts of a building or a room. c A levee, sea wall, or the like.
2. A defense; rampart; a means of protection; in pl., fortifications in general; works for defense.

To rush undaunted to defend the walls. Dryden.

3. Something that is like, or suggestive of, a wall, as being a perpendicular surface, an enclosing side, or the like; esp., figuratively, something conceived of as a separating boundary, surface, or barrier to easy communication or mutual understanding; as, language differences form a wall between the peoples of the earth.
4. The bounding side or inside surface of a natural or artificial cavity or vessel; as, the walls of a boiler.
5. Hoof wall.
6. At mah-jongg, the arrangement of the tiles previous to drawing the hands.
7. Mining. a The side of a drift or other working in a mine. b The country rock bounding a vein laterally. Cf. FOOTWALL, HANGING WALL. c Eng. Coal Mining. A straight passageway driven across and at right angles to bords.

Syn. — Enclosure, fence; parapet.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

wall-bound	wall-encircled	wall-loving wall-climbing	wall-fed	wall-piercing wall-defended	wall-girt	wall-scaling wall-drilling	wall-inhabiting	wall-shaking walk′a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.	Walk′er Tar′iff (wôk′ĕr). See TARIFF, 1 c.	walk′rife. Var. of WAKERIFE, adj.	walk′side′, n. See -SIDE.	Wal′kyr, Wal·kyr′i·an, etc. Vars. of VALKYR, VALKYRIAN, etc.	wall. ✝ WALE, WHALE.

walkene. ✝ WELKIN.			walkt. Walked. Ref. Sp.		wall. ✝ WAIL, WAWL.

— to drive, push, or thrust to the wall. To force or push aside or to an extreme position; to compel to give way; to get the advantage of, or mastery over; to crush; as, he was driven to the wall by his inefficiency. — to go to the wall. To be hard pressed or driven; to be pushed to extremes; to give way to competitors or the force of circumstances; hence, to become bankrupt; fail.

The weakest goes to the wall. Shak.

— the wall. The right or privilege of walking next to the wall or inner side of a sidewalk or pavement, as when meeting others or walking with another; — a privilege regarded as of value in former times of narrow or no footways because it afforded a safer or cleaner passage, and hence now by courtesy given by a gentleman to a lady walking with him. — within the walls. Inside of the confines marked by the ramparts, as of a city in former times; hence, within certain boundaries expressed or understood.

wall (wôl), adj. Of or pertaining to a wall; growing on or placed against a wall.

wall (wôl), v.; WALLED (wôld); WALL'ING. Transitive: 1. To enclose with a wall or as with a wall; to immure; also, to provide with walls, as a room.

2. To defend by walls or as if by walls; to fortify.

The terror of his name that walls us in. Denham.

3. To separate by means of a wall; — with about, around, in, off, out, to designate the manner of separation; as, he was walled off from friends by an unconquerable shyness.

4. To close or fill with or as if with a wall, as a doorway; also, to put (specified material) into a wall; as, to wall the natural stones with cement.

5. To hinder or restrain as by a wall; as, a mind walled against any innovations.

6. To write down on or against a wall; to keep a running account (of one's debts) on a wall. Slang, Eng.

—, Intransitive: To build a wall or walls, esp. as an occupation.

Syn. — Enclose, encompass, shut in.

wall (wäl), v. i. [AS. weallan. See WELL, v.] a Obs. To boil; well up; seethe. b Obs. Scot. To become welded; to be consonant. — v. t. To boil. Obs. exc. Dial.

wall (wôl), v. t. & i. [See WALLEYED.] To roll (the eyes) so as to show the white. Now Local, U. S.

wall (wäl). [Cf. Fris. valle. See WALL to boil.] Scot. & Dial. Eng. var. of WELL, n. & v.

wal'la-ba (wŏl'ä-bä), n. [Arawak.] A valuable timber tree (Eperua falcata), family Caesalpiniaceae, of the Guianas and northern Brazil, with pinnate leaves and clusters of red flowers. The reddish-brown very durable wood is used for palings and shingles; also, any of several closely related but as yet unidentified species of Eperua of the same region.

wal'la-by (-bĭ), n.; pl. -BIES (-bĭz), sometimes -BY. See PLURAL, Note. [In the language of George's River, Cowpasture, and Appin, wolabā a kind of kangaroo.] Any of various small and medium-sized kangaroos, including many of the genus Macropus (except the large plain-colored species) and several allied genera. The large wallabies (brush kangaroos), as the red-necked wallaby (M. ruficollis), are more brightly colored and much smaller than the typical kangaroos. Many wallabies, as the hare wallaby, paddymelon, etc., are no larger than a hare. The fur, esp. of the larger species, is much used. See ROCK WALLABY, NAIL-TAILED KANGAROO.

— on the wallaby, or on the wallaby track. On a bush track; traveling, as a swagman, in the bush. Colloq., Australia.

wallaby acacia. The shrub Acacia rigens. Australia.

wallaby bush. An Australian evergreen shrub (Beyeria viscosa), family Euphorbiaceae, common also in Tasmania. It has small, heathlike leaves and chiefly axillary flowers.

wallaby grass. See GRASS, Table.

Wal'lace's line (wŏl'ĕs-lz). [After Alfred R. Wallace, Eng. naturalist.] Biogeog. An imaginary line separating the Oriental and Australian regions. It passed between Bali and Lombok, between Celebes and Borneo, and to the eastward of the Philippines. Recent authors contend that it should pass east rather than west of Celebes. The faunas on either side of the line are remarkably distinct.

Wal·la'chi·an (wŏ·lā'kĭ·ăn), n. & adj. Var. of WALACHIAN.

wal'lah (wäl'ä), n. Also wal'la. [Hind. -wālā, suff. like L. -arius (cf. -ER).] Agent; a master or owner; a servant or worker; also, Colloq., a person; a fellow. Anglo-Ind.

I wonder if the ticket wallah would like some books to review in his spare time. Christopher Morley.

wall anchor. = BEAM ANCHOR.

wall and crown. See CROWN, n., 23.

wall arcade. Arch. An arcade built as part of, or against, a wall, usually a blind arcade chiefly for ornament.

wal'la-roo' (wŏl'ä-rōō'), n. [In the language of George's River, Cowpasture, and Appin, wolarū mountain kangaroo.] Any of several kangaroos of the genus Macropus, esp. M. robustus.

Wal'la-wal'la (wŏl'ä-wŏl'ä), n. One of a small tribe of Shahaptians of Washington and Oregon. Since 1855 they have been on the Umatilla Reservation, Oregon. They were Christianized by Jesuits about 1840, and are now farmers and stock raisers.

wall barley. a A European annual grass (Hordeum murinum) resembling barley, but found as a weed in waste ground along roadsides, hedgerows, etc. b = RYE GRASS a.

wall bearing. Mach. A shaft bearing located in a wall.

wall bed. = RECESS BED.

wall bee. A mason bee.

wall'bird' (wôl'bûrd'), n. The spotted flycatcher. Local, Eng.

wall'board' (wôl'bōrd'; 181), n. Any boarding designed to serve as, or to be used against, a wall; as, a wallboard in a schoolroom; specif., an artificial board of wood fiber, cane fiber, or the like, made in large sheets and used for the interior sheathing of the walls of rooms.

wall box. Mach. A frame set in a wall to receive a pillow block or bearing for a shaft passing through the wall.

wall bracket. Mach. A bracket for supporting a bearing and designed to be fastened to a wall.

wall bugloss. Any of certain herbs of the genus Lycopsis. England.

wall cabbage. The sand rocket. England.

wall cabinet. A cabinet resting, or designed to rest, against the wall of a room.

wall card. A card or placard designed for use upon a wall, billboard, or the like, as in advertising. — wall'-card', adj.

wall clamp. A clamp for holding walls or parts of a double wall together.

wall crane. A crane fixed to a wall, often a form of pillar crane.

wall creeper. 1. A small bird (Tichodroma muraria), of the family Certhiidae, inhabiting cliffs in the mountains of southern Asia, Europe, and northern Africa, and, in migration, frequenting walls about towns. It is mostly gray, black, and white, but has a bright crimson wing patch.

1/3

Wall Creeper.

2. Mach. = WALL PLANER.

wall cress. a England. Any cress of the genus Arabis. b The mouse-ear cress.

walled (wôld), adj. Furnished or enclosed with a wall or walls; fortified; also, resembling or suggesting a wall.

-walled (-wôld). Walled, adj., used in combinations, as in:

brick-walled	stone-walled double-walled	stucco-walled high-walled	thick-walled party-walled	thin-walled rough-walled	well-walled sea-walled	wooden-walled single-walled	wood-walled smooth-walled walled (wôld), adj. [See WALLEYED.] Lacking in color or form; — said of an eye; walleyed. Colloq. & Dial.

walled'-in', adj. Enclosed by, or as if by, a wall.

walled plains. Astron. Crateriform depressions on the moon, the interiors of which are nearly level and 40 to 150 miles in diameter. They are usually surrounded by an intricate system of mountain ranges, separated by valleys, crossed by ravines, and united at various points by cross walls and buttresses.

walled'-up', adj. Closed by, or as if by, a wall.

wall engine. A vertical engine bedded flat against a wall, usually with the crankshaft above the cylinder or cylinders.

Wal'len-stein (wŏl'ĕn-stīn; G. väl'ĕn-shtīn), n. The subject of Schiller's tragic historical trilogy (1798–99): Wallensteins Lager (camp); Die Piccolomini; and Wallensteins Tod (death). See WALLENSTEIN, VON, in Biog.

wall'er (wôl'ĕr), n. One who builds or repairs walls.

wall'er, n. [G.] The wels.

wall'er, n. [From WALL to boil.] A saltmaker. Local, Eng.

Wal·le'ri·an (wŏ·lē'rĭ·ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or named after, A. V. Waller, an English physiologist (1816–70).

Wallerian degeneration. Med. The degeneration of nerve fibers which follows section or other injury or disease of a nerve and progresses from the seat of injury along the axon away from the nerve cell body while the part between the seat of injury and the nerve cell body remains intact.

Wallerian method. The method of identifying tracts of nerve fibers, esp. in the spinal cord, by observing the direction of degeneration after section.

wal'let (wŏl'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. [ME. walet, perh. the same word as ME. watel a bag. Cf. WATTLE.] 1. A bag or sack for carrying about the person, as for holding the necessaries for a journey, in one form long, open at the middle, and closed at the ends; a knapsack; a pack.

Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back, Wherein he puts alms for oblivion. Shak.

2. Anything hanging loose like a bag. Cf. WATTLE, n., 4. Obs. "Wallets of flesh." Shak.

3. A flat leather bag with a top opening closed by a flap or the like, used for carrying tools, etc.; a tool bag.

4. A pocketbook, esp. one of some size for papers, paper money unfolded, etc., with a flap fastened by a clasp or strap; also, a small flat bag or purse for coins carried on the person.

5. Something shaped or constructed like a wallet (sense 4), as an envelope (wallet envelope).

6. Angling. An outfit of small tools, materials, etc., likely to prove useful on a trip. Brit.

wall'eye' (wôl'ī'), n. [See WALLEYED.] 1. a An eye, as of a horse, in which the iris is very light gray or whitish. b An eye in which the cornea is opaque and white. c Leucoma of the cornea. d An eye which turns outward showing an undue amount of white. e Exotropia; divergent strabismus.

2. Any of various fishes: a The walleyed pike. b The walleyed surf fish. c = 2d ALEWIFE, 1. d The walleyed pollack.

wall'eyed' (-īd'), adj. [ME. wawileȝid, fr. ON. vagleygr, fr. vagl a beam, a beam in the eye (akin to Sw. vagel a roost, a perch, a sty in the eye) + eygr having eyes (fr. auga eye). See EYE.] 1. a Having a very light gray or whitish eye. b Affected with leucoma of the cornea. c Having the eye directed outward; affected with exotropia or squint.

2. Having a blank or staring appearance, as of a person affected with walleye.

3. Having glaring eyes; fierce-eyed. "Walleyed wrath." Shak.

walleyed herring. = 2d ALEWIFE, 1.

walleyed pike or perch. An American fresh-water food fish (Stizostedion vitreum) having large and prominent eyes.

1/10

Walleyed Pike.

walleyed pollack. A large sooty-black pollack (Theragra fucensis) of the Pacific coast of North America from Monterey northward.

walleyed surf fish. A common California fish (Hyperprosopon argenteus), of a nearly uniform sooty color with traces of silver color on the sides.

wall fern. The common polypody (Polypodium vulgare).

wall'-fight', n. Mil. A fight to gain a rampart, or fortified place; an attack upon a walled position.

wall'flow'er (wôl'flou'ĕr), n. 1. Any species of Cheirinia; esp., C. cheiri, a perennial herb with sweet-scented flowers. In Europe it is common on old walls.

2. In Australia, a desert shrub (Gastrolobium grandiflorum); — called also desert poisonbush.

3. A woman or man who remains by the wall as a spectator at a dance, either by choice or because not chosen as a partner. Colloq.

4. The color wallflower brown.

wallflower brown. A color, yellowish-red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance; — called also burnt russet, Cuba. Cf. COLOR.

wall frame. = WALL BOX.

wall fruit. Fruit borne by trees trained against a wall.

wall garden. Hort. A dry wall with plants set in the soil among crevices of the rock.

wall gecko. Any of several harmless Old World geckos which run over walls, clinging by suckers on the feet, and feed on insects.

1/3

Wall Gecko (Tarentola mauritanica).

wall germander. The common germander (Teucrium chamaedrys).

wall gillyflower. = WALLFLOWER, 1.

wall grass. The common stonecrop (Sedum acre).

wall green. A color, bluish-green in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance.

wall grenade. Mil. A grenade larger than a hand grenade, to be thrown from a wall. Hist.

wall hanging. Drapery hung, or designed to be hung, against a wall.

wall hawkweed. A European hawkweed (Hieracium murorum) with mostly basal leaves and yellow flower heads on glandular stalks; — so called from its habit.

wall'hick' (wôl'hĭk'), n. [See HICKWALL.] The lesser spotted woodpecker. Local, Eng.

wall hold. A hold on, or point of attachment to, a wall; specif., in building construction, the end of a timber fixed in a wall as a bearing.

wall hook. a A hook designed to be fixed in a wall to hold something. b Obs. Mil. A grappling hook.

wal'lie (wŏl'ĭ), n. [From VALET.] A valet. Scot.

wall'ing, n. 1. Act of making a wall or walls, as for a building; the supplying of a wall, or of ramparts, for defense

2. Walls collectively; material for walls.

wall'ing, adj. That serves as or constitutes a wall.

walling crib. Mining. A heavy timber or cast-iron ring built into the wall of a shaft to support the lining.

wall'ing-in', adj. That encloses by or as if by a wall; as, walling-in structures.

walling wax. Wax used by etchers to make a bank, or wall, round the edge of a plate to hold the etching acid, etc.

wall ink. The European brooklime.

wall knot. [Cf. WALE knot.] Naut. A kind of knot, single or double, crowned or double-crowned, made by interweaving the unlaid strands at the end of a rope. See 2d KNOT, 1; 1st CROWN, 23 b.

wall lecture. A lecture delivered, orig. by a regent master, by regulation and regardless of attendance.

wall lettuce. A European wild lettuce (Lactuca muralis) with coarse foliage and yellow flowers in loose clusters.

wall lichen. A rock lichen (Parmelia parietaria).

wall'-like' (wôl'lĭk'), adv. See -LIKE.

wall link. = WALKING LEAF a.

wall lizard. A common lizard (Lacerta muralis) of southern Europe, Asia Minor, and northern Africa, which frequents houses and lives in the chinks and crevices of walls.

wall louse. a = WOOD LOUSE b. b The bedbug.

wall mirror. A mirror hanging, or designed to be hung, against the wall in a room.

wall moss. a Any moss that grows on a wall. b Wall lichen. c Dial. Eng. The common stonecrop.

wall net. A fishing net set vertically to enclose a space.

wall newt Wall lizard.

wal'loch (wäl'ŭk), n. A Highland fling. Scot.

wall of circumvallation. See CIRCUMVALLATION, 2.

Wal·lo'ni·an (wŏ·lō'nĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the Walloons or their language. — n. The language of the Walloons; Walloon.

Wal·loon' (wŏ·lōōn'), n. [F. Wallon, of Teut. origin. See WELSH.] a One of a people, primarily of Celtic or Alpine race, inhabiting southern Belgium, esp. Hainaut, Namur, Liége, and Luxembourg, and about one third of Brabant and adjacent parts of France. They are descendants of the Belgae. b Their language, Belgian French. — Wal·loon', adj.

wal·loon' (wŏ·lōōn'), n. Plant Pathol. A disease of tobacco Walloon Church. A Protestant church in the Netherlands, the members of which are descendants of refugees from France and Flanders in 1581 and later. They use French in their services, and the Geneva Catechism.

Walloon guard. Formerly, the bodyguard of the Spanish monarch, consisting of Walloons.

wal'lop (wŏl'ŭp), v. [ONF. waloper (F. galoper). See GALLOP.] Intransitive: 1. To move quickly, but with great effort; to gallop. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

Egad, she walloped away with all the grace of triumph. Scott.

2. To move in a rolling, cumbersome manner; to tumble over or about; to flounder; to waddle.

Sleek sea beasts who roared and rolled and walloped in the spouting surges. Kipling.

3. To be slatternly. Local, Eng.

4. To dangle, flutter, or flap, as rags. Chiefly Scot.

—, Transitive: 1. To beat soundly; flog; thrash; also, figuratively, to get the better of. Dial. & Colloq.

He nearly walloped the life out of me. Joseph Conrad.

2. To deliver a powerful blow against; to strike hard; as, to wallop a baseball for a home run. Slang.

wal'lop, n. 1. A quick, rolling movement; a gallop. Scot & Dial. Eng.

2. A bubbling or seething, as of boiling liquid. Obs.

3. A beat or palpitation; a throb. Obs. Scot.

4. An awkward, heavy leap, jump, or plunge. Scot.

5. A powerful blow; also, the ability, as of a pugilist, to deliver such a blow; as, he packs a wallop in either hand. Slang.

wal'lop, adv. With a heavy thud or blow.

The comet landed wallop on the sand. Garstin.

wal'lop (wŏl'ŭp), v. i.; -LOPED (-ŭpt); -LOP·ING. [Prob. imitative, but perh. same as wallop to move. Cf. GALLOP boil.] To boil with a continued bubbling noise. Scot. & Dial.

wal'lop·er (wŏl'ŭp·ĕr), n. One who or that which wallops.

wal'lop·er, n. = WHOPPER, something enormous. Dial. & Colloq.

wal'lop·ing, adj. Large; strong; bouncing; whopping. Dial.

wal'lop·ing, n. A beating; a thrashing; a licking. Colloq.

wal'low (wŏl'ō), v.; WAL'LOWED (-ōd); WAL'LOW·ING. [ME. walwen, fr. AS. wealwian; akin to AS. wielwan, v. t., to roll, Goth. walwjan (in comp.) to roll, L. volvere. See VOLUBLE.] Intransitive: 1. To roll oneself about, as in mire; to tumble or roll about; to move lazily or heavily in any medium; to welter; to flounder; as, swine wallow in the mire.

I may wallow in the lily beds. Shak.

2. To live or continue in animal satisfaction in some condition or mode of life; as, to wallow in luxury, in money; — often with a derogatory implication.

God sees a man wallowing in his native impurity. South.
She wallows in the poetry of Keats. Mencken.

wal'la (wäl'ä). Var. of WALLAH.

wal'la·by-proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

Wal'lach, Wal'lack (wŏl'ăk), n. & adj. = WALACHIAN.

wallaway. † WELLAWAY.

wall'-cheeked', adj. See -CHEEKED.

wal'let-ful, n. See -FUL.

wall'ful, n. See -FUL.

wal·lise' (wŏ·lēs'). Dial. var. of VALISE.

wall'less, adj. See -LESS.

wall'man, n.; pl. -MEN. = 3d WALLER.

Wal'loon' (wä·lōōn'). Var. of WALLOON. wal'lopt. Walloped. Ref. Sp.

3. To surge, as waves; to billow, as smoke; to rise swirlingly, as vapor or mist; to gush forth in eddies, as flame or a spring.
—, Transitive: 1. To roll, as in something unclean; to tumble in the mire and roll back and forth. Rare.
2. To cause to roll, billow, surge, or the like. Obs.
Syn. — See GROVEL.

wal'low (wŏl'ō), n. 1. Act of wallowing, in various senses.
It is not the United States language, with its slap and spank and wallow and roll. American Mercury.
2. A kind of rolling walk or gait. Obs.
3. A place to which an animal comes to wallow; also, the depression made by its wallowing; as, a buffalo wallow.
4. A pit or hollow in the veldt; a kommetje. S. Africa.
5. A depression resembling or suggesting a place where animals have wallowed; hence: a The trough of a billow. b A line of hay in the fields. c A depressed state or condition.
Sinking into the wallow of bourgeois vulgarity. Sir Gilbert Parker.

wal'low (wäl'ŭ; wŏl'-), v. i. [AS. wealwian.] To fade; wither. Obs. exc. Dial.

wal'low, adj. [AS. wealg lukewarm, tepid; akin to Nor. dial. valg insipid, D. walg loathing, repugnance.] Tasteless; insipid; also, nauseous. Now Dial. Eng.

wal'low·er (wŏl'ō-ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which wallows.
2. Mach. One of the earliest forms of pinion; a trundle; a lantern pinion, used in cheaper clocks and watches.

wal'low·ish, adj. [wallow, adj. + -ish.] Flat; insipid; nauseous; mawkish. — wal'low·ish·ly, adv. — wal'low·ish·ness, n. All Obs. exc. Dial.

wall painting. A work of art painted on a wall; esp., a fresco painting.

wall'pa'per (wôl'pā'pĕr), n. Paper for walls of rooms; paper hangings. — wall'pa'per, v. t. & i.

wall'pa'per·ing, n. Material made up for wallpaper.

wall pellitory. A European herb (Parietaria officinalis) of diuretic properties, growing on old walls.

wall penny grass. = NAVELWORT a.

wall pennywort. = NAVELWORT a.

wall pepper. The common stonecrop (Sedum acre).

wall pie. The wall rue.

wall'piece' (wôl'pēs'), n. a A flat timber secured to a wall as a bearing for the upper end of a shore, etc. b A pendant post.

wall planer. Mach. A metal planer in which large work is fixed on a base plate and whose tool carriage travels vertically on a tall pillar, which is either bolted to a wall or arranged to stand independently; — called also vertical planer, wall creeper.

wall'-plat' (wôl'plăt'), n. The spotted flycatcher. It builds its nest on walls. Local, Eng.

wall plate. a Arch. A continuous plate on a wall to support posts, joists, or the like; a plate. See PLATE, n., 12 a; ROOF, Illust. b Mach. A metal plate or bracket secured flat against the wall to support a bearing, machinery, etc. c Mining. One of the main side timbers of a shaft. Cf. END PLATE.

wall pocket. A bag or baglike receptacle for attachment to a wall.

wall radiator. See RADIATOR, n., a.

wall reaction. Physical Chem. A reaction which is localized on the walls of the containing vessel and is often catalyzed by contact with the walls.

wall rib. In a medieval ribbed vault, a rib next to, and in a plane parallel to, the longitudinal wall; a formeret.

wall rock. Geol. & Mining. The rock through which a fault or vein runs; the country rock next to a fault, vein, or ore deposit.

wall rocket. A crossweed (Diplotaxis tenuifolia) of Europe, with rather large yellow flowers, adventive in North America.

wall rue. A small delicate spleenwort (Asplenium ruta-muraria) found on walls, cliffs, etc., in Eurasia and North America; — called also wall rue spleenwort.

Wall Rue.

wall saltpeter. Calcium nitrate, found as an efflorescence on walls exposed to decaying nitrogenous matter.

Walls'end' (wôlz'ĕnd'), n. [From Wallsend, Eng.] A grade, or a size, of coal.
A hundredweight of best Wallsend, blazing. De Morgan.

wall'-sid'ed (wôl'sīd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Naut. Of a vessel, having sides nearly perpendicular. Cf. BANK-SIDED.

wall space. Space, or place, on a wall, as for a painting.
"His blasted picture! A thing that was n't worth giving wall space to!" C. Fox Smith.

wall speedwell. The corn speedwell.

wall spleenwort. See FERN, Table.

wall stone. Stone used for, or of a character suitable for, building walls.

Wall Street. A street towards the southern end of the borough of Manhattan, New York City, extending from Broadway to the East River; — so called from the old wall which extended along it when the city belonged to the Dutch. It is the chief financial center of the United States, and the name is often used for the money market and the financial interests of the country.

Wall Street loan. Stock Exchange. A loan on securities collateral. If made in New York City it is the same as a broker's loan.

wall string. Stair Building. The string (of a staircase) that is next to the wall.

wall tent. A tent with upright cloth sides corresponding to the walls of a house.

wall tower. A tower forming an essential part of a wall, esp. in old fortifications.

wall tree. Hort. A fruit tree trained against a wall.

wall vase. Art. A vase intended to hang against a wall, esp. one having the design and character of an ordinary vase, but with one side entirely flat.

wall wasp. Any of several species of solitary wasps (genus Odynerus) which make their nests in the crevices of walls.

wall'work' (wôl'wûrk'), n. a Obs. Construction of a wall or walls. b Ramparts, collectively; walls built for defense.

wall'wort' (-wûrt'), n. Any of several wall-inhabiting plants, as Danewort, the wall pellitory, the wall pepper, the wall rue, etc.

wal'ly (wäl'ĭ), adj. [ME. wale, adj. & n., choice. See WALE choose.] Scot. & N. of Eng. a Excellent; fine. b Ample; large; robust. c Pleasant; jolly. — wal'ly, adv. — wally fall. Good luck to. Scot.

wal'ly, n. An ornament or toy; a gewgaw; pl., finery. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wal'ly, v. t. Fondle; indulge. Obs.

wal'ly (wäl'ĭ; wŏl'ĭ). Var. of WALY, interj.

wal'ly·drag' (wäl'ĭ-drăg'; wŏl'ĭ-), n. Also wal'ly·drai'gle (-drā'g'l). A feeble, undergrown, or slovenly creature; the youngest of a brood. Scot.

wal'ly–gowd'y (wäl'ĭ·gōd'ĭ; -gōōd'ĭ), n. [Dial. wally excellent. See WALE choose; GAUD ornament.] Precious jewel or ornament; — in endearment. Scot.

wal'nut (wôl'nŭt; -nŭt; 86), n. [ME. walnot, fr. AS. wealhhnutu a Celtic or foreign nut, a walnut, fr. wealh foreign, strange, n., a Welshman, Celt (akin to OHG. Walh, prop., a Celt, from the name of a Celtic tribe, in L. Volcae) + hnutu a nut; akin to D. walnoot, G. walnuss, ON. valhnot, Sw. valnöt, Dan. valnød. See WELSH; NUT. Cf. WALSHNUT.] 1. a The fruit or nut of any tree of the genus Juglans, esp. that of J. regia, commonly distinguished in the United States as the English walnut. b A tree of this genus; also, its wood. The walnuts are ornamental shade trees, and the wood of several species, notably the black walnut, is valuable for furniture, indoor finishings, etc. See JUGLANS; ENGLISH WALNUT; BLACK WALNUT; BUTTERNUT, 1. c Any of several trees not of the genus Juglans; as: (1) The acapú. (2) The African walnut. (3) The black poisonwood.
2. The shagbark hickory; also, its nut. Local, U. S., esp. New England.
3. The color of the heartwood of the black walnut, reddish red-yellow in hue, of saturation and brilliance varying from low to medium; — distinguished from walnut brown. Cf. COLOR.
4. Short for WALNUT JUICE.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

walnut-finished	walnut-inlaid	walnut-stained walnut-framed	walnut-paneled	walnut-trimmed wal'nut, adj. Of or pert. to the walnut; made of walnut wood.

wal'nut, v. i. To gather or seek walnuts; — usually in the form walnutting.

walnut blight. Plant Pathol. A serious bacterial disease of English walnuts, caused by Phytomonas (syn. Pseudomonas) juglandis, characterized by the blighting of the young nuts and shoots.

walnut borer. a A blue-winged longicorn beetle (Gaurotes cyanipennis) whose larva bores into the wood of the black walnut. b Any of several ambrosia beetles that bore under the bark or in the wood of the black walnut, esp. Anisandrus pyri, Xyleborus dispar, and X. xylographus.

walnut brown. The color of the shell of the English walnut, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also taffy. Cf. WALNUT; COLOR. — wal'nut–brown', adj.

walnut case–bearer. Zool. A small moth (Mineola palliolella) whose larva lives in a portable case on the walnut.

walnut caterpillar. The larva of the walnut moth Datana integerrima.

walnut curculio. The walnut weevil.

walnut family. The Juglandaceae.

walnut juice. Juice expressed from the husk of walnuts and used as a stain, esp. for the face.

walnut moth. Any of numerous moths whose larvae eat the foliage of the walnut; esp.: a The regal moth. b The imperial moth. c The Luna moth. d Any of several red underwings of the genus Catocala. e A dagger moth (Apatela, syn. Acronycta, americana), found also on the maple. f Either of three species of arctiid moths of the genus Halisidota (H. caryae, H. tessellaris, and H. maculata). g Datana integerrima, whose hairy gregarious larva defoliates also the hickory, birch, oak, chestnut, linden, and apple.

walnut oil. See OIL, Table I.

walnut scale. A round scale (Aspidiotus juglansregiae) which infests the English walnut.

walnut shell. a The shell or, esp., the half shell, of a walnut. b Hence, a frail or very light boat; a shell.

walnut spanworm. The larva of a geometrid moth (Conoides plumogeraria), which sometimes defoliates the English walnut in California.

walnut sphinx. A large brown-and-gray sphinx (Cressonia juglandis) whose larva feeds on the leaves of the black walnut and hickory.

walnut tree. = WALNUT, n., 1 b. — wal'nut–tree', adj.

walnut weevil. A weevil (Conotrachelus juglandis), similar to the plum curculio, whose larvae live in green walnuts.

walnut worm. The larva of any walnut moth, esp. that of the regal moth (which see) and of Datana integerrima.

Wal·pa'pi (wäl·pä'pē), n. An Indian of a Shoshonean tribe formerly ranging widely in southeastern Oregon, and now living on the Klamath Reservation in that State; — called also Snake.

Wal·pol'e·an (wôl·pōl'ē·ăn), Wal·pol'i·an (-ĭ·ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, one of several men named Walpole, as Robert Walpole or, esp., Horace Walpole.

Wal·pur'gis Night (väl·pōōr'gĭs). Ger. Wal·pur'gis·nacht' (-näkt'). The eve of May Day, or the feast of Walburga (Walpurgis), the saint, on which, according to German superstition, a witches' Sabbath took place on the Brocken, a peak of the Harz Mountains.

wal·pur'gite (wôl·pûr'jīt; -gĭt), n. [From Walpurgis vein, Freiberg, Saxony.] Mineral. A hydrous bismuth uranium arsenate in thin yellow crystals.

wal'rus (wôl'rŭs; wŏl'-; 277), n.; pl. WALRUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119), WALRUS. See PLURAL, Note. [D. walrus, walros, of Scand. origin; cf. Dan. & Nor. hvalros, and ON. hrosshvalr (AS. horshwæl) a kind of whale, lit., horse whale, confused with rosmhvalr walrus. See ROSMARINE.] 1. A very large marine mammal (Odobenus rosmarus) of the Arctic Ocean, allied to the seals but forming a distinct family, Odobenidae. In the male the upper canine teeth form greatly elongated protruding tusks and the neck and shoulders are very thick and heavy. Individuals often weigh over a ton. The female has smaller, slenderer tusks. The skin makes valuable leather, the tusks are fine ivory, and the blubber yields oil. The animals have been much hunted, and are now rare except in the far north. The walrus of Bering Sea and northward is larger than the Atlantic animal and is usually regarded as a variety or distinct species (O. divergens, syn. obesus).
2. A walrus mustache. Colloq.

Walrus.

wal'rus (wôl'rŭs; wŏl'-; 277), adj. Of or pertaining to a walrus; specif., designating a type of mustache with long downward-curving ends.

walrus bird. The pectoral sandpiper.

walt (wŏlt; wält), v. t. & i. [ME. walten. See WALTER.] To overturn; tumble; totter. Obs. exc. Dial.

walt, adj. [AS. un*weald* not given to rolling, steady.] Apt to turn; unsteady; crank. Obs.

walt. Obs. past tense of WIELD.

Walt (wôlt), n. Dim. of WALTER.

walt'er (wôl'tĕr), v. i. [ME. walteren, akin to weltren. See WELTER.] Now Dial. To roll or toss about; to welter; as: a To grovel; wallow. b To reel; stagger; tumble. c To surge. — v. t. To roll or toss about; to cause to sprawl or wallow. Now Dial.

walt'er, n. An upset; disorder. Obs. Scot.

Wal'ter (wôl'tĕr), n. [ONF. Waltier (OF. Gualtier, Gautier, F. Gautier), of G. origin; cf. G. Walther, OHG. Walthere, Waltharī; cf. G. walten to rule, OHG. waltan, and G. heer army, OHG. harī.] Literally, ruling the host; — masculine proper name. L. Gualterus (gwäl·tē'rē·ŭs); F. Gauthier, Gautier (gō'tyā'); It. Gualtiero (gwäl·tyā'rō); Sp. Gualterio (gwäl·tā'rē·ō); G. Walther (väl'tĕr). — Dim. Walt, Wat, (Wat'kin, obs.).

Wal·to'ni·an (wôl·tō'nĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Izaak Walton (1593–1683), author of The Compleat Angler. — n. A disciple of Walton; an angler.

wal'ty (wôl'tĭ), adj. [See WALT.] Liable to roll; crank; unsteady; — of a ship. Archaic.

waltz (wôlts or, esp. Brit., wôls; 86), n. [G. walzer, fr. walzen to roll, revolve, dance, fr. OHG. walzan to roll. See WELTER.] a A kind of round dance performed to music in triple measure by dancers in couples, the partners going through a series of steps which cause them to whirl around and at the same time advance round the room. b Music for this dance or in its characteristic triple measure; specif., a concert waltz (which see).

waltz, adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, the waltz; as, waltz time; a waltz tune.

waltz, v. i.; WALTZED (wôltst; wôlst); WALTZ'ING. [G. walzen. See WALTZ, n.] To dance a waltz or in a waltz movement or step; hence, to move nimbly or quickly as in a waltz; to whirl. — v. t. To move nimbly or turn rapidly; as, in his excitement he grabbed his companion and waltzed him around the room.

waltz'er (-ĕr), n. A person who waltzes.

waltz'ing mouse. A mouse, of a breed supposed to have originated in Japan, that is unable to progress in a straight course, but whirls about in small circles.

waltz measure or time. Music. The typical triple rhythm of a waltz, involving a melody with broken chord accompaniment in equal notes.

waltz song. Music. A song in waltz rhythm.

wal'y (wäl'ĭ; wôl'ĭ), interj. [Cf. WELLAWAY.] An exclamation, usually of grief. Scot. & N. of Eng. — n. A lament. Scot.

wal'y (wäl'ĭ). Scot. var. of WALLY.

wa'ma·ra' (wä'mä·rä'), n. [Of Arawakan or Cariban origin.] A tree (Swartzia tomentosa) of British Guiana; — called also ironwood; also, its very hard wood, used for a variety of purposes, but sparingly because of the difficulty of working it.

Wam'ba (wŏm'bä), n. The clown, or jester, in Scott's Ivanhoe.

wam'ble (wŏm'l; wäm'-), v.; WAM'BLED (-'ld); WAM'BLING (-lĭng). [ME. wamlen; cf. Dan. vamle, and vammel squeamish, ready to vomit, Icel. væma to feel nausea, væminn nauseous, and E. dial. wamble, wammel, to roll, to walk unsteadily, to feel sick. Cf. VOMIT.] Now Chiefly Dial. Intransitive: 1. a Obs. To feel nausea. b To rumble; — said of the stomach.
2. To move unsteadily; specif.: a To writhe; wriggle; twist. b To quiver; shake. c To revolve; spin. d To stagger; totter. e To turn topsy-turvy; to tumble. f To ramble. g To rise in seething; — said of water.
—, Transitive: To turn over and over, round, or upside down; to spin; revolve.

wam'ble (wŏm'l; wäm'-), n. [From WAMBLE, v.] Now Dial. 1. A wambling; esp., a rumbling or disturbance of the stomach.
2. An irregular gait or movement; a reeling or staggering gait.

wam'ble–cropped', adj. Also wam'ble–cript'. [See WAMBLE; CROP gullet.] Having a rumbling stomach; squeamish; qualmish; also, humiliated; sometimes, vexed; annoyed. Dial.

wam'bling (wŏm'blĭng), adj. That wambles; rumbling; also, reeling; tottering. — wam'bling·ly, adv.
I got out of the car, refused all proffered assistance, and contrived, a little wamblingly, it is true, to mount the steps. Aldous Huxley.

wam'bly (wŏm'blĭ; wäm'-), adj. Faint; squeamish, as from nausea; also, unsteady; shaky. — wam'bli·ness (-blĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Both Dial.

Wam·bu'gu (wäm·bōō'gōō), n. sing. & pl. One of an East African tribe living near the Usambara Hills, Tanganyika Territory.

Wam·but'ti (wäm·bŭt'ē), n. pl. A Pygmy people of equatorial Africa, discovered by Stanley in the great forest along the Ituri. They are among the shortest of the Pygmies.

wame (wām), n. [Dial. var. of WOMB.] Scot. & Dial. a The womb. b The belly; stomach. c Figuratively, a hollow; room.

wamed (wāmd), adj. Having (such) a wame. Scot.

wame'fou, wame'fu' (wām'fōō), wame'ful (wām'fōōl; -fōō), n. A bellyful. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wam'fle (wäm'fl), v. i. To flap. Scot.

wal'lowd. Wallowed. Ref. Sp.

wall'wise', adv. See -WISE.

walm, n. [AS. wælm.] A boiling and bubbling; bubbling water; a spring. Obs.

walm, v. i. [AS. weallan; cf. AS. wælm billow.] To well or boil up; to seethe; swirl. Obs.

Wal'schaert's gear. See VALVE GEAR.

walsh (wälsh; wŏlsh), adj. = WALLOWISH. — walsh'ness, n. Both Scot. & Dial. Eng.

Walsh. ✝ WELSH.

walsh'nut. [See WALSH, WELSH; NUT. Cf. WALNUT.] Walnut. Obs.

wal'spe're, n. [AS. wælspere.] A spear used in battle. Obs.

walt. ✝ WELT.

Walter Blunt, Sir. See 4th BLUNT a. walterot, n. Absurdity. Obs.

Wal'ter Shan'dy. See TRISTRAM SHANDY.

walth (wälth). Scot. of WEALTH.

Wal'ther's ca·nal' or duct (väl'tĕrz). [After A. F. Walther (1688–1746), Ger. anatomist.] Anat. See DUCT OF RIVINUS.

Wal'ton's Pol'y·glot (wôl'tŭns). See POLYGLOT, n., 2.

wal'tron, n. A walrus. Obs.

waltrot. ✝ WALTEROT.

waltz'like', adj. See -LIKE.

waltzt. Waltzed. Ref. Sp.

walue. ✝ VALUE.

walwe. ✝ WALLOW.

wal'y·coat' (wäl'ĭ·kōt'). Var. of WYLIECOAT.

wamb. ✝ WAME, WOMB.

wam'bais, n. [OF.] = GAMBESON. Hist.

Wam·bu'ba (wäm·bōō'bä), n. = BAMBUBA.

wam'el (wŏm'l; wäm'-). Obs. exc. Scot. var. of WAMBLE.

Wa·mes'it (wä·mĕs'ĭt), n. See PENNACOOK.

wamp (wŏmp), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Pequot wompohtuck goose, Narraganset wŏmpatuck, fr. wâb- white. Cf. WAPACUT.] The common American eider. Local, U. S.

Wam'pa·no'ag (wŏm'pȧ·nō'ăg), n. An Indian of an Algonquian tribe formerly holding the eastern shore of Narragansett Bay. They were nearly exterminated in King Philip's War, and have been extinct since the 18th century.

wam·pee' (wŏm·pē'), n. [Chin. (Pek.) huang²-p'i³, lit., yellow skin.] Bot. An Asiatic tree (Clausena lansium), family Rutaceae, cultivated in Hawaii; also, its fruit, which is about the size of a large grape, and has a hard rind and a peculiar flavor.

wam·pee', n. [Of Algonquian origin, prob. fr. Shawnee; cf. Shawnee wapa white. Cf. WAPATOO.] The pickerelweed. Southern U. S.

wamp'ish (wȧmp'ĭsh), v. i. & t. To fluctuate; to swing; wave. Scot.

wam'ple (wȧm'p'l; wŏm'-), v. t. & i. To wind; intertwine. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wam'pum (wŏm'pŭm; wôm'-; 277), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Narraganset wampompeag white wampum, Massachuset wanpanpiag, fr. wab white + umpe string + -ag, pl. suff. E. wampum and peag are abbrs. of earlier wampumpeag.] 1. Beads made of shells, used by the North American Indians as money, as ceremonial pledges, or as ornaments. They were polished and strung together in strands, belts, or sashes. There were two kinds, black, or dark purple, and white, the black having double the value of the white. From its convenience in the fur trade with the Indians, wampum was largely used by the earlier settlers of the Eastern colonies, as far south as Virginia, and imitation wampum of white porcelain was made for sale to the Indians. 2. Slang. a Money. b Dress clothes. 3. Short for WAMPUM SNAKE.

wampum belt. A belt of wampum used as a mnemonic device or ceremonially, especially in the ratification of treaties.

wam'pum·peag' (-pēg'), n. [See WAMPUM.] Strictly, the white kind of shell beads used as money, etc., by the aborigines of North America; hence, by extension, any shell money used by them; wampum; peag.

wampum snake. a The horned viper. See CERASTES. b Local, U. S. The hoop snake Abastor erythrogrammus; — from its bright coloring including red, blue, and yellow.

wam'pus (wŏm'pŭs), n. 1. Var. of WAMUS. 2. A heavy, stupid, sluggish person; sometimes, a person objectionable for any reason. Slang.

wa'mus (wō'mŭs; wŏm'ŭs), n. Also wam'mus (wŏm'ŭs), wam'pus (-pŭs). [D. wammes, wambuis, fr. OF. wambais. See GAMBESON.] A kind of cardigan; also, an outer jacket, with buttoned collar and wristbands, made of strong, rough cloth. U. S.

wan (wŏn), adj. [ME. wan wan, pale, faint, not having color, fr. AS. wann, wonn, wan, won, dark, lurid, livid.] 1. Dark; gloomy; dusky; black; lead-colored; — now used chiefly of water. 2. Obs. a Sad; sorrowful. b Frightful; deadly. c Faint; dim; as, a wan hope. 3. Having a pale or sickly hue; livid; pallid; as, his face was wan and drawn; hence, sickly; languid; as, a wan smile.

He looked very wan in his great armchair. Galsworthy.

4. Lusterless; dim; partly obscured; as, the stars are wan tonight.

Syn. — See PALE.

Ant. — Ruddy, flushed; colorful, glowing.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

wan-cheeked	wan-faced	wan-visaged wan-colored	wan-looking	wan-worn wan, v. i. & t.; WANNED (wŏnd); WAN'NING. To grow or make wan; to become or make pale or sickly in looks.

All his visage wanned. Shak.

wan, n. Wanness; paleness; pallor. Rare.

Tinged with wan from lack of sleep. Tennyson.

wan. Corrupt. of ONE. Dial.

wan, n. [D.] = 1st VAN. Obs.

wan (wȧn). Dial. var. of WAND, a stick.

wan (wăn). Archaic & dial. past tense of WIN.

wan- (wŏn-). [AS. wan-, won-. See WANTON, WANE.] A prefix, formerly in use, meaning deficient, wanting, as in *wan*chancy, *wan*ton.

Wa'na·pûm (wä'nä·pŭm), n. An Indian of a Shahaptian tribe. Smohalla, the prophet, was of this tribe. Cf. DREAMER, 2.

wan·chanc'y (wŏn·chȧn'sĭ), adj. [See WAN-; CHANCE.] Dangerous; unlucky; also, weird; uncanny. Cf. UNCHANCY. Chiefly Scot.

The wanchancy bullet maun have weakened his chest. John Buchan.

wand (wŏnd), n. [ME. wand, wond, fr. ON. vöndr; akin to Dan. vaand, Goth. wandus, and, as a pliant twig used in wickerwork, to E. WIND to turn.] 1. A slender switch or stick cut from a tree; a supple twig; also, a young shoot, esp. of willow; an osier. Now Dial. Cf. YARD. 2. A rod; a light pliant pole or stick; as: a Now Dial. A rod for whipping; also, a horsewhip. b A light cane. c A pointer. d Scot. A fishing rod or pole. e Now Dial. A measuring rod. 3. Specif., a slender flexible rod used, esp. waved, by one who enchants, conjures, or performs feats of legerdemain; a fairy's, magician's, or diviner's, rod. 4. A staff of authority; as: a Obs. A scepter. b A slender pole or staff of wood or metal carried by a verger, beadle, sheriff, or the like, often in advance of a dignitary in a procession; a verge. c A caduceus. 5. Archery. a In England, formerly, a peeled stick stuck up as a mark. b In America, a slat 6 feet by 2 inches stood, at 100 yards for men and 60 for women, as a mark. 6. Gymnastics. A light rod or staff, of wood or metal, used in calisthenic exercises. 7. Scots Law. A baton or staff which, with the blazon, constitutes the insignia of a messenger of a court, which he must show in executing a caption; — called also wand of peace.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are: wand'-con'jured, wand'-shaped', wand'-smit'ten, wand'-strick'en, wand'-wav'ing.

wand (wȧnd), v. t. Scot. & Dial. a To wattle; plait. b To switch.

wand, v. i. To wander. Obs. Scot.

wand, n. [Cf. wande to turn aside.] Hesitation. Obs.

wand (wȧnd). Scot. & N. of Eng. past tense of WIND.

wand bearer. One who bears a wand, esp. as a token of authority; specif., a verger in some English cathedrals. — wand'-bear'ing, adj.

wand chair. A wicker chair. Scot.

wan'der (wŏn'dĕr; 184), v.; WAN'DERED (-dĕrd); WAN'DERING. [ME. wandren, wandrien, fr. AS. wandrian; akin to MD. wanderen, wandelen, G. wandern to wander, and AS. windan to turn. See WIND to turn.] Intransitive: 1. To move about without a fixed course, aim, or objective; to go hither and thither in idleness or restlessness; to rove at pleasure or without control; to ramble; as, tribes that wander continuously; to allow one's thoughts to wander; his fingers wandered idly over the keys. 2. To proceed or travel by a devious or indirect route; to take a winding, roundabout, or leisurely course; to meander; stroll; saunter; as, cattle wandering homeward; a stream wanders through the valley; the letter wandered about for months. 3. To deviate, as from a path, course, etc.; to stray; depart; specif., to go astray morally; to err; as, to wander from a trail, a subject, or a purpose; his eyes never wandered.

O, let me not wander from thy commandments. Ps. cxix. 10.

4. To be or become irrational or delirious; to rave; as, the patient is wandering; the old man wanders a little. 5. To circulate; to pass from one person to another; — of a rumor or the like.

—, Transitive: 1. To travel over without a certain course; to traverse; to roam or stroll through.

[Elijah] wandered this barren waste. Milton.

2. To lead astray; also, to bewilder. Chiefly Humorous. 3. To spend or dissipate in roving about; — with away.

To wander their holidays away. E. T. Thurston.

Syn. — Range, ramble. — WANDER, STRAY. To WANDER is to roam or ramble, esp. without definite course; STRAY suggests more positively deviation from a fixed course, or unsettled or vagrant wandering; as, "I wandered lonely as a cloud" (Wordsworth); "We wandered to the Pine Forest" (Shelley); "or wanders thoughtful in the silent wood" (Pope); "We have erred, and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep" (Bk. of Com. Prayer); "fallows gray, where the nibbling flocks do stray" (Milton); "Wild it strays through the old garden ground of boyish days" (Keats); "[Here] it might be possible for the student to wander, perhaps even to stray, at his own pleasure" (A. T. Balfour). Cf. RAMBLE, SAUNTER, DEVIATE, VAGRANT, RANDOM.

wan'der, n. Act of wandering; a rambling; a stroll.

Our mother took her two little boys by the hand, for a wander about the fields. Borrow.

wan'der·er (wŏn'dĕr·ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which wanders; a rambler; a rover; specif.: a Obs. A planet. b [cap.] Scot. Eccl. Hist. A Covenanter, during the time of persecution.

Wanderer, 2 a. r Left Wings reversed.

2. a A brown-and-black American butterfly (Feniseca tarquinius) of the family Lycaenidae. Its larva feeds on woolly aphids of the genus Schizoneura, esp. on the alder blight. b A wandering spider.

wan'der·ing, adj. That wanders (in any sense); characterized by roving, etc.; hence, not fixed in location; not definitely localized; not in its customary or proper place; shifting; specif., Med., floating (sense 6); as, a wandering abscess or kidney; also, in names of plants, trailing; having long runners, tendrils, etc. — wan'der·ing·ly, adv. — wan'der·ing·ness, n.

Syn. — Roving, rambling, devious.

Ant. — Direct, straight.

wan'der·ing, n. A roaming at will; aimless journeying; traveling, esp. for a considerable time and over a large area; as, in his wanderings he saw many strange peoples.

wandering albatross. A large black-winged white albatross (Diomedea exulans), widely distributed in southern oceans. See ALBATROSS, Illust.

wandering ant. A driver or legionary ant.

wandering cell. Anat. A leucocyte, esp. one which has passed into, and moves about in, the substance of a tissue or organ.

wandering dervish. See DERVISH, 1.

wandering dune. A dune slowly shifted by the wind because it has not sufficient vegetation to anchor it.

Wandering Jew. 1. In a widespread medieval legend, locally surviving, a Jew (named Joannes Buttadeus) who treated Christ contemptuously, on His way to the crucifixion, and was condemned by Him to wander upon the earth until the Second Advent. According to another account the Jew's name was Cartaphilus. He is the subject of several novels, as Le Juif Errant (1844) by Eugène Sue, and Salathiel (1829) by George Croly. 2. Spelled wandering Jew. a Either of two trailing or creeping plants of cultivation (Zebrina pendula and Tradescantia fluminensis). See ZEBRINA. b Local, Eng. The beefsteak saxifrage; also, the Kenilworth ivy.

wandering kidney. = FLOATING KIDNEY. See FLOATING, adj., 6.

wandering spider. Any spider that wanders about in search of its prey.

wandering stars. Astrol. The seven planets, of ancient astronomy, as distinguished from the fixed stars.

wandering tattler. A shore bird (Heteroscelus incanus) of the coast and interior of Alaska and many Pacific islands. It is similar in form and size to the yellowlegs, but the color of the upper parts is a uniform slaty gray.

Wandering Willie. In Scott's Redgauntlet, a blind vagabond fiddler.

wan'der·lust' (vän'dĕr·lōōst'; wŏn'dĕr·lŭst'), n. [G.] Strong or unconquerable longing for, or impulse toward, wandering or traveling. — wan'der·lust'er (-lōōs'tĕr; -lŭs'-tĕr), n. — wan'der·lust'ful (-lōōst'fo͝ol; -f'l; -lŭst'-), adj.

wan'der·oo' (wŏn'dĕr·o͝o'), n. [Singhalese vanduru, pl. of vandurā, fr. Skr. vānara monkey.] a The purple-faced langur (Presbytis cephalopterus) of Ceylon, black or dark brown above, with whitish rump and thighs, and yellowish whiskers and chin. b The lion-tailed monkey (Macaca albibarbata) of the Indian peninsula.

wander termite. Any of certain termites that forage in the open, — distinguished from most species, which remain in the shelter of their nests and galleries.

wan'der·y (wŏn'dĕr·ĭ), adj. Inclined to wander. Local, U. S.

wan'der·year' (wŏn'dĕr·yēr'), n. [Trans. of G. wanderjahr.] A year of wandering or traveling, esp. before settling down to one's trade, profession, etc.

wand'flow'er (wŏnd'flou'ĕr), n. Any plant or flower of the genus Sparaxis, esp. S. tricolor, a showy, often cultivated plant with yellow, tawny, often purple-spotted flowers; — called also harlequin flower.

wan'dle (wȧn'd'l; -'l), adj. [Cf. WAND a rod.] Supple; lithe; agile. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wand of peace. See 1st WAND, 7.

wan'doo' (wŏn'dōō'), n. [Native name.] A gum tree (Eucalyptus redunca) of western Australia, yielding a hard, tough, durable wood and a tanning extract.

Wan'do·ro'bo (wăn'dō·rō'bō), n.; pl. -BOS (-bōz). One of a dwarfish wild people of the Masai region in Kenya and Tanganyika, probably related to the Pygmies.

wan'doughť (wȧn'dŏkt'), adj. [See WAN-; DOUGHTY.] Feeble; inactive. — n. A silly, puny, or worthless creature. Both Scot.

wand shoot. Archery. A round of 36 arrows shot at a wand, at 100 yards for men and 60 yards for women. — wand shooting. — wand shot.

wand'y (wŏn'dĭ), adj. Like a wand; flexible; slim; tall. Dial.

wane (wān), v.; WANED (wānd); WAN'ING (wān'ĭng). [ME. wanien, fr. AS. wanian, wonian; akin to OS. wanon, ON. vana, AS. wan, won, deficient, wanting, D. wan-, G. wahnsinn insanity, OHG. wan-, wana-, lacking, wanôn to lessen, ON. vanr lacking, Goth. wans, Gr. eunis bereaved, Skr. ūna wanting, inferior, L. vanus empty. See VACANT; cf. WANT, WANTON.] Intransitive: 1. To be diminished; to decrease; to grow smaller or less; specif., to undergo gradual diminution after being at the full; — chiefly of the moon, and contrasted with wax; as, his strength is waning; to wax and wane like the moon. 2. Hence: a To fall from power, prosperity, influence, etc.; to decline; decay; as, when its commerce decreased, the nation waned. b Of a season, life, etc., to draw to its close or end; as, summer is waning. c To grow dim or faint; to lose in color, brilliancy, or splendor.

As the floweret wanes at morning frost. Shelley.

—, Trans.: To cause to wane; lessen; decrease. Obs.

Syn. — Cf. DECREASE. Ant. — WAX. See INCREASE.

wane, n. [ME., fr. AS. wana. See WANE, v.] 1. Obs. a Want; lack. b Defect. c Poverty. d Loss of size or part. 2. Now, specif., the missing or defective part of an imperfect board or plank. See WANY, adj., 1. 3. The act, process, or fact, of waning; also, the period in which something is waning; specif., the apparent decrease of the illuminated part of the moon from full to new or the time of such decrease; — now chiefly in phrases at, in, on, or upon, the wane; in its (his, here, etc.) wane; as, the year is on the wane; it happened in the wane of the moon.

wane, adj. [AS. wana.] Wanting; deficient; absent; incomplete; insufficient. Obs.

wane, n. [ME. wane, wone. Cf. WON dwelling, WONE hope.] Place of dwelling. Obs.

wane cloud. A cirro-stratus cloud.

waned (wānd), adj. Diminished; in the state of decline or decadence; approaching or suffering extinction; dying or dead. "Did weep over his waned corse." Keats.

wane'less, adj. Without wane; not suffering decline or extinction. Poetic.

wang (wăng), n. [ME. wange, fr. AS. wange, wonge, cheek, jaw; akin to D. wang, OS. & OHG. wanga, G. wange.] a Obs. A cheek. b Obs. exc. Dial. A molar tooth.

wang (wäng), n. [Chin. (Pek.) wang³.] King; prince; — used by the rulers of China before the 3d century B.C. It was also used by feudal princes, and after the 3d century B.C. it often designated any prince of high rank.

wang (wäng), n. sing. & pl. [Malay wań, wań.] See WEIGHT, Table.

wang (wäng). Var. of WONG, a meadow.

wan'ga (wăng'gȧ), n. [Bantu; cf. Lamba ubwanga (ubuanga).] Voodoo sorcery; also, a voodooistic charm, spell, philter, etc., or such charms, etc., collectively. West Indies, esp. Haiti & Southern U. S.

wan'ga·teur' (wăng'gȧ·tōōr'), n. [Creole F. See WANGA.] A voodoo conjurer. Louisiana.

Wan·gat'ta (wän·gät'ȧ), n. sing. & pl. One of an important African tribe in the Congo basin near the Lomami River.

wan'gle (wăng'g'l; -'l), v.; WAN'GLED (wăng'g'ld; -'ld); WAN'GLING (-glĭng; -lĭng). [Cf. WAGGLE, WANKLE.] Now Chiefly Colloq. Intransitive: 1. To totter; wiggle. Scot. & Dial. Eng. 2. To wriggle; to extricate oneself from a crowd, a difficulty, etc.; as, we shall wangle through somehow. 3. To resort to trickery, makeshifts, or indirect methods.

Desperately wangling to cling to my dishonor and avoid death. Aldous Huxley.

—, Transitive: 1. To shake; wiggle.

A propeller had been caught in the mooring cable and wangled it about until the mooring parted. Ralph D. Paine.

2. To shake up, adjust, or manipulate, for personal or fraudulent ends; often, to fake; as, to wangle accounts. 3. To make or get by wriggling, manipulating, contriving, etc.; as, to wangle one's way through a crowd, into the limelight, or out of a mess; to wangle an invitation to a ball. 4. To persuade or induce by indirect means, as by chicane or diplomacy; as, to wangle one into giving an invitation.

wan'gle (wăng'g'l), n. Act of, or thing procured by, wangling. Colloq.

wan'gler (-glĕr), n. One who wangles. Colloq.

Wan·go'ni (wän·gō'nē), n. sing. & pl. One of an important African people in Mahenge province, Tanganyika Territory, formerly subject to the Zulu. Originally a composite of captives, they are now rapidly becoming civilized.

wan'grace' (wŏn'grās'), n. [wan- + grace.] Wickedness. Obs.

wan'grace', n. A sort of gruel. Scot. & Ir.

wang'tooth' (wăng'tōōth'), n. [AS. wangtōth.] A molar. Obs. exc. Dial.

wan'hap (wŏn'hăp), n. [wan- + hap.] Misfortune; mishap. Scot.

wan·hap'py (wŏn·hăp'ĭ), adj. [See WAN-.] Unfortunate. Scot.

wan'hope' (wŏn'hōp'), n. [ME. See WAN-; HOPE.] 1. a Archaic. Want of hope; despair. b Dial., U. S. A cause for despair; esp., a good-for-nothing person. 2. Obs. a Vain hope. b Also wan hope. Faint or delusive hope; delusion.

---

wam'mer·ah (wŏm'ĕr·ȧ). Var. of WOMERA.

wam'mi·kin. = WANIGAN.

wamnle. † WAMBLE.

wam'mus. Var. of WAMUS.

wam·pi'. Var. of WAMPEE.

wana. † IGUANA.

wan'a·gan. Var. of WANIGAN.

wanbeleve, n. Also wanbeleveness. [See WAN-; BELIEF.] Want of belief. Obs. — wanbelever, n. Obs.

wan·da'li·an, n. A vandal. Obs.

wande. † WONDE.

wandelard, n. [AF.] Vagabond; thief. Obs.

wan'der·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

wan'derd. Wandered. Ref. Sp.

‖Wan'der·jahr' (vän'dĕr·yär'), n.; pl. WANDERJAHRE (-yā'rē). [G.] = WANDERYEAR.

wan'der·ment, n. Act of wandering; state of one who wanders. Obs.

wand'like', adj. & adv. See -LIKE.

wan'dreth, n. [ON. vandræði.] Distress; trouble; misery; poverty. Obs.

wands'man, n.; pl. -MEN. = WAND BEARER.

wand'some·ly, adv. [Cf. ON. vandr difficult.] Sorrowfully. Obs.

wane. † VAIN, WAN, WAIN, WEAN, WHEN, WONE.

wanearthly, adj. [See WAN-.] Preternatural. Obs. Scot.

wane'y (wān'ĭ). Var. of WANY.

wan'ga·la (wäng'gȧ·lȧ). Var. of VANGLO.

wan'gan (wŏn'găn), wan'gin (-gĭn). Vars. of WANIGAN.

Wan·ga'ra (wăn·gä'rȧ), n. sing. & pl. [Hausa.] = MANDINGO.

wang'er, n. [AS. wangere. See WANG the jaw.] A pillow. Obs.

wang·hee', Var. of WHANGEE.

wan'gun. Var. of WANIGAN.

wan'horn' (wŏn'hôrn'), n. [Siamese wān tuber-rooted plant + hăm fragrant.] The galingale Alpinia galanga.

wa'ni-and (wā'nĭ-ănd), n. [ME., prop. pres. part. of wanien to wane.] The waning moon, regarded as unlucky. Obs.

wan'i-gan (wŏn'ĭ-găn), n. Also wan'gan (wŏn'găn), wan'gun (-gŭn). [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Abnaki wanigan a trap, lit., that into which something strays (fr. wan to go astray + -igan, instrumental suff.), Cree wanihigan.] U. S. Logging. a A chest for supplies; hence, a kind of houseboat for sleeping, eating, storage, etc. b A place in a lumber camp where accounts are kept and the men paid.

wan'ing (wān'ĭng), n. 1. Act of diminishing or decreasing in size, strength, influence, etc.; a lessening; as, the waning of the moon; the waning of his political power.
2. The period during which something wanes; as, in his last years, the waning of his life.

wan'ion (wŏn'yŭn), n. [From WANIAND.] A plague; a vengeance; — vaguely imprecatory in phr. with a wanion. Archaic.

wan'ka-pin (wŏng'kȧ-pĭn), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Ojibway wankipin.] The water chinquapin.

wan'kle (wăng'k'l; wăng'-), adj. Also wan'kly (-klĭ). [AS. wancol.] Now Dial. a Unsteady; unstable; also, fickle; irresolute. b Sickly; feeble. — wan'kli-ness (-klĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

wan'ness (wŏn'nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. See -NESS.

wan'ny (wȧn'ĭ; wŏn'ĭ), adj. [From WAN, adj.] Wan; pale. Obs. exc. Dial.

wan'rest' (wŏn'rĕst'), n. [wan- + rest.] Unrest; disquietude. Scot.

wan-rest'ful (wŏn-rĕst'fōōl; -fōō), adj. Restless. Scot.

wan-rul'y (wŏn-rōōl'ĭ), adj. [wan + ruly.] Unruly. Scot.

want (wŏnt), n. [AS. wand; cf. G. dial. wond, wonne, Nor. vond.] A mole. Now Dial.

want (wänt), adj. Missing; lacking. Obs.

want (wŏnt; wônt; 184; 277), v.; WANT'ED; WANT'ING. [ME. wanten, fr. ON. vanta to want, lack; akin to ON. vanr lacking, wanting. See WANE.] Transitive: 1. To be without; to be destitute of, or deficient in; not to have; to lack.

How Van wants grace, who never wanted wit. Pope.

2. To fall short (of) by; not to come up (to) by; as, to want two years of one's majority; it wants three minutes to six.
3. Obs. a To lose. b To feel the absence or loss of. c To forget. d To keep out (a thought). Shak.
4. To feel or suffer the need of; to require for one's comfort, well-being, use, etc.; as, she wants a dress but has not the money; he cannot get the rest he wants; loosely, to require; need; as, your house wants painting.

Three pounds a week wants a lot of earning. Merrick.

5. To dispense with; to do without. Now Chiefly Dial.

I'll want 'im, ere I take such a . . . load. Burns.

6. To desire; wish; long for; as, do not give a child everything he wants; I want you to do this. Hence: a To seek, as to hire, purchase, or arrest; to wish or to try, esp. by advertising, to find; — chiefly in past part.; as, wanted, a servant; he is wanted by the police. b To desire the presence or help of; as, do not go where you are not wanted.

—, Intransitive: 1. To be lacking, needed, or nonexistent; to fail to be present, available, or forthcoming; as, there never wanted recruits for the army; there wants only a spark to set all aflame. Archaic.
2. To be in want; to be needy or destitute; as, his friends will never let him want.
3. To feel need; to long; to have need or a need; to suffer a lack; — with of (Obs.) or for; as, he never wants for friends.
☞ In dialect speech want is often used, with a following adverb, elliptically for want (or wish) to go, get, etc.; as, to want back, in, out, etc.

Syn. — See DESIRE. Ant. — Have, hold, possess.

want (wŏnt; wônt; 277), n. [From want, v., and, orig., fr. ON. vant, neut. of vanr lacking, wanting. See WANT, v.] 1. State or fact of not having or not having enough; a being without or in need; lack; dearth; shortage; as, in want of food; they are suffering for want of proper clothing.
2. Specif., absence or lack of necessaries; destitution; poverty; penury; indigence; as, to be in want.
3. Obs. a Absence, as of a person or thing. b pl. Straits; difficulties. c A fault or blemish. d A vacancy; a hole; a gap.
4. A wish for something; a desire; a craving; as, to anticipate every want; his wants are rarely satisfied; hence, pl., a person in regard to his wishes; as, to consult one's wants; also, Rare, a wanting; a sense of something wanted.
5. That which is wanted; a needful, desirable, or indispensable, thing; a need; as, a great want is a national theater.
6. A defect in intelligence. Scot. & N. of Eng.

Syn. — See LACK, POVERTY. Ant. — Plenty. See EXCESS.

want ad. An advertisement in the classified section of a newspaper stating one's want of an employee, employment, a specified article, or the like. Colloq.

want'age (wŏn'tĭj; wŏn'-), n. Amount wanting; shortage.

wantage rod. Gauging. A graduated rod used as a gauge of wantage in the contents of a cask, etc.

want'er (wŏn'tĕr; wŏn'-), n. 1. One who wants or is in need.
2. One wanting a spouse; esp., a bachelor. Dial.

want'ful (wŏnt'fōōl; wŏnt'-; -f'l), adj. Having many wants.

want'hill' (wŏnt'hĭl'), n. A molehill. Obs. exc. Dial.

wan'thrift' (wŏn'thrĭft'), n. [See WAN-.] Scot. a Unthriftiness. b An unthrifty person.

wan'thriv'en (wŏn'thrĭv'ĕn), adj. Stunted. Scot.

want'ing, adj. 1. Absent; lacking; missing; deficient; as, one of the oars is wanting; not wanting in zeal.
2. Obs. a Required; necessary. b Being in need; destitute; devoid; — with of. c Lacking in zeal, energy, etc.; slow (to do). d Needy; being in want.
3. Falling below a standard, an expectation, or a need; failing to be of help, to give support, to be equal to an emergency, or the like; — chiefly in negative expression and often with to; as, friends that are never wanting to one in a crisis; he is never found wanting.
4. In quasi-prepositional uses: a Lacking (something); without; as, a book wanting a cover. b Less; minus; as, a month wanting two days.
5. Feeble-minded; mentally defective. Dial.
— want'ing-ly, adv. — want'ing-ness, n.

wan'ton (wŏn'tŭn), adj. [ME. wanton, wantoun, contr. fr. wantowen, fr. wan- wanting (see WANE), hence expressing negation + towen, past part., fr. AS. togen, past part. of tēon to draw, to educate, bring up; hence, prop., ill-bred. See 1st TOW.] 1. Orig., undisciplined; not susceptible to control; of children, unruly; refractory.

As flies to wanton boys, are we to the gods,
They kill us for their sport. Shak.

2. Excessively merry or gay; sportive; frolicsome; playful; — of persons, animals, or, figuratively, of moving things; as, wanton lambs or breezes. Chiefly Poetic.
3. Unchaste; lewd; lustful; lascivious; lecherous; also, licentious; sensual; as, wanton women, looks, or novels.
4. Luxurious; given to luxury or self-indulgence; voluptuous; effeminate; arrogant. Obs.

Men grown wanton by prosperity. Roscommon.

5. Marked by or manifesting arrogant recklessness of justice, of the rights or feelings of others, or the like; brutally insolent; merciless; inhumane; as, wanton victors or cruelty; a wanton exercise of power; also, having no just foundation or real provocation; willfully malicious; as, a wanton attack or insult.
6. Unrestrained; specif.: a Poetic. Luxuriant in growth; rank; — of vegetation. b Extravagant; unduly lavish; prodigal; — of speech, imagination, etc.

How does your tongue grow wanton in her praise! Addison.

Syn. — Lewd, immoral; capricious, wayward; spiteful. See GRATUITOUS.
Ant. — Chaste, virtuous; steady; considered, thoughtful; necessary.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

wanton-cruel	wanton-mad	wanton-tongued wanton-eyed	wanton-sick	wanton-winged — wan'ton-ly, adv. — wan'ton-ness, n.

wan'ton, n. A wanton person or thing; specif.: a Obs. A mollycoddle; a pampered pet. b A playful or frolicsome child or animal. c One given to dalliance or trifling; — chiefly in the phrase to play the wanton. d A lewd person; a lascivious man or woman.

Not to knit my soul to an approved wanton. Shak.

wan'ton (wŏn'tŭn), v. i.; WAN'TONED (-tŭnd); WAN'TONING. To be or grow wanton; to act or move wantonly, or without restraint; specif.: a To frolic; frisk; revel. b To give oneself up to carefree, voluptuous, or lewd, life or habits; to play the wanton. c To indulge in wanton cruelty. d To be or become extravagant, as in growth, expression, etc. e To trifle; dally.

His nimble tongue . . . would nevermore . . . wanton with the truth. Sir Gilbert Parker.

— v. t. Now Rare. a To make wanton. b To pass or waste wantonly or in wantonness. c To express wantonly.

Whose warbling tunes might wanton out my woes. Th. Brabine.

wan'ton-er (-ĕr), n. A wanton.

wan'ton-ize (-īz), v. t. & i. To play or act wantonly; to wanton. Archaic.

want'wit' (wŏnt'wĭt'; wŏnt'-), n. One wanting wit; a fool. — adj. Foolish; idiotic.

wan'ty (wŏn'tĭ; -tī), n. [Perh. for wame tie, that is, belly-band. See WAME, WOMB; TIE.] A bellyband, girth, or surcingle; also, a leather tie; a short cart rope. Dial.

wan'weird' (wŏn'wērd'), n. [wan- + weird fate.] Unhappy fate. Scot.

wan-wor'dy (wŏn-wûr'dĭ), adj. Unworthy; worthless. Scot. & N. of Eng.

wan'worth' (wŏn'wûrth'), n. [wan- + worth.] A low price; a bargain; also, anything worthless. — adj. Worthless. Both Scot. & N. of Eng.

wan'y, wane'y (wān'ĭ), adj. [From WANE, n.] Waning or diminished in some parts; — chiefly of timbers that are unsound or, as in the case of sawed boards or planks, that are not square-edged, from being cut too near the outside of the log.

Wa'nya-kyu'sa (wä'nyä-kyōō'sä), n. sing. & pl. One of a Bantu-speaking African people in Tanganyika Territory.

Wa-nya'sa (wä-nyä'sä), n. sing. & pl. One of a group of remnants of a number of former Bantu tribes, south of Lake Nyasa, now forming an energetic people, rapidly developing agriculture, stock raising, fishing, etc.

wap (wȧp; wŏp), v. t. & i. [See WHOP, v.] To whop, or strike; to pull or throw roughly. See WHOP. Now Dial.

wap, n. 1. A blow, knock, or flap; a whop. Now Dial.
2. Scot. a A blast; a storm. b A fight.

wap (wȧp; wŏp), v. t. [See WAPP.] To wrap or fold up; to bind. Now Dial.

wap (wȧp; wŏp), n. [See WAP to wrap.] Now Dial. 1. A wrapping; a turn of string about a rope or other string.
2. Of straw, a bundle or truss.

wap (wŏp), v. i. [ME. wappen, of imitative origin. Cf. WHIPPET.] To bark or make a barking sound. Now Rare. — n. = 1st WAPP. Obs.

wap'a-cut (wŏp'ȧ-kŭt), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Montagnais uapukŭlu, Cree wapiskisiw it is white. Cf. WAMPUM, WAPATOO.] An owl of northern North America, prob. the snowy owl.

Wa'-Pa-laung' (wä'pä-loung'), n. sing. & pl. A division of the Mon-Khmer linguistic family.

wap'a-too (wŏp'ȧ-tōō), wap'a-ta (-tä), n. [Chinook Jargon wappatoo wapatoo, potato, of Algonquian origin; cf. Cree wāpatow white mushroom. Cf. WAMPUM, WAPACUT, WAPITI.] The edible tuber of either of two species of arrowhead (Sagittaria latifolia and S. cuneata); — so called by the Indians of Oregon.

wap'en-take (wŏp'ĕn-tāk; wăp'-), n. [AS. wǣpengetæc, wǣpentac, fr. ON. vāpnatak, lit., a weapon taking or touching, hence an expression of assent ("si displicuit sententia fremitu aspernantur; sin placuit frameas concutiunt." Tacitus, Germania, xi.). See WEAPON; TAKE. This name had its origin in a custom of touching lances or spears when the hundreder, or chief, entered on his office.] Hist. a In Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, Leicestershire, Northamptonshire, Nottinghamshire, and a part of Derbyshire, a division corresponding to the hundred and ward of other English counties. b The court of such a division. c A bailiff serving this court.

Wa-pi'si-a'na (wȧ-pē'sĭ-ä'nȧ), Wa'pi-scha'na (wä'pē-shä'nȧ), n. One of a tribe of Arawakan Indians dwelling in southern Surinam and adjacent parts of Brazil.

wap'i-ti (wŏp'ĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. WAPITIS (-tĭz), sometimes WAPITI. See PLURAL, Note. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Shawnee wapiti, Cree wāpitiu pale, white, adj. applied to the wapiti to distinguish it from the moose. Cf. WAPATOO.] The American stag or elk (Cervus canadensis), allied and similar to the European red deer, but considerably larger. The antlers have a long, heavy beam with brow tine, bez tine, tres-tine, sur-royal tine, and forked terminal tines, but no palmations or cup-like crown. The body is light reddish buff, becoming dark brown on the head and limbs and blackish on the belly. The short tail and large rump patch are buffy white. Though formerly distributed over most of the United States, it is now rare except in reservations. Several varieties or subspecies have been distinguished, as C. c. merriami, C. c. nannodes, and C. c. roosevelti. The Altai wapiti (C. c. asiaticus) is a subspecies of Asia.

Wapiti, Male.

Wa'po-go'ro (wä'pō-gō'rō), n, sing. & pl. One of a still primitive and pagan tribe in the Mahenge highlands, Tanganyika Territory.

wapp (wŏp), n. [From WAP to bark.] A kind of house dog. Obs.

wapp (wăp), n. [Cf. ME. wappen to wrap, of obscure origin.] Naut. a A fair-lead (sense 1 a). b Rare. A lanyard used for setting taut the shrouds.

wap'pened (wŏp'ĕnd), adj. Prob., outworn. Rare. Shak.

wap'pen-schaw (wȧp'ĕn-shô), n. [Scot. See WEAPON; SHOW.] 1. = WAPPENSCHAWING.
2. A rifle-shooting contest. Scot. & So. Africa.

wap'pen-schaw'ing (-shô'ĭng), n. An exhibition of arms, according to the rank of the individual, formerly made at certain seasons in each district; a muster or review. Scot.

wap'per (wŏp'ĕr), v. i. [Cf. D. wapperen.] To blink; to totter. Obs. exc. Dial.

wap'per (wăp'ĕr; wŏp'-). Dial. var. of WHOPPER.

wap'per-eyed' (wŏp'ĕr-īd'), adj. Having restless or bleared eyes. Dial.

wap'per-jawed', adj. Having crooked or wry jaws; sometimes, having an undershot jaw. Local, U. S.

Wap'pin-ger (wŏp'ĭn-jĕr), n. An Indian of a confederacy of nine small Algonquian tribes, including the Manhattan, Sintsink, and Wappinger proper, formerly living between the lower Hudson and Connecticut rivers. Dispersed by the Dutch, the remnants joined the Delaware, Stockbridge, and other tribes. Cf. DELAWARE, 4; STOCKBRIDGE.

Wap'po (wăp'ō), n. An Indian of a Yukian tribe.

war (wôr), n. [ME. & (late) AS. werre, fr. ONF. werre (OF. & F. guerre), fr. OHG. werra scandal, quarrel, sedition; akin to OHG. werran to confound, mix, D. warren, G. wirren, verwirren, to embroil, confound, disturb, L. verrere to sweep, drag away, Gr. errhein to come to harm, perish, disappear, and perh. to E. WORSE. Cf. GUERRILLA, WARRIOR.] 1. The state or fact of exerting violence or force against another, now only against a state or other politically organized body; esp., a contest by force between two or more nations or states, carried on for any purpose; armed conflict of sovereign powers; declared and open hostilities. As commonly classified, war between sovereign states is a public, or international, war, and this is called a perfect war when between whole states, and imperfect war when limited as to places, persons, and things. When begun by a formal declaration it is a solemn war. When between a state and a part of it in rebellion it is a civil war. The United States Constitution (Art. I, sec. 8, § 11) provides that Congress shall have power "to declare war, to grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water."

War is said to be that state in which a nation prosecutes its right by force (the Prize Cases, 2 Black. 635, 673). Cooley.

Every contention by force between two nations in external matters, under the authority of their respective governments, is not only war, but public war. 4 U. S. (Dall.) 37, 42.

☞ For Table of Wars, see pp. 2872–73.
2. [often cap.] Hence, with the, a particular war, understood or contextually implied; in recent usage, the World War; — formerly in pl. (the wars), with sing. meaning.

Is Signior Mountanto return'd from the wars or no? Shak.

3. The state or fact of being in conflict with, or actively opposed to, each other; hostility; strife; antagonism; also, a contest or struggle, for supremacy, revenge, or the like; as, the war between man and nature, science and religion.
4. Poetic. a A battle; the fighting of forces; as, the din of war. b Instruments of war. c Armed or fighting forces; soldiers in array. "The glittering front of war." Gray.
5. a The military profession or science; as, untrained in war. b [often cap.] In titles, esp., the department having charge of military forces, bases, operations, etc.; the army, often as distinct from the navy; as, the Secretary of War.

Syn. — Conflict, battle. Ant. — Peace; truce, armistice.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

war-appareled	war-hardened	war-tossed war-blasted	war-hating, adj.	war-triumphant war-breathing, adj.	war-loving, adj.	war-wasted war-breeding, adj.	war-made	war-wearied war-broken	warmaker	war-weariness war-denouncing, adj.	warmaking	war-weary war-dight	war-marked	war work war-disabled	war-ridden	warworker war-dreading, adj.	war-shaken	war-worthiness war-fain, adj.	war-stirring, adj.	war-worthy war-famed	war-swept

— to carry the war into the enemy's country, camp, etc. To turn aggressor, esp. after having been on the defensive. — to war. To or into open warfare of armed hostilities; as, to go to war; to resort to war.

wan-hope'ful-ly, adv. Despairingly. Obs. [Obs.]

wan'hope'ly, adj. Desperate.

wank'ly (wăngk'lĭ; wăngk'-), adj. = WANKLE. N. of Eng.

wan'las, n. [Cf. WINDLASS, n., 3, and AF. wanelace, wenclas, trickery, deception.] A winding in the chase; a shift; a circuitous course. Cf. WINDLASS. Obs.

wanlasour, n. One who drives game. Obs. [DLE. Scot.] wan'le (wȧn'l). Var. of WAN-.

wan'ly, adv. of WAN.

wanmol, adj. [ME., fr. wan- + mol speech, fr. ON. mál. See 2d MAIL.] Ineloquent. Obs.

wan'na'nishe' (wȧ'nȧ'nĕsh'). Var. of OUANANICHE.

wan'ner. Var. of WANDER. Scot.

wan'ni-gan. Var. of WANIGAN.

wan'nish (wŏn'ĭsh), adj. See -ISH.

wan'ruf', n. [wan- + ruf, Scot. var. of ROWZ.] Disquietude. Obs. Scot.

wan'shape', n. [See WAN-.] Deformity. Obs.

wan-shap'en, adj. Deformed. Obs. Scot.

wan'sith, n. [AS. wansith unhappy undertaking.] Misery. Obs.

wan'some (wŏn'sŭm), adj. [ME. wan(e), wone, misery.] Unhappy; miserable. Obs.

wan-son'sy, adj. [wan- + sonsy.] Mischievous. Scot.

wan'ť (wŏnt; wônt). Dial. for was not.

want'grace', n. A graceless person. [Obs.]

want'less, adj. See -LESS. — want'less-ness, n.

wan'tond. Wanoned. Ref. Sp. Obs.

wan'ton-head', n. Wantonness. Obs.

wan'ton-ing, n. A wanton. Obs.

wan'ton-like', adj. See -LIKE.

wantoun. + WANTON.

wan'troke, v. i. [wan- + ME. troken, trukien, to fail, fr. AS. trucian.] To lack; to want. Obs.

wan'trust', n. [wan- + trust.] Distrust. Obs.

wan'wit', n. [wan- + wit.] Lack of wit; folly. Obs.

wan-wit'ty, adj. Foolish. Obs.

Wa'nya-mwe'zi (wä'nyä-mwā'zē). See NYAMWEZI.

Wan-yo'ro (wän-yō'rō), n. = BANYORO.

wanze, v. i. & i. [AS. wansian to diminish.] To wane; decrease; pine away. Obs.

wap'a-ta (wŏp'ȧ-tä). Var. of WAPATOO.

Wap'a-to (-tō), n. = ATPALATI.

wap'en-shaw (wăp'ĕn-shô). Var. of WAPPENSCHAW.

wap'in. + WEAPON.

wap'in-schaw, wap'in-schaw'ing. Vars. of WAPPENSCHAW, WAPPENSCHAWING.

Wa'po-ko'mo (wä'pō-kō'mō), n. See POKOMO.

Wap'pa-to, Wap'pat-to (wŏp'ȧ-tō), n. = ATPALATI.

wap'pen-shaw. Var. of WAPPENSCHAW. [Wappinger. Obs.] wap'pi-neer' (wŏp'ĭ-nēr'), n.

wap'ping (hwăp'ĭn; wŏp'-). Var. of WHOPPING. Scot. & Dial.

waps, wapse (wŏps). Var. of WASP. Dial. Eng.

waqf. Var. of WAKF.

TABLE OF WARS

A table of thirty of the more important wars of the world's history; — the contestants, causes, leaders, chief battles, and results. The table should be used in connection with the tables of battles and treaties (see BATTLE, Table; TREATY, Table) since all the names of battles and treaties printed in small capitals in the last two columns of this table are there considered in detail; other cross references are to the Vocabulary. For civil or internal conflicts in various countries in modern times, consult the table under REVOLUTION. Further information of historical interest will also be found in the tables under CONGRESS, COUNCIL, ERA, LEAGUE, and SHIP.

Name	Dates	Contestants and Causes	Chief Leaders	Chief Battles	Results and Treaty
Austrian Succession	1740–48	Austria and allies (England, Holland, Sardinia, etc.) v. France, Prussia, Spain, and Bavaria. Succession of Maria Theresa to throne of Austria.	Austria, etc.: George II of Eng., Duke of Cumberland, Prince Charles of Lorraine, Khevenhüller. France, etc.: Frederick the Great, Louis XV, Marshals Noailles, Saxe, & Maillebois.	Mollwitz; Dettingen; FONTENOY; Piacenza; Rocourt. 2 phases: In Europe — 1st & 2d SILESIAN WARS. In America — KING GEORGE'S WAR.	France weakened and Austria strengthened; Prussia wins Silesia. Treaty of AIX-LA-CHAPELLE.
Balkan (First)	1912–13	Formation of Balkan League (Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece, and Montenegro) to drive Turks out of Europe. Racial questions in Macedonia.	Bulgaria: Savov. Serbia: Putnik, Prince Alexander. Greece: Crown Prince Constantine, Venizelos. Turkey: Enver Bey, Kiamil Pasha, Nazim Pasha.	Kirk-Kilissa; LÜLEBURGAZ; Scutari; Salonika; Monastir.	Turks defeated. Treaty of LONDON (1913).
(Second)	1913	Serbia, Montenegro, Greece, and Rumania v. Bulgaria. Jealousy and hatred of other Balkan States for Bulgaria.		Adrianople.	Bulgaria defeated. Balkan States reorganized; Albania established. Treaty of BUCHAREST.
Boer (South African)	1899–1902	Transvaal and Orange Free State v. Great Britain. JAMESON RAID (1895–96); rights of uitlanders; refusal of Boer Republics to acknowledge complete suzerainty of Great Britain.	Boers: De Wet, Botha, Joubert, Delarey, Cronje. British: French, White, Buller, Kitchener, Roberts.	LADYSMITH; Modder River; Kimberley; Mafeking; Pretoria.	Annexation of Boer Republics to British Empire. Treaty of VEREENIGING.
Chinese-Japanese (Chino-Japanese)	1894–95	China v. Japan. Rival claims of suzerainty over Korea; desire of Japan for increased power in the Orient.	China: Li Hung-chang, Ting. Japan: Nodzu, Ito, Yamagata, Oyama.	Yalu River; Port Arthur; Weihaiwei; Newchwang.	Korea independent. Cessions of territory to Japan. Treaty of SHIMONOSEKI.
Civil War (American)	1861–65	Federals (North) v. Confederates (South). State rights controversy; conflict over slavery; differences in economic development.	Federals: (President, Abraham Lincoln), Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Meade, Thomas, Farragut, McClellan. Confederates: (President, Jefferson Davis), Lee, Jackson, Beauregard, Johnston (A. S. & J. E.), Bragg.	1st BULL RUN; HAMPTON ROADS; Shiloh; ANTIETAM; FREDERICKSBURG; CHANCELLORSVILLE; GETTYSBURG; VICKSBURG; CHICKAMAUGA; CHATTANOOGA; SPOTSYLVANIA; NASHVILLE. See also PENINSULAR CAMPAIGN, in Vocab.	Capitulation at Appomattox Court House, Va. Union preserved; slavery prohibited (Thirteenth Amendment, Dec. 18, 1865); reconstruction of the South (see RECONSTRUCTION, 5).
Civil War (English) (Great Rebellion)	(1) 1642–46 (2) 1648–52	Parliamentarians v. Royalists. Arbitrary rule of Stuarts; unparliamentary methods of raising money.	Parliament: Cromwell, Fairfax, Essex, Ireton, Leslie. Royalists: Charles I, Prince Rupert, Charles II, Goring.	Edge Hill; MARSTON MOOR; NASEBY; Preston Pans; Dunbar; Worcester.	Establishment of the Commonwealth. The Protectorate and rule by Parliament. War terminated by the Convention (see CONVENTION, 7). See the Restoration a, under RESTORATION.
Civil Wars (Roman)	(1) 50–45 B.C.	(1) Pompey and sons of Pompey v. Caesar. Senate under Pompey's influence declares Caesar a public enemy (see RUBICON).	(1) Pompey; Caesar.	(1) PHARSALUS; Thapsus; Munda.
	(2) 43–42 B.C.	(2) Octavius and Antony v. Brutus and Cassius.	(2) Octavius; Antony; Lepidus. Brutus; Cassius.	(2) PHILIPPI.	Republican forces defeated; Egypt becomes a Roman province. Octavius is sole ruler and in 27 B.C. is given surname Augustus by the Senate. Beginning of Roman Empire.
	(3) 31–30 B.C.	(3) Octavius v. Antony. Struggle for supremacy in Roman state between aristocracy and democracy.	(3) Octavius. Antony; Cleopatra.	(3) ACTIUM.
Crimean	1854–56	Russia v. Turkey and allies (England, France, and Sardinia). Russian plans for assuming leadership in southeastern Europe, and esp. for conquest of Turkey.	Russia; Menshikov, Gorchakov, Totleben. Allies: Raglan, Saint-Arnaud, Canrobert.	Alma; SEVASTOPOL (siege); BALAKLAVA; Inkerman.	Treaty of PARIS (1856)
Crusades (see in Vocab.)	11th–13th centuries	Christian Powers v. Moslems. Desire of Christians to recover Holy Land.	European countries: Godfrey de Bouillon; Conrad III; Frederick II; Baldwin I; Richard Coeur de Lion; Philip II & Louis IX of France. Moslems: Saladin.	Dorylaeum; Ascalon; Jerusalem; Acre. See CHILDREN'S CRUSADE.	Christian conquests lost and states in Syria do not endure; orders of knighthood founded; commerce with the East stimulated. Crusades contribute to the changes in political and social organization of Europe and influence thought in Middle Ages.
Franco-Prussian (Franco-German)	1870–71	France v. German states (under Prussia's leadership). French misunderstanding of German efforts toward political unity and jealousy of German military achievements; question of election of Prince of Hohenzollern to Spanish throne.	France: Napoleon III, MacMahon, Bazaine, Wimpffen. German states: William I, von Moltke, Bismarck, Frederick Charles, Frederick William.	Wörth; Gravelotte; SEDAN; Metz; siege of Paris.	France defeated, loses Alsace-Lorraine and pays a huge indemnity. War leads to the formation of the late German Empire and of the Third Republic in France. Treaty of VERSAILLES (1871).
Gallic	58–51 B.C.	Roman Republic v. Gauls and German tribes. Threatening movements of northern barbarians toward Roman provinces. Caesar's political ambition and Roman desire for new lands to colonize.	Rome: Julius Caesar. Gauls & Germans: Ariovistus, Vercingetorix.	Few fixed battles but war remarkable for military genius displayed by Caesar; battles with the Helvetii, with the Nervii, and on the Axona; campaign in Britain; siege of Alesia.	Roman civilization extended into Gaul; lands of western Europe profoundly affected for centuries; Latin the foundation of French, Spanish, and Portuguese languages.
Greco-Persian War	334–323 B.C.	See MACEDONIAN-PERSIAN.
Greco-Persian Wars	499–478 B.C.	Persia v. Greece. Revolt of the Greek cities of Ionia against the Persian king; aid granted them by Athens arouses Persia to punish the Greeks.	Persia: Darius I, Xerxes I; Artaphernes, Datis, Mardonius. Greece: Miltiades, Themistocles, Aristides, Leonidas, Pausanias.	Three invasions: (1) Persians checked in Thrace and fleet destroyed. (2) First Persian War: MARATHON. (3) Second Persian War: THERMOPYLAE; Artemisium; SALAMIS (naval); PLATAEA; Mycale (naval).	Greek independence assured; supremacy of Persia kept out of Europe; marks the rise of the power of Athens and the beginning of rivalry with Sparta.
Hundred Years'	1337–1453	England v. France. Many causes resulting from long-continued hostility between the two countries; chiefly (1) conquests of Philip Augustus, (2) rejection of claims of Edward III to French throne, (3) friction over Guienne, (4) French aid to Scotland, (5) conflict of interests in Flanders.	England: Edward III, Black Prince, Henry V. France: Philip VI, John II, Charles V, Du Guesclin, Joan of Arc, Charles VII.	CRÉCY; POITIERS; AGINCOURT; ORLÉANS.	Enormous injury, material and moral, to both countries; England loses all possessions in France except Calais; power of French king strengthened. Treaty of BRETIGNY (1360) closes first period. Treaty of TROYES (1420); no formal treaty at end of war.
Italian	1859–61	Italy (Sardinia, Piedmont, Savoy) and France v. Austria. Italian unrest because of Austria's control of various parts of the Italian peninsula; the urge for a united Italy. Napoleon's friendliness to Italy and his belief in nationalism.	Italy: Cavour, Victor Emmanuel II, Garibaldi. France: Napoleon III, Canrobert, MacMahon, Niel. Austria: Francis Joseph, Gyulai, Benedek.	Magenta; SOLFERINO. Garibaldi and volunteers occupy Sicily and Naples, Reggio, Volturno, Gaeta (siege).	Treaties of VILLAFRANCA and Zurich. New Kingdom of Italy comprises all the peninsula except Rome and Venetia. Venetia added (1866) and Rome (1870).
